ABOUT THE EOB

For the first time in English, this prime edition of the Eastern / Greek Orthodox Bible or Holy Bible of the Eastern / Greek Orthodox Church (EOB) provides a text of the Scriptures that reflects the mind and use of the Eastern / Greek Orthodox tradition.

The edition also contains extensive supplementary material which will help address important and complex issues, such as the place, text and canon of Holy Scriptures, as well as other topics relevant to the Orthodox Christian readers.

PURPOSE & UNDERLYING TEXT

As can be expected, the Old Testament follows the order, text and canon of the Greek Septuagint (LXX), specifically that of the Brenton translation. It should be noted, however, that the EOB/OT is not meant to provide a critical edition of the Septuagint or detailed footnotes and cross-references.

Instead, a conscious decision was made to revise the classic and relatively accurate text produced by Lancelot Brenton, especially in order to allow the reader to have easy and affordable access to the underlying Greek text. The official web site¹ of the EOB also provides additional resources, including links to the (forthcoming) NEVS (New English Version of the Septuagint) and OSB (Orthodox Study Bible) which will be useful for more in-depth studies.

The layout of this edition also explains its philosophy: this is an easy-to-read two-column text with a very legible 11-point font. A wide right margin has been reserved for personal note taking and the thick, high-quality paper is designed to handle ink markings. The text and layout of the EOB also makes it suitable for liturgical reading.

In revising the Brenton translation, care was taken to simplify, americanize and modernize the language while retaining the original poetic and somewhat archaic quality of the original. As of this first edition, readers should expect to find occasional errors in this revised Brenton text, owing to the impossibility to go through a standard cycle of proofing and editing.

In the case of the Psalms, the revision process has been comprehensive and the layout has been designed for liturgical reading. Moreover, the EOB web site included downloadable samples of chanting melodies which are suitable for liturgical use.

Additional Corrections to the Brenton translation have been made on the basis of Grant R. Jones's textual and patristic studies. In such cases, a footnote may indicate the original Brenton rendition.

JOB, JEREMIAH AND 2 ESDRAS

It is well-known that the Septuagint text for Job and Jeremiah is extremely divergent from the Masoretic. For this reason and because the Eastern Orthodox tradition holds both tradition in high esteem, both books are included in two version noted LXX (Septuagint-based) and Hebrew (Masoretic-based). The latter versions are from NAS/WEB version, which also provided the foundation for the New Testament.

Finally, the reader may notice that the Apocalypse known as '2 Esdras' has not been included in the EOB. The reason is that '2 Esdras' is only found in the Appendix of the Slavonic edition and was never considered part of the Septuagint.

FINAL CONSIDERATIONS

There is no doubt that improvements and corrections will be made in subsequent editions of the EOB, especially concerning the style of the OT text. We invite suggestions, corrections and contributions which can be submitted on the official web site of the EOB.

It is our hope that this edition, along with the supplemental material, will encourage individual and parish-based study of the Holy Scriptures.

TERMINOLOGY

Acknowledgment: this section adapts information written by David A. Zampino, Sr. with copyright is claimed jointly by the author and Nashotah House, 1998.

When discussing the issue and scope of the Old Testament, Orthodox Christians should be aware that words have different meanings in different theological traditions. The purpose of this section is to provide adequate clarification for words that are often misused and misunderstood.

APOCRYPHA (“HIDDEN”)

For Protestants, this word refers to books (7-15, depending on the list) which are neither inspired, authoritative, canonical nor part of Holy Scripture. These writings are sometimes placed between the Old and New Testaments, or in an Appendix.

For Roman Catholics, this word normally refers to I and II Esdras and the Prayer of Manassas, as well as numerous other works which are not considered part of the canon.

For Eastern Orthodox Christians, this word should be avoided altogether as misleading (these controversial books were never secret or hidden) and limited to non-canonical New Testament literature, especially of the Gnostic kind.

DEUTEROCANONICAL (“OF THE SECOND CANON”)

For Protestants, this concept is not applicable and the term is generally not used.

For Roman Catholics, this term refers to the books which were ‘confirmed’ as canonical at the council of Trent. These are the books which Protestants call “Apocrypha”. As far as Roman Catholic theology is concerned, there is no difference in authority between the protocanonical and deuterocanonical books, although there is awareness that the latter cannot be used as common grounds in ecumenical discussions.

For Eastern Orthodox Christians, this term has little applicability because it is tied to the historical process which led to the official confirmation of the canonical status of these books by the Council of Trent. It is nevertheless used in scholarly circles. Although the books of the so-called “Apocrypha” are considered part of the sacred library of the Church, their authoritative status (compared to that of the undisputed books) remains an open question. Following St. Athanasius, careful Orthodox Christians tend to refer to the protocanonical books as “canonical” and to the disputed Septuagintal books as ἀναγινωσκόμενα (“those which are to be read”) or as “ecclesiastical books”¹.

PSEUDEPIGRAPHA (“FALSE WRITINGS”)

There is a general consensus that this expression refers to such books as 1 Enoch, Jubilees, which seem to have been produced during the Intertestamental period. Some of these books are part of the narrower or broader canon of the Ethiopian Orthodox Church. There is also some controversy as to the propriety of this term since many scholars argue that the practice to place a book under the mantle of a famous figure of the past was rooted in a theology of spiritual succession and done without any intention to deceive.

ABOUT THE SEPTUAGINT¹

OVERVIEW

The Septuagint, or simply “LXX”, is the name commonly given in the West to the ancient Koine Greek version of the Old Testament translated in stages between the 3rd to 1st century BC in Alexandria. It is the oldest of several ancient translations of the Hebrew Bible into Greek. The name means “seventy” in Latin and derives from a tradition that seventy-two Jewish scholars (LXX being the nearest round number) translated the Pentateuch (or Torah) from Hebrew into Greek for one of the Ptolemaic kings, Ptolemy II Philadelphus, 285-246 BC.

The LXX was held with great respect in ancient times; Philo, Josephus and many early Christian writers ascribed divine inspiration to its authors. It formed the basis of the Old Latin versions and is still used intact within Eastern Orthodoxy. Besides the Old Latin versions, the LXX is also the basis for Gothic, Slavonic, old Syriac (but not the Peshitta), old Armenian and Coptic versions of the Old Testament. Of significance for all Christians and for bible scholars, the LXX is quoted by the Christian New Testament and by the Apostolic Fathers. While Jews have not used the LXX in worship or religious study since the second century AD, recent scholarship has brought renewed interest in it in Judaic Studies. Some of the Dead Sea scrolls attest to Hebrew texts other than those on which the Masoretic Text was based; in many cases, these newly found texts accord with the LXX version. The oldest surviving codices of LXX date to the fourth century AD.

NAMING AND DESIGNATION

The Septuagint derives its name from Latin septuaginta interpretum versio, (Greek : η μετάφραση των εβδομήκοντα) “translation of the seventy interpreters” (hence the abbreviation LXX) . The Latin title refers to a legendary account in the so-called Letter of Aristeas which tells the story of how seventy-two Jewish scholars were asked by the Greek King of Egypt Ptolemy II Philadelphus in the 3rd century BC to translate the Torah for inclusion in the Library of Alexandria. A later version of the same story by Philo of Alexandria states that although the translators were kept in separate chambers, they all produced identical versions of the text in seventy-two days. Although this story may be implausible from a scientific perspective, it underlines the fact that many ancient Jews saw this translation as supernaturally influenced and authoritative. Another version of this legend is found in the Tractate Megillah of the Babylonian Talmud (pages 9a-9b), which identifies fifteen specific unusual translations made by the scholars. Only two of these translations are found in the extant LXX.

TEXTUAL HISTORY

Modern scholarship holds that the LXX, beginning with the Pentateuch, was written during the 3rd through 1st centuries BC.

Later Jewish revisions and recensions of the Greek against the Hebrew are well attested, the most famous of which include the so-called Three: Aquila (128 AD), Symmachus and Theodotion. The Three, to varying degrees, are more literal renderings of their contemporary Hebrew scriptures as compared to the Old Greek. Modern scholars consider one or more of the Three to be totally new Greek versions of the Hebrew Bible.

Around 235 AD, Origen, a Christian scholar in Alexandria, completed the Hexapla, a comprehensive comparison of the ancient versions side-by-side in six columns. Much of this work was lost, but several compilations of the fragments are available. In the first column was the contemporary Hebrew, in the second a Greek transliteration of it, then the newer Greek versions each in their own columns. Origen also kept a column for the Old Greek (the Septuagint) and next to it was a critical apparatus combining readings from all the Greek versions with editor's marks indicating to which version each stitch belonged. Perhaps only three copies of the voluminous Hexapla were ever made, but Origen's combined text was copied, eventually without the editing marks and the older uncombined text of the LXX was neglected. Thus this combined text became the first major Christian recension of the LXX, often called the Hexaplar recension. In the centuries following Origen, two other major recensions were made by Lucian and Hesychius.

The oldest manuscripts of the LXX include 2nd century BC fragments of Leviticus and Deuteronomy (Rahlfs nos. 801, 819 and 957) and 1st century BC fragments of Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers, Deuteronomy and the Minor Prophets (Rahlfs nos. 802, 803, 805, 848, 942 and 943). Relatively complete manuscripts of the LXX postdate the Hexaplar recension and include the Codex Vaticanus and the Codex Sinaiticus of the 4th century and the Codex Alexandrinus of the 5th century. These are indeed the oldest surviving nearly-complete manuscripts of the Old Testament in any language; the oldest extant complete Hebrew texts date 700 years later, from around 1000. While there are differences between these three codices, scholarly consensus today holds that one LXX — that is, the original pre-Christian translation — underlies all three. The various Jewish and later Christian revisions and recensions are largely responsible for the divergence of the codices.

RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN THE LXX AND THE MASORETIC TEXT

The sources of the many differences between the Septuagint and the Masoretic text have long been discussed by scholars. The most widely accepted view today is that the Septuagint provides a reasonably accurate record of an early Semitic textual variant, now lost, that differed from ancestors of the Masoretic text. Ancient scholars, however, did not suspect this. Early Christians - who were largely unfamiliar with Hebrew texts and were thus only made aware of the differences through the newer Greek versions - tended to dismiss the differences as a product of uninspired translation of the Hebrew in these new versions. Following the Renaissance, a common opinion among some humanists was that the LXX translators bungled the translation from the Hebrew and that the LXX became more corrupt with time. The discovery of many fragments in the Dead Sea scrolls that agree with the Septuagint rather than the Masoretic Text proved that many of the variants in Greek were also present in early Semitic manuscripts.

These issues notwithstanding, the text of the LXX is in general close to that of the Masoretic. For example, Genesis 4:1-6 is identical in both the LXX and the Masoretic Text. Likewise, Genesis 4:8 to the end of the chapter is the same. There is only one noticeable difference in that chapter, at 4:7:

Genesis 4:7, LXX (EOB)	Genesis 4:7, Masoretic (Artscroll)
Have you not sinned if you have brought it rightly, but not rightly divided it? Be still, to you shall be his submission and you shall rule over him.	Surely, if you improve yourself, you will be forgiven. But if you do not improve yourself, sin rests at the door. Its desire is toward you, yet you can conquer it.

This instance illustrates the complexity of assessing differences between the LXX and the Masoretic Text. Despite the striking divergence of meaning here between the two, nearly identical consonantal Hebrew source texts can be reconstructed. The readily apparent semantic differences result from alternative strategies for interpreting the difficult verse and relate to differences in vowelization and punctuation of the consonantal text.

The differences between the LXX and the MT thus fall into four categories.

I) Different Hebrew sources for the MT and the LXX. Evidence of this can be found throughout the Old Testament. Most obvious are major differences in Jeremiah and Job, where the LXX is much shorter and chapters appear in different order than in the MT and Esther where almost one third of the verses in the LXX text have no parallel in the MT.

Scholars at one time used discrepancies such as this to claim that the LXX was a poor translation of the Hebrew original. With the discovery of the Dead Sea Scrolls, variant Hebrew texts of the Bible were found. In fact, a variant verse is found in Qumran (1QIsaa) where the Hebrew word “haanashim” (the men) is found in place of “haam” (the people). This discovery and others like it, showed that even seemingly minor differences of translation could be the result of variant Hebrew source texts.

II) Differences in interpretation stemming from the same Hebrew text. A good example is Genesis 4.7 shown above.

III) Differences as a result of idiomatic translation issues (i.e. a Hebrew idiom may not easily translate into Greek, thus some difference is intentionally or unintentionally imparted). For example, in Psalm 47:10 the MT reads “The shields of the earth belong to God”. The LXX reads “To God are the mighty ones of the earth.” The metaphor “shields” would not have made much sense to a Greek speaker; thus the words “mighty ones” are substituted in order to retain the original meaning.

IV) Transmission changes in Hebrew or Greek (Diverging revisionary/recensional changes and copyist errors).

USE OF THE SEPTUAGINT

JEWISH USE

By the 3rd century BC, the Jewish people was widely dispersed and primarily so within the Hellenistic world. Outside of Judea, many Jews may have needed synagogue readings or texts for religious study to be interpreted into Greek, producing a need for the LXX. Alexandria held the greatest diaspora Jewish community of the age and was also a great center of Greek letters. Alexandria is thus likely the site of LXX authorship, a notion supported by the legend of Ptolemy and the 72 scholars. The Septuagint enjoyed widespread use in the Hellenistic Jewish diaspora and even in Jerusalem, which had become a rather cosmopolitan (and therefore Greek-speaking) town. Both Philo and Josephus show a reliance on the Septuagint in their citations of Jewish scripture.

Starting approximately in the 2nd century, several factors led most Jews to abandon the LXX. Christians naturally used the LXX since it was the only Greek version available to the earliest Christians; and since Christians, as a group, had rapidly become overwhelmingly gentile and, therefore, unfamiliar with Hebrew. The association of the LXX with a rival religion may have rendered it suspect in the eyes of the newer generation of Jews and Jewish scholars. Perhaps more importantly, the Greek language — and therefore the Greek Bible — declined among Jews after most of them fled from the Greek-speaking eastern Roman Empire into the Aramaic-speaking Persian Empire when Jerusalem was destroyed by the Romans. Instead, Jews used Hebrew/Aramaic manuscripts later compiled by the Masoretes; and authoritative Aramaic translations, such as those of Onkelos and Rabbi Yonathan ben Uziel.

What was perhaps most significant for the LXX, as distinct from other Greek versions, was that the LXX began to lose Jewish sanction after differences between it and contemporary Hebrew Scriptures were discovered. Even Greek-speaking Jews — such as those remaining in Palestine — tended less to the LXX, preferring other Jewish versions in Greek, such as that of Aquila, which seemed to be more concordant with contemporary Hebrew texts.

CHRISTIAN USE

The early Christian Church continued to use the Old Greek texts since Greek was the lingua franca of the Roman Empire at the time, since Greek was the language of the Church and since the Church Fathers tended to accept Philo's account of the LXX's miraculous and inspired origin. Furthermore, Christ and his Apostles in the New Testament quoted from the Old Greek.

When Jerome undertook the revision of the Old Latin translation of the Septuagint, he checked the Septuagint against the Hebrew that was then available. He came to believe that the Hebrew text better testified to Christ than the Septuagint. He broke with church tradition and translated most of the Old Testament of his Vulgate from Hebrew rather than Greek. His choice was severely criticized by his contemporaries.

The Hebrew text diverges in some passages that Christians hold to prophesy Christ and the Eastern Orthodox Church still prefers to use the LXX as the basis for translating the Old Testament into other languages. The Orthodox Church of Constantinople, the Church of Greece and the Cypriot Orthodox Church continue to use it in their liturgy today, untranslated. Many modern critical translations of the Old Testament, while using the Masoretic text as their basis, consult the Septuagint as well as other versions in an attempt to reconstruct the meaning of the Hebrew text whenever the latter is unclear, undeniably corrupt, or ambiguous.

Many of the oldest Biblical verses among the Dead Sea Scrolls, particularly those in Aramaic, correspond more closely with the LXX than with the Masoretic text (although the majority of these variations are extremely minor, e.g. grammatical changes, spelling differences or missing words and do not affect the meaning of sentences and paragraphs). This confirms the scholarly consensus that the LXX represents a separate Hebrew-text tradition from that which was later standardized as the Masoretic text.

Of the fuller quotations in the New Testament of the Old, nearly one hundred agree with the modern form of the Septuagint and six agree with the Masoretic Text. Significantly, the principal differences concern prophecies relative to Christ.

LANGUAGE OF THE SEPTUAGINT

Some sections of the Septuagint may show Semiticisms, or idioms and phrases based on Semitic languages like Hebrew and Aramaic. Other books, such as LXX Daniel and Proverbs, show Greek influence more strongly. The book of Daniel that is found in almost all Greek bibles, however, is not from the LXX, but rather from Theodotion's translation, which more closely resembles the Masoretic Daniel.

The LXX is also useful for elucidating pre-Masoretic Hebrew: many proper nouns are spelled out with Greek vowels in the LXX, while contemporary Hebrew texts lacked vowel pointing. One must, however, evaluate such evidence with caution since it is unlikely that all ancient Hebrew sounds had precise Greek equivalents.

PRINTED EDITIONS

All the printed editions of the Septuagint are derived from the three recensions mentioned above.

The editio princeps is the Complutensian Polyglot. It was from Origen's hexaplar recension. Printed in 1514–18, it was not proclaimed until it appeared in the Polyglot of Cardinal Ximenes in 1520.

The Aldine edition (begun by Aldus Manutius) appeared at Venice in 1518. The text is closer to Codex B than the Complutensian. The editor says he collated ancient manuscripts but does not specify them. It has been reprinted several times.

The most important edition is the Roman or Sixtine, which reproduces the “Codex vaticanus” almost exclusively. It was proclaimed under the direction of Cardinal Caraffa, with the help of various savants, in 1586, by the authority of Sixtus V, to assist the revisers who were preparing the Latin Vulgate edition ordered by the Council of Trent. It has become the textus receptus of the Greek Old Testament and has had many new editions, such as that of Holmes and Pearsons (Oxford, 1798-1827), the seven editions of Tischendorf, which appeared at Leipzig between 1850 and 1887, the last two, proclaimed after the death of the author and revised by Nestle, the four editions of Swete (Cambridge, 1887-95, 1901, 1909), etc.

Grabe's edition was proclaimed at Oxford, from 1707 to 1720 and reproduced, but imperfectly, the "Codex Alexandrinus" of London. For partial editions, see Vigouroux, "Dict. de la Bible", 1643 sqq.

ABOUT THIS TRANSLATION AND OTHER PROJECTS

This EOB version of the LXX is a revision of Brenton's translation which was primarily based on Codex Vaticanus.

Peter A. Papoutsis has translated a substantial amount of the Septuagint into English in his translation called The Holy Orthodox Bible. This translation is based on Greek Orthodox Biblical and Liturgical texts of the Septuagint as used in The Greek Orthodox Church.

The most recent interlinear translation (2007) is the Apostolic Bible Polyglot by Charles Van der Pool, which translates the LXX books in the Protestant OT canon along with the N.T. all numerically coded to the AB-Strong numbering system. Included in the printed edition is a Lexical Concordance and English-Greek Index of both testaments.

The completed Orthodox Study Bible (2008) will be based on the New King James Version but its Old Testament will be revised to conform to LXX variations. Like, the EOB, it will include the 'deutocanonical' books of the LXX not included in the Hebrew canon.

DEFINING SEPTUAGINT

Although the integrity of the Septuagint as a text distinct from the Masoretic is upheld by Dead Sea scroll evidence, the LXX does show some signs in its textual variants. There is at least one highly unreliable complete text of the LXX, Codex Alexandrinus. The whole Septuagint is also found in the Codex Vaticanus and Codex Sinaiticus, which do not perfectly coincide. But the LXX is a particularly excellent text when compared to other ancient works with textual variants. To reject the existence of a Septuagint merely on the basis of variation due to editorial recension and typographical error is unjustified.

The title "Septuagint" is of course not to be confused with the seven or more other Greek versions of the Old Testament, most of which do not survive except as fragments. These other Greek versions were once in side-by-side columns of Origen's Hexapla, now almost wholly lost. Of these the most important are "the three:" those by Aquila, Symmachus and Theodotion, which are identified by particular Semiticisms and placement of Hebrew and Aramaic characters within their Greek texts.

One of two Old Greek texts of the Book of Daniel has been recently rediscovered and work is ongoing in reconstructing the original form of the Septuagint as a whole.

AN ORTHODOX APPROACH TO THE HOLY SCRIPTURES

The Rev. Pr. Laurent Cleenewerck, Editor
Euclid University Consortium

We are not content simply because this is the tradition of the Fathers. What is important is that the Fathers followed the meaning of the Scripture.

(St. Basil, On the Holy Spirit, 7:16.)

THE QUEST AND EXPERIENCE OF TRUTH

In his famous address to the Athenian philosophers, St. Paul masterfully explains that the quest for the God of Truth is implanted in the very heart of the human race:

For as I passed along and observed the objects of your worship, I found also an altar with this inscription, 'To an unknown god'. What therefore you worship as unknown, this I proclaim to you. The God who made the world and everything in it, being Lord of heaven and earth, does not live in shrines made by man, nor is he served by human hands, as though he needed anything, since he himself gives to all men life and breath and everything. He made from one every nation of men to live on all the face of the earth, having determined allotted periods and the boundaries of their habitation, that they should seek God, in the hope that they might grope for him and find him. Yet, he is not far from each one of us, for 'In him we live and move and have our being'; as even some of your poets have said: 'For we are indeed his offspring.' (Acts 17:23-28)

In spite of the crushing power of sin, the wisdom of Ecclesiastes and of ancient Greece can agree:

He [God] has made everything beautiful in its time; also he has put eternity into man's mind, yet so that he cannot find out what God has done from the beginning to the end. (Ecclesiastes 3:11)

In his grace and unfathomable purposes, the Lord of Heaven continued to care for his fallen creatures, as the liturgy of St. Basil expresses so well:

But when he disobeyed You, the true God who had created him and was led astray by the deception of the serpent becoming subject to death through his own transgressions, You, O God, in Your righteous judgment, expelled him from paradise into this world, returning him to the earth from which he was taken, yet providing for him the salvation of regeneration in Your Christ. For You did not forever reject Your creature whom You made, O Good One, nor did You forget the work of Your hands, but because of Your tender compassion, You visited him in various ways: You sent forth prophets; You performed mighty works by Your saints who in every generation have pleased You. You spoke to us by the mouth of Your servants the prophets, announcing to us the salvation which was to come; You gave us the law to help us; You appointed angels as guardians...

Although God's love and care extended to the entire human race, he chose to enter into uniquely significant relationships with certain chosen servants who were also special witnesses to both self-evident and revealed Truth. Among those were Enoch, Melchizedek and Abraham. "The God who made the world and everything in it" found in Abraham a rock¹ on which to build a household of faith and the father of a people "holy unto the Lord" through whom the fullness His Revelation would come.

The Old Testament is a witness to this special relationship between the God Most High and the people of Israel, but with constant reminders that such a high mandate as "My witnesses" came with great responsibility, but no exclusive status:

Are not you as the children of the Ethiopians to me, O children of Israel, says the Lord? Did I not bring up Israel, out of the land of Egypt: and the Philistines out of Cappadocia and the Syrians out of Cyrene? (Amos 9:7)

In this amazing text, the Lord, speaking through his prophet, reminded the ancient Israelites that he had been involved in the lives of other nations, as He had been in that of Israel; yet they who had and would receive greater things were called to a higher standard of Spirit and Truth.

In another famous text that is both a statement of the present and a prophecy of the Eucharist, the God of Israel could say:

I have no pleasure in you [Israel], says the Lord of Hosts: and I will not receive a gift of your hand. For from the rising of the sun even to the going down, my name is great among the Gentiles and in every place there is sacrifice and there is offered to my name a clean oblation: for my name is great among the Gentiles, says the Lord of Hosts. (Malachi 1:10-11)

The Law given at Sinai was a special witness to the truth: it affirmed not only the existence of sin but also enabled Israel to distinguish between good and evil, lawful and unlawful, holy and profane. The Law made it clear that sin was a real and tragic problem, one that had consequences and that had to be dealt with. Sin was a tear in the very fabric of creation and it had to be repaired or 'atoned for'.

Because they were illumined by the Holy Spirit, the prophets could see the truth about the sins of the people and its wrathful consequences: too often Israel's sins had to do with the worship of idols.

Among all the nations, Israel was called to be a witness to a special truth: that there was only one true God (John 17:3) and that he could not be represented:

All the nations have gathered together In order that the peoples may be assembled. Who among them can declare this And proclaim to us the former things? Let them present their witnesses that they may be justified, Or let them hear and say, "It is true." "You are My witnesses," declares the Lord, "And My servant whom I have chosen, In order that you may know and believe Me, And understand that I am He. Before Me there was no God formed, There will be none after Me. "I, even I, am the Lord; There is no savior besides Me. "It is I who have declared and saved and proclaimed, There was no strange god among you; So you are My witnesses," declares the Lord, "I am God. "Even from eternity I am He; There is none who can deliver out of My hand; I act and who can reverse it?" Thus says the Lord your Redeemer, the Holy One of Israel, "For your sake I have sent to Babylon, And will bring them all down as fugitives, Even the Chaldeans, into the ships in which they rejoice. "I am the Lord, your Holy One, The Creator of Israel, your King." (Isaiah 43:9-15) "Thus says the Lord, the King of Israel And his Redeemer, the Lord of Hosts: 'I am the first and I am the last, There is no God besides Me. 'Who is like Me? Let him proclaim and declare it; Yes, let him recount it to Me in order, From the time that I established the ancient nation. Let them declare to them the things that are coming The events that are going to take place. 'Do not tremble and do not be afraid; Have I not long since announced it to you and declared it? You are My witnesses. Is there any God besides Me, Or is there any other Rock¹? I know of none.' Those who fashion a graven image are all of them futile and their precious things are of no profit; even their own witnesses fail to see or know, so that they will be put to shame.

That God had no form that could be represented was at the heart of the revelation and covenant received at Mount Sinai:

Then the Lord spoke to you from the midst of the fire; you heard the sound of words, but you saw no form-- only a voice. "So He declared to you His covenant which He commanded you to perform, that is, the Ten Commandments; He wrote them on two tablets of stone. "The Lord commanded me at that time to teach you statutes and judgments, that you might perform them in the land where you are going over to possess it. "So watch yourselves carefully, since you did not see any form on the day the Lord spoke to you at Horeb from the midst of the fire, for fear that you act corruptly and make a graven image for yourselves in the form of any figure, the likeness of male or female, the likeness of any animal that is on the earth, the likeness of any winged bird that flies in the sky, 18 the likeness of anything that creeps on the ground, the likeness of any fish that is in the water below the earth. "And beware, for fear that you lift up your eyes to heaven and see the sun and the moon and the stars, all the host of heaven and be drawn away and worship them and serve them, those which the Lord your God has allotted to all the peoples under the whole heaven. (Deut. 4:12-19)

This unique mandate to be a witness to “the King of ages, immortal, invisible, the only God” (1 Timothy 1:17) was marred with countless failures, but Israel’s destiny culminated in the fulfillment of the great promise:

In the sixth month the angel Gabriel was sent from God to a city of Galilee named Nazareth, to a virgin betrothed to a man whose name was Joseph, of the house of David; and the virgin's name was Mary. He came to her and said: "Hail, O favored one, the Lord is with you!" But she was greatly troubled at the saying and considered in her mind what sort of greeting this might be. The angel said to her: "Do not be afraid, Mary, for you have found favor with God. And behold, you will conceive in your womb and bear a son and you shall call his name Jesus. He will be great and will be called the Son of the Most High; and the Lord God will give to him the throne of his father David, He will reign over the house of Jacob for ever; and of his kingdom there will be no end." And Mary said to the angel, "How shall this be, since I have no husband?" The angel said to her: "The Holy Spirit will come upon you and the power of the Most High will overshadow you; therefore the child to be born will be called holy, the Son of God. (Luke 1:26-35)

The invisible God who had no form was about to be revealed and seen by mortal eyes:

In the beginning was the Word and the Word was with God and the Word was [what] God [was]. He was in the beginning with God; all things were made through him and without him was not anything made that was made... The true light that enlightens every man was coming into the world. The Word became flesh and dwelt among us, full of grace and truth; we have beheld his glory, glory as of the only Son from the Father. No one has ever seen God; the only Son, who is in the bosom of the Father, he has made him known. (John 1:1-3, 9, 18)

In the light of the incarnation of the Word of God, the glorious vision of the Lord of Hosts experienced by the prophet Isaiah could now be explained:

In the year that King Uzziah died, I saw the Lord sitting on a throne, high and lofty; and the hem of his robe filled the temple. Seraphim were in attendance above him; each had six wings: with two they covered their faces and with two they covered their feet and with two they flew. And one called to another and said: "Holy, holy, holy is the LORD of armies; the whole earth is full of his glory." The pivots on the thresholds shook at the voices of those who called and the house filled with smoke. I said: "Woe is me! I am lost, for I am a man of unclean lips and I live among a people of unclean lips; yet my eyes have seen the King, the LORD of armies!" (Isaiah 6:1-5)

The Apostle John presented this vision of the form of the Lord of Hosts as one of the pre-Incarnate Son of the Most High God:

Isaiah said this because he saw his glory and spoke about him. (John 12:41)

Even more than being “entrusted with the oracles of God”, the birth of Jesus Christ from the line of Abraham and David is truly the greatest of all the privileges of the people of the Old Covenant: “Salvation is from the Jews” (John 4:22). The impossible vision of God, a theme central of the understanding of Holy Scripture, is finally realized:

Now, there was a man in Jerusalem whose name was Simeon; this man was righteous and devout, looking forward to the consolation of Israel and the Holy Spirit rested on him. It had been revealed to him by the Holy Spirit that he would not see death before he had seen the Lord's Messiah. Guided by the Spirit, Simeon came into the temple; and when the parents brought in the child Jesus, to do for him what was customary under the law, Simeon took him in his arms and praised God, saying: "Master, now you are dismissing your servant in peace, according to your word; for my eyes have seen your salvation, which you have prepared in the presence of all peoples, a light for revelation to the Gentiles and for glory to your people Israel." (Luke 2:25-32)

In the letter to the Hebrews, the manifestation of Jesus Christ is shown as the fulfillment of the great witnessing work of the ancient prophets of Israel and also in contrast as being “better” and absolutely perfect:

God, who long ago had spoken to the fathers in the prophets in many and various ways, in these last days, has spoken to us in His Son, whom He appointed heir of all things, through whom also He made the world. He is the radiance of His glory and the exact representation of His person and upholds all things by the word of His power. (Hebrews 1:1-3)

In Jesus Christ, the Word of God is incarnate, living Truth is made manifest and the quest for God of ancient Israel is fulfilled:

Jesus said to him: "I am the way and the truth and the life; no one comes to the Father, but through Me. "If you had known Me, you would have known My Father also; from now on you know Him and have seen Him." Philip said to him: "Lord, show us the Father and it is enough for us." Jesus said to him: "Have I been so long with you and yet you have not come to know Me, Philip? He who has seen Me has seen the Father; how do you say, 'Show us the Father'? "Do you not believe that I am in the Father and the Father is in Me?" (John 14:6-10)

INSPIRATION: HE HAS SPOKEN BY THE PROPHETS

The Holy Spirit of God is the person / hypostatis – not the power¹ – at work in the prophets:

But Moses said to him: "Are you jealous for my sake? Would that all the Lord's people were prophets, that the Lord would put His Spirit upon them!" (Number 11:29)

But know this first of all, that no prophecy of Scripture is a matter of one's own interpretation, for no prophecy was ever made by an act of human will, but men moved by the Holy Spirit spoke from God. (2 Peter 1:20-21)

The Spirit of God has been understood, explained or defined in different ways, but a useful approach is to say: "The Holy Spirit is the power, mind and hypostasis that sustains and manifests what is true, what truly exists. The Holy Spirit is the revealer and the very meaning of Truth."

Hence, at Theophany, the Holy Spirit manifests Jesus as the Christ and the New Adam, even he was both of these things from his very conception². Likewise, the Liturgy of St. Basil calls upon the Holy Spirit to manifest what the Word has accomplished.

This is why St. Paul can write:

Therefore I make known to you, that no one speaking by the Spirit of God says, "Jesus is accursed"; and no one can say, "Jesus is Lord," except by the Holy Spirit. (1 Corinthians 12:3)

In the words of New Testament scholar Lee McDonald³:

In the first five centuries of the church everything that was true was also considered inspired of God. Only if it was untrue was it considered uninspired. (p. 291)

We find this principle at work in St. Paul's discourse to the Athenians: a quote from a pagan Greek poet became incorporated in the inspired and holy Scriptures because it is true and bears witness to Jesus Christ.

THE PROPHET

The scriptural author and the prophet in particular, then, is one who is moved by the Holy Spirit to discern and proclaim the Truth: the oneness and invisibility of God, the reality and consequences of sins, the need for atonement which is among those things that point to the Messiah-Christ:

You search the Scriptures, because you think that in them you have eternal life; and it is these that bear witness of me... (John 5:39)

The greatest prophet, John the Baptist, is first and foremost a witness to the truth, not simply to the truth that sinners must repent and that the kingdom was near, but actually to Truth incarnate:

There came a man, sent from God, whose name was John. He came for a witness, that he might bear witness of the light, that all might believe through him. He was not the light, but came that he might bear witness of the light. (John 1:6-8)

Hence, the Spirit-breathed prophet and forerunner points his finger to the Lord Jesus Christ as we see on the iconostasis and the Lord himself points to the Father: "The Amen, the faithful and true Witness, the origin of the creation of God" (Revelation 3:14) is himself a witness to the Truth that God is love. (John 18:37)

This theme runs through the writings of St. John who concludes his gospel with these words:

³ The Formation of the Christian Biblical Canon, Hendrickson, 1995

This is the disciple who bears witness of these things and wrote these things; and we know that his witness is true. There are also many other things which Jesus did, which if they were written in detail, I suppose that even the world itself would not contain the books which were written (John 21:24-25)

This was the mission of the Apostles as it is that of every Christian:

[But] You shall receive power when the Holy Spirit has come upon you; and you shall be my witnesses, in Jerusalem, in all Judea and Samaria and even to the most remote part of the earth. (Acts 1:8)

The incarnate Word of God has fulfilled and illumined the written word of God and it is the Church who functions, like the “God-breathed scriptures” (2 Timothy 3:16), as the “God-breathed” bride of Christ and as “pillar and foundation of truth” (1 Timothy 3:15).

THE INSPIRATION OF SCRIPTURE

The official statement of the Orthodox – Lutheran dialogue is especially useful to complement this discussion:

11. “All scripture is inspired by God and profitable for teaching, for reproof, for correction and for training in righteousness that the man of God may be complete, equipped for every good work” (2 Tim. 3:16f.). “No prophecy of scripture is a matter of one's own interpretation, because no prophecy ever came by the impulse of man, but men moved by the Holy Spirit spoke from God” (2 Pet. 1:20f). To speak of inspiration (theopneustia) of the Holy Scripture is to speak of the work of the Holy Spirit. When Christians declare scripture to be inspired, they are making a statement about the way God has chosen to work among his people. Holy Scripture is one of the means by which the Holy Spirit bears witness to the truth, inspires and sustains the faith of believers.

12. The question regarding the inspiration of the books of the Holy Scripture points back to the working of the Spirit in their production, that is to say, the inspiration of the authors and points forward to the working of this same Spirit in the church who teaches how the scriptures are to be understood and leads the faithful to their goal.

13. According to the apostolic witness and the teaching of the fathers, this goal is participation in God's glory. “Those whom he justified he also glorified” (Rom. 8:30; cf. 1 John 3:2). It is the theme of all divine revelation that the triune God himself saves the creation from its lostness and alienation and leads it to true life. The Holy Scripture is the divinely inspired and canonical witness to revelation which nevertheless transcends all possibilities of concepts and expressions. As witness to revelation the Holy Scripture is God's word. Inspiration is the operation of the Holy Spirit in the authors of the Holy Scripture so that they may bear witness to the revelation (John 5:39) without erring about God and God's ways and means for the salvation of humankind. Therefore the authors of Holy Scripture describe God's ways with his creation and his people and thereby witness to God's glory which is hidden from the eyes of unbelievers. Inspiration comes from the experience of the revelation of God's glory through the Holy Spirit. To the Old Testament prophets, to the apostles and prophets of the new covenant (Eph. 2:20; 3:5), God revealed his glory. It is important to note that glorification is inseparable from the cross and from suffering not only with respect to our Lord Jesus Christ (John 12:23f., 32) but also with respect to his followers (Gal 2:19-20). Glorification is the transformation and renewal of the whole person (Rom 12:2). It empowered the authors of Holy Scripture to proclaim and to write the word of God.

14. Prophets, apostles and saints who have experienced God's glory and witnessed to it in Holy Scripture declare the truth of God and the ways of communion with him. It is about those who St Paul wrote: “The spiritual man... is himself to be judged by no one. For who has known the mind of the Lord so as to instruct him? But we have the mind of Christ” (1 Cor. 2:15-16)... This is why St Gregory the Theologian wrote: “It is impossible to express God and even more impossible to conceive him” (Oratio theologica 2,4).

15. Those who have experienced the glory of God, which experience in itself cannot be expressed in words or conceived in thoughts, are yet inspired to use expressions and concepts of ordinary language in order to guide others to the same experience. St Paul wrote: “Because you are sons, God has sent the Spirit of his Son into our hearts, crying 'Abba! Father!'” (Gal 4:6). This coming of the Spirit into the heart is the normal form of inspiration in the faithful (Rom. 8:14-17, 26-27). The Holy Spirit effects this through preaching and teaching and the life of those who are already inspired (Rom. 10:13-15; 1 Cor. 4:16; 11:1).

16. The Old Testament period prepared the way for the acceptance of the incarnation of the Son of God by the prophetic tradition represented by St John the Baptist and by Mary, the mother of God and by other believers who found their place in the early Christian community. Christ revealed himself as having by nature the same glory with his Father by his teaching, his miracles and especially by revelation of his glory in his baptism and transfiguration, crucifixion, resurrection, ascension and by Pentecost. It is by Pentecost that the church became the body of Christ, thus being led into all truth.

17. The interpretation of revelation and inspiration consummated in Pentecost continues in the life of the church. Within the life of the church Christians who become “a temple of the Holy Spirit” (1 Cor. 6:19) and therefore are members of the body of Christ are led into all the truth in the experience of glorification, as the Lord prayed to the Father: “Father, I desire that they also, whom you have given me, may be with me where I am, to behold my glory which you have given me in your love for me before the foundation of the world” (John 17:24).

18. Expressions and concepts of biblical authors about God are inspired because they are unerring guides to communion with God. But the authors did not receive inspiration about created truths except that God created the world out of nothing (ex nihilo). Also the human words of Christ are guides to Pentecostal glorification and not this glorification itself since God as revealed in glorification cannot be conceived or expressed. For this reason Holy Scripture is not to be used as a substitute for scientific research. Some books of the Bible are written by those authors who themselves have reached glorification, while other books were written about them or about historical events.

19. Authentic interpreters of the Holy Scripture are persons who have had the same experience of revelation and inspiration within the body of Christ as the biblical writers had. Therefore it is necessary for authentic understanding that anybody who reads or hears the Bible be inspired by the Holy Spirit. The Orthodox believe that such authentic interpretation is the service of the fathers of the church especially expressed in the decisions of the ecumenical councils.

THE WORD OF GOD: ORAL AND WRITTEN

For Orthodox Christians, it is clear that the Word of God is not a book but a person (John 1:1; Revelation 19:13). Moreover, the oral proclamation of the great Truth that “He was revealed in the flesh” is also the Word of God, just as proclaiming that “Jesus is Lord” is the work of the Holy Spirit:

And for this reason we also constantly thank God that when you received from us the word of God's message, you accepted it not as the word of men, but for what it really is, the word of God, which also performs its work in you who believe. (1 Thessalonians 2:13)

Hence, the one source of divine revelation is the Holy Spirit who works in the scriptural authors, the prophets, the apostles and in his Church. The oral proclamation of the word of God is often written down to ensure its transmission and stability – it is then ‘assured’ (bebaia) and held as fully authoritative.

On the other hand, the apostolic command pertaining to oral tradition is equally binding:

Now, I praise you because you remember me in everything and hold firmly to the traditions, just as I delivered them to you. (1 Co. 11:2) So then, brethren, stand firm and hold to the traditions which you were taught, whether by word of mouth or by letter from us. (2 Thessalonians 2:15)

In order to avoid artificial and destructive dichotomies, the relationship between Scripture, Canon, Tradition and Church needs to be understood in the light of the ministries of the Spirit of Truth:

Therefore I make known to you, that no one speaking by the Spirit of God says, "Jesus is accursed"; and no one can say, "Jesus is Lord," except by the Holy Spirit. Now, there are varieties of gifts, but the same Spirit. There are varieties of ministries and the same Lord. Also, there are varieties of effects, but the same God who works all things in all persons. But to each one is given the manifestation of the Spirit for the common good. For to one is given the word of wisdom through the Spirit and to another the word of knowledge according to the same Spirit; to another faith by the same Spirit and to another gifts of healing by the one Spirit and to another the effecting of miracles and to another prophecy and to another the distinguishing of spirits, to another various kinds of tongues and to another the interpretation of tongues. But one and the same Spirit works all these things, distributing to each one individually just as He wills. (1 Corinthians 12:3-11)

THE FATHERS, SCRIPTURES AND TRADITION

On this complex subject, the official statement of the Orthodox – Lutheran dialogue¹ also contains useful clarifications:

1. The divine revelation in the Old and in the New Testament of the saving intervention of God (oikonomia), consummated in the person of Jesus Christ, is communicated to the world through the operation of the Holy Spirit. This saving intervention of God through the Son in the Holy Spirit is the essence of the “euangelion” of salvation.
2. The word of God made known to the prophets is revealed to us through the incarnation, the life and teaching, the passion, resurrection and ascension of Jesus Christ and the sending of his Spirit at Pentecost. By all this Jesus Christ accomplished and secured the unity of the testaments and the continuity of the once and for all offering of his body and blood for our salvation and his abiding presence with us to the end of the ages. Therefore, the “euangelion” of salvation, to which Holy Scriptures bears witness, is not simply speech from or about God but the hypostatic Word of God incarnate. This “euangelion” of Jesus Christ, which by the operation of the Holy Spirit is communicated to us by the church to the end of the ages, is the holy Tradition.
3. The holy Tradition is the authentic expression of divine revelation in the living experience of the church, the body of the Word incarnate. The church in its sacraments and spiritual life transmits this “euangelion” of our salvation through the operation of the Holy Spirit. Therefore, apostolic faith is not only a matter of proclamation but an incarnate faith (Heb. 11:1.; enhypostatos pistis, Maximus Confessor, Quaestiones 25, PG 90, 336D) in the church.
4. This “euangelion” of salvation is the content of the holy Tradition, preserved, confessed and transmitted in scripture, in the lives of the saints in all ages and in the conciliar tradition of the church.
5. The Orthodox and the Lutheran churches have the same Bible, comprising the Old and New Testament, but the following ten books of the Old Testament have varying degrees of authority in our churches: Judith, 1 Ezra, 1 Maccabees, 2 Maccabees, 3 Maccabees, Tobit, Ecclesiasticus, Wisdom of Solomon, Baruch and the Letter of Jeremiah. In the future we will have to discuss the problem of the canon in more detail.
6. The same triune God is revealed in the Old and in fullness in the New Testament. The Old Testament contains God's unconditional promise of salvation and the New Testament contains its fulfillment in Christ through the Holy Spirit. Both Testaments reveal God's judgment of the sin inside and outside God's people and God's saving grace in Christ. Holy scripture, being the work of the Holy Spirit in holy Tradition, has as criterion for its true understanding Jesus Christ himself in the life and teaching of the one, holy, catholic and apostolic church.
7. The revelation of God, even as contained in scripture, transcends all verbal expressions. It is hidden from all creatures, especially from sinful human beings (palaios anthropos). Its true meaning is revealed only through the Holy Spirit in the living experience of salvation, which is accomplished in the church through the Christian life. This catholic experience of salvation in the church is at the same time the only authentic expression of the true understanding of the word of God.
8. The holy Tradition as ongoing action of the Holy Spirit in the church expresses itself in the church's whole life. The decisions of the ecumenical councils and local synods of the church, the teaching of the holy fathers and liturgical texts and rites are especially important and authoritative expressions of this manifold action of the Holy Spirit. However, not every synod claiming to be orthodox, not every teaching of an ecclesiastical writer, not all rites are expressions of the holy Tradition, if they are not accepted by the [universal] church. They may be only human traditions, lacking the presence of the Holy Spirit. That is why the problem of the criteria for determination of the presence of the holy Tradition in the traditions of the churches is of great importance and needs further study.
9. Therefore, those church decisions which have been received by the catholic church as true expressions of the intent of the Holy Scripture can be considered authentic criteria of the church's faith and its confession (cf. Vincent of Lérins, Commonitorium, 2,3; PL 50, 640). The church's doctrinal definitions which confess the holy Trinity and God's saving act in Jesus Christ by the Holy Spirit are guidelines for defending truth against falsehood. Proclaiming, confessing and living in Christ, the church communicates the mystery of God's revelation. The church's doctrinal statements are rooted in its whole spiritual life and at the same time are shaped by it. As St. Basil affirmed about Holy Scripture and holy Tradition: "... regarding the true faith, both of these have the same value" (St Basil the Great, On the Holy Spirit, XXVII, 66, PG 32, 188A). In another place St Basil argued for the formula "the glory is common to the Father and to the Son" (he doxa koine Patri kai Hyio) first on the basis of some of the fathers; then he continued: "But it is not sufficient for us that it is a tradition of the fathers. For even they followed the intent (boulema) of the scriptures because they have used as principles the testimonies of the scriptures as mentioned shortly before (St Basil the Great, On the Holy Spirit, VII,16; PG 32,96).

10. The function of Holy Scriptures is to serve the authenticity of the church's living experience in safeguarding the holy Tradition from all attempts to falsify the true faith (cf. Heb. 4:12, etc.), not to undermine the authority of the church, the body of Christ.

11. Regarding the relation of scripture and Tradition, for centuries there seemed to have been a deep difference between Orthodox and Lutheran teaching. Orthodox hear with satisfaction the affirmation of the Lutheran theologians that the formula "sola scriptura" was always intended to point to God's revelation, God's saving act through Christ in the power of the Holy Spirit and therefore to the holy Tradition of the church, as expressed in this paper, against human traditions that darken the authentic teaching in the church.

12. Pointing to scripture is pointing to the "euangelion" of salvation, to Christ and therefore to the holy Tradition which is the life of the church, to act as criterion of its authenticity and so to stress the church's unity and catholicity for the joyful common praise of the triune God.

AUTHORITY AND SUFFICIENCY

In order to understand the authority and sufficiency of the Scriptures, as well as their interdependence with Church and Tradition, the testimony of the Fathers needs to be considered very carefully. St. Irenaeus of Lyons, for instance, wrote that

We have learned from none others the plan of our salvation, than from those through whom the gospel has come down to us, which they did at one time proclaim in public, and, at a later period, by the will of God, handed down to us in the Scriptures, to be the ground and pillar of our faith.¹

Hence, the true, inspired and authoritative oral preaching of the Apostles was "enscripturated" by the will of God in order to provide a permanent point of reference, an unshakable common ground. On the other hand, the great bishop also warned:

When, however, they are confuted from the Scriptures, they turn round and accuse these same Scriptures, as if they were not correct, nor of authority and [assert] that they are ambiguous and that the truth cannot be extracted from them by those who are ignorant of tradition...It comes to this, therefore, that these men do now consent neither to Scripture or tradition. (Against Heresies, 3,2:1)

Then as now, it was not so much the authority of Scripture which was the object of debate, it was its meaning and interpretation:

Suppose there arise a dispute relative to some important question among us, should we not have recourse to the most ancient Churches with which the apostles held constant intercourse and learn from them what is certain and clear in regard to the present question? For how should it be if the apostles themselves had not left us writings? Would it not be necessary, [in that case,] to follow the course of the tradition which they handed down to those to whom they did commit the Churches? (Against Heresies 3,4:1)

Commenting on St. Irenaeus' and Tertullian's understanding of Apostolic Tradition, scholar Ellen Flessman-Van Leer notes:

For Irenaeus, on the other hand, tradition and scripture are both quite unproblematic. They stand independently side by side, both absolutely authoritative, both unconditionally true, trustworthy and convincing. (Tradition and Scripture in the Early Church (Assen: Van Gorcum, 1953), p139)

Irenaeus and Tertullian point to the church tradition as the authoritative locus of the unadulterated teaching of the apostles, they can no longer appeal to the immediate memory, as could the earliest writers. Instead they lay stress on the affirmation that this teaching has been transmitted faithfully from generation to generation. One could say that in their thinking, apostolic succession occupies the same place that is held by the living memory in the Apostolic Fathers. (p.188)

The great St. Athanasius expressed the same apparent tension between the sufficiency and authority of Scripture and need for an inspired (true) interpretation:

“The sacred and divinely inspired scriptures are sufficient for the exposition of the truth, but there also exist many treatises of our blessed teachers composed for this purpose and if one reads them he will gain somehow the right interpretation of the scriptures”. (St. Athanasius, Against the Pagans, 1,3, PG 25,4)

This is why the Fathers always understood that the inspiration of the Holy Scriptures that “moved” the original authors needed to be complemented by the action of the Holy Spirit on the contemporary reader to ensure the manifestation of Truth. Moreover, the Church, where the *epiclesis*¹ takes place is the place of the Spirit where such interpretation can take place.

The great catechism and bishop St. Cyril of Jerusalem emphasized the traditional and patristic approach:

For concerning the divine and holy mysteries of the Faith, not even a casual statement must be delivered without the Holy Scriptures; nor must we be drawn aside by mere plausibility and artifices of speech. Even to me [a bishop], who tell you these things, give not absolute credence, unless you receive the proof of the things which I announce from the Divine Scriptures. For this salvation which we believe depends not on ingenious reasoning, but on demonstration of the Holy Scriptures. (Catechetical Lectures, IV:17)

On the other hand, since the Scriptures themselves do not contain a table of contents, the knowledge of what books are indeed inspired is dependent on the discernment of the Church:

But in learning the Faith and in professing it, acquire and keep that only, which is now delivered to you by the Church and which has been built up strongly out of all the Scriptures. (Catechetical Lectures, 5:12).

The great catechist explains:

Only accept and hold that faith (-) which is delivered to you by the Church and is established from all Scripture. For since all cannot read the Scripture, but some as being unlearned, others by business, are hindered from the knowledge of them; in order that the soul may not perish for lack of instruction, in the Articles [of the baptismal creed] which are few we comprehend the whole doctrine of Faith... For now, commit to memory the Faith, merely listening to the words; and expect at the fitting season the proof of each of its parts from the Divine Scriptures. For the Articles of the Faith were not composed at the good pleasure of men: but the most important points chosen from all Scriptures, make up the one teaching of the Faith. And, as the mustard seed in a little grain contains many branches, thus also this Faith, in a few words, has enfolded in its bosom the whole knowledge of godliness contained both in the Old and New Testaments. Behold, therefore, brethren and hold the traditions which you now receive and write them on the table of your hearts. (Lecture, 5.12)

The great Cappadocian fathers expressed the same concern. St. Gregory of Nyssa, for instance, wrote:

We are not entitled to such license, namely, of affirming whatever we please. For we make Sacred Scripture the rule and the norm of every doctrine. Upon that we are obliged to fix our eyes and we approve only whatever can be brought into harmony with the intent of these writings. (*On the Soul and the Resurrection*²)

Let the inspired Scriptures then be our judge and the vote of truth will be given to those whose dogmas are found to agree with the Divine words. (*On the Holy Trinity*³)

Yet, it is the same bishop of Nyssa who declared:

[F]or it is enough for proof of our statement, that the tradition has come down to us from our fathers, handed on, like some inheritance, by succession from the apostles and the saints who came after them. They, on the other hand, who change their doctrines to this novelty, would need the support of arguments in abundance, if they were about to bring over to their views, not men light as dust and unstable, but men of weight and steadiness: but so long as their statement is advanced without being established and without being proved, who is so foolish and so brutish as to account the teaching of the evangelists and apostles and of those who have successively shone like lights in the churches, of less force than this undemonstrated nonsense? (Against Eunomius; 4:6).

Yet, this is not a contradiction – the Scripture are indeed materially sufficient if one has the right Spirit, the right interpretation, the orthodox faith. But the supreme and infallible authority of Scripture only functions if two conditions are met:

- (1) That the content of Scripture be discerned in the Church and by the Church
- (2) That the meaning of Scripture be confirmed by the consent of ‘all the ancient presbyters, bishops and fathers’.

This approach found its clearest and most memorable expression in St. Vincent of Lerins:

But here, someone may ask, “since the canon of Scripture is complete and sufficient of itself for everything and more than sufficient, what need is there to join with it the authority of the Church’s interpretation”? For this reason: because, owing to the depth of Holy Scripture, all do not accept it in one and the same sense, but one understands its words in one way, another in another; so that it seems to be capable of as many interpretations as there are interpreters... Moreover, in the Catholic Church itself, all possible care must be taken, that we hold that faith which has been believed everywhere, always, by all. For that is truly and in the strictest sense “Catholic,” which, as the name itself and the reason of the thing declare, comprehends all universally. This rule we shall observe if we follow universality, antiquity, consent. We shall follow universality if we confess that one faith to be true, which the whole Church throughout the world confesses; antiquity, if we in no wise depart from those interpretations which it is manifest were notoriously held by our holy ancestors and fathers; consent, in like manner, if in antiquity itself we adhere to the consentient definitions and determinations of all, or at the least of almost all priests and doctors. (Commonitory; II:4,6)

At the same time, St. Vincent was careful to make room for a deepening of the Church’s understanding of the same, scriptural faith:

But someone may now say: “Shall there, then, be no progress in Christ’s Church”? Certainly, all possible progress! For what being is there, so envious of men, so full of hatred to God, who would seek to forbid it? Yet on condition that it be real progress, not alteration of the faith. For progress requires that the subject be enlarged in itself, alteration, that it be transformed into something else. The intelligence, then, the knowledge, the wisdom, as well of individuals as of all, as well of one man as of the whole Church, ought, in the course of ages and centuries, to increase and make much and vigorous progress; but yet only in its own kind; that is to say, in the same doctrine, in the same sense and in the same meaning. (XXIII, 54)

The Fathers’ unyielding respect for the authority of Scripture, which was indeed the only accepted common ground, continued even in the face of extremely heterodox interpretation. Thus St. Basil exclaimed:

They are charging me with innovation and base their charge on my confession of three hypostases [persons] and blame me for asserting one Goodness, one Power, one Godhead. In this they are not wide of the truth, for I do so assert. Their complaint is that their custom does not accept this and that Scripture does not agree. What is my reply? I do not consider it fair that the custom which obtains among them should be regarded as a law and rule of orthodoxy. If custom is to be taken in proof of what is right, then it is certainly competent for me to put forward on my side the custom which obtains here. If they reject this, we are clearly not bound to follow them. Therefore let God-inspired Scripture decide between us; and on whichever side doctrines in harmony with the Word of God will be found, in favor of that side will be cast the vote of truth. (Letter 189 [to Eustathius the physician]; 3, in The Nicene and Post-Nicene Fathers, Second Series, Vol. VIII, p. 229.)

Innovations, subtractions and additions were always the mark of a deviation from apostolic truth:

What is the mark of a faithful soul? To be in these dispositions of full acceptance on the authority of the words of Scripture, not venturing to reject anything nor making additions. For, if “all that is not of faith is sin” as the Apostle says and “faith comes by hearing and hearing by the Word of God,” everything outside Holy Scripture, not being of faith, is sin. (The Morals, in The Fathers of the Church, Vol. 9, p. 204.)

For this reason, the tradition of the orthodox fathers was first and foremost scriptural:

On the other hand, the very life of the Church, especially its rites and prayers, were another authoritative and undisputable witness to the Truth, since even the heretics had to admit their antiquity and acceptance:

Of the dogmas and kerygmas preserved in the Church, some we possess from written teaching and others we receive from the tradition of the Apostles, handed on to us in mystery. In respect to piety both are of the same force. No one will contradict any of these, no one, at any rate, who is even moderately versed in manners ecclesiastical. Indeed, were we to try to reject the unwritten customs as having no great authority, we would unwittingly injure the Gospel in its vitals; or rather, we would reduce kerygma to a mere term". (Holy Spirit; 27:66)

At the close of the patristic age, the great St. John of Damascus reaffirmed the Church's commitment to the authority of the inspired and written oracles:

It is impossible either to say or fully to understand anything about God beyond what has been divinely proclaimed to us, whether told or revealed, by the sacred declarations of the Old and New Testaments. (On the Orthodox Faith; I:2, in The Fathers of the Church, Vol. 37.)

In Eastern Orthodox theology, this dual emphasis on the sufficiency and authority of Scripture as we as on the indispensable role of the Church was maintained. It was never a denial of the role of "the Spirit and the Bride" (i.e. the Church) to manifest the truth witnessed to by the Holy Scriptures – it was a perichoresis of Truth and authority.

THE CHURCH AS INTERPRETER AND THE ROLE OF TRADITION

The great patristic scholar J.N.D. Kelly pointed out that:

The clearest token of the prestige enjoyed by Scripture is the fact that almost the entire theological effort of the Fathers, whether their aims were polemical or constructive, was expended upon what amounted to the exposition of the Bible. Further, it was everywhere taken for granted that, for any doctrine to win acceptance, it had first to establish its Scriptural basis". (Early Christian Doctrines (San Francisco: Harper & Row, 1978), pp. 42, 46)

Discussing the apparently intractable issue of Scripture and Tradition, J.N.D. Kelly offers this very Orthodox synthesis:

It should be unnecessary to accumulate further evidence. Throughout the whole period Scripture and tradition ranked as complementary authorities, media different in form but coincident in content. To inquire which counted as superior or more ultimate is to pose the question in misleading terms. If Scripture was abundantly sufficient in principle, tradition was recognized as the surest clue to its interpretation, for in tradition the Church retained, as a legacy from the apostles which was embedded in all the organs of her institutional life, an unerring grasp of the real purport and meaning of the revelation to which Scripture and tradition alike bore witness" (pp. 47-48).

In St. Ignatius of Antioch, a very important idea was that of assurance: one can be sure that he is in the Church and participating in the 'valid' Eucharist by being united to the legitimate bishop:

Let no one man do anything pertaining to the Church apart from the bishop. Let that be held a valid (assured) Eucharist which is under the bishop or one to whom he shall have committed it. Wherever the bishop shall appear, there let the people be; even as where Jesus may be, there is the catholic Church. (To the Smyrneans; 8:4-7)

This same idea was expressed by St. Cyprian:

If one deserts the chair of Peter [i.e. the episcopate] upon whom the Church was built, can he still be confident that he is in the Church?" (The Unity of the Catholic Church; 4, c. AD 251)

Another form of assurance was associated with the fact that the apostolic teaching had been written down either by the Apostles themselves or by "apostolic men". Although the deposit of Truth was also entrusted to their disciples, there was something especially convenient and enduring in the written form of the word of God. Moreover, the Scriptures provided a common ground for the controversies between Jews and Christians and later on between various Christian groups. The Gnostics appealed to secret, unwritten apostolic traditions, or to unrecognized pseudo-Apostolic writings, but the apostolic Churches maintained that the rule of faith had to be consistent with the recognized writings and with the interpretation publicly and universally held by the successors of the Apostles. The first level of assurance was obtained in the Scriptures and the second level, that of interpretation, was to be found in the consensus of the apostolic Churches.

AN ORTHODOX APPROACH TO THE PROBLEM OF CANON

As we have already mentioned, St. Cyril of Jerusalem pointed to the Church not to Scripture for the definition of the canon:

Learn also diligently and from the Church, what the books of the Old Testament are and [also] those of the New. (Catechetical Lectures, 4:33)

Yet, 'learning from the Church what the books of the New Testament actually were' turned out to be a gradual and difficult process. As late as 320-325 AD, Eusebius expressed the limits of the universal agreement as well as lingering doubts regarding James, Hebrews, 2 Peter, 2 and 3 John, Jude and Revelation. Indeed, the same Athanasius who strongly affirmed that "the sacred and divinely inspired scriptures are sufficient for the exposition of the truth" would have been surprised to know that his Paschal Letter of 367 turned out to be the first list of the New Testament books as we have them today. For that point on, the 27 books of the Christian Greek Scriptures would suffer little controversy. On the other hand, the extent of the Old Testament would forever remain a point of controversy. St. Athanasius' list is as follows:

4. There are, then, of the Old Testament, twenty-two books in number; for, as I have heard, it is handed down that this is the number of the letters among the Hebrews; their respective order and names being as follows. The first is Genesis, then Exodus, next Leviticus, after that Numbers and then Deuteronomy. Following these there is Joshua the son of Nun, then Judges, then Ruth. And again, after these four books of Kings, the first and second (a) being reckoned as one book and so likewise the third and fourth (b) as one book. And again, the first and second of the Chronicles are reckoned as one book. Again Ezra, the first and second (c) are similarly one book. After these there is the book of Psalms, then the Proverbs, next Ecclesiastes and the Song of Songs. Job follows, then the Prophets, the Twelve [minor prophets] being reckoned as one book. Then Isaiah, one book, then Jeremiah with Baruch, Lamentations and the Epistle, one book; afterwards Ezekiel and Daniel, each one book. Thus far constitutes the Old Testament.

7. But for the sake of greater exactness I add this also, writing under obligation, as it were. There are other books besides these, indeed not received as canonical but having been appointed by our fathers to be read (anagnoskomena) to those just approaching and wishing to be instructed in the word of godliness: Wisdom of Solomon, Wisdom of Sirach, Esther, Judith, Tobit and that which is called the Teaching of the Apostles and the Shepherd. But the former, my brethren, are included in the Canon, the latter being merely read; nor is there any place a mention of secret writings. But such are the invention of heretics, who indeed write them whenever they wish, bestowing upon them their approval and assigning to them a date, that so, using them as if they were ancient writings, they find a means by which to lead astray the simple-minded.

Like Melito before him, Athanasius admits that he discussed the matter of the Old Testament canon with the Jews in order to determine the number of the books as well as their name. Both twenty-two and twenty-four were meaningful because of the correlation with the number of letters in the Hebrew alphabet. Every attempt was made to group the books to match that symbolic number. Furthermore, Athanasius makes an interesting difference between what he considered canonical and what could be read in the Churches but without canonical or normative authority. Alexandria was place of ongoing controversy with the Jews and it was clear to Athanasius that only what both Jews and Christians considered authoritative could be used as acceptable witnesses or canonical.

Yet, Athanasius' list marks an evolution from the approach of the early apostolic Churches, including that of Alexandria and this preference for the Jewish would have lasting consequences.

In general, the post-Nicene Eastern Fathers tended to follow Athanasius' position which had been endorsed by the local council of Laodicea.

On the other hand, it quite clear that pre-Nicene Christians held not only to the Septuagintal text but also to its larger canon. In fact, Christians were so successful at using the LXX to prove that Jesus Christ was the Messiah that the Jewish community ended up rejecting the LXX (which had been their translation) along with its additional books. The problem of finding common grounds, along with that of possible textual falsification, is prominent as early as Justin's Dialogue with Trypho (early second century).

In their encounters with the Jews, Christians had to limit themselves to what their opponents could not reject; but in their 'internal writings', every single early Father quotes from the Septuagintal books and some treat them explicitly as inspired Scripture (e.g. Polycarp and Clement).

Origen was also keenly aware of the problem posed by diverging texts and canons. He always made a sharp contrast between "our books" and the shorter canon of the Jews. Writing to a fellow-Christian who had criticized Origen's use of the Septuagintal additions to Daniel, the great scholar answered:

Your letter, from which I learn what you think of the Susanna in the Book of Daniel, which is used in the Churches... Again, through the whole of Job there are many passages in the Hebrew which are lacking in our copies, generally four or five verses, but sometimes, however, even fourteen and nineteen and sixteen. But why should I enumerate all the instances I collected with so much labor, to prove that the difference between our copies and those of the Jews did not escape me? [So,] when we notice such things, we are to reject as spurious the copies in use in our Churches and enjoin the brotherhood to put away the sacred books current among them and to coax or persuade the Jews to give us copies which shall be free from tampering and forgery! Are we to suppose that that Providence which in the sacred Scriptures has ministered to the edification of all the Churches of Christ, had no thought for those bought with a price, for whom Christ died; whom, although His Son, God who is love spared not, but gave Him up for us all, that with Him He might freely give us all things? (Origen to Africanus)

This is a very important text. The full Septuagint was the Bible which the Churches everywhere had received from the apostles. To reject it, both textually and canonically, was to admit that the Holy Spirit had failed to deliver the right Scriptures to the Church.

The Greek Orthodox tradition realized that two contradictory positions had to be embraced: because the role of Scripture is to testify to Christ, it was necessary to rely on witnesses who would be accepted as authoritative by the Jews and everyone. This issue of "common ground" is well expressed by St. Augustine (writing to an Arian):

I must not press the authority of Nicea against you, nor you that of Ariminum against me; I do not acknowledge the one, as you do not the other; but let us come to ground that is common to both: the testimony of the Holy Scriptures. (Augustine, To Maximim the Arian)

Hence, the strict canon had to be confined to the 22/24 books (which really ended up adding to 39). Yet, the fact that the apostles and the Spirit had delivered a wider collection of witnesses to the Truth had to be equally acknowledged. Hence, the official Orthodox editions of Scriptures always included the LXX additions and passages from the books rejected by the Jews were always included in the liturgical life of the Church. For this reason, the councils of Jassy (1642) and Jerusalem (1672), the latter under the presidency of Patriarch Dositheus of Jerusalem, affirmed the wider collection:

What Books do you call Sacred Scripture? Following the rule of the Catholic Church, we call Sacred Scripture all those [] collected from the Synod of Laodicea and enumerated, adding thereto those which he foolishly and ignorantly, or rather maliciously called Apocrypha; to wit, "The Wisdom of Solomon," "Judith," "Tobit," "The History of the Dragon," "The History of Susanna," "The Maccabees," and "The Wisdom of Sirach." For we judge these also to be with the other genuine Books of Divine Scripture genuine parts of Scripture. For ancient custom, or rather the Catholic Church, which hath delivered to us as genuine the Sacred Gospels and the other Books of Scripture, hath undoubtedly delivered these also as parts of Scripture and the denial of these is the rejection of those. And if, perhaps, it seems that not always have all been by all reckoned with the others, yet nevertheless these also have been counted and reckoned with the rest of Scripture, as well by Synods, as by how many of the most ancient and eminent Theologians of the Catholic Church; all of which we also judge to be canonical Books and confess them to be Sacred Scripture.

On the other hand, the equally authoritative Catechism of St. Philaret of Moscow (Longer Catechism of The Orthodox, Catholic, Eastern Church, 1830), makes a more careful distinction between the canonical books and those who belong to the wider sacred collection as "to be read" (anagnoskomena):

31. How many are the books of the Old Testament?

St. Cyril of Jerusalem, St. Athanasius the Great and St. John Damascene reckon them at twenty-two, agreeing therein with the Jews, who so reckon them in the original Hebrew tongue. (Athanas. Ep. ix. De Test.; J. Damasc. Theol. lib. iv. c. 17.)

32. Why should we attend to the reckoning of the Hebrews?

Because, as the Apostle Paul says, unto them were committed the oracles of God; and the sacred books of the Old Testament have been received from the Hebrew Church of that Testament by the Christian Church of the New. Rom. iii. 2.

33. How do St. Cyril and St. Athanasius enumerate the books of the Old Testament?

As follows: 1, The book of Genesis; 2, Exodus; 3, Leviticus; 4, the book of Numbers; 5, Deuteronomy; 6, the book of Jesus the son of Nun; 7, the book of Judges and with it, as an appendix, the book of Ruth; 8, the first and second books of Kings, as two parts of one book; 9, the third and fourth books of Kings; 10, the first and second books of Paralipomena; 11, the first book of Esdras and the second, or, as it is entitled in Greek, the book of Nehemiah; 12, the book of Esther; 13, the book of Job; 14, the Psalms; 15, the Proverbs of Solomon; 16, Ecclesiastes, also by Solomon; 17, the Song of Songs, also by Solomon; 18, the book of the Prophet Isaiah; 19, of Jeremiah; 20, of Ezekiel; 21, of Daniel; 22, of the Twelve Prophets.

34. Why is there no notice taken in this enumeration of the books of the Old Testament of the book of the Wisdom of the son of Sirach and of certain others?

Because they do not exist in the Hebrew.

35. How are we to regard these last-named books?

Athanasius the Great says that they have been appointed of the Fathers to be read by proselytes who are preparing for admission into the Church.

If we properly understand the apostolic and orthodox mind which sees the Scriptures as witnesses to the Truth, this state of tension or antinomy is to be expected. On the one hand, the canon of Truth is Jesus Christ himself, which is why only the four gospels, the highest witnesses, are bound and placed as one on the holy altar. This hierarchy of witnessing authority is alluded to in Hebrews 1:1 and it makes perfect sense: Esther is not a very explicit of the Truth of Jesus Christ and the faith of the Church would be unchanged if Esther or Job were no longer deemed canonical. On the other side of the spectrum, such Scriptures as 1 Peter or the major Pauline epistles are major witnesses to the person of Christ: they illuminate the meaning of the Old Testament and constitute an assured testimony of the apostolic preaching.

At this point, the official statement of the Lutheran-Orthodox Joint Commission (September 1989, Germany) is a helpful summary and complement:

A. The canon of Holy Scripture

2. The Bible of our Lord Jesus Christ and his apostles was the Holy Scripture of Israel (cf. Luke 4:16-21). It included the law and the prophets and comprised other writings such as the Psalms which had pre-eminence among them. Thus from the beginning the church had a fixed common nucleus of the canon of the Old Testament. Concerning the inclusion of some writings of Jewish origin, different usages existed side by side in the church. The council of 691-692 (Quinisextum) sanctioned various usages of local churches which included the short canon, a medium canon and an all-inclusive canon.

3. According to the common faith of the church, God's revelation in the Holy Scriptures of the Old Testament points to the incarnation of his Son, Jesus Christ, who was crucified and who rose from the dead for our salvation. The church teaches that the Son of God was the revealer to the prophets even before his incarnation (1 Cor. 10:4; John 8:58). The saving work of the triune God (oikonomia) is completed in the outpouring of the Holy Spirit at Pentecost and in the gathering of the church (Acts 2:1,17) which awaits the consummation. The traditions regarding the incarnate Lord himself and the message of the apostles were joined to the Holy Scriptures of Israel as their fulfilment and completion (Heb 10:11; 2 Cor. 3:3-18). These new writings, a deposit of the apostolic oral tradition, became the New Testament.

4. The beginning of the New Testament canon dates back to the time of the apostles. By the end of the 2nd century its basic parts were established: the four gospels and the Acts, the Pauline epistles and the major catholic epistles. The church defined the canon because it heard in these writings the divine revelation in the authentic voice of the apostles as chosen witnesses of Jesus Christ. Later, the church in synods established the exact limits of the New Testament.

5. The recognition of the Holy Scriptures of the Old and New Testaments, the Christian Bible, is one of the most important decisions of the church on its way from Pentecost to the last judgment. We believe and teach together that the church was led by the Holy Spirit in this decision.

6. The early church recognized in these writings the prophetic promise and the original apostolic proclamation by which the church lives and it acknowledges the normative authority of these scriptures. The consensus of the church under the guidance of the Holy Spirit decided finally the canonicity of the books of Holy Scripture. This consensus remains valid for us independent of judgments reached by contemporary historical research concerning the authorship of individual biblical writings. With regard to the content of the New Testament canon there are no differences between our churches.

7. The Old Testament comprises the following 39 canonical books: Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers, Deuteronomy, Joshua, Judges, Ruth, 1 Kings (1 Samuel), 2 Kings (2 Samuel), 3 Kings (1 Kings), 4 Kings (2 Kings), 1 Chronicles, 2 Chronicles, 2 Ezra (Ezra), Nehemiah, Esther, Job, Psalms, Proverbs of Solomon, Ecclesiastes, The Song of Solomon, Isaiah, Jeremiah, Lamentations of Jeremiah, Ezekiel, Daniel, Obadiah, Joel, Jonah, Amos, Hosea, Micah, Nahum, Zephaniah, Habakkuk, Haggai, Zechariah, Malachi; and the ten anagignoskomena (also called “deuterocanonical”) which correspond to the Lutheran “apocrypha”. In the Orthodox tradition they are: Judith, 1 Ezra, 1 Maccabees, 2 Maccabees, 3 Maccabees, Tobit, Ecclesiasticus (Jesus Sirach), Wisdom of Solomon, Baruch and Letter of Jeremiah. [footnote: The confessions of the Evangelical Lutheran Church do not contain a list of biblical books because the canon of the Holy Scripture was received by the Reformation as a given entity. Accordingly, there is also no delimitation of the canon of the Old Testament which is binding for all Lutheran churches. In Martin Luther's translation which became normative for German-speaking lands, the following books and texts which “are profitable and good to read” are reckoned as the Apocrypha (this name does not here mean writings rejected by the church): Judith, Wisdom of Solomon, Tobit, Jesus Sirach, Baruch, 1 Maccabees, 2 Maccabees, Additions to Esther, Susanna, Bel and the Dragon, Prayer of Azariah, Song of the Three Young Men, Prayer of Manasseh.]

8. The New Testament comprises 27 writings: Matthew, Mark, Luke, John, Acts, Romans, 1 Corinthians, 2 Corinthians, Galatians, Ephesians, Philippians, Colossians, 1 Thessalonians, 2 Thessalonians, 1 Timothy, 2 Timothy, Titus, Philemon, Hebrews, James, 1 Peter, 2 Peter, 1 John, 2 John, 3 John, Jude, Revelation.

In summary, the raison d'être of Orthodoxy is to witness to Jesus Christ by all available means. This implies the awareness that the Old Testament canon accepted by the Jews is normative in a special ‘canonical’ way as our common ground while the broader collection of written witnesses received by the early Churches remains the eternal treasure and patrimony of the Church of Christ. In the one, holy, catholic and apostolic gathered around the bishop to offer the Eucharist, we believe with Irenaeus that “our doctrine agrees with the Eucharist and the Eucharist confirms the doctrine”. It is only where the Spirit of God moves that the Truth can be discerned, both in the Scriptures of the “common ground” and in those who are also part of the sacred writings of the Church.

For those who are willing to listen to motion of Spirit where the Earlier Christians clearly discerned it, the Septuagintal books or anagignoskomena can also shine as powerful and inspiring witnesses to the incarnate Word, Wisdom and Power of God:

As for the upright man who is poor, let us oppress him; let us not spare the widow, nor respect old age, white-haired with many years. Let our might be the yardstick of right, since weakness argues its own futility. Let us lay traps for the upright man, since he annoys us and opposes our way of life, reproaches us for our sins against the Law and accuses us of sins against our upbringing. He claims to have knowledge of God and calls himself a child of the Lord. We see him as a reproof to our way of thinking, the very sight of him weighs our spirits down; for his kind of life is not like other people's and his ways are quite different. In his opinion we are counterfeit; he avoids our ways as he would filth; he proclaims the final end of the upright as blessed and boasts of having God as his father¹.

Let us see if what he says is true and test him to see what sort of end he will have. If the upright man is God's son, God will help him and rescue him¹ from the clutches of his enemies. Let us test him with cruelty and with torture and thus explore this gentleness of his and put his patience to the test. Let us condemn him to a shameful death since God will rescue him -- or so he claims.'

This is the way they reason, but they are misled, since their malice makes them blind. They do not know the hidden things of God, they do not hope for the reward of holiness, they do not believe in a reward for blameless souls. For God created human beings to be immortal, he made them as an image of his own nature; Death came into the world² only through the Devil's envy, as those who belong to him find to their cost. THE FUNCTION OF TRADITION IN THE ANCIENT CHURCH “Ego vero Evangelio non crederem, ni si me catholicae Ecclesiae commoveret auctoritas.” (Indeed, I should not have believed the Gospel, if the authority of the Catholic Church had not moved me).

ST. VINCENT OF LERINS AND TRADITION

The famous dictum of St. Vincent of Lerins was characteristic of the attitude of the Ancient Church in the matters of faith: “We must hold what has been believed everywhere, always and by all”². This was at once the criterion and the norm. The crucial emphasis was here on the permanence of Christian teaching. St. Vincent was actually appealing to the double “ecumenicity” of Christian faith — in space and in time. In fact, it was the same great vision which had inspired St. Irenaeus in his own time: the One Church, expanded and scattered in the whole world and yet speaking with one voice, holding the same faith everywhere, as it had been handed down by the blessed Apostles and preserved by the succession of witnesses: quae est ab apostolis, quae per successionem presbyterorum in ecclesiis custoditur (“Which is being preserved in the Church from the Apostles through the succession of the presbyters”). These two aspects of faith, or rather — the two dimensions, could never be separated from each other. Universitas and antiquitas, as well as consensio, belonged together. Neither was an adequate criterion by itself. “Antiquity” as such was not yet a sufficient warrant of truth, unless a comprehensive consensus of the “ancients” could be satisfactorily demonstrated. And consensio as such was not conclusive, unless it could be traced back continuously to Apostolic origins. Now, suggested St. Vincent, the true faith could be recognized by a double recourse — to Scripture and Tradition: duplici modo ... primum scilicet divinae legis auctoritate, tum deinde ecclesiae catholicae traditione (“In two ways... first clearly by the authority of the Holy Scriptures, then by the tradition of the Catholic Church”). This did not imply, however, that there were two sources of Christian doctrine. Indeed, the rule, or canon, of Scripture was “perfect” and “self-sufficient” — ad omnia satis superque sufficiat (“For all things complete and more than sufficient”). Why then should it be supplemented by any other “authority”? Why was it imperative to invoke also the authority of “ecclesiastical understanding” — ecclesiasticae intelligentiae auctoritas? The reason was obvious: Scriptures were differently interpreted by individuals: ut paene quot homines tot illinc sententiae erui posse videantur (“So that one might almost gain the impression that it can yield as many different meanings, as there are men”). To this variety of “private” opinions St. Vincent opposes the “common” mind of the Church, the mind of the Church Catholic: ut prophetae et apostolicae interpretationis linea secundum ecclesiastici et catholici sensus normam dirigatur (“That the trend of the interpretation of the prophets and the apostolic writings be directed in accordance with the rule of the ecclesiastical and Catholic meaning”). Tradition was not, according to St. Vincent, an independent instance, nor was it a complementary source of faith. “Ecclesiastical understanding” could not add anything to the Scripture. But it was the only means to ascertain and to disclose the true meaning of Scripture. Tradition was, in fact, the authentic interpretation of Scripture. And in this sense it was co-extensive with Scripture. Tradition was actually “Scripture rightly understood.” And Scripture was for St. Vincent the only, primary and ultimate, canon of Christian truth¹.

THE HERMENEUTICAL QUESTION IN THE ANCIENT CHURCH

At this point St. Vincent was in full agreement with the established tradition. In the admirable phrase of St. Hilary of Poitiers, scripturae enim non in legendo sunt, sed in intelligendo (“For Scripture is not in the reading, but in the understanding;” ad Constantium Aug., lib. II, cap. 9, ML X, 570; the phrase is repeated also by St. Jerome, Dial. c. Lucifer., cap. 28, ML XXIII, 190-191). The problem of right exegesis was still a burning issue in the Fourth century, in the contest of the Church with the Arians, no less than it has been in the Second century, in the struggle against Gnostics, Sabellians and Montanists. All parties in the dispute used to appeal to Scripture. Heretics, even Gnostics and Manichees, used to quote Scriptural texts and passages and to invoke the authority of the Holy Writ. Moreover, exegesis was at that time the main and probably the only, theological method and the authority of the Scripture was sovereign and supreme. The Orthodox were bound to raise the crucial hermeneutical question: What was the principle of interpretation? Now, in the Second century the term “Scriptures” denoted primarily the Old Testament and, on the other hand, the authority of these “Scriptures” was sharply challenged and actually repudiated, by the teaching of Marcion. The Unity of the Bible had to be proved and vindicated. What was the basis and the warrant, of Christian and Christological, understanding of “Prophecy,” that is — of the Old Testament? It was in this historical situation that the authority of Tradition was first invoked. Scripture belonged to the Church and it was only in the Church, within the community of right faith, that Scripture could be adequately understood and correctly interpreted. Heretics, that is — those outside of the Church, had no key to the mind of the Scripture. It was not enough just to read and to quote Scriptural words — the true meaning, or intent, of Scripture, taken as an integrated whole, had to be elicited. One had to grasp, as it were in advance, the true pattern of Biblical revelation, the great design of God’s redemptive Providence and this could be done only by an insight of faith. It was by faith that Christuszeugniss could be discerned in the Old Testament. It was by faith that the unity of the tetramorph Gospel could be properly ascertained. But this faith was not an arbitrary and subjective insight of individuals — it was the faith of the Church, rooted in the Apostolic message, or kerygma and authenticated by it. Those outside of the Church were missing precisely this basic and overarching message, the very heart of the Gospel. With them Scripture was just a dead letter, or an array of disconnected passages and stories, which they endeavored to arrange or re-arrange on their own pattern, derived from alien sources. They had another faith. This was the main argument of Tertullian in his passionate treatise De praescriptione. He would not discuss Scriptures with heretics — they had no right to use Scriptures, as they did not belong to them. Scriptures were the Church’s possession. Emphatically did Tertullian insist on the priority of the “rule of faith,” regula fidei. It was the only key to the meaning of the Scripture. And this “rule” was Apostolic, was rooted in and derived from, the Apostolic preaching. C. H. Turner has rightly described the meaning and the intention of this appeal or reference to the “rule of faith” in the Early Church. “When Christians spoke of the ‘Rule of Faith’ as ‘Apostolic,’ they did not mean that the Apostles had met and formulated it ... What they meant was that the profession of belief which every catechumen recited before his baptism did embody in summary form the faith which the Apostles had taught and had committed to their disciples to teach after them.” This profession was the same everywhere, although the actual phrasing could vary from place to place. It was always intimately related to the baptismal formula². Apart from this “rule” Scripture could be but misinterpreted. Scripture and Tradition were indivisibly intertwined for Tertullian. Ubi enim apparuerit esse veritatem disciplinae et fidei christianae, illic erit veritas scripturarum et expositionum et omnium traditionum christianarum (“For only where the true Christian teaching and faith are evident will the true Scriptures, the true interpretations and all the true Christian traditions be found;” XIX. 3). The Apostolic Tradition of faith was the indispensable guide in the understanding of Scripture and the ultimate warrant of right interpretation. The Church was not an external authority, which had to judge over the Scripture, but rather the keeper and guardian of that Divine truth which was stored and deposited in the Holy Writ¹.

ST. IRENAEUS AND THE “CANON OF TRUTH”

Denouncing the Gnostic mishandling of Scriptures, St. Irenaeus introduced a picturesque simile. A skillful artist has made a beautiful image of a king, composed of many precious jewels. Now, another man takes this mosaic image apart, re-arranges the stones in another pattern so as to produce the image of a dog or of a fox. Then he starts claiming that this was the original picture, by the first master, under the pretext that the gems (the ψηφιδες) were authentic. In fact, however, the original design had been destroyed — λυσας την υποκειμενην του ανθρωπου ιδεαν. This is precisely what the heretics do with the Scripture. They disregard and disrupt “the order and connection” of the Holy Writ and “dismember the truth” — λυοντες τα μελη της αληθειας. Words, expressions and images — ρηματα, λεξεις παραβολαι — are genuine, indeed, but the design, the υποθεσις (ipotesis), is arbitrary and false (adv. haeres., 1. 8. 1). St. Irenaeus suggested as well another analogy. There were in circulation at that time certain Homerocentones, composed of genuine verses of Homer, but taken at random and out of context and re-arranged in arbitrary manner. All particular verses were truly Homeric, but the new story, fabricated by the means of re-arrangement, was not Homeric at all. Yet, one could be easily deceived by the familiar sound of the Homeric idiom (1.9.4). It is worth noticing that Tertullian also refers to these curious centones, made of Homeric or Virgilian verses (de praescr., XXXIX). Apparently, it was a common device in the polemical literature of that time. Now, the point which St. Irenaeus endeavored to make is obvious. Scripture had its own pattern or design, its internal structure and harmony. The heretics ignore this pattern, or rather substitute their own instead. In other words, they re-arrange the Scriptural evidence on a pattern which is quite alien to the Scripture itself. Now, contended St. Irenaeus, those who had kept unbending that “canon of truth” which they had received at baptism, will have no difficulty in “restoring each expression to its appropriate place.” Then they are able to behold the true image. The actual phrase used by St. Irenaeus is peculiar: προσαρμοσας τω της αληθειας σωματιω (prosarmosas to tis alithias somatio; which is clumsily rendered in the old Latin translation as corpusculum veritatis). But the meaning of the phrase is quite clear. The somatio is not necessarily a diminutive. It simply denotes a “corporate body.” In the phrase of St. Irenaeus it denotes the corpus of truth, the right context, the original design, the “true image,” the original disposition of gems and verses². Thus, for St. Irenaeus, the reading of Scripture must be guided by the “rule” of faith — to which believers are committed (and into which they are initiated) by their baptismal profession and by which only the basic message, or “the truth,” of the Scripture can be adequately assessed and identified. The favorite phrase of St. Irenaeus was “the rule of truth,” κανων της αληθειας (kanon tis alithias), regula veritatis. Now, this “rule” was, in fact, nothing else than the witness and preaching of the Apostles, their κηρυγμα (kirigma) and praedicatio (or praeconium), which was “deposited” in the Church and entrusted to her by the Apostles and then was faithfully kept and handed down, with complete unanimity in all places, by the succession of accredited pastors: Those who, together with the succession of the episcopacy, have received the firm charisma of truth (IV. 26. 2). Whatever the direct and exact connotation of this pregnant phrase may be³, there can be no doubt that, in the mind of St.

³ It has been contended that charisma veritatis was actually simply the Apostolic doctrine and the truth (of the Divine Revelation), so that St. Irenaeus did not imply any special ministerial endowment of the bishops. See Karl Müller, Kleine Beiträge zur alten Kirchengeschichte, 3. Das Charisma veritatis und der Episcopat bei Irenaeus, in “*Zeitschrift f. neut. Irenaeus, this continuous preservation and transmission of the deposited faith was operated and guided by the abiding presence of the Holy Spirit in the Church. The whole conception of the Church in St. Irenaeus was at once “charismatic” and “institutional.” And “Tradition” was, in his understanding, a depositum juvenescens, a living tradition, entrusted to the Church as a new breath of life, just as breath was bestowed upon the first man — (quemadmodum aspiratio plasmationis III. 24. 1). Bishops or “presbyters” were in the Church accredited guardians and ministers of this once deposited truth. “Where, therefore, the charismata of the Lord have been deposited (posita sunt), there is it proper to learn the truth, namely from those who have that succession of the Church which is from the Apostles (apud quos est ea quae est ab apostolis ecclesiae successio) and who display a sound and blameless conduct and an unadulterated and incorrupt speech. For these also preserve this faith of ours in one God who created all things and they increase that love for the Son of God, who accomplished such marvellous dispensation for our sake and they expound the Scriptures to us without danger, neither blaspheming God, nor dishonoring the patriarchs, nor despising the prophets” (IV. 26. 5).

THE REGULA FIDEI

Tradition was in the Early Church, first of all, an hermeneutical principle and method. Scripture could be rightly and fully assessed and understood only in the light and in the context of the living Apostolic Tradition, which was an integral factor of Christian existence. It was so, of course, not because Tradition could add anything to what has been manifested in the Scripture, but because it provided that living context, the comprehensive perspective, in which only the true “intention” and the total “design” of the Holy Writ, itself of Divine Revelation, could be detected and grasped. The truth was, according to St. Irenaeus, a “well-grounded system,” a corpus (adv. haeres. II. 27. 1 — veritatis corpus), a “harmonious melody” (II. 38. 3). But it was precisely this “harmony” which could be grasped only by the insight of faith. Indeed, Tradition was not just a transmission of inherited doctrines, in a “Judaic manner,” but rather the continuous life in the truth¹. It was not a fixed core or complex of binding propositions, but rather an insight into the meaning and impact of the revelatory events, of the revelation of the “God who acts.” And this was determinative in the field of Biblical exegesis. G. L. Prestige has well put it: “The voice of the Bible could be plainly heard only if its text were interpreted broadly and rationally, in accordance with the apostolic creed and the evidence of the historical practice of Christendom. It was the heretics that relied on isolated texts and the Catholics who paid more attention on the whole to scriptural principles”². Summarizing her careful analysis of the use of Tradition in the Early Church, Dr. Ellen Flessemanvan-Leer has written: “Scripture without interpretation is not Scripture at all; the moment it is used and becomes alive it is always interpreted Scripture.” Now, Scripture must be interpreted “according to its own basic purpose,” which is disclosed in the regula fidei. Thus, this regula becomes, as it were, the controlling instance in the exegesis. “Real interpretation of Scripture is Church preaching, is tradition”³.

ST. ATHANASIUS AND THE “SCOPE OF FAITH”

The situation did not change in the Fourth century. The dispute with the Arians was centered again in the exegetical field — at least, in its early phase. The Arians and their supporters have produced an impressive array of Scriptural texts in the defense of their doctrinal position. They wanted to restrict theological discussion to the Biblical ground alone. Their claims had to be met precisely on this ground, first of all. And their exegetical method, the manner in which they handled the text, was much the same as that of the earlier dissenters. They were operating with selected proof-texts, without much concern for the total context of the Revelation. It was imperative for the Orthodox to appeal to the mind of the Church, to that “Faith” which had been once delivered and then faithfully kept. This was the main concern and the usual method, of St. Athanasius. The Arians quoted various passages from the Scripture to substantiate their contention that the Saviour was a creature. In reply St. Athanasius invoked the “rule of faith.” This was his usual argument. “Let us, who possess τον σκοπον της πιστεως (the scope of faith), restore the correct meaning (ορθην την διανοιαν) of what they had wrongly interpreted” (c. Arian. III. 35). St. Athanasius contended that the “correct” interpretation of particular texts was only possible in the total perspective of faith. “What they now allege from the Gospels they explain in an unsound sense, as we may discover if we take in consideration τον σκοπον της καθ ημας τους Χριστιανους πιστεως (the scope of the faith according to us Christians) and read the Scripture using it (τον σκοπον, ton skopon) as the rule— ωπερ κανονι χρησαμενοι” (III. 28) On the other hand, close attention must be given also to the immediate context and setting of every particular phrase and expression and the exact intention of the writer must be carefully identified (I. 54). Writing to Bishop Serapion, on the Holy Spirit, St. Athanasius contends again that Arians ignored or missed “the scope of the Divine Scripture” (ad Serap., II. 7; cf. ad episc. Eg., 4). The (σκοπος) skopos was, in the language of St. Athanasius, a close equivalent of what St. Irenaeus used to denote as (υποθεσις) ipotesis — the underlying “idea,” the true design, the intended meaning¹. On the other hand, the word σκοπος skopos was a habitual term in the exegetical language of certain philosophical schools, especially in Neoplatonism. Exegesis played a great role in the philosophical endeavor of that time and the question of hermeneutical principle had to be raised. Jamblichos was, for one, quite formal at this point. One had to discover the “main point,” or the basic theme, of the whole treatise under examination and to keep it all time in mind². St. Athanasius could well be acquainted with the technical use of the term. It was misleading, he contended, to quote isolated texts and passages, disregarding the total intent of the Holy Writ. It is obviously inaccurate to interpret the term (σκοπος) skopos in the idiom of St. Athanasius as “the general drift” of the Scripture. The “scope” of the faith, or of the Scripture, is precisely their credal core, which is condensed in the “rule of faith,” as it had been maintained in the Church and “transmitted from fathers to fathers,” while the Arians had “no fathers” for their opinions (de decr., 27). As Cardinal Newman has rightly observed, St. Athanasius regarded the “rule of faith” as an ultimate “principle of interpretation,” opposing the “ecclesiastical sense” (την εκκλησιαστικην διανοιαν, c. Arian. I. 44) to “private opinions” of the heretics³. Time and again, in his scrutiny of the Arian arguments, St. Athanasius would summarize the basic tenets of the Christian faith, before going into the actual re-examination of the alleged proof-texts, in order to restore texts into their proper perspective. H. E. W. Turner has described this exegetical manner of St. Athanasius:

Against the favorite Arian technique of pressing the grammatical meaning of a text without regard either to the immediate context or to the wider frame of reference in the teaching of the Bible as a whole, he urges the need to take the general drift of the Church’s Faith as a Canon of interpretation. The Arians are blind to the wide sweep of Biblical theology and therefore fail to take into sufficient account the context in which their proof-texts are set. The sense of Scripture must itself be taken as Scripture. This has been taken as a virtual abandonment of the appeal to Scripture and its replacement by an argument from Tradition. Certainly in less careful hands it might lead to the imposition of a strait-jacket upon the Bible as the dogmatism of Arian and Prächter translates skopos as Zielpunkt or Grundthema (s. 128 f.). He characterizes the method of Jamblichos as an “universalistische Exegese” (138). Proclus, in his Commentary on Timaeus, contrasts Porphyry and Jamblichos: Porphyry interpreted texts merikoteron, while Jamblichos did it epoptikoteron, that is in a comprehensive or syntretic manner: in Tim. I, pp. 204, 24 ff., quoted by Prächter, s. 136.

³ Select Treatises of St. Athanasius, freely translated by J. H. Cardinal Newman, Vol. II (Eighth impression, 1900), pp. 250-252.

Gnostic had attempted to do. But this was certainly not the intention of St. Athanasius himself. For him it represents an appeal from exegesis drunk to exegesis sober, from a myopic insistence upon the grammatical letter to the meaning of intention (σκοπος skopos, χαρακτηρ haraktir) of the Bible” (H.E.W. Turner, The Pattern of Christian Truth, London, 1954, pp. 193-194).

It seems, however, that Professor Turner exaggerated the danger. The argument was still strictly scriptural, and, in principle, St. Athanasius admitted the sufficiency of the Scripture, sacred and inspired, for the defense of truth (c. Gentes, I). Only Scripture had to be interpreted in the context of the living creedal tradition, under the guidance or control of the “rule of faith.” This “rule,” however, was in no sense an “extraneous” authority which could be “imposed” on the Holy Writ. It was the same “Apostolic preaching,” which was written down in the books of the New Testament, but it was, as it were, this preaching in epitome. St. Athanasius writes to Bishop Serapion: “Let us look at that very tradition, teaching and faith of the Catholic Church from the very beginning, which the Lord gave (εδωκεν), the Apostles preached (εκηρυξαν) and the Fathers preserved (εφυλαξαν). Upon this the Church is founded” (ad Serap., I. 28). The passage is highly characteristic of St. Athanasius. The three terms in the phrase actually coincide: (παραδοσις) paradosis (tradition) — from Christ himself, (διδασκαλια) didaskalia (teaching) — by the Apostles and (πιστις) pistis (faith) — of the Catholic Church. And this is the foundation (θεμελιον, themelion) of the Church — a sole and single foundation. Scripture itself seems to be subsumed and included in this “Tradition,” coming, as it is, from the Lord. In the concluding chapter of his first epistle to Serapion St. Athanasius returns once more to the same point. “In accordance with the Apostolic faith delivered to us by tradition from the Fathers, I have delivered the tradition, without inventing anything extraneous to it. What I learned, that have I inscribed (ενεγραξα, eneharaksa), conformably with the Holy Scriptures” (c. 33). On an occasion St. Athanasius denoted the Scripture itself as an Apostolic paradosis (ad Adelph., 6). It is characteristic that in the whole discussion with the Arians no single reference was made to any “traditions” — in plural. The only term of reference was always “Tradition,” — indeed, the Tradition, the Apostolic Tradition, comprising the total and integral content of the Apostolic “preaching,” and summarized in the “rule of faith.” The unity and solidarity of this Tradition was the main and crucial point in the whole argument.

THE PURPOSE OF EXEGESIS AND THE “RULE OF WORSHIP”

The appeal to Tradition was actually an appeal to the mind of the Church. It was assumed that the Church had the knowledge and the understanding of the truth, of the truth and the “meaning” of the Revelation. Accordingly, the Church had both the competence and the authority to proclaim the Gospel and to interpret it. This did not imply that the Church was “above” the Scripture. She stood by the Scripture, but on the other hand, was not bound by its “letter.” The ultimate purpose of exegesis and interpretation was to elicit the meaning and the intent of the Holy Writ, or rather the meaning of the Revelation, of the Heilsgeschichte. The Church had to preach Christ and not just “the Scripture.” The use of Tradition in the Ancient Church can be adequately understood only in the context of the actual use of the Scripture. The Word was kept alive in the Church. It was reflected in her life and structure. Faith and Life were organically intertwined. It would be proper to recall at this point the famous passage from the Indiculus de gratia Dei, which was mistakenly attributed to Pope Celestine and was in fact composed by St. Prosper of Aquitania: “These are the inviolable decrees of the Holy and Apostolic See by which our holy Fathers killed the baneful innovation... Let us regard the sacred prayers which, in accordance with apostolic tradition our priests offer uniformly in every Catholic Church in all the world. Let the rule of worship lay down the rule of faith.” It is true, of course, that this phrase in its immediate context was not a formulation of a general principle and its direct intention was limited to one particular point: Infant Baptism as an instance pointing to the reality of an inherited or original sin. Indeed, it was not an authoritative proclamation of a Pope, but a private opinion of an individual theologian, expressed in the context of a heated controversy¹. Yet, it was not just an accident and not a misunderstanding, that the phrase had been taken out of its immediate context and slightly changed in order to express the principle: ut legem credendi statuat lex orandi (So that the rule of worship should establish the rule of faith). “Faith” found its first expression precisely in the liturgical, sacramental, rites and formulas — and “Creeds” first emerged as an integral part of the rite of initiation. “Creedal summaries of faith, whether interrogatory or declaratory, were a by-product of the liturgy and reflected its fixity or plasticity,” says J. N. D. Kelly¹. “Liturgy,” in the wide and comprehensive sense of the word, was the first and initial layer in the Tradition of the Church and the argument from the lex orandi (Rule of worship) was persistently used in discussion already by the end of the Second century. The Worship of the Church was a solemn proclamation of her Faith. The baptismal invocation of the Name was probably the earliest Trinitarian formula, as the Eucharist was the primary witness to the mystery of Redemption, in all its fullness. The New Testament itself came to existence, as a “Scripture,” in the Worshipping Church. And Scripture was read first in the context of worship and meditation.

ST. BASIL AND “UNWRITTEN TRADITION”

Already St. Irenaeus used to refer to “faith” as it had been received at baptism. Liturgical arguments were used by Tertullian and St. Cyprian². St. Athanasius and the Cappadocians used the same argument. The full development of this argument from the liturgical tradition we find in St. Basil. In his contest with the later Arians, concerning the Holy Spirit, St. Basil built his major argument on the analysis of doxologies, as they were used in the Churches. The treatise of St. Basil, De Spiritu Sancto, was an occasional tract, written in the fire and heat of a desperate struggle and addressed to a particular historic situation. But St. Basil was concerned here with the principles and methods of theological investigation. In his treatise St. Basil was arguing a particular point — indeed, the crucial point in the sound Trinitarian doctrine — the homotimia of the Holy Ghost. His main reference was to a liturgical witness: the doxology of a definite type (“with the Spirit”), which, as he could demonstrate, has been widely used in the Churches. The phrase, of course, was not in the Scripture. It was only attested by tradition. But his opponents would not admit any authority but that of the Scripture. It is in this situation that St. Basil endeavored to prove the legitimacy of an appeal to Tradition. He wanted to show that the omotimia (ομοτιμία) of the Spirit, that is, his Divinity, was always believed in the Church and was a part of the Baptismal profession of faith. Indeed, as Père Benoit Pruche has rightly observed, the omotimos (ομοτιμος), was for St. Basil an equivalent of the omousios (ομοουσιος)³. There was little new in this concept of Tradition, except consistency and precision.

His phrasing, however, was rather peculiar. “Of the dogmata and kerygmata, which are kept in the Church, we have some from the written teaching (εκ της εγγραφου διδασκαλιας) and some we derive from the Apostolic paradosis, which had been handed down en mistirio (εν μυστηριω). And both have the same strength (την αυτην ισχυον) in the matters of piety” (de Spir. S., 66). At first glance one may get the impression that St. Basil introduces here a double authority and double standard — Scripture and Tradition. In fact he was very far from doing so. His use of terms is peculiar. Kerygmata were for him what in the later idiom was usually denoted as “dogmas” or “doctrines” — a formal and authoritative teaching and ruling in the matters of faith, the open or public teaching. On the other hand, dogmata were for him the total complex of “unwritten habits” (τα αγραφα των εθνων), or, in fact, the whole structure of liturgical and sacramental life. It must be kept in mind that the concept and the term itself, “dogma,” was not yet fixed by that time, it was not yet a term with a strict and exact connotation⁴. In any case, one should not be embarrassed by the contention of St. Basil that dogmata were delivered or handed down, by the Apostles en mistirio (εν μυστηριω). It would be a flagrant mistranslation if we render it as “in secret.”

The only accurate rendering is: “by the way of mysteries,” that is — under the form of rites and (liturgical) usages, or “habits.” In fact, it is precisely what St. Basil says himself: τα πλεῖστα τῶν μυστικῶν ἀγραφῶς ἡμῖν ἐμπολιτεύεται (Most of the mysteries are communicated to us by an unwritten way). The term ta mistika (τα μυστικά) refers here, obviously, to the rites of Baptism and Eucharist, which are, for St. Basil, of “Apostolic” origin. He quotes at this point St. Paul’s own reference to “traditions,” which the faithful have received (εἴτε διὰ λόγου εἴτε δι’ ἐπιστολῆς 2 Thess. 2:15; 1 Cor. 11:2). The doxology in question is one of these “traditions” (71; cf. also 66) — οἱ τὰ περὶ τὰς Ἐκκλησίας ἐξάρχης διαθεσμοθετήσαντες ἀποστολοὶ καὶ πατέρες, ἐν τῷ κεκρυμμένῳ καὶ ἀφθεγκτῷ τῷ σεμνῶν τοῖς μυστηρίοις ἐφυλάσσωσιν (The Apostles and Fathers who from the very beginning arranged everything in the churches, preserved the sacred character of the mysteries in silence and secrecy). Indeed, all instances quoted by St. Basil in this connection are of ritual or liturgical nature: the use of the sign of the Cross in the rite of admission of Catechumens; the orientation toward East at prayer; the habit to keep standing at worship on Sundays; the epiclesis in the Eucharistic rite; the blessing of water and oil, the renunciation of Satan and his pomp, the triple immersion, in the rite of Baptism. There are many other “unwritten mysteries of the Church,” says St. Basil: τὰ ἀγραφα τῆς ἐκκλησίας μυστήρια (c. 66 And 67). They are not mentioned in the Scripture. But they are of great authority and significance. They are indispensable for the preservation of right faith. They are effective means of witness and communication. According to St. Basil, they come from a “silent” and “private” tradition: ἀπο τῆς ἀδημοσιευτοῦ καὶ μυστικῆς παραδόσεως ἐκ τῆς ἀδημοσιευτοῦ ταυτῆς καὶ ἀπορρητοῦ διδασκαλίας (From the silent and mystical tradition, from the unpublic and ineffable teaching). This “silent” and “mystical” tradition, “which has not been made public,” is not an esoteric doctrine, reserved for some particular elite. The “elite” was the Church. In fact, “tradition” to which St. Basil appeals, is the liturgical practice of the Church. St. Basil is referring here to what is now denoted as disciplina arcani (The discipline of secrecy). In the fourth century this “discipline” was in wide use, was formally imposed and advocated in the Church. It was related to the institution of the Catechumenate and had primarily an educational and didactic purpose. On the other hand, as St. Basil says himself, certain “traditions” had to be kept “unwritten” in order to prevent profanation at the hands of the infidel. This remark obviously refers to rites and usages. It may be recalled at this point that, in the practice of the Fourth century, the Creed (and also the Dominical Prayer) were a part of this “discipline of secrecy” and could not be disclosed to the non-initiated. The Creed was reserved for the candidates for Baptism, at the last stage of their instruction, after they had been solemnly enrolled and approved. The Creed was communicated, or “traditioned,” to them by the bishop orally and they had to recite it by memory before him: the ceremony of traditio and redditio symboli (Transmission and Repetition (by the initiated) of the Creed). The Catechumens were strongly urged not to divulge the Creed to outsiders and not to commit it to writing. It had to be inscribed in their hearts. It is enough to quote there the Procatechesis of St. Cyril of Jerusalem, cap 12 and 17. In the West Rufinus and St. Augustine felt that it was improper to set the Creed down on paper. For that reason Sozomen in his History does not quote the text of the Nicene Creed, “which only the initiated and the mystagogues have the right to recite and hear” (hist. eccl. 1.20). It is against this background and in this historic context, that the argument of St. Basil must be assessed and interpreted. St. Basil stresses strongly the importance of the Baptismal profession of faith, which included a formal commitment to the belief in the Holy Trinity, Father, Son and Holy Spirit (67 and 26). It was a “tradition” which had been handed down to the neophytes “in mystery” and had to be kept “in silence.” One would be in great danger to shake “the very foundation of the Christian faith” — τὸ στῆρεῶμα τῆς Χριστοῦ πίστεως — if this “unwritten tradition” was set aside, ignored, or neglected (c. 25). The only difference between dogma (δόγμα) and kerygma (κηρυγμα) was in the manner of their transmission: dogma is kept “in silence” and kerygmata are “publicized:” τὸ μὲν γὰρ σιωπᾶται, τὰ δὲ κηρυγματα δημοσιεῖονται. But their intent is identical: they convey the same faith, if in different manners. Moreover, this particular habit was not just a tradition of the Fathers — such a tradition would not have sufficed: uk eksarkī. In fact, “the Fathers” derived their “principles” from “the intention of the Scripture” — τῷ βουληματι τῆς Γραφῆς λαβόντες (Following the intention of the Scripture, deriving their principles from the scriptural witnesses). Thus, the “unwritten

St. Basil’s appeal to “unwritten tradition” was actually an appeal to the faith of the Church, to her sensus catholicus, to the (φρονιμα εκκλησιατικον) fronima ekklesiaticon (Ecclesiastical mind). He had to break the deadlock created by the obstinate and narrow-minded pseudo-biblicism of his Arian opponents. He pleaded that, apart from this “unwritten” rule of faith, it was impossible to grasp the true intention and teaching of the Scripture itself. St. Basil was strictly scriptural in his theology: Scripture was for him the supreme criterion of doctrine (epist. 189.3). His exegesis was sober and reserved. Yet, Scripture itself was a mystery, a mystery of Divine “economy” and of human salvation. There was an inscrutable depth in the Scripture, since it was an “inspired” book, a book by the Spirit. For that reason the true exegesis must be also spiritual and prophetic. A gift of spiritual discernment was necessary for the right understanding of the Holy Word. “For the judge of the words ought to start with the same preparation as the author ... I see that in the utterances of the Spirit it is also impossible for everyone to undertake the scrutiny of His word, but only for them who have the Spirit which grants the discernment” (epist. 204). The Spirit is granted in the sacraments of the Church. Scripture must be read in the light of faith and also in the community of the faithful. For that reason Tradition, the tradition of faith as handed down through generations, was for St. Basil an indispensable guide and companion in the study and interpretation of the Holy Writ. At this point he was following in the steps of St. Irenaeus and St. Athanasius. In the similar way Tradition and especially the liturgical witness, of the Church was used by St. Augustine².

THE CHURCH AS INTERPRETER OF SCRIPTURE

The Church had the authority to interpret the Scripture, since she was the only authentic depository of Apostolic kerygma. This kerygma was unfailingly kept alive in the Church, as she was endowed with the Spirit. The Church was still teaching viva voce, commending and furthering the Word of God. And viva vox Evangelii (the living voice of the Gospel) was indeed not just a recitation of the words of the Scripture. It was a proclamation of the Word of God, as it was heard and preserved in the Church, by the ever abiding power of the reviving Spirit. Apart from the Church and her regular Ministry, “in succession” to the Apostles, there was no true proclamation of the Gospel, no sound preaching, no real understanding of the Word of God. Therefore it would be in vain to look for truth elsewhere, outside of the Church, Catholic and Apostolic. This was the common assumption of the Ancient Church, from St. Irenaeus down to Chalcedon and further. St. Irenaeus was quite formal at this point. In the Church the fullness of truth has been gathered by the Apostles: plenissime in eam contulerint omnia quae sunt veritatis (lodged in her hands most copiously are all things pertaining to truth (adv. haeres., III.4.1)). Indeed, Scripture itself was the major part of this Apostolic “deposit.” So was also the Church. Scripture and Church could not be separated, or opposed to each other. Scripture, that is — its true understanding, was only in the Church, as she was guided by the Spirit. Origen was stressing this unity between Scripture and Church persistently. The task of the interpreter was to disclose the word of the Spirit: hoc observare debemus ut non nostras, cum docemus, led Sancti Spiritus sententias proferamus (we must be careful when we teach to present not our own interpretation but that of the Holy Spirit (in Rom. 1.3.1)). And this is simply impossible apart from the Apostolic Tradition, kept in the Church. Origen insisted on catholic interpretation of Scripture, as it is offered in the Church: audiens in Ecclesia verbum Dei catholice tractari

(hearing in the Church the Word of God presented in the catholic manner (in Lev. hom., 4.5)). Heretics, in their exegesis, ignore precisely the true “intention” or the voluntas of the Scripture: qui enim neque juxta voluntatem Scripturarum neque juxta fidei veritatem profert eloquia Dei, seminat triticum et metit spinas (those who present the words of God, not in conjunction with the intention of the Scriptures, nor in conjunction with the truth of faith, have sown wheat and reaped thorns (in Jerem. hom., 7.3)). The “intention” of the Holy Writ and the “Rule of faith” are intimately correlated and correspond to each other. This was the position of the Fathers in the Fourth century and later, in full agreement with the teaching of the Ancients. With his usual sharpness and vehemence of expression, St. Jerome, this great man of Scripture, has voiced the same view:

Marcion and Basilides and other heretics ... do not possess the Gospel of God, since they have no Holy Spirit, without which the Gospel so preached becomes human. We do not think that Gospel consists of the words of Scripture but in its meaning; not on the surface but in the marrow, not in the leaves of sermons but in the root of meaning. In this case Scripture is really useful for the hearers when it is not spoken without Christ, nor is presented without the Fathers and those who are preaching do not introduce it without the Spirit ... It is a great danger to speak in the Church, for fear that by a perverse interpretation of the Gospel of Christ, a gospel of man is made (in Galat., I, 1. II; M. L. XXVI, c. 386).

There is the same preoccupation with the true understanding of the Word of God as in the days of St. Irenaeus, Tertullian and Origen. St. Jerome probably was simply paraphrasing Origen. Outside of the Church there is no “Divine Gospel,” but only human substitutes. The true meaning of Scripture, the sensus Scripturae, that is, the Divine message, can be detected only juxta fidei veritatem (in conjunction with the truth of faith), under the guidance of the rule of faith. The veritas fidei (the truth of faith) is, in this context, the Trinitarian confession of faith. It is the same approach as in St. Basil. Again, St. Jerome is speaking here primarily of the proclamation of the Word in the Church: audientibus utilis est (to those who hear the Word).

ST. AUGUSTINE AND CATHOLIC AUTHORITY

In the same sense we have to interpret the well known and justly startling, statement of St. Augustine: Ego vero Evangelio non crederem, nisi me catholicae Ecclesiae commoveret auctoritas (Indeed, I should not have believed the Gospel, if the authority of the Catholic Church had not moved me (c. epistolam Fundamenti, v.6)). The phrase must be read in its context. First of all, St. Augustine did not utter this sentence on his own behalf. He spoke of the attitude which a simple believer had to take when confronted with the heretical claim for authority. In this situation it was proper for a simple believer to appeal to the authority of the Church, from which and in which, he had received the Gospel itself: ipsi Evangelio catholicis praedicantibus credidi (I believed the Gospel itself, being instructed by catholic preachers). The Gospel and the preaching of the Catholica belong together. St. Augustine had no intention “to subordinate” the Gospel to the Church. He only wanted to emphasize that “Gospel” is actually received always in the context of Church’s catholic preaching and simply cannot be separated from the Church. Only in this context it can be assessed and properly understood. Indeed, the witness of the Scripture is ultimately “self-evident,” but only for the “faithful,” for those who have achieved a certain “spiritual” maturity, — and this is only possible within the Church. He opposed this teaching and preaching auctoritas of the Church Catholic to the pretentious vagaries of Manichean exegesis. The Gospel did not belong to the Manicheans. Catholicae Ecclesiae auctoritas (the authority of the Catholic Church) was not an independent source of faith. But it was the indispensable principle of sound interpretation. Actually, the sentence could be converted: one should not believe the Church, unless one was moved by the Gospel. The relationship is strictly reciprocal¹.

OT CANON AND TEXT IN THE GREEK-SPEAKING ORTHODOX CHURCH

Dr. Miltiadis Konstantinou¹
Aristotle University of Thessaloniki

INTRODUCTION

The place and the authority of Scripture within the whole system of Orthodox theology, as well as its role in the daily life of Orthodoxy, constitute one of the most controversial and thorny problems. However, the problem of the translation of Scripture appears to be even more difficult and complex, since the historical and cultural conditions under which the Church was formed during its first centuries and the subsequent development of the various orthodox ecclesiastical communities play a much more important role, than do the theological issues involved. Especially regarding the issue of the translation of the Old Testament, its approach requires extensive analysis of the whole spectrum of the problems that the Church faced, especially in the East, from her birth up to the present. Although the problems differed in each period (for example, confrontation with Judaism, dealing with heresies, rejection of missionaries, etc.), all of them helped shape Orthodox self-identity in general and its understanding about Scripture and its translations in particular.

Closely connected with the issue of the Old Testament text is the problem of canon, which the Church ultimately accepted. It is a well-known fact that during the period of her inception the Church did not face the problem of the Old Testament canon, since this issue had not yet emerged, at least not in the form and intensity in which it did later, nor, for that matter, as it did in the Jewish Synagogue.

CANON AMONG THE JEWS

The first data regarding a fixed Jewish canon are provided by the Jewish historian Flavius Josephus, whose writings date from the end of first century A.D. In his apologetic work Against Apion (1.37-46), Josephus mentions 22 “accredited” (πιστευμένα) books, written in the period from Moses to Artaxerxes I (465-424 B.C.). If one allows for the fact that some books were regarded as single units (e.g., 1 + 2 Samuel, 1 + 2 Kings, 1 + 2 Chronicles, Ezra + Nehemiah, Judges + Ruth, Jeremiah + Lamentations) and that the Twelve Minor Prophets which were counted as one book, one can arrive at the number of 22 – with the result that the number of the books equaled the number of letters in the Hebrew alphabet. All books written after Artaxerxes I, according to Josephus, lacked the degree of accreditation of those written earlier, since by that time the era of the prophets had passed. From Josephus’ testimony it may be inferred that towards the end of I A.D. the Jews made a clear distinction between “canonical” books and the rest, using as a criterion their alleged time of writing.

Similar information derives from the book of 4 Ezra written ca. A.D. 100². According to its author (14:19-48)³, the canon was composed by Ezra himself and contained 24 books (v. 45). Although the 24 books are not mentioned by name, it is probable that they were the books included in today's Jewish canon (based on the numbering described above provided Judges, Ruth, Jeremiah and Lamentations are counted separately in order to equal the number of the Greek alphabet). Though the attribution of the canon's formation to Ezra lacks historical foundation, the mention of a specific number of books corroborates that when 4 Ezra was written, a clearly formed canon was in existence. Despite the canon of 24 books, the author not only did not suppress the existence of other sacred books, but attributed their composition as well to Ezra. This was a collection of 70 additional books (v. 46), whose sole difference from the 24 books was that the former were not “made public” by Ezra but handed over by him to “the wise among [the] people” (v. 47).

It is characteristic of the above witnesses that, while a specific number of sacred books is mentioned and a clear distinction is made between these and the remaining works of Jewish religious literature, there is nowhere any reference to the existence of an institutional body charged with the acceptance or non-acceptance of a given book to the canon. Consequently, only hypotheses can be put forward on this question. The information contained in the Talmud that the “men of the Great Synagogue”, who are identified with Ezra and his associates, worked towards the establishment of the canon, lacks a firm historical foundation¹. On the other hand, the insistence of all Jewish sources on the attribution of the canon's formation to Ezra favors the view that it was not based on a decision taken by an institutional entity.

The absence of an institutional body with the final decision on canonicity, based on strict criteria, explains the uncertainty of Jewish authors of I A.D. regarding their assessment on the books not included in the canon. Thus, while at the end of I A.D. the canon of the Jewish Bible appears to have been formed and the canonical books were clearly distinguished from other works of Jewish religious literature, the latter were not rejected nor were they condemned as spurious. Indeed, the author of 4 Ezra endowed them with Ezra's authority, while Josephus used them as sources in his own writings and cited them verbatim (e.g., the Additions to Esther [Antiquities of the Jews XI.216-219, 273-283], 1 Maccabees [Ant. XII.237-386, 389-432 and XIII.1-57] and 1 Ezra [Ant. XI.75] and appears to accept them as “sacred”².

The rabbinical Synod of Jamnia in Palestine (A.D. 90/100) seems to have played an important role in the demarcation of the Jewish canon. The synod did not initiate the formation of a canon but, accepting it as a given, dealt with matters concerning the public reading of specific books or parts of them, their place within the canon etc. It is a fact, however, that after this synod the books which were not included in the canon were considered οὐ κείμενα (“non at hand”) that is, non existent³. Thus, the rather tolerant stance of Jewish writers towards the non-included books began to alter after I A.D. The establishment of the Christian Church and the spread of Christianity played an important role in this development. The widespread use of the Septuagint Translation among Greek-speaking Jews of the dispersion facilitated the Christian mission. This resulted in the adoption of the Septuagint (LXX) by the Church as her holy Bible, without, however, any clear notion regarding the number of the books it contained. Nevertheless, the adoption of the Septuagint by the Christians led the Jewish Synagogue, due to its antagonism towards the Church, to the rejection and, ultimately, the condemnation of the LXX, and, consequently, of the books not included in the Jewish canon. The first indication of disapproval of the LXX by Judaism comes from the Christian apologist Justin Martyr in his work *Dialogue with Trypho*⁴. Approximately during this same period (end of II A.D.) the list of the 24 canonical books with the names of their “authors” surfaced in talmudic tradition (Baba Bathra 14b-15a).

Despite the formation of the canon, the issue as a whole was far from resolved. The Talmud has preserved many disagreements among the rabbis related to the problem of public reading of certain books, such as Song of Solomon (Jaddajim III 5, Megilla 7a), Ecclesiastes (Jaddajim III 5, Sabbath 30a.b), Proverbs (Sabbath 30a.b), Ezekiel (Sabbath 13b, Chagiga 13a, Menachot 45a), Esther (Sanhedrin 100a) and Ruth (Megilla 7a). On the other hand, during the next several centuries the implicit recognition by Judaism of the books not included in the canon also continued, as is demonstrated by the Talmud, which often quotes and comments upon non-canonical books⁵.

From the above it is evident that, in Jewish literature when mention is made of the canon of sacred books it is stated explicitly that it contained only 22 or 24 books (=39). In practice, however, there is an implicit recognition of additional books as being sacred.

CANON DURING THE FIRST MILLENNIUM OF CHRISTIANITY

A similar practice to that of the Jewish Synagogue appears to have been followed by the Christian Church, although in this case the process to establish an Old Testament canon seems to have been more complex. The widespread use of the Septuagint by the New Testament authors and the obvious influence upon them of books that were not part of the Jewish canon testify to the fact that, for the earliest Christian Church, a rigidly fixed and closed Old Testament canon was not an issue. The same is true for Christian authors of the first four centuries A.D., almost all of whom make indiscriminate use of the Old Testament canon as well as of the books not included in it. Both of these groups were regarded as Scripture. From this observation it might be concluded that the ancient Church accepted a broader canon than that of the Synagogue, or that she simply did not insist on a canon. Nevertheless, the few but characteristic exceptions raise several questions.

Melito of Sardis (ca. A.D. 180) was the first to refer to an Old Testament canon in a letter to Onesimus, preserved by Eusebius in his *Church History*¹. The list Melito quotes contains the same number of books as the Jewish canon, although he substitutes Wisdom of Solomon for Esther.

In the confrontation between Judaism and Christianity, mentioned above, the polemic of the Jews against certain books created suspicions among Christian writers regarding their authenticity. Julian Africanus (III A.D.), for example, rejected Susanna², which in the Septuagint appears together with Daniel, a fact which precipitated a reaction from Origen. Origen's answer to Africanus³ is especially interesting, since it clarified for the first time the meaning of the term "apocrypha", which later came to be used for the books not accepted as belonging to the canon of Scripture. Origen used this term, as well as its synonym "secret", to label the texts not intended for public use or reading, without, however, directly questioning their authenticity or trustworthiness⁴. Nevertheless, he counseled against their use by Christians in their discussions with Jews⁵. It is thus clear that, at least up to that time, the issue of biblical canon had not yet arisen for the Church –except in the context of her dialogue with Judaism. The positions of synods and ecclesiastical writers on the subject varied with the problems which, at each occasion, emerged.

The issue of the canon of the Scripture was discussed for the first time on a synodical level at the local synod of Laodicea, ca. A.D. 360. In canons 58 and 60⁶ the synod forbade the reading in the church of the "non-canonical" books and enumerated the canonical ones. The Old Testament canon was stated to be comprised of 22 books, that is to say, the entire Jewish canon (according to current numbering), but with the inclusion of Baruch and The Letter of Jeremiah, counted with Jeremiah and Lamentations respectively.

A few years later, Athanasius in his Festal Letter of the year A.D. 367 returned to the issue of the canon of the Scriptures and also determined the number of Old Testament books to be 22⁷. The list of books compiled by Athanasius is identical to that of the Synod of Laodicea, that is to say, it includes Baruch and The Letter of Jeremiah, but excludes Esther. The number remained 22, since Judges and Ruth were counted separately. However, for the sake of "greater accuracy", as he characteristically notes, he also mentions Wisdom of Solomon, Sirach, Esther, Judith and Tobit, books which he characterized as οὐ κανονιζόμενα μὲν, τετυπωμένα δὲ παρὰ τῶν πατέρων ἀναγινώσκεσθαι τοῖς ἄρτι προσερχομένοις καὶ βουλομένοις κατηχεῖσθαι τὸν τῆς εὐσεβείας λόγον (“non-canonical, but quoted by the fathers as books which are to be read by the new-comers wishing to be trained in the piety”). From this phrase derives the word ἀναγινωσκόμενα (“those which are to be read”) for books not included in the Jewish canon. These books were clearly distinguished by Athanasius from the rest, called “apocrypha”. From that period onwards the term “apocrypha” did not only denote those books which were merely excluded from public use or reading, but also books of unknown origin and therefore without authority¹. Nevertheless, despite the limit of 22 for the Old Testament canon, Athanasius himself in his writings used almost all ἀναγινωσκόμενα without discrimination².

The Synod of Rome in A.D. 382, convened during the reign of Pope Damasus I (A.D. 366-384), moved in a completely different direction and issued the *Decretum de libris recipientis et non recipientis*³. In this text, known as the Decretum Gelasianum (due to its erroneous attribution to Pope Gelasius [ca. 492]), one finds enumerated as canonical, for the first time, books which were not included in the Jewish canon, with the exception of 1 Ezra and 3 Maccabees.

The above decision obviously had regional scope and authority, as did the pronouncement of the Synod of Laodicea in the East. Thus, Cyril of Jerusalem (A.D. 312-386), two years later (in A.D. 384), in his *Fourth Catechism*⁴, returned to the issue of the canon of Scripture, repeated the list of the Synod of Laodicea, noting nonetheless, τὰ δὲ λοιπὰ ἕξω κείσθω ἐν δευτέρῳ (“but let the rest stand outside, in second place”). From this statement “deuterocanonical” was derived, a term which became widely used in the West for the books not included in the Jewish canon. The same view was held by Gregory the Theologian (A.D. 328-390)⁵ and Amphilochius of Iconium (A.D. 342-395)⁶, both of whom cite the Athanasian list. In practice, however, these writers likewise made no distinction among sacred books they used in their writings. Also, Epiphanius of Salamis (Constantia), on Cyprus (A.D. 315-403), following the tradition of Gregory and Amphilochius, mentioned an Old Testament comprising 22 books in which Baruch and The Letter of Jeremiah were included. Of the rest he mentioned only Wisdom of Solomon and Sirach, which he declared to be “useful” and “profitable”, but not included among the canonical books⁷. Finally, even more radical was the view of Theodore of Mopsuestia (A.D. 350-428), who accepted a shorter canon than the Jewish one, excluding from it Job, Song of Solomon, Ecclesiastes, 1 and 2 Chronicles, Ezra, Nehemiah and Esther⁸.

In the West, the narrow Old Testament canon also had important supporters. Thus, Hilary of Poitiers (Piktavion) (A.D. 315-367) enumerated 22 Old Testament books, but also noted the view held by his contemporaries, that Tobit and Judith were to be added to these, to make the total equal to the 24 letters of the Greek alphabet⁹. The same preference for the narrower canon is shown by Rufinus (A.D. 315-411), who distinguished the canonical books from the rest read in the church and which he called “ecclesiastical” (...et alii libri sunt, qui non canonici sed ecclesiastici...) ¹⁰. Jerome (A.D. 345-420), appears to adopt an even more restrictive view and unequivocally labeled the books not included in the Jewish canon “apocrypha” (quidquid extra hos est, inter apocrypha esse ponendum)¹¹, but noted the ecclesiastical practice of reading the books not included among the canonical, such as Sirach, Wisdom of Solomon, Judith, Tobit and Maccabees¹². It was on Jerome’s view that later protestant tradition came to rely for naming these books “apocrypha”.

Despite the expressed preference in the East for the Jewish canon (with minor variations) and despite similar views expressed by Latin ecclesiastical writers, a preference for a broader canon began to emerge in the West. Thus, almost ten years after the Synod of Rome, which had recognized a greater number of books as canonical, a new synod was held at Hippo which, in order to counter the view based on Jerome that books not included in the Jewish canon were apocryphal, recognized them as canonical and holy (canon 36). This canon of the Synod of Hippo was ratified a few years later, in A.D. 397, by the Third Synod of Carthage (canon 47). Unfortunately, the original form of the resolutions by those synods is not known with certainty. Thus, all that can be said is that these synods accepted a broader canon than the Jewish Old Testament canon¹. Ultimately, the resolutions of the synods of Hippo and Carthage were ratified by a new synod, again held in Carthage, in A.D. 419, which issued a new list of Scriptural books (canon 24/32)². The precise extent to which this list is identical to that of previous synods cannot be determined with certainty³. Nonetheless, the resolution of this specific synod had a special significance for the history of the Scriptural canon, since in it was clearly expressed the resolve of the participants to put an end to the discussions and thus to prohibit the public reading of any book “as holy scripture”, if it was found “outside the canonical scripture” enumerated by the synod. Nevertheless, from this list no reliable conclusion concerning the number of the Old Testament books can be drawn, due to the ambiguities it contains and the discrepancies between its Greek and Latin versions⁴. Thus, the only certain conclusion that remains is that the Synod of Carthage of A.D. 419 accepted a canon broader than the Jewish Old Testament canon, but excluding Sirach and 3 Maccabees.

In the same period (V A.D.) the so-called Canons of the Holy and Venerable Apostles also decided in favour of a broader canon, not only for the Old but for the New Testament as well, including in the latter one the Epistles of Clement and the Apostolic Ordinances (canon 95).

Nevertheless, during the following centuries and despite the Synod of Carthage, the issue continued to remain open. Thus, Junilius Africanus (ca. A.D. 550) agreed with the view of Theodore of Mopsuestia concerning a canon narrower than the Jewish canon⁵. Half a century later, Pope Gregory the Great (A.D. 590-604) returned to the issue by dividing Old Testament books to “canonical” and “libros non canonicos sed tamen ad aedificationem Ecclesiae editos”⁶.

The Trullan Synod of Constantinople in A.D. 691 (i.e. the continuation of the Fifth [553] and Sixth [680] Ecumenical Councils) finally brought to an end the discussion regarding the canon of Scripture, without, however, coming to a clear decision on the canon of the Old Testament. Specifically, the synod in its second canon endorsed the so-called Apostolic Canons, the canons of the synods of Laodicea and Carthage, as well as the canons of Athanasius, Gregory the Theologian and Amphilochius of Iconium, but without discussing the differences among them and without enumerating the books of the Old Testament. This means that the Synod effectively erased the canon of the Old Testament as an issue, seeing that it endorsed all extant traditions, without any effort at harmonization.

Nevertheless, the ancient, eastern preference for a narrower canon continued after the Trullan Ecumenical Synod. John Damascenus (A.D. 680-755) devoted a chapter of his work Accurate Restatement of the Orthodox Faith to the issue of Scripture, where he enumerated the Old Testament books, linking their system to the letters of Hebrew alphabet⁷.

From the above historical overview it is clear that, during the first millennium of Christianity, the Old Testament canon was never an internal problem for the Church. Rather, the Church admitted the ⁴ In particular, the synod clearly recognised as canonical, books not included in the Jewish canon, such as 1 Ezra, Tobit and Judith. It is rather possible that the synod recognised, although it does not name them, Baruch and The Letter of Jeremiah, something which results from the fact that it does not name the book Lamentations, but it mentions the general title, “Jeremiah”. Finally, there is also an uncertainty concerning the books 1 & 2 Maccabees, which are included in the Latin version of the resolution text, but are omitted in the Greek one. See further: P. entire spiritual treasure of pre-Christian Judaism and interpreted it christologically. The issue of the canon surfaced only in the context of the Church's confrontation either with Judaism, early on, or with heterodoxy, later. The relevant resolutions were shaped by prevailing conditions in any given region at any one time, as well as by specific problems that needed to be solved. Thus, while the Church, internally, did not face any problem regarding the canon of Scripture, in her external expression she was no doubt induced to limit the number of books, either for the purpose of her dialogue with Judaism or to avert the propagation of heretical teachings, based on unknown works or those of dubious and spurious origin. This is proven by the fact that even those who favored the narrow Jewish canon, in their writings, addressed to the flock of the Church, made use of all the Jewish scriptures, regardless of whether or not they belonged to the canon which they themselves upheld. The fact that many of the festivals instituted by the Church were based on events described in works that were never accepted, even in the broader canon, leads to the same conclusion. The same applies to the hymnography and iconography of the Church, often inspired by and drawing on books that were not part of the canon. On the other hand, the fact that the East was the region where most of the theological discussions took place and most of the heresies appeared, explains the preference for a narrower canon, something that can be observed in the writers of the region.

THE GREAT SCHISM AND ITS AFTERMATH

The great schism between the eastern and western Church and the tragic events for the East which followed (e.g., the crusades and Turkish domination) left no room for discussions about a canon of the books of the Old Testament. Moreover, a millennium of Christianity was long enough for the consolidation of local traditions. The issue of the Old Testament canon was raised again in the West during the 16th century, because of the Protestant Reformation. A century later it re-appeared in the East, but under completely different circumstances from those of the past.

In the West, the zeal of the reformers for a return to the authentic sources of faith led the Protestant Churches to recognize the Hebrew Old Testament text as the only authoritative one and, therefore, to adopt the narrow Jewish canon. The books not included in this canon but recognized by the Western Church were labelled "apocrypha" and the rest "pseudepigrapha". In spite of this development and notwithstanding the deprecatory label "apocrypha", Lutheran tradition did not altogether proscribe the reading of these books, which to date are often included in editions of the Bible as addenda. At the opposite end of the scale, other protestant traditions, such as the Calvinists and the Puritans of Scotland, took a more rigid stance, something which led to the famous "apocrypha controversy" within the British Bible Society, resulting in the adoption, for a period of time, of the narrow Jewish canon by the Society.

The attitude of Protestantism occasioned the definitive solution of the problem of canon in the Roman Catholic Church. The Council of Trent (1545-1563) in its decree Sacrosancta of 1546 essentially endorsed the ancient Roman tradition by officially recognizing the broad Old Testament canon (with the exception of 1 Ezra and 3 Maccabees). The books included in the Jewish canon were labelled "canonical" and the rest was designated "deuterocanonical", having equal authority with the former. The First Vatican Synod (1869-1870) ratified this decision, thereby definitively concluding this issue for the Roman Catholic Church.

In the Orthodox Church the matter of Old Testament canon was raised again, not as an internal problem, but as a reflection of the related discussions that were going on in the West. By the end of the sixteenth century, many Orthodox were going to the West to study theology. Western theology, however, at that time, was being shaped to a large degree by the confrontations between Protestants and Catholics¹ and many Orthodox theologians were influenced by that climate. Thus, one may observe the phenomenon of Orthodox theologians turning against Roman Catholicism using arguments that reveal protestant influence, or vice versa: they turned against Protestantism using doctrinal positions colored by [Roman] Catholicism. As representatives of this practice, Metrophanes Critopoulos, patriarch of

Alexandria, Cyril Lucar, patriarch of Constantinople and Dositheus, patriarch of Jerusalem may be mentioned.

Around the end of the sixteenth century the patriarch of Alexandria, Meletius Pigas, sent to Poland the eminent theologian and clergyman Cyril Lucar of Crete, in response to the demand of orthodox folk there, to assist them in their struggle against the activities of Jesuits, an event which led to the formation of the first Uniatic Church (Synod of Brest 1596)¹. In this struggle Cyril Lucar requested support from Protestant communities in Poland. Later on, Lucar, as patriarch of Alexandria (1602-1622), sent Metrophanes Critopoulos (who later succeeded him as patriarch) to England, Germany and Switzerland, mainly to study Protestant theology and church policy. Protestant influence on the theology of Metrophanes Critopoulos is apparent in his *Confession of Faith*², which he compiled in 1625 and by which he tried to enlighten Protestants about the content of Orthodox faith and, especially, to ally with them against Roman Catholics. On the issue of the Old Testament canon, Metrophanes put forward a view based on the resolution of the Synod of Laodicea and on the related views of Gregory the Theologian, Amphilocheus of Iconium and John Damascenus, namely, that the books not included in the narrow canon had never been regarded by the Church of Christ as canonical and authoritative. As a result, the Orthodox did not seek support for their doctrines in them. In spite of this, he did not consider these books as subject to refutation, since their content has a notable benefit for the soul.

Four years later, in 1629, Cyril Lucar, as patriarch of Constantinople, proclaimed in Geneva his own Confession of Faith, characterized by vehemence against Roman Catholics. In this confession the patriarch adopted clearly Calvinistic positions, a matter which caused alarm among the Orthodox. Concerning the issue of the canon, Cyril based his case on the resolution of the Synod of Laodicea and adopted the narrow canon.

In reaction to Lucar, a series of local synods against Protestantism were held³. One of these, the Synod of Constantinople of 1642, put forward, on the issue canon, a view based on the resolutions of the synods of Laodicea and Carthage. Thus, although it viewed the books not included in the Jewish canon as “non canonical”, it added that they should not be treated as being subject to refutation.

In addition to synodical resolutions, Lucar’s work gave rise to new Confessions of Faith, such as those of Peter Mogila, bishop of Kiev (1638/42) and Dositheus, patriarch of Jerusalem (1672). Especially in the latter, Roman Catholic influence is clearly in evidence, as the patriarch defended the doctrine of transubstantiation, the teaching concerning the satisfaction of divine justice and to some degree the use of indulgences. Moreover, he forbade the reading of the Scriptures by non-professionals⁴. On the issue of the Old Testament canon Dositheus adopted a most extreme view in favour of the broader canon. He maintained that all books had been recognized by the tradition of the Church as authoritative components of the Scriptures. Consequently, the rejection of some was bound to have an adverse effect on the others. He therefore concluded that all the Old Testament books were to be recognized as canonical and as Holy Scripture.

Although the above-mentioned view ultimately prevailed in Orthodox circles, contrary opinions did not cease to be heard. An example is the tendency –albeit of limited scope– to underestimate the authority of the books not included in the Jewish canon. This trend appeared in Russian theology of the eighteenth century, apparently as an influence from Protestantism. Be that as it may, the views which were formulated in that period, even the synodical resolutions, were fuelled by the confrontation of Catholicism with Protestantism. They therefore cannot claim to be binding solutions of the problem for the Orthodox Church.

THE PAN-ORTHODOX CONFERENCE OF 1961 AND BEYOND

The issue of the canon of Scripture for the Orthodox Church was raised most recently as a result of her involvement in the modern Ecumenical Movement. The Pan-Orthodox Conference, held in Rhodes in 1961 –in order to pave the way for the so-called “Great Synod” of Orthodoxy– included the issue of canon in its agenda for the forthcoming synod. However, the relevant discussion that ensued did not yield concrete results, because of a flawed methodology for reaching a solution. Consequently, the issue was in the end erased from the agenda of the Great Synod. Erroneously the proposed solution focused exclusively on the tradition of the first Christian millennium, without taking into consideration the fact that, in more recent times, the problem was based on altogether different presuppositions and mainly due to failing to take into account the situation which came into being during the last two centuries, which was irreversible.

As is apparent from the above historical overview of the second Christian millennium, the new presuppositions on which the issue of canon was being raised anew had been set by the confrontation of Protestantism with Catholicism, which changed radically the understanding of the first millennium about the relationship between Scripture and ecclesiastical tradition. In particular, the Council of Trent, reacting to the challenge of the Reformation, formulated a doctrine about two sources of Christian faith, namely, Scripture and Tradition. This clear juxtaposition of Bible and Tradition now occurred for the first time in history and was to influence theology as a whole, including Orthodox theology, not to mention hermeneutics, which was soon to develop into an independent science. Subsequently, Protestant orthodoxy of the seventeenth century would absolutize Holy Scripture to such a degree, that it became an unshakeable and objective criterion for Christian truth.

Within this new context Holy Scripture was no longer understood as a part of a broader tradition, within which a canon of its books would have been essentially meaningless, since the works which were excluded from the so-called canon had never ceased being part of the same reliable and sacred tradition within which the books of Holy Scripture originated. On the contrary when the ancient writers of the Church called upon the testimony of tradition, they were not referring to some objectively reliable source, but to the living witness of the people of God, with which they felt themselves to be on a continuum. The formula “in accordance with the Scriptures” was understood to be referring to a collection of data, received and transmitted. Nevertheless, this collection could have no authority apart from the realm of their reception and transmission, that is, the Church¹. The words of apostle Paul to the Corinthians are very telling in this regard: “For I delivered to you as of first importance what I also received, that Christ died for our sins in accordance with the Scriptures” (1 Cor. 15:3)². But if Scripture is made distinct from the tradition of the Church –even if “tradition” be considered co-authoritative with Scripture (as in Catholicism and Orthodoxy)– it nevertheless becomes an autonomous and objective source of faith. And at that point “Roman Catholic” and “Orthodox” do not differ from “Protestant”. Scripture as a source, however, has meaning only when it is specific and, consequently, the issue of canon becomes today an essential one. Of course, the Orthodox Church, could at least claim that she perpetuates the ancient tradition, but in that case she would have to review the tradition of the past four centuries, whatever this might entail for modern theological production, programs of study in theological schools, relations of Orthodoxy with other Churches etc.

OLD TESTAMENT TEXT IN EARLY CHRISTIANITY

This extensive survey of the matter of the canon of the Old Testament was indispensable not only for an understanding of Scripture's position in contemporary Orthodoxy, but also because, frequently, there is a confusion in Orthodox bibliography between the Septuagint text and the books which are contained in the specific collection under the title of “Septuagint Translation”. Specifically, the fact that the Eastern Church since New Testament times has used as “Old Testament” a text basically that of the Septuagint has led to the conclusion that she has also accepted as her canon the books contained in this corpus. This conclusion in turn has led, in relation to the new understanding of Scripture as source of faith, to the absolutizing of the Septuagint as the sole authority for the text of the Orthodox Old Testament.

The above conclusion, however, is proven to be inaccurate for three main reasons. 1. As has been stressed above, the issue of canon was never faced by the Eastern Church, as an internal problem and therefore could not have obliged her to be tied to a specific textual tradition. 2. Even the church writers who raised the issue of the canon of the Old Testament and opted for the narrow Jewish canon, also made use of the Septuagint as text without being bound thereby to accept all the books of this corpus. 3. The canon of 49 books said to be valid for the Orthodox Church, contained fewer books than the Septuagint. Indeed one book of this corpus, Daniel, does not come from the Septuagint, but from the translation of Theodotion. This last observation alone would have been sufficient to prove that the Church never tied herself slavishly to a specific textual tradition, but freely and with a critical spirit, chose the text which could best serve her needs.

Therefore, the reasons that led the Church to the adoption of the Septuagint text were not theological but practical. As practical reasons, one might mention, on the one hand, the ignorance of Hebrew and, on the other, the suspicion towards the Jews of possible falsification of the Hebrew text. Furthermore, at the time in question, Greek was, for the East, the lingua franca and the interest of most Christian writers was not scientific but pastoral. Therefore in their writings they could refer to and comment upon a text that was understood by all.

Nonetheless, the writers of the Church were fully conscious of the fact that, by quoting the Septuagint text, they were offering a translated text with all the shortcomings that this might involve—something they never tried to disguise. Indicative for our present argument are the views of Gregory of Nyssa, who, in order to counter the alleged intelligibility of the Old Testament, stressed that difficulties in understanding the Old Testament text were due to deficient renderings of Hebrew syntax into Greek. He pointed out that the problem would have been solved, if those who leveled the charges had had sufficient knowledge of Hebrew¹. John Chrysostom was on the same wavelength as Gregory, maintaining that the reason for difficulty in understanding the Old Testament lay in problems of semantic transfer, from the source text into another language². Much later as well, during the 9th century Patriarch Photius returned to the subject in question and enumerated ten shortcomings of the translation vis-à-vis the original text³.

The above examples demonstrate that the Church not only did not reject the original Hebrew Old Testament text, but that the Church writers in fact frequently referred to it when trying to find solutions to hermeneutic problems or to elucidate ambiguities in the Septuagint. The extant tables for transcribing the Hebrew alphabet into Greek, dated from the fourth to the tenth century, lead to the same conclusion. It is noteworthy that in these tables the recording of the alphabet is done by the teaching method of the time, namely, memorization—a fact which testifies to the interest by church officials in the teaching and learning of Hebrew. The study of Professor Elias Oikonomos on this topic, *The Hebrew Language and the Greek Fathers*⁴, from which these examples have been taken, is especially illuminating.

To the illustrations noted by Oikonomos might be added, as an example, that of Procopius of Gaza (A.D. 465-527)⁵, since it is typical. Procopius when translating Isa 9:6 (“and his name will be called ‘Wonderful Counsellor, Mighty God, Everlasting Father, Prince of Peace’”), quotes the various translations of the passage from the ancient translators Symmachus, Aquila and Theodotion. It is interesting that Procopius not only cited the various translations of the passage but also attempted to interpret them. Thus, he attributed the omission of the name of God by the three latter translators to psychological reasons: “they were awed to place the name of God to a born child”. He went even farther and, in order to defend the Septuagint, went back to the original Hebrew text. After having presented several passages where the Hebrew word אֱל is rendered by “God” he reached the conclusion that the Septuagint translators were correct in translating אֱל נְבוֹר as “Mighty God”¹. The same practice was followed by Procopius in all his work.

The above items, besides the demonstrative character of their presentation, suffice to support the view that the Church during her first millennium, did not tie herself to a specific textual tradition of the Old Testament, nor did she ever reject the original Hebrew text. It was for purely practical reasons that she used the Septuagint text.

The question of Old Testament text was raised in the East, after the seventeenth century, at the same time and under the same circumstances as the issue of the canon was raised. The reverberations of the confrontation between Roman Catholics and Protestants created for the East a climate of tension among the supporters of both texts, Hebrew and Septuagint. It is obvious that, in a similar climate of confrontation, a preference for the one or the other text form was based on purely subjective criteria. There is no need to refer extensively to the views of Adamandios Korais in favour of the introduction of Hebrew to the schools of the nation, nor to his proposal in 1808 to the British and Foreign Bible Society for a translation of the Hebrew Old Testament into Greek, since prior to the establishment of the new Greek state, all speculation occurred –despite the intensity of confrontations– on a purely theoretical level. Indeed, at that time the main proponent of the views of Korais was Constantine Oikonomos, who later became a strong opponent of the translation of the Old Testament.

STATE CHURCH AND SCRIPTURE

With the establishment of the new Greek state the issue of Scripture was placed on an entirely new footing for Greek Orthodoxy. Therefore, in order to understand the issue, what is needed is a careful analysis of the era and especially of the place of the Orthodox Church within the new Greek state². The establishment of the new Greek state was founded upon the principles of the Enlightenment, which stressed the importance of law as the foundation of an ideal state, without, however, placing a similar emphasis on other principles, such as those of justice, equality and freedom. In this phase the Church, which, due to her struggles during the war of independence, enjoyed the confidence of the people, was used by the central government as an instrument of instruction for the people. Consequently, the people obeyed the law and the authorities. The Church, which knew from her tradition that all power derives from God, adapted herself easily to this role. Thereby being Orthodox became a feature of Greek identity. Whoever was not Orthodox could not be a true Greek.

This situation was intensified by the arrival in Greece of its first king, Otto von Wittelsbach of Bavaria. Otto was crowned as “king of Greece by the grace of God”. The Church now became “The Church of Greece”, separated from the Ecumenical Patriarchate and her Holy Synod became “the highest ecclesiastical authority of the state”, under obligation to legitimate the authority of the king. Theocratic interpretation of history became the basis for understanding social reality. This situation hardly changed under the next king, George I when the form of the regime changed to become a democracy governed by a king. George derived his authority from the nation. However, the nation was now described in terms borrowed from the Old Testament as “the chosen people of God” and “holy nation”. Greeks were the people of God, who spoke in their language and had invested them with a special mission, to preserve Orthodoxy “undefiled” and to spread it to other peoples, so that they might also be saved. George I was no longer the “king of Greece” but the “king of the Greeks”, who were now to be understood as the holy nation of God. In this way the Church was identified with the nation and with national aspirations³.

In the support of the Church’s role in Greek society, an important part was played, already from the time of Turkish occupation, by the so-called missionary movement. The first Protestant missionaries came to Greece during 1810. Initially, they were favorably received. Indeed, ecumenical patriarchs, such as Cyril VI (1814) and Gregory V (1819), displayed a positive attitude to their work and, especially, toward their efforts to distribute the Scriptures. Unfortunately, these evangelical missionaries had a completely erroneous understanding of the Eastern Churches. They considered the Orthodox Church as a Church long dead, of which nothing remained except her ritual, reminiscent of idolatry more than of Christian worship. Thus, they turned their missionary activity not towards Muslims or “the infidel”, but towards Orthodox Christians. The first Old Testament translation from Hebrew into Modern Greek was proclaimed in 1834. The widespread distribution of this translation by Protestants forced the Orthodox Church to be on the defensive, with especially negative consequences for the spread of Scripture in Greece. As a result, the divine inspiration of the Septuagint was now stressed and one of the tasks of the Holy Synod became the preservation of the New Testament text in the language “which God spoke”. The anxious effort of Constantine Oikonomos to prove, in a voluminous work¹, the divine inspiration of the Septuagint is a typical example. Despite its failure² this effort constituted, by its massive undertaking, a monument to the climate that prevailed. The Church became the self-declared protector of national traditions, including those of ancient Greece; and due to the identification of the nation with the Church, as stated above, every action turned against the Church was now considered anti-national. It is noteworthy that from 1911 onwards every constitution of Greece proscribed the translation of Scripture and proselytism. Protestants reacted to this situation with aggressive proselytizing towards the Orthodox Church, something that was in any case part of their tradition and their missionary understanding. This resulted in such a climate of suspicion that every activity of Protestants, even today, is regarded by the Orthodox as proselytizing.

Perhaps the best proof of the political nature of the confrontation regarding the translation of Scripture may be seen in the incidents that took place in Athens in November of 1901, well known as “Evangelikiaka”. The whole matter began with the desire by Queen Olga, who was of Russian descent, to boost the religious sentiment of the people by encouraging the translation of the New Testament into Modern Greek, a task which was begun in 1898 and completed within a year by her secretary Ioulia Soumaki, under the supervision of her uncle, Professor Pandazidis. Interest in the case is centered on the fact that the metropolitan of Athens, Procopius, although aware of the project since its inception, failed to raise any objection with the queen. When, however, she asked for the approval of the Holy Synod for her translation, things changed radically. Newspapers presented the matter as a devilish plan by the Slavs, aimed at creating strife among the people and religious feuds that would help win over Macedonian Greeks by the Bulgarian Exarchate³. After this fury, the Holy Synod in March 1899 denied the request of the queen for approval. When she asked for arbitration by the Ecumenical Patriarchate, she again received a negative answer.

Tempers became frayed and the situation obtained out of control when later on the newspaper Acropolis began to proclaim excerpts from another translation, done by Alexandros Pallis in hyper-demotic Greek. Once again, the reaction involved no theological argumentation. In a resolution of students there appeared the phrase “ridicule of the most precious national treasures”; and professors of theology proclaimed a memorandum demanding that the publication be stopped. Opposition newspapers, such as Scrip, Kairoi and Embros expressed similar sentiments and by the beginning of October 1901 they accused the supporters of Demotic of being godless, traitors, tools of the Slavs and recipients of bribes in “Russian rubbles”. During the demonstrations and the unrest which followed on November 5, 6 and, especially, 8 of the year 1901, the argumentation was again purely political. The chief demand—in addition, of course, to the excommunication of the translators—was the resignation of government of Prime Minister Theotokis, with the common slogans of “Down with the Slav woman” and “Long live the heir”. The result of the unrest was 11 dead (3 students and 8 civilians) and nearly 80 wounded. After the incidents the chief slogan again was “Down with the government of murderers”⁴. It is noteworthy that the target in the entire affair was not the translation itself but the queen. This is evidenced by the fact that, although the translation of Queen Olga had been withdrawn and Pallis' translation had become the reason for the incidents, nevertheless, the ire of the demonstrators was turned exclusively against the queen¹.

The encyclical of the Holy Synod, however, in which the translations of the Gospel were deplored, is especially interesting. Here too, the absence of theological argumentation is noteworthy. The encyclical begins² by declaring that from the time when the Gospel was written until the middle of the 17th century no one had ever thought to translate it. The document then refers to the translation of 1629, regarded as the work of a Dutch Calvinist priest and to its failure. The Holy Synod boasted that the Greek Church was the only Church which was privileged to be in possession of the original text. It viewed the newer translations as being in a language "terribly vulgar, which shamefully and scandalously defaces the modest beauty of the divinely inspired original text". The sole theological reason cited against translating the Gospel was the danger of perverting the original meaning, which had been developed and formulated into dogmas by the ecumenical synods. For the understanding of the Gospel the study of the interpretations of the Fathers was recommended. Nevertheless, the practical but very real problem of how to gain access to the works of the Fathers and how to understand them does not appear to have preoccupied the Holy Synod, nor was it demonstrated just how a Gospel translation might pervert the doctrines formulated by ecumenical synods. The encyclical continued by referring to the practice of the Church, up to that time, of not translating Scripture, even during the period of Turkish domination when linguistic barriers created particular difficulties for the understanding of the original. The main argument of the Synod was that now "that our national language is advanced and slowly but surely and happily is on the course of recapturing its ancient acme and magnificence..." there was no need for a translation. Thus, the encyclical concluded with disapproval and condemnation of every translation. This encyclical, although making no reference to the translation of the Old Testament, has nonetheless great importance for the issue examined here, since it verifies most strikingly the notion of Church's hierarchy of that time as being defenders of national tradition and of the Greek language.

CONCLUSION

From the whole examination of the matter one may draw the conclusion that the options and practices of the recent past cannot offer a model for solving the problem of the position of the original Old Testament text in the Orthodox Church. But neither should the practice of the ancient Church be used as a basis for the solution of the problem since, as it has been underscored repeatedly, the understanding concerning Scripture in more recent times differs radically from that of the first Christian millennium. A mere survey of contemporary orthodox writings validates the above thesis. When reference is made to the ecumenical and free spirit of Orthodoxy, the translation work of Cyril and Methodius is praised at the same time as the West is being condemned because of its doctrine concerning sacred languages. On the other hand when modern Scripture translations are mentioned, the role of the Church in the preservation of the Greek language, the importance of the text of the Septuagint and the role of missionaries are emphasized.

It is obvious, therefore, that today there is a need for a completely new and sober handling of the problem with purely scientific criteria, but also with a sense of responsibility. Such an approach cannot disregard the literary, religious and theological value of the Septuagint. Its literary value has to do with the fact that it preserves a text, based on a Hebrew parent text that is more ancient by many centuries than the Masoretic text, the latter beginning to be systematized after V A.D. and completed as late as the 14th century. This fact offers an important comparative advantage to the Septuagint, the testimony of which may be valuable as much for the critical restoration of the Masoretic text as for the clarification of its difficult passages. The religious significance of the Septuagint, however, should not be overlooked either, provided it is taken to be the Holy Bible of the Church rather than a literary production of antiquity. From this point of view it is indisputable that the Septuagint constituted the Bible of the undivided Church, the text on which the apostles and the church fathers depended, in order to present their theology, the text which facilitated beyond any other the spread of Christianity in the Graeco-Roman world, the text which assumed the role of the original for a multitude of other ecclesiastical translations and became the source of inspiration for the hymnography and iconography of the Church. But also as a witness of a particular hermeneutic approach, which was dominant at the time of Christianity's emergence, the Septuagint has a special importance, from a theological point of view, for the understanding of the New Testament.

All the above combine in making the Septuagint text precious for the theological research and the religious consciousness of the Orthodox Christians, without in any way justifying a theological or literary underestimation of the original Hebrew. Moreover, in addition to the value the Septuagint may have, the possibility of an important divergence of its text from the original due to likely copying errors or translation tendencies, should not be, at any event, overlooked.

Therefore, to the extent that, as has been argued above, nothing today compels the Orthodox Church to favor a text of a particular form, she must recognize as her own heritage both texts, the Hebrew and the Septuagint, encouraging their study and research. From this point of view, the decision of the Greek Bible Society to proceed with the translation of the Masoretic text of the Old Testament into Modern Greek, without excluding from publication the books not included in the Jewish canon and at the same time to plan for the first time in history the publication of a translation from the Septuagint text, is absolutely correct and praiseworthy.

ABOUT THE EOB TRANSLATION OF THE NEW TESTAMENT

The version of the New Testament included in this edition of the EOB (Eastern Orthodox Bible or Holy Bible of the Eastern Orthodox Church) is based in part on the Word English Bible with extensive corrections and adaptations to ensure accuracy and harmony with Orthodox terminology.

The WEB is an accurate, easy-to-read and well-respected public-domain translation which does not suffer from the constraints and occasional biases of other translations such as NIV (New International Version). It is primarily an update of the 1901 edition of the ASV (American Standard Version) using the Biblia Hebraica Stuttgartensia, also called The Stuttgart Bible, in the Old Testament¹ and the Byzantine Majority Text (M-Text). This choice of Greek text is very close to what the KJV translators used, but does take advantage of some more recently discovered manuscripts. Although there are good scholarly arguments both for and against using the Byzantine Majority Text over the “Alexandrian” text based on the dating and critical editing work of Nestle and Aland and proclaimed by the United Bible Societies (UBS), many Orthodox hierarchs and theologians find the following to be compelling reasons:

- The UBS text has several “dropout” errors relative to the M-Text. Diligent scribes with a respect for God’s Word are more likely to miss copying something (i.e. by skipping a line, etc.) than to make up a line to add in.
- Different scribes copying the same passage are not likely to make the same mistakes at the same places, even though some mistakes are likely to be copied over many times.
- When a scribe had a choice of manuscripts to copy, he would normally copy the one that he trusted the most, thus causing the most trusted text to be copied more often.
- The UBS text relies heavily on the dating of the media upon which the text was written, but those texts that are used more and trusted more would both be copied more often and worn out from use sooner.
- The UBS text is heavily weighted to a small number of manuscripts relative to those available to us and relies heavily on one manuscript that was pulled from a trash can at a monastery.
- The Holy Spirit takes an active interest in preserving what He has inspired and in what the Church has used for her liturgical life.

This last point is especially important for Orthodox readers since the Byzantine Majority Text, as its name indicates, is based on manuscripts used in the Greek Orthodox liturgical tradition.

During the process of verifying and sometimes correcting or adjusting the WEB text for the EOB revision, recent studies have been taken into consideration, notably Jason DeBuhn’s “Accuracy in Translation”.

In particular, the reader should be aware of the following adjustments:

CHURCH OFFICES

The Greek words διάκονος (diaconos), πρεσβύτερος (presbyteros) and ἐπίσκοπος (episkopos), are translated “deacon” (instead of “servant”), “presbyter” (instead of “elder”) and “(overseer) bishop” (instead of just “overseer”). The modern English word “priest” is derived from “presbyter” but in a confused manner: it actually conveys the idea of “one who offer a sacrifice”, which is in Greek ιερεὺς. The Greek Orthodox tradition has properly retained the distinction between πρεσβύτερος and ιερεὺς: the latter is applied to the Christian minister of the altar in his function as offerer on behalf of the priestly people, which is why the Christian “priest” (ἱερεὺς) was originally the bishop. It is only with the development of the presbyter-led parish that the term “priest” (ἱερεὺς) came to be applied to the presbyter.

In the New Testament, presbyter and overseer are interchangeable and synonymous. For more information on the meaning of these terms and the biblical-apostolic origins of the so-called Monarchic episcopate, please refer to Appendix A.

TEMPLE AND SANCTUARY

Like many other translations, the NAS and WEB did not properly distinguish between ἱερῶ (hieron) and ναὸς (naos) and rendered both as “temple”. In the context of Jewish Temple worship which finds its fulfillment in the Divine Liturgy of the Orthodox Churches, this difference is quite significant. Temple (ἱερῶ) refers to the overall structure, whereas (ναὸς) (“place of divine dwelling”) refers to the sanctuary, either the Holy or Holy of Holies.

WORSHIP AND PROSTRATE

In modern English, “worship” (like prayer) taken on the meaning of an act (invocation, prostration) offered exclusively to God. Yet, the original semantic range of this word used to be much wider, as was the case of the Greek word προσκυνῆω (proskuneo) which can be applied to God as well as to men¹. The idea conveyed by proskuneo is that of “offering obeisance”, “making a physical demonstration of veneration and respect” or “prostrating oneself”.

Some translators have decided to translate proskuneo consistently as “worship”, while others do not use “worship” in contexts where proskuneo is properly offered to a creature². Hence, there are instances when proskuneo is reserved for God as commanded in Exodus 20:5 (LXX) and others when proskuneo can be properly offered to creatures as derivative icons of God³. In the development of the Eastern Orthodox dogmatic framework and at the time of the iconoclastic controversy, St. John of Damascus and the Seventh Ecumenical Council specifically defined proskuneo as “derivative worship” or “veneration”. The Council declared such acts of reverence to be proper if the intention is to ultimately honor the “the true God and Father” by honoring His icons, primarily the Son who is the perfect icon, “True God of True God” and who shares the uncreated nature of the Father⁴, but also created icons, such as rulers and saints⁵. For clarity’s sake, the Council also declared that highest form of worship would be associated with the unambiguous word latreia, a semantic adjustment which comparable with the one that took place with the word *episkopos*⁶.

With this in mind, the EOB translates προσκυνῆω (proskuneo) as “prostrate before” in most cases or as “worship” if context so demands. Footnotes are provided for clarification.

INFORMAL ENGLISH

The WEB is notable for using informal verbal forms such as “is not” and “wasn’t”. More proper English forms have been restored for this edition.

OTHER CORRECTIONS

A significant number of non-systematic corrections have also been made to produce this translation. Readers are invited to contact the Editor to suggest further adjustments that would improve this translation and harmonize the text with well-established Orthodox liturgical practice or terminology.

ADDITIONAL NOTES

1) The book of Ezra was formerly entitled 1 Esdras in Roman Catholic Bibles. 1 Esdras in this table is not Ezra. It is a variant account of material from 2 Chronicles, Ezra and Nehemiah, canonical for the Orthodox but not for Roman Catholics or Protestants.

2) There appears to be considerable confusion about 2 Esdras, with many authorities identifying it as a part of the Septuagint Plus, works that are in the Septuagint but not in the Hebrew Old Testament. However, the Septuagint book of 2 Esdras is quite plainly in the Hebrew canon, being comprised of Ezra and Nehemiah. The Apocryphal book of 2 Esdras, so titled in the King James Version Apocrypha and in the Apocryphal/ Deuterocanonical sections of the Revised Standard Version and the New Revised Standard Version, does not appear in the Septuagint at all. This other

2 Esdras (3 Esdras in the Slavonic Bible and 4 Esdras in an appendix to the Vulgate) is an apocalyptic work. It is not included in the EOB.

3) 4 Maccabees is included as an appendix in Bibles of the Orthodox Church.

4) Psalm 151 is included in the Orthodox Bible and in the appendix of some Roman Catholic versions.

5) The book of Odes contains the Prayer of Manasseh, which included in the Orthodox Bible and used liturgically and in the appendix of some Roman Catholic versions.

6) The Septuagint books of Esther and Daniel contain several sections not present in the Masoretic Hebrew text. In Daniel, these are entitled Susanna, the Prayer of Azarias and the Song of the Three Children and Bel and the Dragon. Apparently, the Greek text of Daniel that appears in Septuagint manuscripts is actually Theodotion's translation. According to Swete (Introduction to the Old Testament in Greek, page 47, footnote 1) only one copy of the original Septuagint version of Daniel is extant -- in "the Chigi M.S., known as Cod. 87."

INTRODUCTION

The Septuagint is the most ancient translation of the Old Testament into Greek. The translators were likely Jews of the dispersion, living in Alexandria, Egypt.

The beginning of the Jewish presence in Egypt is difficult to date precisely. There may have been a Jewish colony there as early as the tenth century BC when Shishak (Shashanq) invaded Palestine and took treasures from the temple and the king's palace (2 Chronicles 12.1-8). But certainly a number of Jews lived in Egypt after the murder of Gedaliah (~586 BC) when "the captains of the forces set out and went to Egypt; for they were afraid of the Chaldeans" (2 Kings 25-26). Jeremiah, Baruch and the princesses also went into Egypt at that time, though Jeremiah prophesied that they would all "perish by the sword and by famine, until not one is left" (Jeremiah 43.6, 44.27). One expects, on the basis of that prophecy, that this was not the beginning of a permanent settlement. However, a lasting Jewish presence in Egypt can be definitely dated from the time of the founding of the city of Alexandria in 332 BC when Alexander the Great granted them citizenship.

In time, the Jews in Alexandria lost familiarity with Hebrew and spoke Greek instead. It was natural, then, that they would require a translation of the scriptures into Greek for public worship in the synagogues and for private study. An account of the translation of the Septuagint is told in The Letter of Aristeas, which claims that Demetrius Phalereus, who ran the royal library in Alexandria, urged the king (Philadelphus (285-247 BC)) to obtain a copy of the Jewish law for the library. Philadelphus sent a deputation to the high priest Eleazar in Jerusalem and the result was that seventy-two elders arrived in Egypt with a copy of the Hebrew law written on rolls of skins in golden letters. They were given accommodations on the island of Pharos and completed their translation in seventy-two days. The same basic account is given in Aristobulus, Philo and Josephus.

Even if the account given in the Letter of Aristeas is inaccurate, it seems clear that the Hebrew Old Testament was available in Greek in Alexandria before the birth of Christ. As Christianity began to spread, the Septuagint was used with persuasive effect by Christian apologists - so well, in fact, that in time the Jews of the dispersion replaced it with newer works. For instance, a proselyte to Judaism named Aquila completed a extremely literal translation of the Old Testament into Greek about the year 128. Other translations were made by Theodotion of Ephesus and a certain Symmachus, called an Ebionite, also in the second century.

The most ancient manuscripts of the complete (or nearly complete) Septuagint are known as Vaticanus, Sinaiticus and Alexandrinus. Vaticanus and Sinaiticus have been dated to the mid-fourth century and Alexandrinus to the fifth.

Based on an earlier Hebrew original, the Septuagint departs from the Masoretic text² frequently. "The book of Jeremiah is noteworthy," for instance, "in that the present Hebrew text differs substantially from the Greek version (the Septuagint) in both content and order. Thus the Septuagint omits several passages (e.g., 33.14-26) and combines the oracles against foreign nations into a single section following 25.14, though in a different order. In addition, there are many smaller differences from verse to verse. Remarkably, among the portions of the text of Jeremiah in Hebrew that are found among the Dead Sea

² The Masoretic text is the source from which modern translations into English are made. While the oldest complete manuscripts of the Septuagint date from the fourth century, the oldest complete Hebrew Old Testament, the Leningrad Codex, was copied in ~ 1008 A.D. Modern English translations of the Old Testament rely primarily on the Leningrad Codex as proclaimed in the Hebraica Stuttgartensia. For examples of Septuagint departures from the Masoretic text supported by the Dead Sea Scrolls, see the appendix.

Scrolls are not only those who reflect the standard Hebrew text but also those who reflect the text tradition represented by the Septuagint. It is likely, then, that these two text traditions represent the contrasting editorial work on the book of Jeremiah that took place in Egypt (the Septuagint tradition) and in Palestine or Babylon (the traditional Hebrew text)." [Introduction to the book of Jeremiah, The New Oxford Annotated Bible, page 960.] Around the end of the first century, the Hebrew text was standardized to a form nearly identical with the modern Masoretic text. Variant readings, such as those represented in the Septuagint, were no longer transmitted in the Hebrew language.

Another contrast between the Septuagint and the modern Hebrew Old Testament involves the canon of scripture. The Septuagint includes several books and sections of books absent from the modern Hebrew text: 1 Esdras; Tobit; Judith; 1-3 Maccabees; the Wisdom of Solomon; the Wisdom of Sirach (Ecclesiasticus); Baruch; the Epistle of Jeremiah; The Song of the Three Children; Daniel and Susanna; Daniel, Bel and the Dragon; Additions to the Book of Esther; Psalm 151; and the Prayer of Manasseh. The difference in content has been explained in various ways. Perhaps the most straightforward account is that the Jews of Alexandria had a relatively broad canon, which was generally adopted by the Christians as they employed the Septuagint as their Old Testament. The Jews of Palestine when they established their canon around the turn of the first century at the council of Jamnia, may have been reiterating the position that had been more or less settled in Palestine for some time - though some books just made (Esther, Ecclesiastes, the Song of Solomon and Ezekiel, for instance) or missed (Sirach) the cut. The conflict with Christians may have served as a catalyst to push the Jews of the dispersion into the Palestinian camp. This article - concerned with the text of the books within the Hebrew canon - will not address the controversy surrounding the Old Testament canon in any depth.

From the time of Jerome (early fifth century), Old Testament translations to the vernacular in the West have used the Hebrew as the primary source - the Septuagint has been relegated to a secondary role. (Incidentally, some are under the mistaken impression - given by misleading language in the preface to the 1899 edition - that the Douay Old Testament was translated from a Latin text based on the Septuagint. Unfortunately, Jerome's Vulgate - apart from the Psalms and the books then available only in Greek - by and large follows the Hebrew text.) It is hoped that the reader will reconsider the wisdom of this course of action, given the clear preference the New Testament displays for Septuagint readings.

This article comprises two main sections. The first deals with the early Church's use of the Septuagint - particularly their sense that the Hebrew text was unreliable. It begins with the discussion between Jerome and Augustine regarding the former's decision to craft his Latin translation from the available Hebrew text, rather than from the Septuagint. It is from Jerome's fateful choice that the West derives its tradition of favoring the Hebrew to the Greek. The second part of this article provides a detailed comparison of the New Testament quotations from the Old. These were made to assess the extent to which the New Testament authors depended on the Septuagint instead of the Hebrew text. Conclusions are given in the The Septuagint in the New Testament.

THE SEPTUAGINT IN EARLY CHRISTIAN WRITINGS

A fundamental change in the way the Church viewed the Old Testament was engineered by St. Jerome, early in the fifth century. Until that time, the Church had relied on the Septuagint in the East and on a Latin translation of the Septuagint in the West. When Jerome set about to make a new translation into Latin, he determined to revert to Hebrew for his source text.

The Church being an essentially conservative institution, his decision to follow such a novel course was criticized. It is interesting to read his response to that criticism, for he explains his decision on the basis of apostolic precedent - that is, that the New Testament authors made reference to the Hebrew Old Testament rather than to the Septuagint on several occasions:

I have received letters so long and eagerly desired from my dear Desiderius ... entreating me to put our friends in possession of a translation of the Pentateuch from Hebrew into Latin. The work is certainly hazardous and it is exposed to the attacks of my calumniators, who maintain that it is through contempt of the Seventy that I have set to work to forge a new version to take the place of the old. They thus test ability as they do wine; whereas I have again and again declared that I dutifully offer, in the Tabernacle of God what I can and have pointed out that the great gifts which one man brings are not marred by the inferior gifts of another. But I was stimulated to undertake the task by the zeal of Origen, who blended with the old edition Theodotion's translation and used throughout the work as distinguishing marks the asterisk and the obelus, that is the star and the spit, the first of which makes what had previously been defective to beam with light, while the other transfixes and slaughters all that was superfluous.

But I was encouraged above all by the authoritative publications of the Evangelists and Apostles, in which we read much taken from the Old Testament which is not found in our manuscripts. For example, 'Out of Egypt have I called my Son' (Matt. 2.15): 'For he shall be called a Nazarene' (Ibid. 23): and 'They shall look on him whom they pierced' (John 19.37): and 'Rivers of living water shall flow out of his belly' (John 7.38): and 'Things which eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, nor have entered into the heart of man, which God hath prepared for those who love him' (1 Cor. 2.9) and many other passages which lack their proper context. Let us ask our opponents then where these things are written and when they are unable to tell, let us produce them from the Hebrew. The first passage is in Hosea, (11.1), the second in Isaiah (11.1), the third in Zechariah (12.10), the fourth in Proverbs (18.4), the fifth also in Isaiah (64.4).

Are we condemning our predecessors? By no means; but following the zealous labors of those who have preceded us we contribute such work as lies in our power in the name of the Lord. They translated before the Advent of Christ and expressed in ambiguous terms that which they knew not. We after His Passion and Resurrection write not prophecy so much as history. For one style is suitable to what we hear, another to what we see. The better we understand a subject, the better we describe it. Hearken then, my rival: listen, my calumniator; I do not condemn, I do not censure the Seventy, but I am bold enough to prefer the Apostles to them all. It is the Apostle through whose mouth I hear the voice of Christ and I read that in the classification of spiritual gifts they are placed before prophets (1 Cor. 12.28; Eph. 4.11), while interpreters occupy almost the lowest place. Why are you tormented with jealousy? Why do you inflame the minds of the ignorant against me? Wherever in translation I seem to you to go wrong, ask the Hebrews, consult their teachers in different towns. The words which exist in their Scriptures concerning Christ your copies do not contain. [From Jerome's Apology, Book II, Nicene and Post Nicene Fathers, Second Series, Vol 3.]

This is a fascinating passage. First, note that Jerome was correct in his statement that several New Testament passages follow the Hebrew meaning in distinction from the reading in the Septuagint. But it is curious that he believed the passage "For He shall be called a Nazarene" from Matthew 2.23 is a quotation from Isaiah 11.1 - it is not. That passage does not exist in any of our current texts - in Hebrew or in Greek. (Isaiah 11.1 does, however, contain the Hebrew word for branch, neser.) Similarly, the passage "Things which eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, nor have entered into the heart of man, which God hath prepared for those who love him" is not to be found in Isaiah 64.4, according to the Masoretes. Again, the passage "Rivers of living water shall flow out of his belly" which Jerome attributes to Proverbs 18.4 is not in our current Hebrew - though Proverbs 18.4 and Isaiah 58.11 both speak of water, there is no reference to that water's pouring out of anyone's belly. Did Jerome have access to a substantially different Hebrew source than we have today?

The other two examples Jerome provided to show how the Hebrew text enjoyed New Testament sanction are indeed absent from the Septuagint - see the list of similar passages. However, can Jerome have been ignorant of the far larger number of New Testament quotations from the Septuagint where the Greek version differs from the Hebrew? If New Testament warrant is the key determinant in deciding the source text to be employed in translation, the evidence fairly clearly supports the Septuagint over the Hebrew.

St. Augustine of Hippo was one of those who criticized Jerome's decision to make his translation into Latin out of the Hebrew. He was concerned about two issues: (1) that the new Latin translation would lead to divergences with the Greek-speaking part of the Church and (2) that the translation would not be authoritative since Jerome's skill in the interpretation of Hebrew would be questioned and validated only with great difficulty.

For my part, I would much rather that you would furnish us with a translation of the Greek version of the canonical Scriptures known as the work of the Seventy translators. If your translation begins to be more generally read in many churches, it will be a grievous thing that, in the reading of Scripture, differences must arise between the Latin Churches and the Greek Churches, especially seeing that the discrepancy is easily condemned in a Latin version by the production of the original in Greek, which is a language very widely known; whereas, if any one has been disturbed by the occurrence of something to which he was not accustomed in the translation taken from the Hebrew and alleges that the new translation is wrong, it will be found difficult, if not impossible, to get at the Hebrew documents by which the version to which exception is taken may be defended. When they are obtained, who will submit, to have so many Latin and Greek authorities: pronounced to be in the wrong? Besides all this, Jews, if consulted as to the meaning of the Hebrew text, may give a different opinion from yours: in which case it will seem as if your presence were indispensable, as being the only one who could refute their view; and it would be a miracle if one could be found capable of acting as arbiter between you and them. [From Augustine of Hippo's, Letter LXXI, Nicene and Post-Nicene Fathers, First Series, Volume 1.]

It would perhaps be an interesting study to determine the extent to which using different Old Testament texts has contributed to the separation between East and West through the centuries. Clearly, Augustine's own reliance on a poor Latin translation of the book of Romans led him into erroneous conclusions regarding original sin.

Augustine went on to state his desire that Jerome would provide a fresh translation of the Old Testament into Latin from the Septuagint, since it "has no mean authority, seeing that it has obtained so wide circulation and was the one which the apostles used, as is... proved by looking to the text itself." In that statement, I think, it is clear that Augustine was correct. Yet Jerome was of a contrary opinion, stating:

Wherever the Seventy agree with the Hebrew, the apostles took their quotations from that translation; but, where they disagree, they set down in Greek what they had found in the Hebrew. [Jerome's Apology, Book II.]

But that claim is manifestly false - unless Jerome's Hebrew text was radically different from what we possess today.

Jerome accused the Jews who translated the Septuagint of deliberately altering the Hebrew meaning in order to avoid offending or misleading the Ptolemaic king of Egypt for whom the work of translation was done. His desire, he stated, was to bring to light the underlying Hebrew meaning that had been repressed by those Jewish translators. Jerome thus lacked the near-ubiquitous suspicion of the Hebrew text shared by those who were in polemical combat with the Jews in the early centuries. He seemed to take the Hebrew text available to him at the time as verity. The notion that the Septuagint may have been based on a different underlying Hebrew - for which hypothesis the Dead Sea Scrolls furnish positive evidence (see the appendix) - seems never to have occurred to him.

One difficulty Jerome brought forth for those who would wish to prepare a translation into the Latin from the Septuagint, instead of the Hebrew, was the rarity of manuscripts that were not based on Origen's Hexapla edition. Origen had attempted to reconstruct the text of the Septuagint by comparing that text available to him with the Hebrew and other Greek translations. Following Origen's reconstructed Greek, Jerome had translated some of the canonical books into Latin. Augustine wrote to Jerome to ask him why he did not follow the same procedure in his new translation. Jerome replied:

In another letter you ask why a former translation which I made of some of the canonical books was carefully marked with asterisks and obelisks, whereas I afterwards proclaimed a translation without these. You must pardon my saying that you seem to me not to understand the matter: for the former translation is from the Septuagint; and wherever obelisks are placed, they are designed to indicate that the Seventy have said more than is found in the Hebrew. But the asterisks indicate what has been added by Origen from the version of Theodotion. In that version I was translating from the Greek: but in the later version, translating from the Hebrew itself, I have expressed what I understood it to mean, being careful to preserve rather the exact sense than the order of the words. I am surprised that you do not read the books of the Seventy translators in the genuine form in which they were originally given to the world, but as they have been corrected, or rather corrupted, by Origen, with his obelisks and asterisks; and that you refuse to follow the translation, however feeble, which has been given by a Christian man, especially seeing that Origen borrowed the things which he has added from the edition of a man who, after the passion of Christ, was a Jew and a blasphemer. Do you wish to be a true admirer and partisan of the seventy translators? Then do not read what you find under the asterisks; rather erase them from the volumes, that you may approve yourself indeed a follower of the ancients. If, however, you do this, you will be compelled to find fault with all the libraries of the Churches; for you will scarcely find more than one manuscript here and there which does not have these interpolations.

The copies of the Septuagint then widely available, according to Jerome, were actually Origen's redaction - and perhaps the editorial symbols that would have allowed one to locate the true Septuagint reading were missing from many of the copies in the libraries. But clearly Jerome had access to copies which contained Origen's symbols - in fact, the Hexapla was still extant in Caesarea of Palestine at the time Jerome wrote. Jerome, as is clear, had translated some books into Latin from a copy of the Septuagint containing Origen's symbols.

Origen's reconstruction of the Septuagint was thought necessary, apparently, because of the diversity of readings in the many copies in circulation. In fact, in addition to Origen's version, two other recensions of the Septuagint were prepared early in the fourth century: one by Lucian of Antioch and the other by Hesychius of Egypt. The Hebrew then available to Jerome did not share the problem of multiple variant readings. This is perhaps the true reason why Jerome chose to translate from the Hebrew instead of the Greek. Yet, from Jerome's remarks earlier, we can only surmise that his Hebrew text was somewhat different from our own, or his knowledge of the Hebrew language was inexact.

Note: One hundred years ago, it was thought that the fourth century uncial manuscript known as Vaticanus reflected a neutral Septuagint text - neutral in the sense that it is relatively unaffected by Origen, Lucian and Hesychius' efforts. Alexandrinus was said to show signs of both Origen and Lucian's revisions. But the frequent correspondence between Alexandrinus and the New Testament suggested that it preserved a more ancient text. At that time, no firm judgment of Sinaiticus had been formed. I do not know what the current state of scholarship is on this matter. In terms of printed editions of the Septuagint, the Complutensian Polyglot, printed in 1517, reflects the Lucianic recension to an extent, while the Aldine edition of 1519, the Hesychian. The Septuagint text used in the comparisons in this article is that of Sir Lawrence Brenton (1851). Brenton's text is based on Valpy's 1819 edition, which in turn depends upon the Sixtine edition of 1587. This last corresponds roughly with Vaticanus. Extensive use has also been made of Alfred Rahlfs's semi-critical edition of 1935, especially to identify variant readings.

The difficulty involved in locating a relatively uniform source from which to translate should not be an overwhelming deterrent to translation. If it were, we would not have the New Testament in English today: variant readings in the multiple extant New Testament manuscripts have elicited several recensions of that text since Erasmus' time. So, though it was true that the Hebrew text had been standardized to an extent since the Septuagint was generated and was thus likely to be more uniform than the Greek, these facts hardly justify abandoning the Old Testament of the apostles.

Contrast Origen's viewpoint with Jerome's. Though he was aware of numerous instances of divergence between the Septuagint readings and those of the Hebrew, yet his trust in God's providence prevented him from automatically assuming that the Greek version was in error. How could God have suffered His Church to use an erroneous version of scripture for the first two hundred years of her existence?

Again, through the whole of Job there are many passages in the Hebrew which are missing in our copies, generally four or five verses, but sometimes, however, even fourteen and nineteen and sixteen. But why should I enumerate all the instances I collected with so much labor, to prove that the difference between our copies and those of the Jews did not escape me? In Jeremiah I noticed many instances and indeed in that book I found much transposition and variation in the readings of the prophecies. Again, in Genesis, the words, "God saw that it was good," when the firmament was made, are not found in the Hebrew and there is no small dispute among them about this; and other instances are to be found in Genesis, which I marked, for the sake of distinction, with the sign the Greeks call an obelisk, as on the other hand I marked with an asterisk those passages in our copies which are not found in the Hebrew. What needs there to speak of Exodus, where there is such diversity in what is said about the tabernacle and its court and the ark and the garments of the high priest and the priests, that sometimes the meaning even does not seem to be akin? And, forsooth when we notice such things, we are at once to reject as spurious the copies in use in our Churches and enjoin the brotherhood to put away the sacred books current among them and to coax the Jews and persuade them to give us copies which shall be untampered with and free from forgery! Are we to suppose that that Providence which in the sacred Scriptures has ministered to the edification of all the Churches of Christ, had no thought for those bought with a price, for whom Christ died; whom, although His Son, God who is love spared not, but gave Him up for us all, that with Him He might freely give us all things?

Indeed, Origen remained true to the Septuagint, but he also perceived great value in knowledge of the Hebrew, particularly in discussions with the Jews.

In all these cases consider whether it would not be well to remember the words, "Thou shalt not remove the ancient landmarks which your fathers have set." Nor do I say this because I shun the labor of investigating the Jewish Scriptures and comparing them with ours and noticing their various readings. This, if it be not arrogant to say it, I have already to a great extent done to the best of my ability, laboring hard to get at the meaning in all the editions and various readings; while I paid particular attention to the interpretation of the Seventy, for fear that I might be found to accredit any forgery to the Churches which are under heaven and give an occasion to those who seek such a starting-point for gratifying their desire to slander the common brethren and to bring some accusation against those who shine forth in our community. I make it my endeavor not to be ignorant of their various readings, for fear that in my controversies with the Jews I should quote to them what is not found in their copies and that I may make some use of what is found there, even although it should not be in our Scriptures. If we are so prepared for them in our discussions, they will not, as is their manner, scornfully laugh at Gentile believers for their ignorance of the true reading as they have them. [Origen, A Letter from Origen to Africanus, Ante-Nicene Fathers, Volume 4.]

We find the same regard for the Septuagint a few years earlier, in the second century when we examine the writings of Sts. Irenaeus of Lyons and Justin Martyr. In his Against Heresies, Irenaeus discussed one point of contention between the Jews and Christians of his day over the Old Testament - the prophecy of the virgin in Isaiah 7.14:

God, then, was made man and the Lord did Himself save us, giving us the token of the Virgin. But not as some allege, among those now presuming to expound the Scripture, [thus:] "Behold, a young woman shall conceive and bring forth a son," as Theodotion the Ephesian has interpreted and Aquila of Pontus, both Jewish proselytes. The Ebionites, following these, assert that He was begotten by Joseph; thus destroying, as far as in them lies, such a marvelous dispensation of God and setting aside the testimony of the prophets which proceeded from God. For truly this prediction was uttered before the removal of the people to Babylon; that is, anterior to the supremacy acquired by the Medes and Persians. But it was interpreted into Greek by the Jews themselves, much before the period of our Lord's advent, that there might remain no suspicion that perchance the Jews, complying with our humor, did put this interpretation upon these words. They indeed, had they been cognizant of our future existence and that we should use these proofs from the Scriptures, would themselves never have hesitated to burn their own Scriptures, which do declare that all other nations partake of [eternal] life and show that they who boast themselves as being the house of Jacob and the people of Israel, are disinherited from the grace of God. [From Irenaeus, Against Heresies, Book III, Chapter XXI, Ante-Nicene Fathers, Volume 1.]

Irenaeus argued that since the Jews themselves made this translation - which proves the deity of the Savior - long before the advent of Christ, it is free from bias; while their new translations (those of Aquila and Theodotion) are tainted by their hatred for Christianity. The extent of Irenaeus' admiration for the Septuagint can be gauged from the following account of the history of the translation, which hints at divine involvement. This account differs somewhat from that given in The Letter of Aristeas, discussed in the Introduction:

For before the Romans possessed their kingdom, while as yet the Macedonians held Asia, Ptolemy the son of Lagus, being anxious to adorn the library which he had founded in Alexandria, with a collection of the writings of all men, which were [works] of merit, made request to the people of Jerusalem, that they should have their Scriptures translated into the Greek language. They - for at that time they were still subject to the Macedonians - sent to Ptolemy seventy of their elders, who were thoroughly skilled in the Scriptures and in both the languages, to carry out what he had desired. But he, wishing to test them individually and fearing for fear that they might perchance, by taking counsel together, conceal the truth in the Scriptures, by their interpretation, separated them from each other and commanded them all to write the same translation. He did this with respect to all the books. But when they came together in the same place before Ptolemy and each of them compared his own interpretation with that of every other, God was indeed glorified and the Scriptures were acknowledged as truly divine. For all of them read out the common translation [which they had prepared] in the very same words and the very same names, from beginning to end, so that even the Gentiles present perceived that the Scriptures had been interpreted by the inspiration of God. And there was nothing astonishing in God having done this, - He who, when, during the captivity of the people under Nebuchadnezzar, the Scriptures had been corrupted and when, after seventy years, the Jews had returned to their own land, then, in the times of Artaxerxes king of the Persians, inspired Esdras the priest, of the tribe of Levi, to recast all the words of the former prophets and to re-establish with the people the Mosaic legislation.

Irenaeus, as Augustine did more than two centuries later, acknowledged that the witness of the New Testament authors is in favor of the Septuagint:

Since, therefore, the Scriptures have been interpreted with such fidelity and by the grace of God and since from these God has prepared and formed again our faith towards His Son and has preserved to us the unadulterated Scriptures in Egypt, where the house of Jacob flourished, fleeing from the famine in Canaan; where also our Lord was preserved when He fled from the persecution set on foot by Herod; and [since] this interpretation of these Scriptures was made prior to our Lord's descent [to earth] and came into being before the Christians appeared - for our Lord was born about the forty-first year of the reign of Augustus; but Ptolemy was much earlier, under whom the Scriptures were interpreted; - [since these things are so, I say,] truly these men are proved to be impudent and presumptuous, who would now show a desire to make different translations when we refute them out of these Scriptures and shut them up to a belief in the advent of the Son of God. But our faith is steadfast, unfeigned and the only true one, having clear proof from these Scriptures, which were interpreted in the way I have related; and the preaching of the Church is without interpolation. For the apostles, since they are of more ancient date than all these [heretics], agree with this aforesaid translation; and the translation harmonizes with the tradition of the apostles. For Peter and John and Matthew and Paul and the rest successively, as well as their followers, did set forth all prophetic [announcements], just as the interpretation of the elders contains them.

Thus, in Irenaeus' view, just as God preserved the Israelites through the time of famine safe in the land of Egypt, God kept his word safe in Alexandria through the instrumentality of unbiased Jewish translators.

Writing just a few years earlier than Irenaeus, Justin Martyr presented the same history of the Septuagint's production. Then he added:

These things, you men of Greece, are no fable, nor do we narrate fictions; but we ourselves having been in Alexandria, saw the remains of the little cots at the Pharos still preserved and having heard these things from the inhabitants, who had received them as part of their country's tradition, we now tell to you what you can also learn from others and specially from those wise and esteemed men who have written of these things, Philo and Josephus and many others. [From Justin's Hortatory Address to the Greeks, Ante-Nicene Fathers, Volume 1.]

Though he was willing to debate the Jews on the basis of their version of scripture, Justin alleged that the Jews had removed passages which he discovered only in the Septuagint.

In short, the vast majority of early Christian writers quoted extensively from the Septuagint and some considered it a divinely inspired translation. St. Clement of Rome, writing in the first century, provides the earliest non-canonical example. It has been estimated that approximately half of his Old Testament quotations are directly from the Septuagint, the remainder being variations due to imperfect memory on the one hand and the use of a text closer to the second century Greek translations of Theodotion or Aquila on the other. Until the religious controversy with Christians arose, the Septuagint was held in very high regard by Jews also. Philo of Alexandria - who, with Irenaeus and Justin, believed that the seventy-two translators had miraculously produced identical translations though isolated in separate cells - and Josephus are eminent examples.

But it is also true that all the Fathers of the Church did not share an aversion to the Hebrew text. One can find examples where they consulted with those knowledgeable in Hebrew in order to gain a deeper understanding of the Biblical message. St. Basil the Great, for instance, in commenting on the text "the Spirit of God was borne upon the face of the waters" says:

How then did the Spirit of God move upon the waters? The explanation that I am about to give you is not an original one, but that of a Syrian, who was as ignorant in the wisdom of this world as he was versed in the knowledge of the Truth. He said: then, that the Syriac word was more expressive and that being more analogous to the Hebrew term it was a nearer approach to the scriptural sense. This is the meaning of the word; by "was borne" the Syrians, he says, understand: it cherished the nature of the waters as one sees a bird cover the eggs with her body and impart to them vital force from her own warmth. Such is, as nearly as possible, the meaning of these words - the Spirit was borne: let us understand, that is, prepared the nature of water to produce living beings: a sufficient proof for those who ask if the Holy Spirit took an active part in the creation of the world [The Hexaemeron, Homily II, Nicene and Post-Nicene Fathers, Second Series, Volume 8.]

Similarly, St. Gregory of Nyssa consulted Aquila and Symmachus' translations from an original very close to the Masoretic Hebrew to clarify the meaning of Genesis 1.2. (See his Hexaemeron.) When discussing the meaning of Proverbs 8.27, Gregory indicated a willingness to consult the Hebrew to ascertain the meaning of the word rendered "created" in the Septuagint [Against Eunomius, Book I, Nicene and Post-Nicene Fathers, Second Series, Volume 5, page 63]. Perhaps we should emulate the early Christians' faithfulness to the Septuagint - on the grounds that it is the Old Testament largely witnessed by the New - but temper that loyalty with appreciation for the current Hebrew text.

The claim, repeated above by Irenaeus and Augustine, that the New Testament authors relied upon the Septuagint, is examined in the second part of this article: The Septuagint in the New Testament.

THE LXX IN THE NEW TESTAMENT

GENERAL OBSERVATIONS

The following table provides a summary overview of New Testament quotations from the Old Testament. Twenty-four Old Testament books, listed in the first column of the table - Genesis through Malachi -, are quoted in sixteen New Testament books - Matthew through 2 Peter -, named in the top row. The row in blue provides the total number of quotations from the Old Testament in each New Testament book. In addition, this line shows the total of all verses in the Old Testament books quoted, the total number of quotations (320) and the frequency of quotations for those books taken as a whole. Thus, for the 24 Old Testament books listed, the average frequency of quotations is 18.0 per every thousand verses. Of course, if the entire Old Testament were taken into account, the quotation frequency would be much lower. To include verse counts from books not quoted (Joshua, Judges, 1 & 2 Chronicles, etc.) would, however, ensnare us in the question of the Old Testament canon, which is outside the scope of the present investigation.

As a guide to reading the table, note that the book of Genesis has 1508 verses and is quoted 31 times in the New Testament. The number of quotations from Genesis, divided by the number of verses in that book and multiplied by 1000, yields 20.6 - implying that Genesis was a bit more popular with New Testament authors than the average Old Testament book. Continuing along the "Genesis" row, we see that four of these quotations appear in the book of Acts and nine in Romans. Looking along the columns, observe that the book of John quotes the Old Testament only 14 times - the least of any gospel. John quotes the Psalms 7 times, Isaiah 4 times and Zechariah twice. (Fractional quotations will be explained shortly.)

See Table 1: Quotations Overview

Some additional remarks about the table:

(1) The reader may notice that fractional quotations are listed. The reason for this is that in cases such as Matthew 5.33 and 5.38, multiple Old Testament books contain the same quotation. Since it is impossible to tell which book is being quoted, each is given partial credit. For instance, Matthew may have had Exodus 21.24, Leviticus 19.12 or Deuteronomy 19.21 in mind in Matthew 5.38. Each Old Testament book is thus given one-third credit.

(2) The verse count for each book is based on the Authorized Version. The Septuagint will have different verse counts for some of these books. It was my judgment that the variation in book length between the Septuagint and Hebrew-based English translations would be an insignificant factor. The greatest discrepancies will be for Jeremiah, Daniel and Job, books not particularly popular with New Testament authors.

(3) Many of these 320 distinct quotations are of the same Old Testament passage. For instance, each time the author of the book of Hebrews quotes Psalm 95:7, it is counted as a separate citation.

Notice that fifteen Old Testament books from the Hebrew canon are not quoted at all: Joshua, Judges, Ruth, 2 Kings, 1 & 2 Chronicles, Ezra, Nehemiah, Esther, Ecclesiastes, Song of Solomon, Lamentations, Obadiah, Nahum and Zephaniah.

Of those who are quoted, Psalms and Isaiah are the most popular, followed by Deuteronomy and Exodus. These four books show good strength of usage across the span of New Testament books.

Eighty-two percent of all Old Testament quotations are from just six books: Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, Deuteronomy, Psalms and Isaiah.

If the size of the Old Testament books is taken into account, one realizes that the tiny works of Malachi and Habakkuk were very rich with meaning for the New Testament authors. When popularity is measured in this way, Isaiah and Deuteronomy come in third and fourth respectively. Hosea is fifth and Zechariah sixth.

Other observations: almost 1/3 of the quotations in Romans are from Isaiah, while 43% of the quotations in Hebrews are from Psalms. Matthew and Luke rely on the books of the Law for almost 40% of their quotes (this jumps to 50% with Mark), but John avoids the Torah almost completely, concentrating instead on Psalms, Isaiah and Zechariah. Ezekiel, a relatively large book, is quoted only one and one-half times in the New Testament. It has the lowest quotation frequency for any book actually referenced.

AGREEMENT WITH THE SEPTUAGINT

METHODOLOGY

The basic set of quotations for this study was furnished by the "Index of Quotations" in Aland, Karavidopoulos, Martini and Metzger's The Greek New Testament, Fourth Revised Edition, proclaimed by the United Bible Societies. Hereafter, this source is referred to as UBS. Because no connection was seen between 2 Samuel 7.8 and 2 Corinthians 6.18, listed in UBS as a quotation, this item was deleted from the set. Two additional exceptions: UBS presents Mt 21.5 as a single quotation from two sources - Isaiah 62.11 and Zechariah 9.9. It seems clear, however, that this should be viewed as two non-overlapping quotations, since Isaiah 62.11 simply provides an opening phrase which the quotation from Zechariah follows. In addition, UBS views Luke 4.18-19 as a quotation from Isaiah 61.1 alone. However, since Luke has introduced a line from Isaiah 58.6 into the midst of that quotation, this has been taken into account.

Several quotations listed in the Index hardly seem like quotations at all. In addition, several passages which seem fairly clearly to be quotations (Daniel 11.31/12.11 in Matthew 24.15/Mark 13.14; Isaiah 66.24 in Mark 9.48; Sirach 4.1 in Mark 10.19; Jeremiah 11.7 in Mark 11.17; Isaiah 53.12 in Mark 15.28; Malachi 4.5-6 in Luke 1.17; Psalm 62.12/Psalm 24.12 in Romans 2.6; Isaiah 8.12 in 1 Peter 3.14; Psalm 2.8, 9 in Revelation 2.27; Isaiah 22.22 in Revelation 3.7; and others) are missing from the Index. It was possible to scrub the list of quotations of questionable entries (Deuteronomy 25.5 is a good example) and augment it with more worthy ones. However, employing an objective set of quotations provided by an outside source bolsters the objectivity of the work. In addition, the questionable quotations and the candidates for inclusion appear not to influence the overall conclusions in any significant way.

For each quotation, a side-by-side comparison of the New Testament and Septuagint Greek texts has been prepared. To add clarity and to provide an opportunity to assess agreement with the Masoretic Hebrew text, this primary Greek comparison has been supplemented with Brenton's English translation of the Septuagint and the Old and New Testament passages in the English of the 1901 American Standard Version. Comments appear at the bottom of each page.

During the process of preparing a side-by-side comparison for the quotations, a tendency on the part of New Testament authors to deviate from the exact wording of the Septuagint was noticed, although they often retained the same sense, or applied the text in a novel way. For instance, some quotations alter the person and/or number of a verb to suit their purposes. Strictly speaking, these were usually deviations from both the Hebrew and the Septuagint; thus, these deviations seemed of no consequence in the evaluation of the influence of the Septuagint on the New Testament. However, there were cases where the Septuagint and the Hebrew differed in meaning and the New Testament followed one against the sense of the other.

It was determined, therefore, to categorize the comparisons in two separate ways. First, the meaning of the texts would be assessed, after which the degree of agreement was evaluated: where the Septuagint and the Masoretic text differ in meaning, did the New Testament author follow the sense of the Septuagint against the Hebrew, or did he follow the Hebrew against the Septuagint? Secondly, the degree to which the New Testament author employed poetic license in his use of the Septuagint was also evaluated and taken into account.

ASSESSMENT OF AGREEMENT IN MEANING

The New Testament authors show a clear preference for the Septuagint over Masoretic readings. The following table provides a selection of thirty of the more significant New Testament deviations toward the Septuagint. The second column shows the New Testament wording and the rightmost column has the wording from the Hebrew Old Testament. In each case, the New Testament author is true to the Septuagint. Red is used to highlight differences between Hebrew and Greek. All quotations are from the Revised Standard Version.

See Table 2: Sample New Testament Quotations of the Septuagint

Matthew relies on the Septuagint for the assertion that the Messiah's mother was to be a virgin (Matthew 1.23). Jesus himself follows the traditional Septuagint wording in condemning the Pharisees' traditions (Matthew 15.8-9). The Septuagint clearly prophesies that Jesus will heal the blind (Luke 4.18-19) - but the Masoretic text is more obscure. The Septuagint foretold that the Messiah's death would be unjust (Acts 8.32-33) and that the Gentiles would seek the Lord (Acts 15.16-17). The Hebrew has the nations being "possessed" along with Edom. Paul knows that a remnant of Israel will be saved because he was reading the Old Testament in Greek (Romans 9.27-28). Perhaps if his topic were the return to the Holy Land and not salvation, he would have found the Hebrew reading more suitable. Following the Greek, he knows that the Messiah will conquer his people's sin - not that he would come to those who had already cleansed themselves from sin, as the Hebrew would have it (Romans 11.26-27). Paul's thought that Jesus would rule the Gentiles also depends on a Septuagint reading (Romans 15.12). The author of the book of Hebrews - to prove the deity of Christ - proclaims the truth that Jesus is worshiped by all the angels of God (Hebrews 1.6). But the Hebrew Old Testament does not contain that verse. Also on the basis of the Greek Old Testament, that author asserts that the incarnation was prophesied (Hebrews 10.5-7) - that Jesus would have a body, which he would offer for our sanctification (Hebrews 10.10). The Masoretic text at this point stresses auditory capability. Finally, where the Masoretic text described a nonviolent suffering servant, the Septuagint prophesied a sinless Messiah (1 Peter 2.22).

The Table of Quotations in New Testament Order contains a column entitled "Meaning." Some quotations are annotated in this column with a "J," an "H" or a "D." A "J" indicates that the quotation agrees with the Septuagint against the sense of the Masoretic text, an "H" that the quotation supports the Hebrew sense against the Septuagint. The quotation is marked by a "D" when the quotation disagrees in meaning with both the Septuagint and the Hebrew. The following table summarizes the disagreement of the New Testament with the Septuagint as a source. The general structure of the table is the same as Table 1 above. For each New Testament book, the number of quotations from each Old Testament book is shown, but the number of times the New Testament reading differs in meaning from the Septuagint text - both "H" and "D" readings - is also indicated. Thus, Matthew differs in sense from the Septuagint 9 times out of 54 quotations. Three of these disagreements occur when Matthew quotes from Isaiah. Looking along the rows, note that Deuteronomy is quoted against the sense of the Septuagint 7 times, two of these quotations occurring in the book of Romans.

See Table 3: Instances where the New Testament Differs in Meaning from the Septuagint

The following two tables summarize these results, providing percentage agreement for each Old Testament and New Testament book. For instance, Zechariah is quoted 7 times, 5 of which are in agreement with the meaning of the Septuagint text. Thus, the New Testament follows the Septuagint's version of Zechariah 71.4% of the time. Similarly, Luke follows the Septuagint in 24 of 26 passages, for a percentage agreement = 92.3.

Other conclusions can be drawn. Considering the New Testament as comprised of the synoptic gospels, John, Acts, Paul's epistles, Hebrews and the so-called 'catholic epistles', the following agreement percentages are found:

Synoptic gospels	86.9
John	92.9
Acts	100
Paul's epistles	94.2
Hebrews	97.3
Catholic epistles	94.1

If we group Luke's writings, Luke and Acts, we find an agreement rate of 97%. Clearly, the gospels tend to diverge from the Septuagint most frequently, with Matthew showing the most disagreement. Looking instead at the source books, the agreement between the New Testament and the Septuagintal versions of Job, Micah and Malachi is quite poor. Perhaps the most impressive aspect of Table 4 relates to the excellent agreement for Genesis, Exodus and Psalms, with almost 139 quotations drawn from these three books and only one disagreement. Overall, the agreement in sense between the New Testament and the Septuagint is 93%.

This compares favorably with the rate of agreement between the New Testament quotations and the Hebrew Old Testament, 68%.

See Table 4 and Table 5 below

The following figure compares the results presented in Table 4 with similar results comparing agreement between the New Testament and the Masoretic text. Septuagint results are presented in blue, while those for the Masoretic text are in red. Note in particular the tendency of the New Testament authors to disagree with the Masoretic version of Isaiah.

In fact, among all the books quoted from most frequently (Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, Deuteronomy, Psalms and Isaiah), the Septuagint does better than the Masoretic text.

Masoretic readings are preferred by the New Testament authors when they reference Job, Zechariah and Malachi. It is understandable, therefore, that Jerome, in his critiques of the Septuagint, emphasized passages from Hosea and Zechariah to support his contention that the New Testament authors diverged from the Septuagint whenever the Greek departed in meaning from the Hebrew. Evidently, he was embarrassed by the Septuagint - and this embarrassment blinded him to the New Testament's preference to that version. "It would be tedious now to enumerate, what great additions and omissions the Septuagint has made and all the passages which in church-copies are marked with daggers and asterisks [symbols indicating words present in the Greek but absent in the Hebrew and vice versa]. The Jews generally laugh when they hear our version of this passage of Isaiah, 'Blessed is he that hath seed in Zion and servants in Jerusalem [Is. 31.9].' In Amos also ... But how shall we deal with the Hebrew originals in which these passages and others like them are omitted, passages so numerous that to reproduce them would require books without number? [Letter LVII]".

One may wonder whether Jerome would have been able to overcome this evident social pressure against the Greek version if he had been aware of the diversity of the ancient Hebrew texts.

As a rule, each New Testament author agrees with the Septuagint translators more frequently than with the Massoretetes. The most striking contrasts are in John's gospel, Acts, Romans, Galatians, Hebrews, James and 1 Peter.

Although, as noted above, the disagreement with the Septuagint is most pronounced in the synoptic gospels, these diverge from the Masoretic text even more strongly than they do from the Septuagint. This is not at all what one would have expected from reading Jerome's Lives of Illustrious Men. "Matthew, also called Levi, apostle and aforesaid publican, composed a gospel of Christ at first proclaimed in Judea in Hebrew for the sake of those of the circumcision who believed, but this was afterwards translated into Greek though by what author is uncertain. The Hebrew itself has been preserved until the present day in the library at Caesarea which Pamphilus so diligently gathered. I have also had the opportunity of having this volume described to me by the Nazarenes of Borea, a city of Syria, who use it. In this it is to be noted that wherever the Evangelist, whether on his own account or in the person of our Lord the Savior quotes the testimony of the Old Testament he does not follow the authority of the translators of the Septuagint but the Hebrew." The reader can himself test the verity of this statement directly or by consulting Figure 3, which shows that even Matthew preferred the Septuagint to the Hebrew.

PRESENTATION OF NEW TESTAMENT DIVERGENCES FROM LXX

For completeness, a table is included (similar to Table 2 above) showing those instances where the New Testament follows the Hebrew sense against the Septuagint. Two of these, Malachi 3.1 (3 times) and Isaiah 8.14 (twice), are quoted by several New Testament authors. Since Romans 9.33/Isaiah 8.14 is counted as half a quotation, the New Testament follows the Hebrew against the sense of the Septuagint 8.5 times.

See Table 7: New Testament Quotations in Agreement with the Hebrew against the Sense of the Septuagint

As with Table 2, the quotations from the New Testament in Table 7 are from the Revised Standard Version. The Septuagint column is from Brenton's translation, as it is in the following:

The following table depicts occasions where the New Testament diverges in meaning from both the Hebrew of the Massorettes and the Septuagint. Red type is used to indicate discrepancies in meaning. Green indicates the words so colored are omitted from the New Testament quotation. Certain words are underlined in Mark 12.29-30 to facilitate comparison. The translations in both the New Testament and Masoretic Text columns are from the Revised Standard Version.

See Table 8: New Testament Quotations in Disagreement with the Hebrew and the Septuagint

All together, there are 14 such instances in the New Testament (the additional 3 being duplicates of quotations presented in Table 8). The distribution is as follows: Matthew (7), Mark (2), Luke (1), Romans (2), 1 Corinthians (1) and Hebrews (1). These 14 instances, together with the 8.5 from Table 7, tally to 22.5 cases where the New Testament disagrees with the sense of the Septuagint (see Table 3 above).

ASSESSMENT OF THE AGREEMENT IN WORDING BETWEEN THE NEW TESTAMENT AND THE SEPTUAGINT

In the previous section, the agreement in meaning between New and Old Testament passages was evaluated. In the following, the precision of agreement in wording will be examined. As is expected, the percentage of quotations with exact or near exact duplication in wording is lower than the percentage agreeing in sense or intention. Jerome (Letter LVII), after reviewing passages such as those in Table 8 above, remarked: "From all these passages it is clear that the apostles and evangelists in translating the old testament scriptures have sought to give the meaning rather than the words and that they have not greatly cared to preserve forms or constructions, so long as they could make clear the subject to understanding.” While it is true that these authors did not feel rigorous fidelity in quotation was a requirement, the degree to which “forms or constructions” in the Septuagint were preserved in the New Testament is remarkable.

The table of quotations in New Testament order includes a column labeled with the following letters:

P - perfect or near-perfect quotation from the Septuagint - only minor differences, such as word order, articles, inconsequential pronouns, etc.

S - perfect but some words replaced with synonyms (example - Romans 9.17) or with words of related meaning.

O - the New Testament omits portions of the Septuagint text - ellipsis (example - Mark 7.6-7).

L - poetic license employed by the New Testament author: a portion of the Septuagint is replaced or reconstructed (example - Hebrews 10.5-7).

A - the New Testament author augments the Septuagint with additional wording (example - Romans 11.9-10).

F - fragmentary (some words in common - replacements as frequent or more so).

E - few to no words in common (empty set).

Perfect (P) quotations and those simply involving an ellipsis (O) show the highest fidelity to the Septuagint, while the other end of the spectrum is represented by cases where few to no common words can be found (E) or where the same words appear, but in a fragmentary fashion (F). In between are the cases of poetic license (L) and those where liberty of a more restrained form has been taken - through the use of synonyms (S) and by the augmentation (A) of the Old Testament wording with an idea foreign to the literal sense of the text.

Examples of these last three are perhaps in order. Malachi 3.1 is an example of an “L” - the New Testament author, following the sense of the Masoretic text - replaces the idea of the messenger surveying the way of the Messiah with that of preparation. Another example of an “L” is provided by 1 Corinthians 3.20/Psalm 94.11. There, “the Lord knows the thoughts of men” is altered to “the Lord knows the thoughts of the wise.”

As an example of the New Testament authors’ use of synonyms (S), consider Galatians 4.30/Genesis 21.10. The Septuagint translates as, “Cast out this bondswoman and her son, for the son of this bondswoman shall not inherit with my son Isaac.” Paul has transformed this to read, “Cast out the handmaid and her son: for the son of the handmaid shall not inherit with the son of the freewoman.”

Augmentation (A) is seen in, for instance, in Acts 2.17-21/Joel 2.28-32. Luke appends the words “and they shall prophesy” to the quotation “Yea and on my servants and on my handmaidens in those days will I pour forth of my Spirit.”

The following table shows the distribution of quotations among the various categories (with P and O taken together) for the New Testament books. The distributions are shown in terms of percentage of quotations for each book in each category.

See Table 9: Categorization of the Fidelity of New Testament Quotations of the Septuagint

Several conclusions can be drawn. First, the majority of New Testament quotations are taken from the Septuagint without change or with relatively minor changes - 64 percent. Second, the New Testament authors felt no qualms about modifying the Old Testament passages to support their message - A, S and L-type quotations amounting to about 29 percent. Third, roughly 7 percent of quotations (22 altogether) are fragmentary or unrecognizable as quotations. Of these, only 12 are introduced by a formula of quotation, such as "it is written." Thus, only 12 quotations - unambiguously identified as quotations - depart radically from the wording of the Septuagint.

FURTHER EVIDENCE OF THE INFLUENCE OF THE SEPTUAGINT

Why does Stephen say that seventy-five entered into Egypt when Joseph sent for them (Acts 7.14) when the Masoretic text clearly reports there were seventy in all? "All the persons of the house of Jacob who came into Egypt were seventy" - Genesis 46.27. It appears, however, that Stephen was not in error. He was simply backing the Septuagint account: "all the souls of the house of Jacob who came with Joseph into Egypt were seventy-five souls." (Incidentally, this Septuagint reading of seventy-five is also found in one of the scrolls from Qumran.)

The Hebrew backs this reading of Genesis 10.24: "And Arphaxad begat Salah." The Septuagint has, "And Arphaxad begat Cainan and Cainan begat Sala." Similarly, the Hebrew in Genesis 11.12-13 is translated as: "And Arphaxad lived five and thirty years and begat Salah; And Arphaxad lived after he had begat Salah four hundred and three years and begat sons and daughters. And Salah lived thirty years and begat Eber." But the Septuagint has, "And Arphaxad lived a hundred and thirty-five years and begot Cainan. And Arphaxad lived after he had begotten Cainan, four hundred years and begot sons and daughters and died. And Cainan lived a hundred and thirty years and begot Sala; and Cainan lived after he had begotten Sala, three hundred and thirty years and begot sons and daughters and died." The apostle Luke apparently had the Septuagint account in mind when he listed the ancestry of the Christ. He wrote, "which was the son of Sala, which was the son of Cainan, which was the son of Arphaxad." (Luke 3.35-36).

Paul leaves a clue in Galatians 3.16-17: "Now, to Abraham and his seed were the promises made. He saith not and to seeds, as of many; but as of one, And to your seed, which is Christ. And this I say, that the covenant, which was confirmed before of God in Christ, the law, which was four hundred and thirty years after, cannot disannul, that it should make the promise of none effect." Does the Hebrew support a span of 430 years from the giving of the promises to Abraham and the giving of the Law? Apparently not, for the evangelical apologist Gleason Archer in his Bible Difficulties asserts that 645 years passed between those two events. Archer's conclusion is that the time interval in mind is between a subsequent confirmation of the promises (to Jacob in Genesis 46.2-4) and the production of the tablets on Sinai. This, however, seems a clever dodge. Paul says clearly that the time between God's making the promises to Abraham and the giving of the law was 430 years. Where did he get such an idea - if a careful examination of the chronology supports a number closer to 645 years? The likely explanation is that that Paul was reading the Septuagint's Exodus 12.40: "The sojourning of the children of Israel, while they sojourned in the land of Egypt and the land of C'anaan, was four hundred and thirty years."

That Paul relied upon the Septuagint is made strikingly clear from Romans 3.12-18. This entire passage is contained in one psalm in the Septuagint. The following table shows Romans 3.12-18 in the ASV, Brenton's English translation of Psalm 14.3 and the Greek for both New Testament and Septuagint passages.

See Table 10: Romans 3.12-18 in the New Testament and Psalm 14.3 in the Septuagint

The Hebrew for Psalm 14.3 ends with "no, not so much as one," so Paul cannot have obtained the entire quotation from this Psalm alone if he were reading from the Hebrew. In fact, if Paul were relying upon the Hebrew, he had to string together phrases from six separate locations in this passage: Psalm 14.1-3 (or 53.1-3), 5.9, 140.3, 10.7, Isaiah 59.7-9 and Psalm 36.1. It would be a remarkable coincidence if Paul - using the Hebrew alone - were to collect just these fragments in just the same order as they appear in the Septuagint. (Another explanation is that the Septuagint's rendering of Psalm 14.3 is a later modification by Christians, a falsification of the original Septuagint reading to bring it into agreement with Romans. However, if that were the case, one wonders why a more exact representation of Romans 3.10 and 11 is not presented in the Septuagint's Psalm 14.1-2, leading into the quotation in Table 9 above.) Quite plainly, the most plausible explanation is that, in Romans 3.12-18, Paul was quoting Psalm 14.3 from the Septuagint.

There are also many allusions in the New Testament to the Septuagint. For instance, in Revelation 1.4, John sends greetings to the seven churches in Asia from "he who is." In English, the reference may not be obvious. But, in the Greek, John uses the exact words God spoke from the burning bush in Exodus 3.14 (Septuagint) after Moses asked His name. As a second example, the author of the book of Hebrews seems to have had Wisdom 7.26 in mind when writing Hebrews 1.3.

CONCLUSIONS

The New Testament is a witness to the Church's use of the Septuagint as sacred scripture in its earliest days. This use continued throughout the Church until early in the fourth century when Jerome undertook a translation from the Hebrew of his day. We have seen in the section on the Septuagint in the Fathers that Jerome agreed with the proposition that the Church's Old Testament should be the same one quoted in the New Testament. But he held the view - which we have shown above to be manifestly incorrect - that the New Testament authors were faithful to the Hebrew Old Testament.

Is the example of New Testament usage sufficient grounds for a return to the Septuagint as the basis for Old Testament translation? Are there good reasons for translating from the Hebrew Masoretic text, as is the almost universal pattern in the Western world? It might be argued that the Hebrew of the Massorettes is truer to the original than the Septuagint, but this is doubtful given the existence of variant readings in the Hebrew before the second century A.D. The current Hebrew text is indeed the one selected by the rabbis at the end of the first century, which became the standard Hebrew Old Testament thereafter. However, legislation by a body outside the boundaries of the Church can hardly be binding. It could be argued that, even though there were variant readings in the Hebrew at earlier times, we can often be fairly certain that the Hebrew of the Massorettes and the Hebrew the Septuagint was based on are identical. In those cases, we should translate from the Hebrew and by doing so bring the sense into English with greater exactness. In response, this seems more of an argument for using the Hebrew as a translation aid than as the basis for translation. Such usage would doubtless be laudable. However, this approach should be undertaken with caution. As the meaning of words changes with time, the Septuagint Greek may often provide insight into the meaning of the Hebrew at the time of translation and so should not be freely replaced with an academic conjecture.

Jerome mentioned with embarrassment certain passages in the Septuagint which he believed to be incorrectly translated from the Hebrew. But before we can convict the Septuagint of translation error, we have to produce, at a minimum, the Hebrew text upon which the Septuagint is based. Since that text no longer exists, accusations of mistranslation remain unproven conjectures. And even if the Septuagint is thick with mistranslation, its errors are frequently sanctioned by the New Testament. For instance, if the word "virgin (parthenos in Greek)" in Isaiah 7.14 is a mistranslation of the Hebrew word almah, Matthew has given his assent to this error. In fact, those of us who believe the New Testament to be inspired by God are required to believe that many "errors" of the Septuagint are inspired also, because they are incorporated into the New Testament directly. If the errors that are quoted have Divine sanction, on what basis can we reject the errors that are not quoted? Or, consider what we imply if we say that the Masoretic text alone can lay claim to being the genuine Old Testament. The clear implication is that the authors of the New Testament were benighted and, ignorant of the truth, used an inferior text. The theological implications they drew when they quoted from "mistranslations" in the Septuagint should be rejected. Thus, the logical corollaries to the proposition that the Masoretic text alone is worthy to be considered the Old Testament include: Christ was not born of a virgin, the angels do not worship the Son, Christ did not come to restore sight to the blind, the behavior of the Jews was not cause for God's name to be blasphemed among the Gentiles, etc. In short, one seems forced to conclude that the New Testament is not inspired.

The author of this study has yet to discover any sufficient reason to consider the Masoretic text as preferable to the Septuagint. However, the case in favor of the Septuagint is subject to criticism. Even assuming that the New Testament warrant is sufficient grounds for using a text, one could argue that the New Testament witness is muddled. Although we do find the apostles and their followers using the Septuagint as we know it with great frequency, they also stray toward other sources - sometimes to a text very similar to the Masoretic, sometimes to a text we do not currently possess. Though our failure to recognize the basis for the quotation may often be due to paraphrase, there are cases that are very difficult to explain in this way. Jerome mentioned two of them in a passage quoted in the section on the fathers: "For he shall be called a Nazarene" (Matthew 2. 23) is one example. Another is, "Rivers of living water shall flow out of his belly" (John 7.38).

It is possible that every quotation in the New Testament is from a Septuagint, but from one, though popular in the first century, we no longer possess in its entirety. It is reasonable to conclude from the writings of Irenaeus and Justin Martyr that their scriptures were slightly different from our own. When the New Testament strays from the Masoretic Text, these fathers do too, at least where common quotations can be examined. But there are also portions of scripture quoted in the fathers that are not available in our version of the Greek text. For instance, in his Dialogue with Trypho Justin claimed that the Jews had deleted the verse, "The Lord remembered His dead people of Israel who lay in the graves; He descended to preach to them His own salvation." Irenaeus also quoted the same verse, though he attributed it to Jeremiah on one occasion and to Isaiah on the other. Justin also claimed that the Jews had removed the words "from the wood" from the verse in Psalm 96: "Tell among the nations, the Lord has reigned from the wood." Neither of these is in the Septuagint we possess today. As a third example, Justin quoted the following, possibly from Ezra or Nehemiah: "And Esdras said to the people: This Passover is our Savior and our refuge. If you have understood and your heart has taken it in and we shall humble Him on a standard and thereafter hope in Him, then this place shall not be forsaken for ever, says the God of Hosts. But if you will not believe Him and will not listen to His declaration, you will be a laughingstock to the nations."

In short, neither the Greek nor the Hebrew Old Testament is perfect. The decision to abandon the Septuagint in favor of the Hebrew was made on the mistaken belief that the New Testament quotes exclusively from the Hebrew Old Testament. A more modern argument in favor of the Hebrew might stress the near-perfect preservation of that text through the centuries - a contention proven false by the variant readings discovered in the Dead Sea Scrolls - or it might emphasize the mistranslations in the only other real contender, the Septuagint - which implies the rejection of the authority of the New Testament. The argument in favor of returning to the Septuagint notes the general (though not universal) reliance on it by the New Testament authors and their followers in the early Church. The New Testament can be more fully understood and appreciated, it is argued, if read in conjunction with the Septuagint, because the language of the Greek Old Testament is present throughout the New, both in overt quotations and allusions. The theology of the Church, as explained by the Fathers of the first several centuries, rests on the wording of the Septuagint. If this theology is true and worthy of defense, it is critical that Christians, especially Orthodox Christians, be thoroughly familiar with the Bible of the founders and early defenders of the Church of Christ.

From a statistic perspective alone, it seems clear that the case in favor of the Septuagint is the stronger of the two. But the same primary argument in favor of translation from the Septuagint - New Testament precedent - implies that the Christian should be aware of Masoretic readings. In like manner, our desire to understand the theology of the early Church in the light of Her scriptures entails the need to retain familiarity with those scriptures - such as the ones quoted by Justin Martyr above - which appear to have dropped out of the Old Testament over the years. In the view of this contributor, then, the ideal Old Testament will be based on the Septuagint as the primary source and will include extensive footnotes including significant variant readings from all other sources, including the Masoretic text, the Dead Sea Scrolls, the Samaritan Pentateuch and the Fathers of the Church.

QUOTATIONS IN NT ORDER

The table to below lists all quotations from the Old Testament which appear in the New. The column labeled "Meaning" contains characters which indicate whether the particular citation agrees in meaning with the Septuagint where that differs from the Masoretic (Hebrew) text - or vice versa. The column labeled "Quality" gives a sense for the agreement in word choice and order between the New Testament and the Septuagint. A key to the symbols is provided at the bottom of this page and on the Table of Contents frame.

KEY TO THE TABLE BELOW:

* - implies the New Testament context indicates that this is a quotation.

† - indicates that textual variants in the Septuagint are important.

‡ - indicates that textual variants available in the Dead Sea Scrolls are discussed in the associated detailed summary.

° - indicates that textual variants in the New Testament are discussed in the associated detailed summary.

For the "Meaning" column:

U - according to the UBS 4th edition Greek New Testament, these passages agree with the Septuagint against the sense of the Hebrew text.

J - this is my own judgment based on head-to-head comparisons of the New Testament and Septuagint. A "J" indicates that the New Testament quotation agrees with the Septuagint in meaning, against the sense of the Hebrew text.

H - these passages, in my judgment, agree with the Hebrew against the sense of the Septuagint.

D - disagrees with both the Septuagint and the Hebrew

Annotations relating to "Quality":

P - perfect or near-perfect quotation from the Septuagint - only minor differences, such as word order, articles, inconsequential pronouns, etc.

S - perfect but some words replaced with synonyms (example - Romans 9.17) or with words of related meaning.

O - the New Testament omits portions of the Septuagint text - ellipsis (example - Mark 7.6-7).

L - poetic license employed by the New Testament author: a portion of the Septuagint is replaced or reconstructed (example - Hebrews 10.5-7).

A - the New Testament author augments the Septuagint with additional wording (example - Romans 11.9-10).

F - fragmentary (some words in common - replacements as frequent or more so).

E - few to no words in common (empty set).

The "Weight" column indicates whether the Old Testament source is unique (weight=1), or if multiple Old Testament passages could be the source of the quotation (fractional weights). In some cases, it seems that one of the Old Testament sources listed by UBS is inferior to the others. In those cases, a weight of zero has been assigned. These weights are used to establish the total number of quotations, the percentage of quotations in agreement with the Septuagint text, etc.

DEAD SEA SCROLLS-SEPTUAGINT ALIGNMENTS AGAINST THE MASORETIC TEXT

The following table shows Septuagint readings which differ from the Masoretic text, but which are supported by the Dead Sea Scrolls. Underlining is used to highlight the differences so supported. The "Septuagint" column largely reflects Brenton's translation and the "Masoretic Text" is based on the American Standard Version. The table is limited to the first five books of the Bible, but similar variations prevail elsewhere.

I have made clarifications where those translations do not sufficiently delineate differences in the source texts. For instance, Brenton translated the Greek in Gen 1.9 with "place," which I have replaced with the more exact "gathering."

Note also that for extended passages such as Gen 1.9 and Ex 22.5, the Dead Sea Scroll evidence in favor of the Septuagint reading is often fragmentary. That is, if the entire scroll were still extant, it would definitely contain additional material not present in the Masoretic text and the material that has been recovered agrees with the Septuagint.

Although the Dead Sea Scrolls often support Septuagint readings, they also frequently oppose them. Thus, the alignments listed below are evidence for the antiquity of Hebrew source text of the Septuagint and for the diversity of the Hebrew Old Testament in ancient times. But they do not, in themselves, argue that the Hebrew source the Septuagint is based upon is preferable to the Masoretic text.

The list of passages given below was generated using the footnotes in The Dead Sea Scrolls Bible, Abegg, Flint and Ullrich, HarperCollins, 1999.

NOTEWORTHY DIFFERENCES BETWEEN THE SEPTUAGINT AND THE MASORETIC TEXT IN GENESIS

The table below is not comprehensive: a great many less significant differences have not been noted. Many of these involve pronouns (such as 16.8, where the LXX reads “the angel of the Lord” and the Masoretic text simply has “he”). However, I have attempted to note all differences involving the names or titles of deity, since these are sometimes used as clues to authorship. Sometimes a minor difference will be noted once then ignored throughout the remainder of the section or chapter.

The Septuagint translation is based on Brenton's work, but has been corrected in the direction of Rahlfs' text. The 1901 American Standard Version is the principal source for the "From the Hebrew" column.

Bold chapter verse numbers indicate discrepancies that may be considered particularly interesting.

	From the Septuagint	From the Hebrew
1.2	But the earth was invisible and unfinished and darkness was over the abyss and the Spirit of God moved over the water.	The earth was waste and void ; and darkness was upon the face of the deep: and the Spirit of God moved upon the face of the waters.

When that year was ended, they came unto him the second year and said unto him, We will not hide from my lord, how that our money is all spent; and the herds of cattle are my lord's; there is nought left in the sight of my lord, but our bodies and our lands :

48.7	"And as for me when I came out of Mesopotamia of Syria, Rachel, your mother , died in the land of C'anaan, as I drew near to the hippodrome of Chabratha of the land of C'anaan, so as to come to Ephratha; and I buried her in the way of the hippodrome; this is Bethlehem ." PATRISTIC AND OTHER EARLY CHRISTIAN GUIDANCE FOR THE TRANSLATION OF THE SEPTUAGINT INTO ENGLISH

The table below is illustrative of a methodology, but does not follow that methodology through in a comprehensive manner. Ideally, one would prefer to act on the basis of a patristic consensus as to the meaning of a given text, rather than on the writings of one or two early Christian writers.

Verse Reference	Brenton's Translation (except where noted)	Modified Translation	Comments
Gn 1.20	And God said: Let the waters bring forth reptiles having life and winged creatures flying above the earth in the firmament of heaven	And God said: "Let the waters bring forth moving creatures having life and winged creatures that fly above the earth in the firmament of	Brenton uses "reptiles" for the things swimming in the waters. Basil (Hexameron 7) explains that fish "creep" through the water. A better translation is thus "moving creatures."

	and it was so.	heaven." It was so.
Gn 32.31-32	And Jacob called the name of that place, the Face of God; for, said he, I have seen God face to face and my life was preserved. The sun rose upon him when he passed the Face of God; He halted upon his thigh.	And Jacob called the name of that place, the Form of God; for, said he, I have seen God face to face and my life was preserved. The sun rose upon him when he passed the Form of God; He halted upon his thigh.	The Greek word εἶδος translated "Face" in Brenton is more commonly given as "shape," "fashion," or "form." Athanasius (Discourse 3.16) contrasted Jacob, who had seen God's Form (whom he identified with the Word), with Jesus' audience in John 5.37-38. To preserve the contrast, it is important that εἶδος be rendered in the same way in both John and Genesis. So in John, "Ye have neither heard his voice at any time, nor seen his form."
Ex 12.41	It came to pass after the four hundred and thirty years, all the forces of the Lord came forth out of the land of Egypt by night.	It came to pass after the four hundred and thirty years, all the power of the Lord came forth out of the land of Egypt by night.	"Forces" should be replaced with "power." See justification at note on Joel 2.25.
Ex 33.19	And God said: I will pass by before you with my glory and I will call by my name, the Lord , before you.	And God said: "I will pass by before you with my glory and I will proclaim the name of the Lord before you."	Cyril of Jerusalem (Catechetical Lecture 9.8), evidently followed the text of Codex Alexandrinus (as represented in the modified translation). He argued: "Being Himself the Lord, what Lord doth He proclaim? you seest how He was covertly teaching the godly doctrine of the Father and the Son." The reading of Alexandrinus thus supports Trinitarian theology.
Lv 23.40	And on the first day ye shall take goodly fruit of trees and branches of palm trees and thick boughs of trees and willows and branches of osiers from the brook	And on the first day ye shall take goodly fruit of trees and branches of palm trees and thick boughs of trees and willows and branches of agnos from the brook	Brenton ended the list of arboreal items to be brought during the Feast of Tabernacles with "branches of osiers from the brook." The word translated osiers is actually agnos , which is very much like the Greek word for chastity. Methodius (Banquet 4) provided a figurative reading of this passage in which he noted that the agnos is "by its very name the tree of chastity." Hence, it seems best to leave the tree with its Greek name, add a footnote to explain its significance and thus preserve the allusion.
Nu 23.19	God is not as man to waver , nor as the son of man to be threatened.	Not like a man is God suspended , nor like a son of man does he suffer threats	A translation from the Masoretic Hebrew reads, "God is not a man, that he should lie, neither the son of man, that he should repent." This could be read as a denial of the deity of the Son of Man, Christ and a denial of His Incarnation. Brenton's translation is an improvement. But the Greek verb in the first clause can be translated in any of these ways: to be suspended, to waver, to be deceived. Since Cyprian (Treatise 12.2.20) understood the first part of the verse to mean that the crucifixion (suspension) of Christ from the cross would not be like other crucifixions, the quite literal rendering (to be suspended) is preferable in this case. Thus an improved translation is: "Not like a man is God suspended, nor like a son of man does he suffer threats"; as if to say, "God may be crucified, but not with impunity, not as though he were a mere man."

Dt 13.18, 14.1	if you will hear the voice of the Lord your God, to keep his commandments, all that I charge you this day, to do that which is good and pleasing before the Lord your God. Ye are the children of the Lord your God: ye shall not make any baldness between you eyes for the dead.	If you will hear the voice of the Lord your God, to keep his commandments, all that I charge you this day, to do that which is good and pleasing before the Lord your God, ye are the children of the Lord your God. Ye shall not make any baldness between your eyes for the dead.	Athanasius (De Decretis 6) plainly read the passage as follows: “If you will hear the voice of the Lord your God, to keep his commandments, all that I charge you this day, to do that which is good and pleasing before the Lord your God, ye are the children of the Lord your God. “Ye shall not make any baldness between your eyes for the dead.” Thus, where Brenton connected “ye are the children of the Lord your God” with the sequel, Athanasius understood it to form the apodosis of 13.18.
Ps 4.5 (4.4)	feel compunction upon your beds for what ye say in your hearts	No modification.	Rahlf, following Cyprian (Treatise 4.5), presents a text that could be translated, “Speak ye in your hearts and upon your beds be grieved [or pierced]”; or “Speak ye in your hearts and upon your beds: be grieved.” It would appear, however, that most early Christian writers followed texts that agree with Brenton. Hence, Brenton’s translation should not be altered materially.
Ps 5.4 (5.3)	In the morning you shalt hear my voice: in the morning will I wait upon you and will look up .	in the morning you shalt hear my voice: in the morning I will stand beside you and I will see .	According to Augustine (On the Psalms 5.4-5), commenting on this verse in a Latin translation of the LXX, a man stands by God when he does not lie in earthly pleasures, He sees God “when the night of iniquity is over.” An alternate translation of the Greek agrees with this understanding: “in the morning you shalt hear my voice: in the morning I will stand beside you and I will see.” (There is no need to understand this to imply that a vision of God’s essence results.)
Ps 5.12 (5.11)	But let all that trust on you be glad in you: they shall exult for ever and you shalt dwell among them.	But let all that trust on you be glad in you: they shall exult for ever and you shalt dwell in them.	Augustine (On the Psalms 5.16) understood this verse to speak of Christ as our indweller (as in Ephesians 3.17). Thus, “But let all that trust on you be glad in you: they shall exult for ever and you shalt dwell in them.”
Ps 6.5	who will give you thanks in hades?	in hades who will confess to you?	The Apostolic Constitutions (Book 2, Chapter 13) employed this verse to prove that there is no repentance after death. Thus, “in hades who will confess to you?” (The same argument applies to Psalm 29.10 (30.9): “Shall the dust give praise to you?” becomes “Shall the dust confess to you?”) This rendering is bolstered also by Cyprian who, using a Latin translation based on the LXX, understood Ps 6.5 to refer to confession (Epistle 61.17).
Ps 6.8 (6.7)	I am worn out because of all my enemies.	I have grown old among all mine enemies	Augustine (On the Psalms , 6.9) remarked that the “enemies” were sins and Paul had written that we must put off the old man and his deeds (Colossians 3.9-10). Hence, “I have grown old among all mine enemies,” a more literal rendering of the Greek, in agreement with Charles Thomson’s version

Ps 7.5 (7.4)	if I have requited with evil those who requited me with good .	if I have repaid those who requited me evil	Augustine (On the Psalms , 7.3), commenting on this verse, wrote, “He then who repayeth not those who recompense evil, is perfect.” Thus, in his view, the verse is an admonition against returning evil for evil (not evil for good, as Brenton has it) and an appropriate translation would be: “if I have repaid those who requited me evil.” Or, as Charles Thomson has it, “if I have requited them evil who did me wrong.”
Ps 7.14 (7.13)	he has completed his arrows for the raging ones .	he has wrought his arrows for those who burn .	Augustine (On the Psalms 7.14) understood the arrows to be the apostles, who set afire those they taught with a “great love of the kingdom of heaven.” Thus the more literal rendering, “he has wrought his arrows for those who burn.”
Ps 7.15 (7.14)	Behold, he has travailed with unrighteousness, he has conceived trouble and brought forth iniquity.	Behold, he has travailed with unrighteousness, he has conceived toil and brought forth iniquity.	Augustine (On the Psalms 7.16) took this to be a reference to the toil that came as a consequence of Adam’s sin. Hence, “Behold, he has travailed with unrighteousness, he has conceived toil and brought forth iniquity.”
Ps 9.27 (10.6)	For he has said in his heart, I shall not be moved, continuing without evil from generation to generation.	For he has said in his heart, “I shall not be moved from generation to generation without evil .”	Augustine (On the Psalms 10.4) interpreted a more literal translation as follows: “A mind vain and full of error supposes that it cannot come from the mortal generation to the generation of eternity but by bad arts.” Thus, “For he has said in his heart, “I shall not be moved from generation to generation without evil.”
Ps 9.36 (10.15)	his sin shall be sought for and shall not be found.	his sin shall be sought, He shall not be found because of it .	Brenton’s text omits two Greek words, included in Rahlfs, that transform the verse thus: “his sin shall be sought, He shall not be found because of it.” With this Augustine (On the Psalms 10.12) agreed: “that is, he shall be judged for his sins and himself shall perish because of his sin.”
Ps 11.6 (12.5)	Because of the misery of the poor and because of the sighing of the needy, now will I arise, saith the Lord, I will set them in safety ; I will speak to them thereof openly .	Because of the misery of the poor and because of the sighing of the needy, now will I arise,” saith the Lord. “I will set them in salvation ; I will speak boldly in him .	Cyril of Jerusalem (Catechetical Lecture 14.4) understood the first part of this verse to refer to the resurrection of Christ. With this in mind, “safety” can be replaced with “salvation,” which better suggests Christ’s work. Then the final clause can be translated in a straightforward way as, “I will speak boldly in him”; for, as Augustine wrote (On the Psalms 12.7), this is “according to that in the Gospel, ‘For he taught them as one having authority and not as one of their scribes.’ [Mt 7.29]” Hence, “Because of the misery of the poor and because of the sighing of the needy, now will I arise,” saith the Lord. “I will set them in salvation; I will speak boldly in him.”
Ps 16.4 (17.4)	I am purposed that my mouth shall not speak amiss . As for the works of men, by the words of your lips I have guarded myself from hard ways.	That my mouth shall not speak the works of men, for the sake of the words of your lips I have kept hard ways	In his Institutes (Book 4.15), John Cassian referenced this verse when he determined to treat “with silence those things of which it is a shame even to speak.” Elsewhere (Conference 24.22), the second part of the verse is contrasted with Christ’s saying: “My yoke is easy and my burden is light” (Matthew 11.30). A translation more literal than Brenton’s and one that comports with Cassian’s understanding, is: “That my mouth shall not speak the works of men, for the sake of the words

Ps 16.13 (17.13)	deliver my soul from the ungodly: draw your sword, because of the enemies of thine hand.	deliver my soul from the ungodly: your sword from the enemies of thine hand.	Augustine (On the Psalms 16.13) commented as follows: “My soul is your weapon, which your hand, that is your eternal power, hath taken to subdue thereby the kingdoms of iniquity and divide the righteous from the ungodly. This weapon, then ‘deliver from the enemies of Thine hand.’” A more literal translation is, “deliver my soul from the ungodly: your sword from the enemies of thine hand.”
Ps 17.41 (18.40)	And you has made mine enemies turn their backs before me.	Thou hast also given me a back of mine enemies.	Augustine (On the Psalms 18.41), reading a literal Latin translation of the Greek, interpreted the verse to mean that God had “made them [the enemies] to be a back to” the psalmist, “that is, to follow” him. Thus, “Thou hast also given me a back of mine enemies.”
Ps 18.6 (19.6)	His going forth is from the extremity of heaven and his circuit to the other end of heaven: and no one shall be hidden from his heat.	His going forth is from the height of heaven and his goal unto the height of heaven: and no one shall be hidden from his heat.	Brenton thus tied the meaning of this verse to the movement of the sun mentioned in the previous verse: “he [the sun] will exult ... to run his course.” However, Irenaeus said that when the Psalmist expressed himself in this way, he “announced that very truth of His being taken up again to the place from which He came down and that there is no one who can escape His righteous judgment. (Irenaeus, Against Heresies , 4.33.13)” The verse was read not as a description of astronomical phenomena but as a prophecy of Christ’s Incarnation, Ascension back into heaven and future judgment of mankind. Thus a revised translation, which is in fact closer to the Greek, reads, “His going forth is from the height of heaven and his goal unto the height of heaven: and no one shall be hidden from his heat.”
Ps 27.8 (28.8)	The Lord is the strength of his people and the saving defender of his anointed.	The Lord is the strength of his people and the shield of the salvation of his Christ.	Augustine (On the Psalms 27.8) commented as follows: “That, having saved them by His Christ, after the strength of war, He may protect them at the last with the immortality of peace.” A more literal translation supports Augustine’s interpretation: “The Lord is the strength of his people and the shield of the salvation of his Christ.” The Lord, then, is the protector of the salvation that comes through Christ, not the saving protector of his Christ. (Notice also that “salvation” here is actually plural: “salvations”.)
Ps 29.10 (30.9)	What profit is there in my blood when I go down to destruction?	What profit is there in my blood when I go down to corruption?	Athanasius (Letter 6.4) referred this verse to the Lord, who “for our sakes ... came down and being incorruptible, put on a corruptible body for the salvation of all of us.” He went on to explain that the verse “does not mean that the descent of the Lord was without profit, for it gained the whole world; but rather that after He had thus suffered, sinners would prefer to suffer loss than to profit by it.” In his view, then, the verse is a caution to sinners, showing them the Word’s dismay that they should reject him and make his sacrifice of no profit to them. But since this is the world of corruption, not destruction, the following is preferable: “What profit is there in my blood when I go down to corruption ?”

Ps 34.12 (35.12)	They rewarded me evil for good and bereavement to my soul.	They rewarded me evil for good and barrenness to my soul.	“Bereavement” is more literally “barrenness.” Augustine (On the Psalms 35.13), commenting on this verse, identified this barrenness with “the tree He cursed when seeking fruit He found none” [Mt 21.19].
Ps 34.18 (35.18)	in an abundant people I will praise you.	in a weighty people I will praise you.	The Greek word translated “abundant” is, more literally, “heavy.” Augustine (On the Psalms 35.21) contrasts the “weighty people of God” with those whom the wind carries away like chaff. Hence, “in a weighty people I will praise you.”
Ps 35.9 (36.8)	They shall be fully satisfied with the fatness of your house.	They shall be drunk with the fatness of your house	Cyril of Jerusalem (Catechetical Lectures 17.19) understood this verse as a prophecy of the day of Pentecost: “But Peter who had the Holy Ghost and who knew what he possessed, says, ‘Men of Israel, ye who preach Joel, but know not the things which are written, these men are not drunk as ye suppose. (Acts 2.15)’” Thus the translation, “They shall be drunk with the fatness of your house,” which is also closer to the Greek.
Ps 37.8 (38.7)	For my soul is filled with mockings ; and there is no health in my flesh.	For my soul is filled with delusions ; and there is no health in my flesh.	There are variant readings in the Greek. Rahlfs prefers “For my loins are filled with mockings ...”, which brings the Greek closer to the modern Hebrew (as Rahlfs is wont to do). In some manuscripts, the “mockings” is replaced with a word that can also mean “delusions.” Even without this variant, it would appear that a soul filled with “mockings” could be described as delusional. Thus, “For my soul is filled with delusions ...” is a third possible translation. This appears to be Augustine’s understanding of his Latin, for he wrote (On the Psalms 38.10), “Let mourning be our portion, until our soul be divested of its illusions and our body be clothed with soundness.” (Jerome’s Latin (Against the Pelagians 3.14) appears to have read “loins,” as in the Douay translation.)
Ps 37.21 (38.20)	[Brenton omits the last line of this verse.]	and they cast me forth, the beloved, as a loathsome carcase	Brenton omits the last line of this verse. However, the following appears in Psalterium Graeco-Latinum Veronese, which dates to the sixth century, at the end of the verse: “and they cast me forth, the beloved, as a loathsome carcase.” Augustine (On the Psalms 38.25) read these words in his Latin version and commented, “Was it not enough that he was ‘dead’? Wherefore ‘in abomination’ also? Because he was crucified.”
Ps 39.7 (40.6)	Sacrifice and offering you wouldest not; but a body hast you prepared me.	No modification.	Rahlfs text, following the Gallican Psalter, replaces “a body” with “ears,” though the three most ancient uncials have “a body” in agreement with Hebrews 10.5. Irenaeus (Against Heresies , 4.17) also apparently read the psalm as Rahlfs has it, though the difference is not critical to his argument. In Athanasius (Letter 6), the incarnational aspect of the verse is important as it is in Hebrews and the reading is as in Brenton. Thus, Brenton’s underlying text here seems preferable to Rahlfs.

Ps 43.13 (44.12)	Thou hast sold your people without price and there was no profit by their exchange	Thou hast sold your people without price and there was no multitude in their jubilations	The word Brenton renders with “exchange,” ἀλλαγμασιν, appears to be the dative plural of “jubilation” or “loud noise”; while “profit” is more commonly rendered “multitude.” Hence Augustine (On the Psalms 44.11): “For when the Christians were flying before the pursuit of enemies, who were idolaters, were there then held any congregations and jubilees to the honour of God?” Thus, “Thou hast sold your people without price and there was no multitude in their jubilations.” (The reading “exchange,” ἀλλαγμασιν, is present in Rahlfs, based on the Bohairic.)
Ps 44.8 (45.7)	God, hath anointed you with the oil of gladness above your fellows .	God, hath anointed you with the oil of gladness above those who partake of you .	In reference to this verse Athanasius (Discourse 1.46) wrote, “The Singer speaks of us all as ‘fellows’ or ‘partakers’ of the Lord: but were He one of things which come out of nothing and of things originate, He Himself had been one of those who partake. But, since he hymned Him as the eternal God, saying: ‘Thy throne, O God, is unto ages of ages,’ and has declared that all other things partake of Him, what conclusion must we draw, but that He is distinct from originated things, He only the Father’s veritable Word, Radiancy and Wisdom, which all things originate partake, being sanctified by Him in the Spirit?” Athanasius’ understanding of μετοχους σου is reminiscent of Hebrews 3.14 (μετοχοι ... του χριστου, partakers of Christ) and 6.4 (μετοχους ... πνευματος αγιου, partakers of the Holy Spirit) in the Authorized Version. Thus, the alternate translation, “God, hath anointed you with the oil of gladness above those who partake of you.”
Ps 45.8 (46.7)	The Lord of Hosts is with us.	The Lord of powers is with us.	“Hosts” should be replaced with “powers” for the reasons given in the note at Joel 2.25. This change should occur at several other places in the Psalms as well.
Ps 48.3 (49.2)	both the sons of mean men and sons of great men; the rich and poor man together	both the earthborn and the sons of men; the rich and the poor man together	A more literal translation is, “both the earthborn and the sons of men; the rich and the poor man together.” With this Augustine (On the Psalms 49.3) agrees: “For whoever pertain to Adam, are ‘earthborn’: whoever pertain to Christ, are ‘sons of men’.”
Ps 48.12 (49.11)	And their sepulchres are their houses for ever, even their tabernacles to all generations: they have called their lands after their own names	And their sepulchres are their houses for ever, even their tabernacles to all generations: they have invoked their names upon their lands	The more common meaning of επικαλεω is to invoke, so an alternate translation would read, “And their sepulchres are their houses for ever, even their tabernacles to all generations: they have invoked their names upon their lands.” With this Augustine (On the Psalms 49.14) agrees: “They shall take bread and wine to their tombs and there they shall invoke the names of the dead.”
Ps 55.14 (56.13)	that I should be well-pleasing before God in the land of the living	that I should be well pleasing before God in the light of the living	The Greek quite plainly reads “light of the living”; and Augustine (On the Psalms 56.18) made much of this word: “‘Light of the living’ is light of the immortal, light of holy men. He that is not in darkness, is pleasing in the light of the living.”

			Hence, “that I should be well pleasing before God in the light of the living.”
Ps 67.12 (68.11)	The Lord God will give a word to those who preach it in a great company.	The Lord God will give a word to those who preach the gospel in much power.	Eusebius (Demonstratio Evangelica 3.1) quoted this verse to prove that “they [the disciples of the Lord] did not use human words to persuade their hearers, but that it was the power of God that worked with them in the Gospel preaching.” Thus, “The Lord God will give a word to those who preach the gospel in much power.”
Ps 67.5 (68.4)	make a way for him that rides upon the west (the Lord is his name)	make a way for him that hath ascended into the west (the Lord is his name)	According to Cyprian (Treatise 12.2.6), this is a proof that Christ is God. But the proof depends on the identification of the Lord with the one who ascends into, not rides upon, the west. Hence, “make a way for him that hath ascended into the west (the Lord is his name).” (See note on Psalm 67.34.)
Ps 67.9 (68.8)	the heavens dropped water at the presence of the God of Sina	the heavens dropped at the presence of the God of Sinai	Augustine (On the Psalms 68.8-9) understood the heaven itself to have dropped, He interpreted this to refer to the manna in the wilderness and to the efficacy of the gospel among the Gentiles. Hence, “the heavens dropped at the presence of the God of Sinai.”
Ps 67.13 (68.12)	The king of the forces of the beloved, of the beloved, will even grant them for the beauty of the house to divide the spoils.	The king of the powers of the beloved, even in the beauty of the house divideth the spoils.	The repetition of “of the beloved” is a peculiarity of Codex B and can be dropped. Eusebius (Demonstratio Evangelica 3.2) connected this verse with Isaiah 53.12, which pictures the Christ dividing the spoils; in Eusebius’ interpretation, the spoils are the Gentiles, divided among the disciples. A reading that fits his interpretation is, “The king of the powers of the beloved, even in the beauty of the house divideth the spoils.”
Ps 67.34 (68.33)	Sing to God that rides on the heaven of heaven, eastward.	Sing unto God that hath ascended upon the heaven of heaven, eastward.	(See note on Psalm 67.5.) According to Augustine (On the Psalms 68.38), “in these words, he perceiveth not Christ who believeth not his Resurrection and Ascension. ” Hence, “Sing unto God that hath ascended upon the heaven of heaven, eastward.”
Ps 68.1 (69.1)	for alternate strains	for those who shall be changed	Augustine (On the Psalms 69.2) understood this to refer to the change made in men by Christ’s Passion. (This revision also applies to Psalm 44.1 and 79.1.)
Ps 84.9 (85.8)	I will hear what the Lord God will say concerning me.	I will hear what the Lord God will say in me.	Athanasius implied (Discourse 3.2) that Asterius the Sophist used this verse in his vain attempt to draw Jesus down to the status of the prophets, by showing that God was in them as well as in Jesus . A more literal rendering is thus in order: “I will hear what the Lord God will say in me.”
Ps 85.16 (86.16)	give your strength to your servant and save the son of thine handmaid.	give your strength unto your child and save the son of thine handmaid.	Athanasius (Discourse 2.51-52) interpreted this differently. An alternate meaning of the word παῖς, translated “servant” in Brenton, is “child.” Athanasius explained the verse as follows: “For the natural and true child of God is one and the sons of the handmaid, that is, of the nature of things originate, are other. Wherefore the One, as Son, has the Father's might; but the rest are in need of salvation." He then proceeded to provide examples from Scripture where παις clearly means "child." Thus a translation that reflects Athanasius' understanding of the verse as a contrast between the uncreated Son, who by nature is Mighty God and mankind, which stands in need of salvation, is: "give your strength unto your child and save the son of thine handmaid."

Ps 86.4 (87.4)	I will make mention of Rahab and Babylon to those who know me.	I will make mention of Rahab and Babylon as among those who know me.	But Cyril of Jerusalem (Catechetical Lectures 2.9) stresses that this verse provides "Scriptural testimony of [Rahab's] having been saved" and so proves that wicked women also may be saved through repentance. A preferable translation is thus, "I will make mention of Rahab and Babylon as among those who know me."
Ps 90.9 (91.9)	For thou, O Lord, art my hope: thou, my soul , hast made the Most High your refuge.	For thou, O Lord, art my hope: you have made the Most High your refuge	Eusebius (Demonstratio Evangelica 9.7), viewing the Son as in subordination to the Father, interpreted this to mean the following: "For you thyself, O Lord, who art the hope of me that utter this prophecy, knowest a greater than thyself, God Most High and you have made Him your refuge." And though Eusebius' viewpoint in general smacks of Arianism, there is, in fact, no "my soul" in the verse. A straightforward translation is, "For thou, O Lord, art my hope: you have made the Most High your refuge," which can safely be understood of Christ as man.
Ps 109.3 (110.3)	With you is dominion in the day of your power, in the splendours of your saints : I have begotten you from the womb before the morning .	With you is dominion in the day of your power, in the splendours of your holy ones : from the womb before the morning star have I begotten you	Athanasius (Discourse 4.28) argued that this prophecy could not refer to the Son's birth of Mary, as was alleged by the Sabellians. Instead, it deals with the Son's ineffable generation from the Father, before he was born in the flesh as the descendant of David, the bright and morning star (Revelation 22.16). That Athanasius read "morning star" rather than simply "morning" is made doubly certain by the fact that he refers to the birth of the stars before Adam. (By using the expression "womb," the prophet indicates that the Son is "proper and genuine" to the Father and not a work (Discourse 4.27).) Hence the translation, "With you is dominion in the day of your power, in the splendours of your holy ones: from the womb before the morning star have I begotten you." ("Saints" is replaced by "holy ones," since the latter term is generally understood to include the holy angels.)
Ps 118.28 (119.28)	My soul has slumbered for sorrow .	My soul has slumbered for weariness .	The word translated "sorrow" is ακηδίας , which would be better translated as "apathy," "indifference," "torpor" or "weariness." On this passage, John Cassian (Institutes , 10.4) remarked, "Quite rightly does he say, not that his body, but that his soul slept. For in truth the soul which is wounded by the shaft of this passion [ακηδίας] does sleep, as regards all contemplation of the virtues and insight of the spiritual senses." An improved translation would then be, "My soul has slumbered for weariness.” (If the word “accidie” (spiritual sloth or sluggishness) had not dropped out of use, it would be perfect here.) (Rahlfs suggests “slumbered” be replaced with “dripped,” but since the majority of LXX texts read with Brenton, “slumbered” is preferable. Rahlfs appears to have been motivated by a desire to reproduce the Hebrew more accurately.) Similar modifications may be in order for Psalm 60.2, 101.1 and 142.4; Sirach 22.13 and 29.5; Isaiah 61.3; and Baruch 3.1.

Ps 118.85 (119.85)	Transgressors told me idle tales .	Transgressors told me subtleties .	Basil (On the Spirit , Chapter 1) spoke of his own “subtlety about syllables” and referred to this verse. “Subtlety” seems preferable to “idle tales” in Basil, since his emphasis early in On the Spirit is on fine yet unwarranted distinctions in meaning the transgressors (the Arians) were then using to demote the Spirit to creature status. (Earlier, Basil had referred to a proper care over the meaning of “every phrase ... and syllable” as laudable. His reference to this proper care as “subtlety ... about syllables” is ironic.) Hence, “Transgressors told me subtleties.”
Ps 130.2 (131.2).	I shall have sinned if I have not been humble, but have exalted my soul: according to the relation of a weaned child to his mother , so will you recompense my soul.	If I have not been humble-minded, but exalted my soul as a weaned child is to his mother , so will you recompense my soul.	John Cassian (Institutes 1.3) reported that Egyptian monks wore cowls “which cover[ed] only the head, in order that they may constantly be moved to preserve the simplicity and innocence of little children.” (In the ancient world, such dress was characteristic of children who had not been weaned and of peasants.) Cassian, reading a Latin translation of the LXX, used this verse to support the monks’ practice and a more literal translation makes the connection clear: “If I have not been humble-minded, but exalted my soul as a weaned child is to his mother, so will you recompense my soul.” A contrast (whether supported by the actual experience of the race in raising children or not) is implied between children who have not been weaned, whose innocence monks emulate and weaned children, who are often rascals.
Ps 137.8 (138.8).	O Lord, you shalt recompense them on my behalf.	O Lord, you shalt recompense on my behalf	Athanasius (On Luke X.22, 2) employed this verse to bolster the thought that Christ died in man’s place, taking upon himself God’s judgment of mankind. The incarnate Logos paid what was due on mankind’s behalf. Hence the line should be rendered as though spoken to Christ the Lord: “O Lord, you shalt recompense on my behalf.” (That this thought is fully in keeping with Athanasius’ soteriology is plain from Incarnation of the Word , section 20.)
Job 7.18	Wilt you visit him till the morning and judge him till the time of rest?	Wilt you visit him till the morning and judge him in rest?	Cyril of Jerusalem (Catechetical Lecture 14.5) understood this to refer to Christ’s death (a rest) and burial as a judgment of those who had rejected him. Hence, “Wilt you visit him till the morning and judge him in rest?”
Job 12.24	Perplexing the minds of the princes	Reconciling the hearts of the	Cyril of Jerusalem (Catechetical Lectures 13.14) connected this passage to L 23.12: “the same day Pilate and Herod were made friends together, for

	of the earth.	princes of the earth.	before they were at enmity.” Cyril wrote: “For it became Him who was on the eve of making peace between earth and heaven, to make the very men who condemned Him the first to be at peace; for the Lord Himself was there present, ‘who reconciles the hearts of the princes of the earth.’” This also appears closer to the Greek, but doesn’t fit the immediate context in Job as well as Brenton’s choice. (Incidentally, Charles Thomson’s translation, “Who changeth the heart of the rulers of a land,” fits the context and is fairly close to the Greek.) A translation based on Cyril’s understanding would read, “reconciling the hearts of the princes of the earth.”
Job 14.10, 14	But a man that has died is utterly gone; and when a mortal has fallen, he is no more. ... If a man should die, shall he live again, having accomplished the days of his life? I will wait till I exist again?	But a man that hath died is utterly gone? When a mortal hath fallen, he is no more? ... If a man should die, he shall live again, having accomplished the days of his life. I will wait till I be made again.	Verse 10 is preceded by a description of a tree, seemingly dead, that revives. Brenton has taken verse 10 to mark a contrast between the tree and man, who simply stays dead. Thus he has, “But a man that has died is utterly gone; and when a mortal has fallen, he is no more.” Cyril of Jerusalem (Catechetical Lectures 18.15), however, saw continuity between trees and mankind. Like trees, man will also come to life again, in the resurrection. Thus Cyril would have verse 10 read, “But a man that hath died is utterly gone? When a mortal hath fallen, he is no more?” That is, if a tree can come to life again, can less be done for man, the head of creation? In verse 14, Brenton casts doubt on the resurrection by framing questions: “If a man should die, shall he live again, having accomplished the days of his life? I will wait till I exist again?” Cyril read that as an affirmation: “If a man should die, he shall live again, having accomplished the days of his life. I will wait till I be made again.” The problem with Cyril’s reading centers on verse 11, which appears to coordinate with 10 and include mankind with the seas and rivers, which, unlike the cut tree, are said to be gone for good when they dry up. Verse 12, however, solves the difficulty by pointing out that man is like the rivers and trees in that he will not rise again in this creation, but definitely like the trees in that he will live again (though only in the new creation).
Job 40.19.	This is the chief of the creation of the Lord; made to be played with by his angels.	This is the chief [or beginning] of the creation of the Lord; made to be mocked by his angels.	Of this verse, Cyril of Jerusalem wrote (Catechetical Lectures 8.4), “He rules even over the devil, but bears with him of His long-suffering, not from want of power; as if defeated ... But He suffered him to live, for two purposes, that he might disgrace himself the more in his defeat and that mankind might be crowned with victory. O all wise providence of God! which takes the wicked purpose for a groundwork of salvation for the faithful. For as He took the unbrotherly purpose of Joseph’s brethren for a groundwork of His own dispensation, and, by permitting them to sell their brother from hatred, took occasion to make him king whom He would; so he permitted the devil to wrestle, that the victors might be crowned; and that when victory was gained, he might be the more disgraced as being conquered by the weaker and men be greatly honoured as having conquered him who was once an Archangel.” From this it is plain that the alternate translation, given by Brenton in a footnote, is preferable: “This is the chief [or beginning] of the creation of the Lord; made to be mocked by his angels.”

Prv 8.30	I was by him, suiting myself to him.	I was with him, disposing creation.	Thomson’s version, “I was harmonizing with Him,” can be interpreted in the same way as Brenton’s. However, Athanasius (Discourse 2.20) understood the Son to be the “Framer” of the universe and used this verse as proof. In his translation of Athanasius, Newman rendered the participle $\alpha\rho\mu\omicron\zeta\omicron\upsilon\sigma\sigma\alpha$ (Brenton’s “suiting”) with “disposing,” and gives, “I was by him disposing.” My preference is, “I was with him, disposing creation.”
Prv 18.2	When an ungodly man cometh into a depth of evils, he despiseth them.	When an ungodly man cometh into a depth of evils, he despiseth.	Athanasius (Against the Heathen 1.8) used this verse as an illustration for the following truth: “Just as ... men who plunge into the deep, the deeper they go down, advance into darker and deeper places, so it is with mankind. For they did not keep to idolatry in a simple form, nor did they abide in that with which they began; but the longer they went on in their first condition, the more new superstitions they invented: and, not satiated with the first evils, they again filled themselves with others, advancing further in utter shamefulness and surpassing themselves in impiety.” Or, again, after quoting Proverbs 18.2 against the Arians (Discourse 3.1), he added: “For refutation does not stop them, nor perplexity abash them; but, as having ‘a whore’s forehead,’ they ‘refuse to be ashamed’ [Jeremiah 3.3] before all men in their irreligion.” The thought here is not that the wicked despise some familiar evils and replace them with others more evil. Nor is it that they despise “the depth of evils” itself. If they did, they would repent and the continuation of the verse, “but dishonour and reproach come upon him,” would seem out of place. Rather, those in the depth of evils seek out new wickedness because they thirst for evil in all its forms and despise everything good. They have an evil disposition that plunges them deeper into evil. Hence it seems better to end the verse with “despiseth” and not supply an object.
Prv 24.32	Afterwards I reflected.	Afterwards I repented.	Cyril of Jerusalem saw this as evidence of Solomon’s repentance (Catechetical Lectures 2.13); and, in fact, the Greek verb here is commonly translated repented. Hence, “Afterwards I repented.”
Hosea 4.12	they have gone astray in a spirit of whoredom.	they have been led astray by a spirit of fornication.	In his Life of Antony (section 6), Athanasius presented an encounter between Antony and the spirit of lust, who says that the prophet Hosea wrote of him in this passage and “by me [some] have been tripped up.” The thought, then, is not that some erred, whose error is characterized by fornication, but that the spirit of fornication caused some to err. Thus, “they have been led astray by a spirit of fornication.”

Hosea 10.5	and what should a king do for us, speaking false professions as his words? He will make a covenant: judgment shall spring up as a weed on the soil of the field. The inhabitants of Samaria shall dwell near the calf of the house of On; for the people of it mourned for it: and as they provoked him, they shall rejoice at his glory, because he has departed from them.	and what should a king do for us, speaking false professions as his words? He will make a covenant: judgment shall spring up as a weed on the soil of the field. The inhabitants of Samaria shall dwell near the calf of the house of On; for its people mourned for it: and as they provoked him before , they shall again rejoice at its glory, because he has departed from them.	Given that Hosea 10.6 describes Jesus’ being led away to King Herod, how should the previous verse be translated? Brenton’s version makes little sense (to me, at least) but does demonstrate the freedom the translator has with the Greek $\alpha\upsilon\tau\omicron\nu/\alpha\upsilon\tau\omicron\upsilon$, which can be represented with either “him” or “it.” Perhaps Brenton’s version can be improved if we consider this as a prophecy of the status of Israel (Samaria) after they reject their King, who makes a new covenant as a result of which judgment springs up upon the earth, a king whom they hand over to “king Jarim,” the wild vine. The thought of verse 5 would then be that even as the people used to provoke God by rejoicing in the glory of their idols, they shall do so again, after they reject their Messiah when they “shall live near the calf of the house of On.” Verse 5 could then be translated: “The inhabitants of Samaria shall dwell near the calf of the house of On; for its people mourned for it: and as they provoked him before , they shall again rejoice at its glory, because he has departed from them.” This is then followed by the prophecy of Christ’s appearance before Herod.
Hosea 10.6	And having bound it for the Assyrians, they carried it away as presents to king Jarim.	And having bound him for the Assyrians, they led him away as a present to king Jarim.	The “it” seems to indicate the “calf of the house of On” (verse 5). However, both Justin Martyr (Trypho 103) and Cyril of Jerusalem (Catechetical Lecture 13.14) understood this to refer to Christ being led away to appear before King Herod (Luke 23.7). Thus: “And having bound him for the Assyrians, they led him away as a present to king Jarim.” (Elsewhere Rufinus (Commentary on the Apostles Creed 21) explains that Jarim means “a wild vine,” and Herod was truly a wild vine in the sense that he was of an alien stock.)
Hosea 13.13-14	he is your wise son, because he shall not stay in the destruction of your children. I will deliver them out of the power of hades and will redeem them from death.	this your son is wise; therefore he shall not stay in the destruction of your children. I will deliver them out of the power of hades and will redeem them from death.	Lactantius (Divine Institutes 4.19) viewed this passage as a prophecy of Christ’s resurrection and Brenton’s translation harmonizes with that view. It reads, “he is your wise son, because he shall not stay in the destruction of your children. I will deliver them out of the power of hades and will redeem them from death.” Rahlf’s text , on the other hand, would force a “not” into the first clause: “he is not your wise son”; but the majority of manuscripts support Brenton on this point. With two alterations in the interest of accuracy, the passage can be rendered, “this your son is wise; therefore he shall not stay in the destruction of your children. I will deliver them out of the power of hades and will redeem them from death.”
Amos 9.6	It is he that builds his ascent up to the sky.	It is he that buildeth his ascension unto	Cyril of Jerusalem (Catechetical Lectures 14.24) quotes this verse as a prophecy of Christ’s ascension. Thus the translation: “It is he that

Micah 3.8	Surely I will strengthen myself with the Spirit of the Lord.	Surely I will perfect strength with the Spirit of the Lord.	Cyril of Jerusalem (Catechetical Lectures 16.29) read the passage as though Micah spoke here for God. Given that God has no need to strengthen himself and the fact that the verb here is not in the middle voice, a superior translation is, “Surely I will perfect strength with the Spirit of the Lord.”
Joel 2.25	I will recompense you for the years which the locust and the caterpillar and the palmerworm and the cankerworm have eaten, even my great army , which I sent against you.	I will recompense you for the years which the locust and the caterpillar and the palmerworm and the cankerworm have eaten, even my great power , which I sent against you.	In his Defense of the Nicene Definition (section 20), Athanasius noted how, at the council of Nicea, the Arians agreed to call the Son the “True Power” of the Father, since created things like cankerworms were also called His “power.” To restore this connection and to reflect the Greek text more literally, the word “army” should be replaced with “power.”
Nahum 2.1-2 (1.15-2.1)	for they shall no more pass through you to your decay . It is all over with him , he has been removed, 2 one who has been delivered from affliction has come up panting into your presence .	For they shall no more pass through you to that which is old : it is finished ; it hath been removed. 2 He went up, breathing upon your face, delivering you from tribulation .	Athanasius (Letter 1.8) noted this passage as a prophecy of Christ, who said: “It is finished” (John 19.20); who breathed upon the disciples’ faces and said: “Receive ye the Holy Ghost” (John 20.22). And, in fact, a literal rendering is, “For they shall no more pass through you to that which is old : it is finished ; it hath been removed. 2 He went up, breathing upon your face, delivering you from tribulation .” That which is old is, of course, the old covenant, under which one had to pass through Judea to arrive in Jerusalem where the temple stood.
Hab 2.15	Woe to him that gives his neighbour to drink the thick lees of wine .	Woe unto him that giveth his neighbour to drink muddy destruction .	Gregory of Nyssa (Against Eunomius 11.5), applying this verse to Eunomius, exclaimed, “How does he trouble and befoul the truth by flinging his mud into it!” Similarly, Antony (as portrayed in Athanasius’ Life of Antony 26) applied the verse to the demons who try to lead Christians, monks especially, from the life of holiness through deception. Thus, a more literal translation seems fitting: “Woe unto him that giveth his neighbour to drink muddy destruction.”
Hab 3.2	thou shalt be known between the two living creatures .	in the midst of two lives shalt you be known	Cyril of Jerusalem (Catechetical Lecture 12.20) wrote, “And what is the sign, O prophet, of the Lord’s coming? And presently he saith, ‘In the midst of two lives shalt you be known,’ plainly saying this to the Lord: ‘Having come in the flesh you livest and diest and after rising from the dead you livest again.’” Thus, “in the midst of two lives shalt you be known.”
Zeph 3.7-8	prepare thou, rise early : all their produce is spoilt. Therefore wait upon me, saith the Lord, until the day when I rise up for a witness .	“Prepare thyself, rise at dawn : all their gleanings are destroyed. Therefore wait you for me,” saith the Lord, “until the day of my resurrection at the Testimony .”	Cyril of Jerusalem (Catechetical Lecture 14.6) understood the passage as follows: “But what says Zephaniah in the person of Christ to the disciples? ‘Prepare thyself, be rising at the dawn: all their gleaning is destroyed’: the gleaning, that is, of the Jews, with whom there is not a cluster, nay not even a gleaning of salvation left; for their vine is cut down. See how He says to the disciples, ‘Prepare thyself, rise up at dawn’: at dawn expect the Resurrection. And farther on in the same context of Scripture He says, ‘Therefore wait you for Me, saith the Lord, until the day of My Resurrection at the Testimony.’ you seest that the Prophet foresaw the place also of the Resurrection, which was to be surnamed ‘the Testimony.’ For what is the reason that this spot of Golgotha and of the Resurrection is not called, like the rest of the churches, a church, but a Testimony? Why, perhaps, it was because of the Prophet, who had said: ‘until the day of My Resurrection at the Testimony.’” Hence the more literal translation, in agreement with Cyril’s understanding of the passage: “ ‘Prepare thyself, rise at dawn: all their gleanings are destroyed. Therefore wait you for me,’ saith the Lord, ‘until the day of my resurrection at the Testimony.’ ”

Zech 3.8	I bring forth my servant The Branch .	I bring forth my servant The Dayspring .	See the comments to Jeremiah 23.5.
Zech 6.12	Behold the man whose name is The Branch ; He shall spring up from his stem and build the house of the Lord.	Behold the man whose name is The Dayspring ; He shall spring up beneath it and build the house of the Lord.	“Branch” should be replaced with “Dayspring” for the reasons given at the comments on Jeremiah 23.5. “From his stem” is absent from the Greek, which reads “beneath it” or “beneath him.” Hence, “Behold the man whose name is The Dayspring; He shall spring up beneath it and build the house of the Lord.”
Zech 13.7	smite the shepherds and draw out the sheep .	smite the shepherd and the sheep shall be scattered .	Matthew 26.31 and Mark 14.27 both give the meaning thus: “smite the shepherd and the sheep shall be scattered.” This was Justin’s (Dialogue with Trypho , Chapter 53) understanding of the passage also: “the prophet Zechariah foretold that that this same Christ would be smitten and His disciples scattered.” The reading of Codex Alexandrinus, “smite the shepherd and the sheep shall be scattered,” agrees with both the New Testament and Justin.
Mal 2.10	Have ye not all one father? Did not one God create you?	Did not one God create you? Have ye not all one father?	Commenting on this passage, Athanasius (Discourse 2.59) wrote, “First he puts created, next Father, to shew ... that from the beginning we were creatures by nature and God is our creator through the Word; but afterwards we were made sons and thenceforward God the Creator becomes our Father also.” Rahlfs’ text agrees with Athanasius. Thus, “Did not one God create you? Have ye not all one father?”
Isaiah 8.4	For before the child shall know how to call his father or his mother, one shall take the power of Damascus and the spoils of Samaria before the king of the Assyrians.	For before the child shall know to call father or mother, he shall take the power of Damascus and the spoils of Samaria in the presence of the king of the Assyrians.	Athanasius (Incarnation of the Word 33, 37) understood this to be a prophecy of Christ’s rule over his enemies (as is Numbers 24.5-17). A closer translation of this verse that takes Athanasius’ interpretation into account reads, “For before the child shall know to call father or mother, he shall take the power of Damascus and the spoils of Samaria in the presence of the king of the Assyrians.”
Isaiah 9.4	they shall be willing , if they were	they shall wish they were burnt	The sense seems to be that fire would persuade them [those who steal garments] to be burnt with fire.	with fire:	willing to compensate the victims of their theft. However, Cyril of Jerusalem (Catechetical Lectures 12.24) implied that this refers to Jews who are troubled because they fail to recognize their Messiah, predicted in the following verse: “For unto us a son is born.” In like manner, Athanasius (Defence of His Flight 12-13) when he had shown that Jesus himself avoided those who threatened him, said of his critics, “When they see these things ... will they not desire, as it is written, to become fuel of fire, because their counsels and their words are contrary to what the Lord both did and taught?” Hence, “they shall wish they were burnt with fire: for unto us a son is born ...”

Isaiah 9.5	For a child is born to us and a son is given to us, whose government is upon his shoulder: and his name is called the Messenger of great counsel.	for unto us a child is born and unto us a son is given, whose government is upon his shoulder: and his name is called Angel of Great Counsel, Wonderful Counsellor, Mighty God, Potentate, Father of the Age to Come.	Athanasius (On Luke X.22, 5) made the point that this verse referred to the Son as a Father, the Father of the age to come. It seems prudent, then, to diverge from Codex Vaticanus here, which omits the reference to the Son as Father and to follow Codex Alexandrinus: “For unto us a child is born and unto us a son is given, whose government is upon his shoulder: and his name is called Angel of Great Counsel, Wonderful Counsellor, Mighty God, Potentate, Father of the Age to Come.” (Or one might follow Athanasius’ text, which seems to read, “For unto us a child is born and unto us a son is given, whose government is upon his shoulder: and his name is called Angel of Great Counsel, Mighty God, Potentate, Father of the Age to Come.”)
Isaiah 33.20	Behold, the city Zion, our refuge , thine eyes shall behold Jerusalem.	Behold, city of Zion: thine eyes shall see our salvation . Jerusalem ...	Irenaeus said that Isaiah wrote this to show “that He should Himself become very man, visible when He should be the Word giving salvation. (Against Heresies , 3.20.4)” Brenton removes the Messianic content of the prophecy altogether. An improved translation is thus, “Behold, city of Zion: thine eyes shall see our salvation. Jerusalem is ...” (The Masoretic version reads, “Look upon Zion, the city of our solemnities: thine eyes shall see Jerusalem.”)
Isaiah 38.19	from this day shall I beget children, who shall declare your righteousness.	from this day shall I make children, who shall declare your righteousness	Athanasius (Discourse 2.4), arguing against the Arians, who took the literal sense of verses such as Proverbs 8.22 (“the Lord created me”), emphasized that this verse shows that natural children are sometimes spoken of as “made,” even though they are, in fact, begotten. A more literal translation thus reads, “... from this day shall I make children, who shall declare your righteousness.”
Isaiah 42.5	Thus saith the Lord God, who ... giveth breath to the people on it and spirit to those who tread on it .	Thus saith the Lord God, who ... giveth breath to the people on it and spirit to those who trample upon it .	Both Irenaeus (Against Heresies 5.12.2) and Basil (On the Spirit 53) understood this verse to mean that, although God gives life to all living things, he reserves his Spirit for those who trample earthly desires underfoot. Hence, “Thus saith the Lord God, who ... giveth breath to the people on it and spirit to those who trample upon it.”
Isaiah 43.21	my people whom I have	my people whom I have	This verse is quoted in 1 Peter 2.9. However, the thought there is that there is a new people of God, whom he has acquired (through the blood of preserved to tell forth my praises.	acquired to tell forth my praises.	Christ), not an old people whom he has preserved. This is also Irenaeus' view of the passage. He wrote that Isaiah had "plainly announced that liberty which distinguishes the new covenant and the new wine which is put into new bottles (Mt 9.17), that is, the faith which is in Christ, by which He has proclaimed the way of righteousness sprung up in the desert and the streams of the Holy Spirit in a dry land, to give water to the elect people of God, whom He has acquired, that they might show forth His praise. (Irenaeus, Against Heresies 4.33.14)" Hence the revised translation, "my people whom I have acquired to tell forth my praises."

Isaiah 45.12	I have made the earth and man upon it: I with my hand have established the heaven; I have given commandment to all the stars.	I have made the earth and a man upon it: I with my hand have established the heaven; I have given commandment to all the stars	Given the fact that Eusebius (Demonstratio Evangelica 5.3) understood Isaiah 45.12-16 to be a prophecy of Christ and the subjection of the nations to him through the gospel, consideration should be given to the following: "I have made the earth and a man upon it: I with my hand have established the heaven; I have given commandment to all the stars," to emphasize that one man in particular is in view.
Isaiah 63.11	that brought up from the sea the shepherd of the sheep	who brought up from the earth the shepherd of the sheep.	Brenton has followed Codex Vaticanus. Rahlfs' text reads, "who brought up from the earth the shepherd of the sheep." Lactantius (Divine Institutes , 4.12) read the passage in the Old Latin version as Rahlfs has it and applied it to Christ, whose flesh was of the earth and who is our shepherd.
Jer 11.19	But I as an innocent lamb led to the slaughter, knew not .	But I was like an innocent lamb led to the slaughter; did I not know it?	Cyril of Jerusalem (Catechetical Lecture 13.19) explained that this was a prophecy of Christ, who certainly did know what was in store for him. "Hear then from Jeremias and assure thyself: 'I was like a harmless lamb led to be slaughtered; did I not know it?' For in this manner read it as a question, as I have read it; for He who said: 'Ye know that after two days comes the passover and the Son of Man is betrayed to be crucified,' (Mt 26.2) did He not know?" An improvement based on Cyril would then read, "But I was like an innocent lamb led to the slaughter; did I not know it?"
Jer 17.9	The heart is deep beyond all things and it is the man and who can know him?	The heart is deep beyond all things; He is a man and who shall know him?	The natural inference is that "it [the man]" is "The heart" which is described as "deep beyond all things" in the clause immediately preceding. But in Irenaeus' understanding the question "who can know him?" in the verse in Jeremiah is similar to Isaiah 53.8's, "Who shall declare his generation?" Like this passage from Isaiah, Jeremiah 17.9 is a reference to the Incarnation. In response to the question "who can know him?" Irenaeus wrote, "But he to whom the Father which is in heaven has revealed Him, knows Him, so that he understands that He who 'was not born either by the will of the flesh, or by the will of man,' (J 1.13) is the Son of man, this is Christ, the Son of the living God. (Against Heresies 3.19.2)" Thus, a translation in keeping with Irenaeus' understanding will not emphasize the unknowable nature of the human heart, but instead will state plainly that the Christ is the man (born of God) whom no one knows unless the Father reveals him. An improved translation in the light of patristic understanding is: "The heart is deep beyond all things; He is a man and who shall know him?" (In contrast, the Masoretic text reads, "The heart is deceitful above all things and it is exceedingly corrupt: who can know it?")

Jer 23.5	Behold, the days come, saith the Lord when I will raise up to David a righteous branch and a king shall reign and understand and shall execute judgment and righteousness on the earth.	Behold, the days come, saith the Lord when I will raise up to David a righteous dayspring and a king shall reign and understand and shall execute judgment and righteousness on the earth	Eusebius (Demonstratio Evangelica 7.3) wrote of this prophecy: "No one, it is certain, arose after the time of Jeremiah among the Jews who could be called a righteous rising. ... We must agree that the subject of this prophecy can only be our Lord and Saviour, called in other places the light of the world [J 8.12, 9.5] and the light of the nations [L 2.32]." The Greek word Brenton renders with "branch" is ανατολη , commonly used of the east, or the sunrising. In Luke 1.78 in the Authorized Version, it is translated with " dayspring ," which matches Eusebius' understanding here, since the "rising" in view provides light. Hence, "Behold, the days come, saith the Lord when I will raise up to David a righteous dayspring and a king shall reign and understand and shall execute judgment and righteousness on the earth."
Jer 23.18, 22	For who has stood in the counsel of the Lord and seen his word? Who has hearkened and heard? ... But if they had stood in my counsel and if they had listened to my words, then would they have turned my people from their evil practices.	For who has stood in the substance of the Lord and seen his word? Who has hearkened and heard? ... But if they had stood in my subsistence and if they had listened to my words, then would they have turned my people from their evil practices.	Athanasius (To the Bishops of Africa , 4) used these verses to show that the Word is in God's very being and is not apart, like a creature – as the Arians asserted. Brenton has used "counsel" to translate υποστηματα and υποστασει , which both pertain to what stands beneath, to underlying reality. (After Athanasius' time and largely due to the Cappadocian Fathers, this term became distinct from ουσια , which signifies essence.) Thus, if one were to enter God's true being, the Word would be present. An alternate translation is: "For who has stood in the substance of the Lord and seen his word? Who has hearkened and heard? ... But if they had stood in my subsistence and if they had listened to my words, then would they have turned my people from their evil practices." This is consistent with the rendering of the Reverend Ellershaw, whose translation of To the Bishops of Africa appears in Volume 4 of the Second Series of the Nicene and Post-Nicene Fathers.
Jer 38.22 (31.22)	for the Lord hath created safety for a new plantation: men shall go about in safety .	for the Lord created salvation for a new planting: men shall go about in salvation .	Thomson has, "Since the Lord hath created safety for a new plantation, with safety men may walk about." Athanasius (Discourse 2.46) commented that this verse "prophesies of the renewal of salvation among men, which has taken place in Christ for us." It thus seems better to translate σωτηρια with "salvation" rather than "safety." Thus, "for the Lord created salvation for a new planting: men shall go about in salvation."

Lam 4.20	The breath of our nostrils, our anointed Lord.	The spirit of our countenance, the Lord's Christ.	Cyril of Jerusalem (Catechetical Lectures 13.7) understood this passage to speak of “the Lord Christ seized by men.” Basil (On the Spirit 48) employed the same verse as he showed that the Holy Spirit received many of the same appellations as the Father and the Son: and here the Son was called ‘spirit.’ Hence, a rendering in agreement with these Fathers (and one which is more literal as well): “The spirit of our countenance, the Lord’s Christ.”
Susannah 45	The Authorized Version translates, quite literally, “the Lord raised up the holy spirit of a young youth whose name was Daniel.”	God raised up the Holy Spirit upon a young youth whose name was Daniel.	Cyril of Jerusalem (Catechetical Lectures 16.31) understood this to refer to God’s own Holy Spirit, not the spirit of Daniel, which was holy. Thus, “God raised up the Holy Spirit upon a young youth whose name was Daniel.” Cyril’s understanding depends on the genitive “of a young youth” being what is known as a genitive of space. The Authorized Version is more straightforward.
Dan 4.19	Then Daniel, whose name is Baltasar, was amazed about one hour.	Then Daniel, whose name is Baltasar, became mute for about one hour.	Athanasius (Life of Antony 82) wrote that Antony sometimes became mute when visitors came to see him, “as it is written in Daniel.” Afterwards, “he would resume the thread of what he had been saying before.” Also, the plain sense of the Greek verb seems to be “became mute” rather than “was amazed.” Thus, “Then Daniel, whose name is Baltasar, became mute for about one hour.”

In 1 Kingdoms 21.14 (1 Samuel 21.13), Brenton has, “And he changed his appearance before him and feigned himself a false character in that day; and drummed upon the doors of the city and used extravagant gestures with his hands and fell against the doors of the gate and his spittle ran down upon his beard.” A more literal translation is, “And he changed his appearance before him and feigned himself a false character in that day; and drummed upon the doors of the city and was carried in his hands and fell against the doors of the gate and his spittle ran down upon his beard.” Relying on the Old Latin, Augustine (On the Psalms 34.1) interpreted the phrase “[he] was carried in his hands” as a reference to Jesus: “Because when He commended His Own Body and Blood, He took into His Hands that which the faithful know; and in a manner carried Himself when He said: ‘This is My Body.’”

Tobit 12.12 Now, therefore when you didst pray and Sara your daughter in law, I did bring the remembrance of your prayers before the Holy One: and when you didst bury the dead, I was with you likewise.	Revelation 8.3 And another angel came and stood at the altar, having a golden censer; and there was given unto him much incense, that he should offer it with the prayers of all saints upon the golden altar which was before the throne.	In Tobit 12.12, the speaker is the angel Raphael, who explains his role in delivering the prayers of the faithful before God. The angel with the golden censer in Revelation 8.3 does so as well. It is not clear that any angel is described in the Hebrew canon as having this role.
Tobit 12.15 I am Raphael, one of the seven holy angels, which present the prayers of the saints and which go in and out before the glory of the Holy One.	Revelation 8.2 I saw the seven angels which stood before God; and to them were given seven trumpets.	In both passages, seven angels are in God's presence. It is not clear that the Hebrew canon anywhere mentions the existence of seven angels who have access to God.
Tobit 13.7, 11 7 Therefore see what he will do with you and confess him with your whole mouth and praise the Lord of might and extol the everlasting King ... 11 Give praise to the Lord, for he is good: and praise the everlasting King, that his tabernacle may be built in you again with joy	1 Timothy 1.17 Now, unto the King eternal, immortal, invisible, the only wise God, be honour and glory unto ages of ages. Amen.	In the Greek, the titles "King eternal" and "everlasting King" are identical. This title does not appear to have been given to God in the Hebrew canon.
Tobit 13.17 For Jerusalem shall be built up with sapphires and emeralds and precious stone: your walls and towers and battlements with pure gold.	Revelation 21.19 19 The foundations of the wall of the city were garnished with all manner of precious stones. The first foundation was jasper; the second, sapphire; the third, a chalcedony; the fourth, an emerald	Both passages describe a renewed Jerusalem built with precious stones.
Tobit 13.18 All her streets shall say, Alleluia; and they shall praise him, saying: Blessed be God, which hath extolled it for ever.	Revelation 19.1 And after these things I heard a great voice of much people in heaven, saying: Alleluia; Salvation and glory and honour and power, unto the Lord our God:	Both passages describe the inhabitants of a renewed Jerusalem praising God.
1 Maccabees 4.59 Moreover, Judas and his brethren with the whole congregation of Israel ordained, that the days of the dedication of the altar should be kept in their season from year to year by the space of eight days, from the five and twentieth day of the month	John 10.22 It was at Jerusalem the feast of the dedication and it was winter.	The feast of the dedication mentioned in John's gospel was instituted during the time of Judas Maccabeus (164 B.C.). It was celebrated in Chislev, which fell in November/December. The feast's modern name is Hanukkah.

Casleu, with mirth and gladness.
1 Maccabees 12.9 Therefore we also, albeit we need none of these things, that we have the holy books of scripture in our hands to comfort us	Romans 15.4 For whatsoever things were written aforetime were written for our learning, that we through patience and comfort of the scriptures might have hope.	Both passages describe the scriptures as a source of comfort
2 Maccabees 2.4-8 4 It was also contained in the same writing, that the prophet, being warned of God, commanded the tabernacle and the ark to go with him, as he went forth into the mountain, where Moses climbed up and saw the heritage of God. 5 When Jeremy came tto this place, he found an hollow cave, wherein he laid the tabernacle and the ark and the altar of incense and so stopped the door. 6 And some of those who followed him came to mark the way, but they could not find it. 7 Which when Jeremy perceived, he blamed them, saying: As for that place, it shall be unknown until the time that God gather his people again together and receive them unto mercy. 8 Then shall the Lord shew them these things and the glory of the Lord shall appear and the cloud also, as it was shewed under Moses and as when Solomon desired that the place might be honourably sanctified.	Revelation 11.19 The temple of God was opened in heaven and there was seen in his temple the ark of his testament: and there were lightnings and voices and thunderings and an earthquake and great hail.	In Revelation 11.19, the seventh trumpet has sounded, voices in heaven have announced that the kingdom of this world has become the kingdom of the Lord and his Christ and the twenty-four elders have proclaimed that the time of judgment has come, the time in which God's servants receive their rewards. The passage in 2 Maccabees states that in that future period when the people are gathered into God's mercy, the ark will be revealed. John then, by making reference to the unveiling of the ark, punctuates the point that the trumpet and the elders have just made: the time when God will gather and show mercy to his people has arrived.
2 Maccabees 2.7 7 Which when Jeremy perceived, he blamed them, saying: As for that place, it shall be unknown until the time that God gather his people again together and receive them unto mercy.	2 Thessalonians 2.1 Now, we beseech you, brethren, by the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ and by our gathering together unto him	Both passages speak of God's gathering his people.
2 Maccabees 6.18-7.42	Hebrews 11.35 Women received their dead raised to life again: and others were tortured, not accepting deliverance; that	This section in 2 Maccabees tells the story of seven brothers who willingly accept martyrdom rather than eat the flesh of pigs. Their mother, who is witness to their deaths, encourages them

	they might obtain a better resurrection	with the words, “The Creator of the world ... will in his mercy give life and breath back to you again” (2 Maccabees 7.23), a clear reference to hope in the resurrection.
2 Maccabees 7.19 But think not thou, that takest in hand to strive against God , that you shalt escape unpunished.	Acts 5.39 But if it be of God, ye cannot overthrow it; for fear that haply ye be found even to fight against God .	Both passages speak of fighting against God. The use of this phrase by Gamaliel implies a comparison between the Jewish leaders and Antiochus Epiphanes.
2 Maccabees 9.9 So that the worms rose up out of the body of this wicked man and whiles he lived in sorrow and pain, his flesh fell away and the filthiness of his smell was noisome to all his army.	Acts 12.23 And immediately the angel of the Lord smote him, because he gave not God the glory: He was eaten of worms and gave up the ghost.	The verse from Maccabees describes the fatal disease of Antiochus Epiphanes. He had apparently accounted himself God’s equal (2 Maccabees 9.12). Herod’s fate as described in Acts is similar, as is the cause.
2 Maccabees 12.43-45 43 When he had made a gathering throughout the company to the sum of two thousand drachms of silver, he sent it to Jerusalem to offer a sin offering, doing therein very well and honestly, in that he was mindful of the resurrection: 44 If he had not hoped that those who were slain should have risen again, it had been superfluous and vain to pray for the dead. 45 And also in that he perceived that there was great favour laid up for those who died godly, it was an holy and good thought. Whereupon he made a reconciliation for the dead, that they might be delivered from sin.	1 Corinthians 15.29 Else what shall they do which are baptized for the dead, if the dead rise not at all? Why are they then baptized for the dead?	Since baptism is an act whereby men are reconciled to God (see Acts 2.37-38, Galatians 3.27, 1 Peter 3.21), it is plausible that those who were baptized for the dead sought to make reconciliation for them, as Judas Maccabeus did for his fallen, idolatrous comrades.
2 Maccabees 13.4 But the King of kings moved Antiochus’ mind against this wicked wretch and Lysias informed the king that this man was the cause of all mischief, so that the king commanded to bring him unto Berea and to put him to death, as the manner is in that place.	1 Timothy 6.15 Which in his times he shall shew, who is the blessed and only Potentate, the King of kings and Lord of lords; Revelation 17.14 These shall make war with the Lamb and the Lamb shall overcome them: for he is Lord of lords and King of kings : and those who are with him are called and chosen and faithful. Revelation 19.16	The title “King of kings” does not appear as a title for God in the Hebrew Old Testament. Instead, it is used of Artaxerxes (Ezra 7.12) and of Nebuchadnezzar (Ezekiel 26.7 and Daniel 2.37).

	And he has on his vesture and on his thigh a name written, KING OF KINGS, AND LORD OF LORDS
3 Maccabees 5.35 The Jews, having heard of these events, praised the glorious God and King of kings , because they had obtained this help, too, from him.	1 Timothy 6.15 Which in his times he shall shew, who is the blessed and only Potentate, the King of kings and Lord of lords; Revelation 17.14 These shall make war with the Lamb and the Lamb shall overcome them: for he is Lord of lords and King of kings : and those who are with him are called and chosen and faithful. Revelation 19.16 And he has on his vesture and on his thigh a name written, KING OF KINGS, AND LORD OF LORDS	The title "King of kings" does not appear as a title for God in the Hebrew Old Testament. Instead, it is used of Artaxerxes (Ezra 7.12) and of Nebuchadnezzar (Ezekiel 26.7 and Daniel 2.37).
Wisdom 2.14 He was made to reprove our thoughts.	John 7.7 The world cannot hate you; but me it hateth, because I testify of it, that the works thereof are evil. Ephesians 5.13 But all things that are reprov'd are made manifest by the light: for whatsoever doth make manifest is light.	The 1560 Geneva Bible and the 1611 Authorized Version associate Wisdom 2.14 with these New Testament passages in a marginal reference. The righteous man described in Wisdom is an affront to the wicked. His mere presence makes them feel guilty. So also the Son of God shines as light into the darkness and makes the wicked deeds of men manifest.
Wisdom 2.16 We are esteemed of him as counterfeit: he abstaineth from our ways as from filthiness: he pronounceth the end of the just to be blessed and maketh his boast that God is his father .	John 5.18 Therefore the Jews sought the more to kill him, because he not only had broken the sabbath, but said also that God was his Father , making himself equal with God.	Wisdom 2.12-20 is the speech of wicked men who list their grievances against "the righteous man" whom they plan to "condemn to a shameful death." The parallel to the Jewish leaders and Christ is clear.
Wisdom 2.18 If the just man be the son of God, he will help him and deliver him from the hand of his enemies.	Matthew 27.43 He trusted in God; let him deliver him now, if he will have him: for he said: I am the Son of God.	The 1560 Geneva Bible and the 1611 Authorized Version associate Wisdom 2.18 with Matthew 27.43 in a marginal reference. In both instances, evil men test the relationship between a righteous one and God.
Wisdom 3.8 They shall judge the nations and have dominion over the people and their Lord shall reign for ever.	1 Corinthians 6.2 Do ye not know that the saints shall judge the world? And if the world shall be judged by you, are	The 1560 Geneva Bible and the 1611 Authorized Version associate Wisdom 3.8 with 1 Corinthians 6.2 and Matthew 19.28 in a marginal reference. In both passages, the saints judge the ye unworthy to judge the smallest matters?	nations. The passage from Wisdom is a more appropriate reference than Daniel 7.22, where justice is given to the saints.

Wisdom 3.9 Those who put their trust in him shall understand the truth: and such as be faithful shall abide with him in love : for grace and mercy is to his saints, He has care for his elect.	John 15.9-10 9 As the Father hath loved me, so have I loved you: continue ye in my love. 10 If ye keep my commandments, ye shall abide in my love; even as I have kept my Father's commandments and abide in his love.	The faithful, those who keep God's commandments, abide in love.
Wisdom 3.18 Or, if they die quickly, they have no hope , neither comfort in the day of trial.	1 Thessalonians 4.13 But I would not have you to be ignorant, brethren, concerning them which are asleep, that ye sorrow not, even as others which have no hope .	The unrighteous/the unbelievers are both described as without hope.
Wisdom 5.16 Therefore shall they receive a glorious kingdom and a beautiful crown from the Lord's hand: for with his right hand shall he cover them and with his arm shall he protect them.	2 Timothy 4.8 Henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous judge, shall give me at that day: and not to me only, but unto all them also that love his appearing.	Both passages involve the giving of a crown as a reward in the afterlife.
Wisdom 6.18 And love is the keeping of her laws; and the giving heed unto her laws is the assurance of incorruption;	John 14.15 If ye love me, keep my commandments.	Both passages couple love to obedience.
Wisdom 6.18 And love is the keeping of her laws; and the giving heed unto her laws is the assurance of incorruption;	Romans 13.10 Love worketh no ill to his neighbour: therefore love is the fulfilling of the law.	Both passages equate love with obedience.
Wisdom 7.25-26 25 For she is the breath of the power of God and a pure influence flowing from the glory of the Almighty: therefore can no defiled thing fall into her. 26 For she is the brightness of the everlasting light, the unspotted mirror of the power of God and the image of his goodness .	Hebrews 1.3 Who being the brightness of his glory and the express image of his person and upholding all things by the word of his power when he had by himself purged our sins, sat down on the right hand of the Majesty on high	The 1560 Geneva Bible associates Wisdom 7.26 with Hebrews 1.3 in a marginal reference. The Son and Wisdom are described in similar terms: both enjoy the brightness of his glory/light, employ his power and are the image of his goodness/person.
Wisdom 9.1 O God of my fathers and Lord of mercy, who hast made all things with your word	John 1.3 All things were made by him; and without him was not any thing made that was made.	The Logos is responsible for creating all things.

Wisdom 9.15 For the corruptible body presseth down the soul and the earthy tabernacle weigheth down the mind that museth upon many things.	2 Corinthians 5.1, 4 1 For we know that if our earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved, we have a building of God, an house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens. ... 4 For we that are in this tabernacle do groan, being burdened: not for that we would be unclothed, but clothed upon, that mortality might be swallowed up of life.	In both passages, the body is described as a tent. See also Isaiah 38.12.
Wisdom 11.23 But you have mercy upon all; for you canst do all things and winkest at the sins of men, because they should amend.	Romans 2.4 Or despisest you the riches of his goodness and forbearance and longsuffering; not knowing that the goodness of God leadeth you to repentance?	God delays punishment to allow men time to repent.
Wisdom 12.24 For they went astray very far in the ways of error and held them for gods, which even among the beasts of their enemies were despised, being deceived, as children of no understanding.	Romans 1.23 And changed the glory of the uncorruptible God into an image made like to corruptible man and to birds and fourfooted beasts and creeping things.	The 1560 Geneva Bible and the 1611 Authorized Version associate Wisdom 12.24 with Romans 1.23 in a marginal reference.
Wisdom 13.1 Surely vain are all men by nature, who are ignorant of God and could not out of the good things that are seen know him that is: neither by considering the works did they acknowledge the workmaster	Romans 1.19 Because that which may be known of God is manifest in them; for God hath shewed it unto them.	The 1560 Geneva Bible associates Wisdom 13.1 with Romans 1.19 in a marginal reference. Both passages emphasize that creation itself provides sufficient reason for belief in God.
Wisdom 13.1 Surely vain are all men by nature, who are ignorant of God and could not out of the good things that are seen know him that is: neither by considering the works did they acknowledge the workmaster	Hebrews 11.10 For he looked for a city which hath foundations, whose builder and maker is God.	In both passages, God is described as τεχνιτης.
Wisdom 15.3 For to know you is perfect righteousness: yea, to know your power is the root of immortality.	John 17.3 And this is life eternal, that they might know you the only true God and Jesus Christ, whom you have sent.	Knowledge of God is eternal life/the root of immortality.
Wisdom 15.7 For the potter, tempering soft earth, fashioneth every	Romans 9.21 Hath not the potter power over the clay, of the same	The 1560 Geneva Bible associates Wisdom 15.7 with Romans 9.20 in a marginal reference, but 9.21 is probably

vessel with much labour for our service: yea, of the same clay he maketh both the vessels that serve for clean uses and likewise also all such as serve to the contrary: but what is the use of either sort, the potter himself is the judge.	lump to make one vessel unto honour and another unto dishonour?	meant. The 1611 Authorized Version associates Wisdom 15.7 with Romans 9.11: "(For the children being not yet born, neither having done any good or evil, that the purpose of God according to election might stand, not of works, but of him that calleth;)"
Wisdom 18.14 For while all things were in quiet silence and that night was in the midst of her swift course,	Revelation 8.1 When he had opened the seventh seal, there was silence in heaven about the space of half an hour.	Silence before the plagues on Egypt/ silence before the plagues on the earth.
Sirach 1.10 She is with all flesh according to his gift, He has given her to those who love him	1 Corinthians 2.9 But as it is written, Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for those who love him.	Sirach is discussing how God gives Wisdom as a gift to those who love him. Paul's point in 1 Corinthians is that he imparts "secret and hidden wisdom of God" to the mature. Paul's use of the phrase "it is written" signals a direct quotation, but the source is not clear in this case. The ending seems to rely on Sirach 1.10.
Sirach 1.25 The parables of knowledge are in the treasures of wisdom: but godliness is an abomination to a sinner.	Colossians 2.3 in whom are hid all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge.	Both employ the phrase "treasuries of wisdom."
Sirach 2.5 For gold is tried in the fire and acceptable men in the furnace of adversity.	1 Peter 1.7 That the trial of your faith, being much more precious than of gold that perisheth, though it be tried with fire, might be found unto praise and honour and glory at the appearing of Jesus Christ	Proverbs 17.3 does equally well
Sirach 4.31 Let not thine hand be stretched out to receive and shut when you shouldest repay.	Acts 20.35 I have shewed you all things, how that so labouring ye ought to support the weak and to remember the words of the Lord Jesus, how he said: It is more blessed to give than to receive.	The 1560 Geneva Bible associates Sirach 4.31 with Acts 20.35 in a marginal reference. Both passages stress giving over receiving.
Sirach 5.11 Be swift to hear; Let your life be sincere; and with patience give answer.	James 1.19 Wherefore, my beloved brethren, let every man be swift to hear, slow to speak, slow to wrath:	The 1611 Authorized Version associates Sirach 5.11 with James 1.19 in a marginal note.
Sirach 7.14 Use not many words in a multitude of elders and make not much babbling when you prayest.	Matthew 6.7 But when ye pray, use not vain repetitions, as the heathen do: for they think that they shall be heard for their much speaking.	The 1611 Authorized Version associates Sirach 7.14 with Matthew 6.5, 7 in a marginal note. Both passages forbid babbling or vain repetitions.

Sirach 7.32-35 32 And stretch thine hand unto the poor, that your blessing may be perfected. 33 A gift hath grace in the sight of every man living; and for the dead detain it not. 34 Fail not to be with those who weep and mourn with those who mourn. 35 Be not slow to visit the sick: for that shall make you to be beloved.	Matthew 25.36 Naked and ye clothed me: I was sick and ye visited me: I was in prison and ye came unto me.	The 1560 Geneva Bible associates Sirach 7.35 with Matthew 25.36 in a marginal reference. Both passages encourage visitations to the sick.
Sirach 7.34 34 Fail not to be with those who weep and mourn with those who mourn.	Romans 12.15 Rejoice with those who do rejoice and weep with those who weep.	The 1560 Geneva Bible associates Sirach 7.34 with Romans 12.15 in a marginal reference.
Sirach 10.14 The Lord hath cast down the thrones of proud princes and set up the meek in their stead.	Luke 1.52 He has put down the mighty from their seats and exalted them of low degree.	The parallelism between these passages is apparent.
Sirach 11.19 Whereas he saith, I have found rest and now will eat continually of my goods; and yet he knoweth not what time shall come upon him and that he must leave those things to others and die.	Luke 12.19 I will say to my soul, Soul, you have much goods laid up for many years; take thine ease, eat, drink and be merry.	The 1560 Geneva Bible and the 1611 Authorized Version associate Sirach 11.19 with Luke 12.19 in a marginal reference. The verse from Sirach quotes a rich man (Sirach 11.18), as is the man in Jesus's parable of the rich fool.
Sirach 15.11-20 11 Say not thou, It is through the Lord that I fell away: for you oughtest not to do the things that he hateth. 12 Say not thou, He has caused me to err: for he has no need of the sinful man. 13 The Lord hateth all abomination; and those who fear God love it not. 14 He himself made man from the beginning and left him in the hand of his counsel; 15 If you wilt, to keep the commandments and to perform acceptable faithfulness. 16 He has set fire and water before you: stretch forth your hand unto whether you wilt. 17 Before man is life and death; and whether him liketh shall be given him.	James 1.13 Let no man say when he is tempted, I am tempted of God: for God cannot be tempted with evil, neither tempteth he any man:	The accusation against God is stronger in Sirach than in James, but the assertion of God's guiltlessness is the same.

18 For the wisdom of the Lord is great, He is mighty in power and beholdeth all things: 19 And his eyes are upon those who fear him, He knoweth every work of man. 20 He has commanded no man to do wickedly, neither hath he given any man licence to sin.
Sirach 16.21 It is a tempest which no man can see: for the most part of his works are hid.	John 3.8 The wind bloweth where it listeth and you hearest the sound thereof, but canst not tell whence it cometh and where it goeth: so is every one that is born of the Spirit.	In the passage from Sirach, God's workings are compared to an invisible tempest. The figure of the invisible wind is also used by Jesus to describe the workings of the Holy Spirit.
Sirach 24.21 Those who eat me shall yet be hungry and those who drink me shall yet be thirsty.	John 6.35 And Jesus said unto them, I am the bread of life: he that cometh to me shall never hunger; He that believeth on me shall never thirst.	John 6.35 appears to be an allusion by contrast.
Sirach 28.2 Forgive your neighbour the hurt that he has done unto you, so shall your sins also be forgiven when you prayest.	Matthew 6.12 And forgive us our debts, as we forgive our debtors.	Both passages tie God's forgiveness with our forgiveness of the sins of others.
Sirach 28.7 Remember the commandments and bear no malice to your neighbour: remember the covenant of the Highest and wink at ignorance.	Acts 17.30 The times of this ignorance God winked at; but now commandeth all men every where to repent:	The verses speak of winking at ignorance. It may be that Paul picked up the expression from Sirach. In the Greek, the resemblance is less obvious than in English, but is still unmistakable.
Sirach 28.12 If you blow the spark, it shall burn: if you spit upon it, it shall be quenched: and both these come out of your mouth.	James 3.10 Out of the same mouth proceedeth blessing and cursing. My brethren, these things ought not so to be.	Both passages play upon the thought that the mouth is the source of opposites.
Sirach 29.10 Lose your money for your brother and your friend, Let it not rust under a stone to be lost.	James 5.3 Your gold and silver is cankered; and the rust of them shall be a witness against you and shall eat your flesh as it were fire. Ye have heaped treasure together for the last days.	Both passages employ the image of rusting money.
Sirach 29.10-12 10 Lose your money for your brother and your friend, Let it not rust under a stone to be lost.	Matthew 6.20 But lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt and where thieves	The 1611 Authorized Version associates Sirach 29.11 with Matthew 6.20, Luke 11.41 and 12.33, Acts 10.4 and 1 Timothy 6.18, 19 in a marginal note.

11 Lay up your treasure according to the commandments of the most High and it shall bring you more profit than gold. 12 Shut up alms in your storehouses: and it shall deliver you from all affliction.	do not break through nor steal:
Sirach 37.2 Is it not a grief unto death when a companion and friend is turned to an enemy?	Matthew 26.38 Then saith he unto them, My soul is exceeding sorrowful, even unto death: tarry ye here and watch with me. Mark 14.34 And saith unto them, My soul is exceeding sorrowful unto death: tarry ye here and watch.	The passage in Sirach treats of false friends. In the quotations from Matthew and Mark, Jesus is about to be betrayed by one of his friends. Both Sirach and the Gospels associate this sorrow of betrayal with death.
Sirach 37.28 For all things are not profitable for all men, neither hath every soul pleasure in every thing.	1 Corinthians 6.12 All things are lawful unto me, but all things are not expedient: all things are lawful for me, but I will not be brought under the power of any. 1 Corinthians 10.23 All things are lawful for me, but all things are not expedient: all things are lawful for me, but all things edify not.	The Greek is closer than the English here (expedient = profitable = $\sigma\upsilon\mu\phi\epsilon\rho\epsilon\iota$). Sirach warns against doing things that are bad for you, which is Paul's point as well, although, in contrast to Sirach, he is concerned with repercussions more serious than those associated with overeating.
Sirach 40.15 The children of the ungodly shall not bring forth many branches: but are as unclean roots upon a hard rock.	Matthew 13.5 Some fell upon stony places, where they had not much earth: and at once they sprung up, because they had no deepness of earth: Mark 4.5 And some fell on stony ground, where it had not much earth; and immediately it sprang up, because it had no depth of earth:	The figure of a plant on rocky soil is common to both passages, but the application is rather different. For Jesus, the plant on rocky soil stands for those who receive the good news but fall away during tribulation. Sirach simply wishes to point out the fruitlessness of the wicked.
Sirach 44.21 Therefore he assured him by an oath, that he would bless the nations in his seed and that he would multiply him as the dust of the earth and exalt his seed as the stars and cause them to inherit	Romans 4.13 For the promise, that he should be the heir of the world, was not to Abraham, or to his seed, through the law, but through the righteousness of faith.	The 1560 Geneva Bible and the 1611 Authorized Version associate Sirach 44.21 with Galatians 3.8 in a marginal reference. Gal 3.8: "The Scripture foreseeing that God would justify the heathen through faith, preached before the Gospel unto Abraham, saying: In you shall all nations

from sea to sea and from the river unto the utmost part of the earth.		be blessed.” Sirach 44.21 may be the source for Paul’s view that Abraham was “heir of the world.”
Sirach 48.10 Who wast ordained for reproofs in their times, to pacify the wrath of the Lord’s judgment, before it brake forth into fury and to turn the heart of the father unto the son and to restore the tribes of Jacob.	Matthew 17.11 And Jesus answered and said unto them, Elias truly shall first come and restore all things.	Both passages are plainly about Elijah. The notion of restoration is common to both as well and to Malachi 3.23 (LXX): “who shall restore the heart of the father to the son and the heart of a man to his neighbour, for fear that I come and smite the earth utterly.” It is difficult to know whether the passage from Sirach or the one from Malachi was foremost in Jesus’s mind here.
Sirach 51.26 26 Put your neck under the yoke, Let your soul receive instruction: she is hard at hand to find. 27 Behold with your eyes, how that I have but little labour and have obtained unto me much rest.	Matthew 11.28 28 Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden and I will give you rest. 29 Take my yoke upon you and learn of me; for I am meek and lowly in heart: and ye shall find rest unto your souls.	Jesus described himself in a way that is reminiscent of Sirach’s description of Wisdom.

Comments on the Ezra corpus:

In Roman Catholic usage, Ezra, Esdras or occasionally I Esdras generally refers to the Protocanonical book Ezra; Nehemiah or occasionally II Esdras refers to the Protocanonical book Nehemiah; I Esdras (appendix to the Trent list) refers to the apocryphal book of I Esdras; and II Esdras (appendix to the Trent list) refers to the apocryphal book of II Esdras.

In the Greek Orthodox list, Ezra refers to the Protocanonical book Ezra; Nehemiah refers to the Protocanonical book Nehemiah and I Esdras refers to the Deuterocanonical book I Esdras.

In the Russian Orthodox list, I Esdras refers to the Protocanonical book Ezra; Nehemiah refers to the Protocanonical book Nehemiah; II Esdras refers to the Deuterocanonical book known to Roman Catholics and Protestants as I Esdras; and III Esdras refers to the Deuterocanonical book known as II Esdras.

Notes

The books in bold are accepted as deuterocanonical by both the Roman Catholic and Orthodox traditions.

1 and 2 Esdras and Prayer of Manasseh, noted in italics, are not considered part of either protocanonical or deuterocanonical Scripture by Roman Catholics. In some Roman Catholic editions of the Bible, they appear as an appendix following the New Testament.

PSALTER

The Psalter is divided into twenty sections which are read during the week beginning on Saturday evening. Each Kathisma is divided into three stases which are read during the liturgical services as prescribed. The numbers given in the table below are from the LXX numbering.

THE NUMBERING OF THE PSALTER

The numbering of the Psalms according to the Seventy is slightly different than numbering of the Masoretes, the scholars in whom the Hebrew Scriptures were entrusted after the fall of Jerusalem. The Church has traditionally used the numbering (and text) of the Septuagint.

The relationship of the Septuagint and Masoretic numberings is as follows:

Septuagint	Masoretic
1 - 8	1 - 8
9	9 - 10
10 - 112	11 - 113
113	114 - 115
114	116: 1-9
115	116: 10- 19
116 - 145	117 - 146
146	147: 1-11
147	147: 12- 20
148 - 150	148 - 150

People (Before Receiving Holy Communion):

I believe, O Lord and I confess that You are truly the Christ the Son of the living God who came into the world to save sinners, of whom I am first. I believe also that this is truly Your own most pure Body and that this is truly Your own precious Blood. Therefore, I pray to You: have mercy upon me and forgive my transgressions both voluntary and involuntary, of word and of deed, committed in knowledge or in ignorance. And make me worth to partake without condemnation of Your most pure Mysteries, for the remission of my sins and unto life everlasting. Amen.

Of Your Mystical Supper, O Son of God, accept me today as a communicant; for I will not speak of Your Mystery to Your enemies, neither like Judas will I give You a kiss; but like the thief will I confess You: Remember me, O Lord, in Your kingdom.

May the communion of Your holy Mysteries be neither to my judgment, nor to my condemnation, O Lord, but to the healing of soul and body.

MESSIANIC PROPHECIES

In his famous commentary on Psalm 106, St. Augustine, wrote:

Come then, whoever reads this and recognizes the grace of God, by which we are redeemed to eternal life through our Lord Jesus Christ, by reading in the apostolic writings and by searching in the Prophets and sees the Old Testament revealed in the New, the New veiled in the Old...

Indeed, the figure of Jesus Christ is only prefigured or foreshadowed in the Old Testament, which is why even the apostles who were extremely familiar with the Scriptures had to have their eyes opened and later on to receive the gift of the Holy Spirit to discern the prophetic aspect of many passages:

[The Lord] said to them: "Foolish men and slow of heart to believe in all that the prophets have spoken! Did not the Christ have to suffer these things and to enter into his glory?" Beginning from Moses and from all the prophets, he explained to them in all the Scriptures the things concerning himself. He said to them: "This is what I told you, while I was still with you, that all things which are written in the Law of Moses, the prophets and the psalms, concerning me must be fulfilled."

Then he opened their minds, that they might understand the Scriptures. He said to them: "Thus it is written and thus it was necessary for the Christ to suffer and to rise from the dead the third day and that repentance and remission of sins should be preached in his name to all the nations, beginning at Jerusalem. You are witnesses of these things. (Luke 24:25-27; 44-48)

TYPOLOGIES¹

A consideration of the words used in Scripture to express a type will show how extensively the system of teaching by types, pervades the Old Testament and how fully this method is employed in the interpretation of the Old Testament by the writers of the New Testament. At least six words are used to express the nature of a type:

(1) The word type itself is used in John 20: 25: “Except I shall see in His hands the type (print) of the nails and put my finger into the type (print) of the nails and thrust my hand into His side, I will not believe.” This verse gives us the clue to the meaning of the word. As the hole corresponds in size, shape and is an exact counterpart to the nail which makes it, so the type corresponds to the, antitype, or the reality of which it is the type.

(2) The word shadow is used in Col. 2:16, 17: “Let no man therefore judge you in meat, or in drink, or in respect of an holy day, or of the new moon, or of the Sabbath days : which are a shadow of things to come.”

(3) The word example is used in Hebrews 8: 4, 5: “There are priests that offer gifts according to the law: who serve unto the example and shadow of heavenly things, as Moses was admonished of God when he was about to make the tabernacle.”

(4) The word sign is used in Matthew 12: 39: “An evil and adulterous generation seeks after a sign; yet no sign shall be given to it, except the sign of the prophet Jonas.”

(5) The word figure is used in Hebrews 11:19: “From whence also he received him in a figure.”

(6) The word allegory is used in Galatians 4: 24: “There things are an allegory...”

Similarly a number of terms are used to express the nature of the antitype or reality to which the type corresponds and which it prefigures or shadows forth:

(1) The word antitype itself is used in 1 Peter 3: 21: “The like antitype (figure) whereunto even baptism doth also now save us.”

(2) The word body is used in Colossians 2:17: “Which are a shadow of things to come; but the body is of Christ.”

(3) The words very image are used in Hebrews 10:1: “For the law having a shadow of good things to come and not the very image of the things, can never with those sacrifices which they offered year by year continually make the comers thereunto perfect.”

(4) The expression “good things to come” is used in Hebrews 10:1: “The law having a shadow of good things to come.”

(5) The words things in the heavens are used in Hebrews 9:23: “It was necessary therefore that the patterns of things in the heavens should be purified with these.”

(6) The words the true are used in Hebrews 9: 24: “For Christ did not entered into holy places made with hands, which are the figures of the true.”

(7) The word spiritually is used in Revelation 11: 8: “The great city, which spiritually is called Sodom and Egypt, where also our Lord was crucified.”

It will greatly assist us in this study if we have a clear definition of what is meant by a type and this is given us in Scripture itself. A type is “a shadow of good things to come” (Hebrews 10:10). A type involves three things: (1) an outward sensible object or thing which represents some other higher thing; (2) that other higher thing represented, which we call the antitype or the reality and (3) the work of the type which is expressed in the term “representing” or “shadowing forth.” A type is a sign, a resemblance, a pattern, a figure, a shadow. As a parable is an earthly story with a heavenly meaning, so a type is an outward and visible earthly thing by which God has designed to teach us some invisible, spiritual, heavenly thing. A type is some outward and sensible thing ordained of God under the Old Testament to hold forth something of Christ or something in relation to Him in the New Testament. The type is the shadow, the antitype is the substance; the type is the shell, the antitype is the kernel; the type is the letter or the law, the antitype is the spirit or the gospel.

The work of the type is to announce or foreshadow forth something about Christ, His Kingdom and His blessings. In summary, a type is a divinely instituted resemblance.

Four useful guidelines were offered in Samuel Mather's 18th century classic work “Figures or Types of the Old Testament”:

RULE 1: GOD IS THE ONLY AUTHOR OF THE TYPE.

We should not contend that anything is a type unless we have solid Scriptural, Patristic and Liturgical reasons to do so.

Scripture warrant for regarding anything as a type is given in three forms.

(1) By express statement, e.g. Adam was “the figure of Him that was to come” (Rom. 5:14). The law “was a shadow of good things to come” (Heb.10:1). The land of Canaan was a figure of “a better country, a heavenly one.” (Heb.11:16).

(2) By permutation, or change of names between the type and the antitype, e.g. when Christ is called David (Ezekiel 34: 23), or Adam (1 Cor. 15:45), or the Lamb of God (John 1: 29), or our Passover (1 Cor. 5:7); or a sheep is called a sacrifice, or is said to make - atonement, or to expiate sin, there being in truth but one Mediator, one Sacrifice, one Atonement and one Expiation, of which Moses and the victims offered on the altar are but types.

(3) Where there is a clear and evident analogy and parallel between things under the law and things under the Gospel, enabling us to conclude that such legal dispensations were intended and given by God as types of the Gospel mysteries whose image they bear. Thus Joseph may be looked upon as a type of Christ, though Scripture nowhere expressly calls him such and the deliverance out of Egypt may be regarded as a type of the deliverance of the Church from the of sin. The analogy is so clear that we may justly infer that God intended the one to be a type of the other. On the other hand, we should refrain from making anything a type unless we have Scripture ground for it. The constitution of the type, like every other method of Revelation, is the prerogative of God and God alone.

RULE 2: TYPES ARE NOT ONLY SIGNS BUT SEALS.

As signs they shadow forth, but as seals they pledge and make sure the benefits of Christ to which they are related. Abraham received the sign of circumcision, a seal of the righteousness of faith (Rom. 4:11). If they were signs at all, then they were more than signs, for if they signified to our intellect what the Messiah would be, they at the same time assured our faith that the Messiah certainly would be that which the type signified.

RULE 3: TYPES RELATE NOT ONLY TO THE PERSON OF CHRIST BUT ALSO TO ALL HIS BENEFITS, TO ALL GOSPEL TRUTHS AND MYSTERIES AND EVEN TO OUR MISERIES WITHOUT CHRIST.

Thus Circumcision is a type of Baptism. The Passover is a type of the Lord's Supper. Leprosy is a type of our natural pollution through sin. Hagar and Ishmael are types of the Old Covenant. Doeg and Ahithophel are probably types of Judas. Gehenna (the Valley of Hinnom) is a type of Hell. The Queen Mother and the Ark are types of the Theotokos.

RULE 4: THERE IS BOTH A SIMILITUDE AND A DISPARITY BETWEEN THE TYPE AND THE ANTITYPE IN CERTAIN ASPECT THINGS.

Adam is a type of Christ, but the second Adam infinitely transcends the first. Some types are partial and represent Christ in one particular only, as Jonah, who foreshadowed Christ in the one thing of His abiding in the grave for three days and rising again. David is also a type of Christ, because he resembled Him in so many points; but no type can be called total, certainly not David.

The following classification embraces all the principal kinds of sensible objects or things selected and used in Holy Scripture, as types representing or shadowing forth corresponding spiritual realities:

1. Individual persons, e.g. Adam
2. Orders of persons, e.g. priests

SPECIAL STUDY: THE ARK AND THE MARY THE THEOTOKOS

The liturgical readings and hymns for the feast of the Dormition of Theotokos make it clear that the Church sees the Ark of the Covenant as the type of Mary the Theotokos who is herself the type or icon of the Church and of heavenly wisdom¹.

As we shall see, this typology is solidly scriptural and it was clearly understood by the holy fathers:

Athanasius of Alexandria: “O noble Virgin, truly you are greater than any other greatness. For who is your equal in greatness, O dwelling place of God the Word? To whom among all creatures shall I compare you, O Virgin? You are greater than them all O [Ark of the] Covenant, clothed with purity instead of gold! You are the ark in which is found the golden vessel containing the true manna, that is, the flesh in which divinity resides”. (Homily of the Papyrus of Turin)

Gregory the Wonder Worker: “Let us chant the melody that has been taught us by the inspired harp of David and say, 'Arise, O Lord, into your rest; you and the ark of your sanctuary.' For the Holy Virgin is in truth an ark, wrought with gold both within and without, that has received the whole treasury of the sanctuary”. (Homily on the Annunciation to the Holy Virgin Mary)

The Septuagint is especially significant if one considers the parallel between Exodus and Luke:

At the Annunciation, Gabriel declared: “The Holy Spirit will come upon you and the power of the Most High will overshadow you” (Luke 1:35). Here, the word translated “overshadow” is used nowhere else in the New Testament. It occurs only once more in the Greek Scriptures (LXX and NT), specifically in Exodus 40:34-35 (EOB):

34 The cloud covered the tabernacle of witness and the tabernacle was filled with the glory of the Lord. 35 Moses was not able to enter into the tabernacle of testimony, because the cloud overshadowed it and the tabernacle was filled with the glory of the Lord.

In the LXX, the word often translated as “settled down upon” (“the cloud settled down upon it”) is the same as Luke's word “overshadow”. Clearly, Luke is making a correspondence between the power and glory of God overshadowing Mary just as it overshadowed the Ark of the Covenant in the tent. The rest of Luke's account makes this typology very obvious:

The Ark of the Old Covenant	Mary: The Ark of the New Covenant
The ark traveled to the house of Obed-Edom in the hill country of Judea (2 Sam. 6:1-11).	Mary traveled to the house of Elizabeth and Zechariah in the hill country of Judea (Luke 1:39).
Dressed as a priest, David danced and leapt in front of the ark (2 Sam. 6:14).	John the Baptist — of priestly lineage — leapt in his mother's womb at the approach of Mary (Luke 1:41).
David asks, “How can the ark of the Lord come to me?” (2 Sam. 6:9).	Elizabeth asks, “Why is this granted me, that the mother of my Lord should come to me?” (Luke 1:43).
David shouts in the presence of the ark (2 Sam. 6:15).	Elizabeth “exclaimed with a loud cry” in the presence of the Mary (Luke 1:42).

The ark remained in the house of Obed-Edom for three months (2 Sam. 6:11).	Mary remained in the house of Elizabeth for three months (Luke 1:56).
The house of Obed-Edom was blessed by the presence of the ark (2 Sam. 6:11).	The word blessed is used three times (Luke 1:39-45).
The ark returns home and later on goes Jerusalem to be placed in the temple (2 Sam. 6:12; 1 Kgs. 8:9-11).	Mary returns home and later on goes Jerusalem, where she presents the incarnate Word of God in the temple (Luke 1:56; 2:21-22).

Other similarities between the Ark and the Theotokos are presented below:

Inside the Ark of the Old Covenant	Inside Mary, Ark of the New Covenant
The stone tablets of the law = the word of God engraved in stone	The body of Jesus Christ = the Word of God made flesh
The jar filled with manna from the wilderness which was a miraculous bread from heaven	Jesus, the bread of life from heaven (John 6:41)
The rod of Aaron that budded to establish his status as true high priest	The actual and eternal Great High Priest of the God Most High
Vision of the Ark	Vision of the Woman

GENESIS (ΓΕΝΕΣΙΣ)

1:1 In the beginning God made the heaven and the earth. 2 However, the earth was unformed¹ and chaotic. Darkness was over the deep and the Spirit of God moved over the water. 3 And God said: Let there be light! and there was light. 4 God saw the light that it was good and God divided the light from the darkness. 5 And God called the light Day and the darkness he called Night. There was evening and there was morning, the first day.

6 Then God said: Let there be a firmament in the midst of the water, Let it be a division between water and water! and it was so. 7 God made the firmament and God divided between the water which was under the firmament and the water which was above the firmament. 8 And God called the firmament Heaven and God saw that it was good. There was evening and there was morning, the second day.

9 And God said: Let the water which is under the heaven be collected into one place, Let the dry land appear! and it was so. The water which was under the heaven was gathered into its place² and the dry land appeared. 10 God called the dry land Earth and the gathering of the waters he called Seas; and God saw that it was good. 11 Then God said: Let the earth bring forth the vegetation bearing seed according to its kind and according to its likeness, and the fruit-tree bearing fruit whose seed is in it, according to its kind on the earth, and it was so. 12 The earth brought forth vegetation³ bearing seed according to its kind and according to its likeness and the fruit tree bearing fruit whose seed is in it, according to its kind on the earth and God saw that it was good. 13 And there was evening and there was morning, the third day.

14 Then God said: Let there be lights in the firmament of the heaven to give light upon the earth, to divide between day and night. Let them be for signs and for seasons and for days and for years. 15 Let them be for light in the firmament of the heaven, so as to shine upon the earth, and it was so. 16 And God made the two great lights, the greater light for regulating the day and the lesser light for regulating the night, the stars also. 17 God placed them in the firmament of the heaven, so as to shine upon the earth, 18 and to regulate day and night and to divide between the light and the darkness. And God saw that it was good. 19 There was evening and there was morning, the fourth day.

20 And God said: Let the waters bring forth moving creatures having life and winged creatures flying above the earth in the firmament of heaven and it was so. 21 God made great whales and every living reptile, which the waters brought forth according to their kinds and every creature that flies with wings according to its kind and God saw that they were good. 22 God blessed them saying: Increase and multiply and fill the waters in the seas! Let the creatures that fly be multiplied on the earth. 23 There was evening and there was morning, the fifth day.

24 Then God said: Let the earth bring forth the living creature according to its kind, quadrupeds and reptiles and wild beasts of the earth according to their kind, and it was so. 25 God made the wild beasts of the earth according to their kind and cattle according to their kind and all the reptiles of the earth according to their kind, and God saw that they were good.

26 Then God said: Let us make man according to our image and likeness. Let them have dominion over the fish of the sea and over the flying creatures of heaven and over the cattle and all the earth and over all the reptiles that creep on the earth. 27 And God made man, according to the image of God he made him, male and female he made them. 28 God blessed them, saying: Increase and multiply and fill the earth and subdue it and have dominion over the fish of the seas and flying creatures of heaven and all the cattle and all the earth and all the reptiles that creep on the earth. 29 And God said: Behold, I have given to you every seed-bearing herb sowing seed which is upon all the earth and every tree which has in itself the fruit of seed that is sown, to you it shall be for food. 30 And to all the wild beasts of the earth and to all the flying creatures of heaven and to every reptile creeping on the earth, which has in itself the breath of life, even every green plant for food; and it was so. 31 And God saw all the things that he had made, and, behold, they were very good. There was evening and there was morning, the sixth day.

2:1 The heavens and the earth were finished and their whole array. 2 God completed on the sixth day the works which he made. He ceased on the seventh day from all his works which he made. 3 Then God blessed the seventh day and sanctified it, because in this day he ceased from all the works which he had begun to do.

4 This is the book of the generation of heaven and earth when they were made, in the day in which the Lord God made the heaven and the earth, 5 and every herb of the field before it was on the earth and all the grass of the field before it sprang up. As it is, God had not rained on the earth and there was not a man to cultivate it. 6 Instead, there rose a fountain out of the earth and watered the whole surface of the earth. 7 And God formed the man of dust of the earth and breathed upon his face the breath of life and the man became a living soul.

8 Then God planted a garden eastward in Eden and placed there the man whom he had formed. 9 God also made to spring up out of the earth every tree beautiful to the eye and good for food and the tree of life in the midst of the garden, and the tree of learning the knowledge of good and evil.

10 And a river proceeds out of Eden to water the garden, for there it divides itself into four heads. 11 The name of the first one is Phisom. It encircles the whole land of Evilat, where there is gold. 12 The gold of that land is good, there also is bdellium and emerald. 13 The name of the second river is Geon. It encircles the whole land of Ethiopia. 14 The third river is Tigris, which flows forth over against the Assyrians. The fourth river is Euphrates. 15 The Lord God took the man whom he had formed and placed him in the garden of delight, to cultivate and keep it. 16 The Lord God gave a charge to Adam, saying: Of every tree which is in the garden you may freely eat, 17 but of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil — of this one you shall not eat! But in the day you eat of it, you shall surely die.

18 The Lord God said: It is not good that the man should be alone, let us make for him a help suitable to him. 19 Then God formed yet farther out of the earth all the wild beasts of the field and all the birds of the sky. He brought them to Adam, to see what he would call them and whatever Adam called any living creature, that its name. 20 Adam gave names to all the cattle and to all the birds of the sky and to all the wild beasts of the field, but for Adam there was not found a help like to himself. 21 Then God brought a trance upon Adam and he fell asleep. God took one of his ribs and filled up the flesh in its place. 22 God formed the rib which he had taken from Adam into a woman and brought her to Adam. 23 Adam said: Now, this is bone of my bones and flesh of my flesh! She shall be called woman, because she was taken out of her husband. 24 Therefore, a man shall leave his father and mother and cleave to his wife, and they two shall be one flesh.

3:1 The two were naked, both Adam and his wife and they were not ashamed. 2 Now, the serpent was the most crafty of all the beasts on the earth, which the Lord God made.

The serpent said to the woman, Why then has God said: Do not eat of every tree of the garden? 3 The woman replied to the serpent: We may eat of the fruit of the trees of the garden, 4 but of the fruit of the tree which is in the midst of the garden, God said: you shall not eat of it, neither shall you touch it, for fear that you die. 5 The serpent then said to the woman: you shall not surely die! 6 For God knew that in whatever day you should eat of it, your eyes would be opened and you would be as gods, knowing good and evil. 7 The woman saw that the tree was good for food and that it was pleasant to the eyes to look upon and beautiful to contemplate. Having taken of its fruit, she ate and she gave to her husband also with her and they ate. 8 The eyes of both were opened and they perceived that they were naked. They sewed fig leaves together and made themselves aprons to put on. 8 (3:9) As they heard the voice of the Lord God walking in the garden in the afternoon, both Adam and his wife hid themselves from the face of the Lord God in the midst of the trees of the garden. 10 The Lord God called Adam and said to him: Adam, where are you? 11 Adam replied: I heard your voice as you walked in the garden and I was afraid because I was naked, and so I hid myself. 12 Then God said to him: Who told you that you were naked, unless you have eaten of the tree concerning which I charged you of it alone not to eat? 13 And Adam answered: The woman whom you gave to be with me, she gave me of the tree and I ate. 14 The Lord God said to the woman, Why have you done this? The woman said: The serpent deceived me and I ate.

15 The Lord God said to the serpent: Because you have done this, you are cursed above all cattle and all the beasts of the earth! On your breast and belly you shall go and you shall eat dust all the days of your life. 16 I will put enmity between you and the woman, and between your seed and her seed. He shall attack your head and you attack his heel. 17 And to the woman he said: I will greatly multiply your pains and your groanings. In pain you shall bring forth children and your submission shall be to your husband, and he shall rule over you.

18 And to Adam he said: Because you have listened to the voice of your wife and eaten of the only tree concerning which I charged you not to eat (and of that you have eaten), cursed is the ground in your labors! In pain shall you eat of it all the days of your life. 19 Thorns and thistles shall it bring forth to you, and you shall eat the plants of the field. 20 In the sweat of your face shall you eat your bread until you return to the earth out of which you were taken. For earth you are and to earth you shall return. 21 And Adam called the name of his wife Life, because she was the mother of all living. 22 The Lord God made for Adam and his wife garments of skin and clothed them.

23 Then God said: Behold, Adam has become as one of us, knowing good and evil! And now, for fear that at any time he might stretch forth his hand and take of the tree of life and eat and thus live forever... 24 So the Lord God drove him out of the garden of delight to cultivate the ground out of which he was taken. 25 He cast out Adam and caused him to dwell outside the garden of Delight. And God stationed the cherubim and the fiery sword that circles around to guard the way of the tree of life.

4:1 Then Adam knew Eve his wife; she conceived and brought forth Cain, saying: I have gained a man through God. 2 Again, she bore his brother Abel.

Abel was a keeper of sheep, but Cain was a tiller of the ground. 3 After some time, Cain brought a sacrifice to the Lord from the fruits of the earth. 4 Abel also brought of the first born of his sheep and of his fatlings, and God looked [favorably] upon Abel and his gifts. 5 However, God did not regard Cain and his sacrifices, Cain became exceedingly sorrowful and his countenance fell. 6 The Lord God said to Cain: Why have you become very sorrowful and why is your countenance fallen? 7 Have you not sinned if you have brought it rightly, but not rightly shared it? Be still, to you shall be master [this sin] and you shall rule over it.

8 Then Cain said to Abel his brother: Let us go out into the plain. It came to pass that when they were in the plain, Cain rose up against Abel his brother and killed him. 9 The Lord God said to Cain: Where is Abel your brother? Cain replied: I do not know! Am I my brother's keeper? 10 The Lord said: What have you done? The voice of your brother's blood cries to me out of the ground. 11 And now you are cursed from the earth which has opened her mouth to receive your brother's blood from your hand. 12 When you till the earth, it shall not continue to give its strength to you! You shall be groaning and trembling on the earth. 13 And Cain said to the Lord God: My crime is too great for me to be forgiven. 14 If you cast me out this day from the face of the earth and I shall be hidden from your presence and I shall be groaning and trembling upon the earth, then it will be that anyone who finds me shall kill me. 15 The Lord God said to him: Not so, anyone that slays Cain shall suffer seven-fold vengeance; and the Lord God set a mark upon Cain so that no one who would find him might kill him. 16 So Cain departed from the presence of God and dwelt in the land of Nod over against Eden. 1

7 Then Cain knew his wife and having conceived, she bore Enoch. Cain built a city and named the city after the name of his son, Enoch. 18 To Enoch was born Gaidad; and Gaidad begot Maleleel; and Maleleel begot Mathusala; and Mathusala begot Lamech. 19 Lamech took to himself two wives; the name of the one was Ada and the name of the second Sella. 20 And Ada bore Jobel; he was the father of those who dwell in tents, feeding cattle. 21 The name of his brother was Jubal; he it was who invented the psaltery and harp. 22 And Sella also bore Thobel; he was a smith, a manufacturer both of brass and iron; and the sister of Thobel was Noema. 23 And Lamech said to his wives, Ada and Sella, Hear my voice, you wives of Lamech, consider my words, because I have slain a man to my sorrow and a youth to my grief. 24 Because vengeance has been exacted seven times on Cain's behalf, on Lamech's it shall be seventy times seven.

25 And Adam knew Eve his wife and she conceived and bore a son and called his name Seth, saying: For God has raised up to me another seed instead of Abel, whom Cain slew. 26 And Seth had a son, He called his name Enos: he hoped to call on the name of the Lord God.

5:1 This is the genealogy of men in the day in which God made Adam; in the image of God he made him: 2 male and female he made them and blessed them; He called his name Adam, in the day in which he made them. 3 And Adam lived two hundred and thirty years and begot a son after his own form and after his own image, He called his name Seth. 4 The days of Adam, which he lived after his begetting Seth, were seven hundred years; He begot sons and daughters. 5 All the days of Adam which he lived were nine hundred and thirty years, He died. 6 Now, Seth lived two hundred and five years and begot Enos. 7 And Seth lived after his begetting Enos, seven hundred and seven years, He begot sons and daughters. 8 All the days of Seth were nine hundred and twelve years, He died. 9 And Enos lived a hundred and ninety years and begot Cainan. 10 And Enos lived after his begetting Cainan, seven hundred and fifteen years, He begot sons and daughters. 11 All the days of Enos were nine hundred and five years, He died. 12 And Cainan lived a hundred and seventy years, He begot Maleleel. 13 And Cainan lived after his begetting Maleleel, seven hundred and forty years, He begot sons and daughters. 14 All the days of Cainan were nine hundred and ten years, He died.

15 And Maleleel lived a hundred and sixty and five years, He begot Jared. 16 And Maleleel lived after his begetting Jared, seven hundred and thirty years, He begot sons and daughters. 17 All the days of Maleleel were eight hundred and ninety and five years, He died. 18 Jared lived a hundred and sixty and two years and begot Enoch: 19 and Jared lived after his begetting Enoch, eight hundred years, He begot sons and daughters. 20 All the days of Jared were nine hundred and sixty and two years, He died. 21 And Enoch lived a hundred and sixty and five years and begot Mathusala. 22 And Enoch was well-pleasing to God after his begetting Mathusala, two hundred years, He begot sons and daughters. 23 All the days of Enoch were three hundred and sixty and five years. 24 And Enoch was well-pleasing to God and was not found, because God translated him¹. 25 And Mathusala lived a hundred and sixty and seven years and begot Lamech. 26 And Mathusala lived after his begetting

Lamech eight hundred and two years and begot sons and daughters. 27 All the days of Mathusala which he lived, were nine hundred and sixty and nine years, He died. 28 And Lamech lived a hundred and eighty and eight years and begot a son. 29 He called his name Noe, saying: This one will cause us to cease from our works and from the toils of our hands and from the earth, which the Lord God has cursed. 30 And Lamech lived after his begetting Noe, five hundred and sixty and five years and begot sons and daughters. 31 All the days of Lamech were seven hundred and fifty-three years, He died.

6:1 And Noe was five hundred years old, He begot three sons, Sem, Cham and Japheth. 2 It came to pass when men began to be numerous upon the earth and daughters were born to them, 3 that the sons of God having seen the daughters of men that they were beautiful, took to themselves wives of all whom they chose. 4 The Lord God said: My Spirit shall certainly not remain among these men for ever, because they are flesh, but their days shall be a hundred and twenty years. 5 Now, the giants were upon the earth in those days; and after that when the sons of God were wont to go in to the daughters of men, they bore children to them, those were the giants of old, the men of renown.

6 The Lord God, having seen that the wicked actions of men were multiplied upon the earth and that every one in his heart was intently brooding over evil continually, 7 then God laid it to heart that he had made man upon the earth, He pondered it deeply. 8 And God said: I will blot out man whom I have made from the face of the earth, even man with cattle and reptiles with flying creatures of the sky, for I am grieved that I have made them.

9 But Noe found grace before the Lord God. 10 These are the generations of Noe. Noe was a just man; being perfect in his generation, Noe was well-pleasing to God. 11 And Noe begot three sons, Sem, Cham, Japheth. 12 But the earth was corrupted before God and the earth was filled with iniquity. 13 The Lord God saw the earth and it was corrupted; because all flesh had corrupted its way upon the earth. 14 The Lord God said to Noe, A period of all men has come before me; because the earth has been filled with iniquity by them, and, behold, I destroy them and the earth.

15 Make therefore for yourself an ark of square timber; you shall make the ark in compartments and you shall pitch it within and without with pitch. 16 Thus shall you make the ark; three hundred cubits the length of the ark and fifty cubits the breadth and thirty cubits the height of it. 17 You shall narrow the ark in making it and in a cubit above you shall finish it and the door of the ark you shall make on the side; with lower, second and third stories you shall make it. 18 And behold I bring a flood of water upon the earth, to destroy all flesh in which is the breath of life under heaven and the things are upon the earth shall die.

19 I will establish my covenant with you and you shall enter into the ark and your sons and your wife and your sons' wives with you. 20 And of all cattle and of all reptiles and of all wild beasts, even of all flesh, you shall bring by pairs of all, into the ark, that you may feed them with yourself: male and female they shall be. 21 Of all winged birds after their kind and of all cattle after their kind and of all reptiles creeping upon the earth after their kind, pairs of all shall come in to you, male and female to be fed with you. 22 You shall take to yourself of all kinds of food which you eat and you shall gather them to yourself and it shall be for you and them to eat. 23 And Noe did all things whatever the Lord God commanded him, so did he.

7:1 The Lord God said to Noe, Enter you and all your family into the ark, for you have I seen righteous before me in this generation. 2 And of the clean cattle take in to you sevens, male and female and of the unclean cattle pairs male and female. 3 And of clean flying creatures of the sky sevens, male and female and of all unclean flying creatures pairs, male and female, to maintain seed on all the earth. 4 For yet seven days having passed I bring rain upon the earth forty days and forty nights and I will blot out every offspring which I have made from the face of all the earth. 5 And Noe did all things whatever the Lord God commanded him. 6 And Noe was six hundred years old when the flood of water was upon the earth. 7 And then went in Noe and his sons and his wife and his sons' wives with him into the ark, because of the water of the flood. 8 And of clean flying creatures and of unclean flying creatures and of clean cattle and of unclean cattle and of all things that creep upon the earth, 9 pairs went in to Noe into the ark, male and female, as God commanded Noe. 10 It came to pass after the seven days that the water of the flood came upon the earth. 11 In the six hundredth year of the life of Noe, in the second month, on the twenty-seventh day of the month, on this day all the fountains of the abyss were broken up and the flood-gates of heaven were opened. 12 The rain was upon the earth forty days and forty nights. 13 On that very day entered Noe, Sem, Cham, Japheth, the sons of Noe and the wife of Noe and the three wives of his sons with him into the ark. 14 All the wild beasts after their kind and all cattle after their kind and every reptile moving itself on the earth after its kind and every flying bird after its kind, 15 went in to Noe into the ark, pairs, male and female of all flesh in which is the breath of life. 16 And those who entered went in male and female of all flesh, as God commanded Noe and the Lord God shut the ark outside of him.

17 The flood was upon the earth forty days and forty nights and the water abounded greatly and bore up the ark and it was lifted on high from off the earth. 18 The water prevailed and abounded exceedingly upon the earth and the ark was borne upon the water. 19 The water prevailed exceedingly upon the earth and covered all the high mountains which were under heaven. 20 Fifteen cubits upwards was the water raised and it covered all the high mountains. 21 And there died all flesh that moved upon the earth, of flying creatures and cattle and of wild beasts and every reptile moving upon the earth and every man. 22 All things which have the breath of life and whatever was on the dry land, died. 23 And God blotted out every offspring which was upon the face of the earth, both man and beast and reptiles and birds of the sky and they were blotted out from the earth and Noe was left alone and those with him in the ark. 24 The water was raised over the earth a hundred and fifty days.

8:1 And God remembered Noe and all the wild beasts and all the cattle and all the birds and all the reptiles that creep, as many as were with him in the ark and God brought a wind upon the earth and the water stayed. 2 The fountains of the deep were closed up and the flood-gates of heaven and the rain from heaven was withheld. 3 The water subsided and went off the earth and after a hundred and fifty days the water was diminished and the ark rested in the seventh month, on the twenty-seventh day of the month, on the mountains of Ararat. 4 The water continued to decrease until the tenth month. 5 And in the tenth month, on the first day of the month, the heads of the mountains were seen. 6 It came to pass after forty days Noe opened the window of the ark which he had made. 7 He sent forth a raven; and it went forth and returned not until the water was dried from off the earth. 8 He sent a dove after it to see if the water had ceased from off the earth. 9 The dove not having found rest for her feet, returned to him into the ark, because the water was on all the face of the earth, He stretched out his hand and took her and brought her to himself into the ark. 10 And having waited yet seven other days, he again sent forth the dove from the ark. 11 The dove returned to him in the evening and had a leaf of olive, a sprig in her mouth; and Noe knew that the water had ceased from off the earth. 12 And having waited yet seven other days, he again sent forth the dove and she did not return to him again any more. 13 It came to pass in the six hundred and first year of the life of Noe, in the first month, on the first day of the month, the water subsided from off the earth and Noe opened the covering of the ark which he had made, He saw that the water had subsided from the face of the earth. 14 And in the second month the earth was dried, on the twenty-seventh day of the month.

15 The Lord God spoke to Noe, saying: 16 Come out from the ark, you and your wife and your sons and your sons' wives with you. 17 All the wild beasts as many as are with you and all flesh both of birds and beasts and every reptile moving upon the earth, bring forth with you: and increase you and multiply upon the earth. 18 And Noe came forth and his wife and his sons and his sons' wives with him. 19 All the wild beasts and all the cattle and every bird and every reptile creeping upon the earth after their kind, came forth out of the ark.

20 And Noe built an altar to the Lord and took of all clean beasts and of all clean birds and offered a whole burnt-offering upon the altar. 21 The Lord God smelled a smell of sweetness and the Lord God having considered, said: I will not any more curse the earth, because of the works of men, because the imagination of man is intently bent upon evil things from his youth, I will not therefore any more strike all living flesh as I have done. 22 All the days of the earth, seed and harvest, cold and heat, summer and spring, shall not cease by day or night.

9:1 And God blessed Noe and his sons and said to them: Increase and multiply and fill the earth and have dominion over it. 2 The dread and the fear of you shall be upon all the wild beasts of the earth, on all the birds of the sky and on all things moving upon the earth and upon all the fish of the sea, I have placed them under you power. 3 And every reptile which is living shall be to you for meat, I have given all things to you as the green herbs. 4 But flesh with blood of life you shall not eat. 5 For your blood of your lives will I require at the hand of all wild beasts and I will require the life of man at the hand of his brother man. 6 He that sheds man's blood, instead of that blood shall his own be shed, for in the image of God I made man. 7 But do you increase and multiply and fill the earth and have dominion over it.

8 And God spoke to Noe and to his sons with him, saying: 9 And behold I establish my covenant with you and with your seed after you, 10 and with every living creature with you, of birds and of beasts and with all the wild beasts of the earth, as many as are with you, of all that come out of the ark. 11 I will establish my covenant with you and all flesh shall not any more die by the water of the flood and there shall no more be a flood of water to destroy all the earth. 12 The Lord God said to Noe, This is the sign of the covenant which I set between me and you and between every living creature which is with you for perpetual generations. 13 I set my bow in the cloud and it shall be for a sign of covenant between me and the earth. 14 It shall be when I gather clouds upon the earth, that my bow shall be seen in the cloud. 15 I will remember my covenant, which is between me and you and between every living soul in all flesh and there shall no longer be water for a deluge, so as to blot out all flesh. 16 And my bow shall be in the cloud and I will look to remember the everlasting covenant between me and the earth and between every living soul in all flesh, which is upon the earth. 17 And God said to Noe, This is the sign of the covenant, which I have made between me and all flesh, which is upon the earth.

18 Now, the sons of Noe which came out of the ark, were Sem, Cham, Japheth. And Cham was father of C'anaan. 19 These three are the sons of Noe, of these were men scattered over all the earth. 20 And Noe began to be a husbandman, He planted a vineyard. 21 He drank of the wine and was drunk and was naked in his house. 22 And Cham the father of C'anaan saw the nakedness of his father, He went out and told his two brothers without. 23 And Sem and Japheth having taken a garment, put it on both their backs and went backwards and covered the nakedness of their father; and their face was backward and they saw not the nakedness of their father. 24 And Noe recovered from the wine and knew all that his younger son had done to him. 25 He said: Cursed be the servant C'anaan, a slave shall he be to his brothers. 26 He said: Blessed be the Lord God of Sem and C'anaan shall be his bond-servant. 27 May God make room for Japheth, Let him dwell in the habitations of Sem, Let C'anaan be his servant.

28 And Noe lived after the flood three hundred and fifty years. 29 All the days of Noe were nine hundred and fifty years, He died.

10:1 Now, these are the generations of the sons of Noe, Sem, Cham, Japheth; and sons were born to them after the flood. 2 The sons of Japheth, Gamer and Magog and Madoi and Jovan and Elisa and Thobel and Mosoch and Thiras. 3 The sons of Gamer, Aschanaz and Riphaz and Thorgama. 4 The sons of Jovan, Elisa and Tharseis, Cetians, Rhodians. 5 From these were the islands of the Gentiles divided in their land, each according to his tongue, in their tribes and in their nations.

6 The sons of Cham, Chus and Mesrain, Phud and C'anaan. 7 The sons of Chus, Saba and Evila and Sabatha and Rhegma and Sabathaca. The sons of Rhegma, Saba and Dadan. 8 And Chus begot Nebrod: he began to be a giant upon the earth. 9 He was a giant hunter before the Lord God; therefore they say, As Nebrod the giant hunter before the Lord. 10 The beginning of his kingdom was Babylon and Orech and Archad and Chalanne, in the land of Senaar. 11 Out of that land came Assur and built Ninevi and the city Rhooboth and Chalach, 12 and Dase between Ninevi and Chalach: this is the great city. 13 And Mesrain begot the Ludiim and the Nephthalim and the Enemetiim and the Labiim, 14 and the Patrosoniim and the Chasmoniim (from which place came forth Phylistiim) and the Gaphthoriim. 15 And C'anaan begot Sidon his first-born and the Chettite, 16 and the Jebusite and the Amorite and the Girgashite, 17 and the Evite and the Arukite and the Asennite, 18 and the Aradian and the Samarean and the Amathite; and after this the tribes of the C'anaanites were dispersed. 19 The boundaries of the C'anaanites were from Sidon till one comes to Gerara and Gaza, till one comes to Sodom and Gomorrha, Adama and Seboim, as far as Dasa. 20 There were the sons of Cham in their tribes according to their tongues, in their countries and in their nations.

21 And to Sem himself also were children born, the father of all the sons of Heber, the brother of Japheth the elder. 22 Sons of Sem, Elam and Assur and Arphaxad and Lud and Aram and Cainan. 23 And sons of Aram, Uz and Ul and Gater and Mosoch. 24 And Arphaxad begot Cainan and Cainan begot Sala. And Sala begot Heber. 25 And to Heber were born two sons, the name of the one, Phaleg, because in his days the earth was divided and the name of his brother Jektan. 26 Jektan begot Elmodad and Saleth and Sarmoth and Jarach, 27 and Odorrha and Aibel and Decla, 28 Eval and Abimael and Saba, 29 and Uphir and Evila and Jobab, all these were the sons of Jektan. 30 And their dwelling was from Masse, till one comes to Saphera, a mountain of the east. 31 These were the sons of Sem in their tribes, according to their tongues, in their countries and in their nations. 32 These are the tribes of the sons of Noe, according to their generations, according to their nations: of them were the islands of the Gentiles scattered over the earth after the flood.

11:1 All the earth was one lip and there was one language to all. 2 It came to pass as they moved from the east, they found a plain in the land of Senaar and they dwelt there. 3 And a man said to his neighbor, Come, let us make bricks and bake them with fire. The brick was to them for stone and their mortar was bitumen. 4 They said: Come, let us build to ourselves a city and tower, whose top shall be to heaven, Let us make to ourselves a name, before we are scattered abroad upon the face of all the earth. 5 The Lord came down to see the city and the tower, which the sons of men built. 6 The Lord said: Behold, there is one race and one lip of all and they have begun to do this and now nothing shall fail from them of all that they may have undertaken to do. 7 Come and having gone down let us there confound their tongue, that they may not understand each the voice of his neighbor. 8 The Lord scattered them for there over the face of all the earth and they left off building the city and the tower. 9 On this account its name was called Confusion, because there the Lord confounded the languages of all the earth and for there the Lord scattered them upon the face of all the earth.

10 These are the generations of Sem: and Sem was a hundred years old when he begot Arphaxad, the second year after the flood. 11 And Sem lived, after he had begotten Arphaxad, five hundred years and begot sons and daughters and died. 12 And Arphaxad lived a hundred and thirty-five years and begot Cainan. 13 And Arphaxad lived after he had begotten Cainan, four hundred years and begot sons and daughters and died. And Cainan lived a hundred and thirty years and begot Sala; and Canaan lived after he had begotten Sala, three hundred and thirty years and begot sons and daughters and died. 14 And Sala lived a hundred and thirty years and begot Heber. 15 And Sala lived after he had begotten Heber, three hundred and thirty years and begot sons and daughters and died. 16 And Heber lived a hundred and thirty-four years and begot Phaleg. 17 And Heber lived after he had begotten Phaleg two hundred and seventy years and begot sons and daughters and died. 18 And Phaleg lived and hundred and thirty years and begot Ragau. 19 And Phaleg lived after he had begotten Ragau, two hundred and nine years and begot sons and daughters and died. 20 And Ragau lived and hundred thirty and two years and begot Seruch. 21 And Raau lived after he had begotten Seruch, two hundred and seven years and begot sons and daughters and died. 22 And Seruch lived a hundred and thirty years and begot Nachor. 23 And Seruch lived after he had begotten Nachor, two hundred years and begot sons and daughters and died. 24 And Nachor lived a hundred and seventy-nine years and begot Tharrha. 25 And Nachor lived after he had begotten Tharrha, a hundred and twenty-five years and begot sons and daughters, He died. 26 And Tharrha lived seventy years and begot Abram and Nachor and Arrhan.

27 These are the generations of Tharrha. Tharrha begot Abram and Nachor and Arrhan; and Arrhan begot Lot. 28 And Arrhan died in the presence of Tharrha his father, in the land in which he was born, in the country of the Chaldees. 29 Abram and Nachor took to themselves wives, the name of the wife of Abram was Sara and the name of the wife of Nachor, Malcha, daughter of Arrhan, He was the father of Malcha, the father of Jescha. 30 And Sara was barren and did not bear children. 31 And Tharrha took Abram his son and Lot the son Arrhan, the son of his son and Sara his daughter-in-law, the wife of Abram his son and led them forth out of the land of the Chaldees, to go into the land of C'anaan and they came as far as Charrhan, He dwelt there. 32 All the days of Tharrha in the land of Charrhan were two hundred and five years and Tharrha died in Charrhan.

12:1 The Lord said to Abram, Go forth out of your land and out of your kindred and out of the house of your father and come into the land which I will show you. 2 I will make you a great nation and I will bless you and magnify your name and you shall be blessed. 3 I will bless those who bless you and curse those who curse you and in you shall all the tribes of the earth be blessed. 4 Abram went as the Lord spoke to him and Lot departed with him and Abram was seventy-five years old when he went out of Charrhan. 5 Abram took Sara his wife and Lot the son of his brother and all their possessions, as many as they had obtained and every soul which they had obtained in Charrhan and they went forth to go into the land of C'anaan. 6 Abram traversed the land lengthwise as far as the place Sychem, to the high oak and the C'anaanites then inhabited the land. 7 The Lord appeared to Abram and said to him: I will give this land to your seed¹. Abram built an altar there to the Lord who appeared to him. 8 He departed for there to the mountain eastward of Baethel and there he pitched his tent in Baethel near the sea and Aggai toward the east and there he built an altar to the Lord and called on the name of the Lord. 9 Abram departed and went and encamped in the wilderness.

10 And there was a famine in the land and Abram went down to Egypt to sojourn there, because the famine prevailed in the land. 11 It came to pass when Abram drew near to enter into Egypt, Abram said to Sara his wife, I know that you are a fair woman. 12 It shall come to pass then that when the Egyptians shall see you, they shall say, This is his wife and they shall kill me, but they shall save you alive. 13 Say, therefore, I am his sister, that it may be well with me on account of you and my soul shall live because of you. 14 It came to pass when Abram entered into Egypt—the Egyptians having seen his wife that she was very beautiful— 15 that the princes of Pharaoh saw her and praised her to Pharaoh and brought her into the house of Pharaoh. 16 They treated Abram well on her account, He had sheep and calves and asses and men-servants and women-servants and mules and camels. 17 And God afflicted Pharaoh with great and severe afflictions and his house, because of Sara, Abram's wife. 18 Pharaoh having called Abram, said: What is this you have done to me, that you did not tell me that she was your wife? 19 Why then did you say, She is my sister? And I took her for a wife to myself; and now, behold, your wife is before you, take her and go quickly away. 20 Pharaoh gave charge to men concerning Abram, to join in sending him forward and his wife and all that he had.

13:1 Abram went up out of Egypt, he and his wife and all that he had and Lot with him, into the wilderness. 2 Abram was very rich in cattle and silver and gold. 3 He went to the place from where he came, into the wilderness as far as Baethel, as far as the place where his tent was before, between Baethel and Aggai, 4 to the place of the altar, which he built there at first and Abram there called on the name of the Lord. 5 And Lot who went out with Abram had sheep and oxen and tents. 6 The land was not large enough for them to live together, because their possessions were great; and the land was not large enough for them to live together. 7 And there was a strife between the shepherds of Abram's cattle and the shepherds of Lot's cattle and the C'anaanites and the Pherezites then inhabited the land. 8 Abram said to Lot, Let there not be a strife between me and you and between my shepherds and your shepherds, for we are brothers. 9 Behold! is not the whole land before you? Separate yourself from me; if you go to the left, I will go to the right and if you go to the right, I will go to the left. 10 And Lot having lifted up his eyes, observed all the country around Jordan, that it was all watered, before God overthrew Sodom and Gomorrha, as the garden of the Lord and as the land of Egypt, until you come to Zogora. 11 And Lot chose for himself all the country round Jordan and Lot went from the east and they were separated each from his brother. Abram dwelt in the land of C'anaan. 12 And Lot dwelt in a city of the neighboring people and pitched his tent in Sodom. 13 But the men of Sodom were evil and exceedingly sinful before God. 14 And God said to Abram after Lot was separated from him, Look up with your eyes and behold from the place where you now are northward and southward and eastward and seaward; 15 for all the land which you see, I will give it to you and to your seed for ever. 16 I will make your seed like the dust of the earth; if any one is able to number the dust of the earth, then shall your seed be numbered. 17 Arise and traverse the land, both in the length of it and in the breadth; for to you will I give it and to your seed for ever. 18 Abram having removed his tent, came and dwelt by the oak of Mambre, which was in Chebrom, He there built an altar to the Lord.

14:1 It came to pass in the reign of Amarphal king of Sennaar and Arioch king of Ellasar, that Chodollogomor king of Elam and Thargal king of nations, 2 made war with Balla king of Sodom and with Barsa king of Gomorrha and with Sennaar, king of Adama and with Symobor king of Seboim and the king of Balac, this is Segor. 3 All these met with one consent at the salt valley; this is now the sea of salt. 4 Twelve years they served Chodollogomor and the thirteenth year they revolted. 5 And in the fourteenth year came Chodollogomor and the kings with him and cut to pieces the giants in Astaroth and Carnain and strong nations with them and the Ommaeans in the city Save. 6 The Chorrhaeans in the mountains of Seir, to the turpentine tree of Pharan, which is in the desert. 7 And having turned back they came to the well of judgment; this is Cades and they cut in pieces all the princes of Amalec and the Amorites dwelling in Asasonthamar. 8 The king of Sodom went out and the king of Gomorrha and king of Adama and king of Seboim and king of Balac, this is Segor and they set themselves in array against them for war in the salt valley, 9 against Chodollogomor king of Elam and Thargal king of nations and Amarphal king of Sennaar and Arioch king of Ellasar, the four kings against the five. 10 Now, the salt valley consists of slime-pits. The king of Sodom fled and the king of Gomorrha and they fell in there: and those who were left fled to the mountain country. 11 They took all the cavalry of Sodom and Gomorrha and all their provisions and departed. 12 They took also Lot the son of Abram's brother and his baggage and departed, for he dwelt in Sodom.

13 And one of those who had been rescued came and told Abram the Hebrew; He dwelt by the oak of Mamre the Amorite the brother of Eschol and the brother of Aunan, who were confederates with Abram. 14 Abram having heard that Lot his nephew had been taken captive, numbered his own home-born servants three hundred and eighteen and pursued after them to Dan. 15 He came upon them by night, he and his servants, He stroke them and pursued them as far as Choba, which is on the left of Damascus. 16 He recovered all the cavalry of Sodom, He recovered Lot his nephew and all his possessions and the women and the people. 17 The king of Sodom went out to meet him, after he returned from the slaughter of Chodollogomor and the kings with him, to the valley of Saby; this was the plain of the kings.

18 And Melchisedek king of Salem brought forth loaves and wine, He was the priest of the Most High God. 19 He blessed Abram and said: Blessed be Abram of the Most High God, who made heaven and earth, 20 and blessed be the Most High God who delivered your enemies into your power. Abram gave him the tithe of all. 21 The king of Sodom said to Abram, Give me the men and take the horses to yourself. 22 Abram said to the king of Sodom, I will stretch out my hand to the Lord the Most High God, who made the heaven and the earth, 23 that I will not take from all your goods from a string to a shoe-latchet, for fear that you should say, I have made Abram rich. 24 Except what things the young men have eaten and the portion of the men that went with me, Eschol, Aunan, Mambre, these shall take a portion.

15:1 And after these things the word of the Lord came to Abram in a vision, saying: Fear not, Abram, I shield you, your reward shall be very great. 2 Abram said: Master and Lord, what will you give me? Whereas I am departing without a child, but the son of Masek my home-born female slave, this Eliezer of Damascus is my heir. 3 Abram said: I am grieved since you have given me no seed, but my home-born servant shall succeed me. 4 And immediately there was a voice of the Lord to him, saying: This shall not be your heir; but he that shall come out of you shall be your heir. 5 He brought him out and said to him: Look up now to heaven and count the stars, if you shall be able to number them fully, He said: Thus shall your seed be. 6 Abram believed God and it was counted to him for righteousness. 7 He said to him: I am God that brought you out of the land of the Chaldeans, so as to give you this land to inherit. 8 He said: Master and Lord, how shall I know that I shall inherit it? 9 He said to him: Take for me a heifer in her third year and a she-goat in her third year and a ram in his third year and a dove and a pigeon. 10 So he took to him all these and divided them in the midst and set them opposite to each other, but the birds he did not divide. 11 And birds came down upon the bodies, even upon the divided parts of them and Abram sat down by them. 12 And about sunset a trance fell upon Abram and Behold! a great gloomy terror falls upon him. 13 It was said to Abram, You shall surely know that your seed shall be a sojourner in a land not their won and they shall enslave them and afflict them and humble them four hundred years. 14 The nation whoever they shall serve I will judge; and after this, they shall come forth to this place with much property. 15 But you shall depart to your fathers in peace, nourished in a good old age. 16 And in the fourth generation they shall return to this place, for the sins of the Amorites are not yet filled up, even until now. 17 When the sun was about to set, there was a flame and behold a smoking furnace and lamps of fire, which passed between these divided pieces. 18 In that day, the Lord made a covenant with Abram, saying: To your seed I will give this land, from the river of Egypt to the great river Euphrates. 19 The Kenites and the Kenezites and the Kedmonians, 20 and the Chettites and the Pherezites and the Raphaim, 21 and the Amorites and the C'anaanites and the Evites and the Gergesites and the Jebusites.

16:1 And Sara the wife of Abram bore him no children; and she had an Egyptian maid whose name was Agar. 2 And Sara said to Abram, Behold, the Lord has restrained me from bearing [children], go therefore in to my maid, that I may get children for myself through her. Abram listened to the voice of Sara. 3 So Sara the wife of Abram having taken Agar the Egyptian her handmaid, after Abram had dwelt ten years in the land of C'anaan, gave her to Abram her husband as a wife to him. 4 He went in to Agar and she conceived and saw that she was with child and her mistress was dishonored before her. 5 And Sara said to Abram, I am injured by you; I gave my handmaid into your bosom and when I saw that she was with child, I was dishonored before her. Let the Lord judge between me and you. 6 Abram said to Sara, Behold your handmaid is in your hands, use her as it may seem good to you. And Sara afflicted her and she fled from her face.

7 An angel of the Lord found her by the fountain of water in the wilderness, by the fountain in the way to Sur. 8 The angel of the Lord said to her: Agar, Sara's maid, where do you come from and where are you going? And she said: I am fleeing from the face of my mistress Sara. 9 The angel of the Lord said to her: Return to your mistress and submit yourself under her hands. 10 The angel of the Lord said to her: I will surely multiply your seed and it shall not be numbered for multitude. 11 The angel of the Lord said to her: Behold you are with child and shall bear a son and shall call his name Ismael, for the Lord has listened to your humiliation. 12 He shall be a wild man, his hands against all and the hands of all against him, He shall dwell in the presence of all his brothers. 13 And she called the name of the Lord God who spoke to her, You are God who see me; for she said: For I have openly seen him that appeared to me. 14 Therefore she called the well, The well of him whom I have openly seen; behold it is between Cades and Barad. 15 And Agar bore a son to Abram; and Abram called the name of his son which Agar bore to him, Ismael. 16 Abram was eighty-six years old when Agar bore Ismael to Abram.

17:1 Abram was ninety-nine years old and the Lord appeared to Abram and said to him: I am your God, be well-pleasing before me and be blameless. 2 I will establish my covenant between me and you and I will multiply you exceedingly. 3 Abram fell upon his face and God spoke to him, saying: 4 I, behold! my covenant is with you and you shall be a father of a multitude of nations. 5 And your name shall no more be called Abram, but your name shall be Abra'am, for I have made you a father of many nations. 6 I will increase you very exceedingly and I will make nations of you and kings shall come out of you. 7 I will establish my covenant between you and your seed after you, to their generations, for an everlasting covenant, to be your God and the God of your seed after you. 8 I will give to you and to your seed after you the land by which you sojourned, even all the land of C'anaan for an everlasting possession and I will be to them a God. 9 And God said to Abra'am, You also shall fully keep my covenant, you and your seed after you for their generations. 10 And this is the covenant which you shall fully keep between me and you and between your seed after you for their generations; every male of you shall be circumcised. 11 You shall be circumcised in the flesh of your foreskin and it shall be for a sign of a covenant between me and you. 12 The child of eight days old shall be circumcised by you, every male throughout your generations and the servant born in the house He that is bought with money, of every son of a stranger, who is not of your seed. 13 He that is born in your house, He that is bought with money shall be surely circumcised and my covenant shall be on your flesh for an everlasting covenant. 14 The uncircumcised male, who shall not be circumcised in the flesh of his on the eighth day, that soul shall be utterly destroyed from its family, for he has broken my covenant. 15 And God said to Abra'am, Sara your wife—her name shall not be called Sara, Sarrha shall be her name. 16 I will bless her and give you a son of her and I will bless him, He shall become nations and kings of nations shall be of him. 17 Abra'am fell upon his face and laughed; and spoke in his heart, saying: Shall there be a child to one who is a hundred years old and shall Sarrha who is ninety years old, bear? 18 Abra'am said to God, Let this Ismael live before you. 19 And God said to Abra'am, yes, behold, Sarrha your wife shall bear you a son and you shall call his name Isaac; and I will establish my covenant with him, for an everlasting covenant, to be a God to him and to his seed after him. 20 And concerning Ismael, behold, I have heard you, and, behold, I have blessed him and will increase him and multiply him exceedingly; twelve nations shall he beget and I will make him a great nation. 21 But I will establish my covenant with Isaac, whom Sarrha shall bear to you at this time, in the next year. 22 He left off speaking with him and God went up from Abra'am.

23 Abra'am took Ismael his son and all his home-born servants and all those bought with money and every male of the men in the house of Abra'am, He circumcised their s in the time of that day, according as God spoke to him. 24 Abra'am was ninety-nine years old when he was circumcised in the flesh of his foreskin. 25 Ismael his son was thirteen years old when he was circumcised in the flesh of his foreskin. 26 And at the period of that day, Abra'am was circumcised and Ismael his son, 27 and all the men of his house, both those born in the house and those bought with money of foreign nations.

18:1 And God appeared to him by the oak of Mambre, as he sat by the door of his tent at noon. 2 He lifted up his eyes and beheld and Behold! three men stood before him; and having seen them he ran to meet them from the door of his tent and worshiped¹ to the ground. 3 He said: Lord, if indeed I have found grace in your sight, pass not by your servant. 4 Let water now be brought, Let them wash your feet and do you refresh yourselves under the tree. 5 I will bring bread and you shall eat and after this you shall depart on your journey, on account of which refreshment you have turned aside to your servant. He said: So do, as you have said. 6 Abra'am hastened to the tent to Sarrha and said to her: Hasten and knead three measures of fine flour and make cakes. 7 Abra'am ran to the kine and took a young calf, tender and good and gave it to his servant, He hastened to dress it. 8 He took butter and milk and the calf which he had dressed; He set them before them and they did eat, He stood by them under the tree.

9 He said to him: Where is Sarrha your wife? He answered and said: Behold! in the tent. 10 He said: I will return and come to you according to this period seasonably and Sarrha your wife shall have a son; and Sarrha heard at the door of the tent, being behind him. 11 Abra'am and Sarrha were old, advanced in days and the custom of women ceased with Sarrha. 12 And Sarrha laughed in herself, saying: The thing has not as yet happened to me, even until now and my lord is old. 13 The Lord said to Abra'am, Why is it that Sarrha has laughed in herself, saying: Shall I then indeed bear? But I have grown old. 14 Shall anything be impossible with the Lord? At this time I will return to you seasonably and Sarrha shall have a son. 15 But Sarrha denied, saying: I did not laugh, for she was afraid. He said to her: No, but you did laugh.

16 The men having risen up there looked towards Sodom and Gomorrha. Abra'am went with them, attending them on their journey. 17 The Lord said: Shall I hide from Abra'am my servant what things I intend to do? 18 But Abra'am shall become a great and populous nation and in him shall all the nations of the earth be blest. 19 For I know that he will order his sons and his house after him and they will keep the ways of the Lord, to do justice and judgment, that the Lord may bring upon Abra'am all things that he has spoken to him. 20 The Lord said: The cry of Sodom and Gomorrha has been increased towards me and their sins are very great. 21 I will therefore go down and see, if they completely correspond with the cry which comes to me and if not, that I may know. 22 The men having departed from there, came to Sodom; and Abra'am was still standing before the Lord. 23 Abra'am drew near and said: Would you destroy the righteous with the wicked and shall the righteous be as the wicked? 24 Should there be fifty righteous in the city, will you destroy them? Will you not spare the whole place for the sake of the fifty righteous, if they be in it? 25 By no means shall you do as this thing is so as to destroy the righteous with the wicked, so the righteous shall be as the wicked: by no means. You that judge the whole earth, shall you not do right? 26 The Lord said: If there should be in Sodom fifty righteous in the city, I will spare the whole city and the whole place for their sakes. 27 Abra'am answered and said: Now, I have begun to speak to my Lord and I am earth and ashes. 28 But if the fifty righteous should be diminished to forty-five, will you destroy the whole city because of the five wanting? He said: I will not destroy it, if I should find there forty-five. 29 He continued to speak to him still and said: But if there should be found there forty? He said: I will not destroy it for the forty's sake. 30 He said: Will there be anything against me, Lord, if I shall speak? But if there be found there thirty? He said: I will not destroy it for the thirty's sake. 31 He said: Since I am able to speak to the Lord, what if there should be found there twenty? He said: I will not destroy it, if I should find there twenty. 32 He said: Will there be anything against me, Lord, if I speak yet once? But if there should be found there ten? He said: I will not destroy it for the ten's sake. 33 The Lord departed when he left off speaking to Abra'am and Abra'am returned to his place.

19:1 The two angels came to Sodom at evening. And Lot sat by the gate of Sodom and Lot having seen them, rose up to meet them, He worshiped with his face to the ground and said: 2 Behold! my lords, turn aside to the house of your servant and rest from your journey and wash your feet and having risen early in the morning you shall depart on your journey. They said: No, but we will dwell in the street. 3 He constrained them and they turned aside to him and they entered into his house, He made a feast for them and baked unleavened cakes for them and they did eat. 4 But before they went to sleep, the men of the city, the Sodomites, surrounded the house, both young and old, all the people together. 5 They called out Lot and said to him: Where are the men that went in to you this night? Bring them out to us that we may be with them. 6 And Lot went out to them to the porch, He shut the door after him, 7 and said to them: By no means, brothers, do not act wickedly. 8 But I have two daughters, who have not known a man. I will bring them out to you and do you use them as it may please you, only do not injury to these men, to avoid which they came under the shelter of my roof. 9 They said to him: Stand back there, you came in to sojourn, was it also to judge? Now, then we would harm you more than them. They pressed hard on the man, even Lot and they drew near to break the door. 10 The men stretched forth their hands and drew Lot in to them into the house and shut the door of the house. 11 They stroke the men that were at the door of the house with blindness, both small and great and they were wearied with seeking the door. 12 The men said to Lot, have you here sons-in-law, or sons or daughters, or if you have any other friend in the city, bring them out of this place. 13 For we are going to destroy this place; for their cry has been raised up before the Lord and the Lord has sent us to destroy it. 14 And Lot went out and spoke to his sons-in-law who had married his daughters and said: Rise up and depart out of this place, for the Lord is about to destroy the city; but he seemed to be speaking absurdly before his sons-in-law. 15 But when it was morning, the angels hastened Lot, saying: Arise and take your wife and your two daughters whom you have and go forth; for fear that you also be destroyed with the iniquities of the city. 16 They were troubled and the angels laid hold on his hand and the hand of his wife and the hands of his two daughters, in that the Lord spared him.

17 It came to pass when they brought them out, that they said: Save your own life by all means; look not round to that which is behind, nor stay in all the country round about, escape to the mountain, for fear that perhaps you be overtaken together with them. 18 And Lot said to them: I pray, Lord, 19 since your servant has found mercy before you and you have magnified your righteousness, in what you do towards me that my soul may live, — but I shall not be able to escape to the mountain, for fear that perhaps the calamity overtake me and I die. 20 Behold this city is near for me to escape to that place, which is a small one and there shall I be preserved, is it not little? And my soul shall live because of you. 21 He said to him: Behold, I have had respect to you also about this thing, that I should not overthrow the city about which you have spoken. 22 Hasten therefore to escape to that place, for I shall not be able to do anything until you have come to that place; therefore he called the name of that city, Segor. 23 The sun was risen upon the earth when Lot entered into Segor. 24 The Lord rained on Sodom and Gomorrha brimstone and fire from the Lord out of heaven. 25 He overthrew these cities and all the country around and all that dwelt in the cities and the plants springing out of the ground. 26 And his wife looked back and she became a pillar of salt. 27 Abra'am rose up early to go to the place, where he had stood before the Lord. 28 He looked towards Sodom and Gomorrha and towards the surrounding country and saw and behold a flame went up from the earth, as the smoke of a furnace. 29 It came to pass that when God destroyed all the cities of the region round about, God remembered Abra'am and sent Lot out of the midst of the overthrow when the Lord overthrew those cities in which Lot dwelt.

30 And Lot went up out of Segor and dwelt in the mountain, he and his two daughters with him, for he feared to dwell in Segor; He dwelt in a cave, he and his two daughters with him. 31 The elder said to the younger, Our father is old and there is no one on the earth who shall come in to us, as it is fit in all the earth. 32 Come Let us make our father drink wine, Let us sleep with him, Let us raise up seed from our father. 33 So they made their father drink wine in that night and the elder went in and lay with her father that night, He knew not when he slept and when he rose up. 34 It came to pass on the morrow, that the elder said to the younger, Behold, I slept yesternight with our father, let us make him drink wine in this night also and do you go in and sleep with him, Let us raise up seed of our father. 35 So they made their father drink wine in that night also and the younger went in and slept with her father, He knew not when he slept, nor when he arose. 36 The two daughters of Lot conceived by their father. 37 The elder bore a son and called his name

Moab, saying: He is of my father. This is the father of the Moabites to this present day. 38 The younger also bore a son and called his name Amman, saying: The son of my family. This is the father of the Ammanites to this present day.

20:1 Abra'am removed from there to the southern country and dwelt between Cades and Sur and sojourned in Gerara. 2 Abra'am said concerning Sarrha his wife, She is my sister, for he feared to say, She is my wife, for fear that at any time the men of the city should kill him for her sake. So Abimelech king of Gerara sent and took Sarrha. 3 And God came to Abimelech by night in sleep and said: Behold, you die for the woman, whom you have taken, whereas she has lived with a husband. 4 But Abimelech had not touched her, He said: Lord, will you destroy an ignorantly sinning and just nation? 5 Said he not to me, She is my sister and said she not to me, He is my brother? With a pure heart and in the righteousness of my hands have I done this. 6 And God said to him in sleep, yes, I knew that you did this with a pure heart and I spared you, so that you should not sin against me, therefore I suffered you not to touch her. 7 But now return the man his wife; for he is a prophet and shall pray for you and you shall live; but if you restore her not, know that you shall die and all yours. 8 And Abimelech rose early in the morning and called all his servants, He spoke all these words in their ears and all the men feared exceedingly. 9 And Abimelech called Abra'am and said to him: What is this that you have done to us? Have we sinned against you, that you have brought upon me and upon my kingdom a great sin? You have done to me a deed, which no one ought to do. 10 And Abimelech said to Abra'am, What have you seen in me that you have done this? 11 Abra'am said: Why I said: Surely there is not the worship of God in this place and they will kill me because of my wife. 12 For truly she is my sister by my father, but not by my mother and she became my wife. 13 It came to pass when God brought me forth out of the house of my father, that I said to her: This righteousness you shall perform to me, in every place into which we may enter, say of me, He is my brother. 14 And Abimelech took a thousand pieces of silver and sheep and calves and servants and maid-servants and gave them to Abra'am, He returned him Sarrha his wife. 15 And Abimelech said to Abra'am, Behold, my land is before you, dwell wheresoever it may please you. 16 And to Sarrha he said: Behold, I have given your brother a thousand pieces of silver, those shall be to you for the price of your countenance and to all the women with you and speak the truth in all things. 17 Abra'am prayed to God and God healed Abimelech and his wife and his women servants and they bore children. 18 Because the Lord had fast closed from without every womb in the house of Abimelech, because of Sarrha Abra'am's wife.

21:1 The Lord visited Sarrha, as he said: and the Lord did to Sarrha, as he spoke. 2 And she conceived and bore to Abra'am a son in old age, at the set time according as the Lord spoke to him. 3 Abra'am called the name of his son that was born to him, whom Sarrha bore to him, Isaac. 4 Abra'am circumcised Isaac on the eighth day, as God commanded him. 5 Abra'am was a hundred years old when Isaac his son was born to him. 6 And Sarrha said: The Lord has made laughter for me, for whoever shall hear shall rejoice with me. 7 And she said: Who shall say to Abra'am that Sarrha suckles a child? For I have born a child in my old age. 8 The child grew and was weaned and Abra'am made a great feast the day that his son Isaac was weaned. 9 And Sarrha having seen the son of Agar the Egyptian who was born to Abra'am, sporting with Isaac her son, 10 then she said to Abra'am, Cast out this bondwoman and her son, for the son of this bondwoman shall not inherit with my son Isaac. 11 But the word appeared very hard before Abra'am concerning his son. 12 But God said to Abra'am, Let it not be hard before you concerning the child and concerning the bondwoman; in all things which Sarrha shall say to you, hear her voice, for in Isaac shall your seed be called. 13 And moreover I will make the son of this bondwoman a great nation, because he is your seed. 14 Abra'am rose up in the morning and took loaves and a skin of water and gave them to Agar, He put the child on her shoulder and sent her away and she having departed wandered in the wilderness near the well of the oath. 15 The water failed out of the skin and she cast the child under a fir tree. 16 And she departed and sat down opposite him at a distance, as it were a bow-shot, for she said: Surely I cannot see the death of my child: and she sat opposite him and the child cried aloud and wept. 17 And God heard the voice of the child from the place where he was and an angel of God called Agar out of heaven and said to her: What is it, Agar? Fear not, for God has heard the voice of the child from the place where he is. 18 Rise up and take the child and hold him in your hand, for I will make him a great nation. 19 And God opened her eyes and she saw a well of springing water; and she went and filled the skin with water and gave the child drink. 20 And God was with the child, He grew and dwelt in the wilderness and became an archer. 21 He dwelt in the wilderness and his mother took him a wife out of Pharan of Egypt.

22 It came to pass at that time that Abimelech spoke and Ochozath his friend and Phichol the chief captain of his host, to Abra'am, saying: God is with you in all things, in all things that you may do. 23 Now, therefore swear to me by God that you will not injure me, nor my seed, nor my name, but according to the righteousness which I have performed with you, you shall deal with me and with the land in which you have sojourned. 24 Abra'am said: I will swear. 25 Abra'am reproved Abimelech because of the wells of water, which the servants of Abimelech took away. 26 And Abimelech said to him: I know not who has done this thing to you, neither did you tell it me, neither heard I it but only today. 27 Abra'am took sheep and calves and gave them to Abimelech and both made a covenant. 28 Abra'am set seven ewe-lambs by themselves. 29 And Abimelech said to Abra'am, What are these seven ewe-lambs which you have set alone? 30 Abra'am said: You shall receive the seven ewe-lambs of me, that they may be for me as a witness, that I dug this well. 31 Therefore he named the name of that place, The Well of the Oath, for there they both swore. 32 They made a covenant at the well of the oath. And there rose up Abimelech, Ochozath his friend and Phichol the commander-in-chief of his army and they returned to the land of the Phylistines. 33 Abra'am planted a field at the well of the oath and called there on the name of the Lord, the everlasting God. 34 Abra'am sojourned in the land of the Phylistines many days.

22:1 It came to pass after these things that God tempted Abra'am and said to him: Abra'am, Abra'am; He said: Behold! I am here. 2 He said: Take your son, the beloved one, whom you have loved—Isaac and go into the high land and offer him there for a whole-burnt-offering on one of the mountains which I will tell you of. 3 Abra'am rose up in the morning and saddled his ass, He took with him two servants and Isaac his son and having split wood for a whole-burnt-offering, he arose and departed and came to the place of which God spoke to him, 4 on the third day; and Abra'am having lifted up his eyes, saw the place afar off. 5 Abra'am said to his servants, Sit you here with the ass and I and the boy will proceed thus far and having worshiped we will return to you. 6 Abra'am took the wood of the whole-burnt-offering and laid it on Isaac his son, He took into his hands both the fire and the knife and the two went together. 7 Isaac said to Abra'am his father, Father. He said: What is it, son? He said: Behold the fire and the wood, where is the sheep for a whole-burnt-offering? 8 Abra'am said: God will provide himself a sheep for a whole-burnt-offering, my son. And both having gone together, 9 came to the place which God spoke of to him; and there Abra'am built the altar and laid the wood on it and having bound the feet of Isaac his son together, he laid him on the altar upon the wood. 10 Abra'am stretched forth his hand to take the knife to kill his son. 11 An angel of the Lord called him out of heaven and said: Abra'am, Abra'am. He said: Behold, I am here. 12 He said: Lay not your hand upon the child, neither do anything to him, for now I know that you feared God and for my sake you have not spared your beloved son. 13 Abra'am lifted up his eyes and beheld and Behold! a ram caught by his horns in a plant of Sabec; and Abra'am went and took the ram and offered him up for a whole-burnt-offering in the place of Isaac his son.

14 Abra'am called the name of that place, The Lord has seen; that they might say today, In the mount the Lord was seen. 15 An angel of the Lord called Abra'am the second time out of heaven, saying: 16 I have sworn by myself, says the Lord, because you have done this thing and on my account have not spared your beloved son, 17 surely blessing I will bless you and multiplying I will multiply your seed as the stars of heaven and as the sand which is by the shore of the sea and your seed shall inherit the cities of their enemies. 18 And in your seed shall all the nations of the earth be blessed, because you have listened to my voice. 19 Abra'am returned to his servants and they arose and went together to

20 It came to pass after these things, that it was reported to Abra'am, saying: Behold, Melcha herself too has born sons to Nachor your brother, 21 Uz the first-born and Baux his brother and Camuel the father of the Syrians and Chazad and 22 Azav and Phaldes and Jeldaph and Bathuel and Bathuel begot Rebecca; 23 these are eight sons, which Melcha bore to Nachor the brother of Abra'am. 24 And his concubine whose name was Rheuma, she also bore Tabec and Taam and Tochos and Mocha.

23:1 The life of Sarrha was a hundred and twenty-seven years. 2 And Sarrha died in the city of Arboc, which is in the valley, this is Chebron in the land of C'anaan; and Abra'am came to lament for Sarrha and to mourn.

3 Abra'am stood up from before his dead; and Abra'am spoke to the sons of Chet, saying: 4 I am a sojourner and a stranger among you, give me therefore possession of a burying-place among you and I will bury my dead away from me.

5 The sons of Chet answered to Abra'am, saying: Not so, Sir, 6 but hear us; you are in the midst of us a king from God; bury your dead in our choice tombs, for not one of us will by any means withhold his tomb from you, so that you should not bury your dead there. 7 Abra'am rose up and did obeisance¹ to the people of the land, to the sons of Chet. 8 Abra'am spoke to them, saying: If you have it in your mind that I should bury my dead out of my sight, hearken to me and speak for me to Ephron the son Saar. 9 Let him give me the double cave which he has, which is in a part of his field, let him give it me for the money it is worth for possession of a burying-place among you. 10 Now, Ephron was sitting in the midst of the children of Chet and Ephron the Chettite answered Abra'am and spoke in the hearing of the sons of Chet and of all who entered the city, saying: 11 Attend to me, my lord and hear me, I give to you the field and the cave which is in it; I have given it you before all my country men; bury your dead. 12 Abra'am did obeisance before the people of the land. 13 He said in the ears of Ephron before the people of the land, Since you are on my side, hear me; take the price of the field from me and I will bury my dead there. 14 But Ephron answered Abra'am, saying: 15 No, my lord, I have heard indeed, the land is worth four hundred silver didrachms, but what can this be between me and you? No, do you bury your dead. 16 Abra'am listened to Ephron and Abra'am rendered to Ephron the money, which he mentioned in the ears of the sons of Chet, four hundred didrachms of silver approved with merchants. 17 The field of Ephron, which was in Double Cave, which is opposite Mambre, the field and the cave, which was in it and every tree which was in the field and whatever is in its borders round about, were made sure in its borders round about, were made sure 18 to Abra'am for a possession, before the sons of Chet and all that entered into the city. 19 After this Abra'am buried Sarrha his wife in the Double Cave of the field, which is opposite Mambre, this is Chebron in the land of C'anaan. 20 So the field and the cave which was in it were made sure to Abra'am for possession of a burying place, by the sons of Chet.

24:1 Abra'am was old, advanced in days and the Lord blessed Abra'am in all things.

2 Abra'am said to his servant the elder of his house, who had rule over all his possessions, Put your hand under my thigh, 3 and I will adjure you by the Lord the God of heaven and the God of the earth, that you take not a wife for my son Isaac from the daughters of the C'anaanites, with whom I dwell, in the midst of them. 4 But you shall go instead to my country, where I was born and to my tribe and you shall take from there a wife for my son Isaac. 5 The servant said to him: Shall I carry back your son to the land from where you came forth, if haply the woman should not be willing to return with me to this land? 6 Abra'am said to him: Take heed to yourself that you carry not my son back to that place. 7 The Lord the God of heaven and the God of the earth, who took me out of my father's house and out of the land from where I sprang, who spoke to me and who swore to me, saying: I will give this land to you and to your seed, he shall send his angel before you and you shall take a wife to my son from there. 8 If the woman should not be willing to come with you into this land, you shall be clear from my oath, only carry not my son to that place again. 9 The servant put his hand under the thigh of his master Abra'am and swore to him concerning this matter. 10 The servant took ten camels of his master's camels, He took of all the goods of his master with him, He arose and went into Mesopotamia to the city of Nachor. 11 He rested his camels without the city by the well of water towards evening when young women go forth to draw water.

12 He said: O Lord God of my master Abra'am, prosper my way before me to day and deal mercifully with my master Abra'am. 13 Behold! I stand by the well of water and the daughters of those who inhabit the city come forth to draw water. 14 It shall be, the virgin to whoever I shall say, Incline your water-pot, that I may drink and she shall say, Drink you and I will give your camels drink, until they shall have done drinking—even this one you have prepared for your servant Isaac and hereby shall I know that you

15 It came to pass before he had done speaking in his mind, that behold, Rebecca the daughter of Bathuel, the son of Melcha, the wife of Nachor and the same the brother of Abra'am, came forth, having a water-pot on her shoulders. 16 The virgin was very beautiful in appearance, she was a virgin, a man had not known her; and she went down to the well and filled her water-pot and came up. 17 The servant ran up to meet her and said: Give me a little water to drink out of your pitcher; 18 and she said: Drink, Sir; and she hastened, Let down the pitcher upon her arm and gave him to drink, till he ceased drinking. 19 And she said: I will also draw water for your camels, till they shall all have drunk. 20 And she hastened and emptied the water-pot into the trough and ran to the well to draw again and drew water for all the camels. 21 The man took great notice of her and remained silent to know whether the Lord had made his way prosperous or not. 22 It came to pass when all the camels ceased drinking, that the man took golden earrings, each of a drachm weight, He put two bracelets on her hands, their weight was ten pieces of gold. 23 He asked her and said: Whose daughter are you? Tell me if there is room for us to dwell with your father. 24 And she said to him: I am the daughter of Bathuel the son of Melcha, whom she bore to Nachor. 25 And she said to him: We have both straw and much provender and a place for resting. 26 The man being well pleased, worshiped the Lord, 27 and said: Blessed be the Lord the God of my master Abra'am, who has not suffered his righteousness to fail, nor his truth from my master and the Lord has brought me prosperously to the house of the brother of my lord. 28 The young women ran and reported to the house of her mother according to these words. 29 And Rebecca had a brother whose name was Laban; and Laban ran out to meet the man, to the well. 30 It came to pass when he saw the ear-rings and the bracelets on the hands of his sister and when he heard the words of Rebecca his sister, saying: Thus the man spoke to me, that he went to the man, as he stood by the camels at the well. 31 He said to him: Come in to this place, you blessed of the Lord, why stand you without, whereas I have prepared the house and a place for the camels? 32 The man entered into the house and unloaded the camels and gave the camels straw and provender and water to wash his feet and the feet of the men that were with him. 33 He set before them loaves to eat; but he said: I will not eat, until I have told my errand. He said: Speak on.

34 He said: I am a servant of Abra'am; 35 and the Lord has blessed my master greatly, He is exalted, He has given him sheep and calves and silver and gold, servants and servant-maids, camels and asses. 36 And Sarrha my master's wife bore one son to my master after he had grown old; He gave him whatever he had. 37 And my master caused me to swear, saying: You shall not take a wife to my son of the daughters of the C'anaanites, among whom I sojourn in their land. 38 But you shall go to the house of my father and to my tribe and you shall take from there a wife for my son. 39 I said to my master, Haply the woman will not go with me. 40 He said to me: The Lord God to whom I have been acceptable in his presence, himself shall send out his angel with you and shall prosper your journey and you shall take a wife for my son of my tribe and of the house of my father. 41 Then shall you be clear from my curse, for whenever you shall have come to my tribe and they shall not give her to you, then shall you be clear from my oath. 42 And having come this day to the well, I said: Lord God of my master Abra'am, if you prosper my journey on which I am now going, 43 behold, I stand by the well of water and the daughters of the men of the city come forth to draw water and it shall be that the young women to whom I shall say,

Give me a little water to drink out of your pitcher, 44 and she shall say to me, Both drink you and I will draw water for your camels, this shall be the wife whom the Lord has prepared for his own servant Isaac; and hereby shall I know that you have accomplished mercy with my master Abra'am. 45 It came to pass before I had done speaking in my mind, straightway Rebecca came forth, having her pitcher on her shoulders; and she went down to the well and drew water; and I said to her: Give me to drink. 46 And she hastened Let down her pitcher on her arm from her head and said: Drink you and I will give your camels drink; and I drank and she gave the camels drink. 47 I asked her and said: Whose daughter are you? Tell me; and she said: I am daughter of Bathuel the son of Nachor, whom Melcha bore to him; and I put on her the ear-rings and the bracelets on her hands. 48 And being well-pleased I worshiped the Lord and I blessed the Lord the God of my master Abra'am, who has prospered me in a true way, so that I should take the daughter of my master's brother for his son. 49 If then you will deal mercifully and justly with my lord, tell me and if not, tell me, that I may turn to the right hand or to the left.

50 And Laban and Bathuel answered and said: This matter has come forth from the Lord, we shall not be able to answer you bad or good. 51 Behold, Rebecca is before you, take her and go away, Let her be wife to the son of your master, as the Lord has said. 52 It came to pass when the servant of Abra'am heard these words, he bowed himself to the Lord down to the earth. 53 The servant having brought forth jewels of silver and gold and raiment, gave them to Rebecca and gave gifts to her brother and to her mother. 54 And both he and the men with him ate and drank and went to sleep. He arose in the morning and said: Send me away, that I may go to my master. 55 And her brothers and her mother said: Let the virgin remain with us about ten days and after that she shall depart. 56

But he said to them: Hinder me not, for the Lord has prospered my journey for me; send me away, that I may depart to my master. 57 They said: Let us call the young women and enquire at her mouth. 58 They called Rebecca and said to her: will you go with this man? And she said: I will go. 59 So they sent forth Rebecca their sister and her goods and the servant of Abra'am and his attendants. 60 They blessed Rebecca and said to her: You are our sister; become you thousands of myriads, Let your seed possess the cities of their enemies. 61 And Rebecca rose up and her maidens and they mounted the camels and went with the man; and the servant having taken up Rebecca, departed.

62 Isaac went through the wilderness to the well of the vision, He dwelt in the land toward the south. 63 Isaac went forth into the plain toward evening to meditate; and having lifted up his eyes, he saw camels coming. 64 And Rebecca lifted up her eyes and saw Isaac; and she alighted briskly from the camel, 65 and said to the servant, Who is that man that walks in the plain to meet us? The servant said: This is my master; and she took her veil and covered herself. 66 The servant told Isaac all that he had done. 67 Isaac went into the house of his mother and took Rebecca and she became his wife, He loved her; and Isaac was comforted for Sarrha his mother.

25:1 Abra'am again took a wife, whose name was Chettura. 2 And she bore to him Zombran and Jezan and Madal and Madiam and Jesboc and Soie. 3 Jezan begot Saba and Dedan. The sons of Dedan were the Assurians and the Latusians and Laomim. 4 The sons of Madiam were Gephar and Apher and Enoch and Abeida and Eldaga; all these were sons of Chettura. 5 But Abra'am gave all his possessions to Isaac his son. 6 But to the sons of his concubines Abra'am gave gifts, He sent them away from his son Isaac, while he was yet living, to the east into the country of the east. 7 These were the years of the days of the life of Abra'am as many as he lived, a hundred and seventy-five years. 8 Abra'am failing died in a good old age, an old man and full of days and was added to his people. 9 Isaac and Ismael his sons buried him in the double cave, in the field of Ephron the son of Saar the Chettite, which is over against Mambre: 10 even the field and the cave which Abra'am bought of the sons of Chet; there they buried Abra'am and Sarrha his wife. 11 It came to pass after Abra'am was dead, that God blessed Isaac his son and Isaac dwelt by the well of the vision. 12 These are the generations of Ismael the son of Abra'am, whom Agar the Egyptian the hand-maid of Sarrha bore to Abra'am. 13 These are the names of the sons of Ismael, according to the names of their generations. The firstborn of Ismael, Nabaioth and Kedar and Nabdeel and Massam, 14 and Masma and Duma and Masse, 15 and Choddan and Thaeman and Jetur and Naphes and Kedma. 16 These are the sons of Ismael and these are their names in their tents and in their dwellings, twelve princes according to their nations. 17 These are the years of the life of Ismael, a hundred and thirty-seven years; He failed and died and was added to his fathers. 18 He dwelt from Evilat to Sur, which is opposite Egypt, until one comes to the Assyrians; he dwelt in the presence of all his brothers.

19 These are the generations of Isaac the son of Abra'am. 20 Abra'am begot Isaac. Isaac was forty years old when he took to wife Rebecca, daughter of Bathuel the Syrian, out of Syrian Mesopotamia, sister of Laban the Syrian. 21 Isaac prayed the Lord concerning Rebecca his wife, because she was barren; and the Lord heard him and his wife Rebecca conceived in her womb. 22 The [unborn] children leaped within her; and she said: If it will be so with me, why is this to me? And she went to enquire of the Lord. 23 The Lord said to her: There are two nations in your womb and two peoples shall be separated from your belly and one people shall excel the other and the elder shall serve the younger. 24 The days were fulfilled that she should be delivered and she had twins in her womb. 25 The first came out red, hairy all over like a skin; and she called his name Esau. 26 And after this came forth his brother and his hand took hold of the heel of Esau; and she called his name Jacob. Isaac was sixty years old when Rebecca bore them. 27 The lads grew and Esau was a man skilled in hunting, dwelling in the country and Jacob a simple man, dwelling in a house. 28 Isaac loved Esau, because his venison was his food, but Rebecca loved Jacob.

29 Jacob cooked pottage and Esau came from the plain, fainting. 30 And Esau said to Jacob, Let me taste of that red pottage, because I am fainting; therefore his name was called Edom. 31 Jacob said to Esau, Sell me this day your birthright. 32 And Esau said: Behold, I am going to die and for what good does this birthright belong to me? 33 Jacob said to him: Swear to me this day; He swore to him; and Esau sold his birthright to Jacob. 34 Jacob gave bread to Esau and pottage of lentils; He ate and drank, He arose and departed; so Esau slighted his birthright.

26:1 And there was a famine in the land, besides the former famine, which was in the time of Abra'am; and Isaac went to Abimelech the king of the Philistines to Gerara. 2 The Lord appeared to him and said: Go not down to Egypt, but dwell in the land, which I shall tell you of. 3 And sojourn in this land; and I will be with you and bless you, for I will give to you and to your seed all this land; and I will establish my oath which I swore to your father Abra'am. 4 I will multiply your seed as the stars of heaven; and I will give to your seed all this land and all the nations of the earth shall be blessed in your seed. 5 Because Abra'am your father listened to my voice and kept my injunctions and my commandments and my ordinances and my statutes. 6 Isaac dwelt in Gerara. 7 The men of the place questioned him concerning Rebecca his wife, He said: She is my sister, for he feared to say, She is my wife, for fear that at any time the men of the place should kill him because of Rebecca, because she was fair. 8 He remained there a long time and Abimelech the king of Gerara leaned to look through the window and saw Isaac sporting with Rebecca his wife. 9 And Abimelech called Isaac and said to him: Is she then your wife? Why have you said: She is my sister? Isaac said to him: I did so, for I said: for fear that at any time I die on her account. 10 And Abimelech said to him: Why have you done this to us? One of my kindred within a little had lain with your wife and you would have brought a sin of ignorance upon us. 11 And Abimelech charged all his people, saying Every man that touches this man and his wife shall be liable to death. 12 Isaac sowed in that land, He found in that year barley and hundred-fold and the Lord blessed him. 13 The man was exalted and advancing he increased, till he became very great. 14 He had cattle of sheep and cattle of oxen and many tilled lands and the Philistines envied him. 15 All the wells which the servants of his father had dug in the time of his father, the Philistines stopped them and filled them with earth. 16 And Abimelech said to Isaac, Depart from us, for you have become much mightier than we. 17 Isaac departed from there and rested in the valley of Gerara and dwelt there.

18 Isaac dug again the wells of water, which the servants of his father Abra'am had dug and the Philistines had stopped them, after the death of his father Abra'am; He gave them names, according to the names by which his father named them. 19 The servants of Isaac dug in the valley of Gerara and they found there a well of living water. 20 The shepherds of Gerara strove with the shepherds of Isaac, saying that the water was theirs; and they called the name of the well, Injury, for they injured him. 21 And having departed from there he dug another well and they strove also for that; He named the name of it, Enmity. 22 He departed for there and dug another well; and they did not strive about that; He named the name of it, Room, saying: Because now the Lord has made room for us and has increased us upon the earth.

23 He went up for there to the well of the oath. 24 The Lord appeared to him in that night and said: I am the God of Abra'am your father; fear not, for I am with you and I will bless you and multiply your seed for the sake of Abra'am your father. 25 He built there an altar and called on the name of the Lord and there he pitched his tent and there the servants of Isaac dug a well in the valley of Gerara. 26 And Abimelech came to him from Gerara and so did Ochozath his friend and Phichol the commander-in-chief of his army. 27 Isaac said to them: Why then have you come to me? Whereas you hated me and sent me away from you. 28 They said: We have surely seen that the Lord was with you and we said: Let there be an oath between us and you and we will make a covenant with you, 29 that you shall do no wrong by us, as we have not abhorred you and according as we have treated you well and have sent you forth peaceably; and now you are blessed of the Lord. 30 He made a feast for them and they ate and drank. 31 They arose in the morning and swore each to his neighbor; and Isaac sent them forth and they departed from him in safety. 32 It came to pass in that day, that the servants of Isaac came and told him of the well which they had dug; and they said: We have not found water. 33 He called it, Oath: therefore he called the name of that city, the Well of Oath, until this day.

34 And Esau was forty years old; He took to wife Judith the daughter of Beoch the Chettite and Basemath, daughter of Helon the Chettite. 35 They were provoking to Isaac and Rebecca.

27:1 It came to pass after Isaac was old, that his eyes were dimmed so that he do you think not see; He called Esau, his elder son and said to him: My son; He said: Behold, I am here. 2 He said: Behold, I have grown old and know not the day of my death. 3 Now, then take the weapons, both your quiver and your bow and go into the plain and get me venison, 4 and make me meats, as I like them and bring them to me that I may eat, that my soul may bless you, before I die. 5 And Rebecca heard Isaac speaking to Esau his son; and Esau went to the plain to procure venison for his father. 6 And Rebecca said to Jacob her younger son, Behold, I heard your father speaking to Esau your brother, saying: 7 Bring me venison and prepare me meats, that I may eat and bless you before the Lord before I die. 8 Now, then, my son, hearken to me, as I command you. 9 And go to the cattle and take for me for there two kids, tender and good and I will make them meats for your father, as he likes. 10 You shall bring them in to your father, He shall eat, that your father may bless you before he dies. 11 Jacob said to his mother Rebecca, Esau my brother is a hairy man and I a smooth man. 12 Perhaps my father may feel me and I shall be before him as one ill-intentioned and I shall bring upon me a curse and not a blessing. 13 And his mother said to him: On me be your curse, son; only hearken to my voice and go and bring them me. 14 So he went and took and brought them to his mother; and his mother made meats, as his father liked them.

15 And Rebecca having taken the fine raiment of her elder son Esau which was with her in the house, put it on Jacob her younger son. 16 And she put on his arms the skins of the kids and on the bare parts of his neck. 17 And she gave the meats and the loaves which she had prepared, into the hands of Jacob her son. 18 He brought them to his father and said: Father; He said: Behold I am here; who are you, son? 19

Jacob said to his father, I, Esau your first-born, have done as you told me; rise, sit and eat of my venison, that your soul may bless me. 20 Isaac said to his son, What is this which you have quickly found? He said: That which the Lord your God presented before me. 21 Isaac said to Jacob, Draw night to me and I will feel you, son, if you are my son Esau or not. 22 Jacob drew near to his father Isaac, He felt him and said: The voice is Jacob's voice, but the hands are the hands of Esau. 23 He knew him not, for his hands were as the hands of his brother Esau, hairy; He blessed him, 24 He said: are you my son Esau? He said: I am. 25 He said: Bring to this place and I will eat of your venison, son, that my soul may bless you; He brought it near to him, He ate, He brought him wine, He drank. 26 Isaac his father said to him: Draw near to me and kiss me, son. 27 He drew near and kissed him and smelled the smell of his garments and blessed him and said: Behold, the smell of my son is as the smell of an abundant field, which the Lord has blessed. 28 And may God give you of the dew of heaven and of the fatness of the earth and abundance of corn and wine. 29 Let nations serve you and princes bow down to you and be lord of your brother and the sons of your father shall do you reverence; accursed is he that curses you and blessed is he that blesses you.

30 It came to pass after Isaac had ceased blessing his son Jacob, it even came to pass, just when Jacob had gone out from the presence of Isaac his father, that Esau his brother came in from his hunting. 31 He also had made meats and brought them to his father; He said to his father, Let my father arise and eat of his son's venison, that your soul may bless me. 32 Isaac his father said to him: Who are you? He said: I am your first-born son Esau. 33 Isaac was amazed with very great amazement and said: Who then is it that has procured venison for me and brought it to me? And I have eaten of all before you came and I have blessed him, He shall be blessed. 34 It came to pass when Esau heard the words of his father Isaac, he cried out with a great and very bitter cry and said: Bless, I pray you, me also, father. 35 He said to him: your brother has come with subtlety and taken your blessing. 36 He said: Rightly was his name called Jacob, for Behold! this second time has he supplanted me; he has both taken my birthright and now he has taken my blessing; and Esau said to his father, have you not left a blessing for me, father? 37 Isaac answered and said to Esau, If I have made him your lord and have made all his brothers his servants and have strengthened him with corn and wine, what then shall I do for you, son? 38 And Esau said to his father, have you only one blessing, father? Bless, I pray you, me also, father. Isaac being troubled, Esau cried aloud and wept. 39 Isaac his father answered and said to him: Behold, your dwelling shall be of the fatness of the earth and of the dew of heaven from above. 40 You shall live by your sword and shall serve your brother; and there shall be a time when you shall break and loosen his yoke from off your neck.

41 And Esau was angry with Jacob because of the blessing, with which his father blessed him; and Esau said in his mind, Let the days of my father's mourning draw nigh, that I may kill my brother Jacob. 42 The words of Esau her elder son were reported to Rebecca and she sent and called Jacob her younger son and said to him: Behold, Esau your brother threatens you to kill you. 43 Now, then, my son, hear my voice and rise and depart quickly into Mesopotamia to Laban my brother into Charran. 44 And dwell with him certain days, until your brother's anger 45 and rage depart from you, He forget what you have done to him; and I will send and fetch you for there, for fear that at any time I should be bereaved of you both in one day. 46 And Rebecca said to Isaac, I am weary of my life, because of the daughters of the sons of Chet; if Jacob shall take a wife of the daughters of this land, why then should I live?

28:1 Isaac having called for Jacob, blessed him and charged him, saying: You shall not take a wife of the daughters of the C'anaanites. 2 Rise and depart quickly into Mesopotamia, to the house of Bathuel the father of your mother and take to yourself for there a wife of the daughters of Laban your mother's brother. 3 And may my God bless you and increase you and multiply you and you shall become gatherings of nations. 4 And may he give you the blessing of my father Abra'am, even to you and to your seed after you, to inherit the land of your sojourning, which God gave to Abra'am. 5 So Isaac sent away Jacob, He went into Mesopotamia to Laban the son of Bethuel the Syrian, the brother of Rebecca the mother of Jacob and Esau.

6 And Esau saw that Isaac blessed Jacob and sent him away to Mesopotamia of Syria as he blessed him, to take to himself a wife for there and that he charged him, saying: You shall not take a wife of the daughters of the C'anaanites; 7 and that Jacob listened to his father and his mother and went to Mesopotamia of Syria. 8 And Esau also having seen that the daughters of C'anaan were evil before his father Isaac, 9 Esau went to Ismael and took Maeleth the daughter of Ismael, the son of Abra'am, the sister of Nabeoth, a wife in addition to his other wives.

10 Jacob went forth from the well of the oath and departed into Charrhan. 11 And came to a certain place and slept there, for the sun had gone down; He took one of the stones of the place and put it at his head and lay down to sleep in that place, 12 and dreamed and behold a ladder fixed on the earth, whose top reached to heaven and the angels of God ascended and descended on it. 13 The Lord stood upon it and said: I am the God of your father Abra'am and the God of Isaac; fear not, the land on which you lay, to you will I give it and to your seed. 14 And your seed shall be as the sand of the earth; and it shall spread abroad to the sea and the south and the north and to the east; and in you and in your seed shall all the tribes of the earth be blessed. 15 And behold I am with you to preserve you continually in all the way by which you shall go; and I will bring you back to this land; for I will not desert you, until I have done all that I have said to you. 16 Jacob awoke out of his sleep and said: The Lord is in this place and I knew it not. 17 He was afraid and said: How fearful is this place! this is none other than the house of God and this is the gate of heaven. 18 Jacob rose up in the morning and took the stone he had laid there by his head, He set it up as a pillar and poured oil on the top of it. 19 He called the name of that place, the House of God; and the name of the city before was Ulam-luz. 20 Jacob vowed a vow, saying: If the Lord God will be with me and guard me throughout on this journey, on which I am going and give me bread to eat and raiment to put on, 21 and bring me back in safety to the house of my father, then shall the Lord be for a God to me. 22 And this stone, which I have set up for a pillar, shall be to me a house of God; and of all that you shall give me, I will tithe a tenth for you.

29:1 Jacob started and went to the land of the east to Laban, the son of Bathuel the Syrian and the brother of Rebecca, mother of Jacob and Esau. 2 He looks and behold! a well in the plain; and there were there three flocks of sheep resting at it, for out of that well they watered the flocks, but there was a great stone at the mouth of the well. 3 And there were all the flocks gathered and they used to roll away the stone from the mouth of the well and water the flocks and set the stone again in its place on the mouth of the well. 4 Jacob said to them: Brothers, from where are you? And they said: We are of Charrhan. 5 He said to them: Do you know Laban, the son of Nachor? And they said: We do know him. 6 He said to them: Is he well? They said: He is well. And behold Rachel his daughter came with the sheep. 7 Jacob said: it is yet high day, it is not yet time that the flocks be gathered together; water you the flocks and depart and feed them. 8 They said: We shall not be able, until all the shepherds be gathered together and they shall roll away the stone from the mouth of the well, then we will water the flocks. 9 While he was yet speaking to them, behold, Rachel the daughter of Laban came with her father's sheep, for she fed the sheep of her father. 10 It came to pass when Jacob saw Rachel the daughter of Laban, his mother's brother and the sheep of Laban, his mother's brother, that Jacob came and rolled away the stone from the mouth of the well and watered the sheep of Laban, his mother's brother. 11 Jacob kissed Rachel and cried with a loud voice and wept. 12 He told Rachel that he was the near relative of her father and the son of Rebecca; and she ran and reported to her father according to these words. 13 It came to pass when Laban heard the name of Jacob, his sister's son, he ran to meet him and embraced and kissed him and brought him into his house; He told Laban all these sayings. 14 And Laban said to him: You are of my bones and of my flesh; He was with him a full month.

15 And Laban said to Jacob, Surely you shall not serve me for nothing, because you are my brother; tell me what your reward is to be. 16 Now, Laban had two daughters, the name of the elder was Lea and the name of the younger, Rachel. 17 The eyes of Lea were weak. But Rachel was beautiful in appearance and exceedingly fair in countenance. 18 Jacob loved Rachel and said: I will serve you seven years for your younger daughter Rachel. 19 And Laban said to him: It is better that I should give her to you, than that I should give her to another man; dwell with me. 20 Jacob served for Rachel seven years and they were before him as a few days, because of his loving her. 21 Jacob said to Laban, Give me my wife, for my days are fulfilled, that I may go in to her. 22 And Laban gathered together all the men of the place and made a marriage-feast. 23 It was even, He took his daughter Lea and brought her in to Jacob and Jacob went in to her. 24 And Laban gave to his daughter Lea, Zelpha his handmaid, as a handmaid for her. 25 It was morning and behold it was Lea; and Jacob said to Laban, What is this that you have done to me? Did I not serve you for Rachel? And why then have you deceived me? 26 And Laban answered, It is not done thus in our country, to give the younger before the elder. 27 Fulfill then her sevens and I will give to you her also in return for your labor, which you labored with me, yet seven other years. 28 Jacob did so and fulfilled her sevens; and Laban gave him his daughter Rachel to wife. 29 And Laban gave to his daughter his handmaid Balla, for a handmaid to her. 30 He went in to Rachel; He loved Rachel more than Lea; He served him seven other years.

31 When the Lord God saw that Lea was hated, he opened her womb; but Rachel was barren. 32 And Lea conceived and bore a son to Jacob; and she called his name, Ruben; saying: Because the Lord has looked on my humiliation and has given me a son, now then my husband will love me. 33 And she conceived again and bore a second son to Jacob; and she said: Because the Lord has heard that I am hated, he has given to me this one also; and she called his name, Simeon. 34 And she conceived yet again and bore a son and said: In the present time my husband will be with me, for I have born him three sons; therefore she called his name, Levi. 35 And having conceived yet again, she bore a son and said: Now, yet again this time will I give thanks to the Lord; therefore she called his name, Juda; and ceased bearing.

30:1 And Rachel having perceived that she bore Jacob no children, was jealous of her sister; and said to Jacob, Give me children; and if not, I shall die. 2 Jacob was angry with Rachel and said to her: Am I in the place of God, who has deprived you of the fruit of the womb? 3 And Rachel said to Jacob, Behold my handmaid Balla, go in to her and she shall bear upon my knees and I also shall have children by her. 4 And she gave him Balla her maid, for a wife to him; and Jacob went in to her. 5 And Balla, Rachel's maid, conceived and bore Jacob a son. 6 And Rachel said: God has given judgment for me and listened to my voice and has given me a son; therefore she called his name, Dan. 7 And Balla, Rachel's maid, conceived yet again and bore a second son to Jacob. 8 And Rachel said: God has helped me and I contended with my sister and prevailed; and she called his name, Nephthalim. 9 And Lea saw that she ceased from bearing and she took Zelpha her maid and gave her to Jacob for a wife; He went in to her. 10 And Zelpha the maid of Lea conceived and bore Jacob a son. 11 And Lea said: It is happily: and she called his name, Gad. 12 And Zelpha the maid of Lea conceived yet again and bore Jacob a second son. 13 And Lea said: I am blessed, for the women will pronounce me blessed; and she called his name, Aser. 14 And Ruben went in the day of barley-harvest and found apples of mandrakes in the field and brought them to his mother Lea; and Rachel said to Lea her sister, Give me of your son's mandrakes. 15 And Lea said: Is it not enough for you that you have taken my husband, will you also take my son's mandrakes? And Rachel said: Not so: let him lie with you to-night for your son's mandrakes. 16 Jacob came in out of the field at even; and Lea went forth to meet him and said: You shall come in to me this day, for I have hired you for my son's mandrakes; He lay with her that night. 17 And God listened to Lea and she conceived and bore Jacob a fifth son. 18 And Lea said: God has given me my reward, because I gave my maid to my husband; and she called his name Issachar, which is, Reward. 19 And Lea conceived again and bore Jacob a sixth son. 20 And Lea said: God has given me a good gift in this time; my husband will choose me, for I have born him six sons: and she called his name, Zabulon. 21 And after this she bore a daughter; and she called her name, Dina. 22 And God remembered Rachel and God listened to her, He opened her womb. 23 And she conceived and bore Jacob a son; and Rachel said: God has taken away my reproach. 24 And she called his name Joseph, saying: Let God add to me another son.

25 It came to pass when Rachel had born Joseph, Jacob said to Laban, Send me away, that I may go to my place and to my land. 26 Restore my wives and my children, for whom I have served you, that I may depart, for you know the service by which I have served you. 27 And Laban said to him: If I have found grace in your sight, I would augur well, for the Lord has blessed me at your coming in. 28 Appoint me your wages and I will give them. 29 Jacob said: You know in what things I have served you and how many cattle of your are with me. 30 For it was little you have before my time and it is increased to a multitude and the Lord God has blessed you since my coming; now then when shall I set up also my own house? 31 And Laban said to him: What shall I give you? And Jacob said to him: You shall not give me anything; if you will do this thing for me, I will again tend your flocks and keep them. 32 Let all your sheep pass by today and separate for there every grey sheep among the rams and every one that is speckled and spotted among the goats—this shall be my reward. 33 And my righteousness shall answer for me on the morrow, for it is my reward before you: whatever shall not be spotted and speckled among the goats and grey among the rams, shall be stolen with me. 34 And Laban said to him: Let it be according to your word. 35 He separated in that day the spotted and speckled he-goats and all the spotted and speckled she-goats and all that was grey among the rams and every one that was white among them, He gave them into the hand of his sons. 36 He set a distance of a three days' journey between them and Jacob. Jacob tended the cattle of Laban that were left behind. 37 Jacob took to himself green rods of storax tree and walnut and plane-tree; and Jacob peeled in them white stripes; and as he drew off the green, the white stripe which he had made appeared alternate on the rods. 38 He laid the rods which he had peeled, in the hollows of the watering-troughs, that whenever the cattle should come to drink, as they should have come to drink before the rods, the cattle might conceive at the rods. 39 So the cattle conceived at the rods and the cattle brought forth young speckled and streaked and spotted with ash-coloured spots. 40 Jacob separated the lambs and set before the sheep a speckled ram and every variegated one among the lambs, He separated flocks for himself alone and did not mingle them with the sheep of Laban. 41 It came to pass in the time by which the cattle became pregnant, conceiving in the belly, Jacob put the rods before the cattle in the troughs, that they might conceive by the rods. 42 But he did not put them in indiscriminately whenever the cattle happened to bring forth, but the unmarked ones were Laban's and the marked ones were Jacob's. 43 The man became very rich, He had many cattle and oxen and servants and maid-servants and camels and asses.

31:1 Jacob heard the words of the sons of Laban, saying: Jacob has taken all that was our father's and of our father's property has he obtained all this glory. 2 Jacob saw the countenance of Laban and behold it was not toward him as before. 3 The Lord said to Jacob, Return to the land of your father and to your family and I will be with you. 4 Jacob sent and called Lea and Rachel to the plain where the flocks were. 5 He said to them: I see the face of your father, that it is not toward me as before, but the God of my father was with me. 6 You too know that with all my might I have served your father. 7 But your father deceived me and changed my wages for the ten lambs, yet God gave him not power to hurt me. 8 If he should say thus, The speckled shall be your reward, then all the cattle would bear speckled; and if he should say, The white shall be your reward, then would all the cattle bear white. 9 So God has taken away all the cattle of your father and given them to me. 10 It came to pass when the cattle conceived and were with young, that I beheld with my eyes in sleep and behold the he-goats and the rams leaping on the sheep and the she-goats, speckled and variegated and spotted with ash-coloured spots. 11 The angel of God said to me in a dream, Jacob; and I said: What is it? 12 He said: Look up with your eyes and behold the he-goats and the rams leaping on the sheep and the she-goats, speckled and variegated and spotted with ash-coloured spots; for I have seen all things that Laban does to you. 13 I am God that appeared to you in the place of God where you anointed a pillar to me and vowed to me there a vow; now then arise and depart out of this land, depart into the land of your nativity and I will be with you. 14 And Rachel and Lea answered and said to him: Have we yet a part or inheritance in the house of our father? 15 Are we not considered strangers by him? For he has sold us and quite devoured our money. 16 All the wealth and the glory which God has taken from our father, it shall be our's and our children's; now then do all that God has said to you. 17 Jacob arose and took his wives and his children up on the camels; 18 He took away all his possessions and all his store, which he had obtained in Mesopotamia and all that belonged to him, to depart to Isaac his father in the land of C'anaan. 19 And Laban went to shear his sheep; and Rachel stole her father's images. 20 Jacob hid the matter from Laban the Syrian, so as not to tell him that he ran away. 21 He departed himself and all that belonged to him and passed over the river and went into the mountain Galaad. 22 But it was told Laban the Syrian on the third day, that Jacob was fled. 23 And having taken his brothers with him, he pursued after him seven days' journey and overtook him on Mount Galaad. 24 And God came to Laban the Syrian in sleep by night and said to him: Take heed to yourself that you speak not at any time to Jacob evil things. 25 And Laban overtook Jacob; and Jacob pitched his tent in the mountain; and Laban stationed his brothers in the mount Galaad. 26 And Laban said to Jacob, What have you done? Why then did you run away secretly and pillage me and lead away my daughters as captives taken with the sword? 27 Whereas if you have told me, I would have sent you away with mirth and with songs and timbrels and harp. 28 I was not counted worthy to embrace my children and my daughters; now then you have accomplished foolishly. 29 And now my hand has power to hurt you; but the God of your father spoke to me yesterday, saying: Take heed to yourself that you speak not evil words to Jacob. 30 Now, then go on your way, for you have earnestly desired to depart to the house of your father; why then have you stolen my gods? 31 Jacob answered and said to Laban, Because I was afraid; for I said: for fear that at any time you should take away your daughters from me and all my possessions. 32 Jacob said: With whoever you shall find your gods, he shall not live in the presence of our brothers; take notice of what I have of your property and take it; He observed nothing with him, but Jacob knew not that his wife Rachel had stolen them. 33 And Laban went in and searched in the house of Lea and found them not; He went out of the house of Lea and searched in the house of Jacob and in the house of the two maid-servants and found them not; He went also into the house of Rachel. 34 And Rachel took the idols and cast them among the camel's packs and sat upon them. 35 And she said to her father, Be not indignant, Sir; I cannot rise up before you, for it is with me according to the manner of women. Laban searched in all the house and found not the images. 36 Jacob was angry and strove with Laban; and Jacob answered and said to Laban, What is my injustice and what my sin, that you have pursued after me, 37 and that you have searched all the furniture of my house? What have you found of all the furniture of your house? Set it here between your relations and my relations, Let them decide between us two. 38 These twenty years have I been with you; your sheep and your she-goats have not failed in bearing; I devoured not the rams of your cattle. 39 That which was taken of beasts I brought not to you; I made good of myself the thefts of the day and the thefts of the night. 40 I was parched with heat by day and chilled with frost by night and my sleep departed from my eyes. 41 These twenty years have I been in your house; I served you fourteen years for your two daughters and six years among your sheep and you did falsely rate my wages for ten lambs. 42 Unless I had the God of my father Abra'am and the fear of Isaac, now you would have sent me away empty; God saw my humiliation and the labor of my hands and rebuked you yesterday.

43 And Laban answered and said to Jacob, The daughters are my daughters and the sons my sons and the cattle are my cattle and all things which you see are mine and the property of my daughters; what shall I do to them today, or their children which they bore? 44 Now, then come, let me make a covenant, both I and you and it shall be for a witness between me and you; He said to him: Behold, there is no one with us; behold, God is witness between me and you. 45 Jacob having taken a stone, set it up for a pillar. 46 Jacob said to his brothers, Gather stones; and they gathered stones and made a heap and ate there upon the heap; and Laban said to him: This heap witnesses between me and you today. 47 And Laban called it, the Heap of Testimony; and Jacob called it, the Witness Heap. 48 And Laban said to Jacob, Behold this heap and the pillar, which I have set between me and you; this heap witnesses and this pillar witnesses; therefore its name was called, the Heap witnesses. 49 The vision of which he said—Let God look to it between me and you, because we are about to depart from each other, — 50 If you shall humble my daughters, if you should take wives in addition to my daughters, see, there is no one with us looking on. God is witness between me and you. 51 And Laban said to Jacob, Behold, this heap and this pillar are a witness. 52 If I should not cross over to you, neither should you cross over to me, for mischief beyond this heap and this pillar. 53 The God of Abra'm and the God of Nachor judge between us; and Jacob swore by the Fear of his father Isaac. 54 He offered a sacrifice in the mountain and called his brothers and they ate and drank and slept in the mountain. 55 And Laban rose up in the morning and kissed his sons and his daughters and blessed them; and Laban having turned back, departed to his place.

32:1 Jacob departed for his journey; and having looked up, he saw the host of God encamped; and the angels of God met him. 2 Jacob said: when he saw them, This is the Camp of God; He called the name of that place, Encampments.

3 Jacob sent messengers before him to Esau his brother to the land of Seir, to the country of Edom. 4 He charged them, saying: Thus shall you say to my lord Esau: Thus says your servant Jacob; I have sojourned with Laban and tarried until now. 5 And there were born to me oxen and asses and sheep and men-servants and women-servants; and I sent to tell my lord Esau, that your servant might find grace in your sight. 6 The messengers returned to Jacob, saying: We came to your brother Esau and Behold! he comes to meet you and four hundred men with him. 7 Jacob was greatly terrified and was perplexed; He divided the people that was with him and the cows and the camels and the sheep, into two camps. 8 Jacob said: If Esau should come to one camp and strike it, the other camp shall be in safety. 9 Jacob said: God of my father Abra'm and God of my father Isaac, O Lord, you are he that said to me: Depart quickly to the land of your birth and I will do you good. 10 Let there be to me a sufficiency of all the justice and all the truth which you have accomplished with your servant; for with this my staff I passed over this Jordan and now I have become two camps. 11 Deliver me from the hand of my brother, from the hand of Esau, for I am afraid of him, for fear that haply he should come and strike me and the mother upon the children. 12 But you said: I will do you good and will make your seed as the sand of the sea, which shall not be numbered for multitude. 13 He slept there that night and took of the gifts which he carried with him and sent out to Esau his brother, 14 two hundred she-goats, twenty he-goats, two hundred sheep, twenty rams, 15 milch camels and their foals, thirty, forty kine, ten bulls, twenty asses and ten colts. 16 He gave them to his servants each drove apart; He said to his servants, Go on before me and put a space between drove and drove. 17 He charged the first, saying: If Esau my brother meet you, He ask you, saying: Whose are you? And where would you go and whose are these possessions advancing before you? 18 You shall say, your servant Jacob's; he has sent gifts to my lord Esau and Behold! he is behind us. 19 He charged the first and the second and the third and all that went before him after these flocks, saying: Thus shall you speak to Esau when you find him; 20 and you shall say, Behold your servant Jacob comes after us. For he said: I will propitiate his countenance with the gifts going before his presence and afterwards I will behold his face, for perhaps he will accept me. 21 So the presents went on before him, but he himself dwelled that night in the camp. 22 He rose up in that night and took his two wives and his two servant-maids and his eleven children and crossed over the ford of Jaboch. 23 He took them and passed over the torrent and brought over all his possessions.

24 Jacob was left alone; and a man extorted with him till the morning. 25 He saw that he prevailed not against him; He touched the broad part of his thigh and the broad part of Jacob's thigh was benumbed in his extorting with him. 26 He said to him: Let me go, for the day has dawned; but he said: I will not let you go, except you bless me. 27 He said to him: What is your name? He answered, Jacob. 28 He said to him: your name shall no longer be called Jacob, but Israel shall be your name; for you have prevailed with God and shall be mighty with men. 29 Jacob asked and said: Tell me your name; He said: Why then do you ask after my name? He blessed him there. 30 Jacob called the name of that place, the Form¹ of God; for, said he, I have seen God face to face and my life was preserved. 31 The sun rose upon him when he passed the Form of God; He halted upon his thigh. 32 Therefore the children of Israel will by no means eat of the sinew which was benumbed, which is on the broad part of the thigh, until this day, because the angel touched the broad part of the thigh of Jacob—even the sinew which was benumbed.

33:1 Jacob lifted up his eyes and beheld and Behold! Esau his brother coming and four hundred men with him; and Jacob divided the children to Lea and to Rachel and the two handmaidens. 2 He put the two handmaidens and their children with the first and Lea and her children behind and Rachel and Joseph last. 3 But he advanced himself before them and did reverence to the ground seven times, until he drew near to his brother. 4 And Esau ran on to meet him and embraced him and fell on his neck and kissed him; and they both wept. 5 And Esau looked up and saw the women and the children and said: What are these to you? He said: The children with which God has mercifully blessed your servant. 6 The maid-servants and their children drew near and did reverence. 7 And Lea and her children drew near and did reverence; and after this drew near Rachel and Joseph and did reverence. 8 He said: What are these things to you, all these companies that I have met? He said: That your servant might find grace in your sight, my lord. 9 And Esau said: I have much, my brother; keep your own. 10 Jacob said: If I have found grace in your sight, receive the gifts through my hands; therefore have I seen your face, as if any one should see the face of God and you shall be well-pleased with me. 11 Receive my blessings, which I have brought you, because God has had mercy on me and I have all things; He constrained him, He took them. 12 He said: Let us depart and proceed right onward. 13 He said to him: My lord knows, that the children are very tender and the flocks and the herds with me are with young; if then I shall drive them hard one day, all the cattle will die. 14 Let my lord go on before his servant and I shall have strength on the road according to the ease of the journey before me and according to the strength of the children, until I come to my lord to Seir. 15 And Esau said: I will leave with you some of the people who are with me. He said: Why so? It is enough that I have found favor before you, my lord. 16 And Esau returned on that day on his journey to Seir. 17 Jacob departs to his tents; He made for himself there habitations and for his cattle he made booths; therefore he called the name of that place, Booths.

18 Jacob came to Salem, a city of Secima, which is in the land of C'anaan when he departed out of Mesopotamia of Syria and took up a position in front of the city. 19 He bought the portion of the field, where he pitched his tent, of Emmor the father of Sychem, for a hundred lambs. 20 He set up there an altar and called on the God of Israel.

34:1 Dina, the daughter of Lea, whom she bore to Jacob, went forth to observe the daughters of the inhabitants. 2 And Sychem the son of Emmor the Evite, the ruler of the land, saw her and took her and lay with her and humbled her. 3 He was attached to the soul of Dina the daughter of Jacob, He loved the young women, He spoke kindly to the young women. 4 Sychem spoke to Emmor his father, saying: Take for me this young women to wife. 5 Jacob heard that the son of Emmor had defiled Dina his daughter (now his sons were with his cattle in the plain). Jacob was silent until they came. 6 And Emmor the father of Sychem went forth to Jacob, to speak to him. 7 The sons of Jacob came from the plain; and when they heard, the men were deeply pained and it was very grievous to them, because the man accomplished folly in Israel, having lain with the daughter of Jacob and so it must not be. 8 And Emmor spoke to them, saying: Sychem my son has chosen in his heart your daughter; give her therefore to him for a wife, 9 and intermarry with us. Give us your daughters and take our daughters for your sons. 10 And dwell in the midst of us; and, behold, the land is spacious before you, dwell in it and trade and get possessions in it. 11 And Sychem said to her father and to her brothers, I would find grace before you and we will give whatever you shall name. 12 Multiply your demand of dowry very much and I will give accordingly as you shall say to me, only you shall give me this young women for a wife.

13 The sons of Jacob answered to Sychem and Emmor his father craftily and spoke to them, because they had defiled Dina their sister. 14 And Symeon and Levi, the brothers of Dina, said to them: We shall not be able to do this thing, to give our sister to a man who is uncircumcised, for it is a reproach to us. 15 Only on these terms will we conform to you and dwell among you, if you also will be as we are, in that every male of you be circumcised. 16 And we will give our daughters to you and we will take of your daughters for wives to us and we will dwell with you and we will be as one race. 17 But if you will not hearken to us to be circumcised, we will take our daughter and depart. 18 The words pleased Emmor and Sychem the son of Emmor. 19 The young man delayed not to do this thing, for he was much attached to Jacob's daughter, He was the most honorable of all in his father's house. 20 And Emmor and Sychem his son came to the gate of their city and spoke to the men of their city, saying: 21 These men are peaceable, let them dwell with us upon the land, Let them trade in it and behold the land is extensive before them; we will take their daughters to us for wives and we will give them our daughters. 22 Only on these terms will the men conform to us to dwell with us so as to be one people, if every male of us be circumcised, as they also are circumcised. 23 And shall not their cattle and their herds and their possessions, be ours? Only in this let us conform to them and they will dwell with us. 24 All that went in at the gate of their city listened to Emmor and Sychem his son and they were circumcised in the flesh of their every male.

25 It came to pass on the third day when they were in pain, the two sons of Jacob, Symeon and Levi, Dina's brothers, took each man his sword and came upon the city securely and killed every male. 26 They killed Emmor and Sychem his son with the edge of the sword and took Dina out of the house of Sychem and went forth. 27 But the sons of Jacob came upon the wounded and ravaged the city by which they had defiled Dina their sister. 28 And their sheep and their oxen and their donkeys they took and all things that were in the city and in the plain. 29 They took captive all the persons of them and all their store and their wives and plundered both whatever things there were in the city and whatever things there were in the houses. 30 Jacob said to Symeon and Levi, you have made me hateful so that I should be evil to all the inhabitants of the land, both among the C'anaanites and the Pherezites and I am few in number; they will gather themselves against me and cut me in pieces and I shall be utterly destroyed and my house. 31 They said: No, but shall they treat our sister as A harlot?

35:1 And God said to Jacob, Arise, go up to the place, Baethel and dwell there; and make there an altar to the God that appeared to you when you fled from the face of Esau your brother. 2 Jacob said to his house and to all that were with him, Remove the strange gods that are with you from the midst of you and purify yourselves and change your clothes. 3 Let us rise and go up to Baethel, Let us there make an altar to God who listened to me in the day of calamity, who was with me and preserved me throughout in the journey, by which I went. 4 They gave to Jacob the strange gods, which were in their hands and the ear-rings which were in their ears and Jacob hid them under the turpentine tree which is in Secima and destroyed them to this day. 5 So Israel departed from Secima and the fear of God was upon the cities around them and they did not pursue after the children of Israel. 6 Jacob came to Luza, which is in the land of C'anaan, which is Baethel, he and all the people that were with him. 7 He built there an altar and called the name of the place Baethel; for there God appeared to him when he fled from the face of his brother Esau.

8 Deborrha, Rebecca's nurse, died and was buried below Baethel under the oak; and Jacob called its name, The Oak of Mourning. 9 And God appeared to Jacob once more in Luza when he came out of Mesopotamia of Syria and God blessed him. 10 And God said to him: your name shall not be called Jacob, but Israel shall be your name; He called his name Israel. 11 And God said to him: I am your God; increase and multiply; for nations and gatherings of nations shall be of you and kings shall come out of your loins. 12 The land which I gave to Abra'am and Isaac, I have given it to you; and it shall come to pass that I will give this land also to your seed after you. 13 And God went up from him from the place where he spoke with him. 14 Jacob set up a pillar in the place where God spoke with him, even a pillar of stone; and offered a libation upon it and poured oil upon it. 15 Jacob called the name of the place in which God spoke with him, Baethel. 16 [[And Jacob removed from Baethel and pitched his tent beyond the tower of Gader,]]and it came to pass when he drew near to Chabratha, to enter into Ephratha, Rachel's waters broke; and her labor was extremely difficult. 17 It came to pass in her hard labor, that the midwife said to her: Be of good courage, for you shall also have this son. 18 It came to pass, as she gave up the spirit (for she was dying), that she called his name, The son of my pain; but his father called his name Benjamin. 19 So Rachel died and was buried in the way of the course of Ephratha, this is Bethleem. 20 Jacob set up a pillar on her tomb; this is the pillar on the tomb of Rachel, until this day. 21 It came to pass when Israel dwelt in that land, that Ruben went and lay with Balla, the concubine of his father Jacob; and Israel heard and the thing appeared grievous before him.

22 The sons of Jacob were twelve. 23 The sons of Lea, the first-born of Jacob; Ruben, Symeon, Levi, Judas, Issachar, Zabulon. 24 The sons of Rachel; Joseph and Benjamin. 25 The sons of Balla, the hand-maid of Rachel; Dan and Nephthalim. 26 The sons of Zelpha, the hand-maid of Lea; Gad and Aser. These are the sons of Jacob, which were born to him in Mesopotamia of Syria. 27 Jacob came to Isaac his father to Mambre, to a city of the plain; this is Chebron in the land of C'anaan, where Abra'am and Isaac sojourned. 28 The days of Isaac which he lived were a hundred and eighty years. 29 Isaac gave up the ghost and died and was laid to his family, old and full of days; and Esau and Jacob his sons buried him.

36:1 These are the generations of Esau; this is Edom. 2 And Esau took to himself wives of the daughters of the C'anaanites; Ada, the daughter of Ælom the Chettite; and Olibema, daughter of Ana the son of Sebegon, the Evite; 3 and Basemath, daughter of Ismael, sister of Nabaioth. 4 And Ada bore to him Eliphaz; and Basemath bore Raguel. 5 And Olibema bore Jeus and Jeglom and Core; these are the sons of Esau, which were born to him in the land of C'anaan. 6 And Esau took his wives and his sons and his daughters and all the persons of his house and all his possessions and all his cattle and all that he had obtained and all things that he had acquired in the land of C'anaan; and Esau went forth from the land of C'anaan, from the face of his brother Jacob. 7 For their substance was too great for them to dwell together; and the land of their sojourning do you think not bear them, because of the abundance of their possessions. 8 And Esau dwelt in mount Seir; Esau, he is Edom. 9 These are the generations of Esau, the father of Edom in the mount Seir. 10 These are the names of the sons of Esau. 37:1 These are the generations of Jacob. Joseph was seventeen years old, feeding the sheep of his father with his brothers, being young; with the sons of Balla and with the sons of Zelpha, the wives of his father; and Joseph brought to Israel their father their evil reproach. 3 Jacob loved Joseph more than all his sons, because he was to him the son of old age; He made for him a coat of many colors. 4 And his brothers having seen that his father loved him more than all his sons, hated him and do you think not speak anything peaceable to him. 5 Joseph dreamed a dream and reported it to his brothers. 6 He said to them: Hear this dream which I have dreamed. 7 I thought you were binding sheaves in the middle of the field and my sheaf stood up and was erected and your sheaves turned round and did obeisance¹ to my sheaf. 8 And his brothers said to him: shall you indeed reign over us, or shall you indeed be lord over us? They hated him still more for his dreams and for his words. 9 He dreamed another dream and related it to his father and to his brothers and said: Behold, I have dreamed another dream: as it were the sun and the moon and the eleven stars did me reverence. 10 And his father rebuked him and said to him: What is this dream which you have dreamed? Shall indeed both I and your mother and your brothers come and bow before you to the earth? 11 And his brothers envied him; but his father observed the saying. 12 And his brothers went to feed the sheep of their father to Sychem. 13 Israel said to Joseph, Do not your brothers feed their flock in Sychem? Come, I will send you to them; He said to him: Behold, I am here. 14 Israel said to him: Go and see if your brothers and the sheep are well and bring me word; He sent him out of the valley of Chebron, He came to Sychem. 15 And a man found him wandering in the field; and the man asked him, saying: What seek you? 16 He said: I am seeking my brothers; tell me where they feed their flocks. 17 The man said to him: They have departed hence, for I heard them saying: Let us go to doesaim; and Joseph went after his brothers and found them in doesaim.

18 They spied him from a distance before he drew near to them and they wickedly took counsel to kill him. 19 And each said to his brother, Behold, that dreamer comes. 20 Now, then come, let us kill him and cast him into one of the pits; and we will say, An evil wild beast has devoured him; and we shall see what his dreams will be. 21 And Ruben having heard it, rescued him out of their hands and said: Let us not kill him. 22 And Ruben said to them: Shed not blood; cast him into one of these pits in the wilderness, but do not lay your hands upon him; that he might rescue him out of their hands and restore him to his father. 23 It came to pass when Joseph came to his brothers, that they stripped Joseph of his many-coloured coat that was upon him. 24 They took him and cast him into the pit; and the pit was empty, it had not water. 25 They sat down to eat bread; and having lifted up their eyes they beheld and Behold, Ismaelitish travelers came from Galaad and their camels were heavily loaded with spices and resin and myrrh; and they went to bring them to Egypt.

26 Judas said to his brothers, What profit is it if we kill our brother and conceal his blood? 27 Come, let us sell him to these Ismaelites, but let not our hands be upon him, because he is our brother and our flesh; and his brothers hearkened. 28 The men, the merchants of Madian, went by and they drew and lifted Joseph out of the pit and sold Joseph to the Ismaelites for twenty pieces of gold; and they brought Joseph down into Egypt. 29 And Ruben returned to the pit and sees not Joseph in the pit; He rent his garments. 30 He returned to his brothers and said: The boy is not; and I, where am I yet to go? 31 And having taken the coat of Joseph, they killed a kid of the goats and stained the coat with the blood. 32 They sent the coat of many colors; and they brought it to their father and said: This have we found; know if it be your son's coat or no. He recognized it and said: It is my son's coat, an evil wild beast has devoured him; a wild beast has carried off Joseph. 33 Jacob rent his clothes and put sackcloth on his loins and mourned for his son many days. 34 All his sons and his daughters gathered themselves together and came to comfort him; but he would not be comforted, saying: I will go down to my son mourning to hades; and his father wept for him. 35 The Madianites sold Joseph into Egypt; to Petephres, the eunuch of Pharaoh, captain of the guard.

38:1 It came to pass at that time that Judas went down from his brothers and came as far as to a certain man of Odollam, whose name was Iras. 2 Judas saw there the daughter of a Chanantish man, whose name was Sava; He took her and went in to her. 3 And she conceived and bore a son and called his name, Er. 4 And she conceived and bore a son again; and called his name, Aunan. 5 And she again bore a son; and called his name, Selom: and she was in Chasbi when she bore them. 6 Judas took a wife for Er his first-born, whose name was Thamar. 7 And Er, the first-born of Judas, was wicked before the Lord; and God killed him. 8 Judas said to Aunan, Go in to your brother's wife and marry her as her brother-in-law and raise up seed to your brother. 9 And Aunan, knowing that the seed should not be his—it came to pass when he went in to his brother's wife, that he spilled it upon the ground, so that he should not give seed to his brother's wife. 10 And his doing this appeared evil before God; He killed him also.

11 Judas said to Thamar, his daughter-in-law, Sit you a widow in the house of your father-in-law, until Selom my son be grown; for he said: for fear that he also die as his brothers; and Thamar departed and sat in the house of her father. 12 The days were fulfilled and Sava the wife of Judas died; and Judas, being comforted, went to those who sheared his sheep, himself and Iras his Shepherd the Odollamite, to Thamna. 13 It was told Thamar his daughter-in-law, saying: Behold, your father-in-law goes up to Thamna, to shear his sheep. 14 And having taken off the garments of her widowhood from her, she put on a veil and ornamented her face and sat by the gates of Ænan, which is in the way to Thamna, for she saw that Selom was grown; but he gave her not to him for a wife. 15 When Judas saw her, he thought her to be a harlot; for she covered her face, He knew her not. 16 He went out of his way to her and said to her: Let me come in to you; for he knew not that she was his daughter-in-law; and she said: What will you give me if you should come in to me? 17 He said: I will send you a kid of the goats from my flock; and she said: Well, if you will give me an earnest, until you send it. 18 He said: What is the earnest that I shall give you? And she said: your ring and your bracelet and the staff in your hand; He gave them to her and went in to her and she conceived by him. 19 And she arose and departed and took her veil from off her and put on the garments of her widowhood. 20 Judas sent the kid of the goats by the hand of his shepherd the Odollamite, to receive the pledge from the woman; He found her not. 21 He asked the men of the place, Where is the harlot who was in Ænan by the way-side? And they said: There was no harlot here. 22 He returned to Judas and said: I have not found her; and the men of the place say, There is no harlot here. 23 Judas said: Let her have them, but let us not be ridiculed; I sent this kid, but you have not found her. 24 It came to pass after three months, that it was told Judas, saying: Tamar your daughter-in-law has grievously played the harlot and behold she is with child by whoredom; and Judas said: Bring her out, Let her be burnt. 25 And as they were bringing her, she sent to her father-in-law, saying: I am with child by the man whose these things are; and she said: See whose is this ring and bracelet and staff. 26 Judas knew them and said: Tamar is cleared rather than I, since I gave her not to Selom my son: He knew her not again. 27 It came to pass when she was in labor, that she also had twins in her womb. 28 It came to pass as she was bringing forth, one thrust forth his hand and the midwife having taken hold of it, bound upon hid hand a scarlet thread, saying: This one shall come out first. 29 When he drew back his hand, then immediately came forth his brother; and she said: Why has the barrier been cut through because of you? And she called his name, Phares. 30 And after this came forth his brother, on whose hand was the scarlet thread; and she called his name, Zara.

39:1 Joseph was brought down to Egypt; and Petephres the eunuch of Pharaoh, the captain of the guard, an Egyptian, bought him of the hands of the Ismaelites, who brought him down to that place. 2 The Lord was with Joseph, He was a prosperous man; He was in the house with his lord the Egyptian. 3 And his master knew that the Lord was with him and the Lord prospers in his hands all that he happens to do. 4 Joseph found grace in the presence of his lord and was well-pleasing to him; He set him over his house and all that he had he gave into the hand of Joseph. 5 It came to pass after that he was set over his house and over all that he had, that the Lord blessed the house of the Egyptian for Joseph's sake; and the blessing of the Lord was on all his possessions in the house and in his field. 6 He committed all that he had into the hands of Joseph; He knew not of anything that belonged to him, save the bread which he himself ate. Joseph was handsome in form and exceedingly beautiful in countenance. 7 It came to pass after these things, that his master's wife cast her eyes upon Joseph and said: Lie with me. 8 But he would not; but said to his master's wife, If because of me my master knows nothing in his house and has given into my hands all things that belong to him: 9 and in this house there is nothing above me, nor has anything been kept back from me, but you, because you are his wife—how then shall I do this wicked thing and sin against God? 10 When she talked with Joseph day by day, He hearkened not to her to sleep with her, so as to be with her, 11 it came to pass on a certain day, that Joseph went into the house to do his business and there was no one of the household within. 12 And she caught hold of him by his clothes and said: Lie with me; and having left his clothes in her hands, he fled and went forth. 13 It came to pass when she saw that he had left his clothes in her hands and fled and gone forth, 14 that she called those who were in the house and spoke to them, saying: See, he has brought in to us a Hebrew servant to mock us—he came in to me, saying: Lie with me and I cried with a loud voice. 15 When he heard that I lifted up my voice and cried, having left his clothes with me, he fled and went forth out. 16 So she leaves the clothes by her, until the master came to his house. 17 And she spoke to him according to these words, saying: The Hebrew servant, whom you brought in to us, came in to me to mock me and said to me: I will lie with you. 18 When he heard that I lifted up my voice and cried, having left his clothes with me, he fled and departed forth. 19 It came to pass when his master heard all the words of his wife, that she spoke to him, saying: Thus did your servant to me, that he was very angry.

20 And his master took Joseph and cast him into the prison, into the place where the king's prisoners are kept, there in the prison. 21 The Lord was with Joseph and poured down mercy upon him; He gave him favor in the sight of the chief keeper of the prison. 22 The chief keeper of the prison gave the prison into the hand of Joseph and all the prisoners as many as were in the prison; and all things that they do there, he did them. 23 Because of him the chief keeper of the prison knew nothing, for all things were in the hand of Joseph, because the Lord was with him; and whatever things he did, the Lord made them to prosper in his hands.

40:1 It came to pass after these things, that the chief cupbearer of the king of Egypt and the chief baker trespassed against their lord the king of Egypt. 2 Pharaoh was wroth with his two eunuchs, with his chief cupbearer and with his chief baker. 3 He put them in ward, into the prison, into the place by which to Joseph had been led. 4 The chief keeper of the prison committed them to Joseph, He stood by them; and they were some days in the prison. 5 They both had a dream in one night; and the vision of the dream of the chief cupbearer and chief baker, who belonged to the king of Egypt, who were in the prison, was this. 6 Joseph went in to them in the morning and saw them and they had been troubled. 7 He asked the eunuchs of Pharaoh who were with him in the prison with his master, saying: Why is it that your countenances are sad today? 8 They said to him: We have seen a dream and there is no interpreter of it. Joseph said to them: Is not the interpretation of them through god? Tell them than to me. 9 The chief cupbearer related his dream to Joseph and said: In my dream a vine was before me. 10 And in the vine were three stems; and it budding shot forth blossoms; the clusters of grapes were ripe. 11 The cup of Pharaoh was in my hand; and I took the bunch of grapes and squeezed it into the cup and gave the cup into Pharaoh's hand. 12 Joseph said to him: This is the interpretation of it. The three stems are three days. 13 Yet three days and Pharaoh shall remember your office, He shall restore you to your place of chief cupbearer and you shall give the cup of Pharaoh into his hand, according to your former high place, as you were wont to be cupbearer. 14 But remember me of yourself when it shall be well with you and you shall deal mercifully with me and you shall make mention of me to Pharaoh and you shall bring me forth out of this dungeon. 15 For surely I was stolen away out of the land of the Hebrews and here I have done nothing, but they have cast me into this pit. 16 The chief baker saw that he interpreted aright; He said to Joseph, I also saw a dream and I took up on my head three baskets of edible food. 17 And in the upper basket there was the work of the baker of every kind which Pharaoh eats; and the fowls of the air ate them out of the basket that was on my head. 18 Joseph answered and said to him: This is the interpretation of it; The three baskets are three days. 19 Yet three days and Pharaoh shall take away your head from off you and shall hang you on a tree and the birds of the sky shall eat your flesh from off you. 20 It came to pass on the third day that it was Pharaoh's birth-day, He made a banquet for all his servants, He remembered the office of the cupbearer and the office of the baker in the midst of his servants. 21 He restored the chief cupbearer to his office, He gave the cup into Pharaoh's hand. 22 He hanged the chief baker, as Joseph, interpreted to them. 23 Yet did not the chief cupbearer remember Joseph, but forgot him.

41:1 It came to pass after two full years that Pharaoh had a dream. He thought he stood upon the bank of the river. 2 And Behold, there came up as it were out of the river seven cows, fair in appearance and choice of flesh and they fed on the sedge. 3 And other seven cows came up after these out of the river, ill-favoured and lean-fleshed and fed by the other cows on the bank of the river. 4 The seven ill-favoured and lean cows devoured the seven well-favoured and choice-fleshed cows; and Pharaoh awoke. 5 He dreamed again. And, behold, seven ears came up on one stalk, choice and good. 6 And, behold, seven ears thin and blasted with the wind, grew up after them. 7 The seven thin ears and blasted with the wind devoured the seven choice and full ears; and Pharaoh awoke and it was a dream. 8 It was morning and his soul was troubled; He sent and called all the interpreters of Egypt and all her wise men; and Pharaoh related to them his dream and there was no one to interpret it to Pharaoh. 9 The chief cupbearer spoke to Pharaoh, saying: I this day remember my fault: 10 Pharaoh was angry with his servants and put us in prison in the house of the captain of the guard, both me and the chief baker. 11 And we had a dream both in one night, I and he; we saw, each according to his dream. 12 And there was there with us a young man, a Hebrew servant of the captain of the guard; and we related to him our dreams, He interpreted them to us. 13 It came to pass, as he interpreted them to us, so also it happened, both that I was restored to my office and that he was hanged. 14 Pharaoh having sent, called Joseph; and they brought him out from the prison and shaved him and changed his dress, He came to Pharaoh. 15 Pharaoh said to Joseph, I have seen a vision and there is no one to interpret it; but I have heard say concerning you that you did hear dreams and interpret them. 16 Joseph answered Pharaoh and said: Without God an answer of safety shall not be given to Pharaoh. 17 Pharaoh spoke to Joseph, saying: In my dream I stood by the bank of the river; 18 and there came up as it were out of the river, seven cows well-favoured and choice-fleshed and they fed on the sedge. 19 And behold seven other cows came up after them out of the river, evil and ill-favoured and lean-fleshed, such that I never saw worse in all the land of Egypt. 20 The seven ill-favoured and thin cows ate up the seven first good and choice cows. 21 They went into their bellies; and it was not perceptible that they had gone into their bellies and their appearance was ill-favoured, as also at the beginning; and after I awoke I slept, 22 and saw again in my sleep and as it were seven ears came up on one stem, full and good. 23 And other seven ears, thin and blasted with the wind, sprang up close to them. 24 The seven thin and blasted ears devoured the seven fine and full ears: so

I spoke to the interpreters and there was no one to explain it to me.

25 Joseph said to Pharaoh, The dream of Pharaoh is one; whatever God does, he has shown to Pharaoh. 26 The seven good cows are seven years and the seven good ears are seven years; the dream of Pharaoh is one. 27 The seven thin kine that came up after them are seven years; and the seven thin and blasted ears are seven years; there shall be seven years of famine. 28 And as for the word which I have told Pharaoh, whatsoever God intends to do, he has shown to Pharaoh: 29 behold, for seven years there is coming great plenty in all the land of Egypt. 30 But there shall come seven years of famine after these and they shall forget the plenty that shall be in all Egypt and the famine shall consume the land. 31 The plenty shall not be known in the land because of the famine that shall be after this, for it shall be very grievous. 32 And concerning the repetition of the dream to Pharaoh twice, it is because the saying which is from God shall be true and God will hasten to accomplish it. 33 Now, then, look out a wise and prudent man and set him over the land of Egypt. 34 Let Pharaoh make and appoint local governors over the land; Let them take up a fifth part of all the produce of the land of Egypt for the seven years of the plenty. 35 Let them gather all the food of these seven good years that are coming, Let the corn be gathered under the hand of Pharaoh; let food be kept in the cities. 36 The stored food shall be for the land against the seven years of famine, which shall be in the land of Egypt; and the land shall not be utterly destroyed by the famine. 37 The word was pleasing in the sight of Pharaoh and in the sight of all his servants.

38 Pharaoh said to all his servants, Shall we find such a man as this, who has the Spirit of God in him? 39 Pharaoh said to Joseph, Since God has showed you all these things, there is not a wiser or more prudent man than you. 40 You shall be over my house and all my people shall be obedient to your word; only in the throne will I excel you. 41 Pharaoh said to Joseph, Behold, I set you this day over all the land of Egypt. 42 Pharaoh took his ring off his hand and put it on the hand of Joseph and put on him a robe of fine linen and put a necklace of gold about his neck. 43 He mounted him on the second of his chariots and a herald made proclamation before him; He set him over all the land of Egypt. 44 Pharaoh said to Joseph, I am Pharaoh; without you no one shall lift up his hand on all the land of Egypt. 45 Pharaoh called the name of Joseph, Psonthomphanech; He gave him Aseneth, the daughter of Petephres, priest of Heliopolis, to wife. 46 Joseph was thirty years old when he stood before Pharaoh, king of Egypt. Joseph went out from the presence of Pharaoh and went through all the land of Egypt. 47 The land produced, in the seven years of plenty, whole handfuls of corn. 48 He gathered all the food of the seven years, in which was the plenty in the land of Egypt; He laid up the food in the cities; the food of the fields of a city around it he laid up in it. 49 Joseph gathered very much corn as the sand of the sea, until it do you think not be numbered, for there was no number of it.

50 And to Joseph were born two sons, before the seven years of famine came, which Aseneth, the daughter of Petephres, priest of Heliopolis, bore to him. 51 Joseph called the name of the first-born, Manasse; for God, said he, has made me forget all my toils and all my father's house. 52 He called the name of the second, Ephraim; for God, said he, has increased me in the land of my humiliation. 53 The seven years of plenty passed away, which were in the land of Egypt. 54 The seven years of famine began to come, as Joseph said; and there was a famine in all the land; but in all the land of Egypt there was bread. 55 All the land of Egypt was hungry; and the people cried to Pharaoh for bread. Pharaoh said to all the Egyptians, Go to Joseph and do whatsoever he shall tell you. 56 The famine was on the face of all the earth; and Joseph opened all the granaries and sold to all the Egyptians. 57 All countries came to Egypt to buy of Joseph, for the famine prevailed in all the earth.

42:1 Jacob having seen that there was a sale of corn in Egypt, said to his sons, Why are you indolent? 2 Behold, I have heard that there is corn in Egypt; go down to that place and buy for us a little food, that we may live and not die.

3 The ten brothers of Joseph went down to buy corn out of Egypt. 4 But Jacob sent not Benjamin, the brother of Joseph, with his brothers; for he said: for fear that, haply, disease befall him. 5 The sons of Israel came to buy with those who came, for the famine was in the land of C'anaan. 6 Joseph was ruler of the land; he sold to all the people of the land. The brothers of Joseph, having come, did reverence to him, bowing with the face to the ground. 7 When Joseph saw his brothers, he knew them and estranged himself from them and spoke hard words to them; and said to them: from where are you come? They said: Out of the land of C'anaan, to buy food. 8 Joseph knew his brothers, but they knew not him. 9 Joseph remembered his dream, which he saw; He said to them: you are spies; to observe the marks of the land are you come. 10 But they said: No, Sir, we your servants have come to buy food; 11 we are all sons of one man; we are peaceable, your servants are not spies. 12 He said to them: No, but you have come to observe the marks of the land. 13 They said: We your servants are twelve brothers, in the land of C'anaan; and, behold, the youngest is with our father today, but the other one is not. 14 Joseph said to them: This is it that I spoke to you, saying: you are spies; 15 herein shall you be manifested; by the health of Pharaoh, you shall not depart hence, unless your younger brother come to this place. 16 Send one of you and take your brother; and go you to prison, till your words be clear, whether you speak the truth or not; but, if not, by the health of Pharaoh, truly you are spies. 17 He put them in prison three days. 18 He said to them on the third day, This do and you shall live, for I fear God. 19 If you be peaceable, let one of your brothers be detained in prison; but go you and carry back the corn you have purchased. 20 And bring your younger brother to me and your words shall be believed; but, if not, you shall die. They did so. 21 And each said to his brother, Yes, indeed, for we are in fault concerning our brother when we disregarded the anguish of his soul when he besought us and we hearkened not to him; and therefore has this affliction come upon us. 22 And Ruben answered them, saying: Did I not speak to you, saying: Hurt not the boy and you heard me not? And, behold, his blood is required. 23 But they knew not that Joseph understood them; for there was an interpreter between them. 24 Joseph turned away from them and wept; and again he came to them and spoke to them; He took Symeon from them and bound him before their eyes.

25 Joseph gave orders to fill their vessels with corn and to return their money to each into his sack and to give them provision for the way; and it was so done to them. 26 And having put the corn on the asses, they departed for there. 27 And one having opened his sack to give his donkeys fodder, at the place where they rested, saw also his bundle of money, for it was on the mouth of his sack. 28 He said to his brothers, My money has been restored to me and behold this is in my sack. And their heart was wonder-struck and they were troubled, saying one to another, What is this that God has done to us? 29 They came to their father, Jacob, into the land of C'anaan and reported to him all that had happened to them, saying: 30 The man, the lord of the land, spoke harsh words to us and put us in prison as spies of the land. 31 And we said to him: We are men of peace, we are not spies. 32

We are twelve brothers, sons of our father; one is not and the youngest is with his father today in the land of C'anaan. 33 The man, the lord of the land, said to us, Herein shall I know that you are peaceable; leave one brother here with me and having taken the corn you have purchased for your family, depart. 34 And bring to me your younger brother; then I shall know that you are not spies, but that you are men of peace: and I will restore you your brother and you shall trade in the land. 35 It came to pass as they were emptying their sacks, there was each man's bundle of money in his sack; and they and their father saw their bundles of money and they were afraid. 36 And their father Jacob said to them: you have bereaved me. Joseph is not, Symeon is not and will you take Benjamin? All these things have come upon me. 37 And Ruben spoke to his father, saying: kill my two sons, if I bring him not to you; give him into my hand and I will bring him back to you. 38 But he said: My son shall not go down with you, because his brother is dead, He only has been left; and suppose it shall come to pass that he is afflicted by the way by which you go, then you shall bring down my old age with sorrow to hades.

43:1 But the famine prevailed in the land. 2 It came to pass when they had finished eating the corn which they had brought out of Egypt, that their father said to them: Go again; buy us a little food. 3 Judas spoke to him, saying: The man, the lord of the country, positively testified to us, saying: you shall not see my face, unless your younger brother be with you. 4 If, then, you send our brother with us, we will go down and buy you food; 5 but if you send not our brother with us, we will not go: for the man spoke to us, saying: you shall not see my face, unless your younger brother be with you. 6 Israel said: Why did you harm me, inasmuch as you told the man that you had a brother? 7

They said: The man closely questioned us about our family also, saying: Do your father yet live and have you a brother? And we answered him according to this question: did we know that he would say to us, Bring your brother? 8 Judas said to his father Israel, Send the boy with me and we will arise and go, that we may live and not die, both we and you and our store. 9 I engage for him; at my hand do you require him; if I bring him not to you and place him before you, I shall be guilty toward you for ever. 10 If we had not tarried, we should now have returned twice. 11 Israel, their father, said to them: If it be so, do this; take of the fruits of the earth in your vessels and carry down to the man presents of gum and honey and frankincense and stacte and turpentine and walnuts. 12 And take double money in your hands and the money that was returned in your sacks, carry back with you, for fear that perhaps it is a mistake. 13 And take your brother; and arise, go down to the man. 14 And my God give you favor in the sight of the man and send away your other brother and Benjamin, for I accordingly as I have been bereaved, am bereaved.

15 The men having taken these presents and the double money, took in their hands also Benjamin; and they rose up and went down to Egypt and stood before Joseph. 16 Joseph saw them and his brother Benjamin, born of the same mother; He said to the steward of his household, Bring the men into the house and kill beasts and make ready, for the men are to eat bread with me at noon. 17 The man did as Joseph said; He brought the men into the house of Joseph. 18 The men when they perceived that they were brought into the house of Joseph, said: We are brought in because of the money that was returned in our sacks at the first; even in order to inform against us and lay it to our charge; to take us for servants and our asses. 19 And having approached the man who was over the house of Joseph, they spoke to him in the porch of the house, 20 saying: We pray you, Sir; we came down at first to buy food. 21 It came to pass when we came to unlade and opened our sacks, there was also this money of each in his sack; we have now brought back our money by weight in our hands. 22 And we have brought other money with us to buy food; we know not who put the money into our sacks. 23 He said to them: God deal mercifully with you; be not afraid; your God and the God of your fathers, has given you treasures in your sacks and I have enough of your good money. He brought Symeon out to them. 24 He brought water to wash their feet; and gave provender to their asses. 25 They prepared their gifts, until Joseph came at noon, for they heard that he was going to dine there. 26 Joseph entered into the house and they brought him the gifts which they had in their hands, into the house; and they did him reverence with their face to the ground. 27 He asked them, How are you? He said to them: Is your father, the old man of whom you spoke, well? Does he yet live? 28 They said: your servant our father is well; he is yet alive. He said: Blessed be that man by God; — and they bowed and did him reverence. 29 Joseph lifted up his eyes and saw his brother Benjamin, born of the same mother; He said: Is this your younger brother, whom you spoke of bringing to me? He said: God have mercy on you, my son. 30 Joseph was troubled, for his bowels yearned over his brother, He sought to weep; He went into his chamber and wept there.

31 He washed his face and came out and refrained himself and said: Set on bread. 32 They set on bread for him alone and for them by themselves and for the Egyptians feasting with him by themselves, for the Egyptians do you think not eat bread with the Hebrews, for it is an abomination to the Egyptians. 33 They sat before him, the first-born according to his seniority and the younger according to his youth; and the men looked with amazement every one at his brother. 34 They took their portions from him to themselves; but Benjamin's portion was five times as much as the portions of the others. They drank and were filled with drink with him.

44:1 Joseph charged the steward of his house, saying: Fill the men's sacks with food, as much as they can carry and put the money of each in the mouth of his sack. 2 And put my silver cup into the sack of the youngest and the price of his corn. It was done according to the word of Joseph, as he said.

3 The morning dawned and the men were sent away, they and their asses. 4 When they had gone out of the city and were not far off, then Joseph said to his steward, Arise and pursue after the men; and you shall overtake them and say to them, Why have you returned evil for good? 5 Why have you stolen my silver cup? Is it not this out of which my lord drinks? He divines augury with it; you have accomplished evil in that which you have done. 6 He found them and spoke to them according to these words. 7 They said to him: Why does our lord speak according to these words? Far be it from your servants to do according to this word. 8 If we brought back to you out of the land of C'anaan the money which we found in our sacks, how should we steal silver or gold out of the house of your lord? 9 With whoever of your servants you shall find the cup, let him die; and, moreover, we will be servants to our lord. 10 He said: Now, then it shall be as you say; with whoever the cup shall be found, he shall be my servant and you shall be clear. 11 They hastened and took down every man his sack on the ground and they opened every man his sack. 12 He searched, beginning from the eldest, until he came to the youngest; He found the cup in Benjamin's sack. 13 They rent their garments and laid each man his sack on his ass and returned to the city.

14 Judas and his brothers came in to Joseph, while he was yet there and fell on the ground before him. 15 Joseph said to them: What is this thing that you have done? Do you not know that a man such as I can surely divine? 16 Judas said: What shall we answer to our lord, or what shall we say, or by which should we be justified? Whereas God has discovered the unrighteousness of your servants; behold, we are slaves to our lord, both we He with whom the cup has been found. 17 Joseph said: Far be it from me to do this thing; the man with whom the cup has been found, he shall be my servant; but do you go up with safety to your father. 18 Judas drew near him and said: I pray, Sir, let your servant speak a word before you and be not angry with your servant, for you are next to Pharaoh. 19 Sir, you asked your servants, saying: Have you a father or a brother? 20 And we said to my lord, We have a father, an old man, He has a son of his old age, a young one and his brother is dead, He alone has been left behind to his mother and his father loves him. 21 You said to they servants, Bring him down to me and I will take care of him. 22 And we said to my lord, The child will not be able to leave his father; but if he should leave his father, he will die. 23 But you said to they servants, Except your younger brother come down with you, you shall not see my face again. 24 It came to pass when we went up to your servant our father, we reported to him the words of our lord. 25 And our father said: Go again and buy us a little food. 26 And we said: We shall not be able to go down; but if our younger brother go down with us, we will go down; for we shall not be able to see the man's face, our younger brother not being with us. 27 And your servant our father said to us, you know that my wife bore me two sons; 28 and one is departed from me; and you said that he was devoured of wild beasts and I have not seen him until now. 29 If then you take this one also from my presence and an affliction happen to him by the way, then shall you bring down my old age with sorrow to the grave. 30 Now, then, if I should go in to they servant and our father and the boy should not be with us, (and his life depends on this lad's life) 31 —it shall even come to pass when he sees the boy is not with us, that he will die and your servants will bring down the old age of your servant and our father, with sorrow to the grave. 32 For your servant has received the boy in charge from his father, saying: If I bring him not to you and place him before you, I shall be guilty towards my father for ever. 33 Now, then I will remain a servant with you instead of the lad, a domestic of my lord; but let the boy go up with his brothers. 34 For how shall I go up to my father, the boy not being with us? For I fear to behold the evils which will befall my father.

45:1 Joseph do you think not refrain himself when all were standing by him, but said: Dismiss all from me; and no one stood near Joseph when he made himself known to his brothers. 2 He uttered his voice with weeping; and all the Egyptians heard and it was reported to the house of Pharaoh. 3 Joseph said to his brothers, I am Joseph; does my father yet live? And his brothers do you think not answer him, for they were troubled. 4 Joseph said to his brothers, Draw near to me; and they drew near; He said: I am your brother Joseph, whom you sold into Egypt. 5 Now, then be not grieved, Let it not seem hard to you that you sold me to this place, for God sent me before you for life. 6 For this second year there is famine on the earth and there are yet five years remaining, in which there is to be neither ploughing, nor mowing. 7 For God sent me before you, that there might be left to you a remnant upon the earth, even to nourish a great remnant of you. 8 Now, then you did not send me to this place, but God; He has made me as a father of Pharaoh and lord of all his house and ruler of all the land of Egypt. 9 Hasten, therefore and go up to my father and say to him, These things says your son Joseph; God has made me lord of all the land of Egypt; come down therefore to me and do not delay. 10 You shall dwell in the land of Gesem of Arabia; and you shall be near me, you and your sons and your sons' sons, your sheep and your oxen and whatsoever things are yours. 11 I will nourish you there: for the famine is yet for five years; for fear that you be consumed and your sons and all your possessions. 12 Behold, your eyes see and the eyes of my brother Benjamin, that it is my mouth that speaks to you. 13 Report, therefore, to my father all my glory in Egypt and all things that you have seen and make haste and bring down my father to this place. 14 He fell on his brother Benjamin's neck and wept on him; and Benjamin wept on his neck. 15 He kissed all his brothers and wept on them; and after these things his brothers spoke to him.

16 The report was carried into the house of Pharaoh, saying: Joseph's brothers are come; and Pharaoh was glad and his household. 17 Pharaoh said to Joseph, Say to your brothers, Do this; fill your wagons and depart into the land of C'anaan. 18 And take up your father and your possessions and come to me; and I will give you of all the goods of Egypt and you shall eat the marrow of the land. 19 And do you charge them thus; that they should take for them wagons out of the land of Egypt, for your little ones and for your wives; and take up your father and come. 20 And be not sparing in regard to your property, for all the good of Egypt shall be yours. 21 The children of Israel did so; and Joseph gave to them wagons, according to the words spoken by king Pharaoh; He gave them provision for the journey. 22 He gave to them all two sets of raiment apiece; but to Benjamin he gave three hundred pieces of gold and five changes of raiment. 23 And to his father he sent presents at the same rate and ten asses, bearing some of all the good things of Egypt and ten mules, bearing bread for his father for your journey. 24 He sent away his brothers and they went; He said to them: Be not angry by the way. 25 They went up out of Egypt and came into the land of C'anaan, to Jacob their father. 26 They reported to him, saying: your son Joseph is living, He is ruler over all the land of Egypt; and Jacob was amazed, for he did not believe them. 27 But they spoke to him all the words uttered by Joseph, whatsoever he said to them; and having seen the chariots which Joseph sent to take him up, the spirit of Jacob their father revived. 28 Israel said: It is a great thing for me if Joseph my son is yet alive. I will go and see him before I die.

46:1 Israel departed, he and all that he had and came to the well of the oath; He offered sacrifice to the God of his father Isaac. 2 And God spoke to Israel in a night vision, saying: Jacob, Jacob; He said: What is it? 3 He says to him, I am the God of your fathers; fear not to go down into Egypt, for I will make you there a great nation. 4 I will go down with you into Egypt and I will bring you up at the end; and Joseph shall put his hands on your eyes. 5 Jacob rose up from the well of the oath; and the sons of Israel took up their father and the baggage and their wives on the wagons, which Joseph sent to take them. 6 They took up their goods and all their property, which they had obtained in the land of C'anaan; they came into the land of Egypt, Jacob and all his seed with him. 7 The sons and the sons of his sons with him; his daughters and the daughters of his daughters; He brought all his seed into Egypt. 8 These are the names of the sons of Israel that went into Egypt with their father Jacob—Jacob and his sons. The first-born of Jacob, Ruben. 9 The sons of Ruben; Enoch and Phallus, Asron and Charmi. 10 and the sons of Symeon; Jemuel and Jamin and Aod and Achin and Saar and Saul, the son of a Chananitish woman. 11 The sons of

Levi; Gerson, Cath and Merari. 12 The sons of Judas; Er and Aunan and Selom and Phares and Zara: and Er and Aunan died in the land of C'anaan. 13 The sons of Phares were Esron and Jemuel. The sons of Issachar; Thola and Phua and Asum and Sambran. 14 The sons of Zabulun, Sered and Allon and Achoel. 15 These are the sons of Lea, which she bore to Jacob in Mesopotamia of Syria and Dina his daughter; all the souls, sons and daughters, thirty-three. 16 The sons of Gad; Saphon and Angis and Sannis and Thasoban and Aedis and Aroedis and Areelis. 17 The sons of Aser; Jemna, Jessua and Jeul and Baria and Sara their sister. The sons of Baria; Chobor and Melchiil. 18 These are the sons of Zelpha, which Laban gave to his daughter Lea, who bore these to Jacob, sixteen souls. 19 The sons of Rachel, the wife of Jacob; Joseph and Benjamin. 20 And there were sons born to Joseph in the land of Egypt, whom Aseneth, the daughter of Petephres, priest of Heliopolis, bore to him, even Manasses and Ephraim. And there were sons born to Manasses, which the Syrian concubine bore to him, even Machir. And Machir begot Galaad. The sons of Ephraim, the brother of Manasses; Sutalaam and Taam. The sons of Sutalaam; Edom. 21 And the sons of Benjamin; Bala and Bochor and Asbel. The sons of Bala were Gera and Noeman and Anchis and Ros and Mamphim. And Gera begot Arad. 22 These are the sons of Rachel, which she bore to Jacob; all the souls eighteen. 23 The sons of Dan; Asom. 24 The sons of Nephthalim; Asiel and Goni and Issaar and Sollem. 25 These are the sons of Balla, whom Laban gave to his daughter Rachel, who bore these to Jacob; all the souls, seven. 26 All the souls that came with Jacob into Egypt, who came out of his loins, besides the wives of the sons of Jacob, even all the souls were sixty-six. 27 The sons of Joseph, who were born to him in the land of Egypt, were nine souls; all the souls of the house of Jacob who came with Joseph into Egypt, were seventy-five souls.

28 He sent Judas before him to Joseph, to meet him to the city of Heroes, into the land of Ramesses. 29 Joseph having made ready his chariots, went up to meet Israel his father, at the city of Heroes; and having appeared to him, fell on his neck and wept with abundant weeping. 30 Israel said to Joseph, After this I will gladly die, since I have seen your face, for you are yet living. 31 Joseph said to his brothers, I will go up and tell Pharaoh and will say to him, My brothers and my father's house, who were in the land of C'anaan, have come to me. 32 The men are shepherds; for they have been feeders of cattle and they have brought with them their cattle and their kine and all their property. 33 If then Pharaoh call you and say to you, What is your occupation? 34 you shall say, We your servants are herdsmen from our youth until now, both we and our fathers: that you may dwell in the land of Gesem of Arabia, for every shepherd is an abomination to the Egyptians.

47:1 Joseph came and told Pharaoh, saying: My father and my brothers and their cattle and their oxen and all their possessions, have come out of the land of C'anaan and behold, they are in the land of Gesem. 2 He took of his brothers five men and set them before Pharaoh. 3 Pharaoh said to the brothers of Joseph, What is your occupation? And they said to Pharaoh, your servants are shepherds, both we and our father. 4 They said to Pharaoh, We have come to sojourn in the land, for there is no pasture for the flocks of your servants, for the famine has prevailed in the land of C'anaan; now then, we will dwell in the land of Gesem. Pharaoh said to Joseph, Let them dwell in the land of Gesem; and if you know that there are among them able men, make them overseers of my cattle. So Jacob and his sons came into Egypt, to Joseph; and Pharaoh, king of Egypt, heard of it. 5 Pharaoh spoke to Joseph, saying: your father and your brothers, have come to you. 6 Behold, the land of Egypt is before you; settle your father and your brothers in the best land. 7 Joseph brought in Jacob his father and set him before Pharaoh; and Jacob blessed Pharaoh. 8 Pharaoh said to Jacob, How many are the years of the days of your life? 9 Jacob said to Pharaoh, The days of the years of my life, by which I sojourn, are a hundred and thirty years; few and evil have been the days of the years of my life, they have not attained to the days of the life of my fathers, in which days they sojourned. 10 Jacob blessed Pharaoh and departed from him. 11 Joseph settled his father and his brothers and gave them a possession in the land of Egypt, in the best land, in the land of Ramesses, as Pharaoh commanded. 12 Joseph gave provision to his father and his brothers and to all the house of his father, corn for each person.

13 And there was no corn in all the land, for the famine prevailed greatly; and the land of Egypt and the land of C'anaan, fainted for the famine. 14 Joseph gathered all the money that was found in the land of Egypt and the land of C'anaan, in return for the corn which they bought, He distributed corn to them; and Joseph brought all the money into the house of Pharaoh. 15 All the money failed out of the land of Egypt and out of the land of C'anaan; and all the Egyptians came to Joseph, saying: Give us bread and why do we die in your presence? For our money is spent. 16 Joseph said to them: Bring your cattle and I will give you bread for your cattle, if your money is spent. 17 They brought their cattle to Joseph; and Joseph gave them bread in return for their horses and for their sheep and for their oxen and for their asses; and Joseph maintained them with bread for all their cattle in that year. 18 And that year passed and they came to him in the second year and said to him: Must we then be consumed from before our lord? For if our money has failed and our possessions and our cattle, brought to you our lord and there has not been left to us before our lord more than our own bodies and our land, we are indeed destitute. 19 In order, then, that we die not before you and the land be made desolate, buy us and our land for bread and we and our land will be servants to Pharaoh: give seed that we may sow and live and not die, so our land shall not be made desolate. 20 Joseph bought all the land of the Egyptians, for Pharaoh; for the Egyptians sold their land to Pharaoh; for the famine prevailed against them and the land became Pharaoh's. 21 He brought the people into to him, for servants, from one extremity of Egypt to the other, 22 except only the land of the priests; Joseph bought not this, for Pharaoh gave a portion in the way of gift to the priests; and they ate their portion which Pharaoh gave them; therefore they sold not their land. 23 Joseph said to all the Egyptians, Behold, I have bought you and your land this day for Pharaoh; take seed for you and sow the land. 24 And there shall be the fruits of it; and you shall give the fifth part to Pharaoh and the four remaining parts shall be for yourselves, for seed for the earth and for food for you and all that are in your houses. 25 They said: You have saved us; we have found favor before our lord and we will be servants to Pharaoh. 26 Joseph appointed it to them for an ordinance until this day; to reserve a fifth part for Pharaoh, on the land of Egypt, except only the land of the priests, that was not Pharaoh's.

27 Israel dwelt in Egypt, in the land of Gesem and they gained an inheritance upon it; and they increased and multiplied very greatly. 28 Jacob survived seventeen years in the land of Egypt; and Jacob's days of the years of his life were a hundred and forty-seven years. 29 And the days of Israel drew near for him to die: He called his son Joseph and said to him: If I have found favor before you, put your hand under my thigh and you shall execute mercy and truth toward me, so as not to bury me in Egypt. 30 But I will sleep with my fathers and you shall carry me up out of Egypt and bury me in their tomb. He said: I will do according to your word. 31 He said: Swear to me; He swore to him. Israel worshiped¹, leaning on the top of his staff².

48:1 It came to pass after these things, that it was reported to Joseph, Behold, your father is ill; and, having taken his two sons, Manasse and Ephraim, he came to Jacob. 2 It was reported to Jacob, saying: Behold, your son Joseph comes to you; and Israel having strengthened himself, sat upon the bed. 3 Jacob said to Joseph, My God appeared to me in Luza, in the land of C'anaan and blessed me, 4 and said to me: Behold, I will increase you and multiply you and will make of you multitudes of nations; and I will give this land to you and to your seed after you, for an everlasting possession. 5 Now, then your two sons, who were born to you in the land of Egypt, before I came to you into Egypt, are mine; Ephraim and Manasse, as Ruben and Symeon they shall be mine. 6 The children which you shall beget hereafter, shall be in the name of their brothers; they shall be named after their inheritances. 7 And as for me when I came out of Mesopotamia of Syria, Rachel, your mother, died in the land of C'anaan, as I drew near to the horse-course of Chabratha of the land of C'anaan, so as to come to Ephratha; and I buried her in the road of the course; this is Bethlehem.

8 When Israel saw the sons of Joseph, he said: Who are these to you? 9 Joseph said to his father, They are my sons, whom God gave me here; and Jacob said: Bring me them, that I may bless them. 10 Now, the eyes of Israel were dim through age, He do you think not see; He brought them near to him, He kissed them and embraced them. 11 Israel said to Joseph, Behold, I have not been deprived of seeing your face and Behold! God has showed me your seed also. 12 Joseph brought them out from between his knees and they did reverence to him, with their face to the ground. 13 Joseph took his two sons, both Ephraim in his right hand, but on the left of Israel and Manasse on his left hand, but on the right of Israel and brought them near to him. 14 But Israel having stretched out his right hand, laid it on the head of Ephraim, He was the younger; and his left hand on the head of Manasse, guiding his hands crosswise.

15 He blessed them and said: The God in whose sight my fathers were well pleasing, even Abra'am and Isaac, the God who continues to feed me from my youth until this day; 16 the angel who delivers me from all evils, bless these boys and my name shall be called upon them and the name of my fathers, Abra'am and Isaac; Let them be increased to a great multitude on the earth. 17 Joseph having seen that his father put his right hand on the head of Ephraim—it seemed grievous to him; and Joseph took hold of the hand of his father, to remove it from the head of Ephraim to the head of Manasse. 18 Joseph said to his father, Not so, father; for this is the first-born; lay your right-hand upon his head. 19 He would not, but said: I know it, son, I know it; he also shall be a people, He shall be exalted, but his younger brother shall be greater than he and his seed shall become a multitude of nations. 20 He blessed them in that day, saying: In you shall Israel be blessed, saying: God make you as Ephraim and Manasse; He set Ephraim before Manasse. 21 Israel said to Joseph, Behold, I die; and God shall be with you and restore you to the land of your fathers. 22 I give to you Sicima, a select portion above your brothers, which I took out of the hand of the Amorites with my sword and bow.

49:1 Jacob called his sons and said to them: 2 Assemble yourselves, that I may tell you what shall happen to you in the last days. Gather yourselves together and hear me, sons of Jacob; hear Israel, hear your father. 3 Ruben, you are my first-born, you my strength and the first of my children, hard to be endured, hard and self-willed. 4 You were insolent like water, burst not forth with violence, for you went up to the bed of your father; then you defiled the couch, after this, you went up. 5 Symeon and Levi, brothers, accomplished the injustice of their cutting off. 6 Let not my soul come into their counsel, Let not my inward parts contend in their conspiracy, for in their wrath they killed men and in their passion they houghed a bull. 7 Cursed be their wrath, for it was willful and their anger, for it was cruel: I will divide them in Jacob and scatter them in Israel. 8 Juda, your brothers have praised you and your hands shall be on the back of your enemies; your father's sons shall do you reverence. 9 Juda is a young lion: from the tender plant, my son, you have gone up, having couched you lie as a lion and as a whelp; who shall stir him up? 10 A ruler shall not fail from Juda, nor a prince from his loins, until there come the things stored up for him; He is the expectation of nations. 11 Binding his foal to the vine and the foal of his ass to the branch of it, he shall wash his robe in wine and his garment in the blood of the grape. 12 His eyes shall be more cheering than wine and his teeth whiter than milk. 13 Zabulon shall dwell on the coast, He shall be by a haven of ships and shall extend to Sidon. 14 Issachar has desired that which is good; resting between the inheritances. 15 And having seen the resting place that it was good and the land that it was fertile, he subjected his shoulder to labor and became a husbandman. 16 Dan shall judge his people, as one tribe too in Israel. 17 Let Dan be a serpent in the way, besetting the path, biting the heel of the horse (and the rider shall fall backward), 18 waiting for the salvation of the Lord. 19 Gad, a plundering troop shall plunder him; but he shall plunder him, pursuing him closely. 20 Aser, his bread shall be fat; He shall yield dainties to princes. 21 Nephthalim is a spreading stem, bestowing beauty on its fruit. 22 Joseph is a son increased; my dearly loved son is increased; my youngest son, turn to me. 23 Against whom men taking evil counsel reproached him and the archers pressed hard upon him. 24 But their bow and arrows were mightily consumed and the sinews of their arms were slackened by the hand of the mighty one of Jacob; for there is he that strengthened Israel from the God of your father; 25 and my God helped you, He blessed you with the blessing of heaven from above and the blessing of the earth possessing all things, because of the blessing of the breasts and of the womb, 26 the blessings of your father and your mother—it has prevailed above the blessing of the lasting mountains and beyond the blessings of the everlasting hills; they shall be upon the head of Joseph and upon the head of the brothers of whom he took the lead. 27 Benjamin, as a ravening wolf, shall eat still in the morning and at evening he gives food. 28 All these are the twelve sons of Jacob; and their father spoke these words to them, He blessed them; he blessed each of them according to his blessing. 29 He said to them: I am added to my people; you shall bury me with my fathers in the cave, which is in the field of Ephron the Chettite, 30 in the double cave which is opposite Mambre, in the land of C'anaan, the cave which Abra'am bought of Ephron the Chettite, for a possession of a tomb. 31 There they buried Abra'am and Sarrha his wife; there they buried Isaac and Rebecca his wife; there they buried Lea; 32 in the portion of the field and of the cave that was in it, purchased of the sons of Chet. 33 Jacob ceased giving charges to his sons; and having lifted up his feet on the bed, he died and was gathered to his people.

50:1 Joseph fell upon his father's face and wept on him and kissed him. 2 Joseph commanded his servants the embalmers to embalm his father; and the embalmers embalmed Israel. 3 They fulfilled forty days for him, for so are the days of embalming numbered; and Egypt mourned for him seventy days. 4 When the days of mourning were past, Joseph spoke to the princes of Pharaoh, saying: If I have found favor in your sight, speak concerning me in the ears of Pharaoh, saying: 5 My father adjured me, saying: In the tomb which I dug for myself in the land of C'anaan, there you shall bury me; now then I will go up and bury my father and return again. 6 Pharaoh said to Joseph, Go up, bury your father, as he constrained you to swear. 7 So Joseph went up to bury his father; and all the servants of Pharaoh went up with him and the elders of his house and all the elders of the land of Egypt. 8 All the household of Joseph and his brothers and all the house of his father and his kindred; and they left behind the sheep and the oxen in the land of Gesem. 9 And there went up with him also chariots and horsemen; and there was a very great company. 10 They came to the threshing-floor of Atad, which is beyond Jordan; and they mourned him with a great and very sore lamentation; He made a mourning for his father seven days. 11 The inhabitants of the land of C'anaan saw the mourning at the floor of Atad and said: This is a great mourning to the Egyptians; therefore he called its name, The mourning of Egypt, which is beyond Jordan. 12 Thus his sons did to him. 13 So his sons carried him up into the land of C'anaan and buried him in the double cave, which cave Abra'am bought for possession of a burying place, of Ephrom the Chettite, before Mambre. 14 Joseph returned to Egypt, he and his brothers and those who had gone up with him to bury his father.

15 When the brothers of Joseph saw that their father was dead, they said: Let us take heed, for fear that at any time Joseph remember evil against us and recompense to us all the evils which we have done against him. 16 They came to Joseph and said: your father adjured us before his death, saying: 17 Thus do you say to Joseph, Forgive them their injustice and their sin, since they have done you evil; and now pardon the injustice of the servants of the God of your father. Joseph wept while they spoke to him. 18 They came to him and said: We, these persons, are your servants. 19 Joseph said to them: Fear not, for I am God's. 20 you took counsel against me for evil, but God took counsel for me for good, that the matter might be as it is today and much people might be fed. 21 He said to them: Fear not, I will maintain you and your families: He comforted them and spoke kindly to them. 22 Joseph dwelt in Egypt, he and his brothers and all the family of his father; and Joseph lived a hundred and ten years. 23 Joseph saw the children of Ephraim to the third generation; and the sons of Machir the son of Manasse were borne on the sides of Joseph. 24 Joseph spoke to his brothers, saying: I die and God will surely visit you and will bring you out of this land to the land concerning which God swore to our fathers, Abra'am, Isaac and Jacob. 25 Joseph adjured the sons of Israel, saying: At the visitation with which God shall visit you, then you shall carry up my bones hence with you. 26 Joseph died, aged a hundred and ten years; and they prepared his corpse and put him in a coffin in Egypt.

1:1 These are the names of the sons of Israel that came into Egypt together with Jacob their father; they came in each with their whole family. 2 Ruben, Simeon, Levi, Judas, 3 Issachar, Zabulon, Benjamin, 4 Dan and Nephthalim, Gad and Aser. 5 But Joseph was in Egypt. All the souls born of Jacob were seventy-five. 6 Joseph died and all his brothers and all that generation. 7 The children of Israel increased and multiplied and became numerous and grew exceedingly strong and the land multiplied them. 8 And there arose up another king over Egypt, who knew not Joseph. 9 He said to his nation, Behold, the race of the children of Israel is a great multitude and is stronger than we: 10 come then, let us deal craftily with them, for fear that at any time they be increased and whenever war shall happen to us, these also shall be added to our enemies and having prevailed against us in war, they will depart out of the land. 11 He set over them task-masters, who should afflict them in their works; and they built strong cities for Pharaoh, both Pitho and Ramesses and On, which is Heliopolis. 12 But as they humbled them, by so much they multiplied and grew exceedingly strong; and the Egyptians greatly abhorred the children of Israel. 13 The Egyptians tyrannized over the children of Israel by force. 14 They embittered their life by hard labors, in the clay and in brick-making and all the works in the plains, according to all the works, by which they caused them to serve with violence. 15 The king of the Egyptians spoke to the midwives of the Hebrews; the name of the one was, Sephora; and the name of the second, Phua. 16 He said: When you do the office of midwives to the Hebrew women and they are about to be delivered, if it be a male, kill it; but if a female, save it. 17 But the midwives feared God and did not as the king of Egypt appointed them; and they saved the male children alive. 18 The king of Egypt called the midwives and said to them: Why is it that you have done this thing and saved the male children alive? 19 The midwives said to Pharaoh, The Hebrew women are not as the women of Egypt, for they are delivered before the midwives go in to them. So they bore children. 20 And God did well to the midwives and the people multiplied and grew very strong. 21 And as the midwives feared God, they established for themselves families. 22 Pharaoh charged all his people, saying: Whatever male child shall be born to the Hebrews, cast into the river; and every female, save it alive.

2:1 And there was a certain man of the tribe of Levi, who took to wife one of the daughters of Levi. 2 And she conceived and bore a male child; and having seen that he was fair, they hid him three months. 3 When they do you think no longer hide him, his mother took for him an ark and besmeared it with bitumen and cast the child into it and put it in the ooze by the river. 4 And his sister was watching from a distance, to learn what would happen to him.

5 The daughter of Pharaoh came down to the river to bathe; and her maids walked by the river's side and having seen the ark in the ooze, she sent her maid and took it up. 6 And having opened it, she sees the babe weeping in the ark: and the daughter of Pharaoh had compassion on it and said: This is one of the Hebrew's children. 7 And his sister said to the daughter of Pharaoh, will you that I call to you a nurse of the Hebrews and shall she suckle the child for you? 8 The daughter of Pharaoh said: Go: and the young women went and called the mother of the child. 9 The daughter of Pharaoh said to her: Take care of this child and suckled it for me and I will give you the wages; and the woman took the child and suckled it. 10 When the boy was grown, she brought him to the daughter of Pharaoh, He became her son; and she called his name, Moses, saying: I took him out of the water.

11 It came to pass in that length of time, that Moses having grown, went out to his brothers the sons of Israel: and having noticed their distress, he sees an Egyptian smiting a certain Hebrew of his brothers the children of Israel. 12 And having looked round this way and that way, he sees no one; He stroke the Egyptian and hid him in the sand. 13 And having gone out the second day he sees two Hebrew men fighting; He says to the injurer, Why then strike you your neighbor? 14 He said: Who made you a ruler and a judge over us? Will you kill me, as you yesterday killed the Egyptian¹? Then Moses was alarmed and said: If it be thus, this matter has become known. 15 Pharaoh heard this matter and sought to kill Moses; and Moses departed from the presence of Pharaoh and dwelt in the land of Madiam; and having come into the land of Madiam, he sat on the well. 16 The priest of Madiam had seven daughters, feeding the flock of their father Jothor; and they came and drew water until they filled their pitchers, to water the flock of their father Jothor. 17 The shepherds came and were driving them away; and Moses rose up and rescued them and drew water for them and watered their sheep. 18 They came to Raguel their father; He said to them: Why have you come so quickly today? 19 They said: An Egyptian delivered us from the shepherds and drew water for us and watered our sheep. 20 He said to his daughters, And where is he? And why have you left the man? Call him therefore, that he may eat bread. 21 Moses was established with the man, He gave Sepphora his daughter to Moses to wife. 22 The woman conceived and bore a son and Moses called his name Gersam, saying: I am a sojourner in a foreign land. 23 And in those days after a length of time, the king of Egypt died; and the children of Israel groaned because of their tasks and cried and their cry because of their tasks went up to God. 24 And God heard their groanings and God remembered his covenant made with Abra'am and Isaac and Jacob. 25 And God looked upon the children of Israel and was made known to them.

3:1 Moses was feeding the flock of Jothor his father-in-law, the priest of Madiam; He brought the sheep near to the wilderness and came to the mount of Choreb. 2 An angel of the Lord appeared to him in flaming fire out of the bush, He sees that the bush burns with fire, —but the bush was not consumed. 3 Moses said: I will go near and see this great sight, why the bush is not consumed. 4 When the Lord saw that he drew near to see, the Lord called him out of the bush, saying: Moses, Moses; He said: What is it? 5 He said: Draw not near to this place: loose your sandals from off your feet, for the place whereon you stand is holy ground. 6 He said: I am the God of your father, the God of Abra'am and the God of Isaac and the God of Jacob; and Moses turned away his face, for he was afraid to gaze at God. 7 The Lord said to Moses: I have surely seen the affliction of my people that is in Egypt and I have heard their cry caused by their task-masters; for I know their affliction. 8 I have come down to deliver them out of the hand of the Egyptians and to bring them out of that land and to bring them into a good and wide land, into a land flowing with milk and honey, into the place of the C'anaanites and the Chettites and Amorites and Pherezites and Gergesites and Evites and Jebusites. 9 And now, behold, the cry of the children of Israel has come to me and I have seen the affliction with which the Egyptians afflict them. 10 And now come, I will send you to Pharaoh king of Egypt and you shall bring out my people the children of Israel from the land of Egypt.

11 Moses said to God, Who am I, that I should go to Pharaoh king of Egypt and that I should bring out the children of Israel from the land of Egypt? 12 And God spoke to Moses, saying: I will be with you and this shall be the sign to you that I shall send you forth, —when you bring out my people out of Egypt, then you shall serve God in this mountain. 13 Moses said to God, Behold, I shall go forth to the children of Israel and shall say to them, The God of our fathers has sent me to you; and they will ask me, What is his name? What shall I say to them? 14 And God spoke to Moses, saying: I am THE BEING; He said: Thus shall you say to the children of Israel, THE BEING has sent me to you. 15 And God said again to Moses, Thus shall you say to the sons of Israel, The Lord God of our fathers, the God of Abra'am and God of Isaac and God of Jacob, has sent me to you: this is my name for ever and my memorial to generations of generations. 16 Go then and gather the elders of the children of Israel and you shall say to them, The Lord God of our fathers has appeared to me, the God of Abra'am and God of Isaac and God of Jacob, saying: I have surely looked upon you and upon all the things which have happened to you in Egypt. 17 He said: I will bring you up out of the affliction of the Egyptians to the land of the Canaanites and the Chettites and Amorites and Pherezites and Gergesites and Evites and Jebusites, to a land flowing with milk and honey. 18 They shall hearken to your voice and you and the elders of Israel shall go in to Pharaoh king of Egypt and you shall say to him, The God of the Hebrews has called us; we will go then a journey of three days into the wilderness, that we may sacrifice to our God. 19 But I know that Pharaoh king of Egypt will not let you go, save with a mighty hand; 20 and I will stretch out my hand and strike the Egyptians with all my wonders, which I shall work among them and after that he will send you forth. 21 I will give this people favor in the sight of the Egyptians and whenever you shall escape, you shall not depart empty. 22 But every woman shall ask of her neighbor and fellow dweller, articles of gold and silver and apparel; and you shall put them upon your sons and upon your daughters, — and spoil you the Egyptians.

4:1 Moses answered and said: If they believe me not and do not hearken to my voice (for they will say, God has not appeared to you), what shall I say to them? 2 The Lord said to him: What is this thing that is in your hand? He said: A rod. 3 He said: Cast it on the ground: He cast it on the ground and it became a serpent and Moses fled from it. 4 The Lord said to Moses: Stretch forth your hand and take hold of its tail: so he stretched forth his hand and took hold of the tail, 5 and it became a rod in his hand, —that they may believe you, that the God of your fathers has appeared to you, the God of Abra'am and God of Isaac and God of Jacob. 6 The Lord said again to him, Put your hand into your bosom; He put his hand into his bosom and brought his hand out of his bosom and his hand became as snow. 7 He said again, Put your hand into your bosom; He put his hand into his bosom and brought his hand out of his bosom and it was again restored to the complexion of his other flesh. 8 If they will not believe you, nor hearken to the voice of the first sign, they will believe you because of the voice of the second sign. 9 It shall come to pass if they will not believe you for these two signs and will not hearken to your voice, that you shall take of the water of the river and pour it upon the dry land and the water which you shall take from the river shall be blood upon the dry land. 10 Moses said to the Lord, I pray, Lord, I have not been sufficient in former times, neither from the time that you have begun to speak to your servant: I am weak in speech and slow-tongued. 11 The Lord said to Moses: Who has given a mouth to man and who has made the very hard of hearing and the deaf, the seeing and the blind? Have not I, God? 12 And now go and I will open your mouth and will instruct you in what you shall say. 13 Moses said: I pray you, Lord, appoint another able person whom you shall send. 14 The Lord was greatly angered against Moses and said: Behold! is not Aaron the Levite your brother? I know that he will surely speak to you; and, behold, he will come forth to meet you and beholding you he will rejoice within himself. 15 You shall speak to him; and you shall put my words into his mouth and I will open your mouth and his mouth and I will instruct you in what you shall do. 16 He shall speak for you to the people, He shall be your mouth and you shall be for him in things pertaining to God. 17 And this rod that was turned into a serpent you shall take in your hand, by which you shall work miracles.

18 Moses went and returned to Jothor his father-in-law and says, I will go and return to my brothers in Egypt and will see if they are yet living. Jothor said to Moses: Go in health. And in those days after some time, the king of Egypt died. 19 The Lord said to Moses in Madiam, Go, depart into Egypt, for all that sought your life are dead. 20 Moses took his wife and his children and mounted them on the beasts and returned to Egypt; and Moses took the rod which he had from God in his hand. 21 The Lord said to Moses when you go and return to Egypt, see—all the miracles I have charged you with, you shall work before Pharaoh: and I will harden his heart, He shall certainly not send away the people. 22 You shall say to Pharaoh, These things says the Lord, Israel is my first-born. 23 I said to you, Send away my people, that they may serve me: now if you will not send them away, see, I will kill your first-born son. 24 It came to pass that the angel of the Lord met him by the way in the inn and sought to kill him. 25 And Sepphora having taken a stone cut off the of her son and fell at his feet and said: The blood of the circumcision of my son is staunch: 26 He departed from him, because she said: The blood of the circumcision of my son is staunch. 27 The Lord said to Aaron, Go into the wilderness to meet Moses; He went and met him in the mount of God and they kissed each other. 28 Moses reported to Aaron all the words of the Lord, which he sent and all the things which he charged him. 29 Moses and Aaron went and gathered the elders of the children of Israel. 30 And Aaron spoke all these words, which God spoke to Moses and accomplished the miracles before the people. 31 And the people believed and rejoiced, because God visited the children of Israel and because he saw their affliction: and the people bowed and worshiped.

5:1 And after this went in Moses and Aaron to Pharaoh and they said to him: These things says the Lord God of Israel, Send my people away, that they may keep a feast to me in the wilderness. 2 Pharaoh said: Who is he that I should hearken to his voice, so that I should send away the children of Israel? I do not know the Lord and I will not let Israel go. 3 They say to him, The God of the Hebrews has called us to him: we will go therefore a three days' journey into the wilderness, that we may sacrifice to the Lord our God, for fear that at any time death or slaughter happen to us. 4 The king of Egypt said to them: Why do you, Moses and Aaron, turn the people from their works? Depart each of you to your works. 5 Pharaoh said: Behold now, the people is very numerous; let us not then give them rest from their work. 6 Pharaoh gave orders to the task-masters of the people and the accountants, saying: 7 you shall no longer give straw to the people for brick-making as yesterday and the third day; but let them go themselves and collect straw for themselves. 8 You shall impose on them daily the rate of brick-making which they perform: you shall not abate anything, for they are idle; therefore have they cried, saying: Let us arise and do sacrifice to our God. 9 Let the works of these men be made grievous, Let them care for these things and not care for vain words.

10 The taskmasters and the accountants hastened them and they spoke to the people, saying: thus says Pharaoh, I will give you straw no longer. 11 Go you, yourselves, get for yourselves straw from wherever you can find it, for nothing is diminished from your rate. 12 So the people were dispersed in all the land of Egypt, to gather stubble for straw. 13 And the taskmasters hastened them, saying: fulfill your regular daily tasks, even as when straw was given you. 14 The accountants of the race of the children of Israel, who were set over them by the masters of Pharaoh, were scourged, [[and questioned,]] men saying: Why have you not fulfilled your rates of brick-work as yesterday and the third day, today also? 15 The accountants of the children of Israel went in and cried to Pharaoh, saying: Why do you act thus to your servants? 16 Straw is not given to your servants and they tell us to make brick; and behold your servants have been scourged: you will therefore injure your people. 17 He said to them: you are idle, you are idlers: therefore you say, Let us go and do sacrifice to our God. 18 Now, then go and work, for straw shall not be given to you, yet you shall return the rate of bricks. 19 The accountants of the children of Israel saw themselves in an evil plight, men saying: you shall not fail to deliver the daily rate of the brick-making. 20 They met Moses and Aaron coming forth to meet them, as they came forth from Pharaoh. 21 They said to them: The Lord look upon you and judge you, for you have made our savor abominable before Pharaoh and before his servants, to put a sword into his hands to kill us. 22 Moses turned to the Lord and said: I pray, Lord, why have you afflicted this people? And why then have you sent me? 23 For from the time that I went to Pharaoh to speak in your name, he has afflicted this people and you have not delivered your people.

6:1 The Lord said to Moses: Now, you shall see what I will do to Pharaoh; for he shall send them forth with a mighty hand and with a high arm shall he cast them out of his land. 2 And God spoke to Moses and said to him: I am the Lord. 3 I appeared to Abra'am and Isaac and Jacob, being their God, but I did not manifest to them my name Lord. 4 I established my covenant with them, to give them the land of the C'anaanites, the land by which they sojourned, in which also they dwelt as strangers. 5 I listened to the groaning of the children of Israel (the affliction with which the Egyptians enslave them) and I remembered the covenant with you. 6 Go, speak to the children of Israel, saying: I am the Lord; and I will lead you forth from the tyranny of the Egyptians and I will deliver you from and I will ransom you with a high arm and great judgment. 7 I will take you to me a people for myself and will be your God; and you shall know that I am the Lord your God, who brought you out from the tyranny of the Egyptians. 8 I will bring you into the land concerning which I stretched out my hand to give it to Abra'am and Isaac and Jacob and I will give it you for an inheritance: I am the Lord. 9 Moses spoke thus to the sons of Israel and they hearkened not to Moses for faint-heartedness and for their hard tasks. 10 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 11 Go in, speak to Pharaoh king of Egypt, that he send forth the children of Israel out of his land. 12 Moses spoke before the Lord, saying: Behold, the children of Israel hearkened not to me and how shall Pharaoh hearken to me? And I am not eloquent. 13 The Lord spoke to Moses and Aaron and gave them a charge to Pharaoh king of Egypt, that he should send forth the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt.

14 These are the heads of the houses of their families: the sons of Ruben the first-born of Israel; Enoch and Phallus, Asron and Charmi, this is the kindred of Ruben. 15 The sons of Symeon, Jemuel and Jamin and Aod and Jachin and Saar and Saul the son of a Phoenician woman, these are the families of the sons of Symeon. 16 These are the names of the sons of Levi according to their kindreds, Gedson, Caath and Merari; and the years of the life of Levi were a hundred and thirty-seven. 17 These are the sons of Gedson, Lobeni and Semei, the houses of their family. The sons of Caath, 18 Ambram and Issaar, Chebron and Oziel; and the years of the life of Caath were a hundred and thirty-three years. 19 The sons of Merari, Mooli and Omusi, these are the houses of the families of Levi, according to their kindreds. 20 And Ambram took to wife Jochabed the daughter of his father's brother and she bore to him both Aaron and Moses and Mariam their sister: and the years of the life of Ambram were a hundred and thirty-two years. 21 The sons of Issaar, Core and Naphec and Zechri. 22 The sons of Oziel, Misael and Elisaphan and Segri. 23 And Aaron took to himself to wife Elisabeth daughter of Aminadab sister of Naasson and she bore to him both Nadab and Abiud and Eleazar and Ithamar. 24 The sons of Core, Asir and Elkana and Abiasar, these are the generations of Core. 25 And Eleazar the son of Aaron took to himself for a wife one of the daughters of Phutiel and she bore to him Phinees. These are the heads of the family of the Levites, according to their generations. 26 This is Aaron and Moses, whom God told to bring out the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt with their forces. 27 These are those who spoke with Pharaoh king of Egypt and Aaron himself and Moses brought out the children of Israel from the land of Egypt, 28 in the day in which the Lord spoke to Moses in the land of Egypt; 29 then the Lord spoke to Moses, saying: I am the Lord: speak to Pharaoh king of Egypt whatsoever I say to you. 30 Moses said before the Lord, Behold, I am not able in speech and how shall Pharaoh hearken to me?

7:1 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: Behold, I have made you a god to Pharaoh and Aaron your brother shall be your prophet. 2 You shall say to him all things that I charge you and Aaron your brother shall speak to Pharaoh, that he should send forth the children of Israel out of his land. 3 I will harden the heart of Pharaoh and I will multiply my signs and wonders in the land of Egypt. 4 Pharaoh will not hearken to you and I will lay my hand upon Egypt; and will bring out my people the children of Israel with my power out of the land of Egypt with great vengeance. 5 All the Egyptians shall know that I am the Lord, stretching out my hand upon Egypt and I will bring out the children of Israel out of the midst of them. 6 Moses and Aaron did as the Lord commanded them, so did they. 7 Moses was eighty years old and Aaron his brother was eighty-three years old when he spoke to Pharaoh. 8 The Lord spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying: 9 Now, if Pharaoh should speak to you, saying: Give us a sign or a wonder, then shall you say to your brother Aaron, Take your rod and cast it upon the ground before Pharaoh and before his servants and it shall become a serpent. 10 Moses and Aaron went in before Pharaoh and before his servants and they did so, as the Lord commanded them; and Aaron cast down his rod before Pharaoh and before his servants and it became a serpent. 11 But Pharaoh called together the wise men of Egypt and the sorcerers and the charmers also of the Egyptians did likewise with their sorceries. 12 They cast down each his rod and they became serpents, but the rod of Aaron swallowed up their rods. 13 And the heart of Pharaoh was hardened, He hearkened not to them, as the Lord charged them.

14 and the Lord said to Moses: The heart of Pharaoh is made hard, so that he should not let the people go. 15 Go to Pharaoh early in the morning: behold, he goes forth to the water; and you shall meet him on the bank of the river and you shall take in your hand the rod that was turned into a serpent. 16 You shall say to him, The Lord God of the Hebrews has sent me to you, saying: Send my people away, that they may serve me in the wilderness, and, behold, to this place you have not hearkened. 17 These things says the Lord: Hereby shall you know that I am the Lord: behold, I strike with the rod that is in my hand on the water which is in the river and it shall change it into blood. 18 The fish that are in the river shall die and the river shall stink after this, and the Egyptians shall not be able to drink water from the river. 19 The Lord said to Moses: Say to your brother Aaron, Take your rod in your hand and stretch forth your hand over the waters of Egypt and over their rivers and over their canals and over their ponds and over all their standing water and it shall become blood: and there was blood in all the land of Egypt, both in vessels of wood and of stone. 20 and Moses and Aaron did so, as the Lord commanded them; and Aaron having lifted up his hand with his rod, stroke the water in the river before Pharaoh and before his servants and changed all the water in the river into blood. 21 The fish in the river died and the river stank after this; and the Egyptians do you think not drink water from the river and the blood was in all the land of Egypt. 22 The charmers also of the Egyptians did so with their sorceries; and the heart of Pharaoh was hardened, He did not hearken to them, even as the Lord said. 23 Pharaoh turned and entered into his house, nor did he fix his attention even on this thing. 24 All the Egyptians dug around the river, so as to drink water, for they do you think not drink water from the river. 25 And seven days were fulfilled after the Lord has stricken the river.

8:1 The Lord said to Moses: Go in to Pharaoh and you shall say to him, These things says the Lord: send forth my people, that they may serve me. 2 If you will not send them forth, behold, I afflict all your borders with frogs: 3 and the river shall teem with frogs and they shall go up and enter into your houses and into your bed-chambers and upon your beds and upon the houses of your servants and of your people and on your dough and on your ovens. 4 And upon you and upon your servants and upon your people, shall the frogs come up. 5 The Lord said to Moses: Say to Aaron your brother, Stretch forth with the hand your rod over the rivers and over the canals and over the pools and bring up the frogs. 6 And Aaron stretched forth his hand over the waters of Egypt and brought up the frogs: and the frog was brought up and covered the land of Egypt. 7 The charmers of the Egyptians also did likewise with their sorceries and brought up the frogs on the land of Egypt. 8 Pharaoh called Moses and Aaron and said: Pray for me to the Lord, Let him take away the frogs from me and from my people; and I will send them away and they shall sacrifice to the Lord. 9 Moses said to Pharaoh, Appoint me a time when I shall pray for you and for your servants and for your people, to cause the frogs to disappear from you and from your people and from your houses, only in the river shall they be left behind. 10 He said: On the morrow: he said therefore, As you have said; that you may know, that there is no other God but the Lord. 11 The frogs shall be removed away from you and from your houses and from the villages and from your servants and from your people, only in the river they shall be left. 12 Moses and Aaron went forth from Pharaoh and Moses cried to the Lord concerning the restriction of the frogs, as Pharaoh appointed him. 13 The Lord did as Moses said: and the frogs died out of the houses and out of the villages and out of the fields. 14 They gathered them together in heaps and the land stank. 15 When Pharaoh saw that there was relief, his heart was hardened, He did not hearken to them, as the Lord spoke. 16 The Lord said to Moses: Say to Aaron, Stretch forth your rod with your hand and strike the dust of the earth; and there shall be lice both upon man and upon quadrupeds and in all the land of Egypt. 17 So Aaron stretched out his rod with his hand and stroke the dust of the earth; and the lice were on men and on quadrupeds and in all the dust of the earth there were lice. 18 The charmers also did so with their sorceries, to bring forth the louse and they do you think not. The lice were both on the men and on the quadrupeds. 19 So the charmers said to Pharaoh, This is the finger of God. But the heart of Pharaoh was hardened, He hearkened not to them, as the Lord said. 20 The Lord said to Moses: Rise up early in the morning and stand before Pharaoh: and behold, he will go forth to the water and you shall say to him, These things says the Lord: Send away my people, that they may serve me in the wilderness. 21 If you will not let my people go, behold, I send upon you and upon your servants and upon your people and upon your houses, the dog-fly; and the houses of the Egyptians shall be filled with the dog-fly, even throughout the land upon which they are. 22 And I will distinguish marvelously in that day the land of Gesem, on which my people dwell, in which the dog-fly shall not be: that you may know that I am the Lord the God of all the earth. 23 I will put a difference between my people and your people and on the morrow shall this be on the land. The Lord did thus. 24 The dog-fly came in abundance into the houses of Pharaoh and into the houses of his servants and into all the land of Egypt; and the land was destroyed by the dog-fly.

25 Pharaoh called Moses and Aaron, saying: Go and sacrifice to the Lord your God in the land. 26 Moses said: It cannot be so, for we shall sacrifice to the Lord our God the abominations of the Egyptians; for if we sacrifice the abominations of the Egyptians before them, we shall be stoned. 27 We will go a journey of three days into the wilderness and we will sacrifice to the Lord our God, as the Lord said to us. 28 Pharaoh said: I will let you go and do you sacrifice to your God in the wilderness, but do not go very far away: pray then for me to the Lord. 29 Moses said: I then will go forth from you and pray to God and the dog-fly shall depart both from your servants and from your people tomorrow. Do not you, Pharaoh, deceive again, so as not to send the people away to do sacrifice to the Lord. 30 Moses went out from Pharaoh and prayed to God. 31 The Lord did as Moses said: and removed the dog-fly from Pharaoh and from his servants and from his people and there was not one left. 32 Pharaoh hardened his heart, even on this occasion, He would not send the people away.

9:1 The Lord said to Moses: Go in to Pharaoh and you shall say to him, These things says the Lord God of the Hebrews; Send my people away that they may serve me. 2 If however you will not send my people away, but yet detain them: 3 behold, the hand of the Lord shall be upon your cattle in the fields, both on the horses and on the asses and on the camels and oxen and sheep, a very great mortality. 4 I will make a marvelous distinction in that time between the cattle of the Egyptians and the cattle of the children of Israel: nothing shall die of all that is of the children's of Israel. 5 And God fixed a limit, saying: Tomorrow the Lord will do this thing on the land. 6 The Lord did this thing on the next day and all the cattle of the Egyptians died, but of the cattle of the children of Israel there died not one. 7 When Pharaoh saw, that of all the cattle of the children of Israel there died not one, the heart of Pharaoh was hardened, He did not let the people go. 8 The Lord spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying: Take you handfuls of ashes of the furnace, Let Moses scatter it toward heaven before Pharaoh and before his servants. 9 Let it become dust over all the land of Egypt and there shall be upon men and upon beasts severe boils breaking forth both on men and on beasts, in all the land of Egypt. 10 So he took of the ashes of the furnace before Pharaoh and Moses scattered it toward heaven and it became sore boils breaking forth both on men and on beasts. 11 The sorcerers do you think not stand before Moses because of the sores, for the sores were on the sorcerers and in all the land of Egypt. 12 The Lord hardened Pharaoh's heart, He hearkened not to them, as the Lord appointed. 13 The Lord said to Moses: Rise up early in the morning and stand before Pharaoh; and you shall say to him, These things says the Lord God of the Hebrews, Send away my people that they may serve me. 14 For at this present time do I send forth all my plagues into your heart and the heart of your servants and of your people; that you may know that there is not another such as I in all the earth. 15 For now I will stretch forth my hand and strike you and kill your people and you shall be consumed from off the earth. 16 And for this purpose have you been preserved, that I might display in you my strength and that my name might be proclaimed in all the earth¹. 17 Do you then yet exert yourself to hinder my people, so as not to let them go? 18 Behold, tomorrow at this hour I will rain a very great hail, such as has not been in Egypt, from the time it was created until this day. 19 Now, then hasten to gather your cattle and all that you have in the fields; for all the men and cattle as many as shall be found in the fields and shall not enter into a house, (but the hail shall fall upon them,) shall die. 20 He of the servants of Pharaoh that feared the word of the Lord, gathered his cattle into the houses. 21 He that did not attend in his mind to the word of the Lord, left the cattle in the fields.

22 The Lord said to Moses: Stretch out your hand to heaven and there shall be hail on all the land of Egypt, both on the men and on the cattle and on all the herbage on the land. 23 Moses stretched forth his hand to heaven and the Lord sent thunderings and hail; and the fire ran along upon the ground and the Lord rained hail on all the land of Egypt. 24 So there was hail and flaming fire mingled with hail; and the hail was very great, such as was not in Egypt, from the time there was a nation upon it. 25 The hail stroke in all the land of Egypt both man and beast and the hail stroke all the grass in the field and the hail broke in pieces all the trees in the field. 26 Only in the land of Gesem where the children of Israel were, the hail was not. 27 Pharaoh sent and called Moses and Aaron and said to them: I have sinned this time: the Lord is righteous and I and my people are wicked. 28 Pray then for me to the Lord, Let him cause the thunderings of God to cease and the hail and the fire and I will send you forth and you shall remain no longer. 29 Moses said to him when I shall have departed from the city, I will stretch out my hands to the Lord and the thunderings shall cease and the hail and the rain shall be no longer, that you may know that the earth is the Lord's. 30 But as for you and your servants, I know that you have not yet feared the Lord. 31 The flax and the barley were stricken, for the barley was advanced and the flax was seeding. 32 But the wheat and the rye were not stricken, for they were late. 33 Moses went forth from Pharaoh out of the city and stretched out his hands to the Lord and the thunders ceased and the hail and the rain did not drop on the earth. 34 When Pharaoh saw that the rain and the hail and the thunders ceased, he continued to sin; He hardened his heart and the heart of his servants. 35 The heart of Pharaoh was hardened, He did not send forth the children of Israel, as the Lord said to Moses.

10:1 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: Go in to Pharaoh: for I have hardened his heart and the heart of his servants, that these signs may come upon them; in order 2 that you may relate in the ears of your children and to your children's children, in how many things I have mocked the Egyptians and my wonders which I accomplished among them; and you shall know that I am the Lord. 3 Moses and Aaron went in before Pharaoh and they said to him: These things says the Lord God of the Hebrews, How long do you refuse to reverence me? Send my people away, that they may serve me. 4 But if you will not send my people away, behold, at this hour tomorrow I will bring an abundance of locusts upon all your coasts. 5 They shall cover the face of the earth and you shall not be able to see the earth; and they shall devour all that is left of the abundance of the earth, which the hail has left you and shall devour every tree that grows for you on the land. 6 And your houses shall be filled and the houses of your servants and all the houses in all the land of the Egyptians; things which your fathers have never seen, nor their forefathers, from the day that they were upon the earth until this day. Moses turned away and departed from Pharaoh. 7 The servants of Pharaoh say to him, How long shall this be a snare to us? Send away the men, that they may serve their God; will you know that Egypt is destroyed? 8 They brought back both Moses and Aaron to Pharaoh; He said to them: Go and serve the Lord your God; but who are those who are going with you? 9 Moses said: We will go with the young and the old, with our sons and daughters and sheep and oxen, for it is a feast of the Lord. 10 He said to them: So let the Lord be with you: as I will send you away, must I send away you store also? See that evil is attached to you. 11 Not so, but let the men go and serve God, for this you yourselves seek; and they cast them out from the presence of Pharaoh. 12 The Lord said to Moses: Stretch out your hand over the land of Egypt, Let the locust come up on the land and it shall devour every herb of the land and all the fruit of the trees, which the hail left. 13 Moses lifted up his rod towards heaven and the Lord brought a south wind upon the earth, all that day and all that night: the morning dawned and the south wind brought up the locusts, 14 and brought them up over all the land of Egypt. They rested in very great abundance over all the borders of Egypt. Before them there were not such locusts, neither after them shall there be. 15 They covered the face of the earth and the land was wasted and they devoured all the herbage of the land and all the fruit of the trees, which was left by the hail: there was no green thing left on the trees, nor on all the herbage of the field, in all the land of Egypt.

16 Pharaoh hastened to call Moses and Aaron, saying: I have sinned before the Lord your God and against you; 17 pardon therefore my sin yet this time and pray to the Lord your God, Let him take away from me this death. 18 Moses went forth from Pharaoh and prayed to God. 19 The Lord brought in the opposite direction a strong wind from the sea and took up the locusts and cast them into the Red Sea and there was not one locust left in all the land of Egypt. 20 The Lord hardened the heart of Pharaoh, He did not send away the children of Israel. 21 The Lord said to Moses: Stretch out your hand to heaven, Let there be darkness over the land of Egypt—darkness that may be felt. 22 Moses stretched out his hand to heaven and there was darkness very black, even a storm over all the land of Egypt three days. 23 And for three days no man saw his brother and no man rose up from his bed for three days: but all the children of Israel had light in all the places where they were. 24 Pharaoh called Moses and Aaron, saying: Go, serve the Lord your God, only leave your sheep and your oxen, Let your store depart with you. 25 Moses said: No, but you shall give to us whole burnt-offerings and sacrifices, which we will sacrifice to the Lord our God. 26 And our cattle shall go with us and we will not leave a hoof behind, for of them we will take to serve the Lord our God: but we know not in what manner we shall serve the Lord our God, until we arrive there. 27 But the Lord hardened the heart of Pharaoh, He would not let them go. 28 Pharaoh says, Depart from me, beware of seeing my face again, for in what day you shall appear before me, you shall die. 29 Moses says, You have said: I will not appear in your presence again.

11:1 The Lord said to Moses: I will yet bring one plague upon Pharaoh and upon Egypt and after that he will send you forth for there; and whenever he sends you forth with every thing, he will indeed drive you out. 2 Speak therefore secretly in the ears of the people, Let every one ask of his neighbor jewels of silver and gold and raiment. 3 The Lord gave his people favor in the sight of the Egyptians and they lent to them; and the man Moses was very great before the Egyptians and before Pharaoh and before his servants. 4 Moses said: These things says the Lord, About midnight I go forth into the midst of Egypt. 5 And every first-born in the land of Egypt shall die, from the first-born of Pharaoh that sits on the throne, even to the first-born of the woman-servant that is by the mill and to the first-born of all cattle. 6 And there shall be a great cry through all the land of Egypt, such as has not been and such shall not be repeated any more. 7 But among all the children of Israel shall not a dog snarl with his tongue, either at man or beast; that you may know how wide a distinction the Lord will make between the Egyptians and Israel. 8 All these your servants shall come down to me and do me reverence, saying: Go forth, you and all the people over whom you preside and afterwards I will go forth. 9 Moses went forth from Pharaoh with wrath. The Lord said to Moses: Pharaoh will not hearken to you, that I may greatly multiply my signs and wonders in the land of Egypt. 10 Moses and Aaron accomplished all these signs and wonders in the land of Egypt before Pharaoh; and the Lord hardened the heart of Pharaoh, He did not hearken to send forth the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt.

12:1 The Lord spoke to Moses and Aaron in the land of Egypt, saying: 2 This month shall be to you the beginning of months: it is the first to you among the months of the year. 3 Speak to all the congregation of the children of Israel, saying: On the tenth of this month let them take each man a lamb according to the houses of their families, every man a lamb for his household. 4 If they be few in a household, so that there are not enough for the lamb, he shall take with himself his neighbor that lives near to him, — as to the number of souls, every one according to that which suffices him shall make a reckoning for the lamb. 5 It shall be to you a lamb unblemished, a male of a year old: you shall take it of the lambs and the kids. 6 It shall be kept by you till the fourteenth of this month and all the multitude of the congregation of the children of Israel shall kill it toward evening. 7 They shall take of the blood and shall put it on the two door-posts and on the lintel, in the houses in which they shall eat them. 8 They shall eat the flesh in this night roast with fire and they shall eat unleavened bread with bitter herbs. 9 You shall not eat of it raw nor made wet in water, but only roast with fire, the head with the feet and the appurtenances. 10 Nothing shall be left of it till the morning and a bone of it you shall not break; but that which is left of it till the morning you shall burn with fire. 11 Thus shall you eat it: your loins girded and your sandals on your feet and your staves in your hands and you shall eat it in haste. It is a Passover to the Lord. 12 And I will go throughout the land of Egypt in that night and will strike every first-born in the land of Egypt both man and beast and on all the gods of Egypt will I execute vengeance: I am the Lord. 13 The blood shall be for a sign to you on the houses in which you are and I will see the blood and will protect you and there shall not be on you the plague of destruction when I strike in the land of Egypt.

14 And this day shall be to you a memorial and you shall keep it a feast to the Lord through all your generations; you shall keep it a feast for a perpetual ordinance. 15 Seven days you shall eat unleavened bread and from the first day you shall utterly remove leaven from your houses: whoever shall eat leaven, that soul shall be utterly destroyed from Israel, from the first day until the seventh day. 16 The first day shall be called holy and the seventh day shall be a holy convocation to you: you shall do no servile work on them, only as many things as will necessarily be done by every soul, this only shall be done by you. 17 You shall keep this commandment, for on this day will I bring out your force out of the land of Egypt; and you shall make this day a perpetual ordinance for you throughout your generations. 18 Beginning the fourteenth day of the first month, you shall eat unleavened bread from evening, till the twenty-first day of the month, till evening. 19 Seven days leaven shall not be found in your houses; whoever shall eat anything leavened, that soul shall be cut off from the congregation of Israel, both among the occupiers of the land and the original inhabitants. 20 you shall eat nothing leavened, but in every habitation of your you shall eat unleavened bread.

21 Moses called all the elders of the children of Israel and said to them: Go away and take to yourselves a lamb according to your kindreds and kill the Passover. 22 You shall take a bunch of hyssop and having dipped it into some of the blood that is by the door, you shall touch the lintel and shall put it upon both door-posts, even of the blood which is by the door; but you shall not go out every one from the door of his house till the morning. 23 The Lord shall pass by to strike the Egyptians and shall see the blood upon the lintel and upon both the door-posts; and the Lord shall pass by the door and shall not suffer the destroyer to enter into your houses to strike you. 24 And keep you this thing as an ordinance for yourself and for your children for ever. 25 If you should enter into the land, which the Lord shall give you, as he has spoken, keep this service. 26 It shall come to pass, if your sons say to you, What is this service? 27 that you shall say to them, This Passover is a sacrifice to the Lord, as he defended the houses of the children of Israel in Egypt when he stroke the Egyptians, but delivered our houses. 28 The people bowed and worshiped. The children of Israel departed and did as the Lord commanded Moses and Aaron, so did they.

29 It came to pass at midnight that the Lord stroke all the first-born in the land of Egypt, from the first-born of Pharaoh that sat on the throne, to the first-born of the captive-maid in the dungeon and the first-born of all cattle. 30 Pharaoh rose up by night and his servants and all the Egyptians; and there was a great cry in all the land of Egypt, for there was not a house in which there was not one dead. 31 Pharaoh called Moses and Aaron by night and said to them: Rise and depart from my people, both you and the children of Israel. Go and serve the Lord your God, even as you say. 32 And take with you your sheep and your oxen: bless me also, I pray you. 33 The Egyptians constrained the people, so that they cast them out of the land with haste, for they said: We all shall die. 34 The people took their dough before their meal was leavened, bound up as it was in their garments, on their shoulders. 35 The children of Israel did as Moses commanded them and they asked of the Egyptians articles of silver and gold and apparel. 36 The Lord gave his people favor in the sight of the Egyptians and they lent to them; and they spoiled the Egyptians. 37 The children Israel departed from Ramesses to Socchoth, to the full number of six hundred thousand footmen, even men, besides the baggage. 38 And a great mixed company went up with them and sheep and oxen and very much cattle. 39 They baked the dough which they brought out of Egypt, unleavened cakes, for it had not been leavened; for the Egyptians cast them out and they do you think not remain, neither did they prepare provision for themselves for the journey. 40 The sojourning of the children of Israel, while they sojourned in the land of Egypt and the land of C'anaan, was four hundred and thirty years. 41 It came to pass after the four hundred and thirty years, all the power¹ of the Lord came forth out of the land of Egypt by night. 42 It is a watch kept to the Lord, so that he should bring them out of the land of Egypt; that very night is a watch kept to the Lord, so that it should be to all the children of Israel to their generations. 43 The Lord said to Moses and Aaron, This is the law of the Passover: no stranger shall eat of it. 44 And every slave or servant bought with money—him you shall circumcise and then shall he eat of it. 45 A sojourner or hireling shall not eat of it. 46 In one house shall it be eaten and you shall not carry of the flesh out from the house; and a bone of it you shall not break. 47 All the congregation of the children of Israel shall keep it. 48 If any proselyte shall come to you to keep the Passover to the Lord, you shall circumcise every male of him and then shall he approach to sacrifice it, He shall be even as the original inhabitant of the land; no uncircumcised person shall eat of it. 49 There shall be one law to the native and to the proselyte coming among you. 50 The children of Israel did as the Lord commanded Moses and Aaron for them, so they did. 51 It came to pass in that day that the Lord brought out the children of Israel from the land of Egypt with their forces.

13:1 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 2 Sanctify to me every first-born, first produced, opening every womb among the children of Israel both of man and beast: it is mine. 3 Moses said to the people, Remember this day, in which you came forth out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of , for with a strong hand the Lord brought you forth for there; and leaven shall not be eaten. 4 For on this day you go forth in the month of new corn. 5 It shall come to pass when the Lord your God shall have brought you into the land of the C'anaanites and the Chettites and Amorites and Evites and Jebusites and Gergesites and Pherezites, which he swore to your fathers to give you, a land flowing with milk and honey, that you shall perform this service in this month. 6 Six days you shall eat unleavened bread and on the seventh day is a feast to the Lord. 7 Seven days shall you eat unleavened bread; nothing leavened shall be seen with you, neither shall you have leaven in all your borders. 8 You shall tell your son in that day, saying: Therefore the Lord dealt thus with me, as I was going out of Egypt. 9 It shall be to you a sign upon your hand and a memorial before your eyes, that the law of the

Lord may be in your mouth, for with a strong hand the Lord God brought you out of Egypt. 10 And preserve you this law according to the times of the seasons, from year to year.

11 It shall come to pass when the Lord your God shall bring you into the land of the C'anaanites, as he swore to your fathers and shall give it you, 12 that you shall set apart every offspring opening the womb, the males to the Lord, every one that opens the womb out of the herds or among your cattle, as many as you shall have: you shall sanctify the males to the Lord. 13 Every offspring opening the womb of the ass you shall change for a sheep; and if you will not change it, you shall redeem it: every first-born of man of your sons shall you redeem. 14 If your son should ask you hereafter, saying: What is this? Then you shall say to him, With a strong hand the Lord brought us out of Egypt, out of the house of . 15 When Pharaoh hardened his heart so as not to send us away, he killed every first-born in the land of Egypt, both the first-born of man and the first-born of beast; therefore do I sacrifice every offspring that opens the womb, the males to the Lord and every first-born of my sons I will redeem. 16 It shall be for a sign upon your hand and immovable before your eyes, for with a strong hand the Lord brought you out of Egypt.

17 When Pharaoh sent forth the people, God led them not by the way of the land of the Phylistines, because it was near; for God said: for fear that at any time the people repent when they see war and return to Egypt. 18 And God led the people round by the way to the wilderness, to the Red Sea: and in the fifth generation the children of Israel went up out of the land of Egypt. 19 Moses took the bones of Joseph with him, for he had solemnly adjured the children of Israel, saying: God will surely visit you and you shall carry up my bones hence with you.

20 The children of Israel departed from Socchoth and encamped in Othom by the wilderness. 21 And God led them, in the day by a pillar of cloud, to show them the way and in the night by a pillar of fire. 22 The pillar of cloud failed not by day, nor the pillar of fire by night, before all the people.

14:1 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 2 Speak to the children of Israel, Let them turn and encamp before the village, between Magdol and the sea, opposite Beel-sepphon: before them shall you encamp by the sea. 3 Pharaoh will say to his people, As for these children of Israel, they are wandering in the land, for the wilderness has shut them in. 4 I will harden the heart of Pharaoh, He shall pursue after them; and I will be glorified in Pharaoh and in all his host and all the Egyptians shall know that I am the Lord. They did so. 5 It was reported to the king of the Egyptians that the people had fled: and the heart of Pharaoh was turned and that of his servants against the people; and they said: What is this that we have done, to let the children of Israel go, so that they should not serve us? 6 So Pharaoh yoked his chariots and led off all his people with himself: 7 having also taken six hundred chosen chariots and all the cavalry of the Egyptians and rulers over all. 8 The Lord hardened the heart of Pharaoh king of Egypt and of his servants, He pursued after the children of Israel; and the children of Israel went forth with a high hand. 9 The Egyptians pursued after them and found them encamped by the sea; and all the cavalry and the chariots of Pharaoh and the horsemen and his host were before the village, over against Beel-sepphon. 10 Pharaoh approached and the children of Israel having looked up, beheld and the Egyptians encamped behind them: and they were very greatly terrified and the children of Israel cried to the Lord; 11 and said to Moses: Because there were no graves in the land of Egypt, have you brought us forth to kill us in the wilderness? What is this that you have done to us, having brought us out of Egypt? 12 Is not this the word which we spoke to you in Egypt, saying: Let us alone that we may serve the Egyptians? For it is better for us to serve the Egyptians than to die in this wilderness.

13 Moses said to the people, Be of good courage: stand and see the salvation which is from the Lord, which he will work for us this day; for as you have seen the Egyptians today, you shall see them again no more for ever. 14 The Lord shall fight for you and you shall hold your peace. 15 And the Lord said to Moses: Why cry you to me? Speak to the children of Israel, Let them proceed. 16 And do you lift up your rod and stretch forth your hand over the sea and divide it, Let the children of Israel enter into the midst of the sea on the dry land. 17 And Behold! I will harden the heart of Pharaoh and of all the Egyptians and they shall go in after them; and I will be glorified upon Pharaoh and on all his host and on his chariots and his horses. 18 All the Egyptians shall know that I am the Lord when I am glorified upon Pharaoh and upon his chariots and his horses. 19 The angel of God that went before the camp of the children of Israel removed and went behind and the pillar of the cloud also removed from before them and stood behind them. 20 It went between the camp of the Egyptians and the camp of Israel and stood; and there was darkness and blackness; and the night passed and they came not near to one another during the whole night. 21 Moses stretched forth his hand over the sea and the Lord carried back the sea with a strong south wind all the night and made the sea dry and the water was divided. 22 The children of Israel went into the midst of the sea on the dry land and the water of it was a wall on the right hand and a wall on the left.

23 The Egyptians pursued them and went in after them and every horse of Pharaoh and his chariots and his horsemen, into the midst of the sea. 24 It came to pass in the morning watch that the Lord looked forth on the camp of the Egyptians through the pillar of fire and cloud and troubled the camp of the Egyptians, 25 and bound the axletrees of their chariots and caused them to go with difficulty; and the Egyptians said: Let us flee from the face of Israel, for the Lord fights for them against the Egyptians. 26 The Lord said to Moses: Stretch forth thine hand over the sea, Let the water be turned back to its place, Let it cover the Egyptians coming both upon the chariots and the riders. 27 Moses stretched forth his hand over the sea and the water returned to its place toward day; and the Egyptians fled from the water and the Lord shook off the Egyptians in the midst of the sea. 28 And the water returned and covered the chariots and the riders and all the forces of Pharaoh, who entered after them into the sea: and there was not left of them even one. 29 But the children of Israel went along dry land in the midst of the sea and the water was to them a wall on the right hand and a wall on the left. 30 So the Lord delivered Israel in that day from the hand of the Egyptians and Israel saw the Egyptians dead by the shore of the sea. 31 Israel saw the mighty hand, the things which the Lord did to the Egyptians; and the people feared the Lord and they believed God and Moses his servant.

15:1 Then sang Moses and the children of Israel this song to God and spoke, saying: Let us sing to the Lord, for he is very greatly glorified: horse and rider he has thrown into the sea. 2 He was to me a helper and protector for salvation: this is my God and I will glorify him; my father's God and I will exalt him. 3 The Lord bringing wars to nought, the Lord is his name. 4 He has cast the chariots of Pharaoh and his host into the sea, the chosen mounted captains: they were swallowed up in the Red Sea. 5 He covered them with the sea: they sank to the depth like a stone. 6 Your right hand, O God, has been glorified in strength; your right hand, O God, has broken the enemies. 7 And in the abundance of your glory you have broken the adversaries to pieces: you sent forth your wrath, it devoured them as stubble. 8 And by the breath of your anger the water parted asunder; the waters were congealed as a wall, the waves were congealed in the midst of the sea. 9 The enemy said: I will pursue, I will overtake, I will divide the spoils; I will satisfy my soul, I will destroy with my sword, my hand shall have dominion. 10 You sent forth your wind, the sea covered them; they sank like lead in the mighty water. 11 Who is like to you among the gods, O Lord? Who is like to you? Glorified in holiness, marvelous in glories, doing wonders. 12 You stretch forth your right hand, the earth swallowed them up. 13 You have guided in your righteousness this your people whom you have redeemed, by your strength you have called them into your holy resting-place. 14 The nations heard and were angry, pangs have seized on the dwellers among the Philistines. 15 Then the princes of Edom and the chiefs of the Moabites hasted; trembling took hold upon them, all the inhabitants of C'anaan melted away. 16 Let trembling and fear fall upon them; by the greatness of your arm, let them become as stone; till your people pass over, O Lord, till this your people pass over, whom you have purchased. 17 Bring them in and plant them in the mountain of their inheritance, in your prepared habitation, which you, O Lord, have prepared; the sanctuary, O Lord, which your hands have made ready. 18 The Lord reigns unto ages of ages and ever. 19 For the horse of Pharaoh went in with the chariots and horsemen into the sea and the Lord brought upon them the water of the sea, but the children of Israel walked through dry land in the midst of the sea.

20 And Mariam the prophetess, the sister of Aaron, having taken a timbrel in her hand—then there went forth all the women after her with timbrels and dances. 21 And Mariam led them, saying: Let us sing to the Lord, for he has been very greatly glorified: the horse and rider has he cast into the sea. 22 So Moses brought up the children of Israel from the Red Sea and brought them into the wilderness of Sur; and they went three days in the wilderness and found no water to drink. 23 And they came to Merrha and do you think not drink of Merrha, for it was bitter; therefore he named the name of that place, Bitterness. 24 The people murmured against Moses, saying: What shall we drink? 25 Moses cried to the Lord and the Lord showed him a tree, He cast it into the water and the water was sweetened: there he established to him ordinances and judgments and there he tested him, 26 and said: If you will indeed hear the voice of the Lord your God and do things pleasing before him and will hearken to his commands and keep all his ordinances, no disease which I have brought upon the Egyptians will I bring upon you, for I am the Lord your God that heals you. 27 They came to Ælim and there were there twelve fountains of water and seventy stems of palm-trees; and they encamped there by the waters.

16:1 They departed from Ælim and all the congregation of the children of Israel came to the wilderness of Sin, which is between Ælim and Sinai; and on the fifteenth day, in the second month after their departure from the land of Egypt, 2 all the congregation of the children of Israel murmured against Moses and Aaron. 3 The children of Israel said to them: Would we had died stricken by the Lord in the land of Egypt when we sat by the flesh-pots and ate bread to satiety! for you have brought us out into this wilderness, to kill all this congregation with hunger. 4 The Lord said to Moses: Behold, I will rain bread upon you out of heaven: and the people shall go forth and they shall gather their daily portion for the day, that I may try them whether they will walk in my law or not. 5 It shall come to pass on the sixth day that they shall prepare whatsoever they have brought in and it shall be double of what they shall have gathered for the day, daily. 6 Moses and Aaron said to all the congregation of the children of Israel, At even you shall know that the Lord has brought you out of the land of Egypt; 7 and in the morning you shall see the glory of the Lord, inasmuch as he hears your murmuring against God; and who are we, that you continue to murmur against us? 8 Moses said: This shall be when the Lord gives you in the evening flesh to eat and bread in the morning to satiety, because the Lord has heard your murmuring, which you murmur against us: and what are we? For your murmuring is not against us, but against God.

9 Moses said to Aaron, Say to all the congregation of the children of Israel, Come near before God; for he has heard your murmuring. 10 When Aaron spoke to all the congregation of the children of Israel and they turned toward the wilderness, then the glory of the Lord appeared in a cloud. 11 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 12 I have heard the murmuring of the children of Israel: speak to them, saying: Towards evening you shall eat flesh and in the morning you shall be satisfied with bread; and you shall know that I am the Lord your God. 13 It was evening and quails came up and covered the camp: 14 in the morning it came to pass as the dew ceased around the camp, that, behold, on the face of the wilderness was a small thing like white coriander seed, as frost upon the earth. 15 When the children of Israel saw it, they said one to another, What is this? For they knew not what it was; and Moses said to them: 16 This is the bread which the Lord has given you to eat. This is that which the Lord has appointed: gather of it each man for his family, a jar for each person, according to the number of your souls, gather each of you with his fellow-lodgers. 17 The children of Israel did so and gathered some much and some less. 18 And having measured the jar full, he that gathered much had nothing over, He that had gathered less had no lack; each gathered according to the need of those who belonged to him. 19 Moses said to them: Let no man leave of it till the morning.

20 But they did not hearken to Moses, but some left of it till the morning; and it bred worms and stank: and Moses was irritated with them. 21 They gathered it every morning, each man what he needed and when the sun became hot it melted. 22 It came to pass on the sixth day, they gathered double what was needed, two jars for one man; and all the chiefs of the synagogue went in and reported it to Moses. 23 Moses said to them: Is not this the word which the Lord spoke? Tomorrow is the Sabbath, a holy rest to the Lord: bake that you will bake and boil that you will boil and all that is over leave to be laid by for the morrow. 24 They left of it till the morning, as Moses commanded them; and it stank not, neither was there a worm in it. 25 Moses said: Eat that today, for today is a Sabbath to the Lord: it shall not be found in the plain. 26 Six days you shall gather it and on the seventh day is a Sabbath, for there shall be none on that day. 27 It came to pass on the seventh day that some of the people went forth to gather and found none. 28 The Lord said to Moses: How long are you unwilling to hearken to my commands and my law? 29 See, for the Lord has given you this day as the Sabbath, therefore he has given you on the sixth day the bread of two days: you shall sit each of you in your houses; let no one go forth from his place on the seventh day. 30 The people kept Sabbath on the seventh day. 31 The children of Israel called the name of it Man; and it was as white coriander seed and the taste of it as a wafer with honey. 32 Moses said: This is the thing which the Lord has commanded, Fill a jar with manna, to be laid up for your generations; that they may see the bread which you ate in the wilderness when the Lord led you forth out of the land of Egypt. 33 Moses said to Aaron, Take a golden pot and cast into it one full jar of manna; and you shall lay it up before God, to be kept for your generations, 34 as the Lord commanded Moses: and Aaron laid it up before the testimony to be kept. 35 The children of Israel ate manna forty years, until they came to the land they ate the manna, until they came to the region of Phoenicia. 36 Now, the jar was the tenth part of three measures.

17:1 All the congregation of the children of Israel departed from the wilderness of Sin, according to their encampments, by the word of the Lord; and they encamped in Raphidin: and there was no water for the people to drink. 2 The people reviled Moses, saying: Give us water, that we may drink; and Moses said to them: Why do you revile me and why tempt you the Lord? 3 The people thirsted there for water and there the people murmured against Moses, saying: Why is this? Have you brought us up out of Egypt to kill us and our children and our cattle with thirst? 4 Moses cried to the Lord, saying: What shall I do to this people? Yet a little while and they will stone me. 5 The Lord said to Moses: Go before this people and take to yourself of the elders of the people; and the rod with which you stroke the river, take in your hand and you shall go. 6 Behold, I stand there before you come, on the rock in Choreb and you shall strike the rock and water shall come out from it and the people shall drink. Moses did so before the sons of Israel. 7 He called the name of that place, Temptation and Reviling, because of the reviling of the children of Israel and because they tempted the Lord, saying: Is the Lord among us or not?

8 And Amalec came and fought with Israel in Raphidin. 9 Moses said to Joshua, Choose out for yourself mighty men and go forth and set the army in array against Amalec tomorrow; and, behold, I shall stand on the top of the hill and the rod of God will be in my hand. 10 Joshua did as Moses said to him: He went out and set the army in array against Amalec and Moses and Aaron and Or went up to the top of the hill. 11 It came to pass when Moses lifted up his hands, Israel prevailed; and when he let down his hands, Amalec prevailed. 12 But the hands of Moses were heavy and they took a stone and put it under him, He sat upon it; and Aaron and Or supported his hands one on this side and the other on that and the hands of Moses were supported till the going down of the sun. 13 Joshua routed Amalec and all his people with the slaughter of the sword. 14 The Lord said to Moses: Write this for a memorial in a book and speak this in the ears of Joshua; for I will utterly blot out the memorial of Amalec from under heaven. 15 Moses built an altar to the Lord and called the name of it, The Lord my Refuge. 16 For with a secret hand the Lord wages war upon Amalec to all generations.

18:1 Jothor the priest of Madiam, the father-in-law of Moses, heard of all that the Lord did to his people Israel; for the Lord brought Israel out of Egypt. 2 Jothor the father-in-law of Moses, took Sepphora the wife of Moses after she had been sent away, 3 and her two sons: the name of the one was Gersam, his father saying: I was a sojourner in a foreign land; — 4 and the name of the second Eliezer, saying: For the God of my father is my helper, He has rescued me out of the hand of Pharaoh. 5 Jothor the father-in-law of Moses and his sons and his wife, went forth to Moses into the wilderness, where he encamped on the mount of God. 6 It was told Moses, saying: Behold, your father-in-law Jothor is coming to you and your wife and two sons with him. 7 Moses went forth to meet his father-in-law and did him reverence and kissed him and they embraced each other, He brought them into the tent. 8 Moses related to his father-in-law all things that the Lord did to Pharaoh and all the Egyptians for Israel's sake and all the labor that had befallen them in the way and that the Lord had rescued them out of the hand of Pharaoh and out of the hand of the Egyptians. 9 Jothor was amazed at all the good things which the Lord did to them, since he rescued them out of the hand of the Egyptians and out of the hand of Pharaoh. 10 Jothor said: Blessed be the Lord, because he has rescued them out of the hand of the Egyptians and out of the hand of Pharaoh. 11 Now, know I that the Lord is great above all gods, because of this, by which they attacked them. 12 Jothor the father-in-law of Moses took whole burnt-offerings and sacrifices for God, for Aaron and all the elders of Israel came to eat bread with the father-in-law of Moses before God.

13 It came to pass after the morrow that Moses sat to judge the people and all the people stood by Moses from morning till evening. 14 Jothor having seen all that Moses did to the people, says, What is this that you do to the people? Why then sit you alone and all the people stand by you from morning till evening? 15 Moses says to his father-in-law, Because the people come to me to seek judgment from God. 16 For whenever there is a dispute among them and they come to me, I give judgment upon each and I teach them the ordinances of God and his law. 17 The father-in-law of Moses said to him: you do not this thing rightly, 18 you will wear away with intolerable weariness, both those and all this people which is with you: this thing is hard, you will not be able to endure it yourself alone. 19 Now, then hearken to me and I will advise you and God shall be with you: be to the people in the things pertaining to God and you shall bring their matters to God. 20 You shall testify to them the ordinances of God and his law and you shall show to them the ways in which they shall walk and the works which they shall do. 21 And do you look out for yourself out of all the people able men, fearing God, righteous men, hating pride and you shall set over the people captains of thousands and captains of hundreds and captains of fifties and captains of tens. 22 They shall judge the people at all times and the too burdensome matter they shall bring to you, but they shall judge the smaller cases; so they shall relieve you and help you. 23 If you will do this thing, God shall strengthen you and you shall be able to attend and all this people shall come with peace into their own place. 24 Moses listened to the voice of his father-in-law and did whatsoever he said to him. 25 Moses chose out able men out of all Israel, He made them captains of thousands and captains of hundreds and captains of fifties and captains of tens over the people. 26 They judged the people at all times; and every too burdensome matter they brought to Moses, but every light matter they judged themselves. 27 Moses dismissed his father-in-law, He returned to his own land.

19:1 And in the third month of the departure of the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt, on the same day, they came into the wilderness of Sinai. 2 They departed from Raphidin and came into the wilderness of Sinai and there Israel encamped before the mountain. 3 Moses went up to the mount of God and God called him out of the mountain, saying: These things shall you say to the house of Jacob and you shall report them to the children of Israel. 4 You have seen all that I have done to the Egyptians and I took you up as upon eagles' wings and I brought you near to myself. 5 And now if you will indeed hear my voice and keep my covenant, you shall be to me a peculiar people above all nations; for the whole earth is mine. 6 You shall be to me a royal priesthood¹ and a holy nation: these words shall you speak to the children of Israel. 7 Moses came and called the elders of the people, He set before them all these words, which God appointed them. 8 All the people answered with one accord and said: All things that God has spoken, we will do and hearken to: and Moses reported these words to God. 9 The Lord said to Moses: Behold! I come to you in a pillar of a cloud, that the people may hear me speaking to you and may believe you for ever: and Moses reported the words of the people to the Lord. 10 The Lord said to Moses: Go down and solemnly charge the people and sanctify them today and tomorrow, Let them wash their garments. 11 Let them be ready against the third day, for on the third day the Lord will descend upon mount Sinai before all the people. 12 You shall separate the people round about, saying: Take heed to yourselves that you go not up into the mountain, nor touch any part of it: every one that touches the mountain shall surely die. 13 A hand shall not touch it, for every one that touches shall be stoned with stones or shot through with a dart, whether beast or whether man, it shall not live: when the voices and trumpets and cloud depart from off the mountain, they shall come up on the mountain.

14 Moses went down from the mountain to the people and sanctified them and they washed their clothes. 15 He said to the people, Be ready: for three days do not come near to a woman. 16 It came to pass on the third day, as the morning drew near, there were voices and lightning and a dark cloud on mount Sinai: the voice of the trumpet sounded loud and all the people in the camp trembled. 17 Moses led the people forth out of the camp to meet God and they stood by under the camp. 18 The mount of Sinai was altogether on a smoke, because God had descended upon it in fire; and the smoke went up as the smoke of a furnace and the people were exceedingly amazed. 19 The sounds of the trumpet were waxing very much louder. Moses spoke and God answered him with a voice. 20 The Lord came down upon mount Sinai on the top of the mountain; and the Lord called Moses to the top of the mountain and Moses went up. 21 And God spoke to Moses, saying: Go down and solemnly charge the people, for fear that at any time they draw near to God to gaze and a multitude of them fall. 22 Let the priests that draw near to the Lord God sanctify themselves, for fear that he destroy some of them.

23 Moses said to God, The people will not be able to approach to the mount of Sinai, for you have solemnly charged us, saying: Set bounds to the mountain and sanctify it. 24 The Lord said to him: Go, descend and come up you and Aaron with you; but let not the priests and the people force their way to come up to God, for fear that the Lord destroy some of them. 25 Moses went down to the people and spoke to them.

20:1 The Lord spoke all these words, saying: 2 I am the Lord your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of . 3 You shall have no other gods beside me. 4 You shall not make to yourself an idol, nor likeness of anything, whatever things are in the heaven above and whatever are in the earth beneath and whatever are in the waters under the earth. 5 You shall not bow down to them, nor serve them; for I am the Lord your God, a jealous God, repaying the sins of the fathers upon the children, to the third and fourth generation to those who hate me, 6 and bestowing mercy on those who love me to thousands of them and on those who keep my commandments. 7 You shall not take the name of the Lord your God in vain; for the Lord your God will not acquit him that takes his name in vain. 8 Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy. 9 Six days you shall labor and shall perform all your work. 10 But on the seventh day is the Sabbath of the Lord your God; on it you shall do no work, you, nor your son, nor your daughter, your servant nor your maidservant, your ox nor your ass, nor any cattle of yours, nor the stranger that sojourns with you. 11 For in six days the Lord made the heaven and the earth and the sea and all things in them and rested on the seventh day; therefore the Lord blessed the seventh day and hallowed it. 12 Honor your father and your mother, that it may be well with you and that you may live long on the good land, which the Lord your God gives to you. 13 You shall not commit adultery. 14 You shall not steal. 15 You shall not kill. 16 You shall not bear false witness against your neighbor. 17 You shall not covet your neighbor's wife; you shall not covet your neighbor's house; nor his field, nor his servant, nor his maid, nor his ox, nor his ass, nor any of his cattle, nor whatever belongs to your neighbor.

18 All the people perceived the thundering and the flashes and the voice of the trumpet and the mountain smoking; and all the people feared and stood afar off, 19 and said to Moses: Speak you to us, Let not God speak to us, for fear that we die. 20 Moses says to them, Be of good courage, for God has come to you to try you, that his fear may be among you, that you sin not. 21 The people stood afar off and Moses went into the darkness where God was. 22 The Lord said to Moses: Thus shall you say to the house of Jacob and you shall report it to the children of Israel, you have seen that I have spoken to you from heaven. 23 You shall not make to yourselves gods of silver and gods of gold you shall not make to yourselves. 24 You shall make to me an altar of earth; and upon it you shall sacrifice your whole burnt-offerings and your peace-offerings and your sheep and your calves in every place, where I shall record my name; and I will come to you and bless you.

25 If you will make to me an altar of stones, you shall not build them hewn stones; for you have lifted up your tool upon them and they are defiled. 26 You shall not go up to my altar by steps, that you may not uncover your nakedness upon it.

21:1 These are the ordinances which you shall set before them. 2 If you buy a Hebrew servant, six years shall he serve you and in the seventh year he shall go forth free for nothing. 3 If he should have come in alone, he shall also go forth alone; and if his wife should have gone in together with him, his wife also shall go out. 4 Moreover, if his master give him a wife and she have born him sons or daughters, the wife and the children shall be his master's; He shall go forth alone. 5 If the servant should answer and say, I love my master and wife and children, I will not go away free; 6 his master shall bring him to the judgment-seat of God and then shall he bring him to the door, —to the door-post and his master shall bore his ear through with an awl, He shall serve him for ever.

7 If any one sell his daughter as a domestic, she shall not depart as the maid-servants depart. 8 If she be not pleasing to her master, after she has betrothed herself to him, he shall let her go free; but he is not at liberty to sell her to a foreign nation, because he has trifled with her. 9 If he should have betrothed her to his son, he shall do to her according to the right of daughters. 10 If he take another to himself, he shall not deprive her of necessaries and her apparel and her companionship with him. 11 If he will not do these three things to her, she shall go out free without money. 12 If any man strike another He die, let him be certainly put to death. 13 But as for him that did it not willingly, but God delivered him into his hands, I will give you a place where the slayer may flee. 14 If any one lie in wait for his neighbor to kill him by craft, He go for refuge, you shall take him from my altar to put him to death. 15 Whoever strikes his father or his mother, let him be certainly put to death. 16 (21:17) whoever shall steal one of the children of Israel and prevail over him and sell him, He be found with him, let him certainly die. 17 (21:16) He that reviles his father or his mother shall surely die. 18 If two men revile each other and strike the one the other with a stone or his fist, He die not, but be laid upon his bed; 19 if the man arise and walk abroad on his staff, he that stroke him shall be clear; only he shall pay for his loss of time and for his healing. 20 If a man strike his man-servant or his maid-servant, with a rod and the party die under his hands, he shall be surely punished. 21 But if the servant continue to live a day or two, let not the master be punished; for he is his money. 22 If two men strive and strike a woman with child and her child be born imperfectly formed, he shall be forced to pay a penalty: as the woman's husband may lay upon him, he shall pay with a valuation. 23 But if it be perfectly formed, he shall give life for life, 24 eye for eye, tooth for tooth, hand for hand, foot for foot, 25 burning for burning, wound for wound, stripe for stripe. 26 If one strike the eye of his man-servant, or the eye of his maid-servant and put it out, he shall let them go free for their eye's sake. 27 If he should strike out the tooth of his man-servant, or the tooth of his maid-servant, he shall send them away free for their tooth's sake. 28 If a bull gore a man or woman and they die, the bull shall be stoned with stones and his flesh shall not be eaten; but the owner of the bull shall be clear. 29 But if the bull should have been given to goring in former time and men should have told his owner, He has not removed him, but he should have slain a man or woman, the bull shall be stoned and his owner shall die also. 30 If a ransom should be imposed on him, he shall pay for the ransom of his soul as much as they shall lay upon him. 31 If the bull gore a son or daughter, let them do to him according to this ordinance. 32 If the bull gore a man-servant or maid-servant, he shall pay to their master thirty silver didrachms and the bull shall be stoned. 33 If any one open a pit or dig a cavity in stone and cover it not and an ox or an ass fall in there, 34 the owner of the pit shall make compensation; he shall give money to their owner and the dead shall be his own. 35 If any man's bull gore the bull of his neighbor and it die, they shall sell the living bull and divide the money and they shall divide the dead bull. 36 But if the bull be known to have been given to goring in time past and they have testified to his owner, He has not removed him, he shall repay bull for bull, but the dead shall be his own.

22:1 If one steal an ox or a sheep and kill it or sell it, he shall pay five calves for a calf and four sheep for a sheep. 2 If the thief be found in the breach made by himself and be stricken and die, there shall not be blood shed for him. 3 But if the sun be risen upon him, he is guilty, he shall die instead; and if a thief have nothing, let him be sold in compensation for what he has stolen. 4 If the thing stolen be left and be in his hand alive, whether ox or sheep, he shall restore them two-fold. 5 If any one should feed down a field or a vineyard and should send in his beast to feed down another field, he shall make compensation of his own field according to his produce; and if he shall have fed down the whole field, he shall pay for compensation the best of his own field and the best of his vineyard. 6 If fire have gone forth and caught thorns and should also set on fire threshing-floors or ears of corn or a field, he that kindled the fire shall make compensation.

7 If any one give to his neighbor money r goods to keep and they be stolen out of the man's house, if the thief be found he shall repay double. 8 But if the thief be not found, the master of the house shall come forward before

God and shall swear that surely he has not accomplished wickedly in regard of any part of his neighbor's deposit, 9 according to every injury alleged, both concerning a calf and an ass and a sheep and a garment and every alleged loss, whatsoever in fact it may be, — the judgment of both shall proceed before God, He that is convicted by God shall repay to his neighbor double. 10 If any one give to his neighbor to keep a calf or sheep or any beast and it be wounded or die or be taken and no one know, 11 an oath of God shall be between both, each swearing that he has surely not at all been guilty in the matter of his neighbor's deposit; and so his master shall hold him guiltless, He shall not make compensation. 12 If it be stolen from him, he shall make compensation to the owner. 13 If it be seized of beasts, he shall bring him to witness the prey, He shall not make compensation. 14 If any one borrow ought of his neighbor and it be wounded or die or be carried away and the owner of it be not with it, he shall make compensation. 15 But if the owner be with it, he shall not make compensation: but if it be a hired thing, there shall be a compensation to him instead of his hire.

16 If any one deceive a virgin that is not betrothed and lie with her, he shall surely endow her for a wife to himself. 17 If her father positively refuse and will not consent to give her to him for a wife, he shall pay compensation to her father according to the amount of the dowry of virgins. 18 You shall not save the lives of sorcerers. 19 Every one that lies with a beast you shall surely put to death. 20 He that sacrifices to any gods but to the Lord alone, shall be destroyed by death.

21 You shall not hurt a stranger, nor afflict him; for you were strangers in the land of Egypt. 22 You shall hurt no widow or orphan. 23 If you should afflict them by ill-treatment and they should cry aloud to me, I will surely hear their voice. 24 I will be very angry and will kill you with the sword and your wives shall be widows and your children orphans. 25 If you should lend money to your poor brother who is by you, you shall not be hard upon him you shall not exact usury of him. 26 If you take your neighbor's garment for a pledge, you shall restore it to him before sunset. 27 For this is his clothing, this is the only covering of his nakedness; by which shall he sleep? If then he shall cry to me, I will hearken to him, for I am merciful. 28 You shall not revile the gods, nor speak ill of the ruler of your people. 29 You shall not keep back the first-fruits of your threshing floor and press. The first-born of your sons you shall give to me. 30 So shall you do with your calf and your sheep and your ass; seven days shall it be under the mother and the eighth day you shall give it to me. 31 You shall be holy men to me; and you shall not eat flesh taken of beasts, you shall cast it to the dog.

23:1 You shall not receive a vain report: you shall not agree with the unjust man to become an unjust witness. 2 You shall not associate with the multitude for evil; you shall not join yourself with a multitude to turn aside with the majority so as to shut out judgment. 3 You shall not spare a poor man in judgment. 4 If meet your enemy's ox or his ass going astray, you shall turn them back and restore them to him. 5 If you see your enemy's ass fallen under its burden, you shall not pass by it, but shall help to raise it with him.

6 You shall not extort the sentence of the poor in his judgment. 7 You shall abstain from every unjust thing: you shall not kill the innocent and just and you shall not justify the wicked for gifts. 8 You shall not receive gifts; for gifts blind the eyes of the seeing and corrupt just words. 9 You shall not afflict a stranger, for you know the heart of a stranger; for you were yourselves strangers in the land of Egypt. 10 Six years you shall sow your land and gather in the fruits of it. 11 But in the seventh year you shall let it rest and leave it and the poor of your nation shall feed; and the wild beasts of the field shall eat that which remains: thus shall you do to your vineyard and to your olive yard. 12 Six days shall you do your works and on the seventh day there shall be rest, that your ox and your ass may rest and that the son of your maid-servant and the stranger may be refreshed. 13 Observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you; and you shall make no mention of the name of other gods, neither shall they be heard out of your mouth.

14 Keep you a feast to me three times in the year. 15 Take heed to keep the feast of unleavened bread: seven days you shall eat unleavened bread, as I charged you at the season of the month of new corn, for in it you came out of Egypt: you shall not appear before me empty. 16 You shall keep the feast of the harvest of first-fruits of your labors, whatsoever you shall have sown in your field and the feast of completion at the end of the year in the gathering in of your fruits out of your field. 17 Three times in the year shall all your males appear before the Lord your God. 18 For when I shall have cast out the nations from before you and shall have widened your borders, you shall not offer the blood of my sacrifice with leaven, neither must the fat of my feast abide till the morning. 19 You shall bring the first-offerings of the first-fruits of your land into the house of the Lord your God. You shall not cook a lamb in its mother's milk. 20 And, behold, I send my angel before your face, that he may keep you in the way, that he may bring you into the land which I have prepared for you. 21 Take heed to yourself and hearken to him and disobey him not; for he will not give way to you, for my name is on him. 22 If you will indeed hear my voice and if you will do all the things I shall charge you with and keep my covenant, you shall be to me a peculiar people above all nations, for the whole earth is mine; and you shall be to me a royal priesthood and a holy nation: these words shall you speak to the children of Israel, If you shall indeed hear my voice and do all the things I shall tell you, I will be an enemy to your enemies and an adversary to your adversaries. 23 For my angel shall go as your leader and shall bring you to the Amorite and Chettite and Pherezite and C'anaanite and Gergesite and Evite and Jebusite and I will destroy them. 24 You shall not worship their gods, nor serve them: you shall not do according to their works, but shall utterly destroy them and break to pieces their pillars. 25 You shall serve the Lord your God and I will bless your bread and your wine and your water and I will turn away sickness from you. 26 There shall not be on your land one that is impotent or barren. I will surely fulfill the number of your days. 27 I will send terror before you and I will strike with amazement all the nations to which you shall come and I will make all your enemies to flee. 28 I will send hornets before you and you shall cast out the Amorites and the Evites and the C'anaanites and the Chettites from you. 29 I will not cast them out in one year, for fear that the land become desolate and the beasts of the field multiply against you. 30 By little and little I will cast them out from before you, until you shall be increased and inherit the earth. 31 I will set your borders from the Red Sea, to the sea of the Phylistines and from the wilderness to the great river Euphrates; and I will give into your hand those who dwell in the land and will cast them out from you. 32 You shall make no covenant with them and their gods. 33 They shall not dwell in your land, for fear that they cause you to sin against me; for if you should serve their gods, these will be an offence to you.

24:1 And to Moses he said: Go up to the Lord, you and Aaron and Nadab and Abiud and seventy of the elders of Israel: and they shall worship the Lord from a distance. 2 Moses alone shall draw near to God; and they shall not draw nigh and the people shall not come up with them. 3 Moses went in and related to the people all the words of God and the ordinances; and all the people answered with one voice, saying: All the words which the Lord has spoken, we will do and be obedient. 4 Moses wrote all the words of the Lord; and Moses rose up early in the morning and built an altar under the mountain and set up twelve stones for the twelve tribes of Israel. 5 He sent forth the young men of the children of Israel and they offered whole burnt-offerings and they sacrificed young calves as a peace-offering to God. 6 Moses took half the blood and poured it into bowls and half the blood he poured out upon the altar. 7 He took the book of the covenant and read it in the ears of the people and they said: All things whatsoever the Lord has spoken we will do and hearken to it. 8 Moses took the blood and sprinkled it upon the people and said: Behold the blood of the covenant, which the Lord has made with you concerning all these words.

9 Moses went up and Aaron and Nadab and Abiud and seventy of the elders of Israel. 10 They saw the place where the God of Israel stood; and under his feet was as it were a work of sapphire slabs and as it were the appearance of the firmament of heaven in its purity. 11 And of the chosen ones of Israel there was not even one missing and they appeared in the place of God and did eat and drink. 12 The Lord said to Moses: Come up to me into the mountain and be there; and I will give you the tables of stone, the law and the commandments, which I have written to give them laws. 13 Moses rose up and Joshua his attendant and they went up into the mount of God. 14 And to the elders they said: Rest there till we return to you; and behold, Aaron and Or are with you: if any man have a cause to be tried, let them go to them. 15 Moses and Joshua went up to the mountain and the cloud covered the mountain. 16 The glory of God came down upon the mount Sinai and the cloud covered it six days; and the Lord called Moses on the seventh day out of the midst of the cloud. 17 The appearance of the glory of the Lord was as burning fire on the top of the mountain, before the children of Israel. 18 Moses went into the midst of the cloud and went up to the mountain and was there in the mountain forty days and forty nights.

25:1 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 2 Speak to the children of Israel and take first-fruits of all, who may be disposed in their heart to give; and you shall take my first-fruits. 3 And this is the offering which you shall take of them; gold and silver and brass, 4 and blue and purple and double scarlet and fine spun linen and goats' hair, 5 and rams' skins dyed red and blue skins and incorruptible wood, 6 and oil for the light, incense for anointing oil and for the composition of incense, 7 and sardius stones and stones for the carved work of the breast-plate and the full-length robe. 8 You shall make me a sanctuary and I will appear among you. 9 You shall make for me according to all things which I show you in the mountain; even the pattern of the tabernacle and the pattern of all its furniture: so shall you make it. 10 You shall make the ark of testimony of incorruptible wood; the length of two cubits and a half and the breadth of a cubit and a half and the height of a cubit and a half. 11 You shall gild it with pure gold, you shall gild it within and without; and you shall make for it golden wreaths twisted round about. 12 You shall cast for it four golden rings and shall put them on the four sides; two rings on the one side and two rings on the other side. 13 You shall make staves of incorruptible wood and shall gild them with gold. 14 You shall put the staves into the rings on the sides of the ark, to bear the ark with them. 15 The staves shall remain fixed in the rings of the ark. 16 You shall put into the ark the testimonies which I shall give you. 17 You shall make a propitiatory, a lid of pure gold; the length of two cubits and a half and the breadth of a cubit and a half. 18 You shall make two cherubim graven in gold and you shall put them on both sides of the propitiatory. 19 They shall be made, one cherub on this side and another cherub on the other side of the propitiatory; and you shall make the two cherubim on the two sides. 20 The cherubim shall stretch forth their wings above, overshadowing the propitiatory with their wings; and their faces shall be toward each other, the faces of the cherubim shall be toward the propitiatory. 21 You shall set the propitiatory on the ark above and you shall put into the ark the testimonies which I shall give you. 22 I will make myself known to you there and I will speak to you above the propitiatory between the two cherubim, which are upon the ark of testimony, even in all things which I shall charge you concerning the children of Israel. 23 You shall make a golden table of pure gold, in length two cubits and in breadth a cubit and in height a cubit and a half. 24 You shall make for it golden wreaths twisted around and you shall make for it a crown of a hand-breadth round about.

15 You shall make the posts of the tabernacle of incorruptible wood. 16 Of ten cubits shall you make one post and the breadth of one post of a cubit and a half. 17 Two joints shall you make in one post, answering the one to the other: so shall you do to all the posts of the tabernacle. 18 You shall make posts to the tabernacle, twenty posts on the north side. 19 You shall make to the twenty posts forty silver sockets; two sockets to one post on both its sides and two sockets to the other post on both its sides. 20 And for the next side, toward the south, twenty posts, 21 and the embroiderer. 37 You shall make for the veil five posts and you shall gild them with gold; and their chapters shall be gold; and you shall cast for them five brazen sockets.

28:1 And do you take to yourself both Aaron your brother and his sons, even them of the children of Israel; so that Aaron and Nadab and Abiud and Eleazar and Ithamar, sons of Aaron, may minister to me. 2 You shall make holy apparel for Aaron your brother, for honor and glory. 3 And speak you to all those who are wise in understanding, whom I have filled with the spirit of wisdom and perception; and they shall make the holy apparel of Aaron for the sanctuary, in which apparel he shall minister to me as priest. 4 These are the garments which they shall make: the breast-plate and the shoulder-piece and the full-length robe and the tunic with a fringe and the tire and the girdle; and they shall make holy garments for Aaron and his sons to minister to me as priests. 5 They shall take the gold and the blue and the purple and the scarlet and the fine linen. 6 They shall make the shoulder-piece of fine linen spun, the woven work of the embroiderer. 7 It shall have two shoulder-pieces joined together, fastened on the two sides. 8 The woven work of the shoulder-pieces which is upon it, shall be of one piece according to the work, of pure gold and blue and purple and spun scarlet and fine twined linen. 9 You shall take the two stones, the stones of emerald and you shall grave on them the names of the children of Israel. 10 Six names on the first stone and the other six names on the second stone, according to their births. 11 It shall be the work of the stone-engraver's art; as the graving of a seal you shall engrave the two stones with the names of the children of Israel. 12 You shall put the two stones on the shoulders of the shoulder-piece: they are memorial-stones for the children of Israel: and Aaron shall bear the names of the children of Israel before the Lord on his two shoulders, a memorial for them. 13 You shall make circlets of pure gold; 14 and you shall make two fringes of pure gold, variegated with flowers wreathen work; and you shall put the wreathen fringes on the circlets, fastening them on their shoulder-pieces in front.

15 You shall make the oracle of judgment, the work of the embroiderer: in keeping with the ephod, you shall make it of gold and blue and purple and spun scarlet and fine linen spun. 16 You shall make it square: it shall be double; of a span the length of it and of a span the breadth. 17 You shall interweave with it a texture of four rows of stone; there shall be a row of stones, a sardius, a topaz and emerald, the first row. 18 The second row, a carbuncle, a sapphire and a jasper. 19 The third row, a ligure, an agate, an amethyst: 20 and the fourth row, a chrysolite and a beryl and an onyx stone, set round with gold, bound together with gold: let them be according to their row. 21 Let the stones of the names of the children of Israel be twelve according to their names, engravings as of seals: let them be for the twelve tribes each according to the name. 22 You shall make on the oracle woven fringes, a chain-work of pure gold. 23 And Aaron shall take the names of the children of Israel, on the oracle of judgment on his breast; a memorial before God for him as he goes into the sanctuary. 24 You shall put the fringes on the oracle of judgment; you shall put the wreaths on both sides of the oracle, 25 and you shall put the two circlets on both the shoulders of the ephod in front. 26 You shall put the Manifestation and the Truth on the oracle of judgment; and it shall be on the breast of Aaron when he goes into the holy place before the Lord; and Aaron shall bear the judgments of the children of Israel on his breast before the Lord continually. 27 You shall make the full-length tunic all of blue. 28 The opening of it shall be in the middle having a fringe around the opening, the work of the weaver, woven together in the joining of the same piece that it might not be rent. 29 And under the fringe of the robe below you shall make as it were pomegranates of a flowering pomegranate tree, of blue and purple and spun scarlet and fine linen spun, under the fringe of the robe round about: golden pomegranates of the same shape and bells around between these. 30 A bell by the side of a golden pomegranate and flower-work on the fringe of the robe round about. 31 The sound of Aaron shall be audible when he ministers, as he goes into the sanctuary before the Lord and has he goes out, that he die not. 32 You shall make a plate of pure gold and you shall grave on it as the graving of a signet, Holiness of the Lord. 33 You shall put it on the spun blue cloth and it shall be on the mitre: it shall be in the front of the mitre. 34 It shall be on the forehead of Aaron; and Aaron shall bear away the sins of their holy things, all that the children of Israel shall sanctify of every gift of their holy things and it shall be on the forehead of Aaron continually acceptable for them before the Lord.

35 The fringes of the garments shall be of fine linen; and you shall make a tire of fine linen and you shall make a girdle, the work of the embroiderer. 36 And for the sons of Aaron you shall make tunics and girdles and you shall make for them tires for honor and glory. 37 You shall put them on Aaron your brother and his sons with him and you shall anoint them and fill their hands: and you shall sanctify them, that they may minister to me in the priest's office. 38 You shall make for them linen drawers to cover the nakedness of their flesh; they shall reach from the loins to the thighs. 39 And Aaron shall have them and his sons, whenever they enter into the tabernacle of witness, or when they shall advance to the altar of the sanctuary to minister, so they shall not bring sin upon themselves, for fear that they die: it is a perpetual statute for him and for his seed after him.

29:1 These are the things which you shall do to them: you shall sanctify them, so that they shall serve me in the priesthood; and you shall take one young calf from the herd and two unblemished rams; 2 and unleavened loaves kneaded with oil and unleavened cakes anointed with oil: you shall make them of fine flour of wheat. 3 You shall put them on one basket and you shall offer them on the basket and the young calf and the two rams. 4 You shall bring Aaron and his sons to the doors of the tabernacle of testimony and you shall wash them with water. 5 And having taken the garments, you shall put on Aaron your brother both the full-length robe and the ephod and the oracle; and you shall join for him the oracle to the ephod. 6 You shall put the mitre on his head; and you shall put the plate, even the Holiness, on the mitre. 7 You shall take of the anointing oil and you shall pour it on his head and shall anoint him, 8 and you shall bring his sons and put garments on them. 9 You shall gird them with the girdles and put the tires upon them and they shall have a priestly office to me for ever; and you shall fill the hands of Aaron and the hands of his sons. 10 You shall bring the calf to the door of the tabernacle of witness; and Aaron and his sons shall lay their hands on the head of the calf, before the Lord, by the doors of the tabernacle of witness. 11 You shall kill the calf before the Lord, by the doors of the tabernacle of witness. 12 You shall take of the blood of the calf and put it on the horns of the altar with your finger, but all the rest of the blood you shall pour out at the foot of the altar. 13 You shall take all the fat that is on the belly and the lobe of the liver and the two kidneys and the fat that is upon them and shall put them upon the altar. 14 But the flesh of the calf and his skin and his dung, shall you burn with fire without the camp; for it is an offering on account of sin.

15 You shall take one ram and Aaron and his sons shall lay their hands on the head of the ram. 16 You shall kill it and take the blood and pour it on the altar round about. 17 You shall divide the ram by his several limbs and you shall wash the inward parts and the feet with water and you shall put them on the divided parts with the head. 18 You shall offer the whole ram on the altar, a whole burnt-offering to the Lord for a sweet-smelling savour: it is an offering of incense to the Lord. 19 You shall take the second ram and Aaron and his sons shall lay their hands on the head of the ram. 20 You shall kill it and take of the blood of it and put it on the tip of Aaron's right ear and on the thumb of his right hand and on the great toe of his right foot and on the tips of the right ears of his sons and on the thumbs of their right hands and on the great toes of their right feet. 21 You shall take of the blood from the altar and of the anointing oil; and you shall sprinkle it upon Aaron and on his garments and on his sons and on his sons' garments with him; He shall be sanctified and his apparel and his sons and his sons' apparel with him: but the blood of the ram you shall pour around upon the altar. 22 You shall take from the ram its fat, both the fat that covers the belly and the lobe of the liver and the two kidneys and the fat that is upon them and the right shoulder, for this is a consecration. 23 And one cake made with oil and one cake from the basket of unleavened bread set forth before the Lord. 24 You shall put them all on the hands of Aaron and on the hands of his sons and you shall separate them as a separate offering before the Lord. 25 You shall take them from their hands and shall offer them up on the altar of whole burnt-offering for a sweet-smelling savor before the Lord: it is an offering to the Lord. 26 You shall take the breast from the ram of consecration which is Aaron's and you shall separate it as a separate offering before the Lord and it shall be to you for a portion. 27 You shall sanctify the separated breast and the shoulder of removal which has been separated and which has been removed from the ram of consecration, of the portion of Aaron and of that of his sons. 28 It shall be a perpetual statute of the children of Israel to Aaron and his sons, for this is a separate offering; and it shall be a special offering from the children of Israel, from the peace-offerings of the children of Israel, a special offering to the Lord.

29 The apparel of the sanctuary which is Aaron's shall be his son's after him, for them to be anointed in them and to fill their hands. 30 The priest his successor from among his sons who shall go into the tabernacle of witness to minister in the holies, shall put them on seven days. 31 You shall take the ram of consecration and you shall boil the flesh in the holy place. 32 And Aaron and his sons shall eat the flesh of the ram and the loaves in the basket, by the doors of the tabernacle of witness. 33 They shall eat the offerings with which they were sanctified to fill their hands, to sanctify them; and a stranger shall not eat of them, for they are holy.

35 Thus shall you do for Aaron and for his sons according to all things that I have commanded you; seven days shall you fill their hands. 36 You shall sacrifice the calf of the sin-offering on the day of purification and you shall purify the altar when you do perform consecration upon it and you shall anoint it so as to sanctify it. 37 Seven days shall you purify the altar and sanctify it; and the altar shall be most holy, every one that touches the altar shall be hallowed. 38 These are the offerings which you shall offer upon the altar; two unblemished lambs of a year old daily on the altar continually, a constant offering.

39 One lamb you shall offer in the morning and the second lamb you shall offer in the evening. 40 And a tenth measure of fine flour mingled with the fourth part of a hin of beaten oil and a drink-offering the fourth part of a hin of wine for one lamb. 41 You shall offer the second lamb in the evening, after the manner of the morning-offering and according to the drink-offering of the morning lamb; you shall offer it an offering to the Lord for a sweet-smelling savour, 42 a perpetual sacrifice throughout your generations, at the door of the tabernacle of witness before the Lord; by which I will be known to you there, so as to speak to you. 43 I will there give orders to the children of Israel and I will be sanctified in my glory. 44 I will sanctify the tabernacle of testimony and the altar and I will sanctify Aaron and his sons, to minister as priests to me. 45 I will be called upon among the children of Israel and will be their God. 46 They shall know that I am the Lord their God, who brought them forth out of the land of Egypt, to be called upon by them and to be their God.

30:1 You shall make the altar of incense of incorruptible wood. 2 You shall make it a cubit in length and a cubit in breadth: it shall be square; and the height of it shall be of two cubits, its horns shall be of the same piece. 3 You shall gild its grate with pure gold and its sides around and its horns; and you shall make for it a wreathen border of gold round-about. 4 You shall make under its wreathen border two rings of pure gold; you shall make it to the two corners on the two sides and they shall be bearings for the staves, so as to bear it with them. 5 You shall make the staves of incorruptible wood and shall gild them with gold. 6 You shall set it before the veil that is over the ark of the testimonies, by which I will make myself known to you there. 7 And Aaron shall burn upon it fine compound incense every morning; whenever he trims the lamps he shall burn incense upon it. 8 When Aaron lights the lamps in the evening, he shall burn incense upon it; a constant incense-offering always before the Lord for their generations. 9 You shall not offer strange incense upon it, nor and offering made by fire, nor a sacrifice; and you shall not pour a drink-offering upon it. 10 And once in the year Aaron shall make atonement on its horns, he shall purge it with the blood of purification for their generations: it is most holy to the Lord.

11 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 12 If you take account of the children of Israel in the surveying of them and they shall give every one a ransom for his soul to the Lord, then there shall not be among them a destruction in the visiting of them. 13 And this is what they shall give, as many as pass the survey, half a didrachm which is according to the didrachm of the sanctuary: twenty oboli go to the didrachm, but the half of the didrachm is the offering to the Lord. 14 Every one that passes the survey from twenty years old and upwards shall give the offering to the Lord. 15 The rich shall not give more and the poor shall not give less than the half didrachm in giving the offering to the Lord, to make atonement for your souls. 16 You shall take the money of the offering from the children of Israel and shall give it for the service of the tabernacle of testimony; and it shall be to the children of Israel a memorial before the Lord, to make atonement for your souls. 17 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 18 Make a brazen laver and a brazen base for it, for washing; and you shall put it between the tabernacle of witness and the altar and you shall pour forth water into it. 19 And Aaron and his sons shall wash their hands and their feet with water from it. 20 Whenever they shall go into the tabernacle of witness, they shall wash themselves with water, so they shall not die, whenever they advance to the altar to do service and to offer the whole burnt-offerings to the Lord. 21 They shall wash their hands and feet with water, whenever they shall go into the tabernacle of witness; they shall wash themselves with water, that they die not; and it shall be for them a perpetual statute, for him and his posterity after him. 22 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 23 Do you also take sweet herbs, the flower of choice myrrh five hundred shekels and the half of this two hundred and fifty shekels of sweet-smelling cinnamon and two hundred and fifty shekels of sweet-smelling calamus, 24 and of cassia five hundred shekels of the sanctuary and a hin of olive oil. 25 You shall make it a holy anointing oil, a perfumed ointment tempered by the art of the perfumer: it shall be a holy anointing oil. 26 You shall anoint with it the tabernacle of witness and the ark of the tabernacle of witness, 27 and all its furniture and the candlestick and all its furniture and the altar of incense, 28 and the altar of whole burnt-offerings and all its furniture and the table and all its furniture and the laver. 29 You shall sanctify them and they shall be most holy: every one that touches them shall be hallowed. 30 You shall anoint Aaron and his sons and sanctify those who they may minister to me as priests. 31 You shall speak to the children of Israel, saying: This shall be to you a holy anointing oil throughout your generations. 32 On man's flesh it shall not be poured and you shall not make any for yourselves according to this composition: it is holy and shall be holiness to you. 33 whoever shall make it in like manner and whoever shall give of it to a stranger, shall be destroyed from among his people.

34 The Lord said to Moses: Take for yourself sweet herbs, stacte, onycha, sweet galbanum and transparent frankincense; there shall be and equal weight of each. 35 They shall make with it perfumed incense, tempered with the are of a perfumer, a pure holy work. 36 And of these you shall beat some small and you shall put it before the testimonies in the tabernacle of testimony, from where I will make myself known to you: it shall be to you a most holy incense. 37 You shall not make any for yourselves according to this composition; it shall be to you a holy thing for the Lord. 38 whoever shall make any in like manner, so as to smell it, shall perish from his people.

31:1 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 2 Behold, I have called by name Beseleel the son of Urias the son of Or, of the tribe of Juda. 3 I have filled him with a divine spirit of wisdom and understanding and knowledge, to invent in every work, 4 and to frame works, to labor in gold and silver and brass and blue and purple and spun scarlet, 5 and works in stone and for artificers' work in wood, to work at all works. 6 I have appointed him and Eliab the son of Achisamach of the tribe of Dan and to every one understanding in heart I have given understanding; and they shall make all things as many as I have appointed you, — 7 the tabernacle of witness and the ark of the covenant and the propitiatory that is upon it and the furniture of the tabernacle, 8 and the altars and the table and all its furniture, 9 and the pure candlestick and all its furniture and the laver and its base, 10 and Aaron's robes of ministry and the robes of his sons to minister to me as priests, 11 and the anointing oil and the compound incense of the sanctuary; according to all that I have commanded you shall they make them.

12 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 13 Do you also charge the children of Israel, saying: Take heed and keep my Sabbaths; for they are a sign with me and among you throughout your generations, that you may know that I am the Lord that sanctifies you. 14 You shall keep the Sabbaths, because this is holy to the Lord for you; he that profanes it shall surely be put to death: every one who shall do a work on it, that soul shall be destroyed from the midst of his people. 15 Six days you shall do works, but the seventh day is the Sabbath, a holy rest to the Lord; every one who shall do a work on the seventh day shall be put to death. 16 The children of Israel shall keep the Sabbaths, to observe them throughout their generations. 17 It is a perpetual covenant with me and the children of Israel, it is a perpetual sign with me; for in six days the Lord made the heaven and the earth and on the seventh day he ceased and rested. 18 He gave to Moses when he left off speaking to him in mount Sinai the two tables of testimony, tables of stone written upon with the finger of God.

32:1 When the people saw that Moses delayed to come down from the mountain, the people combined against Aaron and said to him: Arise and make us gods who shall go before us; for this Moses, the man who brought us forth out of the land of Egypt—we do not know what has become of him. 2 And Aaron says to them, Take off the golden ear-rings which are in the ears of your wives and daughters and bring them to me. 3 All the people took off the golden ear-rings that were in their ears and brought them to Aaron. 4 He received them at their hands and formed them with a graving tool; He made them a molten calf and said: These are your gods, O Israel, which have brought you up out of the land of Egypt. 5 And Aaron having seen it built an altar before it and Aaron made proclamation saying: Tomorrow is a feast of the Lord. 6 And having risen early on the morrow, he offered whole burnt-offerings and offered a peace-offering; and the people sat down to eat and drink and rose up to play.

7 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: Go quickly, descend hence, for your people whom you brought out of the land of Egypt have transgressed; 8 they have quickly gone out of the way which you commanded; they have made for themselves a calf and worshiped it and sacrificed to it and said: (32:9) These are your gods, O Israel, who brought you up out of the land of Egypt. 9 10 And now let me alone and I will be very angry with them and consume them and I will make you a great nation. 11 Moses prayed before the Lord God and said: Why then, O Lord, are you very angry with your people, whom you brought out of the land of Egypt with great strength and with your high arm? 12 Take heed for fear that at any time the Egyptians speak, saying: With evil intent he brought them out to kill them in the mountains and to consume them from off the earth; cease from your wrathful anger and be merciful to the sin of your people, 13 remembering Abra'am and Isaac and Jacob your servants, to whom you have sworn by yourself and have spoken to them, saying: I will greatly multiply your seed as the stars of heaven for multitude and all this land which you spoke of to give to them, so that they shall possess it for ever. 14 The Lord was prevailed upon to preserve his people.

15 Moses turned and went down from the mountain and the two tables of testimony were in his hands, tables of stone written on both their sides:

they were written within and without. 16 The tables were the work of God and the writing the writing of God written on the tables. 17 Joshua having heard the voice of the people crying, says to Moses, There is a noise of war in the camp. 18 Moses says, It is not the voice of those who begin the battle, nor the voice of those who begin the cry of defeat, but the voice of those who begin the banquet of wine do I hear.

19 When he drew near to the camp, he sees the calf and the dances; and Moses being very angry cast the two tables out of his hands and broke them to pieces under the mountain. 20 And having taken the calf which they made, he consumed it with fire and ground it very small and scattered it on the water and made the children of Israel to drink it. 21 Moses said to Aaron, What has this people done to you, that you have brought upon them a great sin? 22 And Aaron said to Moses: Be not angry, my lord, for you know the impetuosity of this people. 23 For they say to me, Make us gods, which shall go before us; for as for this man Moses, who brought us out of Egypt, we do not know what has become of him. 24 I said to them: If any one has golden ornaments, take them off; and they gave them me and I cast them into the fire and there came out this calf. 25 When Moses saw that the people was scattered, —for Aaron had scattered them so as to be a rejoicing to their enemies, — 26 then stood Moses at the gate of the camp and said: Who is on the Lord's side? Let him come to me. Then all the sons of Levi came to him. 27 He says to them, Thus says the Lord God of Israel, Put every one his sword on his thigh and go through and return from gate to gate through the camp and kill every one his brother and every one his neighbor and every one him that is nearest to him. 28 The sons of Levi did as Moses spoke to them and there fell of the people in that day to the number of three thousand men. 29 Moses said to them: you have filled your hands this day to the Lord each one on his son or on his brother, so that blessing should be given to you.

30 It came to pass after the morrow had begun, that Moses said to the people, you have sinned a great sin; and now I will go up to God, that I may make atonement for your sin. 31 Moses returned to the Lord and said: I pray, O Lord, this people has sinned a great sin and they have made for themselves golden gods. 32 And now if you will forgive their sin, forgive it; and if not, blot me out of your book, which you have written. 33 The Lord said to Moses: If any one has sinned against me, I will blot them out of my book. 34 And now go, descend and lead this people into the place of which I spoke to you: behold, my angel shall go before your face; and in the day when I shall visit I will bring upon them their sin. 35 The Lord stroke the people for the making the calf, which Aaron made.

33:1 The Lord said to Moses: Go forward, go up hence, you and your people, whom you brought out of the land of Egypt, into the land which I swore to Abra'am and Isaac and Jacob, saying: I will give it to your seed. 2 I will send at the same time my angel before your face, He shall cast out the Amorite and the Chettite and the Pherezite and Gergesite and Evite and Jebusite and C'anaanite. 3 I will bring you into a land flowing with milk and honey; for I will not go up with you, because you are a stiff-necked people, for fear that I consume you by the way. 4 The people having heard this grievous saying: mourned in mourning apparel. 5 For the Lord said to the children of Israel, you are a stiff-necked people; take heed for fear that I bring on you another plague and destroy you: now then put off your glorious apparel and your ornaments and I will show you what I will do to you. 6 So the sons of Israel took off their ornaments and their array at the mount of Choreb. 7 Moses took his tabernacle and pitched it without the camp, at a distance from the camp; and it was called the Tabernacle of Testimony: and it came to pass that every one that sought the Lord went forth to the tabernacle which was without the camp. 8 Whenever Moses went into the tabernacle without the camp, all the people stood every one watching by the doors of his tent; and when Moses departed, they took notice until he entered into the tabernacle. 9 When Moses entered into the tabernacle, the pillar of the cloud descended and stood at the door of the tabernacle and God talked to Moses. 10 All the people saw the pillar of the cloud standing by the door of the tabernacle and all the people stood and worshiped every one at the door of his tent. 11 The Lord spoke to Moses face to face, as if one should speak to his friend; He retired into the camp: but his servant Joshua the son of Naue, a young man, departed not forth from the tabernacle.

12 Moses said to the Lord, Behold! you say to me, Lead on this people; but you have not showed me whom you will send with me, but you have said to me: I do you know above all and you have favor with me. 13 If then I have found favor in your sight, reveal yourself to me, that I may evidently see you; that I may find favor in your sight and that I may know that this great nation is your people. 14 He says, I myself will go before you and give you rest. 15 He says to him, If you go not up with us yourself, bring me not up hence. 16 And how shall it be surely known, that both I and this people have found favor with you, except only if you go with us? So both I and your people shall be glorified beyond all the nations, as many as are upon the earth. 17 The Lord said to Moses: I will also do for you this thing, which you have spoken; for you have found grace before me and I do you know above all. 18 Moses says, Manifest yourself to me. 19 And God said: I will pass by before you with my glory and I will proclaim the name of the Lord¹ before you; and I will have mercy on whom I will have mercy and will have pity on whom I will have pity. 20 And God said: You shall not be able to see my face; for no man shall see my face and live. 21 The Lord said: Behold, there is a place by me: you shall stand upon the rock; 22 and when my glory shall pass by, then I will put you into a hole of the rock; and I will cover you over with my hand, until I shall have passed by. 23 I will remove my hand and then shall you see my back parts; but my face shall not appear to you.

34:1 The Lord said to Moses: Hew for yourself two tables of stone, as also the first were and come up to me to the mountain; and I will write upon the tables the words, which were on the first tables, which you brokest. 2 And be ready by the morning and you shall go up to the mount Sinai and shall stand there for me on the top of the mountain. 3 Let no one go up with you, nor be seen in all the mountain; Let not the sheep and oxen feed near that mountain. 4 Moses hewed two tables of stone, as also the first were; and Moses having arisen early, went up to the mount Sinai, as the Lord appointed him; and Moses took the two tables of stone. 5 The Lord descended in a cloud and stood near him there and called by the name of the Lord. 6 The Lord passed by before his face and proclaimed, The Lord God, compassionate and merciful, longsuffering and very compassionate and true, 7 and keeping justice and mercy for thousands, taking away iniquity and unrighteousness and sins; He will not clear the guilty; bringing the iniquity of the fathers upon the children and to the children's children, to the third and fourth generation. 8 Moses hastened and bowed to the earth and worshiped; 9 and said: If I have found grace before you, let my Lord go with us; for the people is stiff-necked: and you shall take away our sins and our iniquities and we will be yours.

10 The Lord said to Moses: Behold, I establish a covenant for you in the presence of all your people; I will do glorious things, which have not been done in all the earth, or in any nation; and all the people among whom you are shall see the works of the Lord, that they are wonderful, which I will do for you. 11 Do you take heed to all things whatsoever I command you: behold, I cast out before your face the Amorite and the C'anaanite and the Pherezite and the Chettite and Evite and Gergesite and Jebusite: 12 take heed to yourself, for fear that at any time you make a covenant with the dwellers on the land, into which you are entering, for fear that it be to you a stumbling-block among you. 13 You shall destroy their altars and break in pieces their pillars and you shall cut down their groves and the graven images of their gods you shall burn with fire. 14 For you shall not worship strange gods, for the Lord God, a jealous name, is a jealous God; 15 for fear that at any time you make a covenant with the dwellers on the land and they go a whoring after their gods and sacrifice to their gods and they call you and you should eat of their feasts, 16 and you should take of their daughters to your sons and you should give of your daughters to their sons; and your daughters should go a whoring after their gods and your sons should go a whoring after their gods. 17 You shall not make to yourself molten gods. 18 You shall keep the feast of unleavened bread: seven days shall you eat unleavened bread, as I have charged you, at the season in the month of new corn; for in the month of new corn you came out from Egypt. 19 The males are mine, everything that opens the womb; every first-born of oxen and every first-born of sheep. 20 The first-born of an ass you shall redeem with a sheep and if you will not redeem it you shall pay a price: every first-born of your sons shall you redeem: you shall not appear before me empty.

21 Six days you shall work, but on the seventh day you shall rest: there shall be rest in seed-time and harvest. 22 You shall keep to me the feast of weeks, the beginning of wheat-harvest; and the feast of ingathering in the middle of the year. 23 Three times in the year shall every male of your appear before the Lord the God of Israel. 24 For when I shall have cast out the nations before your face and shall have enlarged your coasts, no one shall desire your land, whenever you may go up to appear before the Lord your God, three times in the year. 25 You shall not offer the blood of my sacrifices with leaven, neither shall the sacrifices of the feast of the Passover remain till the morning. 26 The first-fruits of your land shall you put into the house of the Lord your God: you shall not boil a lamb in his mother's milk. 27 The Lord said to Moses: Write these words for yourself, for on these words I have established a covenant with you and with Israel. 28 Moses was there before the Lord forty days and forty nights; he did not eat bread, He did not drink water; He wrote upon the tables these words of the covenant, the ten sayings.

29 When Moses went down from the mountain, there were the two tables in the hands of Moses, —as then he went down from the mountain, Moses knew not that the appearance of the skin of his face was glorified when God spoke to him. 30 And Aaron and all the elders of Israel saw Moses and the appearance of the skin of his face was made glorious and they feared to approach him. 31 Moses called them and Aaron and all the rulers of the synagogue turned towards him and Moses spoke to them.

32 And afterwards all the children of Israel came to him, He commanded them all things, whatsoever the Lord had commanded him in the mount of Sinai. 33 When he ceased speaking to them, he put a veil on his face. 34 Whenever Moses went in before the Lord to speak to him, he took off the veil till he went out, He went forth and spoke to all the children of Israel whatsoever the Lord commanded him.

35 The children of Israel saw the face of Moses, that it was glorified; and Moses put the veil over his face, till he went in to speak with him.

35:1 Moses gathered all the congregation of the children of Israel together and said: These are the words which the Lord has spoken for you to do them. 2 Six days shall you perform works, but on the seventh day shall be rest—a holy Sabbath—a rest for the Lord: every one that does work on it, let him die. 3 You shall not burn a fire in any of your dwellings on the Sabbath-day; I am the Lord. 4 Moses spoke to all the congregation of the children of Israel, saying: This is the thing which the Lord has appointed you, saying: 5 Take of yourselves an offering for the Lord: every one that engages in his heart shall bring the first-fruits to the Lord; gold, silver, brass, 6 blue, purple, double scarlet spun and fine linen spun and goats' hair, 7 and rams' skins dyed red and skins dyed blue and incorruptible wood, 8 and sardine stones and stones for engraving for the shoulder-piece and full-length robe. 9 And every man that is wise in heart among you, let him come and work all things whatsoever the Lord has commanded. 10 The tabernacle and the cords and the coverings and the rings and the bars and the posts, 11 and the ark of the testimony and its staves and its propitiatory and the veil, 12 and the curtains of the court and its posts, 13 and the emerald stones, 14 and the incense and the anointing oil, 15 and the table and all its furniture, 16 and the candle-stick for the light and all its furniture, 17 and the altar and all its furniture; 18 and the holy garments of Aaron the priest and the garments in which they shall do service; 19 and the garments of priesthood for the sons of Aaron and the anointing oil and the compound incense.

They brought, they whose heart prompted them and they to whoever it seemed good in their mind, each and offering: 21 and they brought an offering to the Lord for all the works of the tabernacle of witness and all its services and for all the robes of the sanctuary. 22 The men, even every one to whom it seemed good in his heart, brought from the women, even brought seals and ear-rings and finger-rings and necklaces and bracelets, every article of gold. 23 All as many as brought ornaments of gold to the Lord and with whoever fine linen was found; and they brought skins dyed blue and rams' skins dyed red. 24 And every one that offered an offering brought silver and brass, the offerings to the Lord; and they with whom was found incorruptible wood; and they brought offerings for all the works of the preparation. 25 And every woman skilled in her heart to spin with her hands, brought spun articles, the blue and purple and scarlet and fine linen. 26 All the women to whom it seemed good in their heart in their wisdom, spun the goats' hair. 27 The rulers brought the emerald stones and the stones for setting in the ephod and the oracle, 28 and the compounds both for the anointing oil and the composition of the incense. 29 And every man and woman whose mind inclined them to come in and do all the works as many as the Lord appointed them to do by Moses—they the children of Israel brought an offering to the Lord. 30 Moses said to the children of Israel, Behold, God has called by name Beseleel the son of Urias the son of Or, of the tribe of Juda, 31 and has filled him with a divine spirit of wisdom and understanding and knowledge of all things, 32 to labor skillfully in all works of cunning workmanship, to form the gold and the silver and the brass, 33 and to work in stone and to fashion the wood and to work in every work of wisdom. 34 And God gave improvement in understanding both to him and to Eliab the son of Achisamach of the tribe of Dan. 35 And God filled them with wisdom, understanding and perception, to understand to work all the works of the sanctuary and to weave the woven and embroidered work with scarlet and fine linen, to do all work of curious workmanship and embroidery.

36:1 And Beseleel accomplished and Eliab and every one wise in understanding, to whom was given wisdom and knowledge, to understand to do all the works according to the holy offices, according to all things which the Lord appointed. 2 Moses called Beseleel and Eliab and all that had wisdom, to whom God gave knowledge in their heart and all who were freely willing to come forward to the works, to perform them. 3 They received from Moses all the offerings, which the children of Israel brought for all the works of the sanctuary to do them; and they continued to receive the gifts brought, from those who brought them in the morning. 4 And there came all the wise men who accomplished the works of the sanctuary, each according to his own work, which they accomplished. 5 And one said to Moses: The people bring an abundance too great in proportion to all the works which the Lord has appointed them to do. 6 Moses commanded and proclaimed in the camp, saying: Let neither man nor woman any longer labor for the offerings of the sanctuary; and the people were restrained from bringing any more. 7 They had materials sufficient for making the furniture and they left some besides. 8 And every wise one among those who accomplished made the robes of the holy places, which belong to Aaron the priest, as the Lord commanded Moses. 9 He made the ephod of gold and blue and purple and spun scarlet and fine linen twined. 10 The plates were divided, the threads of gold, so as to interweave with the blue and purple and with the spun scarlet and the fine linen twined, they made it a woven work; 11 shoulder-pieces joined from both sides, a work woven by mutual twisting of the parts into one another. 12 They made it of the same material according to the making of it, of gold and blue and purple and spun scarlet and fine linen twined, as the Lord commanded Moses; 13 and they made the two emerald stones clasped together and set in gold, graven and cut after the cutting of a seal with the names of the children of Israel; 14 He put them on the shoulder-pieces of the ephod, as stones of memorial of the children of Israel, as the Lord appointed Moses.

15 They made the oracle, a work woven with embroidery, according to the work of the ephod, of gold and blue and purple and spun scarlet and fine linen twined. 16 They made the oracle square and double, the length of a span and the breadth of a span, —double. 17 And there was interwoven with it a woven work of four rows of stones, a series of stones, the first row, a sardius and topaz and emerald; 18 and the second row, a carbuncle and sapphire and jasper; 19 and the third row, a ligure and agate and amethyst; 20 and the fourth row a chrysolite and beryl and onyx set around with gold and fastened with gold. 21 The stones were twelve according to the names of the children of Israel, graven according to their names like seals, each according to his own name for the twelve tribes. 22 They made on the oracle turned wreaths, wreathen work, of pure gold, 23 and they made two golden circlets and two golden rings. 24 They put the two golden rings on both the upper corners of the oracle; 25 and they put the golden wreaths on the rings on both sides of the oracle and the two wreaths into the two couplings. 26 They put them on the two circlets and they put them on the shoulders of the ephod opposite each other in front. 27 They made two golden rings and put them on the two projections on the top of the oracle and on the top of the hinder part of the ephod within. 28 They made two golden rings and put them on both the shoulders of the ephod under it, in front by the coupling above the connexion of the ephod. 29 He fastened the oracle by the rings that were on it to the rings of the ephod, which were fastened with a string of blue, joined together with the woven work of the ephod; that the oracle should not be loosed from the ephod, as the Lord commanded Moses. 30 They made the tunic under the ephod, woven work, all of blue. 31 The opening of the tunic in the midst woven closely together, the opening having a fringe round about, that it might not be rent. 32 They made on the border of the tunic below pomegranates as of a flowering pomegranate tree, of blue and purple and spun scarlet and fine linen twined. 33 They made golden bells and put the bells on the border of the tunic around between the pomegranates: 34 a golden bell and a pomegranate on the border of the tunic round about, for the ministration, as the Lord commanded Moses. 35 They made vestments of fine linen, a woven work, for Aaron and his sons, 36 and the tires of fine linen and the mitre of fine linen and the drawers of fine linen twined; 37 and their girdles of fine linen and blue and purple and scarlet spun, the work of an embroiderer, according as the Lord commanded Moses. 38 They made the golden plate, a dedicated thing of the sanctuary, of pure gold; 39 He wrote upon it graven letters as of a seal, Holiness to the Lord. 40 They put it on the border of blue, so that it should be on the mitre above, as the Lord commanded Moses.

37:1 They made ten curtains for the tabernacle; 2 of eight and twenty cubits the length of one curtain: the same measure was to all and the breadth of one curtain was of four cubits. 3 They made the veil of blue and purple and spun scarlet and fine linen twined, the woven work with cherubim. 4 They put it on four posts of incorruptible wood overlaid with gold; and their chapters were gold and their four sockets were silver. 5 They made the veil of the door of the tabernacle of witness of blue and purple and spun scarlet and fine linen twined, woven work with cherubim, 6 and their posts five and the rings; and they gilded their chapters and their clasps with gold and they had five sockets of brass.

7 They made the court toward the south; the curtains of the court of fine linen twined, a hundred cubits every way, 8 and their posts twenty and their sockets twenty; 9 and on the north side a hundred every way and on the south side a hundred every way and their posts twenty and their sockets twenty. 10 And on the west side curtains of fifty cubits, their posts ten and their sockets ten. 11 And on the east side curtains of fifty cubits of fifteen cubits behind, 12 and their pillars three and their sockets three. 13 And at the second back on this side and on that by the gate of the court, curtains of fifteen cubits, their pillars three and their sockets three; 14 all the curtains of the tabernacle of fine linen twined. 15 The sockets of their pillars of brass and their hooks of silver and their chapters overlaid with silver and all the posts of the court overlaid with silver: 16 and the veil of the gate of the court, the work of an embroiderer of blue and purple and spun scarlet and fine linen twined; the length of twenty cubits and the height and the breadth of five cubits, made equal to the curtains of the court; 17 and their pillars four and their sockets four of brass and their hooks of silver and their chapters overlaid with silver. 18 All the pins of the court around of brass and they were overlaid with silver. 19 And this was the construction of the tabernacle of witness, accordingly as it was appointed to Moses; so that the public service should belong to the Levites, through Ithamar the son of Aaron the priest.

20 And Beseleel the son of Urias of the tribe of Juda, did as the Lord commanded Moses. And Eliab the son of Achisamach of the tribe of Dan was there, who was chief artificer in the woven works and needle-works and embroideries, in weaving with the scarlet and fine linen.

38:1 And Beseleel made the ark, 2 and overlaid it with pure gold within and without; 3 He cast for it four golden rings, two on the one side and two on the other, 4 wide enough for the staves, so that men should bear the ark with them. 5 He made the propitiatory over the ark of pure gold, 6 and the two cherubim of gold; 7 one cherub on the one end of the propitiatory and another cherub on the other end of the propitiatory, 8 overshadowing the propitiatory with their wings. 9 He made the set table of pure gold, 10 and cast for it four rings: two on the one side and two on the other side, broad, so that men should lift it with the staves in them. 11 He made the staves of the ark and of the table and gilded them with gold. 12 He made the furniture of the table, both the dishes and the censers and the cups and the bowls with which he should offer drink-offerings, of gold. 13 He made the candlestick which gives light, of gold; 14 the stem solid and the branches from both its sides; 15 and blossoms proceeding from its branches, three on this side and three on the other, made equal to each other. 16 And as to their lamps, which are on the ends, knops proceeded from them; and sockets proceeding from them, that the lamps might be upon them; and the seventh socket, on the top of the candlestick, on the summit above, entirely of solid gold. 17 And on the candlestick seven golden lamps and its snuffers gold and its funnels gold. 18 He overlaid the posts with silver and cast for each post golden rings and gilded the bars with gold; He gilded the posts of the veil with gold and made the hooks of gold. 19 He made also the rings of the tabernacle of gold; and the rings of the court and the rings for drawing out the veil above of brass. 20 He cast the silver chapters of the tabernacle and the brazen chapters of the door of the tabernacle and the gate of the court; He made silver hooks for the posts, he overlaid them with silver on the posts. 21 He made the pins of the tabernacle and the pins of the court of brass. 22 He made the brazen altar of the brazen censers, which belonged to the men engaged in sedition with the gathering of Core. 23 He made all the vessels of the altar and its grate and its base and its bowls and the brazen flesh-hooks. 24 He made an appendage for the altar of network under the grate, beneath it as far as the middle of it; He fastened to it four brazen rings on the four parts of the appendage of the altar, wide enough for the bars, so as to bear the altar with them. 25 He made the holy anointing oil and the composition of the incense, the pure work of the perfumer. 26 He made the brazen laver and the brazen base of it of the mirrors of the women that fasted, who fasted by the doors of the tabernacle of witness, in the day in which he set it up.

27 He made the laver, that at it Moses and Aaron and his sons might wash their hands and their feet: when they went into the tabernacle of witness, or whenever they should advance to the altar to do service, they washed at it, as the Lord commanded Moses.

39:1 All the gold that was employed for the works according to all the fabrication of the holy things, was of the gold of the offerings, twenty-nine talents and seven hundred and twenty shekels according to the holy shekel. 2 The offering of silver from the men that were numbered of the congregation a hundred talents and a thousand seven hundred and seventy-five shekels, one drachm apiece, even the half shekel, according to the holy shekel. 3 Every one that passed the survey from twenty years old and upwards to the number of six hundred thousand and three thousand five hundred and fifty. 4 The hundred talents of silver went to the casting of the hundred chapters of the tabernacle and to the chapters of the veil; 5 a hundred chapters to the hundred talents, a talent to a chapter. 6 The thousand seven hundred and seventy-five shekels he formed into hooks for the pillars, He gilt their chapters and adorned them.

7 The brass of the offering was seventy talents and a thousand five hundred shekels; 8 and they made of it the bases of the door of the tabernacle of witness, 9 and the bases of the court around and the bases of the gate of the court and the pins of the tabernacle and the pins of the court round about; 10 and the brazen appendage of the altar and all the vessels of the altar and all the instruments of the tabernacle of witness. 11 The children of Israel did as the Lord commanded Moses, so did they. 12 And of the gold that remained of the offering they made vessels to minister with before the Lord. 13 The blue that was left and the purple and the scarlet they made into garments of ministry for Aaron, so that he should minister with them in the sanctuary; 14 and they brought the garments to Moses and the tabernacle and its furniture, its bases and its bars and the posts; 15 and the ark of the covenant and its bearers and the altar and all its furniture.

16 They made the anointing oil and the incense of composition and the pure candlestick, 17 and its lamps, lamps for burning and oil for the light, 18 and the table of showbread and all its furniture and the showbread upon it, 19 and the garments of the sanctuary which belong to Aaron and the garments of his sons, for the priestly ministry; 20 and the curtains of the court and the posts and the veil of the door of the tabernacle and the gate of the court, 21 and all the vessels of the tabernacle and all its instruments: and the skins, even rams' skins dyed red and the blue coverings and the coverings of the other things and the pins and all the instruments for the works of the tabernacle of witness. 22 Whatsoever things the Lord appointed Moses, so did the children of Israel make all the furniture. 23 Moses saw all the works; and they had done them all as the Lord commanded Moses, so had they made them; and Moses blessed them.

40:1 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 2 On the first day of the first month, at the new moon, you shall set up the tabernacle of witness, 3 and you shall place in it the ark of the testimony and shall cover the ark with the veil, 4 and you shall bring in the table and shall set forth that which is to be set forth on it; and you shall bring in the candlestick and place its lamps on it. 5 You shall place the golden altar, to burn incense before the ark; and you shall put a covering of a veil on the door of the tabernacle of witness. 6 You shall put the altar of burnt-offerings by the doors of the tabernacle of witness and you shall set up the tabernacle around and you shall hallow all that belongs to it round about. 7 8 9 You shall take the anointing oil and shall anoint the tabernacle and all things in it; and shall sanctify it and all its furniture and it shall be holy. 10 You shall anoint the altar of burnt-offerings and all its furniture; and you shall hallow the altar and the altar shall be most holy. 11 12 You shall bring Aaron and his sons to the doors of the tabernacle of witness and you shall wash them with water. 13 You shall put on Aaron the holy garments and you shall anoint him and you shall sanctify him, He shall minister to me as priest. 14 You shall bring up his sons and shall put garments on them. 15 You shall anoint them as you did anoint their father and they shall minister to me as priests; and it shall be that they shall have an everlasting anointing of priesthood, throughout their generations. 16 Moses did all things whatsoever the Lord commanded him, so did he.

17 It came to pass in the first month, in the second year after their going forth out of Egypt, at the new moon, that the tabernacle was set up. 18 Moses set up the tabernacle and put on the chapters and put the bars into their places and set up the posts. 19 He stretched out the curtains over the tabernacle and put the veil of the tabernacle on it above as the Lord commanded Moses. 20 He took the testimonies and put them into the ark; He put the staves by the sides of the ark. 21 He brought the ark into the tabernacle and put on it the covering of the veil and covered the ark of the testimony, as the Lord commanded Moses. 22 He put the table in the tabernacle of witness, on the north side without the veil of the tabernacle. 23 He put on it the showbread before the Lord, as the Lord commanded Moses. 24 He put the candlestick into the tabernacle of witness, on the side of the tabernacle toward the south. 25 He put on it its lamps before the Lord, as the Lord had commanded Moses. 26 He put the golden altar in the tabernacle of witness before the veil; 27 He burnt on it incense of composition, as the Lord commanded Moses. 28 29 He put the altar of the burnt-offerings by the doors of the tabernacle. 31 32 33 He set up the court around the tabernacle and the altar; and Moses accomplished all the works.

34 The cloud covered the tabernacle of witness and the tabernacle was filled with the glory of the Lord. 35 Moses was not able to enter into the tabernacle of testimony, because the cloud overshadowed¹ it and the tabernacle was filled with the glory of the Lord. 36 When the cloud went up from the tabernacle, the children of Israel prepared to depart with their baggage. 37 If the cloud went not up, they did not prepare to depart, till the day when the cloud went up. 38 For a cloud was on the tabernacle by day and fire was on it by night before all Israel, in all their journeyings.

(ΛΕΥΙΤΙΚΟΝ)

1:1 The Lord called Moses again and spoke to him out of the tabernacle of witness, saying: Speak to the children of Israel and you shall say to them, 2 If any man of you shall bring gifts to the Lord, you shall bring your gifts of the cattle and of the oxen and of the sheep. 3 If his gift be a whole-burnt-offering, he shall bring an unblemished male of the herd to the door of the tabernacle of witness, he shall bring it as acceptable before the Lord. 4 He shall lay his hand on the head of the burnt-offering as a thing acceptable for him, to make atonement for him. 5 They shall kill the calf before the Lord; and the sons of Aaron the priests shall bring the blood and they shall pour the blood around on the altar, which is at the doors of the tabernacle of witness. 6 And having flayed the whole burnt-offering, they shall divide it by its limbs. 7 The sons of Aaron the priests shall put fire on the altar and shall pile wood on the fire. 8 The sons of Aaron the priests shall pile up the divided parts and the head and the fat on the wood on the fire, the wood which is on the altar. 9 The entrails and the feet they shall wash in water and the priests shall put all on the altar: it is a burnt-offering, a sacrifice, a smell of sweet savor to the Lord. 10 If his gift be of the sheep to the Lord, or of the lambs, or of the kids for whole-burnt-offerings, he shall bring it a male without blemish. 11 He shall lay his hand on its head; and they shall kill it by the side of the altar, toward the north before the Lord and the sons of Aaron the priests shall pour its blood on the altar round about. 12 They shall divide it by its limbs and its head and its fat and the priests shall pile them up on the wood which is on the fire, on the altar. 13 They shall wash the entrails and the feet with water and the priest shall bring all the parts and put them on the altar: it is a burnt-offering, a sacrifice, a smell of sweet savor to the Lord. 14 If he bring his gift, a burnt-offering to the Lord, of birds, then shall he bring his gift of doves or pigeons. 15 The priest shall bring it to the altar and shall wring off its head; and the priest shall put it on the altar and shall wring out the blood at the bottom of the altar. 16 He shall take away the crop with the feathers and shall cast it forth by the altar toward the east to the place of the ashes. 17 He shall break it off from the wings and shall not separate it and the priest shall put it on the altar on the wood which is on the fire: it is a burnt-offering, a sacrifice, a sweet-smelling savor to the Lord.

2:1 If a soul bring a gift, a sacrifice to the Lord, his gift shall be fine flour; He shall pour oil upon it and shall put frankincense on it: it is a sacrifice. 2 He shall bring it to the priests the sons of Aaron: and having taken from it a handful of the fine flour with the oil and all its frankincense, then the priest shall put the memorial of it on the altar: it is a sacrifice, an odour of sweet savor to the Lord. 3 The remainder of the sacrifice shall be for Aaron and his sons, a most holy portion from the sacrifices of the Lord. 4 If he bring as a gift a sacrifice baked from the oven, a gift to the Lord of fine flour, he shall bring unleavened bread kneaded with oil and unleavened cakes anointed with oil. 5 If your gift be a sacrifice from a pan, it is fine flour mingled with oil, unleavened offerings. 6 You shall break them into fragments and pour oil upon them: it is a sacrifice to the Lord. 7 If your gift be a sacrifice from the hearth, it shall be made of fine flour with oil. 8 He shall offer the sacrifice which he shall make of these to the Lord and shall bring it to the priest. 9 The priest shall approach the altar and shall take away from the sacrifice a memorial of it and the priest shall place it on the altar: a burnt offering, a smell of sweet savor to the Lord. 10 And that which is left of the sacrifice shall be for Aaron and his sons, most holy from the burnt-offerings of the Lord. 11 You shall not leaven any sacrifice which you shall bring to the Lord; for as to any leaven, or any honey, you shall not bring of it to offer a gift to the Lord. 12 You shall bring them in the way of fruits to the Lord, but they shall not be offered on the altar for a sweet-smelling savor to the Lord. 13 And every gift of your sacrifice shall be seasoned with salt; omit not the salt of the covenant of the Lord from your sacrifices: on every gift of yours you shall offer salt to the Lord your God. 14 If you would offer a sacrifice of first-fruits to the Lord, it shall be new grains ground and roasted for the Lord; so shall you bring the sacrifice of the first-fruits. 15 You shall pour oil upon it and shall put frankincense on it: it is a sacrifice. 16 The priest shall offer the memorial of it taken from the grains with the oil and all its frankincense: it is a burnt-offering to the Lord.

3:1 If his gift to the Lord be a peace-offering, if he should bring it of the oxen, whether it be male or whether it be female, he shall bring it unblemished before the Lord. 2 He shall lay his hands on the head of the gift and shall kill it before the Lord, by the doors of the tabernacle of witness. The priests the sons of Aaron shall pour the blood on the altar of burnt-offerings round about. 3 They shall bring of the peace-offering a burnt-sacrifice to the Lord, the fat covering the belly and all the fat on the belly. 4 The two kidneys and the fat that is upon them; he shall take away that which is on the thighs and the caul above the liver together with the kidneys. 5 The priests the sons of Aaron shall offer them on the altar on the burnt-offering, on the wood which is on the fire upon the altar: it is a burnt-offering, a smell of sweet savor to the Lord. 6 If his gift be of the sheep, a peace-offering to the Lord, male or female, he shall bring it unblemished. 7 If he bring a lamb for his gift, he shall bring it before the Lord. 8 He shall lay his hands on the head of his offering and shall kill it by the doors of the tabernacle of witness; and the priests the sons of Aaron shall pour out the blood on the altar round about. 9 He shall bring of the peace-offering a burnt-sacrifice to the Lord: the fat and the hinder part unblemished he shall take away with the loins and having taken away all the fat that covers the belly and all the fat that is on the belly, 10 and both the kidneys and the fat that is upon them and that which is on the thighs and the caul which is on the liver with the kidneys, 11 the priest shall offer these on the altar: it is a sacrifice of sweet savour, a burnt-offering to the Lord.

12 If his offering be of the goats, then shall he bring it before the Lord. 13 He shall lay his hands on its head; and they shall kill it before the Lord by the doors of the tabernacle of witness; and the priests the sons of Aaron shall pour out the blood on the altar round about. 14 He shall offer of it a burnt-offering to the Lord, even the fat that covers the belly and all the fat that is on the belly. 15 And both the kidneys and all the fat that is upon them, that which is upon the thighs and the caul of the liver with the kidneys, shall he take away. 16 The priest shall offer it upon the altar: it is a burnt-offering, a smell of sweet savor to the Lord. All the fat belongs to the Lord. 17 It is a perpetual statute throughout your generations, in all your habitations; you shall eat no fat and no blood.

4:1 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 2 Speak to the children of Israel, saying: If a soul shall sin unwillingly before the Lord, in any of the commandments of the Lord concerning things which he ought not to do and shall do some of them; 3 if the anointed priest sin so as to cause the people to sin, then shall he bring for his sin, which he has sinned, an unblemished calf of the herd to the Lord for his sin. 4 He shall bring the calf to the door of the tabernacle of witness before the Lord, He shall put his hand on the head of the calf before the Lord and shall kill the calf in the presence of the Lord. 5 The anointed priest who has been consecrated having received of the blood of the calf, shall then bring it into the tabernacle of witness. 6 The priest shall dip his finger into the blood and sprinkle of the blood seven times before the Lord, over against the holy veil. 7 The priest shall put of the blood of the calf on the horns of the altar of the compound incense which is before the Lord, which is in the tabernacle of witness; and all the blood of the calf shall he pour out by the foot of the altar of whole-burnt-offerings, which is by the doors of the tabernacle of witness. 8 All the fat of the calf of the sin-offering shall he take off from it; the fat that covers the inwards and all the fat that is on the inwards, 9 and the two kidneys and the fat that is upon them, which is on the thighs and the caul that is on the liver with the kidneys, them shall he take away, 10 as he takes it away from the calf of the sacrifice of peace-offering, so shall the priest offer it on the altar of burnt-offering. 11 They shall take the skin of the calf and all his flesh with the head and the extremities and the belly and the dung, 12 and they shall carry out the whole calf out of the camp into a clean place, where they pour out the ashes and they shall consume it there on wood with fire: it shall be burnt on the ashes poured out.

13 If the whole congregation of Israel trespass ignorantly and a thing should escape the notice of the congregation and they should do one thing forbidden of any of the commands of the Lord, which ought not to be done and should transgress:

14 and the sin by which they have sinned should become known to them, then shall the congregation bring an unblemished calf of the herd for a sin-offering and they shall bring it to the doors of the tabernacle of witness. 15 The elders of the congregation shall lay their hands on the head of the calf before the Lord and they shall kill the calf before the Lord. 16 The anointed priest shall bring in of the blood of the calf into the tabernacle of witness. 17 The priest shall dip his finger into some of the blood of the calf and shall sprinkle it seven times before the Lord, in front of the veil of the sanctuary. 18 The priest shall put some of the blood on the horns of the altar of the incense of composition, which is before the Lord, which is in the tabernacle of witness; He shall pour out all the blood at the bottom of the altar of whole-burnt-offerings, which is by the door of the tabernacle of witness. 19 He shall take away all the fat from it and shall offer it up on the altar. 20 He shall do to the calf as he did to the calf of the sin-offering, so shall it be done; and the priest shall make atonement for them and the trespass shall be forgiven them. 21 They shall carry forth the calf whole without the camp and they shall burn the calf as they burnt the former calf: it is the sin-offering of the congregation.

22 If a ruler sin and break one of all the commands of the Lord his God, doing the thing which ought not to be done, unwillingly and shall sin and trespass, 23 and his trespass by which he has sinned, be known to him, —then shall he offer for his gift a kid of the goats, a male without blemish. 24 He shall lay his hand on the head of the kid and they shall kill it in the place where they kill the victims for whole-burnt-offerings before the Lord; it is a sin-offering. 25 The priest shall put some of the blood of the sin-offering with his finger on the horns of the altar of whole-burnt-offering; He shall pour out all its blood by the bottom of the altar of whole-burnt-offerings. 26 He shall offer up all his fat on the altar, as the fat of the sacrifice of peace-offering; and the priest shall make atonement for him concerning his sin and it shall be forgiven him.

27 If a soul of the people of the land should sin unwillingly, in doing a thing contrary to any of the commandments of the Lord, which ought not to be done and shall transgress, 28 and his sin should be known to him, by which he has sinned, then shall he bring a kid of the goats, a female without blemish shall he bring for his sin, which he has sinned. 29 He shall lay his hand on the head of his sin-offering and they shall kill the kid of the sin-offering in the place where they kill the victims for whole-burnt-offerings. 30 The priest shall take of its blood with his finger and shall put it on the horns of the altar of whole-burnt-offerings; and all its blood he shall pour forth by the foot of the altar. 31 He shall take away all the fat, as the fat is taken away from the sacrifice of peace-offering and the priest shall offer it on the altar for a smell of sweet savor to the Lord; and the priest shall make atonement for him and his sin shall be forgiven him.

32 If he should offer a lamb for his sin-offering, he shall offer it a female without blemish. 33 He shall lay his hand on the head of the sin-offerings and they shall kill it in the place where they kill the victims for whole-burnt-offerings. 34 The priest shall take of the blood of the sin-offering with his finger and shall put it on the horns of the altar of whole-burnt-offerings, He shall pour out all its blood by the bottom of the altar of whole-burnt-offering. 35 He shall take away all his fat, as the fat of the lamb of the sacrifice of peace-offering is taken away and the priest shall put it on the altar for a whole-burnt-offering to the Lord; and the priest shall make atonement for him for the sin which he sinned and it shall be forgiven him.

5:1 If a soul sin and hear the voice of swearing, He is a witness or has seen or been conscious, if he do not report it, he shall bear his iniquity. 2 That soul which shall touch any unclean thing, or carcass, or that which is unclean being taken of beasts, or the dead bodies of abominable reptiles which are unclean, or carcasses of unclean cattle, 3 or should touch the uncleanness of a man, or whatever kind, which he may touch and be defiled by and it should have escaped him, but afterwards he should know, —then he shall have transgressed. 4 That unrighteous soul, which determines with his lips to do evil or to do good according to whatsoever a man may determine with an oath and it shall have escaped his notice, He shall afterwards know it and so he should sin in some one of these things: 5 —then shall he declare his sin in the things by which he has sinned by that sin. 6 He shall bring for his transgressions against the Lord, for his sin which he has sinned, a ewe lamb of the flock, or a kid of the goats, for a sin-offering; and the priest shall make an atonement for him for his sin which he has sinned and his sin shall be forgiven him. 7 If he cannot afford a sheep, he shall bring for his sin which he has sinned, two turtle-doves or two young pigeons to the Lord; one for a sin-offering and the other for a burnt-offering. 8 He shall bring them to the priest and the priest shall bring the sin-offering first; and the priest shall pinch off the head from the neck and shall not divide the body. 9 He shall sprinkle of the blood of the sin-offering on the side of the altar, but the rest of the blood he shall drop at the foot of the altar, for it is a sin-offering. 10 He shall make the second a whole-burnt-offering, as it is fit; and the priest shall make atonement for his sin which he has sinned and it shall be forgiven him.

11 If he cannot afford a pair of turtle-doves, or two young pigeons, then shall he bring as his gift for his sin, the tenth part of an ephah of fine flour for a sin-offering; he shall not pour oil upon it, nor shall he put frankincense upon it, because it is a sin-offering. 12 He shall bring it to the priest; and the priest having taken a handful of it, shall lay the memorial of it on the altar of whole-burnt-offerings to the Lord; it is a sin-offering. 13 The priest shall make atonement for him for his sin, which he has sinned in one of these things and it shall be forgiven him; and that which is left shall be the priest's, as an offering of fine flour.

14 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 15 The soul which shall be really unconscious and shall sin unwillingly in any of the holy things of the Lord, shall even bring to the Lord for his transgression, a ram of the flock without blemish, valued according to shekels of silver according to the shekel of the sanctuary, for his transgression by which he transgressed. 16 He shall make compensation for that by which he has sinned in the holy things; He shall add the fifth part to it and give it to the priest; and the priest shall make atonement for him with the ram of transgression and his sin shall be forgiven him. 17 The soul which shall sin and do one thing against any of the commandments of the Lord, which it is not right to do and has not known it and shall have transgressed and shall have contracted guilt, 18 he shall even bring a ram without blemish from the flock, valued at a price of silver for his transgression to the priest; and the priest shall make atonement for his trespass of ignorance, by which he ignorantly trespassed, He knew it not; and it shall be forgiven him. 19 For he has surely been guilty of transgression before the Lord.

6:1 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 2 The soul which shall have sinned and willfully overlooked the commandments of the Lord and shall have dealt falsely in the affairs of his neighbor in the matter of a deposit, or concerning fellowship, or concerning plunder, or has in anything wronged his neighbor, 3 or has found that which was lost and shall have lied concerning it and shall have sworn unjustly concerning any one of all the things, whatsoever a man may do, so as to sin hereby; 4 it shall come to pass, whenever he shall have sinned and transgressed, that he shall restore the plunder which he has seized, or redress the injury which he has committed, or restore the deposit which was entrusted to him, or the lost article which he has found of any kind, about which he swore unjustly, he shall even restore it in full; He shall add to it a fifth part besides; he shall restore it to him whose it is in the day in which he happens to be convicted. 5 He shall bring to the Lord for his trespass, a ram of the flock, without blemish, of value to the amount of the thing in which he trespassed. 6 The priest shall make atonement for him before the Lord, He shall be forgiven for any one of all the things which he did and trespassed in it.

7 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 8 Charge Aaron and his sons, saying: 9 This is the law of whole-burnt-offering; this is the whole-burnt-offering in its burning on the altar all the night till the morning; and the fire of the altar shall burn on it, it shall not be put out. 10 The priest shall put on the linen tunic, He shall put the linen drawers on his body; and shall take away that which has been thoroughly burnt, which the fire shall have consumed, even the whole-burnt-offering from the altar, He shall put it near the altar. 11 He shall put off his robe and put on another robe, He shall take forth the offering that has been burnt without the camp into a clean place. 12 The fire on the altar shall be kept burning on it and shall not be extinguished; and the priest shall burn on it wood every morning and shall heap on it the whole-burnt-offering and shall lay on it the fat of the peace-offering. 13 The fire shall always burn on the altar; it shall not be extinguished. 14 This is the law of the sacrifice, which the sons of Aaron shall bring near before the Lord, before the altar. 15 He shall take from it a handful of the fine flour of the sacrifice with its oil and with all its frankincense, which are upon the sacrifice; He shall offer up on the altar a burnt-offering as a sweet-smelling savour, a memorial of it to the Lord. 16 And Aaron and his sons shall eat that which is left of it: it shall be eaten without leaven in a holy place, they shall eat it in the court of the tabernacle of witness. 17 It shall not be baked with leaven. I have given it as a portion to them of the burnt-offerings of the Lord: it is most holy, as the offering for sin and as the offering for trespass. 18 Every male of the priests shall eat it: it is a perpetual ordinance throughout your generations of the burnt-offerings of the Lord; whoever shall touch them shall be hallowed.

19 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 20 This is the gift of Aaron and of his sons, which they shall offer to the Lord in the day in which you shall anoint him; the tenth of an ephah of fine flour for a sacrifice continually, the half of it in the morning and the half of it in the evening. 21 It shall be made with oil in a frying-pan; he shall offer it kneaded and in rolls, an offering of fragments, an offering of a sweet savor to the Lord. 22 The anointed priest who is in his place, one of his sons, shall offer it: it is a perpetual statute, it shall all be consumed. 23 And every sacrifice of a priest shall be thoroughly burnt and shall not be eaten. 24 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 25 Speak to Aaron and to his sons, saying: This is the law of the sin-offering; —in the place where they kill the whole-burnt-offering, they shall kill the sin-offerings before the Lord: they are most holy. 26 The priest that offers it shall eat it: in a holy place it shall be eaten, in the court of the tabernacle of witness. 27 Every one that touches the flesh of it shall be holy and on whosoever garment any of its blood shall have been sprinkled, whoever shall have it sprinkled, shall be washed in the holy place. 28 The earthen vessel in which it shall have been soaked, shall be broken; and if it shall have been soaked in a brazen vessel, he shall scour it and wash it with water. 29 Every male among the priests shall eat it: it is most holy to the Lord. 30 And no offerings for sin, of whose blood there shall be brought any into the tabernacle of witness to make atonement in the holy place, shall be eaten: they shall be burned with fire.

31 And this is the law of the ram for the trespass-offering; it is most holy. 32 In the place where they kill the whole-burnt-offering, they shall kill the ram of the trespass-offering before the Lord, He shall pour out the blood at the bottom of the altar round about. 33 He shall offer all the fat from it; and the loins and all the fat that covers the inwards and all the fat that is upon the inwards, 34 and the two kidneys and the fat that is upon them, that which is upon the thighs and the caul upon the liver with the kidney, he shall take them away. 35 The priest shall offer them on the altar a burnt-offering to the Lord; it is for trespass. 36 Every male of the priest shall eat them, in the holy place they shall eat them: they are most holy. 37 As the sin-offering, so also is the trespass-offering. There is one law of them; the priest who shall make atonement with it, his it shall be. 38 And as for the priest who offers a man's whole-burnt-offering, the skin of the whole-burnt-offering which he offers, shall be his. 39 And every sacrifice which shall be prepared in the oven and every one which shall be prepared on the hearth, or on a frying-pan, it is the property of the priest that offers it; it shall be his. 40 And every sacrifice made up with oil, or not made up with oil, shall belong to the sons of Aaron, an equal portion to each.

7:1 This is the law of the sacrifice of peace-offering, which they shall bring to the Lord. 2 If a man should offer it for praise, then shall he bring, for the sacrifice of praise, loaves of fine flour made up with oil and unleavened cakes anointed with oil and fine flour kneaded with oil. 3 With leavened bread he shall offer his gifts, with the peace-offering of praise. 4 He shall bring one of all his gifts, a separate offering to the Lord: it shall belong to the priest who pours forth the blood of the peace-offering. 5 The flesh of the sacrifice of the peace-offering of praise shall be his and it shall be eaten in the day in which it is offered: they shall not leave of it till the morning. 6 If it be a vow, or he offer his gift of his own will, on whatsoever day he shall offer his sacrifice, it shall be eaten and on the morrow. 7 And that which is left of the flesh of the sacrifice till the third day, shall be consumed with fire. 8 If he do at all eat of the flesh on the third day, it shall not be accepted for him that offers: it shall not be reckoned to him, it is pollution; and whatsoever soul shall eat of it, shall bear his iniquity. 9 And whatsoever flesh shall have touched any unclean thing, it shall not be eaten, it shall be consumed with fire; every one that is clean shall eat the flesh. 10 And whatsoever soul shall eat of the flesh of the sacrifice of the peace-offering which is the Lord's and his uncleanness be upon him, that soul shall perish from his people. 11 And whatsoever soul shall touch any unclean thing, either of the uncleanness of a man, or of unclean quadrupeds, or any unclean abominable thing and shall eat of the flesh of the sacrifice of the peace-offering, which is the Lord's, that soul shall perish from his people.

12 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 13 Speak to the children of Israel, saying: you shall eat no fat of oxen or sheep or goats. 14 The fat of such animals as have died of themselves, or have been seized of beasts, may be employed for any work; but it shall not be eaten for food. 15 Every one that eats fat off the beasts, from which he will bring a burnt-offering to the Lord—that soul shall perish from his people. 16 You shall eat no blood in all your habitations, either of beasts or of birds. 17 Every soul that shall eat blood, that soul shall perish from his people.

18 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 19 You shall also speak to the children of Israel, saying: He that offers a sacrifice of peace-offering, shall bring his gift to the Lord also from the sacrifice of peace-offering. 20 His hands shall bring the burnt-offerings to the Lord; the fat which is on the breast and the lobe of the liver, he shall bring them, so as to set them for a gift before the Lord. 21 The priest shall offer the fat upon the altar and the breast shall be Aaron's and his sons, 22 and you shall give the right shoulder for a choice piece to the priest of your sacrifices of peace-offering. 23 He that offers the blood of the peace-offering and the fat, of the sons of Aaron, his shall be the right shoulder for a portion. 24 For I have taken the wave-breast and shoulder of separation from the children of Israel from the sacrifices of your peace-offerings and I have given them to Aaron the priest and his sons, a perpetual ordinance due from the children of Israel. 25 This is the anointing of Aaron and the anointing of his sons, their portion of the burnt-offerings of the Lord, in the day in which he brought them forward to minister as priests to the Lord; 26 as the Lord commanded to give to them in the day in which he anointed them of the sons of Israel, a perpetual statute through their generations. 27 This is the law of the whole-burnt-offerings and of sacrifice and of sin-offering and of offering for transgression and of the sacrifice of consecration and of the sacrifice of peace-offering; 28 as the Lord commanded Moses in the mount Sinai, in the day in which he commanded the children of Israel to offer their gifts before the Lord in the wilderness of Sinai.

8:1 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 2 Take Aaron and his sons and his robes and the anointing oil and the calf for the sin-offering and the two rams and the basket of unleavened bread, 3 and assemble the whole congregation at the door of the tabernacle of witness. 4 Moses did as the Lord appointed him, He assembled the congregation at the door of the tabernacle of witness. 5 Moses said to the congregation, This is the thing which the Lord has commanded you to do. 6 Moses brought near Aaron and his sons and washed them with water, 7 and put on him the coat and girded him with the girdle and clothed him with the tunic and put on him the ephod; 8 and girded him with a girdle according to the make of the ephod and clasped him closely with it: and put upon it the oracle and put upon the oracle the Manifestation and the Truth. 9 He put the mitre on his head and put upon the mitre in front the golden plate, the most holy thing, as the Lord commanded Moses.

10 Moses took of the anointing oil, 11 and sprinkled of it seven times on the altar; and anointed the altar and hallowed it and all things on it and the laver and its foot and sanctified them; and anointed the tabernacle and all its furniture and hallowed it. 12 Moses poured of the anointing oil on the head of Aaron; He anointed him and sanctified him. 13 Moses brought the sons of Aaron near and put on them coat and girded them with girdles and put on them bonnets, as the Lord commanded Moses.

14 Moses brought near the calf for the sin-offering and Aaron and his sons laid their hands on the head of the calf of the sin-offering. 15 He killed it; and Moses took of the blood and put it on the horns of the altar around with his finger; He purified the altar and poured out the blood at the bottom of the altar and sanctified it, to make atonement upon it. 16 Moses took all the fat that was upon the inwards and the lobe on the liver and both the kidneys and the fat that was upon them and Moses offered them on the altar. 17 But the calf and his hide and his flesh and his dung, he burnt with fire without the camp, as the Lord commanded Moses.

18 Moses brought near the ram for a whole-burnt-offering and Aaron and his sons laid their hands on the head of the ram. Moses killed the ram: and Moses poured the blood on the altar round about. 19 He divided the ram by its limbs and Moses offered the head and the limbs and the fat; He washed the belly and the feet with water. 20 Moses offered up the whole ram on the altar: it is a whole-burnt-offering for a sweet-smelling savour; it is a burnt-offering to the Lord, as the Lord commanded Moses.

21 Moses brought the second ram, the ram of consecration and Aaron and his sons laid their hands on the head of the ram, He killed him; 22 and Moses took of his blood and put it upon the tip of Aaron's right ear and on the thumb of his right hand and on the great toe of his right foot. 23 Moses brought near the sons of Aaron; and Moses put of the blood on the tips of their right ears and on the thumbs of their right hands and on the great toes of their right feet and Moses poured out the blood on the altar round about. 24 He took the fat and the rump and the fat on the belly and the lobe of the liver and the two kidneys and the fat that is upon them and the right shoulder. 25 And from the basket of consecration, which was before the Lord, he also took one unleavened loaf and one loaf made with oil and one cake; and put them upon the fat and the right shoulder: 26 and put them all on the hands of Aaron and upon the hands of his sons and offered them up for a wave-offering before the Lord. 27 Moses took them at their hands and Moses offered them on the altar, on the whole-burnt-offering of consecration, which is a smell of sweet savour: it is a burnt-offering to the Lord. 28 Moses took the breast and separated it for a heave-offering before the Lord, from the ram of consecration; and it became Moses' portion, as the Lord commanded Moses.

29 Moses took of the anointing oil and of the blood that was on the altar and sprinkled it on Aaron and on his garments and his sons and the garments of his sons with him. 30 He sanctified Aaron and his garments and his sons and the garments of his sons with him. 31 Moses said to Aaron and to his sons, Boil the flesh in the tent of the tabernacle of witness in the holy place; and there you shall eat it and the loaves in the basket of consecration, as it has been appointed me, the Lord saying: Aaron and his sons shall eat them. 32 And that which is left of the flesh and of the loaves burn you with fire. 33 You shall not go out from the door of the tabernacle of witness for seven days, until the day be fulfilled, the day of your consecration; for in seven days shall he consecrate you, 34 as he did in this day on which the Lord commanded me to do so, to make an atonement for you. 35 You shall remain seven days at the door of the tabernacle of witness, day and night; you shall observe the ordinances of the Lord, that you die not; for so has the Lord God commanded me. 36 And Aaron and his sons performed all these commands which the Lord commanded Moses.

9:1 It came to pass on the eighth day, that Moses called Aaron and his sons and the elders of Israel, 2 and Moses said to Aaron, Take to yourself a young calf of the herd for a sin-offering and a ram for a whole-burnt-offering, unblemished and offer them before the Lord. 3 And speak to the elders of Israel, saying: Take one kid of the goats for a sin-offering and a young calf and a lamb of a year old for a whole-burnt-offering, spotless, 4 and a calf and a ram for a peace offering before the Lord and fine flour mingled with oil, for today the Lord will appear among you. 5 They took as Moses commanded them before the tabernacle of witness and all the congregation drew near and they stood before the Lord. 6 Moses said: This is the thing which the Lord has spoken; do it and the glory of the Lord shall appear among you. 7 Moses said to Aaron, Draw near to the altar and offer your sin-offering and your whole-burnt-offering and make atonement for yourself and for your house; and offer the gifts of the people and make atonement for them, as the Lord commanded Moses. 8 And Aaron drew near to the altar and killed the calf of his sin-offering. 9 The sons of Aaron brought the blood to him, He dipped his finger into the blood and put it on the horns of the altar, He poured out the blood at the bottom of the altar. 10 He offered up on the altar the fat and the kidneys and the lobe of the liver of the sin-offering, according as the Lord commanded Moses. 11 The flesh and the hide he burnt with fire outside of the camp. 12 He killed the whole-burnt-offering; and the sons of Aaron brought the blood to him, He poured it on the altar round about. 13 They brought the whole-burnt-offering, according to its pieces; them and the head he put upon the altar. 14 He washed the belly and the feet with water, He put them on the whole-burnt-offering on the altar.

15 He brought the gift of the people and took the goat of the sin-offering of the people and killed it and purified it as also the first. 16 He brought the whole-burnt-offering and offered it in due form. 17 He brought the sacrifice and filled his hands with it and laid it on the altar, besides the morning whole-burnt-offering. 18 He killed the calf and the ram of the sacrifice of peace-offering of the people; and the sons of Aaron brought the blood to him, He poured it out on the altar round about. 19 He took the fat of the calf and the hind quarters of the ram and the fat covering the belly and the two kidneys and the fat upon them and the caul on the liver. 20 He put the fat on the breasts and offered the fat on the altar. 21 And Aaron separated the breast and the right shoulder as a choice-offering before the Lord, as the Lord commanded Moses. 22 And Aaron lifted up his hands on the people and blessed them; and after he had offered the sin-offering and the whole-burnt-offerings and the peace-offerings, he came down. 23 Moses and Aaron entered into the tabernacle of witness. They came out and blessed all the people and the glory of the Lord appeared to all the people. 24 And fire came forth from the Lord and devoured the offerings on the altar, both the whole-burnt-offerings and the fat; and all the people saw and were amazed and fell upon their faces.

10:1 The two sons of Aaron, Nadab and Abiud, took each his censer and put fire to it and threw incense thereon and offered strange fire before the Lord, which the Lord did not command them, 2 and fire came forth from the Lord and devoured them and they died before the Lord. 3 Moses said to Aaron, This is the thing which the Lord spoke, saying: I will be sanctified among those who draw nigh to me and I will be glorified in the whole congregation; and Aaron was pricked in his heart. 4 Moses called Misadae and Elisaphan, sons of Oziel, sons of the brother of Aaron's father and said to them: Draw near and take your brothers from before the sanctuary out of the camp. 5 They came near and took them in their coats out of the camp, as Moses said. 6 Moses said to Aaron and Eleazar and Ithamar his sons that were left, you shall not make bare your heads and you shall not tear your garments; that you die not and so there should be wrath on all the congregation: but your brothers, even all the house of Israel, shall lament for the burning, with which they were burnt by the Lord. 7 You shall not go forth from the door of the tabernacle of witness, that you die not; for the Lord's anointing oil is upon you: and they did according to the word of Moses.

8 The Lord spoke to Aaron, saying: 9 you shall not drink wine nor strong drink, you and your sons with you, whenever you enter into the tabernacle of witness, or when you approach the altar, so shall you not die; it is a perpetual statute for your generations, 10 to distinguish between sacred and profane and between clean and unclean, 11 and to teach the children of Israel all the statutes, which the Lord spoke to them by Moses. 12 Moses said to

Aaron and to Eleazar and Ithamar, the sons of Aaron who survived, Take the sacrifice that is left of the burnt-offerings of the Lord and you shall eat unleavened bread by the altar: it is most holy. 13 You shall eat it in the holy place; for this is a statute for you and a statute for your sons, of the burnt-offerings to the Lord; for so it has been commanded me. 14 You shall eat the breast of separation and the shoulder of the choice-offering in the holy place, you and your sons and your house with you; for it has been given as an ordinance for you and an ordinance for your sons, of the sacrifices of peace-offering of the children of Israel. 15 They shall bring the shoulder of the choice-offering and the breast of the separation upon the burnt-offerings of the fat, to separate for a separation before the Lord; and it shall be a perpetual ordinance for you and your sons and your daughters with you, as the Lord commanded Moses.

16 Moses diligently sought the goat of the sin-offering, but it had been consumed by fire; and Moses was angry with Eleazar and Ithamar the sons of Aaron that were left, saying: 17 Why did you not eat the sin-offering in the holy place? For because it is most holy he has given you this to eat, that you might take away the sin of the congregation and make atonement for them before the Lord. 18 For the blood of it was not brought into the holy place: you shall eat it within, before the Lord, as the Lord commanded me. 19 And Aaron spoke to Moses, saying: If they have brought near today their sin-offerings and their whole-burnt-offerings before the Lord and these events have happened to me and yet I should eat today of the sin-offerings, would it be pleasing to the Lord? 20 Moses heard it and it pleased him.

11:1 The Lord spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying: 2 Speak you to the sons of Israel, saying: These are the beasts which you shall eat of all beasts that are upon the earth. 3 Every beast parting the hoof and making divisions of two claws and chewing the cud among beasts, these you shall eat. 4 But of these you shall not eat, of those who chew the cud and of those who part the hoofs and divide claws; the camel, because it chews the cud, but does not divide the hoof, this is unclean to you. 5 The rabbit, because it chews the cud, but does not divide the hoof, this is unclean to you. 6 The hare, because it does not chew the cud and does not divide the hoof, this is unclean to you. 7 The swine, because this animal divides the hoof and makes claws of the hoof and it does not chew the cud, is unclean to you. 8 You shall not eat of their flesh and you shall not touch their carcasses; these are unclean to you. 9 These are what you shall eat of all that are in the waters: all things that have fins and scales in the waters and in the seas and in the brooks, these you shall eat. 10 All things which have not fins or scales in the water, or in the seas and in the brooks, of all which the waters produce and of every soul living in the water, are an abomination; and they shall be abominations to you. 11 You shall not eat of their flesh and you shall abhor their carcasses. 12 All things that have not fins or scales of those who are in the waters, these are an abomination to you. 13 These are the things which you shall abhor of birds and they shall not be eaten, they are an abomination: the eagle and the ossifrage and the sea-eagle. 14 The vulture and the kite and the like to it; 15 and the sparrow and the owl and the sea-mew and the like to it: 16 and every raven and the birds like it and the hawk and his like, 17 and the night-raven and the cormorant and the stork, 18 and the red-bill and the pelican and swan, 19 and the heron and the lapwing and the like to it and the hoopoe and the bat. 20 All winged creatures that creep, which go upon four feet, are abominations to you. 21 But these you shall eat of the creeping winged animals, which go upon four feet, which have legs above their feet, to leap with on the earth. 22 These of them you shall eat: the caterpillar and his like and the attacus and his like and the cantharus and his like and the locust and his like. 23 Every creeping thing from among the birds, which has four feet, is an abomination to you. 24 And by these you shall be defiled; every one that touches their carcasses shall be unclean till the evening. 25 And every one that takes of their dead bodies shall wash his garments and shall be unclean till the evening. 26 And whichever among the beasts divides the hoof and makes claws and does not chew the cud, shall be unclean to you; every one that touches their dead bodies shall be unclean till evening. 27 And every one among all the wild beasts that moves upon its fore feet, which goes on all four, is unclean to you; every one that touches their dead bodies shall be unclean till evening. 28 He that takes of their dead bodies shall wash his garments and shall be unclean till evening: these are unclean to you.

29 These are unclean to you of reptiles upon the earth, the weasel and the mouse and the lizard, 30 the ferret and the chameleon and the evet and the newt and the mole. 31 These are unclean to you of all the reptiles which are on the earth; every one who touches their carcasses shall be unclean till evening. 32 And on whatsoever one of their dead bodies shall fall it shall be unclean; whatever wooden vessel, or garment, or skin, or sack it may be, every vessel in which work should be done, shall be dipped in water and shall be unclean till evening; and then it shall be clean. 33 And every earthen vessel into which one of these things shall fall, whatsoever is inside it, shall be unclean and it shall be broken. 34 All food that is eaten, on which water shall come from such a vessel, shall be unclean; and every beverage which is drunk in any such vessel, shall be unclean. 35 And every thing on which there shall fall of their dead bodies shall be unclean; ovens and stands for jars shall be broken down: these are unclean and they shall be unclean to you. 36 Only if the water be of fountains of water, or a pool, or confluence of water, it shall be clean; but he that touches their carcasses shall be unclean. 37 If one of their carcasses should fall upon any sowing seed which shall be sown, it shall be clean. 38 But if water be poured on any seed and one of their dead bodies fall upon it, it is unclean to you. 39 If one of the cattle die, which it is lawful for you to eat, he that touches their carcasses shall be unclean till evening. 40 He that eats of their carcasses shall wash his garments and be unclean till evening; He that carries any of their carcasses shall wash his garments and bathe himself in water and be unclean till evening. 41 And every reptile that creeps on the earth, this shall be an abomination to you; it shall not be eaten. 42 And every animal that creeps on its belly and every one that goes on four feet continually, which abounds with feet among all the reptiles creeping upon the earth—ye shall not eat it, for it is an abomination to you. 43 You shall not defile your souls with any of the reptiles that creep upon the earth and you shall not be polluted with them and you shall not be unclean by them. 44 For I am the Lord your God; and you shall be sanctified and you shall be holy, because I the Lord your God am holy; and you shall not defile your souls with any of the reptiles creeping upon the earth. 45 For I am the Lord who brought you up out of the land of Egypt to be your God; and you shall be holy, for I the Lord am holy. 46 This is the law concerning beasts and birds and every living creature moving in the water and every living creature creeping on the earth; 47 to distinguish between the unclean and the clean; and between those who bring forth alive, such as should be eaten and those who bring forth alive, such as should not be eaten.

male child shall be unclean seven days, she shall be unclean according to the days of separation for her monthly courses. 3 And on the eighth day she shall circumcise the flesh of his . 4 And for thirty-three days she shall continue in her unclean blood; she shall touch nothing holy and shall not enter the sanctuary, until the days of her purification be fulfilled. 5 But if she should have born a female child, then she shall be unclean twice seven days, according to the time of her monthly courses; and for sixty-six days shall she remain in her unclean blood.

6 When the days of her purification shall have been fulfilled for a son or a daughter, she shall bring a lamb of a year old without blemish for a whole-burnt-offering and a young pigeon or turtle-dove for a sin-offering to the door of the tabernacle of witness, to the priest. 7 He shall present it before the Lord and the priest shall make atonement for her and shall purge her from the fountain of her blood; this is the law of her who bears a male or a female. 8 If she cannot afford a lamb, then shall she take two turtle-doves or two young pigeons, one for a whole-burnt-offering and one for a sin-offering; and the priest shall make atonement for her and she shall be purified.

13:1 The Lord spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying: 2 If any man should have in the skin of his flesh a bright clear spot and there should be in the skin of his flesh a plague of leprosy, he shall be brought to Aaron the priest, or to one of his sons the priests. 3 The priest shall view the spot in the skin of his flesh; and if the hair in the spot be changed to white and the appearance of the spot be below the skin of the flesh, it is a plague of leprosy; and the priest shall look upon it and pronounce him unclean. 4 But if the spot be clear and white in the skin of his flesh, yet the appearance of it be not deep below the skin and its hair have not changed itself for white hair, but it is dark, then the priest shall separate him that has the spot seven days; 5 and the priest shall look on the spot the seventh day; and, behold, if the spot remains before him, if the spot has not spread in the skin, then the priest shall separate him the second time seven days. 6 The priest shall look upon him the second time on the seventh day; and, behold, if the spot be dark and the spot have not spread in the skin, then the priest shall pronounce him clean; for it is a mere mark and the man shall wash his garments and be clean. 7 But if the bright spot should have changed and spread in the skin, after the priest has seen him for the purpose of purifying him, then shall he appear the second time to the priest, 8 and the priest shall look upon him; and, behold, if the mark have spread in the skin, then the priest shall pronounce him unclean: it is a leprosy.

9 If a man have a plague of leprosy, then he shall come to the priest; 10 and the priest shall look, and, behold, if it is a white spot in the skin and it has changed the hair to white and there be some of the sound part of the quick flesh in the sore— 11 it is a leprosy waxing old in the skin of the flesh; and the priest shall pronounce him unclean and shall separate him, because he is unclean.

12 If the leprosy should have come out very evidently in the skin and the leprosy should cover all the skin of the patient from the head to the feet, wheresoever the priest shall look; 13 then the priest shall look, and, behold, the leprosy has covered all the skin of the flesh; and the priest shall pronounce him clean of the plague, because it has changed all to white, it is clean. 14 But on whatsoever day the quick flesh shall appear on him, he shall be pronounced unclean. 15 The priest shall look upon the sound flesh and the sound flesh shall prove him to be unclean; for it is unclean, it is a leprosy. 16 But if the sound flesh be restored and changed to white, then shall he come to the priest; 17 and the priest shall see him, and, behold, if the plague is turned white, then the priest shall pronounce the patient clean: he is clean.

18 If the flesh should have become an ulcer in his skin and should be healed, 19 and there should be in the place of the ulcer a white sore, or one looking white and bright, or fiery and it shall be seen by the priest; 20 then the priest shall look, and, behold, if the appearance be beneath the skin and its hair has changed to white, then the priest shall pronounce him unclean; because it is a leprosy, it has broken out in the ulcer. 21 But if the priest look and behold there is no white hair on it and it be not below the skin of the flesh and it be dark-coloured; then the priest shall separate him seven days. 22 But if it manifestly spread over the skin, then the priest shall pronounce him unclean: it is a plague of leprosy; it has broken out in the ulcer. 23 But if the bright spot should remain in its place and not spread, it is the scar of the ulcer; and the priest shall pronounce him clean.

24 If the flesh be in his skin in a state of fiery inflammation and there should be in his skin the part which is healed of the inflammation, bright, clear and white, suffused with red or very white; 25 then the priest shall look upon him, and, behold, if the hair being white is changed to a bright color and its appearance is lower than the skin, it is a leprosy; it has broken out in the inflammation and the priest shall pronounce him unclean: it is a plague of leprosy. 26 But if the priest should look, and, behold, there is not in the bright spot any white hair and it should not be lower than the skin and it should be dark, then the priest shall separate him seven days. 27 The priest shall look upon him on the seventh day; and if the spot be much spread in the skin, then the priest shall pronounce him unclean: it is a plague of leprosy, it has broken out in the ulcer. 28 But if the bright spot remain stationary and be not spread in the skin, but the sore should be dark, it is a scar of inflammation; and the priest shall pronounce him clean, for it is the mark of the inflammation.

29 If a man or a woman have in them a plague of leprosy in the head or the beard; 30 then the priest shall look on the plague, and, behold, if the appearance of it be beneath the skin and in it there be thin yellowish hair, then the priest shall pronounce him unclean: it is a scurf, it is a leprosy of the head or a leprosy of the beard. 31 If the priest should see the plague of the scurf, and, behold, the appearance of it be not beneath the skin and there is no yellowish hair in it, then the priest shall set apart him that has the plague of the scurf seven days. 32 The priest shall look at the plague on the seventh day; and, behold, if the scurf be not spread and there be no yellowish hair on it and the appearance of the scurf is not hollow under the skin; 33 then the skin shall be shaven, but the scurf shall not be shaven; and the priest shall set aside the person having the scurf the second time for seven days. 34 The priest shall see the scurf on the seventh day; and, behold, if the scurf is not spread in the skin after the man's being shaven and the appearance of the scurf is not hollow beneath the skin, then the priest shall pronounce him clean; He shall wash his garments and be clean. 35 But if the scurf be indeed spread in the skin after he has been purified, 36 then the priest shall look, and, behold, if the scurf be spread in the skin, the priest shall not examine concerning the yellow hair, for he is unclean. 37 But if the scurf remain before him in its place and a dark hair should have arisen in it, the scurf is healed: he is clean and the priest shall pronounce him clean. 38 If a man or woman should have in the skin of their flesh spots of a bright whiteness, 39 then the priest shall look; and, behold, there being bright spots of a bright whiteness in the skin of their flesh, it is a tetter; it burst forth in the skin of his flesh; he is clean. 40 If any one's head should lose the hair, he is only bald, he is clean. 41 If his head should lose the hair in front, he is forehead bald: he is clean. 42 If there should be in his baldness of head, or his baldness of forehead, a white or fiery plague, it is leprosy in his baldness of head, or baldness of forehead. 43 The priest shall look upon him, and, behold, if the appearance of the plague be white or inflamed in his baldness of head or baldness in front, as the appearance of leprosy in the skin of his flesh, 44 he is a leprous man: the priest shall surely pronounce him unclean, his plague is in his head. 45 The leper in whom the plague is, let his garments be ungart and his head uncovered; Let him have a covering put upon his mouth, He shall be called unclean. 46 All the days in which the plague shall be upon him, being unclean, he shall be esteemed unclean; he shall dwell apart, his place of sojourn shall be without the camp.

47 If a garment have in it the plague of leprosy, a garment of wool, or a garment of flax, 48 either in the warp or in the woof, or in the linen, or in the woolen threads, or in a skin, or in any workmanship of skin, 49 and the plague be greenish or reddish in the skin, or in the garment, either in the warp, or in the woof, or in any utensil of skin, it is a plague of leprosy, He shall show it to the priest. 50 The priest shall look upon the plague and the priest shall set apart that which has the plague seven days. 51 The priest shall look upon the plague on the seventh day; and if the plague be spread in the garment, either in the warp or in the woof, or in the skin, in whatsoever things skins may be used in their workmanship, the plague is a confirmed leprosy; it is unclean. 52 He shall burn the garment, either the warp or woof in woolen garments or in flaxen, or in any utensil of skin, in which there may be the plague; because it is a confirmed leprosy; it shall be burnt with fire.

53 If the priest should see and the plague be not spread in the garments, either in the warp or in the woof, or in any utensil of skin, 54 then the priest shall give directions and one shall wash that on which there may have been the plague and the priest shall set it aside a second time for seven days. 55 The priest shall look upon it after the plague has been washed; and if this, even the plague, has not changed its appearance and the plague does not spread, it is unclean; it shall be burnt with fire: it is fixed in the garment, in the warp, or in the woof. 56 If the priest should look and the spot be dark after it has been washed, he shall tear it off from the garment, either from the warp or from the woof, or from the skin. 57 If it should still appear in the garment, either in the warp or in the woof, or in any article of skin, it is a leprosy bursting forth: that by which is the plague shall be burnt with fire. 58 The garment, or the warp, or the woof, or any article of skin, which shall be washed and the plague depart from it, shall also be washed again and shall be clean. 59 This is the law of the plague of leprosy of a woolen or linen garment, either of the warp, or woof, or any leathern article, to pronounce it clean or unclean.

14:1 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 2 This is the law of the leper: in whatsoever day he shall have been cleansed, then shall he be brought to the priest. 3 The priest shall come forth out of the camp and the priest shall look, and, behold, the plague of the leprosy is removed from the leper. 4 The priest shall give directions and they shall take for him that is cleansed two clean live birds and cedar wood and spun scarlet and hyssop. 5 The priest shall give direction and they shall kill one bird over an earthen vessel over running water. 6 And as for the living bird he shall take it and the cedar wood and the spun scarlet and the hyssop, He shall dip them and the living bird into the blood of the bird that was slain over running water. 7 He shall sprinkle seven times upon him that was cleansed of his leprosy, He shall be clean; He shall let go the living bird into the field. 8 The man that has been cleansed shall wash his garments and shall shave off all his hair and shall wash himself in water and shall be clean; and after that he shall go into the camp and shall remain out of his house seven days. 9 It shall come to pass on the seventh day, he shall shave off all his hair, his head and his beard and his eye-brows, even all his hair shall he shave; He shall wash his garments and wash his body with water and shall be clean. 10 And on the eighth day he shall take two lambs without spot of a year old and one ewe lamb without spot of a year old and three-tenths of fine flour for sacrifice kneaded with oil and one small cup of oil. 11 The priest that cleanses shall present the man under purification and these offerings before the Lord, at the door of the tabernacle of witness. 12 The priest shall take one lamb and offer him for a trespass-offering and the cup of oil and set them apart for a special offering before the Lord. 13 And they shall kill the lamb in the place where they kill the whole-burnt-offerings and the sin-offerings, in the holy places; for it is a sin-offering: as the trespass-offering, it belongs to the priest, it is most holy. 14 The priest shall take of the blood of the trespass-offering and the priest shall put it on the tip of the right ear of the person under cleansing and on the thumb of his right hand and on the great toe of his right foot. 15 The priest shall take of the cup of oil and shall pour it upon his own left hand. 16 He shall dip with the finger of his right hand into some of the oil that is in his left hand, He shall sprinkle with his finger seven times before the Lord. 17 The remaining oil that is in his hand, the priest shall put on the tip of the right ear of him that is under cleansing and on the thumb of his right hand and on the great toe of his right foot, on the place of the blood of the trespass-offering. 18 The remaining oil that is on the hand of the priest, the priest shall put on the head of the cleansed leper and the priest shall make atonement for him before the Lord. 19 The priest shall sacrifice the sin-offering and the priest shall make atonement for the person under purification to cleanse him from his sin and afterwards the priest shall kill the whole-burnt-offering. 20 The priest shall offer the whole-burnt-offering and the sacrifice upon the altar before the Lord; and the priest shall make atonement for him, He shall be cleansed. 21 If he should be poor and cannot afford so much, he shall take one lamb for his transgression for a separate-offering, so as to make propitiation for him and a tenth deal of fine flour mingled with oil for a sacrifice and one cup of oil, 22 and two turtle-doves, or two young pigeons, as he can afford; and the one shall be for a sin-offering and the other for a whole-burnt-offering. 23 He shall bring them on the eighth day, to purify him, to the priest, to the door of the tabernacle of witness before the Lord. 24 The priest shall take the lamb of the trespass-offering and the cup of oil and place them for a set-offering before the Lord. 25 He shall kill the lamb of the trespass-offering; and the priest shall take of the blood of the trespass-offering and put it on the tip of the right ear of him that is under purification and on the thumb of his right hand and on the great toe of his right foot. 26 The priest shall pour of the oil on his own left hand. 27 The priest shall sprinkle with the finger of his right hand some of the oil that is in his left hand seven times before the Lord. 28 The priest shall put of the oil that is on his hand on the tip of the right ear of him that is under purification and on the thumb of his right hand and on the great toe of his right foot, on the place of the blood of the trespass-offering. 29 And that which is left of the oil which is on the hand of the priest he shall put on the head of him that is purged and the priest shall make atonement for him before the Lord.

30 He shall offer one of the turtle-doves or of the young pigeons, as he can afford it, 31 the one for a sin-offering, the other for a whole-burnt-offering with the meat-offering and the priest shall make an atonement before the Lord for him that is under purification. 32 This is the law for him in whom is the plague of leprosy and who cannot afford the offerings for his purification.

33 The Lord spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying: 34 Whenever you shall enter into the land of the C'anaanites, which I give you for a possession and I shall put the plague of leprosy in the houses of the land of your possession; 35 then the owner of the house shall come and report to the priest, saying: I have seen as it were a plague in the house. 36 The priest shall give orders to remove the furniture of the house, before the priest comes in to see the plague and thus none of the things in the house shall become unclean; and afterwards the priest shall go in to examine the house. 37 He shall look on the plague, and, behold, if the plague is in the walls of the house, he will see greenish or reddish cavities and the appearance of them will be beneath the surface of the walls. 38 The priest shall come out of the house to the door of the house and the priest shall separate the house seven days. 39 The priest shall return on the seventh day and view the house; and, behold, if the plague is spread in the walls of the house, 40 then the priest shall give orders and they shall take away the stones in which the plague is and shall cast them out of the city into an unclean place. 41 They shall scrape the house within around and shall pour out the dust scraped off outside the city into an unclean place. 42 They shall take other scraped stones and put them in the place of the former stones and they shall take other plaster and plaster the house. 43 If the plague should return again and break out in the house after they have taken away the stones and after the house is scraped and after it has been plastered, 44 then the priest shall go in and see if the plague is spread in the house: it is a confirmed leprosy in the house, it is unclean. 45 They shall take down the house and its timbers and its stones and they shall carry out all the mortar without the city into an unclean place. 46 He that goes into the house at any time, during its separation, shall be unclean until evening. 47 He that sleeps in the house shall wash his garments and be unclean until evening; He that eats in the house shall wash his garments and be unclean until evening.

48 and if the priest shall arrive and enter and see and behold the plague be not at all spread in the house after the house has been plastered, then the priest shall declare the house clean, because the plague is healed. 49 He shall take to purify the house two clean living birds and cedar wood and spun scarlet and hyssop. 50 He shall kill one bird in an earthen vessel over running water. 51 He shall take the cedar wood and the spun scarlet and the hyssop and the living bird; and shall dip it into the blood of the bird slain over running water and with them he shall sprinkle the house seven times. 52 He shall purify the house with the blood of the bird and with the running water and with the living bird and with the cedar wood and with the hyssop and with the spun scarlet. 53 He shall let the living bird go out of the city into the field and shall make atonement for the house and it shall be clean. 54 This is the law concerning every plague of leprosy and scurf, 55 and of the leprosy of a garment and of a house, 56 and of a sore and of a clear spot and of a shining one, 57 and of declaring in what day it is unclean and in what day it shall be purged: this is the law of the leprosy.

15:1 The Lord spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying: 2 Speak to the children of Israel and you shall say to them, Whatever man shall have an issue out of his body, his issue is unclean. 3 And this is the law of his uncleanness; whoever has a gonorrhoea out of his body, this is his uncleanness in him because of the issue, by which, his body is affected through the issue: all the days of the issue of his body, by which his body is affected through the issue, there is his uncleanness. 4 Every bed on which he that has the issue shall happen to lie, is unclean; and every seat on which he that has the issue may happen to sit, shall be unclean. 5 The man who shall touch his bed, shall wash his garments and bathe himself in water and shall be unclean till evening. 6 And whoever sits on the seat on which he that has the issue may have sat, shall wash his garments and bathe himself in water and shall be unclean until evening. 7 He that touches the skin of him that has the issue, shall wash his garments and bathe himself in water and shall be unclean till evening. 8 If he that has the issue should spit upon one that is clean, that person shall wash his garments and bathe himself in water and be unclean until evening. 9 And every ass's saddle, on which the man with the issue shall have mounted, shall be unclean till evening. 10 And every one that touches whatsoever shall have been under him shall be unclean until evening; He that takes them up shall wash his garments and bathe himself in water and shall be unclean until evening. 11 And whoever he that has the issue shall touch, if he has not rinsed his hands in water, he shall wash his garments and bathe his body in water and shall be unclean until evening. 12 The earthen vessel which he that has the issue shall happen to touch, shall be broken; and a wooden vessel shall be washed with water and shall be clean. 13 And if he that has the issue should be cleansed of his issue, then shall he number to himself seven days for his purification; He shall wash his garments and bathe his body in water and shall be clean. 14 And on the eighth day he shall take to himself two turtle-doves or two young pigeons, He shall bring them before the Lord to the doors of the tabernacle of witness and shall give them to the priest. 15 The priest shall offer them one for a sin-offering and the other for a whole-burnt-offering; and the priest shall make atonement for him before the Lord for his issue.

from him, shall then wash his whole body and shall be unclean until evening. 17 And every garment and every skin on which there shall be the seed of copulation shall both be washed with water and be unclean until evening. 18 And a woman, if a man shall lie with her with seed of copulation—they shall both bathe themselves in water and shall be unclean until evening. 19 The woman whoever shall have an issue of blood when her issue shall be in her body, shall be seven days in her separation; every one that touches her shall be unclean until evening. 20 And every thing whereon she shall lie in her separation, shall be unclean; and whatever she shall sit upon, shall be unclean.

21 And whoever shall touch her bed shall wash his garments and bathe his body in water and shall be unclean until evening. 22 And every one that touches any vessel on which she shall sit, shall wash his garments and bathe himself in water and shall be unclean until evening. 23 And whether it be while she is on her bed, or on a seat which she may happen to sit upon when he touches her, he shall be unclean till evening. 24 If any one shall lie with her and her uncleanness be upon him, he shall be unclean seven days; and every bed on which he shall have lain shall be unclean. 25 If a woman have an issue of blood many days, not in the time of her separation; if the blood should also flow after her separation, all the days of the issue of her uncleanness shall be as the days of her separation: she shall be unclean. 26 And every bed on which she shall lie all the days of her flux shall be to her as the bed of her separation and every seat whereon she shall sit shall be unclean according to the uncleanness of her separation. 27 Every one that touches it shall be unclean; He shall wash his garments and bathe his body in water and shall be unclean till evening. 28 But if she shall be cleansed from her flux, then she shall number to herself seven days and afterwards she shall be esteemed clean. 29 And on the eighth day she shall take two turtle-doves, or two young pigeons and shall bring them to the priest, to the door of the tabernacle of witness. 30 The priest shall offer one for a sin-offering and the other for a whole-burnt-offering and the priest shall make atonement for her before the Lord for her unclean flux.

31 You shall cause the children of Israel to beware of their uncleanness; so they shall not die for their uncleanness, in polluting my tabernacle that is among them. 32 This is the law of the man who has an issue and if one discharge seed of copulation, so that he should be polluted by it. 33 And this is the law for her that has the issue of blood in her separation and as to the person who has an issue of seed, in his issue: it is a law for the male and the female and for the man who shall have lain with her that is set apart.

16:1 The Lord spoke to Moses after the two sons of Aaron died in bringing strange fire before the Lord, so they died. 2 The Lord said to Moses: Speak to Aaron your brother, Let him not come in at all times into the holy place within the veil before the propitiatory, which is upon the ark of the testimony, He shall not die; for I will appear in a cloud on the propitiatory. 3 Thus shall Aaron enter into the holy place; with a calf of the herd for a sin-offering and having a ram for a whole-burnt-offering. 4 He shall put on the consecrated linen tunic, He shall have on his flesh the linen drawers and shall gird himself with a linen girdle and shall put on the linen cap, they are holy garments; He shall bathe all his body in water and shall put them on. 5 He shall take of the congregation of the children of Israel two kids of the goats for a sin-offering and one lamb for a whole-burnt-offering. 6 And Aaron shall bring the calf for his own sin-offering and shall make atonement for himself and for his house. 7 He shall take the two goats and place them before the Lord by the door of the tabernacle of witness. 8 Then Aaron shall cast lots upon the two goats, one lot for the Lord and the other for the scape-goat. 9 And Aaron shall bring forward the goat on which the lot for the Lord fell and shall offer him for a sin-offering. 10 and the goat upon which the lot of the scape-goat came, he shall present alive before the Lord, to make atonement upon him, so as to send him away as a scape-goat, He shall send him into the wilderness. 11 And Aaron shall bring the calf for his sin, He shall make atonement for himself and for his house, He shall kill the calf for his sin-offering. 12 He shall take his censer full of coals of fire off the altar, which is before the Lord; He shall fill his hands with fine compound incense and shall bring it within the veil. 13 He shall put the incense on the fire before the Lord and the smoke of the incense shall cover the mercy-seat over the tables of testimony, He shall not die. 14 He shall take of the blood of the calf and sprinkle with his finger on the mercy-seat eastward: before the mercy-seat shall he sprinkle seven times of the blood with his finger.

15 He shall kill the goat for the sin-offering that is for the people, before the Lord; He shall bring in of its blood within the veil and shall do with its blood as he did with the blood of the calf and shall sprinkle its blood on the mercy-seat, in front of the mercy-seat. 16 He shall make atonement for the sanctuary on account of the uncleanness of the children of Israel and for their trespasses in the matter of all their sins; and thus shall he do to the tabernacle of witness established among them in the midst of their uncleanness. 17 And there shall be no man in the tabernacle of witness when he goes in to make atonement in the holy place, until he shall have come out; He shall make atonement for himself and for his house and for all the congregation of the children of Israel. 18 He shall come forth to the altar that is before the Lord, He shall make atonement upon it; He shall take of the blood of the calf and of the blood of the goat and shall put it on the horns of the altar round about. 19 He shall sprinkle some of the blood upon it seven times with his finger and shall purge it and hallow it from the uncleanness of the children of Israel. 20 He shall finish making atonement for the sanctuary and for the tabernacle of witness and for the altar; He shall make a cleansing for the priests, He shall bring the living goat; 21 and Aaron shall lay his hands on the head of the live goat, He shall declare over him all the iniquities of the children of Israel and all their unrighteousness and all their sins; He shall lay them upon the head of the live goat and shall send him by the hand of a ready man into the wilderness. 22 The goat shall bear their unrighteousnesses upon him into a desert land; and Aaron shall send away the goat into the wilderness. 23 And Aaron shall enter into the tabernacle of witness and shall put off the linen garment, which he had put on, as he entered into the holy place and shall lay it by there. 24 He shall bathe his body in water in the holy place and shall put on his raiment and shall go out and offer the whole-burnt-offering for himself and the whole-burnt-offering for the people: and shall make atonement for himself and for his house and for the people, as for the priests. 25 He shall offer the fat for the sin-offering on the altar.

26 He that sends forth the goat that has been set apart to be let go, shall wash his garments and bathe his body in water and afterwards shall enter into the camp. 27 The calf for the sin-offering and the goat for the sin-offering, whose blood was brought in to make atonement in the holy place, they shall carry forth out of the camp and burn them with fire, even their skins and their flesh and their dung. 28 He that burns them shall wash his garments and bathe his body in water and afterwards he shall enter into the camp.

29 And this shall be a perpetual statute for you; in the seventh month, on the tenth day of the month, you shall humble your souls and shall do no work, the native and the stranger who abides among you. 30 For in this day he shall make an atonement for you, to cleanse you from all your sins before the Lord and you shall be purged. 31 This shall be to you a most holy Sabbath, a rest and you shall humble your souls; it is a perpetual ordinance. 32 The priest whoever they shall anoint shall make atonement and whoever they shall consecrate to exercise the priestly office after his father; He shall put on the linen robe, the holy garment. 33 He shall make atonement for the most holy place and the tabernacle of witness; He shall make atonement for the altar and for the priests; He shall make atonement for all the congregation. 34 And this shall be to you a perpetual statute to make atonement for the children of Israel for all their sins: it shall be done once in the year, as the Lord commanded Moses.

17:1 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 2 Speak to Aaron and to his sons and to all the children of Israel and you shall say to them, This is the word which the Lord has commanded, saying: 3 Every man of the children of Israel, or of the strangers abiding among you, who shall kill a calf, or a sheep, or a goat in the camp, or who shall kill it out of the camp, 4 and shall not bring it to the door of the tabernacle of witness, so as to sacrifice it for a whole-burnt-offering or peace-offering to the Lord to be acceptable for a sweet-smelling savour: and whoever shall kill it without and shall not bring it to the door of the tabernacle of witness, so as to offer it as a gift to the Lord before the tabernacle of the Lord; blood shall be imputed to that man, he has shed blood; that soul shall be cut off from his people. 5 That the children of Israel may offer their sacrifices, all that they shall kill in the fields and bring them to the Lord to the doors of the tabernacle of witness to the priest and they shall sacrifice them as a peace-offering to the Lord. 6 The priest shall pour the blood on the altar around before the Lord by the doors of the tabernacle of witness and shall offer the fat for a sweet-smelling savor to the Lord.

7 They shall no longer offer their sacrifices to vain gods after which they go a whoring; it shall be a perpetual statute to you for your generations. 8 You shall say to them, Whatever man of the children of Israel, or of the sons of the proselytes abiding among you, shall offer a whole-burnt-offering or a sacrifice, 9 and shall not bring it to the door of the tabernacle of witness to sacrifice it to the Lord, that man shall be destroyed from among his people. 10 And whatever man of the children of Israel, or of the strangers abiding among you, shall eat any blood, I will even set my face against that soul that eats blood and will destroy it from its people. 11 For the life of flesh is its blood and I have given it to you on the altar to make atonement for your souls; for its blood shall make atonement for the soul. 12 Therefore I said to the children of Israel, No soul of you shall eat blood and the stranger that abides among you shall not eat blood. 13 And whatever man of the children of Israel, or of the strangers abiding among you shall take any animal in hunting, beast, or bird, which is eaten, then shall he pour out the blood and cover it in the dust. 14 For the blood of all flesh is its life; and I said to the children of Israel, you shall not eat the blood of any flesh, for the life of all flesh is its blood: every one that eats it shall be destroyed. 15 And every soul which eats that which has died of itself, or is taken of beasts, either among the natives or among the strangers, shall wash his garments and bathe himself in water and shall be unclean until evening: then shall he be clean. 16 But if he do not wash his garments and do not bathe his body in water, then shall he bear his iniquity.

18:1 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 2 Speak to the children of Israel and you shall say to them, I am the Lord your God. 3 You shall not do according to the devices of Egypt, in which you dwelt: and according to the devices of the land of C'anaan, into which I bring you, you shall not do; and you shall not walk in their ordinances. 4 You shall observe my judgments and shall keep my ordinances and shall walk in them: I am the Lord your God. 5 So you shall keep all my ordinances and all my judgments and do them; which if a man do, he shall live in them: I am the Lord your God. 6 No man shall draw near to any of his near kindred to uncover their nakedness; I am the Lord. 7 You shall not uncover the nakedness of your father, or the nakedness of your mother, for she is your mother; you shall not uncover her nakedness. 8 You shall not uncover the nakedness of your father's wife; it is your father's nakedness. 9 The nakedness of your sister by your father or by your mother, born at home or abroad, their nakedness you shall not uncover. 10 The nakedness of your son's daughter, or your daughter's daughter, their nakedness you shall not uncover; because it is your nakedness. 11 You shall not uncover the nakedness of the daughter of your father's wife; she is your sister by the same father: you shall not uncover her nakedness. 12 You shall not uncover the nakedness of your father's sister, for she is near akin to your father. 13 You shall not uncover the nakedness of your mother's sister, for she is near akin to your mother. 14 You shall not uncover the nakedness of your father's brother and you shall not go in to his wife; for she is your relation. 15 You shall not uncover the nakedness of your daughter-in-law, for she is your son's wife, you shall not uncover her nakedness. 16 You shall not uncover the nakedness of your brother's wife: it is your brother's nakedness. 17 The nakedness of a woman and her daughter shall you not uncover; her son's daughter and her daughter's daughter, shall you not take, to uncover their nakedness, for they are your kinswomen: it is impiety. 18 You shall not take a wife in addition to her sister, as a rival, to uncover her nakedness in opposition to her, while she is yet living.

19 You shall not go in to a woman under separation for her uncleanness, to uncover her nakedness. 20 You shall not lie with your neighbor's wife, to defile yourself with her. 21 You shall not give of your seed to serve a ruler; and you shall not profane my holy name; I am the Lord. 22 You shall not lie with a man as with a woman, for it is an abomination. 23 Neither shall you lie with any quadruped for copulation, to be polluted with it: neither shall a woman present herself before any quadruped to have connexion with it; for it is an abomination. 24 Do not defile yourselves with any of these things; for in all these things the nations are defiled, which I drive out before you, 25 and the land is polluted; and I have recompensed their iniquity to them because of it and the land is aggrieved with those who dwell upon it. 26 You shall keep all my statutes and all my ordinances and you shall do none of these abominations; neither the native, nor the stranger that joins himself with you: 27 (for all these abominations the men of the land did who were before you and the land was defiled,) 28 and for fear that the land be aggrieved with you in your polluting it, as it was aggrieved with the nations before you. 29 For whoever shall do any of these abominations, the souls that do them shall be destroyed from among their people. 30 You shall keep my ordinances, that you may not do any of the abominable practices, which have taken place before your time: and you shall not be polluted in them; for I am the Lord your God.

19:1 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 2 Speak to the congregation of the children of Israel and you shall say to them, you shall be holy; for I the Lord your God am holy. 3 Let every one of you reverence his father and his mother; and you shall keep my Sabbaths: I am the Lord your God. 4 You shall not follow idols and you shall not make to yourselves molten gods: I am the Lord your God. 5 If you will sacrifice a peace-offering to the Lord, you shall offer it acceptable from yourselves. 6 In whatever day you shall sacrifice it, it shall be eaten; and on the following day and if any of it should be left till the third day, it shall be thoroughly burnt with fire. 7 If it should be at all eaten on the third day, it is unfit for sacrifice: it shall not be accepted. 8 He that eats it shall bear his iniquity, because he has profaned the holy things of the Lord; and the souls that eat it shall be destroyed from among their people.

9 When you reap the harvest of your land, you shall not complete the reaping of your field with exactness and you shall not gather that which falls from your reaping. 10 You shall not go over the gathering of your vineyard, neither shall you gather the remaining grapes of your vineyard: you shall leave them for the poor and the stranger: I am the Lord your God. 11 You shall not steal, you shall not lie, neither shall one bear false witness as an informer against his neighbor. 12 You shall not swear unjustly by my name and you shall not profane the holy name of your God: I am the Lord your God. 13 You shall not injure your neighbor, neither do you rob him, neither shall the wages of your hireling remain with you until the morning.

14 You shall not revile the deaf, neither shall you put a stumbling-block in the way of the blind; and you shall fear the Lord your God: I am the Lord your God. 15 You shall not act unjustly in judgment: you shall not accept the person of the poor, nor admire the person of the mighty; with justice shall you judge your neighbor. 16 You shall not walk deceitfully among your people; you shall not rise up against the blood of your neighbor: I am the Lord your God. 17 You shall not hate your brother in your heart: you shall in any way rebuke your neighbor, so you shall not bear sin on his account. 18 And your hand shall not avenge you; and you shall not be angry with the children of your people; and you shall love your neighbor as yourself; I am the Lord.

19 you shall observe my law: you shall not let your cattle gender with one of a different kind and you shall not sow your vineyard with diverse seed; and you shall not put upon yourself a mingled garment woven of two materials. 20 If any one lie carnally with a woman and she should be a home-servant kept for a man and she has not been ransomed and her freedom has not been given to her, they shall be visited with punishment; but they shall not die, because she was not set at liberty. 21 He shall bring for his trespass to the Lord to the door of the tabernacle of witness, a ram for a trespass-offering. 22 The priest shall make atonement for him with the ram of the trespass-offering, before the Lord, for the sin which he sinned; and the sin which he sinned shall be forgiven him. 23 Whenever you shall enter into the land which the Lord your God gives you and shall plant any fruit-tree, then shall you purge away its uncleanness; its fruit shall be three years uncleansed to you, it shall not be eaten. 24 And in the fourth year all its fruit shall be holy, a subject of praise to the Lord. 25 And in the fifth year you shall eat the fruit, its produce is an increase to you. I am the Lord your God.

26 Eat not on the mountains, nor shall you employ auguries, nor divine by inspection of birds. 27 You shall not make a round cutting of the hair of your head, nor disfigure your beard. 28 You shall not make cuttings in your body for a dead body and you shall not inscribe on yourselves any marks. I am the Lord your God. 29 You shall not profane your daughter to prostitute her; so the land shall not go a whoring and the land be filled with iniquity. 30 you shall keep my Sabbaths and reverence my sanctuaries: I am the Lord. 31 You shall not attend to those who have in them divining spirits, nor attach yourselves to enchanters, to pollute yourselves with them: I am the Lord your God. 32 You shall rise up before the hoary head and honor the face of the old man and shall fear your God: I am the Lord your God. 33 If there should come to you a stranger in your land, you shall not afflict him. 34 The stranger that comes to you shall be among you as the native and you shall love him as yourself; for you were strangers in the land of Egypt: I am the Lord your God. 35 You shall not act unrighteously in judgment, in measures and weights and scales. 36 There shall be among you just balances and just weights and just liquid measure. I am the Lord your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt. 37 You shall keep all my law and all my ordinances and you shall do them: I am the Lord your God.

20:1 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 2 You shall also say to the children of Israel, If there shall be any of the children of Israel, or of those who have become proselytes in Israel, who shall give of his seed to Moloch, let him be surely put to death; the nation upon the land shall stone him with stones. 3 I will set my face against that man and will cut him off from his people, because he has given of his seed to Moloch, to defile my sanctuary and profane the name of those who are consecrated to me. 4 If the natives of the land should in anywise overlook that man in giving of his seed to Moloch, so as not to put him to death; 5 then will I set my face against that man and his family and I will destroy him and all who have been of one mind with him, so that he should go a whoring to the princes, from their people.

6 The soul that shall follow those who have in them divining spirits, or enchanters, so as to go a whoring after them; I will set my face against that soul and will destroy it from among its people. 7 You shall be holy, for I the Lord your God am holy. 8 You shall observe my ordinances and do them: I am the Lord that sanctifies you. 9 Every man who shall speak evil of his father or of his mother, let him die the death; has he spoken evil of his father or his mother? He shall be guilty.

10 Whatever man shall commit adultery with the wife of a man, or whoever shall commit adultery with the wife of his neighbor, let them die the death, the adulterer and the adulteress. 11 If any one should lie with his father's wife, he has uncovered his father's nakedness: let them both die the death, they are guilty. 12 If any one should lie with his daughter-in-law, let them both be put to death; for they have accomplished impiety, they are guilty. 13 And whoever shall lie with a male as with a woman, they have both accomplished abomination; let them die the death, they are guilty. 14 whoever shall take a woman and her mother, it is iniquity: they shall burn him and them with fire; so there shall not be iniquity among you. 15 And whoever shall lie with a beast, let him die the death; and you shall kill the beast. 16 And whatever woman shall approach any beast, so as to have connexion with it, you shall kill the woman and the beast: let them die the death, they are guilty. 17 whoever shall take his sister by his father or by his mother and shall see her nakedness, it is a reproach: they shall be destroyed before the children of their family; he has uncovered his sister's nakedness, they shall bear their sin. 18 And whatever man shall lie with a woman that is set apart for a flux and shall uncover her nakedness, he has uncovered her fountain and she has uncovered the flux of her blood: they shall both be destroyed from among their generation. 19 You shall not uncover the nakedness of your father's sister, or of the sister of your mother; for that man has uncovered the nakedness of one near akin: they shall bear their iniquity. 20 whoever shall lie with his near kinswoman, has uncovered the nakedness of one near akin to him: they shall die childless. 21 Whoever shall take his brother's wife, it is uncleanness; he has uncovered his brother's nakedness; they shall die childless.

22 And keep you all my ordinances and my judgments; and you shall do them and the land shall not be aggrieved with you, into which I bring you to dwell upon it. 23 And walk you not in the customs of the nations which I drive out from before you; for they have done all these things and I have abhorred them: 24 and I said to you, you shall inherit their land and I will give it to you for a possession, even a land flowing with milk and honey: I am the Lord your God, who have separated you from all people. 25 You shall make a distinction between the clean and the unclean cattle and between clean and unclean birds; and you shall not defile your souls with cattle, or with birds, or with any creeping things of the earth, which I have separated for you because of uncleanness. 26 You shall be holy to me; because I the Lord your God am holy, who separated you from all nations, to be mine.

27 And as for a man or woman whoever of them shall have in them a divining spirit, or be an enchanter, let them both die the death: you shall stone them with stones, they are guilty.

21:1 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: Speak to the priests the sons of Aaron and you shall tell those who they shall not defile themselves in their nation for the dead, 2 but they may mourn for a relative who is very near to them, for a father and mother and sons and daughters, for a brother, 3 and for a virgin sister that is near to one, that is not espoused to a man; for these one shall defile himself. 4 He shall not defile himself suddenly among his people to profane himself. 5 You shall not shave your head for the dead with a baldness on the top; and they shall not shave their beard, neither shall they make gashes on their flesh. 6 They shall be holy to their God and they shall not profane the name of their God; for they offer the sacrifices of the Lord as the gifts of their God and they shall be holy. 7 They shall not take a woman who is a harlot and profaned, or a woman put away from her husband; for he is holy to the Lord his God. 8 You shall hallow him; he offers the gifts of the Lord your God: he shall be holy, for I the Lord that sanctify them am holy. 9 If the daughter of a priest should be profaned to go a whoring, she profanes the name of her father: she shall be burnt with fire.

10 The priest that is chief among his brothers, the oil having been poured upon the head of the anointed one, He having been consecrated to put on the garments, shall not take the mitre off his head and shall not destroy his garments: 11 neither shall he go in to any dead body, neither shall he defile himself for his father or his mother. 12 He shall not go forth out of the sanctuary, He shall not profane the sanctuary of his God, because the holy anointing oil of God is upon him: I am the Lord. 13 He shall take for a wife a virgin of his own tribe. 14 But a widow, or one that is put away, or profaned, or a harlot, these he shall not take; but he shall take for a wife a virgin of his own people. 15 He shall not profane his seed among his people: I am the Lord that sanctifies him. 16 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 17 Say to Aaron, A man of your tribe throughout your generations, who shall have a blemish on him, shall not draw near to offer the gifts of his God. 18 No man who has a blemish on him shall draw nigh; a man blind, lame, with his nose disfigured, or his ears cut, 19 a man who has a broken hand or a broken foot, 20 or hump-backed, or blear-eyed, or that has lost his eye-lashes, or a man who has a malignant ulcer, or tetter, or one that has lost a testicle. 21 Whoever of the seed of Aaron the priest has a blemish on him, shall not draw near to offer sacrifices to your God, because he has a blemish on him; he shall not draw near to offer the gifts of God. 22 The gifts of God are most holy, He shall eat of the holy things. 23 Only he shall not approach the veil, He shall not draw near to the altar, because he has a blemish; He shall not profane the sanctuary of his God, for I am the Lord that sanctifies them. 24 Moses spoke to Aaron and his sons and to all the children of Israel.

22:1 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 2 Speak to Aaron and to his sons, Let them take heed concerning the holy things of the children of Israel, so they shall not profane my holy name in any of the things which they consecrate to me: I am the Lord. 3 Say to them, Every man throughout your generations, whoever of all your seed shall approach to the holy things, whatsoever the children of Israel shall consecrate to the Lord, while his uncleanness is upon him, that soul shall be cut off from me: I am the Lord your God. 4 The man of the seed of Aaron the priest, if he should have leprosy or issue of the reins, shall not eat of the holy things, until he be cleansed; He that touches any uncleanness of a dead body, or the man whose seed of copulation shall have gone out from him, 5 or whoever shall touch any unclean reptile, which will defile him, or who shall touch a man, by which means he shall defile him according to all his uncleanness: 6 whatsoever soul shall touch them shall be unclean until evening; he shall not eat of the holy things, unless he bathe his body in water, 7 and the sun go down and then he shall be clean; and then shall he eat of all the holy things, for they are his bread. 8 He shall not eat that which dies of itself, or is taken of beasts, so that he should be polluted by them: I am the Lord. 9 They shall keep my ordinances, that they do not bear iniquity because of them and die because of them, if they shall profane them: I am the Lord God that sanctifies them. 10 And no stranger shall eat the holy things: one that sojourns with a priest, or a hireling, shall not eat the holy things. 11 But if a priest should have a soul purchased for money, he shall eat of his bread; and those who are born in his house, they also shall eat of his bread. 12 If the daughter of a priest should marry a stranger, she shall not eat of the offerings of the sanctuary. 13 If the daughter of priest should be a widow, or put away and have no seed, she shall return to her father's house, as in her youth: she shall eat of her father's bread, but no stranger shall eat of it. 14 The man who shall ignorantly eat holy things, shall add the fifth part to it and give the holy thing to the priest. 15 They shall not profane the holy things of the children of Israel, which they offer to the Lord. 16 So should they bring upon themselves the iniquity of trespass in their eating their holy things: for I am the Lord that sanctifies them.

17 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 18 Speak to Aaron and his sons and to all the congregation of Israel and you shall say to them, Any man of the children of Israel, or of the strangers that abide among them in Israel, who shall offer his gifts according to all their confession and according to all their choice, whatsoever they may bring to the Lord for whole-burnt-offerings— 19 your free-will-offerings shall be males without blemish of the herds, or of the sheep, or of the goats. 20 They shall not bring to the Lord anything that has a blemish in it, for it shall not be acceptable for you. 21 And whatsoever man shall offer a peace-offering to the Lord, discharging a vow, or in the way of free-will-offering, or an offering in your feasts, of the herds or of the sheep, it shall be without blemish for acceptance: there shall be no blemish in it. 22 One that is blind, or broken, or has its tongue cut out, or is troubled with warts, or has a malignant ulcer, or tetters, they shall not offer these to the Lord; neither shall you offer any of them for a burnt-offering on the altar of the Lord. 23 And a calf or a sheep with the ears cut off, or that has lost its tail, you shall kill them for yourself; but they shall not be accepted for your vow. 24 That which has broken testicles, or is crushed or gelt or mutilated, —thou shall not offer them to the Lord, neither shall you sacrifice them upon your land. 25 Neither shall you offer the gifts of your God of all these things by the hand of a stranger, because there is corruption in them, a blemish in them: these shall not be accepted for you. 26 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 27 As for a calf, or a sheep, or a goat, whenever it is born, then shall it be seven days under its mother; and on the eighth day and after they shall be accepted for sacrifices, a burnt-offering to the Lord. 28 And a bullock and a ewe, it and its young, you shall not kill in one day.

29 If you should offer a sacrifice, a vow of rejoicing to the Lord, you shall offer it so as to be accepted for you. 30 In that same day it shall be eaten; you shall not leave of the flesh till the morrow: I am the Lord. 31 You shall keep my commandments and do them. 32 You shall not profane the name of the Holy One and I will be sanctified in the midst of the children of Israel. I am the Lord that sanctifies you, 33 who brought you out of the land of Egypt, to be your God: I am the Lord.

23:1 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 2 Speak to the children of Israel and you shall say to them, The feasts of the Lord which you shall call holy assemblies, these are my feasts. 3 Six days shall you do works, but on the seventh day is the Sabbath; a rest, a holy convocation to the Lord: you shall not do any work, it is a Sabbath to the Lord in all your dwellings.

4 These are the feasts to the Lord, holy convocations, which you shall call in their seasons. 5 In the first month, on the fourteenth day of the month, between the evening times is the Lord's Passover. 6 And on the fifteenth day of this month is the feast of unleavened bread to the Lord; seven days shall you eat unleavened bread. 7 The first day shall be a holy convocation to you: you shall do no servile work. 8 You shall offer whole-burnt-offerings to the Lord seven days; and the seventh day shall be a holy convocation to you: you shall do no servile work. 9 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 10 Speak to the children of Israel and you shall say to them when you shall enter into the land which I give you and reap the harvest of it, then shall you bring a sheaf, the first-fruits of your harvest, to the priest; 11 He shall lift up the sheaf before the Lord, to be accepted for you. On the morrow of the first day the priest shall lift it up. 12 You shall offer on the day on which you bring the sheaf, a lamb without blemish of a year old for a whole-burnt-offering to the Lord. 13 And its meat-offering two tenth portions of fine flour mingled with oil: it is a sacrifice to the Lord, a smell of sweet savor to the Lord and its drink-offering the fourth part of a hin of wine. 14 You shall not eat bread, or the new parched corn, until this same day, until you offer the sacrifices to your God: it is a perpetual statute throughout your generations in all your dwellings.

15 You shall number to yourselves from the day after the Sabbath, from the day on which you shall offer the sheaf of the heave-offering, seven full weeks: 16 until the morrow after the last week you shall number fifty days and shall bring a new meat-offering to the Lord. 17 You shall bring from your dwelling loaves, as a heave-offering, two loaves: they shall be of two tenth portions of fine flour, they shall be baked with leaven of the first-fruits to the Lord. 18 You shall bring with the loaves seven unblemished lambs of a year old and one calf of the herd and two rams without blemish and they shall be a whole-burnt-offering to the Lord: and their meat-offerings and their drink-offerings shall be a sacrifice, a smell of sweet savor to the Lord. 19 They shall sacrifice one kid of the goats for a sin-offering and two lambs of a year old for a peace-offering, with the loaves of the first-fruits. 20 The priest shall place them with the loaves of the first-fruits an offering before the Lord with the two lambs, they shall be holy to the Lord; they shall belong to the priest that brings them. 21 You shall call this day a convocation: it shall be holy to you; you shall do no servile work on it: it is a perpetual ordinance throughout your generations in all your habitations. 22 When you shall reap the harvest of your land, you shall not fully reap the remainder of the harvest of your field when you reapest and you shall not gather that which falls from your reaping; you shall leave it for the poor and the stranger: I am the Lord your God.

23 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 24 Speak to the children of Israel, saying: In the seventh month, on the first day of the month, you shall have a rest, a memorial of trumpets: it shall be to you a holy convocation. 25 You shall do no servile work and you shall offer a whole-burnt-offering to the Lord.

26 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 27 Also on the tenth day of this seventh month is a day of atonement: it shall be a holy convocation to you; and you shall humble your souls and offer a whole-burnt-offering to the Lord. 28 You shall do no work on this self-same day: for this is a day of atonement for you, to make atonement for you before the Lord your God. 29 Every soul that shall not be humbled in that day, shall be cut off from among its people. 30 And every soul which shall do work on that day, that soul shall be destroyed from among its people. 31 You shall do no manner of work: it is a perpetual statute throughout your generations in all your habitations. 32 It shall be a holy Sabbath to you; and you shall humble your souls, from the ninth day of the month: from evening to evening you shall keep your Sabbaths.

33 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 34 Speak to the children of Israel, saying: On the fifteenth day of this seventh month, there shall be a feast of tabernacles seven days to the Lord. 35 And on the first day shall be a holy convocation; you shall do no servile work. 36 Seven days shall you offer whole-burnt-offerings to the Lord and the eighth-day shall be a holy convocation to you; and you shall offer whole-burnt-offerings to the Lord: it is a time of release, you shall do no servile work. 37 These are the feasts to the Lord, which you shall call holy convocations, to offer burnt-offerings to the Lord, whole-burnt-offerings and their meat-offerings and their drink-offerings, that for each day on its day: 38 besides the Sabbaths of the Lord and besides your gifts and besides all your vows and besides your free-will-offerings, which you shall give to the Lord. 39 And on the fifteenth day of this seventh month when you shall have completely gathered in the fruits of the earth, you shall keep a feast to the Lord seven days; on the first day there shall be a rest and on the eighth day a rest. 40 And on the first day you shall take goodly fruit of trees and branches of palm trees and thick boughs of trees and willows and branches of agnos¹ from the brook, to rejoice before the Lord your God seven days in the year. 41 It is a perpetual statute for your generations: in the seventh month you shall keep it. 42 Seven days you shall dwell in tabernacles: every native in Israel shall dwell in tents, 43 that your posterity may see, that I made the children of Israel to dwell in tents when I brought them out of the land of Egypt: I am the Lord your God. 44 Moses recounted

24:1 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 2 Charge the children of Israel, Let them take for you pure olive oil beaten for the light, to burn a lamp continually, 3 outside the veil in the tabernacle of witness; and Aaron and his sons shall burn it from evening until morning before the Lord continually, a perpetual statute throughout your generations. 4 You shall burn the lamps on the pure lampstand before the Lord till the morrow. 5 You shall take fine flour and make of it twelve loaves; each loaf shall be of two tenth parts. 6 You shall put them in two rows, each row containing six loaves, on the pure table before the Lord. 7 You shall put on each row pure frankincense and salt; and these things shall be for loaves for a memorial, set forth before the Lord. 8 On the Sabbath-day they shall be set forth before the Lord continually before the children of Israel, for an everlasting covenant. 9 They shall be for Aaron and his sons and they shall eat them in the holy place: for this is their most holy portion of the offerings made to the Lord, a perpetual statute.

10 And there went forth a son of an Israelite woman, He was son of an Egyptian man among the sons of Israel; and they fought in the camp, the son of the Israelite woman and a man who was an Israelite. 11 The son of the Israelite woman named THE NAME and cursed; and they brought him to Moses: and his mother's name was Salomith, daughter of Dabri of the tribe of Dan. 12 They put him in ward, to judge him by the command of the Lord. 13 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 14 Bring forth him that cursed outside the camp and all who heard shall lay their hands upon his head and all the congregation shall stone him. 15 And speak to the sons of Israel and you shall say to them, whoever shall curse God shall bear his sin. 16 He that names the name of the Lord, let him die the death: let all the congregation of Israel stone him with stones; whether he be a stranger or a native, let him die for naming the name of the Lord. 17 And whoever shall strike a man He die, let him die the death. 18 And whoever shall strike a beast and it shall die, let him render life for life. 19 And whoever shall inflict a blemish on his neighbor, as he has done to him, so shall it be done to himself in return; 20 bruise for bruise, eye for eye, tooth for tooth: as any one may inflict a blemish on a man, so shall it be rendered to him. 21 whoever shall strike a man, He shall die, let him die the death. 22 There shall be one judgment for the stranger and the native, for I am the Lord your God. 23 Moses spoke to the children of Israel and they brought him that had cursed out of the camp and stoned him with stones: and the children of Israel did as the Lord commanded Moses.

25:1 The Lord spoke to Moses in the mount Sinai, saying: 2 Speak to the children of Israel and you shall say to them, Whenever you shall have entered into the land, which I give to you, then the land shall rest which I give to you, for its Sabbaths to the Lord. 3 Six years you shall sow your field and six years you shall prune your vine and gather in its fruit. 4 But in the seventh year shall be a Sabbath, it shall be a rest to the land, a Sabbath to the Lord: you shall not sow your field and you shall not prune your vine. 5 You shall not gather the spontaneous produce of your field and you shall not gather fully the grapes of your dedication: it shall be a year of rest to the land. 6 The Sabbaths of the land shall be food for you and for your man-servant and for your maid-servant and your hireling and the stranger that abides with you. 7 And for your cattle and for the wild beats that are in your land, shall every fruit of it be for food.

8 You shall reckon to yourself seven Sabbaths of years, seven times seven years; and they shall be to you seven weeks of years, nine and forty years. 9 In the seventh month, on the tenth day of the month, you shall make a proclamation with the sound of a trumpet in all your land; on the day of atonement you shall make a proclamation with a trumpet in all your land. 10 You shall sanctify the year, the fiftieth year and you shall proclaim a release upon the land to all that inhabit it; it shall be given a year of release, a jubilee for you; and each one shall depart to his possession and you shall go each to his family. 11 This is a jubilee of release, the year shall be to you the fiftieth year: you shall not sow, nor reap the produce that comes of itself from the land, neither shall you gather its dedicated fruits. 12 For it is a jubilee of release; it shall be holy to you, you shall eat its fruits off the fields. 13 In the year of the release even the jubilee of it, shall each one return to his possession. 14 If you should sell a possession to your neighbor, or if you should buy of your neighbor, let not a man oppress his neighbor. 15 According to the number of years after the jubilee shall you buy of your neighbor, according to the number of years of the fruits shall he sell to you. 16 According as there may be a greater number of years he shall increase the value of his possession and according as there may be a less number of years he shall lessen the value of his possession; for according to the number of his crops, so shall he sell to you. 17 Let not a man oppress his neighbor and you shall fear the Lord your God: I am the Lord your God.

18 You shall keep all my ordinances and all my judgments; and do you observe them and you shall keep them and dwell securely in the land. 19 The land shall yield her increase and you shall eat to fullness and shall dwell securely in it. 20 If you should say, What shall we eat in this seventh year, if we do not sow nor gather in our fruits? 21 Then will I send my blessing upon you in the sixth year and the land shall produce its fruits for three years. 22 You shall sow in the eighth year and eat old fruits till the ninth year: until its fruit come, you shall eat old fruits of the old. 23 The land shall not be sold for a permanence; for the land is mine, because you are strangers and sojourners before me. 24 And in every land of your possession, you shall allow ransoms for the land. 25 If your brother who is with you be poor and should have sold part of his possession and his kinsman who is near to him come, then he shall redeem the possession which his brother has sold. 26 If one have no near kinsman, He prosper with his hand, He find sufficient money, even his ransom; 27 then shall he calculate the years of his sale, He shall give what is due to the man to whom he sold it, He shall return to his possession. 28 But if his hand have not prospered sufficiently, so as that he should restore the money to him, then he that bought the possessions shall have them till the sixth year of the release; and it shall go out in the release and the owner shall return to his possession.

29 If any one should sell an inhabited house in a walled city, then there shall be the ransom of it, until the time is fulfilled: its time of ransom shall be a full year. 30 If it be not ransomed until there be completed of its time a full year, the house which is in the walled city shall be surely confirmed to him that bought it, throughout his generations; and it shall not go out in the release. 31 But the houses in the villages which have not a wall around them, shall be reckoned as the fields of the country: they shall always be redeemable and they shall go out in the release. 32 The cities of the Levites, the houses of the cities in their possession, shall be always redeemable to the Levites. 33 If any one shall redeem a house of the Levites, then shall their sale of the houses of their possession go out in the release; because the houses of the cities of the Levites are their possession in the midst of the children of Israel. 34 The lands set apart for their cities shall not be sold, because this is their perpetual possession.

35 If your brother who is with you become poor, He fail in resources with you, you shall help him as a stranger and a sojourner and your brother shall live with you. 36 You shall not receive from him interest, nor increase: and you shall fear your God: I am the Lord: and your brother shall live with you. 37 You shall not lend your money to him at interest and you shall not lend your meat to him to be returned with increase. 38 I am the Lord your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt, to give you the land of C'anaan, so as to be your God.

39 If your brother by you be lowered and be sold to you, he shall not serve you with the servitude of a slave. 40 He shall be with you as a hireling or a sojourner, he shall work for you till the year of release: 41 He shall go out in the release and his children with him; He shall go to his family, he shall hasten back to his patrimony. 42 Because these are my servants, whom I brought out of the land of Egypt; such an one shall not be sold as a common servant. 43 You shall not oppress him with labor and shall fear the Lord your God. 44 And whatever number of men-servants and maid-servants you shall have, you shall purchase male and female servants from the nations that are around you. 45 And of the sons of the sojourners that are among you, of these you shall buy and of their relations, all that shall be in your lands; let them be to you for a possession. 46 You shall distribute them to your children after you and they shall be to you permanent possessions for ever: but of your brothers the children of Israel, one shall not oppress his brother in labors.

47 If a stranger or sojourner with you becomes rich and your brother in distress be sold to the stranger or the sojourner that is with you, or to a proselyte by extraction; 48 after he is sold to him there shall be redemption for him, one of his brothers shall redeem him. 49 A brother of his father, or a son of his father's brother shall redeem him; or let one of his near kin of his tribe redeem him and if he should be rich and redeem himself, 50 then shall he calculate with his purchaser from the year that he sold himself to him until the year of release: and the money of his purchase shall be as that of a hireling, he shall be with him from year to year. 51 If any have a greater number of years than enough, according to these he shall pay his ransom out of his purchase-money. 52 If but a little time be left of the years to the year of release, then shall he reckon to him according to his years and shall pay his ransom 53 as a hireling; he shall be with him from year to year; you shall not oppress him with labor before you. 54 If he do not pay his ransom accordingly, he shall go out in the year of his release, he and his children with him. 55 For the children of Israel are my servants: they are my attendants, whom I brought out of the land of Egypt.

26:1 I am the Lord your God: you shall not make to yourselves gods made with hands, or graven; neither shall you rear up a pillar for yourselves, neither shall you set up a stone for an object in your land to worship it: I am the Lord your God. 2 You shall keep my Sabbaths and reverence my sanctuaries: I am the Lord. 3 If you will walk in my ordinances and keep my commandments and do them, 4 then will I give you the rain in its season and the land shall produce its fruits and the trees of the field shall yield their fruit. 5 And your threshing time shall overtake the vintage and your vintage shall overtake your seed time; and you shall eat your bread to the full; and you shall dwell safely upon your land and war shall not go through your land. 6 I will give peace in your land and you shall sleep and none shall make you afraid; and I will destroy the evil beasts out of your land, 7 and you shall pursue your enemies and they shall fall before you with slaughter. 8 And five of you shall chase a hundred and a hundred of you shall chase tens of thousands; and your enemies shall fall before you by the sword. 9 I will look upon you and increase you and multiply you and establish my covenant with you. 10 You shall eat that which is old and very old and bring forth the old to make way for the new. 11 I will set my tabernacle among you and my soul shall not abhor you; 12 and I will walk among you and be your God and you shall be my people. 13 I am the Lord your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt, where you were slaves; and I broke the band of your yoke and brought you forth openly.

14 But if you will not hearken to me, nor obey these my ordinances, 15 but disobey them and your soul should loathe my judgments, so that you should not keep all my commands, so as to break my covenant, 16 then will I do thus to you: I will even bring upon you perplexity and the itch and the fever that causes your eyes to waste away and disease that consumes your life; and you shall sow your seeds in vain and your enemies shall eat them. 17 I will set my face against you and you shall fall before your enemies and those who hate you shall pursue you; and you shall flee, no one pursuing you. 18 If you still refuse to hearken to me, then will I chasten you yet more even seven times for your sins. 19 I will break down the haughtiness of your pride; and I will make your heaven iron and your earth as it were brass. 20 And your strength shall be in vain; and your land shall not yield its seed and the tree of your field shall not yield its fruit.

21 If after this you should walk perversely and not be willing to obey me, I will further bring upon you seven plagues according to your sins. 22 I will send upon you the wild beasts of the land and they shall devour you and shall consume your cattle: and I will make you few in number and your ways shall be desolate. 23 If you are not corrected by this, but walk perversely towards me, 24 I also will walk with you with a perverse spirit and I also will strike you seven times for your sins. 25 I will bring upon you a sword avenging the cause of my covenant and you shall flee for refuge to your cities; and I will send out death against you and you shall be delivered into the hands of your enemies. 26 When I afflict you with famine of bread, then ten women shall bake your loaves in one oven and they shall render your loaves by weight; and you shall eat and not be satisfied.

27 If you will not obey me, but walk perversely towards me, 28 then will I walk with you with a froward mind and I will chasten you seven-fold according to your sins. 29 You shall eat the flesh of your sons and the flesh of your daughters shall you eat. 30 I will render your pillars desolate and will utterly destroy your wooden images made with hands; and I will lay your carcasses on the carcasses of your idols and my soul shall loathe you. 31 I will lay your cities waste and I will make your sanctuaries desolate and I will not smell the savor of your sacrifices. 32 I will lay your land desolate and your enemies who dwell in it shall wonder at it. 33 I will scatter you among the nations and the sword shall come upon you and consume you; and your land shall be desolate and your cities shall be desolate. 34 Then the land shall enjoy its Sabbaths all the days of its desolation. 35 You shall be in the land of your enemies; then the land shall keep its Sabbaths and the land shall enjoy its Sabbaths all the days of its desolation: it shall keep Sabbaths which it kept not among your Sabbaths when you dwelt in it. 36 And to those who are left of you I will bring into their heart in the land of their enemies; and the sound of a shaken leaf shall chase them and they shall flee as fleeing from war and shall fall when none pursues them. 37 And brother shall disregard brother as in war when none pursues; and you shall not be able to withstand your enemies. 38 You shall perish among the Gentiles and the land of your enemies shall devour you. 39 And those who are left of you shall perish, because of their sins and because of the sins of their fathers: in the land of their enemies shall they consume away.

40 They shall confess their sins and the sins of their fathers, that they have transgressed and neglected me and that they have walked perversely before me, 41 and I walked with them with a perverse mind; and I will destroy them in the land of their enemies: then shall their uncircumcised heart be ashamed and then shall they acquiesce in the punishment of their sins. 42 I will remember the covenant of Jacob and the covenant of Isaac and the covenant of Abra'am will I remember. 43 I will remember the land and the land shall be left of them; then the land shall enjoy her Sabbaths when it is deserted through them: and they shall accept the punishment of their iniquities, because they neglected my judgments and in their soul loathed my ordinances. 44 And yet not even thus, while they were in the land of their enemies, did I overlook them, nor did I loathe them so as to consume them, to break my covenant made with them; for I am the Lord their God. 45 I will remember their former covenant when I brought them out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of before the nation, to be their God; I am the Lord. 46 These are my judgments and my ordinances and the law which the Lord gave between himself and the children of Israel, in the mount Sinai, by the hand of Moses.

27:1 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 2 Speak to the children of Israel and you shall say to them, whoever shall vow a vow as the valuation of his soul for the Lord, 3 the valuation of a male from twenty years old to sixty years old shall be—his valuation shall be fifty didrachms of silver by the standard of the sanctuary. 4 The valuation of a female shall be thirty didrachms. 5 If it be from five years old to twenty, the valuation of a male shall be twenty didrachms and of a female ten didrachms. 6 And from a month old to five years old, the valuation of a male shall be five didrachms and of a female, three didrachms of silver. 7 If from sixty year old and upward, if it be a male, his valuation shall be fifteen didrachms of silver and if a female, ten didrachms. 8 If the man be too poor for the valuation, he shall stand before the priest; and the priest shall value him: according to what the man who has vowed can afford, the priest shall value him.

9 If it be from the cattle that are offered as a gift to the Lord, whoever shall offer one of these to the Lord, it shall be holy. 10 He shall not change it, a good for a bad, or a bad for a good; and if he do at all change it, a beast for a beast, it and the substitute shall be holy. 11 If it be any unclean beast, of which none are offered as a gift to the Lord, he shall set the beast before the priest. 12 The priest shall make a valuation between the good and the bad and accordingly as the priest shall value it, so shall it stand. 13 If the worshiper will at all redeem it, he shall add the fifth part to its value. 14 And whatsoever man shall consecrate his house as holy to the Lord, the priest shall make a valuation of it between the good and the bad: as the priest shall value it, so shall it stand. 15 If he that has sanctified it should redeem his house, he shall add to it the fifth part of the money of the valuation and it shall be his.

16 If a man should hallow to the Lord a part of the field of his possession, then the valuation shall be according to its seed, fifty didrachms of silver for a jar of barley. 17 If he should sanctify his field from the year of release, it shall stand according to his valuation. 18 If he should sanctify his field in the latter time after the release, the priest shall reckon to him the money for the remaining years, until the next year of release and it shall be deducted as an equivalent from his full valuation. 19 If he that sanctified the field would redeem it, he shall add to its value the fifth part of the money and it shall be his. 20 If he do not redeem the field, but should sell the field to another man, he shall not after redeem it. 21 But the field shall be holy to the Lord after the release, as separated land; the priest shall have possession of it. 22 If he should consecrate to the Lord of a field which he has bought, which is not of the field of his possession, 23 the priest shall reckon to him the full valuation from the year of release, He shall pay the valuation in that day as holy to the Lord. 24 And in the year of release the land shall be restored to the man of whom the other bought it, whose the possession of the land was. 25 And every valuation shall be by holy weights: the didrachm shall be twenty oboli. 26 And every first-born which shall be produced among your cattle shall be the Lord's and no man shall sanctify it: whether calf or sheep, it is the Lord's. 27 But if he should redeem an unclean beast, according to its valuation, then he shall add the fifth part to it and it shall be his; and if he redeem it not, it shall be sold according to its valuation.

28 And every dedicated thing which a man shall dedicate to the Lord of all that he has, whether man or beast, or of the field of his possession, he shall not sell it, nor redeem it: every devoted thing shall be most holy to the Lord. 29 And whatever shall be dedicated of men, shall not be ransomed, but shall be surely put to death. 30 Every tithe of the land, both of the seed of the land and of the fruit of trees, is the Lord's, holy to the Lord. 31 If a man should at all redeem his tithe, he shall add the fifth part to it and it shall be his. 32 And every tithe of oxen and of sheep and whatsoever may come in numbering under the rod, the tenth shall be holy to the Lord. 33 You shall not change a good for a bad, or a bad for a good; and if you should at all change it, its equivalent also shall be holy, it shall not be redeemed.

34 These are the commandments which the Lord commanded Moses for the sons of Israel in mount Sinai.

1:1 The Lord spoke to Moses in the wilderness of Sinai, in the tabernacle of witness, on the first day of the second month, in the second year of their departure from the land of Egypt, saying: 2 Take the sum of all the congregation of Israel according to their kindreds, according to the houses of their fathers' families, according to their number by their names, according to their heads: every male 3 from twenty years old and upwards, every one that goes forth in the forces of Israel, take account of them with their strength; you and Aaron take account of them. 4 With you there shall be each one of the rulers according to the tribe of each: they shall be according to the houses of their families.

17 Moses and Aaron took these men who were called by name. 18 They assembled all the congregation on the first day of the month in the second year; and they registered them after their lineage, after their families, after the number of their names, from twenty years old and upwards, every male according to their number: 19 as the Lord commanded Moses, so they were numbered in the wilderness of Sinai.

20 The sons of Ruben the first-born of Israel according to their kindreds, according to their divisions, according to the houses of their families, according to the number of their names, according to their heads, were—all males from twenty years old and upward, every one that went out with the host— 21 the numbering of them of the tribe of Ruben, was forty-six thousand and four hundred. 22 For the children of Symeon according to their kindreds, according to their divisions, according to the houses of their families, according to the number of their names, according to their polls, all males from twenty years old and upward, every one that goes out with the host, 23 the numbering of them of the tribe of Symeon, was fifty-nine thousand and three hundred.

24 For the sons of Juda according to their kindreds, according to their divisions, according to the houses of their families, according to the number of their names, according to their polls, all males from twenty years old and upward, every one that goes forth with the host, 25 the numbering of them of the tribe of Juda, was seventy-four thousand and six hundred.

26 For the sons of Issachar according to their kindreds, according to their divisions, according to the houses of their families, according to the number of their names, according to their polls, all males from twenty years old and upward, every one that goes forth with the host, 27 the numbering of them of the tribe of Issachar, was fifty-four thousand and four hundred. 28 For the sons of Zabulon according to their kindreds, according to their divisions, according to the houses of their families, according to the number of their names, according to their polls, all males from twenty years old and upward, every one that goes out with the host, 29 the numbering of them of the tribe of Zabulon, was fifty-seven thousand and four hundred.

30 For the sons of Joseph, the sons of Ephraim, according to their kindreds, according to their divisions, according to the houses of their families, according to the number of their names, according to their polls, all males from twenty years old and upward, every one that goes out with the host, 31 the numbering of them of the tribe of Ephraim, was forty thousand and five hundred. 32 For the sons of Manasse according to their kindreds, according to their divisions, according to the houses of their families, according to the number of their names, according to their polls, all males from twenty years old and upward, every one that goes out with the host, 33 the numbering of them of the tribe of Manasse, was thirty-two thousand and two hundred. 34 For the sons of Benjamin according to their kindreds, according to their divisions, according to the houses of their families, according to the number of their names, according to their polls, every male from twenty years old and upward, every one that goes forth with the host, 35 the numbering of them of the tribe of Benjamin, was thirty-five thousand and four hundred. 36 For the sons of Gad according to their kindreds, according to their divisions, according to the houses of their families, according to the number of their names, according to their polls, all males from twenty years old and upward, every one that goes forth with the host, 37 the numbering of them of the tribe of Gad, was forty and five thousand and six hundred and fifty. 38 For the sons of Dan according to their kindreds, according to their divisions, according to the houses of their families, according to the number of their names, according to their polls, all males from twenty years old and upward, every one that goes forth with the host, 39 the numbering of them of the tribe of Dan, was sixty and two thousand and seven hundred. 40 For the sons of Aser according to their kindreds, according to their divisions, according to the houses of their families, according to the number of their names, according to their polls, every male from twenty years old and upward, every one that goes forth with the host, 41 the numbering of them of the tribe of Aser, was forty and one thousand and five hundred.

42 For the sons of Nephthali according to their kindreds, according to their divisions, according to the houses of their families, according to the number of their names, according to their polls, every male from twenty years old and upward, every one who goes forth with the host, 43 the numbering of them of the tribe of Nephthali, was fifty-three thousand and four hundred.

44 This is the numbering which Moses and Aaron and the rulers of Israel, being twelve men, conducted: there was a man for each tribe, they were according to the tribe of the houses of their family. 45 The whole numbering of the children of Israel with their host from twenty years old and upward, every one that goes out to set himself in battle array in Israel, came to 46 six hundred thousand and three thousand and five hundred and fifty.

47 But the Levites of the tribe of their family were not counted among the children of Israel. 48 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 49 See, you shall not muster the tribe of Levi and you shall not take their numbers, in the midst of the children of Israel. 50 And do you set the Levites over the tabernacle of witness and over all its furniture and over all things that are in it; and they shall do service in it and they shall encamp around the tabernacle. 51 And in removing the tabernacle, the Levites shall take it down and in pitching the tabernacle they shall set it up: Let the stranger that advances to touch it die. 52 The children of Israel shall encamp, every man in his own order and every man according to his company, with their host. 53 But let the Levites encamp around the tabernacle of witness fronting it and so there shall be no sin among the children of Israel; and the Levites themselves shall keep the guard of the tabernacle of witness. 54 The children of Israel did according to all that the Lord commanded Moses and Aaron, so did they.

2:1 The Lord spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying: 2 Let the children of Israel encamp fronting each other, every man keeping his own rank, according to their standards, according to the houses of their families; the children of Israel shall encamp around the tabernacle of witness. 3 And those who encamp first toward the east shall be the order of the camp of Juda with their host and the prince of the sons of Juda, Naasson the son of Aminadab. 4 His forces that were numbered, were seventy-four thousand and six hundred. 5 And those who encamp next shall be of the tribe of Issachar and the prince of the sons of Issachar shall be Nathanael the son of Sogar. 6 His forces that were numbered, were fifty-four thousand and four hundred. 7 And those who encamp next shall be of the tribe of Zabulon and the prince of the sons of Zabulon shall be Eliab the son of Chaelon. 8 His forces that were numbered, were fifty-seven thousand and four hundred. 9 All that were numbered of the camp of Juda were a hundred and eighty thousand and six thousand and four hundred: they shall move first with their forces. 10 This is the order of the camp of Ruben; their forces shall be toward the south and the prince of the children of Ruben shall be Elisur the son of Sediur. 11 His forces that were numbered, were forty-six thousand and five hundred. 12 And those who encamp next to him shall be of the tribe of Symeon and the prince of the sons of Symeon shall be Salamiel the son of Surisadai. 13 His forces that were numbered, were fifty-nine thousand and three hundred. 14 And those who encamp next to them shall be the tribe of Gad; and the prince of the sons of Gad, Elisaph the son of Raguel. 15 His forces that were numbered, were forty-five thousand and six hundred and fifty. 16 All who were numbered of the camp of Ruben, were a hundred and fifty-one thousand and four hundred and fifty: they with their forces shall proceed in the second place.

17 And then the tabernacle of witness shall be set forward and the camp of the Levites shall be between the camps; as they shall encamp, so also shall they commence their march, each one next in order to his fellow according to their companies. 18 The station of the camp of Ephraim shall be westward with their forces and the head of the children of Ephraim shall be Elisama the son of Emiud. 19 His forces that were numbered, are forty thousand and five hundred.

20 And those who encamp next shall be of the tribe of Manasse and the prince of the sons of Manasse, Gamaliel the son of Phadassur. 21 His forces that were numbered, were thirty-two thousand and two hundred. 22 And those who encamp next shall be of the tribe of Benjamin and the prince of the sons of Benjamin, Abidan the son of Gadeoni. 23 His forces that were numbered, were thirty-five thousand and four hundred. 24 All that were numbered of the camp of Ephraim, were one hundred and eight thousand and one hundred: they with their forces shall set out third.

25 The order of the camp of Dan shall be northward with their forces; and the prince of the sons of Dan, Achiezer the son of Amisadai. 26 His forces that were numbered, were sixty-two thousand and seven hundred. 27 And those who encamp next to him shall be the tribe of Aser; and the prince of the sons of Aser, Phagieli the son of Echran. 28 His forces that were numbered, were forty-one thousand and five hundred. 29 And those who encamp next shall be of the tribe of Nephthali; and the prince of the children of Nephthali, Achire son Ænan. 30 His forces that were numbered were fifty-three thousand and four hundred. 31 All that were numbered of the camp of Dan, were a hundred and fifty-seven thousand and six hundred: they shall set out last according to their order.

32 This is the numbering of the children of Israel according to the houses of their families: all the numbering of the camps with their forces, was six hundred and three thousand, five hundred and fifty. 33 But the Levites were not numbered with them, as the Lord commanded Moses. 34 The children of Israel did all things that the Lord commanded Moses; thus they encamped in their order and thus they began their march in succession each according to their divisions, according to the houses of their families.

3:1 These are the generations of Aaron and Moses, in the day in which the Lord spoke to Moses in mount Sinai. 2 These are the names of the sons of Aaron; Nadab the first-born; and Abiud, Eleazar and Ithamar. 3 These are the names of the sons of Aaron, the anointed priests whom they consecrated to the priesthood. 4 And Nadab and Abiud died before the Lord when they offered strange fire before the Lord, in the wilderness of Sinai; and they had no children; and Eleazar and Ithamar ministered in the priests' office with Aaron their father.

5 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 6 Take the tribe of Levi and you shall set them before Aaron the priest and they shall minister to him, 7 and shall keep his charges and the charges of the children of Israel, before the tabernacle of witness, to do the works of the tabernacle. 8 They shall keep all the furniture of the tabernacle of witness and the charges of the children of Israel as to all the works of the tabernacle. 9 You shall give the Levites to Aaron and to his sons the priests; they are given for a gift to me of the children of Israel. 10 You shall appoint Aaron and his sons over the tabernacle of witness; and they shall keep their charge of priesthood and all things belonging to the altar and within the veil; and the stranger that touches them shall die. 11 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 12 Behold, I have taken the Levites from the midst of the children of Israel, instead of every male that opens the womb from among the children of Israel: they shall be their ransom and the Levites shall be mine. 13 For every first-born is mine; in the day in which I stroke every first-born in the land of Egypt, I sanctified to myself every first-born in Israel: both of man and beast, they shall be mine: I am the Lord.

14 The Lord spoke to Moses in the wilderness of Sinai, saying: 15 Take the number of the sons of Levi, according to the houses of their families, according to their divisions; number you them every male from a month old and upwards. 16 Moses and Aaron numbered them by the word of the Lord, as the Lord commanded them.

17 These were the sons of Levi by their names; Gedson, Caath and Merari. 18 These are the names of the sons of Gedson according to their families; Lobeni and Semei: 19 and the sons of Caath according to their families; Amram and Issaar, Chebron and Oziel: 20 and the sons of Merari according to their families, Mooli and Musi; these are the families of the Levites according to the houses of their families. 21 To Gedson belongs the family of Lobeni and the family of Semei: these are the families of Gedson. 22 The numbering of them according to the number of every male from a month old and upwards, their numbering was seven thousand and five hundred. 23 The sons of Gedson shall encamp westward behind the tabernacle. 24 The ruler of the household of the family of Gedson was Elisaph the son of Dael. 25 The charge of the sons of Gedson in the tabernacle of witness was the tent and the veil and the covering of the door of the tabernacle of witness, 26 and the curtains of the court and the veil of the door of the court, which is by the tabernacle and the remainder of all its works.

27 To Caath belonged one division, that of Amram and another division, that of Issaar and another division, that of Chebron and another division, that of Oziel: these are the divisions of Caath, according to number. 28 Every male from a month old and upward, eight thousand and six hundred, keeping the charges of the holy things. 29 The families of the sons of Caath, shall encamp beside the tabernacle toward the south. 30 The chief of the house of the families of the divisions of Caath, was Elisaphan the son of Oziel.

31 And their charge was the ark and the table and the candlestick and the altars and all the vessels of the sanctuary by which they do holy service and the veil and all their works. 32 The chief over the chief of the Levites, was Eleazar the son of Aaron the priest, appointed to keep the charges of the holy things. 33 To Merari belonged the family of Mooli and the family of Musi: these are the families of Merari. 34 The mustering of them according to number, every male from a month old and upwards, was six thousand and fifty. 35 The head of the house of the families of the division of Merari, was Suriel the son of Abichail: they shall encamp by the side of the tabernacle northwards. 36 The oversight of the charge of the sons of Merari included the chapters of the tabernacle and its bars and its pillars and its sockets and all their furniture and their works, 37 and the pillars of the court around and their bases and their pins and their cords.

38 Those who encamp before the tabernacle of witness on the east shall be Moses and Aaron and his sons, keeping the charges of the sanctuary according to the charges of the children of Israel; and the stranger that touches them, shall die. 39 All the numbering of the Levites, whom Moses and Aaron numbered by the word of the Lord, according to their families, every male from a month old and upwards, were two and twenty thousand.

40 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: Count every first-born male of the children of Israel from a month old and upwards and take the number by name. 41 You shall take the Levites for me—I am the Lord—instead of all the first-born of the sons of Israel and the cattle of the Levites instead of all the first-born among the cattle of the children of Israel. 42 Moses counted, as the Lord commanded him, every first-born among the children of Israel. 43 All the male first-born in number by name, from a month old and upwards, were according to their numbering twenty-two thousand and two hundred and seventy-three. 44 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 45 Take the Levites instead of all the first-born of the sons of Israel and the cattle of the Levites instead of their cattle and the Levites shall be mine; I am the Lord. 46 And for the ransoms of the two hundred and seventy-three which exceed the Levites in number of the first-born of the sons of Israel; 47 you shall even take five shekels a head; you shall take them according to the holy didrachm, twenty oboli to the shekel. 48 You shall give the money to Aaron and to his sons, the ransom of those who exceed in number among them. 49 Moses took the silver, the ransom of those who exceeded in number the redemption of the Levites. 50 He took the silver from the first-born of the sons of Israel, a thousand three hundred and sixty-five shekels, according to the holy shekel. 51 Moses gave the ransom of those who were over to Aaron and his sons, by the word of the Lord, as the Lord commanded Moses.

4:1 The Lord spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying: 2 Take the sum of the children of Caath from the midst of the sons of Levi, after their families, according to the houses of their fathers' households; 3 from twenty-five years old and upward until fifty years, every one that goes in to minister, to do all the works in the tabernacle of witness.

4 These are the works of the sons of Caath in the tabernacle of witness; it is most holy. 5 And Aaron and his sons shall go in when the camp is about to move and shall take down the shadowing veil and shall cover with it the ark of the testimony. 6 They shall put on it a cover, even a blue skin and put on it above a garment all of blue and shall put the staves through the rings.

7 They shall put on the table set forth for shew-bread a cloth all of purple and the dishes and the censers and the cups and the vessels with which one offers drink-offerings; and the continual loaves shall be upon it. 8 They shall put upon it a scarlet cloth and they shall cover it with a blue covering of skin and they shall put the staves into it. 9 They shall take a blue covering and cover the candlestick that gives light and its lamps and its snuffers and its funnels and all the vessels of oil with which they minister. 10 They shall put it and all its vessels, into a blue skin cover; and they shall put it on bearers. 11 They shall put a blue cloth for a cover on the golden altar and shall cover it with a blue skin cover and put in its staves.

12 They shall take all the instruments of service, with which they minister in the sanctuary: and shall place them in a cloth of blue and shall cover them with blue skin covering and put them upon staves. 13 He shall put the covering on the altar and they shall cover it with a cloth all of purple. 14 They shall put upon it all the vessels with which they minister upon it and the fire-pans and the flesh-hooks and the cups and the cover and all the vessels of the altar; and they shall put on it a blue cover of skins and shall put in its staves; and they shall take a purple cloth and cover the laver and its foot and they shall put it into a blue cover of skin and put it on bars. 15 And Aaron and his sons shall finish covering the holy things and all the holy vessels when the camp begins to move; and afterwards the sons of Caath shall go in to take up the furniture; but shall not touch the holy things, for fear that they die: these shall the sons of Caath bear in the tabernacle of witness.

16 Eleazar the son of Aaron the priest is overseer—the oil of the light and the incense of composition and the daily meat-offering and the anointing oil, are his charge; even the oversight of the whole tabernacle and all things that are in it in the holy place, in all the works.

17 The Lord spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying: 18 you shall not destroy the family of Caath from the tribe out of the midst of the Levites. 19 This do you to them and they shall live and not die when they approach the holy of holies: Let Aaron and his sons advance and they shall place them each in his post for bearing. 20 And so they shall by no means go in to look suddenly upon the holy things and die.

21 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 22 Take the sum of the children of Gedson and these according to the houses of their lineage, according to their families. 23 Take the number of them from five and twenty years old and upwards until the age of fifty, every one that goes in to minister, to do his business in the tabernacle of witness. 24 This is the public service of the family of Gedson, to minister and to bear. 25 They shall bear the skins of the tabernacle and the tabernacle of witness and its veil and the blue cover that was on it above and the cover of the door of the tabernacle of witness. 26 All the curtains of the court which were upon the tabernacle of witness and the appendages and all the vessels of service that they minister with they shall attend to. 27 According to the direction of Aaron and his sons shall be the ministry of the sons of Gedson, in all their ministries and in all their works; and you shall take account of them by name in all things borne by them. 28 This is the service of the sons of Gedson in the tabernacle of witness and their charge by the hand of Ithamar the son of Aaron the priest.

29 The sons of Merari according to their families, according to the houses of their lineage, take you the number of them. 30 Take the number of them from five and twenty years old and upwards until fifty years old, every one that goes in to perform the services of the tabernacle of witness. 31 These are the charges of the things borne by them according to all their works in the tabernacle of witness: they shall bear the chapters of the tabernacle and the bars and its pillars and its sockets and the veil and there shall be their sockets and their pillars and the curtain of the door of the tabernacle. 32 They shall bear the pillars of the court around and there shall be their sockets and they shall bear the pillars of the veil of the door of the court and their sockets and their pins and their cords and all their furniture and all their instruments of service: take you their number by name and all the articles of the charge of the things borne by them. 33 This is the ministration of the family of the sons of Merari in all their works in the tabernacle of witness, by the hand of Ithamar the son of Aaron the priest.

34 Moses and Aaron and the rulers of Israel took the number of the sons of Caath according to their families, according to the houses of their lineage; 35 from five and twenty years old and upwards to the age of fifty years, every one that goes in to minister and do service in the tabernacle of witness. 36 The numbering of them according to their families was two thousand, seven hundred and fifty. 37 This is the numbering of the family of Caath, every one that ministers in the tabernacle of witness, as Moses and Aaron numbered them by the word of the Lord, by the hand of Moses.

38 The sons of Gedson were numbered according to their families, according to the houses of their lineage, 39 from five and twenty years old and upward till fifty years old, every one that goes in to minister and to do the services in the tabernacle of witness. 40 The numbering of them according to their families, according to the houses of their lineage, was two thousand six hundred and thirty. 41 This is the numbering of the family of the sons of Gedson, every one who ministers in the tabernacle of witness; whom Moses and Aaron numbered by the word of the Lord, by the hand of Moses.

42 And also the family of the sons of Merari were numbered according to their divisions, according to the house of their fathers; 43 from five and twenty years old and upward till fifty years old, every one that goes in to minister in the services of the tabernacle of witness. 44 The numbering of them according to their families, according to the houses of their lineage, was three thousand and two hundred. 45 This is the numbering of the family of the sons of Merari, whom Moses and Aaron numbered by the word of the Lord, by the hand of Moses. 46 All that were numbered, whom Moses and Aaron and the rulers of Israel numbered, namely, the Levites, according to their families and according to the houses of their lineage, 47 from five and twenty years old and upward till fifty years old, every one that goes in to the service of the works and the charge of the things that are carried in the tabernacle of witness. 48 And those who were numbered were eight thousand five hundred and eighty. 49 He reviewed them by the word of the Lord by the hand of Moses, appointing each man severally over their respective work and over their burdens; and they were numbered, as the Lord commanded Moses.

5:1 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 2 Charge the children of Israel, Let them send forth out of the camp every leper and every one who has in issue of the reins and every one who is unclean from a dead body. 3 Whether male or female, send them forth out of the camp; and they shall not defile their camps in which I dwell among them. 4 The children of Israel did so and sent them out of the camp: as the Lord said to Moses: so did the children of Israel.

5 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 6 Speak to the children of Israel, saying: Every man or woman who shall commit any sin that is common to man, or if that soul shall in anywise have neglected the commandment and transgressed; 7 that person shall confess the sin which he has committed and shall make satisfaction for his trespass: he shall pay the principal and shall add to it the fifth part and shall make restoration to him against whom he has trespassed. 8 But if a man have no near kinsman, so as to make satisfaction for his trespass to him, the trespass-offering paid to the Lord shall be for the priest, besides the ram of atonement, by which he shall make atonement with it for him.

9 And every first-fruits in all the sanctified things among the children of Israel, whatsoever they shall offer to the Lord, shall be for the priest himself. 10 The hallowed things of every man shall be his; and whatever man shall give any thing to the priest, the gift shall be his.

11 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 12 Speak to the children of Israel and you shall say to them, Whosoever wife shall transgress against him and slight and despise him, 13 and supposing any one shall lie with her carnally and the thing shall be hid from the eyes of her husband and she should conceal it and be herself defiled and there be no witness with her and she should not be taken; 14 and there should come upon him a spirit of jealousy, He should be jealous of his wife and she be defiled; or there should come upon him a spirit of jealousy, He should be jealous of his wife and she should not be defiled; 15 then shall the man bring his wife to the priest and shall bring his gift for her, the tenth part of an ephah of barley-meal: he shall not pour oil upon it, neither shall he put frankincense upon it; for it is a sacrifice of jealousy, a sacrifice of memorial, recalling sin to remembrance.

16 The priest shall bring her and cause her to stand before the Lord. 17 The priest shall take pure running water in an earthen vessel, He shall take of the dust that is on the floor of the tabernacle of witness and the priest having taken it shall cast it into the water. 18 The priest shall cause the woman to stand before the Lord and shall uncover the head of the woman and shall put into her hands the sacrifice of memorial, the sacrifice of jealousy; and in the hand of the priest shall be the water of this conviction that brings the curse. 19 The priest shall adjure her and shall say to the woman, If no one has lain with you and if you have not transgressed so as to be polluted, being under the power of your husband, be free from this water of the conviction that causes the curse. 20 But if being a married woman you have transgressed, or been polluted and any one has lain with you, beside your husband: 21 then the priest shall adjure the woman by the oaths of this curse and the priest shall say to the woman, The Lord bring you into a curse and under an oath in the midst of your people, in that the Lord should cause your thigh to rot and your belly to swell; 22 and this water bringing the curse shall enter into your womb to cause your belly to swell and your thigh to rot. The woman shall say, Amen, Amen.

23 The priest shall write these curses in a book and shall blot them out with the water of the conviction that brings the curse. 24 He shall cause the woman to drink the water of the conviction that brings the curse; and the water of the conviction that brings the curse shall enter into her.

25 The priest shall take from the hand of the woman the sacrifice of jealousy and shall present the sacrifice before the Lord and shall bring it to the altar. 26 The priest shall take a handful of the sacrifice as a memorial of it and shall offer it up upon the altar; and afterwards he shall cause the woman to drink the water. 27 It shall come to pass, if she be defiled and have altogether escaped the notice of her husband, then the water of the conviction that brings the curse shall enter into her; and she shall swell in her belly and her thigh shall rot and the woman shall be for a curse in the midst of her people. 28 But if the woman have not been polluted and be clean, then shall she be guiltless and shall conceive seed. 29 This is the law of jealousy, by which a married woman should happen to transgress and be defiled; 30 or in the case of a man on whoever the spirit of jealousy should come, He should be jealous of his wife, He should place his wife before the Lord and the priest shall execute towards her all this law. 31 Then the man shall be clear from sin and that woman shall bear her sin.

6:1 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 2 speak to the children of Israel and you shall say to them, Whatsoever man or woman shall specially vow a vow to separate oneself with purity to the Lord, 3 he shall purely abstain from wine and strong drink; He shall drink no vinegar of wine or vinegar of strong drink; and whatever is made of the grape he shall not drink; neither shall he eat fresh grapes or raisins, 4 all the days of his vow: he shall eat no one of all the things that come from the vine, wine from the grape-stones to the husk, 5 all the days of his separation:—a razor shall not come upon his head, until the days be fulfilled which he vowed to the Lord: he shall be holy, cherishing the long hair of the head, 6 all the days of his vow to the Lord: he shall not come near to any dead body, 7 to his father or his mother, or to his brother or his sister; he shall not defile himself for them when they have died, because the vow of God is upon him on his head.

8 All the days of his vow he shall be holy to the Lord. 9 If any one should die suddenly by him, immediately the head of his vow shall be defiled; He shall shave his head in whatever day he shall be purified: on the seventh day he shall be shaved. 10 And on the eighth day he shall bring two turtledoves, or two young pigeons, to the priest, to the doors of the tabernacle of witness.

11 The priest shall offer one for a sin-offering; and the other for a whole-burnt-offering; and the priest shall make atonement for him in the things by which he sinned respecting the dead body, He shall sanctify his head in that day, 12 in which he was consecrated to the Lord, all the days of his vow; He shall bring a lamb of a year old for a trespass-offering; and the former days shall not be reckoned, because the head of his vow was polluted.

13 And this is the law of him that has vowed: in whatever day he shall have fulfilled the days of his vow, he shall himself bring his gift to the doors of the tabernacle of witness. 14 He shall bring his gift to the Lord; one he-lamb of a year old without blemish for a whole-burnt-offering and one ewe-lamb of a year old without blemish for a sin-offering and one ram without blemish for a peace-offering; 15 and a basket of unleavened bread of fine flour, even loaves kneaded with oil and unleavened cakes anointed with oil and their meat-offering and their drink-offering. 16 The priest shall bring them before the Lord and shall offer his sin-offering and his whole-burnt-offering. 17 He shall offer the ram as a sacrifice of peace-offering to the Lord with the basket of unleavened bread; and the priest shall offer its meat-offering and its drink-offering. 18 He that has vowed shall shave the head of his consecration by the doors of the tabernacle of witness and shall put the hairs on the fire which is under the sacrifice of peace-offering.

19 The priest shall take the soaked shoulder of the ram and one unleavened loaf from the basket and one unleavened cake and shall put them on the hands of the votary after he has shaved off his holy hair. 20 The priest shall present them as an offering before the Lord; it shall be the holy portion for the priest beside the breast of the heave-offering and beside the shoulder of the wave-offering; and afterwards the votary shall drink wine. 21 This is the law of the votary who shall have vowed to the Lord his gift to the Lord, concerning his vow, besides what he may be able to afford according to the value of his vow, which he may have vowed according to the law of separation.

22 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 23 Speak to Aaron and to his sons, saying: Thus you shall bless the children of Israel, saying to them, 24 The Lord bless you and keep you; 25 the Lord make his face to shine upon you and have mercy upon you; 26 the Lord lift up his countenance upon you and give you peace. 27 They shall put my name upon the children of Israel and I the Lord will bless them.

8:1 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 2 Speak to Aaron and you shall say to him, Whenever you shall set the lamps in order, the seven lamps shall give light opposite the candlestick. 3 And Aaron did so: on one side opposite the candlestick he lighted its lamps, as the Lord appointed Moses. 4 And this is the construction of the candlestick: it is solid, golden—its stem and its lilies—all solid: according to the pattern which the Lord showed Moses, so he made the candlestick.

5 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 6 Take the Levites out of the midst of the children of Israel and you shall purify them. 7 Thus shall you perform their purification: you shall sprinkle them with water of purification and a razor shall come upon the whole of their body and they shall wash their garments and shall be clean.

8 They shall take one calf of the herd and its meat-offering, fine flour mingled with oil: and you shall take a calf of a year old of the herd for a sin-offering. 9 You shall bring the Levites before the tabernacle of witness; and you shall assemble all the congregation of the sons of Israel. 10 You shall bring the Levites before the Lord; and the sons of Israel shall lay their hands upon the Levites. 11 And Aaron shall separate the Levites for a gift before the Lord from the children of Israel: and they shall be prepared to perform the works of the Lord. 12 The Levites shall lay their hands on the heads of the calves; and you shall offer one for a sin-offering and the other for a whole-burnt-offering to the Lord, to make atonement for them.

13 You shall set the Levites before the Lord and before Aaron and before his sons; and you shall give them as a gift before the Lord. 14 You shall separate the Levites from the midst of the sons of Israel and they shall be mine. 15 And afterwards the Levites shall go in to perform the works of the tabernacle of witness; and you shall purify them and present them before the Lord. 16 For these are given to me for a present out of the midst of the children of Israel: I have taken them to myself instead of all the first-born of the sons of Israel that open every womb. 17 For every first-born among the children of Israel is mine, whether of man or beast: in the day in which I stroke every first-born in the land of Egypt, I sanctified them to myself. 18 I took the Levites in the place of every first-born among the children of Israel. 19 I gave the Levites presented as a gift to Aaron and his sons out of the midst of the children of Israel, to do the service of the children of Israel in the tabernacle of witness and to make atonement for the children of Israel: thus there shall be none among the sons of Israel to draw near to the holy things.

20 Moses and Aaron and all the congregation of the children of Israel, did to the Levites as the Lord commanded Moses concerning the Levites, so the sons of Israel did to them. 21 So the Levites purified themselves and washed their garments; and Aaron presented them as a gift before the Lord and Aaron made atonement for them to purify them. 22 And afterwards the Levites went in to minister in their service in the tabernacle of witness before Aaron and before his sons; as the Lord appointed Moses concerning the Levites, so they did to them.

23 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 24 This is the ordinance for the Levites; From five and twenty years old and upward, they shall go in to minister in the tabernacle of witness. 25 And from fifty years old the Levites shall cease from the ministry and shall not work any longer. 26 And his brother shall serve in the tabernacle of witness to keep charges, but he shall not do works: so shall you do to the Levites in their charges.

9:1 The Lord spoke to Moses in the wilderness of Sinai in the second year after they had gone forth from the land of Egypt, in the first month, saying: 2 Speak, Let the children of Israel keep the Passover in its season. 3 On the fourteenth day of the first month at even, you shall keep it in its season; you shall keep it according to its law and according to its ordinance. 4 Moses ordered the children of Israel to sacrifice the Passover, 5 on the fourteenth day of the first month in the wilderness of Sinai, as the Lord appointed Moses, so the children of Israel did.

6 And there came men who were unclean because of a dead body and they were not able to keep the Passover on that day; and they came before Moses and Aaron on that day. 7 And those men said to Moses: We are unclean because of the dead body of a man: shall we therefore fail to offer the gift to the Lord in its season in the midst of the children of Israel? 8 Moses said to them: stand there and I will hear what charge the Lord will give concerning you. 9 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 10 Speak to the children of Israel, saying: Whatever man shall be unclean because of a dead body, or on a journey far off, among you, or among your posterity; he shall then keep the Passover to the Lord, 11 in the second month, on the fourteenth day; in the evening they shall offer it, with unleavened bread and bitter herbs shall they eat it. 12 They shall not leave of it until the morrow and they shall not break a bone of it; they shall sacrifice it according to the ordinance of the Passover. 13 And whatsoever man shall be clean and is not far off on a journey and shall fail to keep the Passover, that soul shall be cut off from his people, because he has not offered the gift to the Lord in its season: that man shall bear his iniquity. 14 If there should come to you a stranger in your land and should keep the Passover to the Lord, he shall keep it according to the law of the Passover and according to its ordinance: there shall be one law for you, both for the stranger and for the native of the land.

15 And in the day in which the tabernacle was pitched the cloud covered the tabernacle, the place of the testimony; and in the evening there was upon the tabernacle as the appearance of fire till the morning. 16 So it was continually: the cloud covered it by day and the appearance of fire by night. 17 When the cloud went up from the tabernacle, then after that the children of Israel departed; and in whatever place the cloud rested, there the children of Israel encamped. 18 The children of Israel shall encamp by the command of the Lord and by the command of the Lord they shall remove: all the days in which the cloud overshadows the tabernacle, the children of Israel shall encamp. 19 Whenever the cloud shall be drawn over the tabernacle for many days, then the children of Israel shall keep the charge of God and they shall not remove. 20 It shall be, whenever the cloud overshadows the tabernacle a number of days, they shall encamp by the word of the Lord and shall remove by the command of the Lord. 21 It shall come to pass, whenever the cloud shall remain from the evening till the morning and in the morning the cloud shall go up, then shall they remove by day or by night. 22 When the cloud continues a full month overshadowing the tabernacle, the children of Israel shall encamp and shall not depart. 23 For they shall depart by the command of the Lord:—they kept the charge of the Lord by the command of the Lord by the hand of Moses.

10:1 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 2 Make to yourself two silver trumpets: you shall make them of beaten work; and they shall be to you for the purpose of calling the assembly and of removing the camps. 3 You shall sound with them and all the congregation shall be gathered to the door of the tabernacle of witness. 4 If they shall sound with one, all the rulers even the princes of Israel shall come to you. 5 You shall sound an alarm and the camps pitched eastward shall begin to move. 6 You shall sound a second alarm and the camps pitched southward shall move; and you shall sound a third alarm and the camps pitched westward shall move forward; and you shall sound a fourth alarm and those who encamp toward the north shall move forward: they shall sound an alarm at their departure. 7 Whenever you shall gather the assembly, you shall sound, but not an alarm. 8 The priests the sons of Aaron shall sound with the trumpets; and it shall be a perpetual ordinance for you throughout your generations. 9 If you shall go forth to war in your land against your enemies that are opposed to you, then shall you sound with the trumpets; and you shall be had in remembrance before the Lord and you shall be saved from your enemies. 10 And in the days of your gladness and in your feasts and in your new moons, you shall sound with the trumpets at your whole-burnt-offerings and at the sacrifices of your peace-offerings; and there shall be a memorial for you before your God: I am the Lord your God.

11 It came to pass in the second year, in the second month, on the twentieth day of the month, the cloud went up from the tabernacle of witness. 12 The children of Israel set forward with their baggage in the wilderness of Sinai; and the cloud rested in the wilderness of Pharan. 13 The first rank departed by the word of the Lord by the hand of Moses.

14 They first set in motion the order of the camp of the children of Juda with their host; and over their host was Naasson, son of Aminadab. 15 And over the host of the tribe of the sons of Issachar, was Nathanael son of Sogar. 16 And over the host of the tribe of the sons of Zabulon, was Eliab the son of Chaelon. 17 They shall take down the tabernacle and the sons of Gedson shall set forward and the sons of Merari, who bear the tabernacle.

18 The order of the camp of Ruben set forward with their host; and over their host was Elisur the son of Sediur. 19 And over the host of the tribe of the sons of Symeon, was Salamiel son of Surisadai. 20 And over the host of the tribe of the children of Gad, was Elisaph the son of Raguel. 21 The sons of Caath shall set forward bearing the holy things and the others shall set up the tabernacle until they arrive. 22 The order of the camp of Ephraim shall set forward with their forces; and over their forces was Elisama the son of Semiud.

23 And over the forces of the tribes of the sons of Manasse, was Gamaliel the son of Phadassur. 24 And over the forces of the tribe of the children of Benjamin, was Abidan the son of Gadeoni. 25 The order of the camp of the sons of Dan shall set forward the last of all the camps, with their forces: and over their forces was Achiezer the son of Amisadai. 26 And over the forces of the tribe of the sons of Aser, was Phageel the son of Echran. 27 And over the forces of the tribe of the sons of Nephthali, was Achire the son of Ænan. 28 These are the armies of the children of Israel; and they set forward with their forces.

29 Moses said to Obab the son of Raguel the Madianite, the father-in-law of Moses, We are going forward to the place concerning which the Lord said: This will I give to you: Come with us and we will do you good, for the Lord has spoken good concerning Israel. 30 He said to him: I will not go, but I will go to my land and to my kindred. 31 He said: Leave us not, because you have been with us in the wilderness and you shall be an elder among us. 32 It shall come to pass if you will go with us, it shall even come to pass that in whatsoever things the Lord shall do us good, we will also do you good.

33 They departed from the mount of the Lord a three days' journey; and the ark of the covenant of the Lord went before them a three days' journey to provide rest for them. 34 The cloud overshadowed them by day when they departed from the camp. 35 It came to pass when the ark set forward, that Moses said: Arise, O Lord, Let your enemies be scattered: let all that hate you flee. 36 And in the resting he said: Turn again, O Lord, the thousands and tens of thousands in Israel.

11:1 The people murmured sinfully before the Lord; and the Lord heard them and was very angry; and fire was kindled among them from the Lord and devoured a part of the camp. 2 The people cried to Moses: and Moses prayed to the Lord and the fire was quenched. 3 The name of that place was called Burning; for a fire was kindled among them from the Lord.

4 The mixed multitude among them lusted exceedingly; and they and the children of Israel sat down and wept and said: Who shall give us flesh to eat? 5 We remember the fish, which we ate in Egypt freely; and the cucumbers and the melons and the leeks and the garlic and the onions. 6 But now our soul is dried up; our eyes turn to nothing but to the manna. 7 The manna is as coriander seed and the appearance of it the appearance of hoarfrost. 8 The people went through the field and gathered and ground it in the mill, or pounded it in a mortar and baked it in a pan and made cakes of it; and the sweetness of it was as the taste of wafer made with oil. 9 When the dew came upon the camp by night, the manna came down upon it.

10 Moses heard them weeping by their families, every one in his door: and the Lord was very angry; and the thing was evil in the sight of Moses. 11 Moses said to the Lord, Why have you afflicted your servant and why have I not found grace in your sight, that you should lay the weight of this people upon me? 12 Have I conceived all this people, or have I born them? That you say to me, Take them into your bosom, as a nurse would take her suckling, into the land which you swore to their fathers? 13 from where have I flesh to give to all this people? For they weep to me, saying: Give us flesh, that we may eat. 14 I shall not be able to bear this people alone, for this thing is too heavy for me. 15 If you do thus to me, kill me utterly, if I have found favor with you, that I may not see my affliction.

16 The Lord said to Moses: Gather me seventy men from the elders of Israel, whom you yourself know that they are the elders of the people and their scribes; and you shall bring them to the tabernacle of witness and they shall stand there with you. 17 I will go down and speak there with you; and I will take of the spirit that is upon you and will put it upon them; and they shall bear together with you the burden of the people and you shall not bear them alone. 18 And to the people you shall say, Purify yourselves for the morrow and you shall eat flesh; for you wept before the Lord, saying: Who shall give us flesh to eat? For it was well with us in Egypt: and the Lord shall allow you to eat flesh and you shall eat flesh. 19 You shall not eat one day, nor two, nor five days, nor ten days, nor twenty days; 20 you shall eat for a full month, until the flesh come out at your nostrils; and it shall be nausea to you, because you disobeyed the Lord, who is among you and wept before him, saying: What had we to do to come out of Egypt? 21 Moses said: The people among whom I am are six hundred thousand footmen; and you said, I will give them flesh to eat and they shall eat a whole month. 22 Shall sheep and oxen be slain for them and shall it suffice them? Or shall all the fish of the sea be gathered together for them and shall it suffice them? 23 The Lord said to Moses: Shall not the hand of the Lord be fully sufficient? Now shall you know whether my word shall come to pass to you or not.

24 Moses went out and spoke the words of the Lord to the people; He gathered seventy men of the elders of the people, He set them around the tabernacle. 25 The Lord came down in a cloud and spoke to him and took of the spirit that was upon him and put it upon the seventy men that were elders; and when the spirit rested upon them, they prophesied and ceased. 26 And there were two men left in the camp, the name of the one was Eldad and the name of the other Modad; and the spirit rested upon them and these were of the number of those who were enrolled, but they did not come to the tabernacle; and they prophesied in the camp. 27 And a young man ran and told Moses and spoke, saying: Eldad and Modad prophesy in the camp. 28 Joshua the son of Naue, who attended on Moses, the chosen one, said: My lord Moses, forbid them. 29 Moses said to him: are you jealous on my account? And would that all the Lord's people were prophets; whenever the Lord shall put his spirit upon them. 30 Moses departed into the camp, himself and the elders of Israel.

31 And there went forth a wind from the Lord and brought quails over from the sea; and it brought them down upon the camp a day's journey on this side and a day's journey on that side, around the camp, as it were two cubits from the earth. 32 The people rose up all the day and all the night and all the next day and gathered quails; he that gathered least, gathered ten measures; and they refreshed themselves around the camp. 33 The flesh was yet between their teeth, before it failed when the Lord was wroth with the people and the Lord stroke the people with a very great plague. 34 The name of that place was called the Graves of Lust; for there they buried the people that lusted. 35 The people departed from the Graves of Lust to Aseroth; and the people halted at Aseroth.

12:1 And Mariam and Aaron spoke against Moses, because of the Ethiopian woman whom Moses took; for he had taken an Ethiopian woman. 2 They said: Has the Lord spoken to Moses only? Has he not also spoken to us? And the Lord heard it. 3 The man Moses was very meek beyond all the men that were upon the earth. 4 The Lord said immediately to Moses and Aaron and Mariam, Come forth all three of you to the tabernacle of witness. 5 The three came forth to the tabernacle of witness; and the Lord descended in a pillar of a cloud and stood at the door of the tabernacle of witness; and Aaron and Mariam were called; and both came forth. 6 He said to them: Hear my words: If there should be of you a prophet to the Lord, I will be made known to him in a vision and in sleep will I speak to him. 7 My servant Moses is not so; he is faithful in all my house. 8 I will speak to him mouth to mouth apparently and not in dark speeches; He has seen the glory of the Lord; and why were you not afraid to speak against my servant Moses? 9 The great anger of the Lord was upon them, He departed. 10 The cloud departed from the tabernacle; and, behold, Mariam was leprous, white as snow; and Aaron looked upon Mariam, and, behold, she was leprous. 11 And Aaron said to Moses: I beseech you, my lord, do not lay sin upon us, for we were ignorant by which we sinned. 12 Let her not be as it were like death, as an abortion coming out of his mother's womb when the disease devours the half of the flesh. 13 Moses cried to the Lord, saying: O God, I beseech you, heal her. 14 The Lord said to Moses: If her father had only spit in her face, would she not be ashamed seven days? Let her be set apart seven days without the camp and afterwards she shall come in.

15 And Mariam was separated without the camp seven days; and the people moved not forward till Mariam was cleansed.

13:1 And afterwards the people set forth from Aseroth and encamped in the wilderness of Pharan. 2 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 3 Send for you men, Let them spy the land of the C'anaanites, which I give to the sons of Israel for a possession; one man for a tribe, you shall send them away according to their families, every one of them a prince.

4 Moses sent them out of the wilderness of Pharan by the word of the Lord; all these were the princes of the sons of Israel. 5 These are their names: of the tribe of Ruben, Samuel the son of Zachur. 6 Of the tribe of Symeon, Saphat the son of Suri. 7 Of the tribe of Judah, Chaleb the son of Jephonne. 8 Of the tribe of Issachar, Ilaal the son of Joseph. 9 Of the tribe of Ephraim, Ause the son of Naue. 10 Of the tribe of Benjamin, Phalti the son of Raphu. 11 Of the tribe of Zabulon, Gudiel the son of Sudi. 12 Of the tribe of Joseph of the sons of Manasse, Gaddi the son of Susi. 13 Of the tribe of Dan, Amiel the son of Gamali. 14 Of the tribe of Aser, Sathur the son of Michael. 15 Of the tribe of Nephthali, Nabi the son of Sabi. 16 Of the tribe of Gad, Gudiel the son of Macchi. 17 These are the names of the men whom Moses sent to spy out the land; and Moses called Ause the son of Naue, Joshua.

18 Moses sent them to spy out the land of C'anaan and said to them: Go up by this wilderness; and you shall go up to the mountain, 19 and you shall see the land, what it is and the people that dwells on it, whether it is strong or weak, or whether they are few or many. 20 And what the land is on which they dwell, whether it is good or bad; and what the cities are by which these dwell, whether they dwell in walled cities or unwalled. 21 And what the land is, whether rich or poor; whether there are trees in it or no: and you shall persevere and take of the fruits of the land: and the days were the days of spring, the forerunners of the grape.

22 They went up and surveyed the land from the wilderness of Sin to Rhoob, as men go in to Æmath. 23 They went up by the wilderness and departed as far as Chebron; and there was Achiman and Sessi and Thelami, the progeny of Enach. Now, Chebron was built seven years before Tanin of Egypt. 24 They came to the valley of the cluster and surveyed it; and they cut down for there a bough and one cluster of grapes upon it and bore it on staves and they took of the pomegranates and the figs. 25 They called that place, The valley of the cluster, because of the cluster which the children of Israel cut down there. 26 They returned there, having surveyed the land, after forty days.

27 They proceeded and came to Moses and Aaron and all the congregation of the children of Israel, to the wilderness of Pharan Cades; and they brought word to them and to all the congregation and they showed the fruit of the land: 28 and they reported to him and said: We came into the land into which you sent us, a land flowing with milk and honey; and this is the fruit of it. 29 Only the nation that dwells upon it is bold and they have very great and strong walled towns and we saw there the children of Enach. 30 And Amalec dwells in the land toward the south: and the Chettite and the Evite and the Jebusite and the Amorite dwells in the hill country: and the C'anaanite dwells by the sea and by the river Jordan. 31 And Chaleb stayed the people from speaking before Moses and said to him: No, but we will go up by all means and will inherit it, for we shall surely prevail against them. 32 But the men that went up together with him said: We will not go up, for we shall not by any means be able to go up against the nation, for it is much stronger than we. 33 They brought a horror of that land which they surveyed upon the children of Israel, saying: The land which we passed by to survey it, is a land that eats up its inhabitants; and all the people whom we saw in it are men of extraordinary stature. 34 And there we saw the giants; and we were before them as locusts, yes even so were we before them.

14:1 All the congregation lifted up their voice and cried; and the people wept all that night. 2 All the children of Israel murmured against Moses and

Aaron; and all the congregation said to them: 3 Would we had died in the land of Egypt! or in this wilderness, would we had died! and why does the Lord bring us into this land to fall in war? Our wives and our children shall be for a prey: now then it is better to return into Egypt. 4 They said one to another, Let us make a ruler and return into Egypt. 5 Moses and Aaron fell upon their face before all the congregation of the children of Israel.

6 But Joshua the son of Naue and Chaleb the son of Jephonne, of the number of those who spied out the land, rent their garments, 7 and spoke to all the congregation of the children of Israel, saying: The land which we surveyed is indeed extremely good. 8 If the Lord choose us, he will bring us into this land and give it us; a land which flows with milk and honey. 9 Only depart not from the Lord; and fear you not the people of the land, for they are meat for us; for the season of prosperity is departed from them, but the Lord is among us: fear them not.

10 All the congregation bade stone them with stones; and the glory of the Lord appeared in the cloud on the tabernacle of witness to all the children of Israel. 11 The Lord said to Moses: How long does this people provoke me? And how long do they refuse to believe me for all the signs which I have accomplished among them? 12 I will strike them with death and destroy them; and I will make of you and of your father's house a great nation and much greater than this. 13 Moses said to the Lord, So Egypt shall hear, for you have brought up this people from them by your might. 14 Moreover, all the dwellers upon this land have heard that you are Lord in the midst of this people, who, O Lord, are seen by them face to face and your cloud rests upon them and you go before them by day in a pillar of a cloud and by night in a pillar of fire. 15 If you shall destroy this nation as one man; then all the nations that have heard your name shall speak, saying: 16 Because the Lord do you think not bring this people into the land which he swore to them, he has overthrown them in the wilderness. 17 And now, O Lord, let your strength be exalted, as you spoke, saying: 18 The Lord is long-suffering and merciful and true, removing transgressions and iniquities and sins, He will by no means clear the guilty, visiting the sins of the fathers upon the children to the third and fourth generation. 19 Forgive this people their sin according to your great mercy, as you were favorable to them from Egypt until now.

20 The Lord said to Moses: I am gracious to them according to your word. 21 But as I live and my name is living, so the glory of the Lord shall fill all the earth. 22 For all the men who see my glory and the signs which I accomplished in Egypt and in the wilderness and have tempted me this tenth time and have not listened to my voice, 23 surely they shall not see the land, which I swore to their fathers; but their children which are with me here, as many as know not good or evil, every inexperienced youth, to them will I give the land; but none who have provoked me shall see it. 24 But my servant Chaleb, because there was another spirit in him, He followed me, I will bring him into the land into which he entered and his seed shall inherit it. 25 But Amalec and the C'anaanite dwell in the valley: tomorrow turn and depart for the wilderness by the way of the Red Sea.

26 The Lord spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying: 27 How long shall I endure this wicked congregation? I have heard their murmurings against me, even the murmuring of the children of Israel, which they have murmured concerning you. 28 Say to them, As I live, says the Lord: surely as you spoke into my ears, so will I do to you. 29 Your carcasses shall fall in this wilderness; and all those of you that were reviewed and those of you that were numbered from twenty years old and upward, all that murmured against me, 30 you shall not enter into the land for which I stretched out my hand to establish you upon it; except only Chaleb the son of Jephonne and Joshua the son of Naue. 31 And your little ones, who you said should be a prey, I will bring into the land; and they shall inherit the land, which you rejected. 32 And your carcasses shall fall in this wilderness. 33 And your sons shall be fed in the wilderness forty years and they shall bear your fornication, until your carcasses be consumed in the wilderness. 34 According to the number of the days during which you spied the land, forty days, a day for a year, you shall bear your sins forty years and you shall know my fierce anger. 35 I the Lord have spoken, Surely will I do thus to this evil congregation that has risen up together against me: in this wilderness they shall be utterly consumed and there they shall die.

36 The men whom Moses sent to spy out the land and who came and murmured against it to the assembly so as to bring out evil words concerning the land, — 37 the men that spoke evil reports against the land, even died of the plague before the Lord. 38 Joshua the son of Naue and Chaleb the son of Jephonne still lived of those men that went to spy out the land. 39 Moses spoke these words to all the children of Israel; and the people mourned exceedingly.

40 They rose early in the morning and went up to the top of the mountain, saying: Behold, we that are here will go up to the place of which the Lord has spoken, because we have sinned. 41 Moses said: Why do you transgress the word of the Lord? You shall not prosper. 42 Go not up, for the Lord is not with you; so shall you fall before the face of your enemies. 43 For Amalec and the C'anaanite are there before you and you shall fall by the sword; because you have disobeyed the Lord and turned aside and the Lord will not be among you. 44 And having forced their passage, they went up to the top of the mountain; but the ark of the covenant of the Lord and Moses stirred not out of the camp. 45 And Amalec and the C'anaanite that dwelt in that mountain came down and routed them and destroyed them to Herman; and they returned to the camp.

15:1 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 2 Speak to the children of Israel and you shall say to them when you have come into the land of your habitation, which I give to you, 3 and you will offer whole-burnt-offerings to the Lord, a whole-burnt-offering or a meat-offering to perform a vow, or a free-will offering, or to offer in your feasts a sacrifice of sweet savor to the Lord, whether of the herd or the flock: 4 then he that offers his gift to the Lord shall bring an offering of fine flour, a tenth part of an ephah mingled with oil, even with the fourth part of a hin. 5 And for a drink-offering you shall offer the fourth part of a hin on the whole-burnt-offering, or on the meat-offering: for every lamb you shall offer so much, as a sacrifice, a smell of sweet savor to the Lord. 6 And for a ram when you offer it as a whole-burnt-offering or as a sacrifice, you shall prepare as a meat-offering two tenths of fine flour mingled with oil, the third part of a hin. 7 You shall offer for a smell of sweet savor to the Lord wine for a drink-offering, the third part of a hin. 8 If you sacrifice a bullock from the herd for a whole-burnt-offering or for a sacrifice, to perform a vow or a peace-offering to the Lord, 9 then the worshiper shall offer upon the calf a meat-offering, three tenth deals of fine flour mingled with oil, even the half of a hin. 10 And wine for a drink-offering the half of a hin, a sacrifice for a smell of sweet savor to the Lord.

11 Thus shall you do to one calf or to one ram, or to one lamb of the sheep or kid of the goats. 12 According to the number of what you shall offer, so shall you do to each one, according to their number. 13 Every native of the country shall do thus to offer such things as sacrifices for a smell of sweet savor to the Lord. 14 If there should be a stranger among you in your land, or one who should be born to you among your generations, He will offer a sacrifice, a smell of sweet savor to the Lord—as you do, so the whole congregation shall offer to the Lord.

15 There shall be one law for you and for the strangers abiding among you, a perpetual law for your generations: as you are, so shall the stranger be before the Lord. 16 There shall be one law and one ordinance for you and for the stranger that abides among you.

17 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 18 Speak to the sons of Israel and you shall say to them when you are entering into the land, into which I bring you, 19 then it shall come to pass when you shall eat of the bread of the land, you shall separate a wave-offering, a special offering to the Lord, the first-fruits of your dough. 20 you shall offer your bread a heave-offering: as a heave-offering from the threshing-floor, so shall you separate it, 21 even the first-fruits of your dough and you shall give the Lord a heave-offering throughout your generations.

22 But whenever you shall transgress and not perform all these commands, which the Lord spoke to Moses; 23 as the Lord appointed you by the hand of Moses, from the day which the Lord appointed you and forward throughout your generations, 24 then it shall come to pass, if a trespass be committed unwillingly, unknown to the congregation, then shall all the congregation offer a calf of the herd without blemish for a whole-burnt-offering of sweet savor to the Lord and its meat-offering and its drink-offering according to the ordinance and one kid of the goats for a sin-offering. 25 The priest shall make atonement for all the congregation of the children of Israel and the trespass shall be forgiven them, because it is involuntary; and they have brought their gift, a burnt-offering to the Lord for their trespass before the Lord, even for their involuntary sins. 26 It shall be forgiven as respects all the congregation of the children of Israel and the stranger that is abiding among you, because it is involuntary to all the people.

27 If one soul sin unwillingly, he shall bring one she-goat of a year old for a sin-offering. 28 The priest shall make atonement for the soul that committed the trespass unwillingly and that sinned unwillingly before the Lord, to make atonement for him. 29 There shall be one law for the native among the children of Israel and for the stranger that abides among them, whoever shall commit a trespass unwillingly.

30 And whatever soul either of the natives or of the strangers shall do any thing with a presumptuous hand, he will provoke God; that soul shall be cut off from his people, 31 for he has set at nought the word of the Lord and broken his commands: that soul shall be utterly destroyed, his sin is upon him.

32 The children of Israel were in the wilderness and they found a man gathering sticks on the Sabbath-day. 33 They who found him gathering sticks on the Sabbath-day brought him to Moses and Aaron and to all the congregation of the children of Israel. 34 They placed him in custody, for they did not determine what they should do to him. 35 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: Let the man be by all means put to death: do you all the congregation, stone him with stones. 36 All the congregation brought him forth out of the camp; and all the congregation stoned him with stones outside the camp, as the Lord commanded Moses.

37 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 38 Speak to the children of Israel and you shall tell them; Let them make for themselves fringes upon the borders of their garments throughout their generations: and you shall put upon the fringes of the borders a lace of blue. 39 It shall be on your fringes and you shall look on them and you shall remember all the commands of the Lord and do them: and you shall not turn back after your imaginations and after the sight of your eyes in the things after which you go a whoring; 40 that you may remember and perform all my commands and you shall be holy to your God. 41 I am the Lord your God that brought you out of the land of Egypt, to be your God: I am the Lord your God.

16:1 And Core the son of Isaar the son of Caath the son of Levi and Dathan and Abiron, sons of Eliab and Aun the son of Phaleth the son of Ruben, spoke; 2 and rose up before Moses and two hundred and fifty men of the sons of Israel, chiefs of the assembly, chosen councillors and men of renown. 3 They rose up against Moses and Aaron and said: Let it be enough for you that all the congregation are holy and the Lord is among them; and why do you set up yourselves against the congregation of the Lord? 4 When Moses heard it, he fell on his face. 5 He spoke to Core and all his assembly, saying: God has visited and known those who are his¹ and who are holy and has brought them to himself; [he knows] whom he has chosen for himself, he has brought to himself. 6 This do you: take to yourselves censers, Core and all his company; 7 and put fire on them and put incense on them before the Lord tomorrow; and it shall come to pass that the man whom the Lord has chosen, he shall be holy: let it be enough for you, you sons of Levi. 8 Moses said to Core, Harken to me, you sons of Levi. 9 Is it a little thing for you, that the God of Israel has separated you from the congregation of Israel and brought you near to himself to minister in the services of the tabernacle of the Lord and to stand before the tabernacle to minister for them? 10 He has brought you near and all your brothers the sons of Levi with you and do you seek to be priests also? 11 Thus it is with you and all your congregation which is gathered together against God: and who is Aaron, that you murmur against him?

12 Moses sent to call Dathan and Abiron sons of Eliab; and they said: We will not go up. 13 Is it a little thing that you have brought us up to a land flowing with milk and honey, to kill us in the wilderness and that you altogether rule over us? 14 You are a prince and have you brought us into a land flowing with milk and honey and have you given us an inheritance of land and vineyards? Would you have put out the eyes of those men? We will not go up. 15 Moses was exceeding indignant and said to the Lord, Do you take no heed to their sacrifice: I have not taken away the desire of any one of them, neither have I hurt any one of them. 16 Moses said to Core, Sanctify your company and be ready before the Lord, you and Aaron and they, tomorrow. 17 And take each man his censer and you shall put incense upon them and shall bring each one his censer before the Lord, two hundred and fifty censers and you and Aaron shall bring each his censer.

18 And each man took his censer and they put on them fire and laid incense on them; and Moses and Aaron stood by the doors of the tabernacle of witness. 19 And Core raised up against them all his company by the door of the tabernacle of witness; and the glory of the Lord appeared to all the congregation. 20 The Lord spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying: 21 Separate yourselves from the midst of this congregation and I will consume them at once. 22 They fell on their faces and said: O God, the God of spirits and of all flesh, if one man has sinned, shall the wrath of the Lord be upon the whole congregation? 23 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 24 Speak to the congregation, saying: Depart from the company of Core round about.

25 Moses rose up and went to Dathan and Abiron and all the elders of Israel went with him. 26 He spoke to the congregation, saying: Separate yourselves from the tents of these stubborn men and touch nothing that belongs to them, for fear that you be consumed with them in all their sin. 27 They stood aloof from the tent of Core round about; and Dathan and Abiron went forth and stood by the doors of their tents and their wives and their children and their store.

28 Moses said: Hereby shall you know that the Lord has sent me to perform all these works, that I have not done them of myself. 29 If these men shall die according to the death of all men, if also their visitation shall be according to the visitation of all men, then the Lord has not sent me. 30 But if the Lord shall show by a wonder and the earth shall open her mouth and swallow them up and their houses and their tents and all that belongs to them and they shall go down alive into hades, then you shall know that these men have provoked the Lord.

31 When he ceased speaking all these words, the ground burst asunder beneath them. 32 The ground opened and swallowed them up and their houses and all the men that were with Core and their cattle. 33 They went down and all that they had, alive into hades; and the ground covered them and they perished from the midst of the congregation. 34 All Israel around them fled from the sound of them, for they said: for fear that the earth swallow us up also. 35 And fire went forth from the Lord and devoured the two hundred and fifty men that offered incense.

36 The Lord said to Moses: 37 and to Eleazar the son of Aaron the priest, Take up the brazen censers out of the midst of the men that have been burnt and scatter the strange fire yonder, for they have sanctified the censers 38 of these sinners against their own souls and do you make them beaten plates a covering to the altar, because they were brought before the Lord and hallowed; and they became a sign to the children of Israel. 39 And Eleazar the son of Aaron the priest took the brazen censers, which the men who had been burnt brought near and they put them as a covering on the altar: 40 a memorial to the children of Israel that no stranger might draw nigh, who is not of the seed of Aaron, to offer incense before the Lord; so he shall not be as Core and as those who conspired with him, as the Lord spoke to him by the hand of Moses.

41 The children of Israel murmured the next day against Moses and Aaron, saying: you have killed the people of the Lord. 42 It came to pass when the congregation combined against Moses and Aaron, that they ran impetuously to the tabernacle of witness; and the cloud covered it and the glory of the Lord appeared. 43 Moses and Aaron went in, in front of the tabernacle of witness.

44 The Lord spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying: 45 Depart out of the midst of this congregation and I will consume them at once: and they fell upon their faces. 46 Moses said to Aaron, Take a censer and put on it fire from the altar and put incense on it and carry it away quickly into the camp and make atonement for them; for wrath is gone forth from the presence of the Lord, it has begun to destroy the people. 47 And Aaron took as Moses spoke to him and ran among the congregation, for already the plague had begun among the people; He put on incense and made an atonement for the people. 48 He stood between the dead and the living and the plague ceased. 49 And those who died in the plague were fourteen thousand and seven hundred, besides those who died on account of Core. 50 And Aaron returned to Moses to the door of the tabernacle of witness and the plague ceased.

17:1 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 2 Speak to the children of Israel and take rods of them, according to the houses of their families, a rod from all their princes, according to the houses of their families, twelve rods and write the name of each on his rod. 3 And write the name of Aaron on the rod of Levi; for it is one rod for each: they shall give them according to the tribe of the house of their families. 4 You shall put them in the tabernacle of witness, before the testimony, where I will be made known to you. 5 It shall be, the man whom I shall choose, his rod shall blossom; and I will remove from me the murmuring of the children of Israel, which they murmur against you.

6 Moses spoke to the children of Israel and all their chiefs gave him a rod each, for one chief a rod, according to the house of their families, twelve rods; and the rod of Aaron was in the midst of the rods. 7 Moses laid up the rods before the Lord in the tabernacle of witness. 8 It came to pass on the morrow, that Moses and Aaron went into the tabernacle of witness; and, behold, the rod of Aaron for the house of Levi blossomed and put forth a bud and bloomed blossoms and produced almonds. 9 Moses brought forth all the rods from before the Lord to all the sons of Israel; and they looked and each one took his rod.

10 The Lord said to Moses: Lay up the rod of Aaron before the testimonies to be kept as a sign for the children of the disobedient; Let their murmuring cease from me and they shall not die. 11 Moses and Aaron did as the Lord commanded Moses, so did they. 12 The children of Israel spoke to Moses, saying: Behold, we are cut off, we are destroyed, we are consumed. 13 Every one that touches the tabernacle of the Lord, dies: shall we die utterly?

18:1 The Lord spoke to Aaron, saying: You and your sons and your father's house shall bear the sins of the holy things and you and your sons shall bear the iniquity of your priesthood. 2 And take to yourself your brothers the tribe of Levi, the family of your father, Let them be joined to you, Let them minister to you; and you and your sons with you shall minister before the tabernacle of witness. 3 They shall keep your charges and the charges of the tabernacle; only they shall not approach the holy vessels and the altar, so both they and you shall not die. 4 They shall be joined to you and shall keep the charges of the tabernacle of witness, in all the services of the tabernacle; and a stranger shall not approach to you. 5 You shall keep the charges of the holy things and the charges of the altar and so there shall not be anger among the children of Israel. 6 I have taken your brothers the Levites out of the midst of the children of Israel, a present given to the Lord, to minister in the services of the tabernacle of witness. 7 You and your sons after you shall keep up your priestly ministration, according to the whole manner of the altar and that which is within the veil; and you shall minister in the services as the office of your priesthood; and the stranger that comes near shall die.

8 The Lord said to Aaron, And, behold, I have given you the charge of the first-fruits of all things consecrated to me by the children of Israel; and I have given them to you as an honor and to your sons after you for a perpetual ordinance. 9 Let this be to you from all the holy things that are consecrated to me, even the burnt-offerings, from all their gifts and from all their sacrifices and from every trespass-offering of theirs and from all their sin-offerings, whatever things they give to me of all their holy things, they shall be your and your sons'. 10 In the most holy place shall you eat them; every male shall eat them, you and your sons: they shall be holy to you.

11 And this shall be to you of the first-fruits of their gifts, of all the wave-offerings of the children of Israel; to you have I given them and to your sons and your daughters with you, a perpetual ordinance; every clean person in your house shall eat them.

12 Every first-offering of oil and every first-offering of wine, their first-fruits of corn, whatsoever they may give to the Lord, to you have I given them. 13 All the first-fruits that are in their land, whatsoever they shall offer to the Lord, shall be yours: every clean person in your house shall eat them.

14 Every devoted thing among the children of Israel shall be yours. 15 And every thing that opens the womb of all flesh, whatsoever they bring to the Lord, whether man or beast, shall be yours: only the first-born of men shall be surely redeemed and you shall redeem the first-born of unclean cattle. 16 The redemption of them shall be from a month old; their valuation of five shekels—it is twenty oboli according to the holy shekel. 17 But you shall not redeem the first-born of calves and the first-born of sheep and the first-born of goats; they are holy: and you shall pour their blood upon the altar and you shall offer the fat as a burnt-offering for a smell of sweet savor to the Lord.

18 The flesh shall be yours, as also the breast of the wave-offering and as the right shoulder, it shall be yours. 19 Every special offering of the holy things, whatsoever the children of Israel shall specially offer to the Lord, I have given to you and to your sons and to your daughters with you, a perpetual ordinance: it is a covenant of salt for ever before the Lord, for you and your seed after you.

20 The Lord said to Aaron, You shall have no inheritance in their land, neither shall you have any portion among them; for I am your portion and your inheritance in the midst of the children of Israel. 21 And, behold, I have given to the sons of Levi every tithe in Israel for an inheritance for their services, just as they perform ministry in the tabernacle of witness. 22 The children of Israel shall no more draw near to the tabernacle of witness to incur fatal guilt. 23 The Levite himself shall perform the service of the tabernacle of witness; and they shall bear their iniquities, it is a perpetual statute throughout their generations; and in the midst of the children of Israel they shall not receive an inheritance. 24 Because I have given as a distinct portion to the Levites for an inheritance the tithes of the children of Israel, whatsoever they shall offer to the Lord; therefore I said to them: In the midst of the children of Israel they shall have no inheritance.

25 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 26 You shall also speak to the Levites and shall say to them, If you take the tithe from the children of Israel, which I have given you from them for an inheritance, then shall you separate from it a heave-offering to the Lord, a tenth of the tenth. 27 And your heave-offerings shall be reckoned to you as corn from the floor and an offering from the wine-press. 28 So shall you also separate them from all the offerings of the Lord out of all your tithes, whatsoever you shall receive from the children of Israel; and you shall give of them an offering to the Lord to Aaron the priest. 29 Of all your gifts you shall offer an offering to the Lord and of every first-fruit the consecrated part from it. 30 You shall say to them when you shall offer the first-fruits from it, then shall it be reckoned to the Levites as produce from the threshing-floor and as produce from the wine-press. 31 You shall eat it in any place, you and your families; for this is your reward for your services in the tabernacle of witness. 32 You shall not bear sin because of it, for you shall have offered an offering of first-fruits from it and you shall not profane the holy things of the children of Israel, that you die not.

19:1 The Lord spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying: 2 This is the constitution of the law, as the Lord has commanded, saying: Speak to the sons of Israel, Let them take for you a red heifer without spot, which has no spot on her and on which no yoke has been put. 3 You shall give her to Eleazar the priest; and they shall bring her out of the camp into a clean place and shall kill her before his face. 4 And Eleazar shall take of her blood and sprinkle of her blood seven times in front of the tabernacle of witness. 5 They shall burn her to ashes before him; and her skin and her flesh and her blood, with her dung, shall be consumed. 6 The priest shall take cedar wood and hyssop and scarlet wool and they shall cast them into the midst of the burning of the heifer.

7 The priest shall wash his garments and bathe his body in water and afterwards he shall go into the camp and the priest shall be unclean till evening. 8 He that burns her shall wash his garments and bathe his body and shall be unclean till evening. 9 And a clean man shall gather up the ashes of the heifer and lay them up in a clean place outside the camp; and they shall be for the congregation of the children of Israel to keep: it is the water of sprinkling, a purification. 10 He that gathers up the ashes of the heifer shall wash his garments and shall be unclean until evening; and it shall be a perpetual statute for the children of Israel and for the strangers joined to them.

11 He that touches the dead body of any man, shall be unclean seven days. 12 He shall be purified on the third day and the seventh day and shall be clean; but if he be not purged on the third day and the seventh day, he shall not be clean. 13 Every one that touches the carcass of the person of a man, if he should have died and the other not have been purified, has defiled the tabernacle of the Lord: that soul shall be cut off from Israel, because the water of sprinkling has not been sprinkled upon him; he is unclean; his uncleanness is yet upon him. 14 And this is the law; if a man die in a house, every one that goes into the house and all things in the house, shall be unclean seven days. 15 And every open vessel which has not a covering bound upon it, shall be unclean. 16 And every one who shall touch a man slain by violence, or a corpse, or human bone, or tomb, shall be unclean seven days.

17 They shall take for the unclean of the burnt ashes of purification and they shall pour upon them running water into a vessel. 18 And a clean man shall take hyssop and dip it into the water and sprinkle it upon the house and the furniture and all the souls that are in it and upon him that touched the human bone, or the slain man, or the corpse, or the tomb. 19 The clean man shall sprinkle the water on the unclean on the third day and on the seventh day and on the seventh day he shall purify himself; and the other shall wash his garments and bathe himself in water and shall be unclean until evening. 20 And whatever man shall be defiled and shall not purify himself, that soul shall be cut off from the midst of the congregation, because he has defiled the holy things of the Lord, because the water of sprinkling has not been sprinkled upon him; he is unclean. 21 It shall be to you a perpetual statute; He that sprinkles the water of sprinkling shall wash his garments; He that touches the water of sprinkling shall be unclean until evening. 22 And whatsoever the unclean man shall touch shall be unclean and the soul that touches it shall be unclean till evening.

20:1 The children of Israel, even the whole congregation, came into the wilderness of Sin, in the first month and the people abode in Cades; and Mariam died there and was buried there. 2 And there was no water for the congregation: and they gathered themselves together against Moses and Aaron. 3 The people reviled Moses, saying: Would we had died in the destruction of our brothers before the Lord! 4 And why then have you brought up the congregation of the Lord into this wilderness, to kill us and our cattle? 5 And why then is this? You have brought us up out of Egypt, that we should come into this evil place; a place where there is no sowing, neither figs, nor vines, nor pomegranates, neither is there water to drink.

6 Moses and Aaron went from before the assembly to the door of the tabernacle of witness and they fell upon their faces; and the glory of the Lord appeared to them. 7 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 8 Take your rod and call the assembly, you and Aaron your brother and speak you to the rock before them and it shall give forth its waters; and you shall bring forth for them water out of the rock and give drink to the congregation and their cattle. 9 Moses took his rod which was before the Lord, as the Lord commanded. 10 Moses and Aaron assembled the congregation before the rock and said to them: Hear me, you disobedient ones; must we bring you water out of this rock? 11 Moses lifted up his hand and struck the rock with his rod twice; and much water came forth and the congregation drank and their cattle. 12 The Lord said to Moses and Aaron, Because you have not believed me to sanctify me before the children of Israel, therefore you shall not bring this congregation into the land which I have given them. 13 This is the water of Strife, because the children of Israel spoke insolently before the Lord, He was sanctified in them.

14 Moses sent messengers from Cades to the king of Edom, saying: Thus says your brother Israel; You know all the distress that has come upon us. 15 And how our fathers went down into Egypt and we sojourned in Egypt many days and the Egyptians afflicted us and our fathers. 16 And we cried to the Lord and the Lord heard our voice and sent an angel and brought us out of Egypt; and now we are in the city of Cades, at the extremity of your coasts. 17 We will pass through your land: we will not go through the fields, nor through the vineyards, nor will we drink water out of your cistern: we will go by the king's highway; we will not turn aside to the right hand or to the left, until we have passed your borders. 18 And Edom said to him: You shall not pass through me and if otherwise, I will go forth to meet you in war. 19 The children of Israel say to him, We will pass by the mountain; and if I and my cattle drink of your water, I will pay you: but it is no matter of importance, we will go by the mountain. 20 He said: You shall not pass through me; and Edom went forth to meet him with a great host and a mighty hand. 21 So Edom refused to allow Israel to pass through his borders and Israel turned away from him. 22 They departed from Cades; and the children of Israel, even the whole congregation, came to Mount Or.

23 The Lord spoke to Moses and Aaron in mount Or, on the borders of the land of Edom, saying: 24 Let Aaron be added to his people; for you shall certainly not go into the land which I have given the children of Israel, because you provoked me at the water of strife. 25 Take Aaron and Eleazar his son and bring them up to the mount Or before all the congregation; 26 and take Aaron's apparel from off him and put it on Eleazar his son: Let Aaron die there and be added to his people. 27 Moses did as the Lord commanded him and took him up to mount Or, before all the congregation. 28 He took Aaron's garments off him and put them on Eleazar his son and Aaron died on the top of the mountain; and Moses and Eleazar came down from the mountain. 29 All the congregation saw that Aaron was dead: and they wept for Aaron thirty days, even all the house of Israel.

21:1 And Arad the Chanaitish king who dwelt by the wilderness, heard that Israel came by the way of Atharin; He made war on Israel and carried off some of them captives. 2 Israel vowed a vow to the Lord and said: If you will deliver this people into my power, I will devote it and its cities to you. 3 The Lord listened to the voice of Israel and delivered the C'anaanite into his power; and Israel devoted him and his cities and they called the name of that place Anathema.

4 And having departed from mount Or by the way leading to the Red Sea, they surrounded the land of Edom and the people lost courage by the way. 5 The people spoke against God and against Moses, saying: Why is this? Have you brought us ought of Egypt to kill us in the wilderness? For there is not bread nor water; and our soul loathes this light bread. 6 The Lord sent among the people deadly serpents and they bit the people and much people of the children of Israel died. 7 The people came to Moses and said: We have sinned, for we have spoken against the Lord and against you: pray therefore to the Lord, Let him take away the serpent from us. 8 Moses prayed to the Lord for the people; and the Lord said to Moses: Make you a serpent and put it on a signal-staff; and it shall come to pass that whenever a serpent shall bite a man, every one so bitten that looks upon it shall live. 9 Moses made a serpent of brass and put it upon a signal-staff: and it came to pass that whenever a serpent bit a man, He looked on the brazen serpent, he lived.

10 The children of Israel departed and encamped in Oboth. 11 And having departed from Oboth, they encamped in Achalgai, on the farther side in the wilderness, which is opposite Moab, toward the east. 12 And for there they departed and encamped in the valley of Zared. 13 They departed for there and encamped on the other side of Arnon in the wilderness, the country which extends from the coasts of the Amorites; for Arnon is the borders of Moab, between Moab and the Amorites. 14 Therefore it is said in a book, A war of the Lord has set on fire Zoob and the brooks of Arnon. 15 He has appointed brooks to cause Er to dwell there; and it lies near to the coasts of Moab.

16 And for there they came to the well; this is the well of which the Lord said to Moses: Gather the people and I will give them water to drink. 17 Then Israel sang this song at the well, Begin to sing of the well; 18 the princes digged it, the kings of the nations in their kingdom, in their lordship sank it in the rock: and they went from the well to Manthanain, 19 and from Manthanain to Naaliel and from Naaliel to Bamoth and from Bamoth to Janen, which is in the plain of Moab as seen from the top of the quarried rock that looks toward the wilderness.

20 Moses sent ambassadors to Seon king of the Amorites, with peaceable words, saying: 21 We will pass through your land, we will go by the road; we will not turn aside to the field or to the vineyard. 22 We will not drink water out of your well; we will go by the king's highway, until we have past your boundaries. 23 And Seon did not allow Israel to pass through his borders and Seon gathered all his people and went out to set the battle in array against Israel into the wilderness; He came to Jassa and set the battle in array against Israel. 24 Israel stroke him with the slaughter of the sword and they became possessors of his land, from Arnon to Jaboc, as far as the children of Amman, for Jazer is the borders of the children of Amman. 25 Israel took all their cities and Israel dwelt in all the cities of the Amorites, in Esebon and in all cities belonging to it. 26 For Esebon is the city of Seon king of the Amorites; He before fought against the king of Moab and they took all his land, from Aroer to Arnon. 27 Therefore say they who deal in dark speeches, Come to Esebon, that the city of Seon may be built and prepared. 28 For a fire has gone forth from Esebon, a flame from the city of Seon and has consumed as far as Moab and devoured the pillars of Arnon. 29 Woe to you, Moab; you are lost, you people of Chamos: their sons are sold for preservation and their daughters are captives to Seon king of the Amorites. 30 And their seed shall perish from Esebon to Daebon; and their women have yet farther kindled a fire against Moab.

31 Israel dwelt in all the cities of the Amorites. 32 Moses sent to spy out Jazer; and they took it and its villages and cast out the Amorite that dwelt there. 33 And having returned, they went up the road that leads to Basan; and Og the king of Basan went forth to meet them and all his people to war to Edrain. 34 The Lord said to Moses: Fear him not; for I have delivered him and all his people and all his land, into your hands; and you shall do to him as you did to Seon king of the Amorites, who dwelt in Esebon. 35 He stroke him and his sons and all his people, until he left none of his to be taken alive; and they inherited his land.

22:1 The children of Israel departed and encamped on the west of Moab by Jordan toward Jericho. 2 When Balac son of Sepphor saw all that Israel did to the Amorite, 3 then Moab feared the people exceedingly because they were many; and Moab was grieved before the face of the children of Israel. 4 And Moab said to the elders of Madiam, Now, shall this assembly lick up all that are around us, as a calf would lick up the green herbs of the field:—and Balac son of Sepphor was king of Moab at that time. 5 He sent ambassadors to Balaam the son of Beor, to Phathura, which is on a river of the land of the sons of his people, to call him, saying: Behold, a people has come out of Egypt and behold it has covered the face of the earth and it has encamped close to me. 6 And now come, curse me this people, for it is stronger than we; if we may be able to strike some of them and I will cast them out of the land: for I know that whoever you do bless, they are blessed and whoever you do curse, they are cursed. 7 The elders of Moab went and the elders of Madiam and their divining instruments were in their hands; and they came to Balaam and spoke to him the words of Balac. 8 He said to them: Stay here for the night and I will answer you the things which the Lord shall say to me; and the princes of Moab stayed with Balaam.

9 And God came to Balaam and said to him: Who are these men with you? 10 And Balaam said to God, Balac son of Sepphor, king of Moab, sent them to me, saying: 11 Behold, a people has come forth out of Egypt and has covered the face of the land and it has encamped near to me; and now come, curse it for me, if indeed I shall be able to strike it and cast it out of the land. 12 And God said to Balaam, You shall not go with them, neither shall you curse the people; for they are blessed. 13 And Balaam rose up in the morning and said to the princes of Balac, Depart quickly to your lord; God does not permit me to go with you. 14 The princes of Moab rose and came to Balac and said: Balaam will not come with us.

15 And Balac yet again sent more princes and more honorable than they. 16 They came to Balaam and they say to him, Thus says Balac the son of Sepphor: I beseech you, delay not to come to me. 17 For I will greatly honor you and will do for you whatsoever you shall say; come then, curse me this people. 18 And Balaam answered and said to the princes of Balac, If Balac would give me his house full of silver and gold, I shall not be able to go beyond the word of the Lord God, to make it little or great in my mind. 19 And now do you also stay here this night and I shall know what the Lord will yet say to me. 20 And God came to Balaam by night and said to him: If these men have come to call you, rise and follow them; nevertheless the word which I shall speak to you, it shall you do.

21 And Balaam rose up in the morning and saddled his ass and went with the princes of Moab. 22 And God was very angry because he went; and the angel of the Lord rose up to withstand him. Now, he had mounted his ass and his two servants were with him. 23 When the ass saw the angel of God standing opposite in the way and his sword drawn in his hand, then the ass turned aside out of the way and went into the field; and Balaam stroke the ass with his staff to direct her in the way.

24 The angel of the Lord stood in the avenues of the vines, a fence being on this side and a fence on that. 25 When the ass saw the angel of God, she thrust herself against the wall and crushed Balaam's foot against the wall, He stroke her again.

26 The angel of the Lord went farther and came and stood in a narrow place where it was impossible to turn to the right or the left. 27 When the ass saw the angel of God, she lay down under Balaam; and Balaam was angry and struck the ass with his staff. 28 And God opened the mouth of the ass and she says to Balaam, What have I done to you, that you have stricken me this third time? 29 And Balaam said to the ass, Because you have mocked me; and if I had had a sword in my hand, I would now have killed you. 30 The ass says to Balaam, Am not I your ass on which you have ridden since your youth till this day? Did I ever do thus to you, utterly disregarding you? He said: No. 31 And God opened the eyes of Balaam, He sees the angel of the Lord withstanding him in the way and his sword drawn in his hand, He stooped down and worshiped on his face. 32 The angel of God said to him: Why have you stricken your ass this third time? And, behold, I came out to withstand you, for your way was not fitting before me; and when the ass saw me, she turned away from me this third time. 33 If she had not turned out of the way, surely now, I should have slain you and should have saved her alive. 34 And Balaam said to the angel of the Lord, I have sinned, for I did not know that you were standing opposite in the way to meet me; and now if it shall not be pleasing to you for me to go on, I will return. 35 The angel of the Lord said to Balaam, Go with the men: nevertheless the word which I shall speak to you, that you shall take heed to speak. And Balaam went with the princes of Balac.

36 When Balac heard that Balaam had come, he went out to meet him, to a city of Moab, which is on the borders of Arnon, which is on the extreme part of the borders. 37 And Balac said to Balaam, Did I not send to you to call you? Why have you not come to me? Shall I not indeed be able to honor you? 38 And Balaam said to Balac, Behold, I am now come to you: shall I be able to say anything? The word which God shall put into my mouth, that I shall speak. 39 And Balaam went with Balac and they came to the cities of streets. 40 And Balac offered sheep and calves and sent to Balaam and to his princes who were with him. 41 It was morning; and Balac took Balaam and brought him up to the pillar of Baal and showed him for there a part of the people.

23:1 And Balaam said to Balac, Build me here seven altars and prepare me here seven calves and seven rams. 2 And Balac did as Balaam told him; He offered up a calf and a ram on every altar. 3 And Balaam said to Balac, Stand by your sacrifice and I will go and see if God will appear to me and meet me and the word which he shall show me, I will report to you. And Balac stood by his sacrifice. 4 And Balaam went to enquire of God; He went straight forward and God appeared to Balaam; and Balaam said to him: I have prepared the seven altars and have offered a calf and a ram on every altar. 5 And God put a word into the mouth of Balaam and said: you shall return to Balac and thus shall you speak. 6 He returned to him and moreover he stood over his whole-burnt-offerings and all the princes of Moab with him; and the Spirit of God came upon him. 7 He took up his parable and said: Balac king of Moab sent for me out of Mesopotamia, out of the mountains of the east, saying: Come, curse me Jacob and Come, call for a curse for me upon Israel. 8 How can I curse whom the Lord curses not?

Or how can I devote whom God devotes not? 9 For from the top of the mountains I shall see him and from the hills I shall observe him: behold, the people shall dwell alone and shall not be reckoned among the nations. 10 Who has exactly calculated the seed of Jacob and who shall number the families of Israel? Let my soul die with the souls of the righteous, Let my seed be as their seed.

11 And Balac said to Balaam, What have you done to me? I called you to curse my enemies and behold you have greatly blessed them. 12 And Balaam said to Balac, Whatsoever the Lord shall put into my mouth, shall I not take heed to speak this? 13 And Balac said to him: Come yet with me to another place where you shall not see the people, but only you shall see a part of them and shall not see them all; and curse me them there.

14 He took him to a high place of the field to the top of the quarried rock, He built there seven altars and offered a calf and a ram on every altar. 15 And Balaam said to Balac, Stand by your sacrifice and I will go to enquire of God. 16 And God met Balaam and put a word into his mouth and said: return to Balac and thus shall you speak. 17 He returned to him: He also was standing by his whole-burnt-sacrifice and all the princes of Moab with him; and Balac said to him: What has the Lord spoken? 18 He took up his parable and said: rise up, Balac and hear; hearken as a witness, you son of Sepphor. 19 Not like a man is God suspended, nor like a son of man does he suffer threats¹. Shall he say and not perform? Shall he speak and not keep to his word? 20 Behold, I have received commandment to bless: I will bless and not turn back. 21 There shall not be trouble in Jacob, neither shall sorrow be seen in Israel: the Lord his God is with him, the glories of rulers are in him. 22 It was God who brought him out of Egypt; he has as it were the glory of a unicorn. 23 For there is no divination in Jacob, nor enchantment in Israel; in season it shall be told to Jacob and Israel what God shall perform. 24 Behold, the people shall rise up as a young lion and shall exalt himself as a lion; he shall not lie down till he has eaten the prey, He shall drink the blood of the slain.

25 And Balac said to Balaam, Neither curse the people at all for me, nor bless them at all. 26 And Balaam answered and said to Balac, Spoke I not to you, saying: Whatsoever thing God shall speak to me, that will I do? 27 And Balac said to Balaam, Come and I will remove you to another place, if it shall please God and curse me them there. 28 And Balac took Balaam to the top of Phogor, which extends to the wilderness. 29 And Balaam said to Balac, build me here seven altars and prepare me here seven calves and seven rams. 30 And Balac did as Balaam told him and offered a calf and a ram on every altar.

24:1 When Balaam saw that it pleased God to bless Israel, he did not go according to his custom to meet the omens, but turned his face toward the wilderness. 2 And Balaam lifted up his eyes and sees Israel encamped by their tribes; and the Spirit of God came upon him. 3 He took up his parable and said: Balaam son of Beor says, the man who sees truly says, 4 he says who hears the oracle of the Mighty One, who saw a vision of God in sleep; his eyes were opened: 5 How goodly are your habitations, Jacob and your tents, Israel! 6 as shady groves and as gardens by a river and as tents which God pitched and as cedars by the waters. 7 There shall come a man out of his seed, He shall rule over many nations; and the kingdom of Gog shall be exalted and his kingdom shall be increased. 8 God led him out of Egypt; he has as it were the glory of a unicorn: he shall consume the nations of his enemies, He shall drain their marrow and with his darts he shall shoot through the enemy. 9 He lay down, he rested as a lion and as a young lion; who shall stir him up? Those who bless you are blessed and those who curse you are cursed.

10 And Balac was angry with Balaam and clapped his hands together; and Balac said to Balaam, I called you to curse my enemy and behold you have decidedly blessed him this third time. 11 Now, therefore flee to your place: I said: I will honor you, but now the Lord has deprived you of glory. 12 And Balaam said to Balac, Did I not speak to your messengers also whom you sent to me, saying: 13 If Balac should give me his house full of silver and gold, I shall not be able to transgress the word of the Lord to make it good or bad by myself; whatsoever things God shall say, them will I speak. 14 And now, behold, I return to my place; come, I will advise you of what this people shall do to your people in the last days.

15 He took up his parable and said:

Balaam the son of Beor says, the man who sees truly says, 16 hearing the oracles of God, receiving knowledge from the Most High and having seen a vision of God in sleep; his eyes were opened. 17 I will point to him, but not now; I bless him, but he draws not near: a star shall rise out of Jacob, a man shall spring out of Israel; and shall crush the princes of Moab and shall spoil all the sons of Seth. 18 And Edom shall be an inheritance and Esau his enemy shall be an inheritance of Israel and Israel accomplished valiantly. 19 And one shall arise out of Jacob and destroy out of the city him that escapes. 20 And having seen Amalec, he took up his parable and said: Amalec is the first of the nations; yet his seed shall perish. 21 And having seen the Kenite, he took up his parable and said: your dwelling-place is strong; yet though you should put your nest in a rock, 22 and though Beor should have a skillfully contrived hiding-place, the Assyrians shall carry you away captive. 23 He looked upon Og and took up his parable and said: Oh, oh, who shall live when God shall do these things? 24 And one shall come forth from the hands of the Citians and shall afflict Assur and shall afflict the Hebrews and they shall perish together. 25 And Balaam rose up and departed and returned to his place and Balac went to his own home.

25:1 Israel sojourned in Sattin and the people profaned itself by going a-whoring after the daughters of Moab. 2 They called them to the sacrifices of their idols; and the people ate of their sacrifices and worshiped their idols. 3 Israel consecrated themselves to Beel-phegor; and the Lord was very angry with Israel. 4 The Lord said to Moses: Take all the princes of the people and make them examples of judgment for the Lord in the face of the sun and the anger of the Lord shall be turned away from Israel. 5 Moses said to the tribes of Israel, kill you every one his friend that is consecrated to Beel-phegor. 6 And, behold, a man of the children of Israel came and brought his brother to a Madianitish woman before Moses and before all the congregation of the children of Israel; and they were weeping at the door of the tabernacle of witness. 7 And Phinees the son of Eleazar, the son of Aaron the priest, saw it and rose out of the midst of the congregation and took a javelin in his hand, 8 and went in after the Israelite man into the chamber and pierced them both through, both the Israelite man and the woman through her womb; and the plague was stayed from the children of Israel. 9 And those who died in the plague were four and twenty thousand.

10 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 11 Phinees the son of Eleazar the son of Aaron the priest has caused my wrath to cease from the children of Israel when I was exceedingly jealous among them and I did not consume the children of Israel in my jealousy. 12 Thus do you say to him, Behold, I give him a covenant of peace: 13 He and his seed after him shall have a perpetual covenant of priesthood, because he was zealous for his God and made atonement for the children of Israel. 14 Now, the name of the stricken Israelite man, who was stricken with the Madianitish woman, was Zambri son of Salmon, prince of a house of the tribe of Symeon. 15 The name of the Madianitish woman who was stricken, was Chasbi, daughter of Sur, a prince of the nation of Ommoth: it is a chief house among the people of Madiam.

16 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: Speak to the children of Israel, saying: 17 Plague the Madianites as enemies and strike them, 18 for they are enemies to you by the treachery by which they ensnare you through Phogor and through Chasbi their sister, daughter of a prince of Madiam, who was stricken in the day of the plague because of Phogor.

26:1 It came to pass after the plague, that the Lord spoke to Moses and Eleazar the priest, saying: 2 Take the sum of all the congregation of the children of Israel, from twenty years old and upward, according to the houses of their lineage, every one that goes forth to battle in Israel.

51 This is the numbering of the children of Israel, six hundred and one thousand and seven hundred and thirty.

52 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 53 To these the land shall be divided, so that they may inherit according to the number of the names. 54 To the greater number you shall give the greater inheritance and to the less number you shall give the less inheritance: to each one, as they have been numbered, shall their inheritance be given. 55 The land shall be divided to the names by lot, they shall inherit according to the tribes of their families. 56 You shall divide their inheritance by lot between the many and the few. 57 The sons of Levi according to their families; to Gedson, the family of the Gedsonites; to Caath, the family of the Caathites; to Merari, the family of the Merarites. 58 These are the families of the sons of Levi; the family of the Lobenites, the family of the Chebronites, the family of the Coreites and the family of the Musites; and Caath begot Amram. 59 The name of his wife was Jochabed, daughter of Levi, who bore these to Levi in Egypt and she bore to Amram, Aaron and Moses and Mariam their sister. 60 And to Aaron were born both Nadab and Abiud and Eleazar and Ithamar. 61 And Nadab and Abiud died when they offered strange fire before the Lord in the wilderness of Sinai. 62 And there were according to their numbering, twenty-three thousand, every male from a month old and upward; for they were not numbered among the children of Israel, because they have no inheritance in the midst of the children of Israel.

63 And this is the numbering of Moses and Eleazar the priest, who numbered the children of Israel in Araboth of Moab, at Jordan by Jericho. 64 And among these there was not a man numbered by Moses and Aaron, whom, even the children of Israel, they numbered in the wilderness of Sinai. 65 For the Lord said to them: They shall surely die in the wilderness; and there was not left even one of them, except Chaleb the son of Jephonne and Joshua the son of Naue.

27:1 The daughters of Salpaad the son of Opher, the son of Galaad, the son of Machir, of the tribe of Manasse, of the sons of Joseph, came near; and these were their names, Maala and Nua and Egla and Melcha and Thersa; 2 and they stood before Moses and before Eleazar the priest and before the princes and before all the congregation at the door of the tabernacle of witness, saying: 3 Our father died in the wilderness, He was not in the midst of the congregation that rebelled against the Lord in the gathering of Core; for he died for his own sin, He had no sons. Let not the name of our father be blotted out of the midst of his people, because he has no son: give us an inheritance in the midst of our father's brothers. 4 Moses brought their case before the Lord.

5 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 6 The daughters of Salpaad have spoken rightly: you shall surely give them a possession of inheritance in the midst of their father's brothers and you shall assign their father's inheritance to them. 7 You shall speak to the children of Israel, saying: 8 If a man die and have no son, you shall assign his inheritance to his daughter. 9 If he has no daughter, you shall give his inheritance to his brother. 10 If he has no brothers, you shall give his inheritance to his father's brother. 11 If there be no brothers of his father, you shall give the inheritance to his nearest relation of his tribe, to inherit his possessions; and this shall be to the children of Israel an ordinance of judgment, as the Lord commanded Moses. 12 The Lord said to Moses: Go up to the mountain that is in the country beyond Jordan, this mount Nabau and behold the land C'anaan, which I give to the sons of Israel for a possession. 13 You shall see it and you also shall be added to your people, as Aaron your brother was added to them in mount Or: 14 because you transgressed my commandment in the wilderness of Sin when the congregation resisted and refused to sanctify me; you sanctified me not at the water before them. This is the water of Strife in Cades in the wilderness of Sin. 15 Moses said to the Lord, 16 Let the Lord God of spirits and of all flesh look out for a man over this congregation, 17 who shall go out before them and who shall come in before them and who shall lead them out and who shall bring them in; so the congregation of the Lord shall not be as sheep without a shepherd. 18 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: Take to yourself Joshua the son of Naue, a man who has the Spirit in him and you shall lay your hands upon him. 19 You shall set him before Eleazar the priest and you shall give him a charge before all the congregation and you shall give a charge concerning him before them. 20 You shall put of your glory upon him, that the children of Israel may hearken to him. 21 He shall stand before Eleazar the priest and they shall ask of him before the Lord the judgment of the Urim: they shall go forth at his word and at his word they shall come in, he and the children of Israel with one accord and all the congregation.

22 Moses did as the Lord commanded him; He took Joshua and set him before Eleazar the priest and before all the congregation. 23 He laid his hands on him and appointed him as the Lord ordered Moses.

28:1 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 2 Charge the children of Israel and you shall speak to them, saying: you shall observe to offer to me in my feasts my gifts, my presents, my burnt-offerings for a sweet-smelling savour. 3 You shall say to them, These are the burnt-offerings, all that you shall bring to the Lord; two lambs of a year old without blemish daily, for a whole-burnt offering perpetually. 4 You shall offer one lamb in the morning and you shall offer the second lamb towards evening.

5 You shall offer the tenth part of an ephah of fine flour for a meat-offering, mingled with oil, with the fourth part of a hin. 6 It is a perpetual whole-burnt-offering, a sacrifice offered in the mount of Sinai for a sweet-smelling savor to the Lord. 7 And its drink-offering, the fourth part of a hin to each lamb; in the holy place shall you pour strong drink as a drink-offering to the Lord. 8 The second lamb you shall offer toward evening; you shall offer it according to its meat-offering and according to its drink-offering for a smell of sweet savor to the Lord. 9 And on the Sabbath-day you shall offer two lambs of a year old without blemish and two tenth deals of continual whole-burnt-offering, you shall offer its drink-offering. 25 The seventh day shall be to you a holy convocation; you shall do no servile work in it.

26 And on the day of the new corn when you shall offer a new sacrifice at the festival of weeks to the Lord, there shall be to you a holy convocation; you shall do no servile work, 27 and you shall bring whole-burnt-offerings for a sweet-smelling savor to the Lord, two calves of the herd, one ram, seven lambs without blemish. 28 Their meat-offering shall be fine flour mingled with oil; there shall be three tenth deals for one calf and two tenth deals for one ram. 29 A tenth for each lamb separately, for the seven lambs; and a kid of the goats, 30 for a sin-offering, to make atonement for you; beside the perpetual whole-burnt-offering; and 31 you shall offer to me their meat-offering. They shall be to you unblemished and you shall offer their drink-offerings.

39 These sacrifices shall you offer to the Lord in your feasts, besides your vows; and you shall offer your free-will-offerings and your whole-burnt-offerings and your meat-offerings and your drink-offerings and your peace-offerings.

30:1 Moses spoke to the children of Israel according to all that the Lord commanded Moses. 2 Moses spoke to the heads of the tribes of the children of Israel, saying: This is the thing which the Lord has commanded. 3 Whatsoever man shall vow a vow to the Lord, or swear an oath, or bind himself with an obligation upon his soul, he shall not break his word; all that shall come out of his mouth he shall do. 4 If a woman shall vow a vow to the Lord, or bind herself with an obligation in her youth in her father's house; and her father should hear her vows and her obligations, by which she has bound her soul and her father should hold his peace at her, then all her vows shall stand, 5 and all the obligations with which she has bound her soul, shall remain to her. 6 But if her father straitly forbid her in the day in which he shall hear all her vows and her obligations, which she has contracted upon her soul, they shall not stand; and the Lord shall hold her

7 But if she should be indeed married and her vows be upon her according to the utterance of her lips, in respect of the obligations which she has contracted upon her soul; 8 and her husband should hear and hold his peace at her in the day in which he should hear, then thus shall all her vows be binding and her obligations, which she has contracted upon her soul shall stand. 9 But if her husband should straitly forbid her in the day in which he should hear her, none of her vows or obligations which she has contracted upon her soul shall stand, because her husband has disallowed her and the Lord shall hold her guiltless.

10 The vow of a widow and of her that is put away, whatsoever she shall bind upon her soul, shall stand to her. 11 If her vow be made in the house of her husband, or the obligation upon her soul with an oath, 12 and her husband should hear and hold his peace at her and not disallow her, then all her vows shall stand and all the obligations which she contracted against her soul, shall stand against her. 13 But if her husband should utterly cancel the vow in the day in which he shall hear it, none of the things which shall proceed out of her lips in her vows and in the obligations contracted upon her soul, shall stand to her; her husband has cancelled them and the Lord shall hold her guiltless. 14 Every vow and every binding oath to afflict her soul, her husband shall confirm it to her, or her husband shall cancel it. 15 But if he be wholly silent at her from day to day, then shall he bind upon her all her vows; He shall confirm to her the obligations which she has bound upon herself, because he held his peace at her in the day in which he heard her. 16 If her husband should in any way cancel them after the day in which he heard them, then he shall bear his iniquity. 17 These are the ordinances which the Lord commanded Moses, between a man and his wife and between a father and daughter in her youth in the house of her father.

31:1 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 2 Avenge the wrongs of the children of Israel on the Madianites and afterwards you shall be added to your people. 3 Moses spoke to the people, saying: Arm some of you and set yourselves in array before the Lord against Madian, to inflict vengeance on Madian from the Lord. 4 Send a thousand of each tribe from all the tribes of the children of Israel to set themselves in array. 5 They numbered of the thousands of Israel a thousand of each tribe, twelve thousands; these were armed for war. 6 Moses sent them away a thousand of every tribe with their forces and Phinees the son of Eleazar the son of Aaron the priest: and the holy instruments and the signal trumpets were in their hands.

7 They set themselves in array against Madian, as the Lord commanded Moses; and they killed every male. 8 They killed the kings of Madian together with their slain subjects; even Evi and Rocon and Sur and Ur and Roboc, five kings of Madian; and they killed with the sword Balaam the son of Beor with their other slain. 9 They made a prey of the women of Madian and their store and their cattle and all their possessions: and they spoiled their forces. 10 They burnt with fire all their cities in the places of their habitation and they burnt their villages with fire. 11 They took all their plunder and all their spoils, both man and beast. 12 They brought to Moses and to Eleazar the priest and to all the children of Israel, the captives and the spoils and the plunder, to the camp to Araboth Moab, which is at Jordan by Jericho. 13 Moses and Eleazar the priest and all the rulers of the synagogue went forth out of the camp to meet them. 14 Moses was angry with the captains of the host, the heads of thousands and the heads of hundreds who came from the battle-array. 15 Moses said to them: Why have you saved every female alive? 16 For they were the occasion to the children of Israel by the word of Balaam of their revolting and despising the word of the Lord, because of Phogor; and there was a plague in the congregation of the Lord. 17 Now, then kill every male in all the spoil, kill every woman, who has known the lying with man. 18 And as for all the captivity of women, who have not known the lying with man, save you them alive. 19 You shall encamp outside the great camp seven days; every one who has slain and who touches a dead body, shall be purified on the third day and you and your captivity shall purify yourselves on the seventh day. 20 You shall purify every garment and every leathern utensil and all furniture of goat skin and every wooden vessel.

21 And Eleazar the priest said to the men of the host that came from the battle-array, This is the ordinance of the law which the Lord has commanded Moses. 22 Beside the gold and the silver and the brass and the iron and lead and tin, 23 every thing that shall pass through the fire shall so be clean, nevertheless it shall be purified with the water of sanctification; and whatsoever will not pass through the fire shall pass through water. 24 And on the seventh day you shall wash your garments and be clean; and afterwards you shall come into the camp.

25 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 26 Take the sum of the spoils of the captivity both of man and beast, you and Eleazar the priest and the heads of the families of the congregation. 27 You shall divide the spoils between the warriors that went out to battle and the whole congregation. 28 You shall take a tribute for the Lord from the warriors that went out to battle; one soul out of five hundred, from the men and from the cattle, even from the oxen and from the sheep and from the asses; and you shall take from their half. 29 You shall give them to Eleazar the priest as the first-fruits of the Lord. 30 And from the half belonging to the children of Israel you shall take one in fifty from the men and from the oxen and from the sheep and from the asses and from all the cattle; and you shall give them to the Levites that keep the charges in the tabernacle of the Lord.

31 Moses and Eleazar the priest did as the Lord commanded Moses. 32 And that which remained of the spoil which the warriors took, was—of the sheep, six hundred and seventy-five thousand: 33 and oxen, seventy-two thousand: 34 and asses, sixty-one thousand. 35 And persons of women who had not known lying with man, all the souls, thirty-two thousand. 36 The half, even the portion of those who went out to war, from the number of the sheep, was three hundred and thirty-seven thousand and five hundred. 37 The tribute to the Lord from the sheep was six hundred and seventy-five. 38 The oxen, six and thirty thousand and the tribute to the Lord seventy-two. 39 And asses, thirty thousand and five hundred and the tribute to the Lord, sixty-one: 40 and the persons, sixteen thousand and the tribute of them to the Lord, thirty-two souls.

41 Moses gave the tribute to the Lord, the heave-offering of God, to Eleazar the priest, as the Lord commanded Moses; 42 from the half belonging to the children of Israel, whom Moses separated from the men of war. 43 The half taken from the sheep, belonging to the congregation, was three hundred and thirty-seven thousand and five hundred. 44 The oxen, thirty-six thousand; 45 asses, thirty thousand and five hundred; 46 and persons, sixteen thousand. 47 Moses took of the half belonging to the children of Israel the fiftieth part, of men and of cattle, He gave them to the Levites who keep the charges of the tabernacle of the Lord, as the Lord commanded Moses.

48 All those who were appointed to be officers of thousands of the host, captains of thousands and captains of hundreds, approached Moses and said to Moses: 49 your servants have taken the sum of the men of war with us and not one is missing. 50 And we have brought our gift to the Lord, every man who has found an article of gold, whether an armlet, or a chain, or a ring, or a bracelet, or a clasp for hair, to make atonement for us before the Lord. 51 Moses and Eleazar the priest took the gold from them, even every accomplished article. 52 All the accomplished gold, even the offering that they offered to the Lord, was sixteen thousand and seven hundred and fifty shekels from the captains of thousands and the captains of hundreds. 53 For the men of war took plunder every one for himself. 54 Moses and Eleazar the priest took the gold from the captains of thousands and captains of hundreds and brought the vessels into the tabernacle of witness, a memorial of the children of Israel before the Lord.

32:1 The children of Ruben and the children of Gad had a multitude of cattle, very great; and they saw the land of Jazer and the land of Galaad; and the place was a place for cattle: 2 and the children of Ruben and the children of Gad came and spoke to Moses and to Eleazar the priest and to the princes of the congregation, saying: 3 Ataroth and Daebon and Jazer and Namra and Esebon and Eleale and Sebama and Nabau and Baeon, 4 the land which the Lord has delivered up before the children of Israel, is pasture land and your servants have cattle. 5 They said: If we have found grace in your sight, let this land be given to your servants for a possession and do not cause us to pass over Jordan.

6 Moses said to the sons of Gad and the sons of Ruben, Shall your brothers go to war and shall you sit here? 7 And why do you the minds of the children of Israel, that they should not cross over into the land, which the Lord gives them? 8 Did not your fathers thus when I sent them from Cades Barne to spy out the land? 9 They went up to the valley of the cluster and spied the land and turned aside the heart of the children of Israel, that they should not go into the land, which the Lord gave them. 10 The Lord was very angry in that day and swore, saying: 11 Surely these men who came up out of Egypt from twenty years old and upward, who know good and evil, shall not see the land which I swore to give to Abra'm and Isaac and Jacob, for they have not closely followed after me: 12 save Caleb the son of Jephonne, who was set apart and Joshua the son of Naue, for they closely followed after the Lord. 13 The Lord was very angry with Israel; and for forty years he caused them to wander in the wilderness, until all the generation which did evil in the sight of the Lord was extinct. 14 Behold, you are risen up in the room of your fathers, a combination of sinful men, to increase yet farther the fierce wrath of the Lord against Israel. 15 For you will turn away from him to desert him yet once more in the wilderness and you will sin against this whole congregation.

16 They came to him and said: We will build here folds for our cattle and cities for our possessions; 17 and we will arm ourselves and go as an advanced guard before the children of Israel, until we shall have brought them into their place; and our possessions shall remain in walled cities because of the inhabitants of the land. 18 We will not return to our houses till the children of Israel shall have been distributed, each to his own inheritance. 19 And we will not any longer inherit with them from the other side of Jordan and onwards, because we have our full inheritance on the side beyond Jordan eastward.

20 Moses said to them: If you will do according to these words, if you will arm yourselves before the Lord for battle, 21 and every one of you will pass over Jordan fully armed before the Lord, until his enemy be destroyed from before his face, 22 and the land shall be subdued before the Lord, then afterwards you shall return and be guiltless before the Lord and as regards Israel; and this land shall be to you for a possession before the Lord. 23 But if you will not do so, you will sin against the Lord; and you shall know your sin when afflictions shall come upon you. 24 You shall build for yourselves cities for your store and folds for your cattle; and you shall do that which proceeds out of your mouth.

25 The sons of Ruben and the sons of Gad spoke to Moses, saying: your servants will do as our lord commands. 26 Our store and our wives and all our cattle shall be in the cities of Galaad. 27 But your servants will go over all armed and set in order before the Lord to battle, as our lord says.

28 Moses appointed to them for judges Eleazar the priest and Joshua the son of Naue and the chiefs of the families of the tribes of Israel. 29 Moses said to them: If the sons of Ruben and the sons of Gad will pass over Jordan with you, every one armed for war before the Lord and you shall subdue the land before you, then you shall give to them the land of Galaad for a possession. 30 But if they will not pass over armed with you to war before the Lord, then shall you cause to pass over their possessions and their wives and their cattle before you into the land of C'anaan and they shall inherit with you in the land of C'anaan. 31 The sons of Ruben and the sons of Gad answered, saying: Whatsoever the Lord says to his servants, that will we do. 32 We will go over armed before the Lord into the land of C'anaan and you shall give us our inheritance beyond Jordan.

33 Moses gave to them, even to the sons of Gad and the sons of Ruben and to the half tribe of Manasse of the sons of Joseph, the kingdom of Seon king of the Amorites and the kingdom of Og king of Basan, the land and its cities with its coasts, the cities of the land round about. 34 The sons of Gad built Daebon and Ataroth and Aroer, 35 and Sophar and Jazer and they set them up, 36 and Namram and Baetharan, strong cities and folds for sheep. 37 The sons of Ruben built Esebon and Eleale and Kariatham, 38 and Beelmeon, surrounded with walls and Sebama; and they called the names of the cities which they built, after their own names. 39 And a son of Machir the son of Manasse went to Galaad and took it and destroyed the Amorite who dwelt in it. 40 Moses gave Galaad to Machir the son of Manasse, He dwelt there. 41 Jair the son of Manasse went and took their villages and called them the villages of Jair. 42 And Nabau went and took Caath and her villages and called them Naboth after his name.

33:1 These are the stages of the children of Israel, as they went out from the land of Egypt with their host by the hand of Moses and Aaron. 2 Moses wrote their removals and their stages, by the word of the Lord: and these are the stages of their journeying. 3 They departed from Ramesses in the first month, on the fifteenth day of the first month; on the day after the Passover the children of Israel went forth with a high hand before all the Egyptians. 4 The Egyptians buried those who died of them, even all that the Lord stroke, every first-born in the land of Egypt; also the Lord executed vengeance on their gods. 5 The children of Israel departed from Ramesses and encamped in Socchoth: 6 and they departed from Socchoth and encamped in Buthan, which is a part of the wilderness. 7 They departed from Buthan and encamped at the mouth of Iroth, which is opposite Beel-sepphon and encamped opposite Magdol. 8 They departed from before Iroth and crossed the middle of the sea into the wilderness; and they went a journey of three days through the wilderness and encamped in Picriae. 9 They departed from Picriae and came to Æelim; and in Æelim were twelve fountains of water and seventy palm-trees and they encamped there by the water. 10 They departed from Ælim and encamped by the Red Sea. 11 They departed from the Red Sea and encamped in the wilderness of Sin.

12 They departed from the wilderness of Sin and encamped in Raphaca. 13 They departed from Raphaca and encamped in Ælus. 14 They departed from Ælus and encamped in Raphidin; and there was no water there for the people to drink. 15 They departed from Raphidin and encamped in the wilderness of Sinai. 16 They departed from the wilderness of Sinai and encamped at the Graves of Lust. 17 They departed from the Graves of Lust and encamped in Aseroth. 18 They departed from Aseroth and encamped in Rathama.

19 They departed from Rathama and encamped in Remmon Phares. 20 They departed from Remmon Phares and encamped in Lebona. 21 They departed from Lebona and encamped in Rissan. 22 They departed from Rissan and encamped in Makellath. 23 They departed from Makellath and encamped in Saphar. 24 They departed from Saphar and encamped in Charadath. 25 They departed from Charadath and encamped in Makeloth. 26 They departed from Makeloth and encamped in Kataath. 27 They departed from Kataath and encamped in Tarath. 28 They departed from Tarath and encamped in Mathecca. 29 They departed from Mathecca and encamped in Selmona. 30 They departed from Selmona and encamped in Masuruth. 31 They departed from Masuruth and encamped in Banaea. 32 They departed from Banaea and encamped in the mountain Gadgad.

33 They departed from the mountain Gadgad and encamped in Etebatha. 34 They departed from Etebatha and encamped in Ebrona. 35 They departed from Ebrona and encamped in Gesion Gaber. 36 They departed from Gesion Gaber and encamped in the wilderness of Sin; and they departed from the wilderness of Sin and encamped in the wilderness of Pharan; this is Cades. 37 They departed from Cades and encamped in mount Or near the land of Edom.

38 And Aaron the priest went up by the command of the Lord and died there in the fortieth year of the departure of the children of Israel from the land of Egypt, in the fifth month, on the first day of the month. 39 And Aaron was a hundred and twenty-three years old when he died in mount Or. 40 And Arad the Chanaitish king (he too dwelt in the land of C'anaan) having heard when the children of Israel were entering the land— 41 then they departed from mount Or and encamped in Selmona. 42 They departed from Selmona and encamped in Phino. 43 They departed from Phino and encamped in Oboth.

44 They departed from Oboth and encamped in Gai, on the other side Jordan on the borders of Moab. 45 They departed from Gai and encamped in Daebon Gad. 46 They departed from Daebon Gad and encamped in Gelmon Deblathaim. 47 They departed from Gelmon Deblathaim and encamped on the mountains of Abarim, over against Nabau. 48 They departed from the mountains of Abarim and encamped on the west of Moab, at Jordan by Jericho. 49 They encamped by Jordan between Æsimoth, as far as Belsa to the west of Moab.

50 The Lord spoke to Moses at the west of Moab by Jordan at Jericho, saying: 51 Speak to the children of Israel and you shall say to them, you are to pass over Jordan into the land of C'anaan. 52 You shall destroy all that dwell in the land before your face and you shall abolish their high places and all their molten images you shall destroy and you shall demolish all their pillars. 53 You shall destroy all the inhabitants of the land and you shall dwell in it, for I have given their land to you for an inheritance. 54 You shall inherit their land according to your tribes; to the greater number you shall give the larger possession and to the smaller you shall give the less possession; to whatsoever part a man's name shall go forth by lot, there shall be his property: you shall inherit according to the tribes of your families. 55 But if you will not destroy the dwellers in the land from before you, then it shall come to pass that whoever of them you shall leave shall be thorns in your eyes and darts in your sides and they shall be enemies to you on the land on which you shall dwell; 56 and it shall come to pass that as I had determined to do to them, so I will do to you.

34:1 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 2 Charge the children of Israel and you shall say to them, you are entering into the land of C'anaan: it shall be to you for an inheritance, the land of C'anaan with its boundaries. 3 And your southern side shall be from the wilderness of Sin to the border of Edom and your border southward shall extend on the side of the salt sea eastward. 4 And your border shall go round you from the south to the ascent of Acrabin and shall proceed by Ennac and the going forth of it shall be southward to Cades Barne and it shall go forth to the village of Arad and shall proceed by Asemona. 5 The border shall compass from Asemona to the river of Egypt and the sea shall be the termination. 6 You shall have your border on the west, the great sea shall be the boundary: this shall be to you the border on the west.

7 And this shall be your northern border; from the great sea you shall measure to yourselves, by the side of the mountain. 8 You shall measure to yourselves the mountain from mount Hor at the entering in to Emath and the termination of it shall be the coasts of Saradac. 9 The border shall go out to Dephrona and its termination shall be at Arsenain; this shall be your border from the north. 10 You shall measure to yourselves the eastern border from Arsenain to Sepphamar. 11 The border shall go down from Sepphamar to Bela eastward to the fountains and the border shall go down from Bela behind the sea Chenereth eastward. 12 The border shall go down to Jordan and the termination shall be the salt sea; this shall be your land and its borders round about.

13 Moses charged the children of Israel, saying: This is the land which you shall inherit by lot, even as the Lord commanded us to give it to the nine tribes and the half-tribe of Manasse. 14 For the tribe of the children of Ruben and the tribe of the children of Gad have received their inheritance according to their families; and the half-tribe of Manasse have received their inheritances. 15 Two tribes and half a tribe have received their inheritance beyond Jordan by Jericho from the south eastwards.

16 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 17 These are the names of the men who shall divide the land to you for an inheritance; Eleazar the priest and Joshua the son of Naue. 18 You shall take one ruler from each tribe to divide the land to you by lot.

19 These are the names of the men; of the tribe of Juda Chaleb the son of Jephonne. 20 Of the tribe of Symeon, Salamiel the son of Semiud. 21 Of the tribe of Benjamin, Eldad the son of Chaslon. 22 Of the tribe of Dan the prince was Bacchir the son of Egli. 23 Of the sons of Joseph of the tribe of the sons of Manasse, the prince was Aniel the son of Suphi. 24 Of the tribe of the sons of Ephraim, the prince was Camuel the son of Sabathan. 25 Of the tribe of Zabulon, the prince was Elisaphan the son of Pharnac. 26 Of the tribe of the sons of Issachar, the prince was Phaltiel the son of Oza. 27 Of the tribe of the children of Aser, the prince was Achior the son of Selemi. 28 Of the tribe of Nephthali, the prince was Phadael the son of Jamiud.

29 These did the Lord command to distribute the inheritances to the children of Israel in the land of C'anaan.

35:1 The Lord spoke to Moses to the west of Moab by Jordan near Jericho, saying: 2 Give orders to the children of Israel and they shall give to the Levites cities to dwell in from the lot of their possession and they shall give to the Levites the suburbs of the cities around them. 3 The cities shall be for them to dwell in and their enclosures shall be for their cattle and all their beasts. 4 The suburbs of the cities which you shall give to the Levites, shall be from the wall of the city and outwards two thousand cubits round about. 5 You shall measure outside the city on the east side two thousand cubits and on the south side two thousand cubits and on the west side two thousand cubits and on the north side two thousand cubits; and your city shall be in the midst of this and the suburbs of the cities as described. 6 You shall give the cities to the Levites, the six cities of refuge which you shall give for the slayer to flee to that place and in addition to these, forty-two cities. 7 You shall give to the Levites in all forty-eight cities, them and their suburbs. 8 And as for the cities which you shall give out of the possession of the children of Israel, from those who have much you shall give much and from those who have less you shall give less: they shall give of their cities to the Levites each one according to his inheritance which they shall inherit.

9 The Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 10 Speak to the children of Israel and you shall say to them, you are to cross over Jordan into the land of C'anaan. 11 You shall appoint to yourselves cities: they shall be to you cities of refuge for the slayer to flee to, every one who has killed another unintentionally. 12 The cities shall be to you places of refuge from the avenger of blood and the slayer shall not die until he stands before the congregation for judgment. 13 The cities which you shall assign, even the six cities, shall be places of refuge for you. 14 You shall assign three cities on the other side of Jordan and you shall assign three cities in the land of C'anaan.

15 It shall be a place of refuge for the children of Israel and for the stranger and for him that sojourns among you; these cities shall be for a place of refuge, for every one to flee to that place who has killed a man unintentionally.

16 If he should strike him with an iron instrument and the man should die, he is a murderer; let the murderer by all means be put to death. 17 If he should strike him with a stone thrown from his hand, by which means a man may die, He thus die, he is a murderer; let the murderer by all means be put to death. 18 If he should strike him with an instrument of wood from his hand, by which he may die, He thus die, he is a murderer; let the murderer by all means be put to death.

19 The avenger of blood himself shall kill the murderer: whenever he shall meet him he shall kill him. 20 If he should thrust him through enmity, or cast any thing upon him from an ambushade and the man should die, 21 or if he has stricken him with his hand through anger and the man should die, let the man that stroke him be put to death by all means, he is a murderer: let the murderer by all means be put to death: the avenger of blood shall kill the murderer when he meets him.

22 But if he should thrust him suddenly, not through enmity, or cast any thing upon him, not from an ambushade, 23 or strike him with any stone, by which a man may die, unawares and it should fall upon him, He should die, but he was not his enemy, nor sought to hurt him; 24 then the assembly shall judge between the striker and the avenger of blood, according to these judgments. 25 The congregation shall rescue the slayer from the avenger of blood and the congregation shall restore him to his city of refuge, where he fled for refuge; He shall dwell there till the death of the high-priest, whom they anointed with the holy oil.

26 But if the slayer should in any way go out beyond the bounds of the city where he fled for refuge, 27 and the avenger of blood should find him without the bounds of the city of his refuge and the avenger of blood should kill the slayer, he is not guilty. 28 For he ought to have remained in the city of refuge till the high-priest died; and after the death of the high-priest the slayer shall return to the land of his possession.

29 These things shall be to you for an ordinance of judgment throughout your generations in all your dwellings. 30 Whoever kills a man, you shall kill the murderer on the testimony of witnesses; and one witness shall not testify against a soul that he should die. 31 You shall not accept ransoms for life from a murderer who is worthy of death, for he shall be surely put to death. 32 You shall not accept a ransom to excuse his fleeing to the city of refuge, so that he should again dwell in the land, until the death of the high-priest. 33 So shall you not pollute with murder the land in which you dwell; for this blood pollutes the land and the land shall not be purged from the blood shed upon it, but by the blood of him that shed it. 34 You shall not defile the land whereon you dwell, on which I dwell in the midst of you; for I am the Lord dwelling in the midst of the children of Israel.

36:1 The heads of the tribe of the sons of Galaad the son of Machir the son of Manasse, of the tribe of the sons of Joseph, drew near and spoke before Moses and before Eleazar the priest and before the heads of the houses of the families of the children of Israel: 2 and they said: The Lord commanded our lord to render the land of inheritance by the children of Israel; and the Lord appointed our lord to give the inheritance of Salpaad our brother to his daughters. 3 They will become wives in one of the tribes of the children of Israel; so their inheritance shall be taken away from the possession of our fathers and shall be added to the inheritance of the tribe into which the women shall marry and shall be taken away from the portion of our inheritance. 4 If there shall be a release of the children of Israel, then shall their inheritance be added to the inheritance of the tribe into which the women marry and their inheritance, shall be taken away from the inheritance of our family's tribe.

5 Moses charged the children of Israel by the commandment of the Lord, saying: Thus says the tribe of the children of Joseph. 6 This is the thing which the Lord has appointed the daughters of Salpaad, saying: Let them marry where they please, only let them marry men of their father's tribe. 7 So shall not the inheritance of the children of Israel go about from tribe to tribe, for the children of Israel shall steadfastly continue each in the inheritance of his family's tribe. 8 And whatever daughter is heiress to a property of the tribes of the children Israel, such women shall be married each to one of her father's tribe, that the sons of Israel may each inherit the property of his father's tribe. 9 The inheritance shall not go about from one tribe to another, but the children of Israel shall steadfastly continue each in his own inheritance.

10 As the Lord commanded Moses, so did they to the daughters of Salpaad. 11 So Thersa and Egla and Melcha and Nua and Malaa, the daughters of Salpaad, married their cousins; 12 they were married to men of the tribe of Manasse of the sons of Joseph; and their inheritance was attached to the tribe of their father's family. 13 These are the commandments and the ordinances and the judgments, which the Lord commanded by the hand of Moses, at the west of Moab, at Jordan by Jericho.

1:1 These are the words which Moses spoke to all Israel on this side Jordan in the desert towards the west near the Red Sea, between Pharan Tophol and Lobon and Aulon and the gold works. 2 It is a journey of eleven days from Choreb to mount Seir as far as Cades Barne. 3 It came to pass in the fortieth year, in the eleventh month, on the first day of the month, Moses spoke to all the children of Israel, according to all things which the Lord commanded him for them: 4 after he had stricken Seon king of the Amorites who dwelt in Esebon and Og the king of Basan who dwelt in Astaroth and in Edrain; 5 beyond Jordan in the land of Moab, Moses began to declare this law, saying: 6 The Lord your God spoke to us in Choreb, saying: Let it suffice you to have dwelt so long in this mountain. 7 Turn you and depart and enter into the mountain of the Amorites and go to all that dwell near about Araba, to the mountain and the plain and to the south and the land of the C'anaanites near the sea and Antilibanus, as far as the great river, the river Euphrates. 8 Behold, God has delivered the land before you; go in and inherit the land, which I swore to your fathers, Abra'am and Isaac and Jacob, to give it to them and to their seed after them.

9 I spoke to you at that time, saying: I shall not be able by myself to bear you. 10 The Lord your God has multiplied you, and, behold, you are today as the stars of heaven for multitude. 11 The Lord God of your fathers add to you a thousand-fold more than you are and bless you as he has spoken to you. 12 How shall I alone be able to bear your labor and your burden and your denials? 13 Take to yourselves wise and understanding and prudent men for your tribes and I will set your leaders over you. 14 You answered me and said: The thing which you have told us is good to do. 15 So I took of you wise and understanding and prudent men and I set them to rule over you as rulers of thousands and rulers of hundreds and rulers of fifties and rulers of tens and officers to your judges. 16 I charged your judges at that time, saying: Hear causes between your brothers and judge rightly between a man and his brother and the stranger that is with him. 17 You shall not have respect to persons in judgment, you shall judge small and great equally; you shall not shrink from before the person of a man, for the judgment is God's; and whatsoever matter shall be too hard for you, you shall bring it to me and I will hear it. 18 I charged upon you at that time all the commands which you shall perform.

19 And we departed from Choreb and went through all that great wilderness and terrible, which you saw, by the way of the mountain of the Amorite, as the Lord our God charged us and we came as far as Cades Barne. 20 I said to you, you have come as far as the mountain of the Amorite, which the Lord our God gives to you: 21 behold, the Lord your God has delivered to us the land before you: go up and inherit it as the Lord God of your fathers said to you; fear not, neither be afraid. 22 You all came to me and said: Let us send men before us, Let them go up to the land for us; Let them bring back to us a report of the way by which we shall go up and of the cities into which we shall enter. 23 The saying pleased me: and I took of you twelve men, one man of a tribe. 24 They turned and went up to the mountain and they came as far as the valley of the cluster and surveyed it. 25 They took in their hands of the fruit of the land and brought it to you and said: The land is good which the Lord our God gives us.

26 Yet you would not go up, but rebelled against the words of the Lord our God. 27 You murmured in your tents and said: Because the Lord hated us, he has brought us out of the land of Egypt to deliver us into the hands of the Amorites, to destroy us. 28 Where do we go up? And your brothers drew away your heart, saying: It is a great nation and populous and mightier than we; and there are cities great and walled up to heaven: moreover we saw there the sons of the giants. 29 I said to you, Fear not, neither be afraid of them; 30 the Lord your God who goes before your face, he shall fight against them together with you effectually, according to all that he accomplished for you in the land of Egypt; 31 and in this wilderness which you saw, by the way of the mountain of the Amorite; how the Lord your God will bear you as a nursling, as if any man should nurse his child, through all the way which you have gone until you came to this place.

32 And in this matter you believed not the Lord our God, 33 who goes before you in the way to choose you a place, guiding you in fire by night, shewing you the way by which you go and a cloud by day.

34 The Lord heard the voice of your words and being greatly provoked he swore, saying: 35 Not one of these men shall see this good land, which I swore to their fathers, 36 except Chaleb the son of Jephonne, he shall see it; and to him I will give the land on which he went up and to his sons, because he attended to the things of the Lord. 37 The Lord was angry with me for your sake, saying: Neither shall you by any means enter in it. 38 Joshua the son of Naue, who stands by you, he shall enter in there; do you strengthen him, for he shall cause Israel to inherit it. 39 And every young child who this day knows not good or evil, —they shall enter in it and to them I will give it and they shall inherit it. 40 You turned and marched into the wilderness, in the way by the Red Sea.

41 You answered and said: We have sinned before the Lord our God; we will go up and fight according to all that the Lord our God has commanded us: and having taken every one his weapons of war and being gathered together, you went up to the mountain. 42 The Lord said to me: Tell them, you shall not go up, neither shall you fight, for I am not with you; thus shall you not be destroyed before your enemies. 43 I spoke to you and you did not hearken to me; and you transgressed the commandment of the Lord; and you forced your way and went up into the mountain. 44 The Amorite who dwelt in that mountain came out to meet you and pursued you as bees do and wounded you from Seir to Herma. 45 You sat down and wept before the Lord our God and the Lord hearkened not to your voice, neither did he take heed to you.

46 You dwelt in Cades many days, as many days as you dwelt there.

2:1 And we turned and departed into the wilderness, by the way of the Red Sea, as the Lord spoke to me and we surrounded mount Seir many days. 2 The Lord said to me: 3 you have surrounded this mount long enough; turn therefore toward the north. 4 And charge the people, saying: you are going through the borders of your brothers the children of Esau, who dwell in Seir; and they shall fear you and dread you greatly. 5 Do not engage in war against them, for I will not give you of their land even enough to set your foot upon, for I have given mount Seir to the children of Esau as an inheritance. 6 Buy food of them for money and eat and you shall receive water of them by measure for money and drink. 7 For the Lord our God has blessed you in every work of your hands. Consider how you went through that great and terrible wilderness: behold, the Lord your God has been with you forty years; you did not lack any thing.

8 And we passed by our brothers the children of Esau, who dwelt in Seir, by the way of Araba from Ælon and from Gesion Gaber; and we turned and passed by the way of the desert of Moab. 9 The Lord said to me: Do not quarrel with the Moabites and do not engage in war with them; for I will not give you of their land for an inheritance, for I have given Aroer to the children of inherit. 10 Formerly the Ommin dwelt in it, a great and numerous nation and powerful, like the Enakim. 11 These also shall be accounted Raphain like the Enakim; and the Moabites call them Ommin. 12 The Chorrhite dwelt in Seir before and the sons of Esau destroyed them and utterly consumed them from before them; and they dwelt in their place, as Israel did to the land of his inheritance, which the Lord gave to them. 13 Now, then, arise, said I and depart and cross the valley of Zaret.

14 The days in which we traveled from Cades Barne till we crossed the valley of Zaret, were thirty and eight years, until the whole generation of the men of war failed, dying out of the camp, as the Lord God swore to them. 15 The hand of the Lord was upon them to destroy them out of the midst of the camp, until they were consumed.

16 It came to pass when all the men of war dying out of the midst of the people had fallen, 17 that the Lord spoke to me, saying: 18 You shall pass over this day the borders of Moab to Aroer; 19 and you shall draw near to the children of Amman: do not quarrel with them, nor wage war with them; for I will not give you of the land of the children of Amman for an inheritance, because I have given it to the children of Lot for an inheritance. 20 It shall be accounted a land of Raphain, for the Raphain dwelt there before and the Ammanites call them Zochommin. 21 A great nation and populous and mightier than you, as also the Enakim: yet the Lord destroyed them from before them and they inherited their land and they dwelt there instead of them until this day. 22 As they did to the children of Esau that dwell in Seir, even as they destroyed the Chorrhite from before them and inherited their country and dwelt in it instead of them until this day. 23 The Evites who dwell in Asedoth to Gaza and the Cappadocians who came out of Cappadocia, destroyed them and dwelt in their room.

24 Now, then arise and depart and pass over the valley of Arnon: behold, I have delivered into your hands Seon the king of Esebon the Amorite and his land: begin to inherit it: engage in war with him this day. 25 Begin to put your terror and your fear on the face of all the nations under heaven, who shall be troubled when they have heard your name and shall be in anguish before you.

26 I sent ambassadors from the wilderness of Kedamoth to Seon king of Esebon with peaceable words, saying: 27 I will pass through your land: I will go by the road, I will not turn aside to the right hand or to the left. 28 You shall give me food for money and I will eat; and you shall give me water for money and I will drink; I will only go through on my feet: 29 as the sons of Esau did to me, who dwelt in Seir and the Moabites who dwelt in Aroer, until I shall have passed Jordan into the land which the Lord our God gives us. 30 And Seon king of Esebon would not that we should pass by him, because the Lord our God hardened his spirit and made his heart stubborn, that he might be delivered into your hands, as on this day.

31 The Lord said to me: Behold, I have begun to deliver before you Seon the king of Esebon the Amorite and his land and do you begin to inherit his land. 32 And Seon the king of Esebon came forth to meet us, he and all his people to war at Jassa. 33 The Lord our God delivered him before our face and we stroke him and his sons and all his people. 34 And we took possession of all his cities at that time and we utterly destroyed every city in succession and their wives and their children; we left no living prey. 35 Only we took the cattle captive and took the spoil of the cities. 36 From Aroer, which is by the brink of the brook of Arnon and the city which is in the valley and as far as the mount of Galaad; there was not a city which escaped us: the Lord our God delivered all of them into our hands. 37 Only we did not draw near to the children of Amman, even all the parts bordering on the brook Jaboc and the cities in the mountain country, as the Lord our God charged us.

3:1 And we turned and went by the way leading to Basan; and Og the king of Basan came out to meet us, he and all his people, to battle at Edraim. 2 The Lord said to me: Fear him not, for I have delivered him and all his people and all his land, into your hands; and you shall do to him as you did to Seon king of the Amorites who dwelt in Esebon. 3 The Lord our God delivered him into our hands, even Og the king of Basan and all his people; and we stroke him until we left none of his seed.

4 And we mastered all his cities at that time; there was not a city which we took not from them; sixty cities, all the country around Argob, belonging to king Og in Basan: 5 all strong cities, lofty walls, gates and bars; besides the very many cities of the Pherezites. 6 We utterly destroyed them as we dealt with Seon the king of Esebon, so we utterly destroyed every city in order and the women and the children, 7 and all the cattle; and we took for a prey to ourselves the spoil of the cities.

8 And we took at that time the land out of the hands of the two kings of the Amorites, who were beyond Jordan, extending from the brook of Arnon even to Aermon. 9 The Phoenicians call Aermon Sanior, but the Amorite has called it Sanir. 10 All the cities of Misor and all Galaad and all Basan as far as Elcha and Edraim, cities of the kingdom of Og in Basan. 11 For only Og the king of Basan was left of the Raphain: behold, his bed was a bed of iron; behold, it is in the chief city of the children of Ammon; the length of it is nine cubits and the breadth of it four cubits, according to the cubit of a man. 12 And we inherited that land at that time from Aroer, which is by the border of the torrent Arnon and half the mount of Galaad; and I gave his cities to Ruben and to Gad. 13 The rest of Galaad and all Basan the kingdom of Og I gave to the half-tribe of Manasse and all the country around Argob, all that Basan; it shall be accounted the land of Raphain. 14 Jair the son of Manasse took all the country around Argob as far as the borders of Gargasi and Machathi: he called them by his name Basan Thavoth Jair until this day. 15 And to Machir I gave Galaad. 16 And to Ruben and to Gad I gave the land under Galaad as far as the brook of Arnon, the border between the brook and as far as Jaboc; the brook is the border to the children Amman. 17 And Araba and Jordan are the boundary of Machanareth, even to the sea of Araba, the salt sea under Asedoth Phasga eastward.

18 I charged you at that time, saying: The Lord your God has given you this land by lot; arm yourselves, every one that is powerful and go before your brothers the children of Israel. 19 Only your wives and your children and your cattle (I know that you have much cattle), let them dwell in your cities which I have given you; 20 until the Lord your God give your brothers rest, as also he has given to you and they also shall inherit the land, which the Lord our God gives them on the other side of Jordan; then you shall return, each one to his inheritance which I have given you.

21 I commanded Joshua at that time, saying: Your eyes have seen all things, which the Lord our God did to these two kings: so shall the Lord our God do to all the kingdoms against which you crossed over to that place. 22 You shall not be afraid of them, because the Lord our God himself shall fight for you.

23 I besought the Lord at that time, saying: 24 Lord God, you have begun to show to your servant your strength and your power and your mighty hand and your high arm: for what God is there in heaven or on the earth, who will do as you have done and according to your might? 25 I will therefore go over and see this good land that is beyond Jordan, this good mountain and Antilibanus.

26 The Lord because of you did not regard me and hearkened not to me; and the Lord said to me: Let it suffice you, speak not of this matter to me any more. 27 Go up to the top of the quarried rock and look with your eyes westward and northward and southward and eastward and behold it with your eyes, for you shall not go over this Jordan. 28 And charge Joshua and strengthen him and encourage him; for he shall go before the face of this people, He shall give them the inheritance of all the land which you have seen. 29 And we abode in the valley near the house of Phogor.

4:1 And now, Israel, hear the ordinances and judgments, all that I teach you this day to do: that you may live and be multiplied and that you may go in and inherit the land, which the Lord God of your fathers gives you. 2 You shall not add to the word which I command you and you shall not take from it: keep the commandments of the Lord our God, all that I command you this day. 3 Your eyes have seen all that the Lord our God did in the case of Beel-phegor; for every man that went after Beel-phegor, the Lord your God has utterly destroyed him from among you. 4 But you that kept close to the Lord your God are all alive today.

5 Behold, I have shown you ordinances and judgments as the Lord commanded me, that you should do so in the land into which you go to inherit it. 6 You shall keep and do them: for this is your wisdom and understanding before all nations, as many as shall hear all these ordinances; and they shall say, Behold, this great nation is a wise and understanding people. 7 For what manner of nation is so great, which has God so near to them as the Lord our God is in all things in whatsoever we may call upon him? 8 And what manner of nation is so great, which has righteous ordinances and judgments according to all this law, which I set before you this day?

9 Take heed to yourself and keep your heart diligently: forget not any of the things, which your eyes have seen, Let them not depart from your heart all the days of your life; and you shall teach your sons and your sons' sons, 10 even the things that happened in the day in which you stood before the Lord our God in Choreb in the day of the assembly; for the Lord said to me: Gather the people to me, Let them hear my words, that they may learn to fear me all the days which they live upon the earth and they shall teach their sons. 11 You drew near and stood under the mountain; and the mountain burned with fire up to heaven: there was darkness, blackness and tempest. 12 The Lord spoke to you out of the midst of the fire a voice of words, which you heard: and you saw no likeness, only you heard a voice. 13 He announced to you his covenant, which he commanded you to keep, even the ten commandments; He wrote them on two tables of stone.

14 The Lord commanded me at that time, to teach you ordinances and judgments, that you should do them on the land, into which you go to inherit it. 15 And take good heed to your hearts, for you saw no similitude in the day in which the Lord spoke to you in Choreb in the mountain out of the midst of the fire: 16 for fear that you transgress and make to yourselves a carved image, any kind of figure, the likeness of male or female, 17 the likeness of any beast of those who are on the earth, the likeness of any winged bird which flies under heaven, 18 the likeness of any reptile which creeps on the earth, the likeness of any fish of those which are in the waters under the earth; 19 and for fear that having looked up to the sky and having seen the sun and the moon and the stars and all the heavenly bodies, you should go astray and worship them and serve them, which the Lord your God has distributed to all the nations under heaven. 20 But God took you and led you forth out of the land of Egypt, out of the iron furnace, out of Egypt, to be to him a people of inheritance, as at this day.

21 The Lord God was angry with me for the things said by you and swore that I should not go over this Jordan and that I should not enter into the land, which the Lord your God gives you for an inheritance. 22 For I am to die in this land and shall not pass over this Jordan; but you are to pass over and shall inherit this good land. 23 Take heed to yourselves, for fear that you forget the covenant of the Lord our God, which he made with you and you transgress and make to yourselves a graven image of any of the things concerning which the Lord your God commanded you. 24 For the Lord your God is a consuming fire, a jealous God.

25 When you shall have begotten sons and shall have sons' sons and you shall have dwelt a long time on the land and shall have transgressed and made a graven image of any thing and shall have done wickedly before the Lord your God to provoke him; 26 I call heaven and earth this day to witness against you, that you shall surely perish from off the land, into which you go across Jordan to inherit it there; you shall not prolong your days upon it, but shall be utterly cut off. 27 The Lord shall scatter you among all nations and you shall be left few in number among all the nations, among which the Lord shall bring you. 28 You shall there serve other gods, the works of the hands of men, wood and stones, which cannot see, nor can they hear, nor eat, nor smell. 29 And there you shall seek the Lord your God and you shall find him whenever you shall seek him with all your heart and with all your soul in your affliction. 30 All these things shall come upon you in the last days and you shall turn to the Lord your God and shall hearken to his voice. 31 Because the Lord your God is a God of pity: he will not forsake you, nor destroy you; he will not forget the covenant of your fathers, which the Lord swore to them.

32 Ask of the former days which were before you, from the day when God created man upon the earth and beginning at the one end of heaven to the other end of heaven, if there has happened any thing like to this great event, if such a thing has been heard: 33 if a nation have heard the voice of the living God speaking out of the midst of the fire, as you have heard and have lived; 34 if God has assayed to go and take to himself a nation out of the midst of another nation with trial and with signs and with wonders and with war and with a mighty hand and with a high arm and with great sights, according to all the things which the Lord our God did in Egypt in your sight. 35 So that you should know that the Lord your God he is God and there is none beside him. 36 His voice was made audible from heaven to instruct you, He showed you upon the earth his great fire and you heard his words out of the midst of the fire.

37 Because he loved your fathers, he also chose you their seed after them, He brought you himself with his great strength out of Egypt, 38 to destroy nations great and stronger than you before your face, to bring you in, to give you their land to inherit, as you have it this day.

39 An you shall know this day and shall consider in your heart, that the Lord your God he is God in heaven above and on the earth beneath and there is none else but he. 40 And keep you his commandments and his ordinances, all that I command you this day; that it may be well with you and with your sons after you, that you may be long-lived upon the earth, which the Lord your God gives you for ever.

41 Then Moses separated three cities beyond Jordan on the east, 42 that the slayer might flee to that place, who should have slain his neighbor unintentionally and should not have hated him in times past, He shall flee to one of these cities and live: 43 Bosor in the wilderness, in the plain country of Ruben and Ramoth in Galaad belonging to Gad and Gaulon in Basan belonging to Manasse. 44 This is the law which Moses set before the children of Israel. 45 These are the testimonies and the ordinances and the judgments, which Moses spoke to the sons of Israel when they came out of the land of Egypt: 46 on the other side of Jordan, in the valley near the house of Phogor, in the land of Seon king of the Amorites, who dwelt in Esebon, whom Moses and the sons of Israel stroke when they came out of the land of Egypt. 47 They inherited his land and the land of Og king of Basan, two kings of the Amorites, who were beyond Jordan eastward. 48 From Aroer, which is on the border of the brook Arnon, even to the mount of Seon, which is Aermom. 49 All Araba beyond Jordan eastward under Asedoth hewn in the rock.

5:1 Moses called all Israel and said to them: Hear, Israel, the ordinances and judgments, all that I speak in your ears this day and you shall learn them and observe to do them. 2 The Lord your God made a covenant with you in Choreb. 3 The Lord did not make this covenant with your fathers, but with you: you are all here alive this day. 4 The Lord spoke to you face to face in the mountain out of the midst of the fire. 5 I stood between the Lord and you at that time to report to you the words of the Lord, (because you were afraid before the fire and you went not up to the mountain) saying: 6 I am the Lord your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of .

7 You shall have no other gods before my face. 8 You shall not make to yourself an image, nor likeness of any thing, whatever things are in the heaven above and whatever are in the earth beneath and whatever are in the waters under the earth. 9 You shall not bow down to them, nor shall you serve them; for I am the Lord your God, a jealous God, visiting the sins of the fathers upon the children to the third and fourth generation to those who hate me, 10 and doing mercifully to thousands of those who love me and that keep my commandments. 11 You shall not take the name of the Lord your God in vain, for the Lord your God will certainly not acquit him that takes his name in vain.

12 Keep the Sabbath day to sanctify it, as the Lord your God commanded you. 13 Six days you shall work and you shall do all your works; 14 but on the seventh day is the Sabbath of the Lord your God: you shall do in it no work, you and your son and your daughter, your man-servant and your maid-servant, your ox and your ass and all your cattle and the stranger that sojourns in the midst of you; that your man-servant may rest and your maid and your ox, as well as you. 15 You shall remember that you were a slave in the land of Egypt and the Lord your God brought you out for there with a mighty hand and a high arm: therefore the Lord appointed you to keep the Sabbath day and to sanctify it. 16 Honor your father and your mother, as the Lord your God commanded you; that it may be well with you and that you may live long upon the land, which the Lord your God gives you. 17 You shall not commit murder. 18 You shall not commit adultery. 19 You shall not steal. 20 You shall not bear false witness against your neighbor. 21 You shall not covet your neighbor's wife; you shall not covet your neighbor's house, nor his field, nor his man-servant, nor his maid, nor his ox, nor his ass, nor any beast of his, nor any thing that is your neighbor's.

22 These words the Lord spoke to all the assembly of you in the mountain out of the midst of the fire—there was darkness, blackness, storm, a loud voice—and he added no more, He wrote them on two tables of stone, He gave them to me. 23 It came to pass when you heard the voice out of the midst of the fire, for the mountain burned with fire, that you came to me, even all the heads of your tribes and your elders: 24 and you said: Behold, the Lord our God has shown us his glory and we have heard his voice out of the midst of the fire: this day we have seen that God shall speak to man, He shall live. 25 And now let us not die, for this great fire will consume us, if we shall hear the voice of the Lord our God any more and we shall die. 26 For what flesh is there which has heard the voice of the living God, speaking out of the midst of the fire, as we have heard and shall live? 27 Do you draw near and hear all that the Lord our God shall say and you shall speak to us all things whatsoever the Lord our God shall speak to you and we will hear and do.

28 The Lord heard the voice of your words as you spoke to me; and the Lord said to me: I have heard the voice of the words of this people, even all things that they have said to you. They have well said all that they have spoken. 29 O that there were such a heart in them, that they should fear me and keep my commands always, that it might be well with them and with their sons for ever. 30 Go, say to them, Return you to your houses; 31 but stand you here with me and I will tell you all the commands and the ordinances and the judgments, which you shall teach them, Let them do so in the land which I give them for an inheritance. 32 You shall take heed to do as the Lord your God commanded you; you shall not turn aside to the right hand or to the left, 33 according to all the way which the Lord your God commanded you to walk in it, that he may give you rest; and that it may be well with you and you may prolong your days on the land which you shall inherit.

6:1 These are the commands and the ordinances and the judgments, as many as the Lord our God gave commandment to teach you to do so in the land on which you enter to inherit it. 2 That you may fear the Lord your God, keep you all his ordinances and his commandments, which I command you today, you and your sons and your sons' sons, all the days of your life, that you may live many days.

3 Hear, therefore, O Israel and observe to do them, that it may be well with you and that you may be greatly multiplied, as the Lord God of your fathers said that he would give you a land flowing with milk and honey: and these are the ordinances and the judgments, which the Lord commanded the children of Israel in the wilderness when they had gone forth from the land of Egypt. 4 Hear, O Israel, The Lord our God is one Lord. 5 You shall love the Lord your God with all your mind and with all your soul and all your strength. 6 These words, all that I command you this day, shall be in your heart and in your soul. 7 You shall teach them to your children and you shall speak of them sitting in the house and walking by the way and lying down and rising up. 8 You shall fasten them for a sign upon your hand and it shall be immovable before your eyes. 9 You shall write them on the lintels of your houses and of your gates.

10 It shall come to pass when the Lord your God shall have brought you into the land which he swore to your fathers, to Abra'am and to Isaac and to Jacob, to give you great and beautiful cities which you did not build, 11 houses full of all good things which you did not fill, wells dug in the rock which you did not dig, vineyards and oliveyards which you did not plant, then having eaten and been filled, 12 beware for fear that you forget the Lord your God that brought you forth out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of bondage. 13 You shall fear the Lord your God and him only shall you serve; and you shall cleave to him and by his name you shall swear.

14 Go you not after other gods of the gods of the nations around you; 15 for the Lord your God in the midst of you is a jealous God, for fear that the Lord your God be very angry with you and destroy you from off the face of the earth.

16 You shall not tempt the Lord your God, as you tempted him in the temptation. 17 You shall by all means keep the commands of the Lord your God, the testimonies and the ordinances, which he commanded you. 18 You shall do that which is pleasing and good before the Lord your God, that it may be well with you and that you may go in and inherit the good land, which the Lord swore to your fathers, 19 to chase all your enemies from before your face, as the Lord said.

20 It shall come to pass when your son shall ask you at a future time, saying: What are the testimonies and the ordinances and the judgments, which the Lord our God has commanded us? 21 Then shall you say to your son, We were slaves to Pharaoh in the land of Egypt and the Lord brought us forth for there with a mighty hand and with a high arm. 22 The Lord accomplished signs and great and grievous wonders in Egypt, on Pharaoh and on his house before us. 23 He brought us out for there to give us this land, which he swore to give to our fathers. 24 The Lord charged us to observe all these ordinances; to fear the Lord our God, that it may be well with us for ever, that we may live, as even today. 25 And there shall be mercy to us, if we take heed to keep all these commands before the Lord our God, as he has commanded us.

7:1 When the Lord your God shall bring you into the land, into which you go to possess it and shall remove great nations from before you, the Chettite and Gergesite and Amorite and C'anaanite and Pherezite and Evite and Jebusite, seven nations more numerous and stronger than you, 2 and the Lord your God shall deliver them into your hands, then you shall strike them: you shall utterly destroy them: you shall not make a covenant with them, neither shall you pity them: 3 neither shall you contract marriages with them: you shall not give your daughter to his son and you shall not take his daughter to your son. 4 For he will draw away your son from me, He will serve other gods; and the Lord will be very angry with you and will soon utterly destroy you. 5 But thus shall you do to them; you shall destroy their altars and shall break down their pillars and shall cut down their groves and shall burn with fire the graven images of their gods. 6 For you are a holy people to the Lord your God; and the Lord your God chose you to be to him a peculiar people beyond all nations that are upon the face of the earth.

7 It was not because you are more numerous than all other nations that the Lord preferred you and the Lord made choice of you: for you are fewer in number than all other nations. 8 But because the Lord loved you and as keeping the oath which he swore to your fathers, the Lord brought you out with a strong hand and the Lord redeemed you from the house of , out of the hand of Pharaoh king of Egypt. 9 You shall know therefore, that the Lord your God, he is God, a faithful God, who keeps covenant and mercy for those who love him and for those who keep his commandments to a thousand generations, 10 and who recompenses those who hate him to their face, to destroy them utterly; and will not be slack with those who hate him: he will recompense them to their face.

11 You shall keep therefore the commands and the ordinances and these judgments, which I command you this day to do. 12 It shall come to pass when you shall have heard these ordinances and shall have kept and done them, that the Lord your God shall keep for you the covenant and the mercy, which he swore to your fathers. 13 He will love you and bless you and multiply you; He will bless the offspring of your body and the fruit of your land, your corn and your wine and your oil, the herds of your oxen and the flocks of your sheep, on the land which the Lord swore to your fathers to give to you. 14 You shall be blessed beyond all nations; there shall not be among you an impotent or barren one, or among your cattle. 15 The Lord your God shall remove from you all sickness; and none of the evil diseases of Egypt, which you have seen and all that you have known, will he lay upon you; but he will lay them upon all that hate you.

16 You shall eat all the spoils of the nations which the Lord your God gives you; your eye shall not spare them and you shall not serve their gods; for this is an offence to you.

17 But if you should say in your heart, This nation is greater than I, how shall I be able to destroy them utterly? 18 you shall not fear them; you shall surely remember all that the Lord your God did to Pharaoh and to all the Egyptians: 19 the great temptations which your eyes have seen, those signs and great wonders, the strong hand and the high arm; how the Lord your God brought you forth: so the Lord your God will do to all the nations, whom you feared in their presence. 20 The Lord your God shall send against them the hornets, until those who are left and those who are hidden from you be utterly destroyed. 21 You shall not be wounded before them, because the Lord your God in the midst of you is a great and powerful God. 22 The Lord your God shall consume these nations before you by little and little: you shall not be able to consume them speedily, for fear that the land become desert and the wild beasts of the field be multiplied against you. 23 The Lord your God shall deliver them into your hands and you shall destroy them with a great destruction, until you shall have utterly destroyed them. 24 He shall deliver their kings into your hands and you shall destroy their name from that place; none shall stand up in opposition before you, until you shall have utterly destroyed them.

25 you shall burn with fire the graven images of their gods: you shall not covet their silver, neither shall you take to yourself gold from them, for fear that you should offend thereby, because it is an abomination to the Lord your God. 26 You shall not bring an abomination into your house, so should you be an accursed thing like it; you shall utterly hate it and altogether abominate it, because it is an accursed thing.

8:1 you shall observe to do all the commands which I charge you today, that you may live and be multiplied and enter in and inherit the land, which the Lord your God swore to give to your fathers. 2 You shall remember all the way which the Lord your God led you in the wilderness, that he might afflict you and try you and that the things in your heart might be made manifest, whether you would keep his commandments or no. 3 He afflicted you and straitened you with hunger and fed you with manna, which your fathers knew not; that he might teach you that man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceeds out of the mouth of God shall man live. 4 Your garments grew not old from off you, your shoes were not worn from off you, your feet were not painfully hardened, Behold! these forty years.

5 You shall know in your heart, that as if any man should chasten his son, so the Lord your God will chasten you. 6 You shall keep the commands of the Lord your God, to walk in his ways and to fear him.

7 For the Lord your God will bring you into a good and extensive land, where there are torrents of waters and fountains of deep places issuing through the plains and through the mountains: 8 a land of wheat and barley, by which are vines, figs, pomegranates; a land of olive oil and honey; 9 a land on which you shall not eat your bread with poverty and you shall not want any thing upon it; a land whose stones are iron and out of its mountains you shall dig brass.

10 You shall eat and be filled and shall bless the Lord your God on the good land, which he has given you. 11 Take heed to yourself that you forget not the Lord your God, so as not to keep his commands and his judgments and ordinances, which I command you this day: 12 for fear that when you have eaten and are full and have built goodly houses and dwelt in them; 13 and your oxen and your sheep are multiplied to you and your silver and your gold are multiplied to you and all your possessions are multiplied to you, 14 you should be exalted in heart and forget the Lord your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of : 15 who brought you through that great and terrible wilderness, where is the biting serpent and scorpion and drought, where there was no water; who brought you a fountain of water out of the flinty rock: 16 who fed you with manna in the wilderness, which you knew not and your fathers knew not; that he might afflict you and thoroughly try you and do you good in your latter days. 17 For fear that you should say in your heart, My strength and the power of my hand have accomplished for me this great wealth. 18 But you shall remember the Lord your God, that he gives you strength to get wealth; even that he may establish his covenant, which the Lord swore to your fathers, as at this day.

19 It shall come to pass if you do at all forget the Lord your God and should go after other gods and serve them and worship them, I call heaven and earth to witness against you this day, that you shall surely perish. 20 As also the other nations which the Lord God destroys before your face, so shall you perish, because you hearkened not to the voice of the Lord your God.

9:1 Hear, O Israel: You go this day across Jordan to inherit nations greater and stronger than yourselves, cities great and walled up to heaven; 2 a people great and many and tall, the sons of Enac, whom you know and concerning whom you have heard say, Who can stand before the children of Enac? 3 You shall know today, that the Lord your God he shall go before your face: he is a consuming fire; he shall destroy them, He shall turn them back before you and shall destroy them quickly, as the Lord said to you. 4 Speak not in your heart when the Lord your God has destroyed these nations before your face, saying: For my righteousness the Lord brought me in to inherit this good land. 5 Not for your righteousness, nor for the holiness of your heart, do you go in to inherit their land, but because of the wickedness of these nations the Lord will destroy them from before you and that he may establish the covenant, which the Lord swore to our fathers, to Abra'am and to Isaac and to Jacob.

6 You shall know today, that it is not for your righteousnesses the Lord your God gives you this good land to inherit, for you are a stiff-necked people.

7 Remember, forget not, how much you provoked the Lord your God in the wilderness: from the day that you came forth out of Egypt, even till you came into this place, you continued to be disobedient toward the Lord.

8 Also in Choreb you provoked the Lord and the Lord was angry with you to destroy you; 9 when I went up into the mountain to receive the tables of stone, the tables of the covenant, which the Lord made with you and I was in the mountain forty days and forty nights, I ate no bread and drank no water. 10 The Lord gave me the two tables of stone written with the finger of God and on them there had been written all the words which the Lord spoke to you in the mountain in the day of the assembly. 11 It came to pass after forty days and forty nights, the Lord gave me the two tables of stone, the tables of the covenant. 12 The Lord said to me: Arise, go down quickly from hence, for your people whom you brought out of the land of Egypt have transgressed; they have gone aside quickly out of the way which I commanded them and have made themselves a molten image.

13 The Lord spoke to me, saying: I have spoken to you once and again, saying: I have seen this people, and, behold, it is a stiff-necked people. 14 And now suffer me utterly to destroy them and I will blot out their name from under heaven and will make of you a nation great and strong and more numerous than this. 15 I turned and went down from the mountain; and the mountain burned with fire to heaven; and the two tables of the testimonies were in my two hands. 16 When I saw that you had sinned against the Lord your God and had made to yourselves a molten image and had gone astray out of the way, which the Lord commanded you to keep; 17 then I took hold of the two tables and cast them out of my two hands and broke them before you. 18 I made my petition before the Lord as also at the first forty days and forty nights: I ate no bread and drank no water, on account of all your sins which you sinned in doing evil before the Lord God to provoke him. 19 I was greatly terrified because of the wrath and anger, because the Lord was provoked with you utterly to destroy you; yet the Lord listened to me at this time also. 20 He was angry with Aaron to destroy him utterly and I prayed for Aaron also at that time. 21 And your sin which you had made, even the calf, I took and burnt it with fire and pounded it and ground it down till it became fine; and it became like dust and I cast the dust into the brook that descended from the mountain.

22 Also in the burning and in the temptation and at the graves of lust, you provoked the Lord. 23 When the Lord sent you forth from Cades Barne, saying: Go up and inherit the land which I give to you, then you disobeyed the word of the Lord your God and believed him not and hearkened not to his voice. 24 You were disobedient in the things relating to the Lord from the day in which he became known to you. 25 I prayed before the Lord forty days and forty nights, the number that I prayed before, for the Lord said that he would utterly destroy you. 26 I prayed to God and said: O Lord, King of gods, destroy not your people and your inheritance, whom you did redeem, whom you brought out of the land of Egypt with your great power and with your strong hand and with your high arm. 27 Remember Abra'am and Isaac and Jacob your servants, to whom you swore by yourself: look not upon the hardness of heart of this people and their impieties and their sins. 28 For fear that the inhabitants of the land from where you brought us out speak, saying: Because the Lord do you think not bring them into the land of which he spoke to them and because he hated them, has he brought them forth to kill them in the wilderness. 29 These are your people and your portion, whom you brought out of the land of Egypt with your great strength and with your mighty hand and with your high arm.

10:1 At that time the Lord said to me: Hew for yourself two stone tables as the first and come up to me into the mountain and you shall make for yourself an ark of wood. 2 You shall write upon the tables the words which were on the first tables which you did break and you shall put them into the ark. 3 So I made an ark of boards of incorruptible wood and I hewed tables of stone like the first and I went up to the mountain and the two tables were in my hand. 4 He wrote upon the tables according to the first writing the ten commandments, which the Lord spoke to you in the mountain out of the midst of the fire and the Lord gave them to me. 5 I turned and came down from the mountain and I put the tables into the ark which I had made; and there they were, as the Lord commanded me. 6 The children of Israel departed from Beeroth of the sons of Jakim to Misadai: there Aaron died and there he was buried and Eleazar his son was priest in his stead. 7 For there they departed to Gadgad; and from Gadgad to Etebatha, a land by which are torrents of water.

8 At that time the Lord separated the tribe of Levi, to bear the ark of the covenant of the Lord, to stand near before the Lord, to minister and bless in his name to this day. 9 Therefore the Levites have no part nor inheritance among their brothers; the Lord himself is their inheritance, as he said to them. 10 I remained in the mount forty days and forty nights: and the Lord heard me at that time also and the Lord would not destroy you. 11 The Lord said to me: Go, set out before this people, Let them go in and inherit the land, which I swore to their fathers to give to them.

12 And now, Israel, what does the Lord your God require of you, but to fear the Lord your God and to walk in all his ways and to love him and to serve the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul; 13 to keep the commandments of the Lord your God and his ordinances, all that I charge you today, that it may be well with you? 14 Behold, the heaven and the heaven of heavens belong to the Lord your God, the earth and all things that are in it. 15 Only the Lord chose your fathers to love them, He chose out their seed after them, even you, beyond all nations, as at this day. 16 Therefore you shall circumcise the hardness of your heart and you shall not harden your neck. 17 For the Lord your God, he is God of gods and the Lord of lords, the great and strong and terrible God, who does not accept persons, nor will he by any means accept a bribe: 18 executing judgment for the stranger and orphan and widow, He loves the stranger to give him food and raiment. 19 You shall love the stranger; for you were strangers in the land of Egypt.

20 You shall fear the Lord your God and serve him and shall cleave to him and shall swear by his name. 21 He is your boast, He is your God, who has accomplished in the midst of you these great and glorious things, which your eyes have seen. 22 With seventy souls your fathers went down into Egypt; but the Lord your God has made you as the stars of heaven in multitude.

11:1 Therefore you shall love the Lord your God and shall observe his appointments and his ordinances and his commandments and his judgments, always. 2 You shall know this day; for I speak not to your children, who know not and have not seen the discipline of the Lord your God and his wonderful works and his strong hand and his high arm, 3 and his miracles and his wonders, which he accomplished in the midst of Egypt on Pharaoh king of Egypt and all his land; 4 and what he did to the host of the Egyptians and to their chariots and their cavalry and their host; how he made the water of the Red Sea to overwhelm the face of them as they pursued after you and the Lord destroyed them until this day; 5 and all the things which he did to you in the wilderness until you came into this place; 6 and all the things that he did to Dathan and Abiron the sons of Eliab the son of Ruben, whom the earth opening her mouth swallowed up and their houses and their tents and all their substance that was with them, in the midst of all Israel: 7 for your eyes have seen all the mighty works of the Lord, which he accomplished among you today.

8 You shall keep all his commandments, as many as I command you today, that you may live and be multiplied and that you may go in and inherit the land, into which you go across Jordan to inherit it: 9 that you may live long upon the land, which the Lord swore to your fathers to give to them and to their seed after them, a land flowing with milk and honey. 10 For the land into which you go to inherit it, is not as the land of Egypt, from where you came out, whenever they sow the seed and water it with their feet, as a garden of herbs: 11 but the land into which you go to inherit it, is a land of mountains and plains; it shall drink water of the rain of heaven. 12 A land which the Lord your God surveys continually, the eyes of the Lord your God are upon it from the beginning of the year to the end of the year.

13 Now, if you will indeed hearken to all the commands which I charge you this day, to love the Lord your God and to serve him with all your heart and with all your soul, 14 then he shall give to your land the early and latter rain in its season and you shall bring in your corn and your wine and your oil. 15 He shall give food in your fields to your cattle; and when you have eaten and are full, 16 take heed to yourself that your heart be not puffed up and you transgress and serve other gods and worship them: 17 and the Lord be angry with you and restrain the heaven; and there shall not be rain and the earth shall not yield its fruit and you shall perish quickly from off the good land, which the Lord has given you.

18 You shall store these words in your heart and in your soul and you shall bind them as a sign on your hand and it shall be fixed before your eyes. 19 You shall teach them to your children, so as to speak about them when you sit in the house and when you walk by the way and when you sleep and when you rise up. 20 You shall write them on the lintels of your houses and on your gates; 21 that your days may be long and the days of your children, upon the land which the Lord swore to your fathers to give to them, as the days of heaven upon the earth. 22 It shall come to pass that if you will indeed hearken to all these commands, which I charge you to observe this day, to love the Lord our God and to walk in all his ways and to cleave close to him; 23 then the Lord shall cast out all these nations before you and you shall inherit great nations and stronger than yourselves. 24 Every place whereon the sole of your foot shall tread shall be your; from the wilderness and Antilibanus and from the great river, the river Euphrates, even as far as the west sea shall be your coasts. 25 No one shall stand before you; and the Lord your God will put the fear of you and the dread of you on the face of all the land, on which you shall tread, as he told you.

26 Behold, I set before you this day the blessing and the curse; 27 the blessing, if you hearken to the commands of the Lord your God, all that I command you this day; 28 and the curse, if you do not hearken to the commands of the Lord our God, as many as I command you this day and you wander from the way which I have commanded you, having gone to serve other gods, which you know not. 29 It shall come to pass when the Lord your God shall have brought you into the land into which you go over to inherit it, then you shall put blessing on mount Garizin and the curse upon mount Gaebal. 30 Behold! are not these beyond Jordan, behind, westward in the land of C'anaan, which lies westward near Golgol, by the high oak? 31 For you are passing over Jordan, to go in and inherit the land, which the Lord our God gives you to inherit always and you shall dwell in it.

32 You shall take heed to do all his ordinances and these judgments, as many as I set before you today.

12:1 These are the ordinances and the judgments, which you shall observe to do in the land, which the Lord God of your fathers gives you for an inheritance, all the days which you live upon the land. 2 You shall utterly destroy all the places in which they served their gods, whose land you inherit, on the high mountains and on the hills and under the thick tree. 3 You shall destroy their altars and break in pieces their pillars and you shall cut down their groves and you shall burn with fire the graven images of their gods and you shall abolish their name out of that place. 4 You shall not do so to the Lord your God. 5 But in the place which the Lord your God shall choose in one of your cities to name his name there and to be called upon, you shall even seek him out and go to that place. 6 You shall carry to that place your whole-burnt-offerings and your sacrifices and your first-fruits and your vowed-offerings and your freewill-offerings and your offerings of thanksgiving, the first-born of your herds and of your flocks. 7 You shall eat there before the Lord your God and you shall rejoice in all the things on which you shall lay your hand, you and your houses, as the Lord your God has blessed you.

8 you shall not do altogether as we do here today, every man that which is pleasing in his own sight. 9 For to this place you have not arrived at the rest and the inheritance, which the Lord our God gives you. 10 You shall go over Jordan and shall dwell in the land, which the Lord our God takes as an inheritance for you; He shall give you rest from all your enemies around and you shall dwell safely. 11 And there shall be a place which the Lord your God shall choose for his name to be called there, to that place shall you bring all things that I order you today; your whole-burnt-offerings and your sacrifices and your tithes and the first-fruits of your hands and every choice gift of yours, whatsoever you shall vow to the Lord your God. 12 You shall rejoice before the Lord your God, you and your sons and your daughters and your men-servants and your maid-servants and the Levite that is at your gates; because he has no portion or inheritance with you. 13 Take heed to yourself that you offer not your whole-burnt-offerings in any place which you shall see; 14 save in the place which the Lord your God shall choose, in one of your tribes, there shall you offer your whole-burnt-offerings and there shall you do all things whatsoever I charge you this day. 15 But you shall kill according to all your desire and shall eat flesh according to the blessing of the Lord your God, which he has given you in every city; the unclean that is within you and the clean shall eat it on equal terms, as the doe or the stag. 16 Only you shall not eat the blood; you shall pour it out on the ground as water.

17 You shall not be able to eat in your cities the tithe of your corn and of your wine and of your oil, the first-born of your herd and of your flock and all your vows as many as you shall have vowed and your thank-offerings and the first-fruits of your hands. 18 But before the Lord your God you shall eat it, in the place which the Lord your God shall choose for himself, you and your son and your daughter, your man-servant and your maid-servant and the stranger that is within your gates; and you shall rejoice before the Lord your God, on whatsoever you shall lay your hand.

19 Take heed to yourself that you do not desert the Levite all the time that you live upon the earth. 20 If the Lord your God shall enlarge your borders, as he said to you and you shall say, I will eat flesh; if your soul should desire to eat flesh, you shall eat flesh according to all the desire of your soul. 21 If the place be far from you, which the Lord your God shall choose for himself, that his name be called upon it, then you shall kill of your herd and of your flock which God shall have given you, even as I commanded you and you shall eat in your cities according to the desire of your soul. 22 As the doe and the stag are eaten, so shall you eat it; the unclean in you and the clean shall eat it in like manner. 23 Take diligent heed that you eat no blood, for blood is the life of it; the life shall not be eaten with the flesh. 24 You shall not eat it; you shall pour it out on the ground as water. 25 You shall not eat it, that it may be well with you and with your sons after you, if you shall do that which is good and pleasing before the Lord your God. 26 But you shall take your holy things, if you have any and your vowed-offerings and come to the place which the Lord your God shall choose to have his name named upon it. 27 You shall sacrifice your whole-burnt-offerings, you shall offer the flesh upon the altar of the Lord your God; but the blood of your sacrifices you shall pour out at the foot of the altar of the Lord your God, but the flesh you shall eat. 28 Beware and hearken and you shall do all the commands which I charge you, that it may be well with you and with your sons for ever, if you shall do that which is pleasing and good before the Lord your God.

29 If the Lord your God shall utterly destroy the nations, to whom you go in to that place to inherit their land, from before you and you shall inherit it and dwell in their land; 30 take heed to yourself that you seek not to follow them after they are destroyed before you, saying: How do these nations act towards their gods? I will do likewise. 31 You shall not do so to your God; for they have sacrificed to their gods the abominations of the Lord which he hates, for they burn their sons and their daughters in fire to their gods. 32 Every word that I command you this day, it shall you observe to do: you shall not add to it, nor diminish from it.

the sign or the wonder come to pass which he spoke to you, saying: Let us go and serve other gods, which you know not; 3 you shall not hearken to the words of that prophet, or the dreamer of that dream, because the Lord your God tries you, to know whether you love your God with all your heart and with all your soul. 4 You shall follow the Lord your God and fear him and you shall hear his voice and attach yourselves to him. 5 And that prophet or that dreamer of a dream, shall die; for he has spoken to make you err from the Lord your God who brought you out of the land of Egypt, who redeemed you from , to thrust you out of the way which the Lord your God commanded you to walk in: so shall you abolish the evil from among you.

6 If your brother by your father or mother, or your son, or daughter, or your wife in your bosom, or friend who is equal to your own soul, entreat you secretly, saying: Let us go and serve other gods, which neither you nor your fathers have known, 7 of the gods of the nations that are around you, who are near you or at a distance from you, from one end of the earth to the other; 8 you shall not consent to him, neither shall you hearken to him; and your eye shall not spare him, you shall feel no regret for him, neither shall you at all protect him: 9 you shall surely report concerning him and your hands shall be upon him among the first to kill him and the hands of all the people at the last. 10 They shall stone him with stones, He shall die, because he sought to draw you away from the Lord your God who brought you out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of . 11 All Israel shall hear and fear and shall not again do according to this evil thing among you.

12 If in one of your cities which the Lord God gives you to dwell in, you shall hear men saying: 13 Evil men have gone out from you and have caused all the inhabitants of their land to fall away, saying: Let us go and worship other gods, whom you knew not, 14 then you shall enquire and ask and search diligently and behold, if the thing is clearly true and this abomination has taken place among you, 15 you shall utterly destroy all the dwellers in that land with the edge of the sword; you shall solemnly curse it and all things in it. 16 All its spoils you shall gather into its public ways and you shall burn the city with fire and all its spoils publicly before the Lord your God; and it shall be uninhabited for ever, it shall not be built again. 17 And there shall nothing of the cursed thing cleave to your hand, that the Lord may turn from his fierce anger and show you mercy and pity you and multiply you, as he swore to your fathers; 18 if you will hear the voice of the Lord your God, to keep his commandments, all that I charge you this day, to do that which is good and pleasing before the Lord your God.

14:1 you are the children of the Lord your God: you shall not make any baldness between you eyes for the dead. 2 For you are a holy people to the Lord your God and the Lord your God has chosen you to be a peculiar people to himself of all the nations on the face of the earth. 3 You shall not eat any abominable thing. 4 These are the beasts which you shall eat; the calf of the herd and lamb of the sheep and kid of the goats; 5 the stag and doe and pygarg and wild goat and camelopard. 6 Every beast that divides the hoofs and makes claws of two divisions and that chews the cud among beasts, these you shall eat. 7 These you shall not eat of those who chew the cud and of those who divide the hoofs and make distinct claws; the camel and the hare and the rabbit; because they chew the cud and do not divide the hoof, these are unclean to you. 8 And as for the swine, because he divides the hoof and makes claws of the hoof, yet he chews not the cud, he is unclean to you; you shall not eat of their flesh, you shall not touch their dead bodies.

9 These you shall eat of all that are in the water, you shall eat all that have fins and scales. 10 All that have not fins and scales you shall not eat; they are unclean to you. 11 You shall eat every clean bird. 12 These of them you shall not eat; the eagle and the ossifrage and the sea-eagle, 13 and the vulture and the kite and the like to it, 14 15 and the sparrow and the owl and the seamew, 16 and the heron and the swan and the stork, 17 and the cormorant and the hawk and its like and the hoopoe and the raven, 18 and the pelican and the diver and the like to it and the red-bill and the bat. 19 All winged animals that creep are unclean to you; you shall not eat of them. 20 you shall eat every clean bird. 21 You shall eat nothing that dies of itself; it shall be given to the sojourner in your cities He shall eat it, or you shall sell it to a stranger, because you are a holy people to the Lord your God. You shall not boil a lamb in his mother's milk.

22 You shall tithe a tenth of all the produce of your seed, the fruit of your field year by year. 23 You shall eat it in the place which the Lord your God shall choose to have his name called there; you shall bring the tithe of your corn and of your wine and of your oil, the first-born of your herd and of your flock, that you may learn to fear the Lord your God always. 24 If the journey be too far for you and you are not able to bring them, because the place is far from you which the Lord your God shall choose to have his name called there, because the Lord your God will bless you; 25 then you shall sell them for money and you shall take the money in your hands and you shall go to the place which the Lord your God shall choose. 26 You shall give the money for whatsoever your soul shall desire, for oxen or for sheep, or for wine, or you shall lay it out on strong drink, or on whatsoever your soul may desire and you shall eat there before the Lord your God and you shall rejoice and your house, 27 and the Levite that is in your cities, because he has not a portion or inheritance with you.

28 After three years you shall bring out all the tithes of your fruits, in that year you shall lay it up in your cities. 29 The Levite shall come, because he has no part or lot with you and the stranger and the orphan and the widow which is in your cities; and they shall eat and be filled, that the Lord your God may bless you in all the works which you shall do.

15:1 Every seven years you shall make a release. 2 And this is the ordinance of the release: you shall remit every private debt which your neighbor owes you and you shall not ask payment of it from your brother; for it has been called a release to the Lord your God. 3 Of a stranger you shall ask again whatsoever he has of yours, but to your brother you shall remit his debt to you. 4 For thus there shall not be a poor person in the midst of you, for the Lord your God will surely bless you in the land which the Lord your God gives you by inheritance, that you should inherit it.

5 If you shall indeed hearken to the voice of the Lord your God, to keep and do all these commandments, as many as I charge you this day, 6 (for the Lord your God has blessed you in the way of which he spoke to you,) then you shall lend to many nations, but you shall not borrow; and you shall rule over many nations, but they shall not rule over you.

7 If there shall be in the midst of you a poor man of your brothers in one of your cities in the land, which the Lord your God gives you, you shall not harden your heart, neither shall you by any means close up your hand from your brother who is in want. 8 You shall surely open your hands to him and shall lend to him as much as he wants according to his need. 9 Take heed to yourself that there be not a secret thing in your heart, an iniquity, saying: The seventh year, the year of release, draws nigh; and your eye shall be evil to your brother that is in want and you shall not give to him, He shall cry against you to the Lord and there shall be great sin in you. 10 You shall surely give to him and you shall lend him as much as he wants, according as he is in need; and you shall not grudge in your heart as you give to him, because on this account the Lord your God will bless you in all your works and in all things on which you shall lay your hand. 11 For the poor shall not fail off your land, therefore I charge you to do this thing, saying: You shall surely open your hands to your poor brother and to him that is distressed upon your land.

12 If your brother or sister, a Hebrew man or a Hebrew woman, be sold to you, he shall serve you six years and in the seventh year you shall send him out free from you. 13 When you shall send him out free from you, you shall not send him out empty. 14 You shall give him provision for the way from your flock and from your corn and from your wine; as the Lord your God has blessed you, you shall give to him.

15 You shall remember that you were a servant in the land of Egypt and the Lord your God redeemed you there; therefore I charge you to do this thing. 16 If he should say to you, I will not go out from you, because he continues to love you and your house, because he is well with you; 17 then you shall take an awl and bore his ear through to the door, He shall be your servant for ever; and in like manner shall you do to your maid-servant. 18 It shall not seem hard to you when they are sent out free from you, because your servant has served you six years according to the annual hire of a hireling; so the Lord your God shall bless you in all things whatsoever you may do.

19 Every first-born that shall be born among your kine and your sheep, you shall sanctify the males to the Lord your God; you shall not work with your first-born calf and you shall not shear the first-born of your sheep. 20 You shall eat it before the Lord year by year in the place which the Lord your God shall choose, you and your house. 21 If there be in it a blemish, if it be lame or blind, an evil blemish, you shall not sacrifice it to the Lord your God.

22 You shall eat it in your cities; the unclean in you and the clean shall eat it in like manner, as the doe or the stag. 23 Only you shall not eat the blood; you shall pour it out on the earth as water.

16:1 Observe the month of new corn and you shall sacrifice the Passover to the Lord your God; because in the month of new corn you came out of Egypt by night. 2 You shall sacrifice the Passover to the Lord your God, sheep and oxen in the place which the Lord your God shall choose to have his name called upon it. 3 You shall not eat leaven with it; seven days shall you eat unleavened bread with it, bread of affliction, because you came forth out of Egypt in haste; that you may remember the day of your coming forth out of the land of Egypt all the days of your life. 4 Leaven shall not be seen with you in all your borders for seven days and there shall not be left of the flesh which you shall sacrifice at even on the first day until the morning. 5 You shall not have power to sacrifice the Passover in any of the cities, which the Lord your God gives you. 6 But in the place which the Lord your God shall choose, to have his name called there, you shall sacrifice the Passover at even at the setting of the sun, at the time when you came out of Egypt. 7 You shall boil and roast and eat it in the place, which the Lord your God shall choose; and you shall return in the morning and go to your house. 8 Six days shall you eat unleavened bread and on the seventh day is a holiday, a feast to the Lord your God: you shall not do in it any work, save what must be done by any one.

9 Seven weeks shall you number to yourself; when you have begun to put the sickle to the corn, you shall begin to number seven weeks. 10 You shall keep the feast of weeks to the Lord your God, accordingly as your hand has power in as many things as the Lord your God shall give you. 11 You shall rejoice before the Lord your God, you and your son and your daughter, your man-servant and your maid-servant and the Levite and the stranger and the orphan and the widow which dwells among you, in whatsoever place the Lord your God shall choose, that his name should be called there.

12 You shall remember that you were a servant in the land of Egypt and you shall observe and do these commands. 13 You shall keep for yourself the feast of tabernacles seven days when you gather in your produce from your corn-floor and your wine-press. 14 You shall rejoice in your feast, you and your son and your daughter, your man-servant and your maid-servant and the Levite and the stranger and the orphan and the widow that is in your cities. 15 Seven days shall you keep a feast to the Lord your God in the place which the Lord your God shall choose for himself; and if the Lord your God shall bless you in all your fruits and in every work of your hands, then you shall rejoice.

16 Three times in the year shall all your males appear before the Lord your God in the place which the Lord shall choose in the feast of unleavened bread and in the feast of weeks and in the feast of tabernacles: you shall not appear before the Lord your God empty. 17 Each one according to his ability, according to the blessing of the Lord your God which he has given you.

18 You shall make for yourself judges and officers in your cities, which the Lord your God gives you in your tribes and they shall judge the people with righteous judgment: 19 they shall not extort judgment, nor favor persons, nor receive a gift; for gifts blind the eyes of the wise and the words of the righteous. 20 You shall justly pursue justice, that you may live and go in and inherit the land which the Lord your God gives you.

21 You shall not plant for yourself a grove; you shall not plant for yourself any tree near the altar of your God. 22 You shall not set up for yourself a pillar, which the Lord your God hates.

17:1 You shall not sacrifice to the Lord your God a calf or a sheep, in which there is a blemish, or any evil thing; for it is an abomination to the Lord your God.

2 If there should be found in any one of your cities, which the Lord your God gives you, a man or a woman who shall do that which is evil before the Lord your God, so as to transgress his covenant, 3 and they should go and serve other gods and worship them, the sun, or the moon, or any of the host of heaven, which he commanded you not to do, 4 and it be told you and you shall have enquired diligently, and, behold, the thing really took place, this abomination has been done in Israel; 5 then shall you bring out that man, or that woman and you shall stone them with stones and they shall die. 6 He shall die on the testimony of two or three witnesses; a man who is put to death shall not be put to death for one witness. 7 The hand of the witnesses shall be upon him among the first to put him to death and the hand of the people at the last; so shall you remove the evil one from among yourselves¹.

8 If a matter shall be too hard for you in judgment, between blood and blood and between cause and cause and between stroke and stroke and between contradiction and contradiction, matters of judgment in your cities; 9 then you shall arise and go up to the place which the Lord your God shall choose and you shall come to the priests the Levites and to the judge who shall be in those days and they shall search out the matter and report the judgment to you. 10 You shall act according to the thing which they shall report to you out of the place which the Lord your God shall choose and you shall observe to do all whatsoever shall have been by law appointed to you. 11 You shall do according to the law and to the judgment which they shall declare to you: you shall not swerve to the right hand or to the left from any sentence which they shall report to you.

12 The man whoever shall act in haughtiness, so as not to hearken to the priest who stands to minister in the name of the Lord your God, or the judge who shall preside in those days, that man shall die and you shall remove the evil one out of Israel. 13 All the people shall hear and fear and shall no more commit impiety.

14 When you shall enter into the land which the Lord your God gives you and shall inherit it and dwell in it and shall say, I will set a ruler over me, as also the other nations around me; 15 you shall surely set over you the ruler whom the Lord God shall choose: of your brothers you shall set over you a ruler; you shall not have power to set over you a stranger, because he is not your brother. 16 For he shall not multiply to himself horses, He shall by no means turn the people back to Egypt, for fear that he should multiply to himself horses; for the Lord said: you shall not any more turn back by that way. 17 He shall not multiply to himself wives, for fear that his heart turn away; He shall not greatly multiply to himself silver and gold.

18 When he shall be established in his government, then shall he write for himself this repetition of the law into a book by the hands of the priests the Levites; 19 and it shall be with him, He shall read in it all the days of his life, that he may learn to fear the Lord your God and to keep all these commandments and to observe these ordinances: 20 that his heart be not lifted up above his brothers, that he depart not from the commandments on the right hand or on the left; that he and his sons may reign long in his dominion among the children of Israel.

18:1 The priests, the Levites, even the whole tribe of Levi, shall have no part nor inheritance with Israel; the burnt-offerings of the Lord are their inheritance, they shall eat them. 2 They shall have no inheritance among their brothers; the Lord himself is his portion, as he said to him. 3 And this is the due of the priests in the things coming from the people from those who offer sacrifices, whether it be a calf or a sheep; and you shall give the shoulder to the priest and the cheeks and the great intestine: 4 and the first-fruits of your corn and of your wine and of your oil; and you shall give to him the first-fruits of the fleeces of your sheep: 5 because the Lord has chosen him out of all your tribes, to stand before the Lord your God, to minister and bless in his name, himself and his sons among the children of Israel.

6 If a Levite come from one of the cities of all the children of Israel, where he himself dwells, accordingly as his mind desires, to the place which he shall have chosen, 7 he shall minister to the name of the Lord his God, as all his brothers the Levites, who stand there present before the Lord your God. 8 He shall eat an allotted portion, besides the sale of his hereditary property. 9 When you shall have entered into the land which the Lord your God gives you, you shall not learn to do according to the abominations of those nations.

10 There shall not be found in you one who purges his son or his daughter with fire, one who uses divination, who deals with omens and augury, 11 a sorcerer employing incantation, one who has in him a divining spirit and observer of signs, questioning the dead. 12 For every one that does these things is an abomination to the Lord your God; for because of these abominations the Lord will destroy them from before your face. 13 You shall be perfect before the Lord your God. 14 For all these nations whose land you shall inherit, they will listen to omens and divinations; but the Lord your God has not permitted you so to do.

15 The Lord your God shall raise up to you a prophet of your brothers, like me; him shall you hear: 16 according to all things which you did desire of the Lord your God in Choreb in the day of the assembly, saying: We will not again hear the voice of the Lord your God and we will not any more see this great fire and so we shall not die. 17 The Lord said to me: They have spoken rightly all that they have said to you. 18 I will raise up to them a prophet of their brothers, like you; and I will put my words in his mouth, He shall speak to them as I shall command him. 19 And whatever man shall not hearken to whatsoever words that prophet shall speak in my name, I will take vengeance on him. 20 But the prophet whoever shall impiously speak in my name a word which I have not commanded him to speak and whoever shall speak in the name of other gods, that prophet shall die. 21 But if you shall say in your heart, How shall we know the word which the Lord has not spoken? 22 Whatsoever words that prophet shall speak in the name of the Lord and they shall not come true and not come to pass, this is the thing which the Lord has not spoken; that prophet has spoken wickedly: you shall not spare him.

19:1 When the Lord your God shall have destroyed the nations, which God gives you, even the land and you shall inherit them and dwell in their cities and in their houses, 2 you shall separate for yourself three cities in the midst of your land, which the Lord your God gives you. 3 Take a survey of your way and you shall divide the coasts of your land, which the Lord your God apportions to you, into three parts and there shall be there a refuge for every manslayer.

4 And this shall be the ordinance of the manslayer, who shall flee to that place and shall live, whoever shall have stricken his neighbor ignorantly, whereas he hated him not in times past. 5 And whoever shall enter with his neighbor into the thicket, to gather wood, if the hand of him that cuts wood with the axe should be violently shaken and the axe head falling off from the handle should light on his neighbor, He should die, he shall flee to one of these cities and live. 6 For fear that the avenger of blood pursue after the slayer, because his heart is hot and overtake him, if the way be too long and kill him, though there is to this man no sentence of death, because he hated him not in time past. 7 Therefore I charge you, saying: You shall separate for your self three cities.

8 If the Lord shall enlarge your borders, as he swore to your fathers and the Lord shall give to you all the land which he said he would give to your fathers; 9 if you shall hearken to do all these commands, which I charge you this day, to love the Lord your God, to walk in all his ways continually; you shall add for yourself yet three cities to these three. 10 So innocent blood shall not be spilt in the land, which the Lord your God gives you to inherit and there shall not be in you one guilty of blood.

11 But if there should be in you a man hating his neighbor, He should lay wait for him and rise up against him and strike him, that he die, He should flee to one of these cities, 12 then shall the elders of his city send and take him for there and they shall deliver him into the hands of the avengers of blood, He shall die. 13 Your eye shall not spare him; so shall you purge innocent blood from Israel and it shall be well with you.

14 You shall not move the landmarks of your neighbor, which your fathers set in the inheritance, in which you have obtained a share in the land, which the Lord your God gives you to inherit. 15 One witness shall not stand to testify against a man for any iniquity, or for any fault, or for any sin which he may commit; by the mouth of two witnesses, or by the mouth of three witnesses, shall every word be established. 16 If an unjust witness rise up against a man, alleging iniquity against him; 17 then shall the two men between whom the controversy is, stand before the Lord and before the priests and before the judges, who may be in those days. 18 The judges shall make diligent inquiry, and, behold, if and unjust witness has borne unjust testimony; and has stood up against his brother; 19 then shall you do to him as he wickedly devised to do against his brother and you shall remove the evil from yourselves. 20 The rest shall hear and fear and do no more according to this evil thing in the midst of you. 21 Your eye shall not spare him: you shall exact life for life, eye for eye, tooth for tooth, hand for hand, foot for foot.

20:1 If you should go forth to war against your enemies and should see horse and rider and a people more numerous than yourself; you shall not be afraid of them, for the Lord your God is with you, who brought you up out of the land of Egypt. 2 It shall come to pass whenever you shall draw near to battle, that the priest shall draw near and speak to the people and shall say to them, 3 Hear, O Israel; you are going this day to battle against your enemies: let not your heart faint, fear not, neither be confounded, neither turn aside from their face. 4 For it is the Lord your God who advances with you, to fight with you against your enemies and to save you.

5 The scribes shall speak to the people, saying: What man is he that has built a new house and has not dedicated it? Let him go and return to his house, for fear that he die in the war and another man dedicate it. 6 And what man is he that has planted a vineyard and not been made merry with it? Let him go and return to his house, for fear that he die in the battle and another man be made merry with it. 7 And what man is he that has betrothed a wife and has not taken her? Let him go and return to his house, for fear that he die in the battle and another man take her. 8 The scribes shall speak further to the people and say, What man is he that fears and is cowardly in his heart? Let him go and return to his house, for fear that he make the heart of his brother fail, as his own. 9 It shall come to pass when the scribes shall have ceased speaking to the people, that they shall appoint generals of the army to be leaders of the people.

10 If you shall draw near to a city to overcome them by war, then call them out peaceably. 11 If then they should answer peaceably to you and open to you, it shall be that all the people found in it shall be tributary and subject to you. 12 But if they will not hearken to you, but wage war against you, you shall invest it; 13 until the Lord your God shall deliver it into your hands and you shall strike every male of it with the edge of the sword: 14 except the women and the stuff: and all the cattle and whatsoever shall be in the city and all the plunder you shall take as spoil for yourself and shall eat all the plunder of your enemies whom the Lord your God gives you. 15 Thus shall you do to all the cities that are very far off from you, not being of the cities of these nations which the Lord your God gives you to inherit their land. 16 Of these you shall not take any thing alive; 17 but you shall surely curse them, the Chettite and the Amorite and the C'anaanite and the Pherezite and the Evite and the Jebusite and the Gergesite; as the Lord your God commanded you: 18 that they may not teach you to do all their abominations, which they did to their gods and so you should sin before the Lord your God.

19 If you should besiege a city many days to prevail against it by war to take it, you shall not destroy its trees, by applying an iron tool to them, but you shall eat of it and shall not cut it down: Is the tree that is in the field a man, to enter before you into the work of the siege? 20 But the tree which you know to be not fruit-bearing, this you shall destroy and cut down; and you shall construct a mound against the city, which makes war against you, until it be delivered up.

21:1 If one be found slain with the sword in the land, which the Lord your God gives you to inherit, having fallen in the field and they do not know who has stricken him; 2 your elders and your judges shall come forth and shall measure the distances of the cities around the slain man: 3 and it shall be that the city which is nearest to the slain man the elders of that city shall take a heifer of the herd, which has not labored and which has not borne a yoke. 4 The elders of that city shall bring down the heifer into a rough valley, which has not been tilled and is not sown and they shall kill the heifer in the valley. 5 The priests the Levites shall come, because the Lord God has chosen them to stand by him and to bless in his name and by their word shall every controversy and every stroke be decided. 6 All the elders of that city who draw near to the slain man shall wash their hands over the head of the heifer which was slain in the valley; 7 and they shall answer and say, Our hands have not shed this blood and our eyes have not seen it. 8 Be merciful to your people Israel, whom you have redeemed, O Lord, that innocent blood may not be charged on your people Israel: and the blood shall be atoned for to them. 9 You shall take away innocent blood from among you, if you should do that which is good and pleasing before the Lord your God.

10 If when you go out to war against your enemies, the Lord your God should deliver them into your hands and you should take their spoil, 11 and should see among the spoil a woman beautiful in countenance and should desire her and take her to yourself for a wife, 12 and should bring her within your house: then shall you shave her head and pare her nails; 13 and shall take away her garments of captivity from off her and she shall abide in your house and shall bewail her father and mother the days of a month; and afterwards you shall go in to her and dwell with her and she shall be your wife.

14 It shall be if you do not delight in her, you shall send her out free; and she shall not by any means be sold for money, you shall not treat her contemptuously, because you have humbled her.

15 If a man have two wives, the one loved and the other hated and both the loved and the hated should have born him children and the son of the hated should be first-born; 16 then it shall be that whenever he shall divide by inheritance his goods to his sons, he shall not be able to give the right of the first-born to the son of the loved one, having overlooked the son of the hated, which is the first-born. 17 But he shall acknowledge the first-born of the hated one to give to him double of all things which shall be found by him, because he is the first of his children and to him belongs the birthright. 18 If any man has a disobedient and contentious son, who hearkens not to the voice of his father and the voice of his mother and they should correct him, He should not hearken to them; 19 then shall his father and his mother take hold of him and bring him forth to the elders of his city and to the gate of the place: 20 and they shall say to the men of their city, This our son is disobedient and contentious, he hearkens not to our voice, he is a reveler and a drunkard. 21 The men of his city shall stone him with stones, He shall die; and you shall remove the evil one from yourselves and the rest shall hear and fear.

22 If there be sin in any one and the judgment of death be upon him, and if he be put to death and you hang him on a tree: 23 his body shall not remain all night upon the tree, but you shall by all means bury it in that day; for every one that is hanged on a tree¹ is cursed of God²; and you shall by no means defile the land which the Lord your God gives you for an inheritance.

22:1 When you see the calf of your brother or his sheep wandering in the way, you shall not overlook them; you shall by all means turn them back to your brother and you shall restore them to him. 2 If your brother do not come near you and you do not know him, you shall bring it into your house within; and it shall be with you until your brother shall seek them and you shall restore them to him. 3 Thus shall you do to his ass and thus shall you do to his garment and thus shall you do to every thing that your brother has lost; whatsoever shall have been lost by him and you shall have found, you shall not have power to overlook. 4 You shall not see the ass of your brother, or his calf, fallen in the way: you shall not overlook them, you shall surely help him to raise them up.

5 The apparel of a man shall not be on a woman, neither shall a man put on a woman's dress; for every one that does these things is an abomination to the Lord your God. 6 If you should come upon a brood of birds before your face in the way or upon any tree, or upon the earth, young or eggs and the mother be brooding on the young or the eggs, you shall not take the dam with the young ones. 7 You shall by all means let the mother go, but you shall take the young to yourself; that it may be well with you and that you may live long.

8 If you should build a new house, then shall you make a parapet to your house; so you shall not bring blood-guiltiness upon your house, if one should in any way fall from it. 9 You shall not sow your vineyard with diverse seed, for fear that the fruit be devoted and whatsoever seed you may sow, with the fruit of your vineyard. 10 You shall not plough with an ox and an ass together. 11 You shall not wear a mingled garment, woolen and linen together. 12 You shall make fringes on the four borders of your garments, in every way that you may be clothed.

13 If any one should take a wife and dwell with her and hate her, 14 and attach to her reproachful words and bring against her an evil name and say, I took this woman and when I came to her I found not her tokens of virginity: 15 then the father and the mother of the young women shall take and bring out the young women's tokens of virginity to the elders of the city to the gate. 16 The father of the young women shall say to the elders, I gave this my daughter to this man for a wife; 17 and now he has hated her and attaches reproachful words to her, saying: I have not found tokens of virginity with your daughter; and these are the tokens of my daughter's virginity. They shall unfold the garment before the elders of the city. 18 The elders of that city shall take that man and shall chastise him, 19 and shall fine him a hundred shekels and shall give them to the father of the young women, because he has brought forth an evil name against a virgin of Israel; and she shall be his wife: he shall never be able to put her away.

20 But if this report be true and the tokens of virginity be not found for the young women; 21 then shall they bring out the young women to the doors of her father's house and shall stone her with stones and she shall die; because she has accomplished folly among the children of Israel, to defile the house of her father by whoring: so you shall remove the evil one from among you.

22 If a man be found lying with a woman married to a man, you shall kill them both, the man that lay with the woman and the woman: so shall you remove the wicked one out of Israel. 23 If there be a young young women espoused to a man and a man should have found her in the city and have lain with her; 24 you shall bring them both out to the gate of their city and they shall be stoned with stones and they shall die; the young women, because she cried not in the city; and the man, because he humbled his neighbor's spouse: so shall you remove the evil one from yourselves. 25 But if a man find in the field a young women that is betrothed, He should force her and lie with her, you shall kill the man that lay with her only. 26 The young women has not committed a sin worthy of death; as if a man should rise up against his neighbor and kill him, so is this thing; 27 because he found her in the field; the betrothed young women cried and there was none to help her.

28 If any one should find a young virgin who has not been betrothed and should force her and lie with her and be found, 29 the man who lay with her shall give to the father of the young women fifty silver didrachms and she shall be his wife, because he has humbled her; he shall never be able to put her away. 30 A man shall not take his father's wife and shall not uncover his father's skirt.

23:1 He that is fractured or mutilated in his private parts shall not enter into the assembly of the Lord. 2 One born of a harlot shall not enter into the assembly of the Lord.

3 The Ammanite and Moabite shall not enter into the assembly of the Lord, even until the tenth generation he shall not enter into the assembly of the Lord, even for ever: 4 because they met you not with bread and water by the way when you went out of Egypt; and because they hired against you Balaam the son of Beor of Mesopotamia to curse you. 5 But the Lord your God would not hearken to Balaam; and the Lord your God changed the curses into blessings, because the Lord your God loved you. 6 You shall not speak peaceably or profitably to them all your days for ever. 7 You shall not abhor an Edomite, because he is your brother; you shall not abhor an Egyptian, because you were a stranger in his land. 8 If sons be born to them, in the third generation they shall enter into the assembly of the Lord.

9 If you should go forth to engage with your enemies, then you shall keep you from every wicked thing. 10 If there should be in you a man who is not clean because of his issue by night, then he shall go forth out of the camp, He shall not enter into the camp. 11 It shall come to pass toward evening he shall wash his body with water and when the sun has gone down, he shall go into the camp. 12 You shall have a place outside of the camp and you shall go out to that place, 13 and you shall have a trowel on your girdle; and it shall come to pass when you would relieve yourself abroad, that you shall dig with it and shall bring back the earth and cover your nuisance. 14 Because the Lord your God walks in your camp to deliver you and to give up your enemy before your face; and your camp shall be holy and there shall not appear in you a disgraceful thing and so he shall turn away from you.

15 You shall not deliver a servant to his master, who coming from his master attaches himself to you. 16 He shall dwell with you, he shall dwell among you where he shall please; you shall not afflict him. 17 There shall not be a harlot of the daughters of Israel and there shall not be a fornicator of the sons of Israel; there shall not be an idolatress of the daughters of Israel and there shall not be an initiated person of the sons of Israel. 18 You shall not bring the hire of a harlot, nor the price of a dog into the house of the Lord your God, for any vow; because even both are an abomination to the Lord your God.

19 You shall not lend to your brother on usury of silver, or usury of meat, or usury of any thing which you may lend out. 20 You may lend on usury to a stranger, but to your brother you shall not lend on usury; that the Lord your God may bless you in all your works upon the land, into which you are entering to inherit it.

21 If you will vow a vow to the Lord your God, you shall not delay to pay it; for the Lord your God will surely require it of you and otherwise it shall be sin in you. 22 But if you should be unwilling to vow, it is not sin in you. 23 You shall observe the words that proceed from between your lips; and as you have vowed a gift to the Lord God, so shall you do that which you have spoken with your mouth.

24:1 If you should go into the corn field of your neighbor, then you may gather the ears with your hands; but you shall not put the sickle to your neighbor's corn. 2 If you should go into the vineyard of your neighbor, you shall eat grapes sufficient to satisfy your desire; but you may not put them into a vessel. 3 If any one should take a wife and should dwell with her, then it shall come to pass if she should not have found favor before him, because he has found some unbecoming thing in her, that he shall write for her a bill of divorcement and give it into her hands, He shall send her away out of his house. 4 If she should go away and be married to another man; 5 and the last husband should hate her and write for her a bill of divorcement; and should give it into her hands and send her away out of his house and the last husband should die, who took her to himself for a wife; 4 (24:6) the former husband who sent her away shall not be able to return and take her to himself for a wife, after she has been defiled; because it is an abomination before the Lord your God and you shall not defile the land, which the Lord your God gives you to inherit.

7 If any one should have recently taken a wife, he shall not go out to war, neither shall any thing be laid upon him; he shall be free in his house; for one year he shall cheer his wife whom he has taken. 8 You shall not take for a pledge the under millstone, nor the upper millstone; for he who does so takes life for a pledge. 9 If a man should be caught stealing one of his brothers of the children of Israel and having overcome him he should sell him, that thief shall die; so shall you remove that evil one from yourselves. 10 Take heed to yourself in regard of the plague of leprosy: you shall take great heed to do according to all the law, which the priests the Levites shall report to you; take heed to do, as I have charged you. 11 Remember all that the Lord your God did to Mariam in the way when you were going out of Egypt.

12 If your neighbor owe you a debt, any debt whatsoever, you shall not go into his house to take his pledge: 13 you shall stand without and the man who is in your debt shall bring the pledge out to you. 14 If the man be poor, you shall not sleep with his pledge. 15 You shall surely restore his pledge at sunset, He shall sleep in his garment, He shall bless you; and it shall be mercy to you before the Lord your God. 16 You shall not unjustly withhold the wages of the poor and needy of your brothers, or of the strangers who are in your cities. 17 You shall pay him his wages the same day, the sun shall not go down upon it, because he is poor He trusts in it; He shall cry against you to the Lord and it shall be sin in you. 18 The fathers shall not be put to death for the children and the sons shall not be put to death for the fathers; every one shall be put to death for his own sin. 19 You shall not extort the judgment of the stranger and the fatherless and widow; you shall not take the widow's garment for a pledge. 20 You shall remember that you were a bondman in the land of Egypt and the Lord your God redeemed you there; therefore I charge you to do this thing.

21 When you shall have reaped corn in your field and shall have forgotten a sheaf in your field, you shall not return to take it; it shall be for the stranger and the orphan and the widow, that the Lord your God may bless you in all the works of your hands. 22 If you should gather your olives, you shall not return to collect the remainder; it shall be for the stranger and the fatherless and the widow and you shall remember that you were a bondman in the land of Egypt; therefore I command you to do this thing. 23 Whenever you shall gather the grapes of your vineyard, you shall not glean what you have left; it shall be for the stranger and the orphan and the widow: 24 and you shall remember that you were a bondman in the land of Egypt; therefore I command you to do this thing.

25:1 If there should be a dispute between men and they should come forward to judgment and the judges judge and justify the righteous and condemn the wicked: 2 then it shall come to pass, if the unrighteous should be worthy of stripes, you shall lay him down before the judges and they shall scourge him before them according to his iniquity. 3 They shall scourge him with forty stripes in number, they shall not inflict more; for if you should scourge him with more stripes beyond these stripes, your brother will be disgraced before you. 4 You shall not muzzle the ox that treads out the corn.

5 If brothers should live together and one of them should die and should not have seed, the wife of the deceased shall not marry out of the family to a man not related: her husband's brother shall go in to her and shall take her to himself for a wife and shall dwell with her. 6 It shall come to pass that the child which she shall bear, shall be named by the name of the deceased and his name shall not be blotted out of Israel.

7 If the man should not be willing to take his brother's wife, then shall the woman go up to the gate to the elders and she shall say, My husband's brother will not raise up the name of his brother in Israel, my husband's brother has refused. 8 The elders of his city shall call him and speak to him; and if he stand and say, I will not take her: 9 then his brother's wife shall come forward before the elders and shall loose one shoe from off his foot and shall spit in his face and shall answer and say, Thus shall they do to the man who will not build his brother's house in Israel. 10 And his name shall be called in Israel, The house of him that has had his shoe loosed.

11 If men should strive together, a man with his brother and the wife of one of them should advance to rescue her husband out of the hand of him that strikes him and she should stretch forth her hand and take hold of his private parts; 12 you shall cut off her hand; your eye shall not spare her.

13 You shall not have in your bag various weights, a great and a small. 14 You shall not have in your house various measures, a great and a small. 15 You shall have a true and just weight and a true and just measure, that you may live long upon the land which the Lord your God gives you for an inheritance. 16 For every one that does this is an abomination to the Lord your God, even every one that does injustice.

17 Remember what things Amalec did to you by the way when you went forth out of the land of Egypt: 18 how he withstood you in the way and harassed your rear, even those who were weary behind you and you did hunger and were weary; He did not fear God. 19 It shall come to pass whenever the Lord your God shall have given you rest from all your enemies around you, in the land which the Lord your God gives you to inherit, you shall blot out the name of Amalec from under heaven and shall not forget to do it.

26:1 It shall be when you shall have entered into the land, which the Lord your God gives you to inherit it and you shall have inherited it and you shall have dwelt upon it, 2 that you shall take of the first of the fruits of your land, which the Lord your God gives you and you shall put them into a basket and you shall go to the place which the Lord your God shall choose to have his name called there. 3 You shall come to the priest who shall be in those days and you shall say to him, I testify this day to the Lord my God, that I am come into the land which the Lord swore to our fathers to give to us. 4 The priest shall take the basket out of your hands and shall set it before the altar of the Lord your God: 5 He shall answer and say before the Lord your God, My father abandoned Syria and went down into Egypt and sojourned there with a small number and became there a mighty nation and a great multitude. 6 The Egyptians afflicted us and humbled us and imposed hard tasks on us: 7 and we cried to the Lord our God and the Lord heard our voice and saw our humiliation and our labor and our affliction. 8 The Lord brought us out of Egypt himself with his great strength and his mighty hand and his high arm and with great visions and with signs and with wonders. 9 He brought us into this place and gave us this land, a land flowing with milk and honey. 10 And now, behold, I have brought the first of the fruits of the land, which you gave me, O Lord, a land flowing with milk and honey: and you shall leave it before the Lord your God and you shall worship before the Lord your God; 11 and you shall rejoice in all the good things, which the Lord your God has given you, you and your family and the Levite and the stranger that is within you.

12 When you shall have completed all the tithings of your fruits in the third year, you shall give the second tenth to the Levite and stranger and fatherless and widow; and they shall eat it in your cities and be merry.

13 You shall say before the Lord your God, I have fully collected the holy things out of my house and I have given them to the Levite and the stranger and the orphan and the widow, according to all commands which you did command me: I did not transgress your command and I did not forget it. 14 And in my distress I did not eat of them, I have not gathered of them for an unclean purpose, I have not given of them to the dead; I have listened to the voice of the Lord our God, I have done as you have commanded me. 15 Look down from your holy house, from heaven and bless your people Israel and the land which you have given them, as you did swear to our fathers, to give to us a land flowing with milk and honey.

16 On this day the Lord your God charged you to keep all the ordinances and judgments; and you shall observe and do them, with all your heart and with all your soul. 17 You have chosen God this day to be your God and to walk in all his ways and to observe his ordinances and judgments and to hearken to his voice. 18 The Lord has chosen you this day that you should be to him a peculiar people, as he said: to keep his commands; 19 and that you should be above all nations, as he has made you renowned and a boast and glorious, that you should be a holy people to the Lord your God, as he has spoken.

27:1 Moses and the elders of Israel commanded, saying: Keep all these commands, all that I command you this day. 2 It shall come to pass in the day when you shall cross over Jordan into the land which the Lord your God gives you, that you shall set up for yourself great stones and shall plaster them with plaster. 3 You shall write on these stones all the words of this law, as soon as you have crossed Jordan when you are entered into the land, which the Lord God of your fathers gives you, a land flowing with milk and honey, according as the Lord God of your fathers said to you. 4 It shall be as soon as you have gone over Jordan, you shall set up these stones, which I command you this day, on mount Gaebal and you shall plaster them with plaster. 5 You shall build there an altar to the Lord your God, an altar of stones; you shall not lift up iron upon it. 6 Of whole stones shall you build an altar to the Lord your God and you shall offer upon it whole-burnt-offerings to the Lord your God. 7 You shall there offer a peace-offering; and you shall eat and be filled and rejoice before the Lord your God. 8 You shall write upon the stones all this law very plainly.

9 Moses and the priests the Levites spoke to all Israel, saying: Be silent and hear, O Israel; this day you have become a people to the Lord your God. 10 You shall hearken to the voice of the Lord your God and shall do all his commands and his ordinances, as many as I command you this day.

11 Moses charged the people on that day, saying: 12 These shall stand to bless the people on mount Garizin having gone over Jordan; Symeon, Levi, Judas, Issachar, Joseph and Benjamin. 13 These shall stand for cursing on mount Gaebal; Ruben, Gad and Aser, Zabulon, Dan and Nephthali.

14 The Levites shall answer and say to all Israel with a loud voice, 15 Cursed is the man whoever shall make a graven or molten image, an abomination to the Lord, the work of the hands of craftsmen and shall put it in a secret place: and all the people shall answer and say, Amen. 16 Cursed is the man that dishonors his father or his mother: and all the people shall say, Amen. 17 Cursed is he that removes his neighbor's landmarks: and all the people shall say, Amen. 18 Cursed is he that makes the blind to wander in the way: and all the people shall say, Amen. 19 Cursed is every one that shall the judgment of the stranger and orphan and widow: and all the people shall say, Amen. 20 Cursed is he that lies with his father's wife, because he has uncovered his father's skirt: and all the people shall say, Amen. 21 Cursed is he that lies with any beast: and all the people shall say, Amen. 22 Cursed is he that lies with his sister by his father or his mother: and all the people shall say, Amen. 23 Cursed is he that lies with his daughter-in-law: and all the people shall say, Amen. Cursed is he that lies with his wife's sister: and all the people shall say, Amen. 24 Cursed is he that strikes his neighbor secretly: and all the people shall say, Amen. 25 Cursed is he whoever shall have taken a bribe to kill an innocent man: and all the people shall say, Amen. 26 Cursed is every man who does not persevere in all the words of this law to do them¹: and all the people shall say, Amen.

28:1 It shall come to pass, if you will indeed hear the voice of the Lord your God, to observe and do all these commands, which I charge you this day, that the Lord your God shall set you on high above all the nations of the earth; 2 and all these blessings shall come upon you and shall find you. If you will indeed hear the voice of the Lord your God, 3 blessed shall you be in the city and blessed shall you be in the field. 4 Blessed shall be the offspring of your body and the fruits of your land and the herds of your oxen and the flocks of your sheep. 5 Blessed shall be your barns and your stores. 6 Blessed shall you be in your coming in and blessed shall you be in your going out.

7 The Lord deliver your enemies that withstand you utterly broken before your face: they shall come out against you one way and they shall flee seven ways from before you. 8 The Lord send upon you his blessing in your barns and on all on which you shall put your hand, in the land which the Lord your God gives you. 9 The Lord raise you up for himself a holy people, as he swore to your fathers; if you will hear the voice of the Lord your God and walk in all his ways. 10 All the nations of the earth shall see you, that the name of the Lord is called upon you and they shall stand in awe of you. 11 The Lord your God shall multiply you for good in the offspring of your body and in the offspring of your cattle and in the fruits of your land, on your land which the Lord swore to your fathers to give to you.

12 May the Lord open to you his good treasure, the heaven, to give rain to your land in season: may he bless all the works of your hands: so shall you lend to many nations, but you shall not borrow; and you shall rule over many nations, but they shall not rule over you. 13 The Lord your God make you the head and not the tail; and you shall then be above and you shall not be below, if you will hearken to the voice of the Lord your God, in all things that I charge you this day to observe. 14 You shall not turn aside from any of the commandments, which I charge you this day, to the right hand or to the left, to go after other gods to serve them.

15 But it shall come to pass, if you will not hearken to the voice of the Lord your God, to observe all his commandments, as many as I charge you this day, then all these curses shall come on you and overtake you. 16 Cursed shall you be in the city and cursed shall you be in the field. 17 Cursed shall be your barns and your stores. 18 Cursed shall be the offspring of your body and the fruits of your land, the herds of your oxen and the flocks of your sheep. 19 Cursed shall you be in your coming in and cursed shall you be in your going out.

20 The Lord send upon you want and famine and consumption of all things on which you shall put your hand, until he shall have utterly destroyed you and until he shall have consumed you quickly because of your evil devices, because you have forsaken me. 21 The Lord cause the pestilence to cleave to you, until he shall have consumed you off the land into which you go to inherit it. 22 The Lord strike you with distress and fever and cold and inflammation and blighting and paleness and they shall pursue you until they have destroyed you. 23 You shall have over your head a sky of brass and the earth under you shall be iron. 24 The Lord your God make the rain of your land dust; and dust shall come down from heaven, until it shall have destroyed you and until it shall have quickly consumed you. 25 The Lord give you up for slaughter before your enemies: you shall go out against them one way and flee from their face seven ways; and you shall be a dispersion in all the kingdoms of the earth. 26 And your dead men shall be food to the birds of the sky and to the beasts of the earth; and there shall be none to scare them away. 27 The Lord strike you with the botch of Egypt in the seat and with a malignant scab and itch, so that you can not be healed. 28 The Lord strike you with insanity and blindness and astonishment of mind. 29 You shall grope at mid-day, as a blind man would grope in the darkness and you shall not prosper in your ways; and then you shall be unjustly treated and plundered continually and there shall be no helper.

30 you shall take a wife and another man shall have her; you shall build a house and you shall not dwell in it; you shall plant a vineyard and shall not gather the grapes of it. 31 Your calf shall be slain before you and you shall not eat of it; your ass shall be violently taken away from you and shall not be restored to you: your sheep shall be given to your enemies and you shall have no helper. 32 Your sons and your daughters shall be given to another nation and your eyes wasting away shall look for them: your hand shall have no strength. 33 A nation which you know not shall eat the produce of your land and all your labors; and you shall be injured and crushed always. 34

You shall be distracted, because of the sights of your eyes which you shall see.

35 The Lord strike you with an evil sore, on the knees and the legs, so that you shall not be able to be healed from the sole of your foot to the crown of your head.

36 The Lord carry away you and your princes, whom you shall set over you, to a nation which neither you nor your fathers know; and you shall there serve other gods, wood and stone. 37 An you shall be there for a wonder and a parable and a tale, among all the nations, to which the Lord your God shall carry you away.

38 You shall carry forth much seed into the field and you shall bring in little, because the locust shall devour it. 39 You shall plant a vineyard and dress it and shall not drink the wine, neither shall you delight yourself with it, because the worm shall devour it. 40 You shall have olive trees in all your borders and you shall not anoint you with oil, because your olive shall utterly cast its fruit. 41 You shall beget sons and daughters and they shall not be yours, for they shall depart into captivity. 42 All your trees and the fruits of your land shall the blight consume. 43 The stranger that is within you shall get up very high and you shall come down very low. 44 He shall lend to you and you shall not lend to him: he shall be the head and you shall be the tail.

45 All these curses shall come upon you and shall pursue you and shall overtake you, until he shall have consumed you and until he shall have destroyed you; because you did not hearken to the voice of the Lord your God, to keep his commands and his ordinances which he has commanded you. 46 These things shall be signs in you and wonders among your seed for ever; 47 because you did not serve the Lord your God with gladness and a good heart, because of the abundance of all things.

48 You shall serve your enemies, which the Lord will send forth against you, in hunger and in thirst and in nakedness and in the want of all things; and you shall wear upon your neck a yoke of iron until he shall have destroyed you. 49 The Lord shall bring upon you a nation from the extremity of the earth, like the swift flying of an eagle, a nation whose voice you shall not understand; 50 a nation bold in countenance, which shall not respect the person of the aged and shall not pity the young. 51 It shall eat up the young of your cattle and the fruits of your land, so as not to leave to you corn, wine, oil, the herds of your oxen and the flocks of your sheep, until it shall have destroyed you; 52 and have utterly crushed you in your cities, until the high and strong walls be destroyed, in which you trustest, in all your land; and it shall afflict you in your cities, which he has given to you. 53 You shall eat the fruit of your body, the flesh of your sons and of your daughters, all that he has given you, in your straitness and your affliction, with which your enemy shall afflict you.

54 He that is tender and very delicate within you shall look with an evil eye upon his brother and the wife in his bosom and the children that are left, which may have been left to him; 55 so as not to give to one of them of the flesh of his children, whom he shall eat, because of his having nothing left him in your straitness and in your affliction, with which your enemies shall afflict you in all your cities.

56 And she that is tender and delicate among you, whose foot has not assayed to go upon the earth for delicacy and tenderness, shall look with an evil eye on her husband in her bosom and her son and her daughter, 57 and her offspring that comes out between her feet and the child which she shall bear; for she shall eat them because of the want of all things, secretly in your straitness and in your affliction, with which your enemy shall afflict you in your cities. 58 If you will not hearken to do all the words of this law, which have been written in this book, to fear this glorious and wonderful name, the Lord your God; 59 then the Lord shall magnify your plagues and the plagues of your seed, great and wonderful plagues and evil and abiding diseases. 60 He shall bring upon you all the evil pain of Egypt, of which you were afraid and they shall cleave to you. 61 The Lord shall bring upon you every sickness and every plague that is not written and every one that is written in the book of this law, until he shall have destroyed you. 62 You shall be left few in number, whereas you were as the stars of the sky in multitude; because you did not hearken to the voice of the Lord your God.

63 It shall come to pass that as the Lord rejoiced over you to do you good and to multiply you, so the Lord will rejoice over you to destroy you; and you shall be quickly removed from the land, into which you go to inherit it. 64 The Lord your God shall scatter you among all nations, from one end of the earth to the other; and you shall there serve other gods, wood and stone, which you have not known, nor your fathers. 65 Moreover, among those nations he will not give you quiet, neither by any means shall the sole of your foot have rest; and the Lord shall give you there another and a misgiving heart and failing eyes and a wasting soul. 66 And your life shall be in suspense before your eyes; and you shall be afraid by day and by night and you shall have no assurance of your life. 67 In the morning you shall say, Would it were evening! and in the evening you shall say, Would it were morning! for the fear of your heart with which you shall fear and for the sights of your eyes which you shall see. 68 The Lord shall bring you back to Egypt in ships, by the way of which I said: You shall not see it again; and you shall be sold there to your enemies for bondmen and bondwomen and none shall buy you.

29:1 These are the words of the covenant, which the Lord commanded Moses to make with the children of Israel in the land of Moab, besides the covenant which he made with them in Choreb.

2 Moses called all the sons of Israel and said to them: you have seen all things that the Lord did in the land of Egypt before you to Pharaoh and his servants and all his land; 3 the great temptations which your eyes have seen, the signs and those great wonders. 4 Yet the Lord God has not given you a heart to know and eyes to see and ears to hear, until this day. 5 He led you forty years in the wilderness; your garments did not grow old and your sandals were not worn away off your feet. 6 You did not eat bread, you did not drink wine or strong drink, that you might know that I am the Lord your God. 7 You came as far as this place; and there came forth Seon king of Esebon and Og king of Basan, to meet us in war. 8 And we stroke them and took their land and I gave it for an inheritance to Ruben and Gad and to the half-tribe of Manasse. 9 You shall take heed to do all the words of this covenant, that you may understand all things that you shall do.

10 you all stand today before the Lord your God, the heads of your tribes and your elders and your judges and your officers, every man of Israel, 11 your wives and your children and the stranger who is in the midst of your camp, from your hewer of wood even to your drawer of water, 12 that you should enter into the covenant of the Lord your God and into his oaths, as many as the Lord your God appoints you this day; 13 that he may appoint you to himself for a people, He shall be your God, as he said to you and as he swore to your fathers, Abra'am and Isaac and Jacob. 14 I do not appoint to you alone this covenant and this oath; 15 but to those also who are here with you today before the Lord your God and to those who are not here with you today.

16 For you know how we dwelt in the land of Egypt, how we came through the midst of the nations through whom you came. 17 You beheld their abominations and their idols, wood and stone, silver and gold, which are among them. 18 For fear that there be among you man, or woman, or family, or tribe, whose heart has turned aside from the Lord your God, having gone to serve the gods of these nations; for fear that there be in you a root springing up with gall and bitterness. 19 It shall be if one shall hear the words of this curse and shall flatter himself in his heart, saying: Let good happen to me, for I will walk in the error of my heart, for fear that the sinner destroy the guiltless with him: 20 God shall by no means be willing to pardon him, but then the wrath of the Lord and his jealousy shall flame out against that man; and all the curses of this covenant shall attach themselves to him, which are written in this book and the Lord shall blot out his name from under heaven. 21 The Lord shall separate that man for evil of all the children of Israel, according to all the curses of the covenant that are written in the book of this law.

22 And another generation shall say—even your sons who shall rise up after you and the stranger who shall come from a land afar off and shall see the plagues of that land and their diseases, which the Lord has sent upon it, 23 brimstone and burning salt, (the whole land shall not be sown, neither shall any green thing spring, nor rise upon it, as Sodom and Gomorrhah were overthrown, Adama and Seboim, which the Lord overthrew in his wrath and anger:)— 24 and all the nations shall say, Why has the Lord done thus to this land? What is this great fierceness of anger? 25 And men shall say, Because they forsook the covenant of the Lord God of their fathers, the things which he appointed to their fathers when he brought them out of the land of Egypt: 26 and they went and served other gods, which they knew not, neither did he assign them to them. 27 The Lord was exceedingly angry with that land to bring upon it according to all the curses which are written in the book of this law. 28 The Lord removed them from their land in anger and wrath and very great indignation and cast them out into another land as at present.

29 The secret things belong to the Lord our God, but the things that are revealed belong to us and to our children for ever, to do all the words of this law.

30:1 It shall come to pass when all these things shall have come upon you, the blessing and the curse, which I have set before your face and you shall call them to mind among all the nations, by which the Lord shall have scattered you, 2 and shall return to the Lord your God and shall hearken to his voice, according to all things which I charge you this day, with all your heart and with all your soul; 3 then the Lord shall heal your iniquities and shall pity you and shall again gather you out from all the nations, among which the Lord has scattered you. 4 If your dispersion be from one end of heaven to the other, for there will the Lord your God gather you and for there will the Lord your God take you. 5 The Lord your God shall bring you in there into the land which your fathers have inherited and you shall inherit it; He will do you good and multiply you above your fathers. 6 The Lord shall purge your heart and the heart of your seed, to love the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul, that you may live.

7 The Lord your God will put these curses upon your enemies and upon those who hate you, who have persecuted you. 8 You shall return and hearken to the voice of the Lord your God and shall keep his commands, all that I charge you this day. 9 The Lord your God shall bless you in every work of your hands, in the offspring of your body and in the offspring of your cattle and in the fruits of your land, because the Lord your God will again rejoice over you for good, as he rejoiced over your fathers: 10 if you will hearken to the voice of the Lord your God, to keep his commandments and his ordinances and his judgments written in the book of this law, if you turn to the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul.

11 For this command which I give you this day is not grievous, neither is it far from you. 12 It is not in heaven above, as if there were one saying: Who shall go up for us into heaven and shall take it for us and we will hear and do it? 13 Neither is it beyond the sea, saying: Who will go over for us to the other side of the sea and take it for us and make it audible to us and we will do it? 14 The word is very near you, in your mouth and in your heart and in your hands to do it.

15 Behold, I have set before you this day life and death, good and evil. 16 If you will hearken to the commands of the Lord your God, which I command you this day, to love the Lord your God, to walk in all his ways and to keep his ordinances and his judgments; then you shall live and shall be many in number and the Lord your God shall bless you in all the land into which you go to inherit it. 17 But if your heart change and you will not hearken and you shall go astray and worship other gods and serve them, 18 I declare to you this day, that you shall utterly perish and you shall by no means live long upon the land, into which you go over Jordan to inherit it. 19 I call both heaven and earth to witness this day against you, I have set before you life and death, the blessing and the curse: choose you life, that you and your seed may live; 20 to love the Lord your God, to hearken to his voice and cleave to him; for this is your life and the length of your days, that you should dwell upon the land, which the Lord swore to your fathers, Abra'am and Isaac and Jacob, to give to them.

31:1 Moses finished speaking all these words to all the children of Israel; 2 and said to them: I am this day a hundred and twenty years old; I shall not be able any longer to come in or go out; and the Lord said to me: You shall not go over this Jordan. 3 The Lord your God who goes before you, he shall destroy these nations before you and you shall inherit them: and it shall be Joshua that goes before your face, as the Lord has spoken. 4 The Lord your God shall do to them as he did to Seon and Og the two kings of the Amorites, who were beyond Jordan and to their land, as he destroyed them. 5 The Lord has delivered them to you; and you shall do to them, as I charged you. 6 Be courageous and strong, fear not, neither be cowardly neither be afraid before them; for it is the Lord your God that advances with you in the midst of you, neither will he by any means forsake you, nor desert you. 7 Moses called Joshua and said to him before all Israel, Be courageous and strong; for you shall go in before this people into the land which the Lord swore to your fathers to give to them and you shall give it to them for an inheritance. 8 The Lord that goes with you shall not forsake you nor abandon you; fear not, neither be afraid.

9 Moses wrote the words of this law in a book and gave it to the priests the sons of Levi who bear the ark of the covenant of the Lord and to the elders of the sons of Israel.

10 Moses charged them in that day, saying: After seven years, in the time of the year of release, in the feast of tabernacles, 11 when all Israel come together to appear before the Lord your God, in the place which the Lord shall choose, you shall read this law before all Israel in their ears, 12 having assembled the people, the men and the women and the children and the stranger that is in your cities, that they may hear and that they may learn to fear the Lord your God; and they shall hearken to do all the words of this law. 13 And their sons who have not known shall hear and shall learn to fear the Lord your God all the days that they live upon the land, into which you go over Jordan to inherit it.

14 The Lord said to Moses: Behold, the days of your death are at hand; call Joshua and stand you by the doors of the tabernacle of testimony and I will give him a charge. Moses and Joshua went to the tabernacle of testimony and stood by the doors of the tabernacle of testimony. 15 The Lord descended in a cloud and stood by the doors of the tabernacle of testimony; and the pillar of the cloud stood by the doors of the tabernacle of testimony. 16 The Lord said to Moses: Behold, you shall sleep with your fathers and this people will arise and go a whoring after the strange gods of the land, into which they are entering; and they will forsake me and break my covenant, which I made with them. 17 I will be very angry with them in that day and I will leave them and turn my face away from them and they shall be devoured; and many evils and afflictions shall come upon them; and they shall say in that day, Because the Lord my God is not with me, these evils have come upon me. 18 I will surely turn away my face from them in that day, because of all their evil doings which they have done, because they turned aside after strange gods.

19 And now write the words of this song and teach it to the children of Israel and you shall put it into their mouth, that this song may witness for me among the children of Israel to their face. 20 For I will bring them into the good land, which I swore to their fathers, to give to them a land flowing with milk and honey: and they shall eat and be filled and satisfy themselves; then will they turn aside after other gods and serve them and they will provoke me and break my covenant. 21 And this song shall stand up to witness against them; for they shall not forget it out of their mouth, or out of the mouth of their seed; for I know their wickedness, what they are doing here this day, before I have brought them into the good land, which I swore to their fathers.

22 Moses wrote this song in that day and taught it to the children of Israel. 23 He charged Joshua and said: Be courageous and strong, for you shall bring the sons of Israel into the land, which the Lord swore to them, He shall be with you.

24 When Moses finished writing all the words of this law in a book, even to the end, 25 then he charged the Levites who bear the ark of the covenant of the Lord, saying: 26 Take the book of this law and you shall put it in the side of the ark of the covenant of the Lord your God; and it shall be there among you for a testimony. 27 For I know your provocation and your stiff neck; for yet during my life with you at this day, you have been provoking in your conduct toward God: how shall you not also be so after my death? 28 Gather together to me the heads of your tribes and your elders and your judges and your officers, that I may speak in their ears all these words; and I call both heaven and earth to witness against them. 29 For I know that after my death you will utterly transgress and turn aside out of the way which I have commanded you; and evils shall come upon you in the latter days, because you will do evil before the Lord, to provoke him to anger by the works of your hands.

Moses spoke all the words of this song even to the end, in the ears of the whole assembly.

32:1 Attend, O heaven and I will speak; Let the earth hear the words out of my mouth. 2 Let my speech be looked for as the rain and my words come down as dew, as the shower upon the herbage and as snow upon the grass. 3 For I have called on the name of the Lord: assign you greatness to our God. 4 As for God, his works are true and all his ways are judgment: God is faithful and there is no unrighteousness in him; just and holy is the Lord. 5 They have sinned, not pleasing him; spotted children, a froward and perverse generation. 6 Do you thus recompense the Lord? Is the people thus foolish and unwise? Did not he himself your father purchase you and make you and form you? 7 Remember the days of old, consider the years for past ages: ask your father, He shall relate to you, your elders and they shall tell you.

8 When the Most High divided the nations when he separated the sons of Adam, he set the bounds of the nations according to the number of the angels of God. 9 And his people Jacob became the portion of the Lord, Israel was the line of his inheritance. 10 He maintained him in the wilderness, in burning thirst and a dry land: he led him about and instructed him and kept him as the apple of an eye. 11 As an eagle would watch over his brood and yearns over his young, receives them having spread his wings and takes them up on his back: 12 the Lord alone led them, there was no strange god with them. 13 He brought them up on the strength of the land; he fed them with the fruits of the fields; they sucked honey out of the rock and oil out of the solid rock. 14 Butter of cows and milk of sheep, with the fat of lambs and rams, of calves and kids, with fat of kidneys of wheat; He drank wine, the blood of the grape. 15 So Jacob ate and was filled and the beloved one kicked; he grew fat, he became thick and broad: then he forsook the God that made him and departed from God his Savior.

16 They provoked me to anger with strange gods; with their abominations they bitterly angered me. 17 They sacrificed to devils and not to God; to gods whom they knew not: new and fresh gods came in, whom their fathers knew not. 18 You have forsaken God that begot you and forgotten God who feeds you.

19 The Lord saw and was jealous; and was provoked by the anger of his sons and daughters, 20 and said: I will turn away my face from them and will show what shall happen to them in the last days; for it is a perverse generation, sons in whom is no faith.

21 They have provoked me to jealousy with that which is not God, they have exasperated me with their idols; and I will provoke them to jealousy with those who are no nation, I will anger them with a nation void of understanding. 22 For a fire has been kindled out of my wrath, it shall burn to hades below; it shall devour the land and the fruits of it; it shall set on fire the foundations of the mountains. 23 I will gather evils upon them and will fight with my weapons against them. 24 They shall be consumed with hunger and the devouring of birds and there shall be irremediable destruction: I will send forth against them the teeth of wild beasts, with the rage of serpents creeping on the ground. 25 Without, the sword shall bereave them of children and terror shall issue out of the secret chambers; the young man shall perish with the virgin, the suckling with him who has grown old. 26 I said: I will scatter them and I will cause their memorial to cease from among men. 27 Were it not for the wrath of the enemy, for fear that they should live long, for fear that their enemies should combine against them; for fear that they should say, Our own high arm and not the Lord, has done all these things.

28 It is a nation that has lost counsel, neither is there understanding in them. 29 They had not sense to understand: let them reserve these things against the time to come. 30 How should one pursue a thousand and two rout tens of thousands, if God had not sold them and the Lord delivered them up? 31 For their gods are not as our God, but our enemies are void of understanding. 32 For their vine is of the vine of Sodom and their vine-branch of Gomorrha: their grape is a grape of gall, their cluster is one of bitterness. 33 Their wine is the rage of serpents and the incurable rage of asps. 34 Behold! are not these things stored up by me and sealed among my treasures? 35 In the day of vengeance I will recompense, whenever their foot shall be tripped up; for the day of their destruction is near to them and the judgments at hand are close upon you. 36 For the Lord shall judge his people and shall be comforted over his servants; for he saw that they were utterly weakened and failed in the hostile invasion and were become feeble: 37 and the Lord said: Where are their gods on whom they trusted? 38 the fat of whose sacrifices you ate and you drank the wine of their drink-offerings? Let them arise and help you and be your protectors. 39 Behold, behold that I am he and there is no god beside me: I kill and I will make to live: I will strike and I will heal; and there is none who shall deliver out of my hands. 40 For I will lift up my hand to heaven and swear by my right hand and I will say, I live for ever. 41 For I will sharpen my sword like lightning and my hand shall take hold of judgment; and I will render judgment to my enemies and will recompense those who hate me. 42 I will make my weapons drunk with blood and my sword shall devour flesh, it shall glut itself with the blood of the wounded and from the captivity of the heads of their enemies that rule over them.

43 Rejoice, you heavens, with him, Let all the angels of God worship him¹; rejoice you Gentiles, with his people, Let all the sons of God strengthen themselves in him; for he will avenge the blood of his sons, He will render vengeance and recompense justice to his enemies and will reward those who hate him; and the Lord shall purge the land of his people.

Israel; and Moses went in and spoke all the words of this law in the ears of the people, he and Joshua the son of Naue. 45 Moses finished speaking to all Israel. 46 He said to them: Take heed with your heart to all these words, which I testify to you this day, which you shall command your sons, to observe and do all the words of this law. 47 For this is no vain word to you; for it is your life and because of this word you shall live long upon the land, into which you go over Jordan to inherit it. 48 The Lord spoke to Moses in this day, saying: 49 Go up to the mount Abarim, this mountain Nabau which is in the land of Moab over against Jericho and behold the land of C'anaan, which I give to the sons of Israel: 50 and die in the mount where you go up and be added to your people; as Aaron your brother died in mount Or and was added to his people. 51 Because you disobeyed my word among the children of Israel, at the waters of strife of Cades in the wilderness of Sin; because you sanctified me not among the sons of Israel. 52 You shall see the land before you, but you shall not enter into it.

33:1 And this is the blessing with which Moses the man of God blessed the children of Israel before his death. 2 He said: The Lord has come from Sinai and has appeared from Seir to us and has hasted out of the mount of Pharan, with the ten thousands of Cades; on his right hand were his angels with him. 3 He spared his people and all his sanctified ones are under your hands; and they are under you; He received of his words 4 the law which Moses charged us, an inheritance to the assemblies of Jacob. 5 He shall be prince with the beloved one when the princes of the people are gathered together with the tribes of Israel. 6 Let Ruben live and not die; Let him be many in number.

7 And this is the blessing of Juda; Hear, Lord, the voice of Juda and do you visit his people: his hands shall contend for him and you shall be a help from his enemies.

8 And to Levi he said: Give to Levi his manifestations and his truth to the holy man, whom they tempted in the temptation; they reviled him at the water of strife. 9 Who says to his father and mother, I have not seen you; He knew not his brothers, He refused to know his sons: he kept your oracles and observed your covenant. 10 They shall declare your ordinances to Jacob and your law to Israel: they shall place incense in the time of your wrath continually upon your altar. 11 Bless, Lord, his strength and accept the works of his hands; break the loins of his enemies that have risen up against him, Let not those who hate him rise up. 12 And to Benjamin he said: The beloved of the Lord shall dwell in confidence and God overshadows him always, He rested between his shoulders.

13 And to Joseph he said: His land is of the blessing of the Lord, of the seasons of sky and dew and of the deeps of wells below, 14 and of the fruits of the changes of the sun in season and of the produce of the months, 15 from the top of the ancient mountains and from the top of the everlasting hills, 16 and of the fullness of the land in season: Let the things pleasing to him that dwelt in the bush come on the head of Joseph and on the crown of him who was glorified above his brothers. 17 His beauty is as the firstling of his bull, his horns are the horns of a unicorn; with them he shall thrust the nations at once, even from the end of the earth: these are the ten thousands of Ephraim and these are the thousands of Manasse. 18 And to Zabulon he said: Rejoice, Zabulon, in your going out and Issachar in his tents. 19 They shall utterly destroy the nations and you shall call men there and there offer the sacrifice of righteousness; for the wealth of the sea shall suckle you and so shall the marts of those who dwell by the sea-coast.

20 And to Gad he said: Blessed be he that enlarges Gad: as a lion he rested, having broken the arm and the ruler. 21 He saw his first-fruits, that there the land of the princes gathered with the chiefs of the people was divided; the Lord accomplished righteousness and his judgment with Israel.

22 And to Dan he said: Dan is a young lion and he shall leap out of Basan. 23 And to Nephthali he said: Nephthali has the fullness of good things; Let him be filled with blessing from the Lord: he shall inherit the west and the south. 24 And to Aser he said: Aser is blessed with children; He shall be acceptable to his brothers: he shall dip his foot in oil. 25 His sandal shall be iron and brass; as your days, so shall be your strength.

26 There is not any such as the God of the beloved; he who rides upon the heaven is your helper and the magnificent One of the firmament. 27 The rule of God shall protect you and that under the strength of the everlasting arms; He shall cast forth the enemy from before your face, saying: Perish. 28 Israel shall dwell in confidence alone on the land of Jacob, with corn and wine; and the sky shall be misty with dew upon you. 29 Blessed are you, O Israel; who is like to you, O people saved by the Lord? Your helper shall hold his shield over you and his sword is your boast; and your enemies shall speak falsely to you and you shall tread upon their neck.

34:1 Moses went up from Araboth Moab to the mount of Nabau, to the top of Phasga, which is before Jericho; and the Lord showed him all the mount of Galaad to Dan and all the land of Nephthali, 2 and all the land of Ephraim and Manasse and all the land of Juda to the farthest sea; 3 and the wilderness and the country around Jericho, the city of palm-trees, to Segor. 4 The Lord said to Moses: This is the land of which I swore to Abra'am and Isaac and Jacob, saying: To your seed will I give it: and I have showed it to your eyes, but you shall not go in to that place. 5 So Moses the servant of the Lord died in the land of Moab by the word of the Lord. 6 They buried him in Gai near the house of Phogor; and no one has seen his tomb to this day. 7 Moses was a hundred and twenty years old at his death; his eyes were not dimmed, nor were his natural powers destroyed.

8 The children of Israel wept for Moses in Araboth of Moab at Jordan near Jericho thirty days; and the days of the sad mourning for Moses were completed. 9 Joshua the son of Naue was filled with the spirit of knowledge, for Moses had laid his hands upon him; and the children of Israel listened to him; and they did as the Lord commanded Moses. 10 And there rose up no more a prophet in Israel like Moses, whom the Lord knew face to face, 11 in all the signs and wonders, which the Lord sent him to work in Egypt on Pharaoh and his servants and all his land; 12 the great wonders and the mighty hand which Moses displayed before all Israel.

1:1 It came to pass after the death of Moses, that the Lord spoke to Joshua the son of Naue, the minister of Moses, saying: 2 Moses my servant is dead; now then arise, go over Jordan, you and all this people, into the land, which I give them. 3 Every spot on which you shall tread I will give it to you, as I said to Moses. 4 The wilderness and Antilibanus, as far as the great river, the river Euphrates and as far as the extremity of the sea; your costs shall be from the setting of the sun. 5 Not a man shall stand against you all the days of your life; and as I was with Moses, so will I also be with you and I will not fail you, or neglect you. 6 Be strong and 'quit yourself like a man, for you shall divide the land to this people, which I swore to give to your fathers. 7 Be strong, therefore and quit yourself like a man, to observe and do as Moses my servant commanded you; and you shall not turn from this course to the right hand or to the left, that you may be wise in whatsoever you may do. 8 The book of this law shall not depart out of your mouth and you shall meditate in it day and night, that you may know how to do all the things that are written in it; then shall you prosper and make your ways prosperous and then shall you be wise. 9 Behold! I have commanded you; be strong and courageous, be not cowardly nor fearful, for the Lord your God is with you in all places where you go. 10 Joshua commanded the scribes of the people, saying: 11 Go into the midst of the camp of the people and command the people, saying: Prepare provisions; for yet three days and you shall go over this Jordan, entering in to take possession of the land, which the Lord God of your fathers gives to you. 12 And to Ruben and to Gad and to the half tribe of Manasse, Joshua said: 13 Remember the word which Moses the servant of the Lord commanded you, saying: the Lord your God has caused you to rest and has given you this land. 14 Let your wives and your children and your cattle dwell in the land, which he has given you; and you shall go over well armed before your brothers, every one of you who is strong; and you shall fight on their side; 15 until the Lord your God shall have given your brothers rest, as also to you and they also shall have inherited the land, which the Lord your God gives them; then you shall depart each one to his inheritance, which Moses gave you beyond Jordan eastward. 16 They answered Joshua and said: We will do all things which you command us and we will go to every place where you shall send us. 17 Just as we listened to Moses we will hearken to you; only let the Lord our God be with you, as he was with Moses. 18 And whoever shall disobey you and whoever shall not hearken to your words as you shall command him, let him die; but be strong and courageous.

2:1 Joshua the son of Naue sent out of Sattin two young men to spy the land, saying: Go up and view the land and Jericho: and the two young men went and entered into Jericho; and they entered into the house of a harlot, whose name was Raab and dwelt there.

2 It was reported to the king of Jericho, saying: Men of the sons of Israel have come in to this place to spy the land. 3 The king of Jericho sent and spoke to Raab, saying: Bring out the men that entered into your house this night; for they have come to spy out the land. 4 The woman took the two men and hid them; and she spoke to the messengers, saying: The men came in to me, 5 but when the gate was shut in the evening, the men went out; I know not where they are gone: follow after them, if you may overtake them. 6 But she had brought them up upon the house and hid them in the flax-stalks that were spread by her on the house. 7 The men followed after them in the way to Jordan to the fords; and the gate was shut.

8 It came to pass when the men who pursued after them were gone forth and before the spies had lain down to sleep, that she came up to them on the top of the house; 9 and she said to them: I know that the Lord has given you the land; for the fear of you have fallen upon us. 10 For we have heard that the Lord God dried up the Red Sea before you when you came out of the land of Egypt and all that he did to the two kings of the Amorites, who were beyond Jordan, to Seon and Og, whom you utterly destroyed. 11 When we heard it we were amazed in our heart and there was no longer any spirit in any of us because of you, for the Lord your god is God in heaven above and on the earth beneath. 12 And now swear to me by the Lord God; since I deal mercifully with you, so do you also deal mercifully with the house of my father: 13 and save alive the house of my father, my mother and my brothers and all my house and all that they have and you shall rescue my soul from death.

14 The men said to her: Our life for yours even to death: and she said: When the Lord shall have delivered the city to you, you shall deal mercifully and truly with me. 15 And she let them down by the window; 16 and she said to them: Depart into the hill-country, for fear that the pursuers meet you and you shall be hidden there three days until your pursuers return from after you and afterwards you shall depart on your way.

17 The men said to her: We are clear of this your oath. 18 Behold, we shall enter into a part of the city and you shall set a sign; you shall bind this scarlet cord in the window, by which you have let us down and you shall bring in to yourself, into your house, your father and your mother and your brothers and all the family of your father. 19 It shall come to pass that whoever shall go outside the door of your house, his guilt shall be upon him and we shall be quit of this your oath; and we will be responsible for all that shall be found with you in your house. 20 But if any one should injure us, or betray these our matters, we shall be quit of this your oath. 21 And she said to them: Let it be according to your word; and she sent them out and they departed. 22 They came to the hill-country and remained there three days; and the pursuers searched all the roads and found them not.

23 The two young men returned and came down out of the mountain; and they went over to Joshua the son of Naue and told him all things that had happened to them. 24 They said to Joshua, The Lord has delivered all the land into our power and all the inhabitants of that land tremble because of us.

3:1 Joshua rose up early in the morning and departed from Sattin; and they came as far as Jordan and dwelt there before they crossed over. 2 It came to pass after three days, that the scribes went through the camp; 3 and they charged the people, saying when you shall see the ark of the covenant of the Lord our God and our priests and the Levites bearing it, you shall depart from your places and you shall go after it. 4 But let there be a distance between you and it; you shall stand as much as two thousand cubits from it. Do not draw near to it, that you may know the way which you are to go; for you have not gone the way before.

5 Joshua said to the people, Sanctify yourselves against tomorrow, for tomorrow the Lord will do wonders among you. 6 Joshua said to the priests, Take up the ark of the covenant of the Lord and go before the people: and the priests took up the ark of the covenant of the Lord and went before the people. 7 The Lord said to Joshua, This day do I begin to exalt you before all the children of Israel, that they may know that as I was with Moses, so will I also be with you. 8 And now charge the priests that bear the ark of the covenant, saying: As soon as you shall enter on a part of the water of Jordan, then you shall stand in Jordan.

9 Joshua said to the children of Israel, Come to this place and hearken to the word of the Lord our God. 10 Hereby you shall know that the living God is among you and will utterly destroy from before our face the C'anaanite and the Chettite and Pherezite and the Evite and the Amorite and the Gergesite and the Jebusite. 11 Behold, the ark of the covenant of the Lord of all the earth passes over Jordan. 12 Choose for yourselves twelve men of the sons of Israel, one of each tribe. 13 It shall come to pass when the feet of the priests that bear the ark of the covenant of the Lord of the whole earth rest in the water of Jordan, the water of Jordan below shall fail and the water coming down from above shall stop.

14 The people removed from their tents to cross over Jordan and the priests bore the ark of the covenant of the Lord before the people. 15 When the priests that bore the ark of the covenant of the Lord entered upon Jordan and the feet of the priests that bore the ark of the covenant of the Lord were dipped in part of the water of Jordan; (now Jordan overflowed all its banks about the time of wheat harvest;) 16 then the waters that came down from above stopped; there stood one solid heap very far off, as far as the region of Kariathiarim and the lower part came down to the sea of Araba, the salt sea, till it completely failed; and the people stood opposite Jericho. 17 The priests that bore the ark of the covenant of the Lord stood on dry land in the midst of Jordan; and all the children of Israel went through on dry land, until all the people had completely gone over Jordan.

4:1 When the people had completely passed over Jordan, the Lord spoke to Joshua, saying: 2 Take men from the people, one of each tribe, 3 and charge them; and you shall take out of the midst of Jordan twelve fit stones and having carried them across together with yourselves, place them in your camp, where you shall encamp for the night.

4 Joshua having called twelve men of distinction among the children of Israel, one of each tribe, 5 said to them: Advance before me in the presence of the Lord into the midst of Jordan and each having taken up a stone there, let him carry it on his shoulders, according to the number of the twelve tribes of Israel: 6 that these may be to you continually for an appointed sign, that when your son asks you in future, saying: What are these stones to us? 7 then you may explain to your son, saying: The river Jordan was dried up from before the ark of the covenant of the Lord of the whole earth when it passed it: and these stones shall be for a memorial for you for the children of Israel for ever.

8 The children of Israel did so, as the Lord commanded Joshua; and they took up twelve stones out of the midst of Jordan, (as the Lord commanded Joshua when the children of Israel had completely passed over,) and carried these stones with them into the camp and laid them down there. 9 Joshua set also other twelve stones in Jordan itself, in the place that was under the feet of the priests that bore the ark of the covenant of the Lord; and there they are to this day.

10 The priests that bore the ark of the covenant stood in Jordan, until Joshua had finished all that the Lord commanded him to report to the people; and the people hastened and passed over. 11 It came to pass when all the people had passed over, that the ark of the covenant of the Lord passed over and the stones before them. 12

The sons of Ruben and the sons of Gad and the half tribe of Manasse passed over armed before the children of Israel, as Moses commanded them. 13 Forty thousand armed for battle went over before the Lord to war, to the city of Jericho. 14 In that day, the Lord magnified Joshua before all the people of Israel; and they feared him, as they did Moses, as long as he lived.

15 The Lord spoke to Joshua, saying: 16 Charge the priests that bear the ark of the covenant of the testimony of the Lord, to go up out of Jordan. 17 Joshua charged the priests, saying: Go up out of Jordan. 18 It came to pass when the priests who bore the ark of the covenant of the Lord were gone up out of Jordan and set their feet upon the land, that the water of Jordan returned impetuously to its place and went as before over all its banks.

19 The people went up out of Jordan on the tenth day of the first month; and the children of Israel encamped in Galgala in the region eastward from Jericho. 20 Joshua set these twelve stones which he took out of Jordan, in Galgala, 21 saying when your sons ask you, saying: What are these stones? 22 Tell your sons, that Israel went over this Jordan on dry land, 23 when the Lord our God had dried up the water of Jordan from before them, until they had passed over; as the Lord our God did to the Red Sea, which the Lord our God dried up from before us, until we passed over. 24 That all the nations of the earth might know, that the power of the Lord is mighty and that you might worship the Lord our God in every work.

5:1 It came to pass when the kings of the Amorites who were beyond Jordan heard and the kings of Phoenicia by the sea, that the Lord God had dried up the river Jordan from before the children of Israel when they passed over, that their hearts failed and they were terror-stricken and there was no sense in them because of the children of Israel.

2 And about this time the Lord said to Joshua, Make you stone knives of sharp stone and sit down and circumcise the children of Israel the second time. 3 Joshua made sharp knives of stone and circumcised the children of Israel at the place called the "Hill of s." 4 And this is the way in which Joshua purified the children of Israel; as many as were born in the way and as many as were uncircumcised of those who came out of Egypt, 5 all these Joshua circumcised; for forty and two years Israel wondered in the wilderness of Mabdaris— 6 Why then most of the fighting men that came out of the land of Egypt, were uncircumcised, who disobeyed the commands of God; concerning whom also he determined that they should not see the land, which the Lord swore to give to their fathers, even a land flowing with milk and honey. 7 And in their place he raised up their sons, whom Joshua circumcised, because they were uncircumcised, having been born by the way. 8 When they had been circumcised they rested continuing there in the camp till they were healed. 9 The Lord said to Joshua the son of Naue, On this day have I removed the reproach of Egypt from you: He called the name of that place Galgala.

10 The children of Israel kept the Passover on the fourteenth day of the month at evening, to the westward of Jericho on the opposite side of the Jordan in the plain. 11 They ate of the grain of the earth unleavened and new corn. 12 In this day the manna failed, after they had eaten of the corn of the land and the children of Israel no longer had manna: and they took the fruits of the land of the Phoenicians in that year.

13 It came to pass when Joshua was in Jericho, that he looked up with his eyes and saw a man standing before him and there was a drawn sword in his hand; and Joshua drew near and said to him: are you for us or on the side of our enemies? 14 He said to him:

I am now come, the chief captain of the host of the Lord. 15 Joshua fell on his face upon the earth and said to him: Lord, what command you your servant? 16 The captain of the Lord's host said to Joshua, Loose your shoe off your feet, for the place whereon you now stand is holy.

6:1 Now, Jericho was closely shut up and besieged and none went out of it and none came in. 2 The Lord said to Joshua, Behold, I deliver Jericho into your power and its king in it and its mighty men. 3 And do you set the men of war around it. 4 It shall be that when you shall sound with the trumpet, all the people shall shout together. 5 When they have shouted, the walls of the city shall fall of themselves; and all the people shall enter, each one rushing direct into the city.

6 Joshua the son of Naue went in to the priests and spoke to them, saying: 7 Let seven priests having seven sacred trumpets proceed thus before the Lord, Let them sound loudly; Let the ark of the covenant of the Lord follow. 8 Charge the people to go round and encompass the city; Let your men of war pass on armed before the Lord. 9 Let the men of war proceed before and the priests bringing up the rear behind the ark of the covenant of the Lord proceed sounding the trumpets. 10 Joshua commanded the people, saying: Cry not out, nor let any one hear your voice, until he himself declare to you the time to cry out and then you shall cry out. 11 The ark of the covenant of God having gone round immediately returned into the camp and dwelt there.

12 And on the second day Joshua rose up in the morning and the priests took up the ark of the covenant of the Lord. 13 The seven priests bearing the seven trumpets went on before the Lord; and afterwards the men of war went on and the remainder of the multitude went after the ark of the covenant of the Lord and the priests sounded with the trumpets. 14 All the rest of the multitude surrounded the city six times from within a short distance and went back again into the camp; this they did six days.

15 And on the seventh day they rose up early and surrounded the city on that day seven times. 16 It came to pass at the seventh circuit the priests blew the trumpets; and Joshua said to the children of Israel, Shout, for the Lord has given you the city. 17 The city shall be devoted, it and all things that are in it, to the Lord of Hosts: only do you save Raab the harlot and all things in her house. 18 But keep yourselves strictly from the accursed thing, for fear that you set your mind upon and take of the accursed thing and you make the camp of the children of Israel and accursed thing and destroy us. 19 All the silver, or gold, or brass, or iron, shall be holy to the Lord; it shall be carried into the treasury of the Lord.

20 The priests sounded with the trumpets: and when the people heard the trumpets, all the people shouted at once with a loud and strong shout; and all the wall fell around and all the people went up into the city: 21 and Joshua devoted it to destruction and all things that were in the city, man and woman, young man and old and calf and ass, with the edge of the sword.

22 Joshua said to the two young men who had acted a spies, Go into the house of the woman and bring her out for there and all that she has. 23 The two young men who had spied out the city entered into the house of the woman and brought out Raab the harlot and her father and her mother and her brothers and her kindred and all that she had; and they set her without the camp of Israel. 24 The city was burnt with fire with all things that were in it; only of the silver and gold and brass and iron, they gave to be brought into the treasury of the Lord.

25 Joshua saved alive Raab the harlot and all the house of her father and caused her to dwell in Israel until this day, because she hid the spies which Joshua sent to spy out Jericho. 26 Joshua adjured them on that day before the Lord, saying: Cursed be the man who shall build that city: he shall lay the foundation of it in his first-born, He shall set up the gates of it in his youngest son. And so did Hozan of Baethel; he laid the foundation in Abiron his first-born and set up the gates of it in his youngest surviving son.

27 The Lord was with Joshua and his name was in all the land.

7:1 But the children of Israel committed a great trespass and purloined part of the accursed thing; and Achar the son of Charmi, the son of Zambri, the son of Zara, of the tribe of Juda, took of the accursed thing; and the Lord was very angry with the children of Israel.

2 Joshua sent men to Gai, which is by Baethel, saying: Spy out Gai: and the men went up and spied Gai. 3 They returned to Joshua and said to him: Let not all the people go up, but let about two or three thousand men go up and take the city by siege: carry not up to that place the whole people, for the enemy are few. 4 And there went up about three thousand men and they fled from before the men of Gai. 5 The men of Gai killed of them to the number of thirty-six men and they pursued them from the gate and destroyed them from the steep hill; and the heart of the people was alarmed and became as water.

6 Joshua tore his garments; and Joshua fell on the earth on his face before the Lord until evening, he and the elders of Israel; and they cast dust on their heads. 7 Joshua said: I pray, Lord, why then has your servant brought this people over Jordan to deliver them to the Amorite to destroy us? Would we had remained and settled ourselves beyond Jordan. 8 And what shall I say since Israel has turned his back before his enemy? 9 When the C'anaanite and all the inhabitants of the land hear it, they shall compass us round and destroy us from off the land: and what will you do for your great name?

10 The Lord said to Joshua, Rise up; why have you fallen upon your face? 11 The people has sinned and transgressed the covenant which I made with them; they have stolen from the cursed thing and put it into their store. 12 The children of Israel will not be able to stand before their enemies; they will turn their back before their enemies, for they have become an accursed thing: I will not any longer be with you, unless you remove the cursed thing from yourselves. 13 Rise, sanctify the people and tell them to sanctify themselves for the morrow: thus says the Lord God of Israel, The accursed thing is among you; you shall not be able to stand before your enemies, until you shall have removed the cursed thing from among you. 14 You shall all be gathered together by your tribes in the morning and it shall come to pass that the tribe which the Lord shall shew, you shall bring by families; and the family which the Lord shall shew, you shall bring by households; and the household which the Lord shall shew, you shall bring man by man. 15 The man who shall be pointed out, shall be burnt with fire and all that he has; because he has transgressed the covenant of the Lord and has accomplished wickedness in Israel.

16 Joshua rose up early and brought the people by their tribes; and the tribe of Juda was pointed out. 17 It was brought by their families and family of the Zaraites was pointed out. 18 It was brought man by man and Achar the son of Zambri the son of Zara was pointed out.

19 Joshua said to Achar, Give glory this day to the Lord God of Israel and make confession; and tell me what you have done and hide it not from me. 20 And Achar answered Joshua and said: Indeed I have sinned against the Lord God of Israel: thus and thus have I done: 21 I saw in the spoil an embroidered mantle and two hundred didrachms of silver and one golden wedge of fifty didrachms and I desired them and took them; and, behold, they are hid in my tent and the silver is hid under them. 22 Joshua sent messengers and they ran to the tent into the camp; and these things were hidden in his tent and the silver under them. 23 They brought them out of the tent and brought them to Joshua and the elders of Israel and they laid them before the Lord.

24 Joshua took Achar the son of Zara and brought him to the valley of Achor and his sons and his daughters and his calves and his asses and all his sheep and his tent and all his property and all the people were with him; He brought them to Emec Achor. 25 Joshua said to Achar, Why have you destroyed us? The Lord destroy you as at this day. All Israel stoned him with stones. 26 They set up over him a great heap of stones; and the Lord ceased from his fierce anger. Therefore he called the place Emecachor until this day.

8:1 The Lord said to Joshua, Fear not, nor be timorous: take with you all the men of war and arise, go up to Gai; behold, I have given into your hands the king of Gai and his land. 2 You shall do to Gai, as you did to Jericho and its king; and you shall take to yourself the spoil of its cattle; set now for yourself an ambush for the city behind. 3 Joshua and all the men of war rose to go up to Gai; and Joshua chose out thirty thousand mighty men, He sent them away by night. 4 He charged them, saying: Do you lie in ambush behind the city: do not go far from the city and you shall all be ready. 5 Land I and all with me will draw near to the city: and it shall come to pass when the inhabitants of Gai shall come forth to meet us, as before, that we will flee from before them. 6 When they shall come out after us, we will draw them away from the city; and they will say, These men flee from before us, as also before. 7 You shall rise up out of the ambushade and go into the city. 8 You shall do according to this word, Behold! I have commanded you. 9 Joshua sent them and they went to lie in ambush; and they lay between Baethel and Gai, westward of Gai.

10 Joshua rose up early in the morning and numbered the people; He went up, he and the elders before the people to Gai. 11 All the men of war went up with him and they went forward and came over against the city eastward. 12 The ambushade was on the west side of the city. 13 14 It came to pass when the king of Gai saw it, he hastened and went out to meet them direct to the battle, he and all the people that were with him: He knew not that there was an ambushade formed against him behind the city. 15 Joshua and Israel saw and retreated from before them. 16 They pursued after the children of Israel and they themselves went to a distance from the city. 17 There was no one left in Gai who did not pursue after Israel; and they left the city open and pursued after Israel.

18 The Lord said to Joshua, Stretch forth your hand with the spear that is in your hand toward the city, for I have delivered it into your hands; and the liers in wait shall rise up quickly out of their place. 19 Joshua stretched out his hand and his spear toward the city and the ambushade rose up quickly out of their place; and they came forth when he stretched out his hand; and they entered into the city and took it; and they hastened and burnt the city with fire.

20 When the inhabitants of Gai looked round behind them, then they saw the smoke going up out of the city to heaven and they were no longer able to flee this way or that way. 21 Joshua and all Israel saw that the ambushade had taken the city and that the smoke of the city went up to heaven; and they turned and stroke the men of Gai. 22 These came forth out of the city to meet them; and they were in the midst of the army, some being on this side and some on that; and they stroke them until there was not left of them one who survived and escaped. 23 They took the king of Gai alive and brought him to Joshua.

24 When the children of Israel had ceased slaying all that were in Gai and in the fields and in the mountain on the descent, from from where they pursued them even to the end, then Joshua returned to Gai and stroke it with the edge of the sword. 25 And those who fell in that day, men and women, were twelve thousand: they killed all the inhabitants of Gai. 26 27 Beside the spoils that were in the city, all things which the children of Israel took as spoil for themselves according to the command of the Lord, as the Lord commanded Joshua.

28 Joshua burnt the city with fire: he made it an uninhabited heap for ever, even to this day. 29 He hanged the king of Gai on a gallows; He remained on the tree till evening: and when the sun went down, Joshua gave charge and they took down his body from the tree and cast it into a pit and they set over him a heap of stones until this day. 30 Then Joshua built an altar to the Lord God of Israel in mount Gaebal, 31 as Moses the servant of the Lord commanded the children of Israel, as it is written in the law of Moses, an altar of unhewn stones, on which iron had not been lifted up; He offered there whole-burnt-offerings to the Lord and a peace-offering. 32 Joshua wrote upon the stones a copy of the law, even the law of Moses, before the children of Israel. 33 All Israel and their elders and their judges and their scribes, passed on one side and on the other before the ark; and the priests and the Levites took up the ark of the covenant of the Lord; and the stranger and the native were there, who were half of them near mount Garizin and half near mount Gaebal, as Moses the servant of the Lord commanded at first, to bless the people. 34 And afterwards Joshua read accordingly all the words of this law, the blessings and the curses, according to all things written in the law of Moses. 35 There was not a word of all that Moses charged Joshua, which Joshua read not in the ears of all the assembly of the children of Israel, the men and the women and the children and the strangers that joined themselves to Israel.

9:1 When the kings of the Amorites on the other side of Jordan, who were in the mountain country and in the plain and in all the coast of the great sea and those who were near Antilibanus and the Chettites and the C'anaanites and the Pherezites and the Evites and the Amorites and the Gergesites and the Jebusites, heard of it, 2 they came all together at the same time to make war against Joshua and Israel.

3 The inhabitants of Gabaon heard of all that the Lord did to Jericho and Gai. 4 They also accomplished craftily and they went and made provision and prepared themselves; and having taken old sacks on their shoulders and old and rent and patched bottles of wine, 5 and the upper part of their shoes and their sandals old and clouted on their feet and their garments old upon them—and the bread of their provision was dry and mouldy and corrupt.

6 They came to Joshua into the camp of Israel to Galgala and said to Joshua and Israel, We have come from a far land: now then make a covenant with us. 7 The children of Israel said to the Chorrhæan, you dwell amongst us; and how should I make a covenant with you? 8 They said to Joshua, We are your servants: and Joshua said to them: from where are you and from where have you come? 9 They said: your servants have come from a very far country in the name of the Lord your God: for we have heard his name and all that he did in Egypt, 10 and all that he did to the kings of the Amorites, who were beyond Jordan, to Seon king of the Amorites and Og king of Basan, who dwelt in Astaroth and in Edrain. 11 And our elders and all that inhabit our land when they heard spoke to us, saying: Take to yourselves provision for the way and go to meet them; and you shall say to them, We are your servants and now make a covenant with us. 12 These are the loaves—we took them hot for our journey on the day on which we came out to come to you; and now they are dried and become mouldy. 13 These are the skins of wine which we filled when new and they are rent; and our garments and our shoes are worn out because of the very long journey.

14 The chiefs took of their provision and asked not counsel of the Lord. 15 Joshua made peace with them and they made a covenant with them to preserve them; and the princes of the congregation swore to them.

16 It came to pass three days after they had made a covenant with them, they heard that they were near neighbors and that they dwelt among them. 17 The children of Israel departed and came to their cities; and their cities were Gabaon and Kephira and Berot and the cities of Jarin. 18 Land the children of Israel fought not with them, because all the princes swore to them by the Lord God of Israel; and all the congregation murmured at the princes.

19 The princes said to all the congregation: We have sworn to them by the Lord God of Israel and now we shall not be able to touch them. 20 This we will do; take them alive and we will preserve them: so there shall not be wrath against us because of the oath which we swore to them. 21 They shall live and shall be hewers of wood and drawers of water to all the congregation, as the princes said to them.

22 Joshua called them together and said to them: Why have you deceived me, saying: We live very far from you; whereas you are fellow-countrymen of those who dwell among us? 23 And now you are cursed: there shall not fail of you a slave, or a hewer of wood, or a drawer of water to me and my God. 24 They answered Joshua, saying: It was reported to us what the Lord your God charged his servant Moses, to give you this land and to destroy us and all that dwelt on it from before you; and we feared very much for our lives because of you and therefore we did this thing. 25 And now, behold, we are in your power; do to us as it is pleasing to you and as it seems good to you.

26 And they did so to them; and Joshua rescued them in that day out of the hands of the children of Israel and they did not kill them. 27 Joshua made them in that day hewers of wood and drawers of water to the whole congregation and for the altar of God: therefore the inhabitants of Gabaon became hewers of wood and drawers of water for the altar of God until this day, even for the place which the Lord should choose.

30 Then Joshua built an altar to the Lord God of Israel in mount Gebal, 31 as Moses the servant of the Lord commanded the children of Israel, as it was written in the law of Moses, an altar of unhewn stones, on which iron had not been lifted up: He offered there whole-burnt-offerings to the Lord and a piece offering. Joshua wrote upon the stones a copy of the law, even the law of Moses, before the children of Israel. 33 All Israel and their elders and their judges and their scribes, passed on one side and on the other, before the ark; and the priests and the levites took up the ark of the covenant of the Lord; and the stranger and the native were there, who were half of them near mount Gebal, as Moses the servant of the Lord commanded at first, to bless the people.

34 And afterwards Joshua read accordingly all the words of this law, the blessings and the curses, according to all things written in the law of Moses. 35 There was not a word of all that Moses charged Joshua, which Joshua read not in the ears of all men and the women and the children of Israel and the strangers that joined themselves to Israel.

10:1 When Adoni-bezec king of Jerusalem heard that Joshua had taken Gai and had destroyed it, as he did to Jericho and its king, even so they did to Gai and its king and that the inhabitants of Gabaon had gone over to Joshua and Israel; 2 then they were greatly terrified by them, for the king knew that Gabaon was a great city, as one of the chief cities and all its men were mighty. 3 So Adoni-bezec king of Jerusalem sent to Elam king of Hebron and to Phidon king of Jerimuth and to Jephtha king of Lachis and to Dabin king of Odollam, saying: 4 Come up to this place to me and help me, Let us take Gabaon; for the Gabaonites have gone over to Joshua and to the children of Israel. 5 The five kings of the Jebusites went up, the king of Jerusalem and the king of Chebron and the king of Jerimuth and the king of Lachis and the king of Odollam, they and all their people; and encamped around Gabaon and besieged it.

6 The inhabitants of Gabaon sent to Joshua into the camp to Galgala, saying: Slack not your hands from your servants: come up quickly to us and help us and rescue us; for all the kings of the Amorites who dwell in the hill country are gathered together against us. 7 Joshua went up from Galgala, he and all the people of war with him, every one mighty in strength.

8 The Lord said to Joshua, Fear them not, for I have delivered them into your hands; there shall not one of them be left before you.

9 When Joshua came suddenly upon them, he had advanced all the night out of Galgala. 10 The Lord struck them with terror before the children of Israel; and the Lord destroyed them with a great slaughter at Gabaon; and they pursued them by the way of the going up of Oronin and they stroke them to Azeca and to Makeda. 11 When they fled from the face of the children of Israel at the descent of Oronin, then the Lord cast upon them hailstones from heaven to Azeca; and they were more that died by the hailstones, than those whom the children of Israel killed with the sword in the battle.

12 Then Joshua spoke to the Lord, in the day in which the Lord delivered the Amorite into the power of Israel when he destroyed them in Gabaon and they were destroyed from before the children of Israel: and Joshua said: Let the sun stand over against Gabaon and the moon over against the valley of Ælon. 13 The sun and the moon stood still, until God executed vengeance on their enemies; and the sun stood still in the midst of heaven; it did not proceed to set till the end of one day. 14 And there was not such a day either before or after, so that God should hearken to a man, because the Lord fought on the side of Israel.

15 16 These five kings fled and hid themselves in a cave that is in Makeda. 17 It was told Joshua, saying: The five kings have been found hid in the cave that is in Makeda. 18 Joshua said: Roll stones to the mouth of the cave and set men to watch over them. 19 But do not you stand, but pursue after your enemies and attack the rear of them and do not suffer them to enter into their cities; for the Lord our God has delivered them into our hands. 20 It came to pass when Joshua and all Israel ceased destroying them utterly with a very great slaughter, that those who escaped took refuge in the strong cities.

22 Joshua said: Open the cave and bring out these five kings out of the cave. 23 They brought out the five kings out of the cave, the king of Jerusalem and the king of Chebron and the king of Jerimuth and the king of Lachis and the king of Odollam. 24

When they brought them out to Joshua, then Joshua called together all Israel and the chiefs of the army that went with him, saying to them, Come forward and set your feet on their necks; and they came and set their feet on their necks. 25 Joshua said to them: Do not fear them, neither be cowardly; be courageous and strong, for thus the Lord will do to all your enemies, against whom you fight. 26 Joshua killed them and hanged them on five trees; and they hung upon the trees until the evening. 27 It came to pass toward the setting of the sun, Joshua commanded and they took them down from the trees and cast them into the cave into which they had fled for refuge and rolled stones to the cave, which remain till this day.

28 They took Makeda on that day and killed the inhabitants with the edge of the sword and they utterly destroyed every living thing that was in it; and there was none left in it that was preserved and had escaped; and they did to the king of Makeda, as they did to the king of Jericho.

29 Joshua and all Israel with him departed out of Makeda to Lebna and besieged Lebna. 30 The Lord delivered it into the hands of Israel: and they took it and its king and killed the inhabitants with the edge of the sword and every thing breathing in it; and there was not left in it any that survived and escaped; and they did to its king, as they did to the king of Jericho.

31 Joshua and all Israel with him departed from Lebna to Lachis, He encamped about it and besieged it. 32 The Lord delivered Lachis into the hands of Israel; and they took it on the second day and they put the inhabitants to death with the edge of the sword and utterly destroyed it, as they had done to Lebna. 33 Then Elam the king of Gazer went up to help Lachis; and Joshua stroke him and his people with the edge of the sword, until there was not left to him one that was preserved and escaped.

34 Joshua and all Israel with him departed from Lachis to Odollam, He besieged it and took it. 35 The Lord delivered it into the hand of Israel; He took it on that day and killed the inhabitants with the edge of the sword and killed every thing breathing in it, as they did to Lachis.

36 Joshua and all Israel with him departed to Chebron and encamped about it. 37 He stroke it with the edge of the sword and all the living creatures that were in it; there was no one preserved: they destroyed it and all things in it, as they did to Odollam.

38 Joshua and all Israel returned to Dabir; and they encamped about it; 39 and they took it and its king and its villages: He stroke it with the edge of the sword and they destroyed it and every thing breathing in it; and they did not leave in it any one that was preserved: as they did to Chebron and her king, so they did to Dabir and her king.

40 Joshua stroke all the land of the hill country and Nageb and the plain country and Asedoth and her kings, they did not leave of them one that was saved: and they utterly destroyed every thing that had the breath of life, as the Lord God of Israel commanded, 41 from Cades Barne to Gaza, all Gosom, as far as Gabaon. 42 Joshua stroke, once for all, all their kings and their land, because the Lord God of Israel fought on the side of Israel.

11:1 When Jabis the king of Asor heard, he sent to Jobab king of Maron and to the king of Symoon and to the king of Aziph, 2 and to the kings who were by the great Sidon, to the hill country and to Araba opposite Keneroth and to the plain and to Phenaeddor, 3 and to the C'anaanites on the coast eastward and to the Amorites on the coast and the Chettites and the Pherezites and the Jebusites in the mountain and the Evites and those dwelling under mount Aeron in the land Massyma. 4 They and their kings with them went forth, as the sand of the sea in multitude and horses and very many chariots. 5 All the kings assembled in person and came to the same place and encamped at the waters of Maron to war with Israel.

6 The Lord said to Joshua, Be not afraid of them, for tomorrow at this time I will put them to flight before Israel: you shall hough their horses and burn their chariots with fire 7 Joshua and all the men of war came upon them at the water of Maron suddenly; and they attacked them in the hill country. 8 The Lord delivered them into the power of Israel; and they stroke them and pursued them to great Sidon and to Maseron and to the plains of Massoch eastward; and they destroyed them till there was not one of them left that survived. 9 Joshua did to them, as the Lord commanded him: he houghed their horses and burned their chariots with fire.

10 Joshua returned at that time and took Asor and her king; now Asor in former time was the chief of these kingdoms. 11 They killed with the sword all that breathed in it and utterly destroyed them all and there was no living thing left in it; and they burnt Asor with fire. 12 Joshua took all the cities of the kingdoms and their kings and killed them with the edge of the sword; and utterly killed them, as Moses the servant of the Lord commanded. 13 But all the walled cities Israel burnt not; but Israel burnt Asor only. 14 The children of Israel took all its spoils to themselves; and they killed all the men with the edge of the sword, until he destroyed them; they left not one of them breathing. 15 As the Lord commanded his servant Moses, even so Moses commanded Joshua; and so Joshua did, he transgressed no precept of all that Moses commanded him.

16 Joshua took all the hill country and all the land of Nageb and all the land of Gosom and the plain country and that toward the west and the mountain of Israel and the low country by the mountain; 17 from the mountain of Chelcha and that which goes up to Seir and as far as Balagad and the plains of Lebanon, under mount Aermion; He took all their kings and destroyed and killed them. 18 And for many days Joshua waged war with these kings.

19 And there was no city which Israel took not; they took all in war. 20 For it was of the Lord to harden their hearts to go forth to war against Israel, that they might be utterly destroyed, that mercy should not be granted to them, but that they should be utterly destroyed, as the Lord said to Moses.

21 Joshua came at that time and utterly destroyed the Enakim out of the hill country, from Chebron and from Dabir and from Anaboth and from all the race of Israel and from all the mountain of Juda with their cities; and Joshua utterly destroyed them. 22 There was not any one left of the Enakim by the children of Israel, only there was left of them in Gaza and in Gath and in Aseldo.

23 Joshua took all the land, as the Lord commanded Moses; and Joshua gave them for an inheritance to Israel by division according to their tribes; and the land ceased from war.

12:1 These are the kings of the land, whom the children of Israel killed and inherited their land beyond Jordan from the east, from the valley of Arnon to the mount of Aermion and all the land of Araba on the east. 2 Seon king of the Amorites, who dwelt in Esebon, ruling from Arnon, which is in the valley, on the side of the valley and half of Galaad as far as Jaboc, the borders of the children of Ammon. 3 And Araba as far as the sea of Chenereth eastward and as far as the sea of Araba; the salt sea eastward by the way to Asimoth, from Thaeman under Asedoth Phasga. 4 And Og king of Basan, who dwelt in Astaroth and in Edrain, was left of the giants 5 ruling from mount Aermion and from Secchai and over all the land of Basan to the borders of Gergesi and Machi and the half of Galaad of the borders of Seon king of Esebon. 6 Moses the servant of the Lord and the children of Israel stroke them; and Moses gave them by way of inheritance to Ruben and Gad and to the half tribe of Manasse. 7 These are the kings of the Amorites, whom Joshua and the children of Israel killed beyond Jordan by the sea of Balagad in the plain of Lebanon and as far as the mountain of Chelcha, as men go up to Seir: and Joshua gave it to the tribes of Israel to inherit according to their portion; 8 in the mountain and in the plain and in Araba and in Asedoth and in the wilderness and Nageb; the Chettite and the Amorite and the C'anaanite and the Pherezite and the Evite and the Jebusite.

9 The king of Jericho and the king of Gai, which is near Baethel; 10 the king of Jerusalem, the king of Chebron, 11 the king of Jerimuth, the king of Lachis; 12 the king of Ælam, the king of Gazer; 13 the king of Dabir, the king of Gader; 14 the king of Hermath, the king of Ader; 15 the king of Lebna, the king of Odollam, 16 (12:15A) the king of Elath, 17 (12:15B) the king of Taphut, the king of Opher, 18 (12:15C) the king of Ophec of Aroc, 19 (12:15D) the king of Asom, 20 (12:15E) the king of Symoon, the king of Mambroth, the king of Aziph, 21 (12:15F) the king of Cades, the king of Zachac, 22 (12:15G) the king of Maredoth, the king of Jecom of Chermel, 23 the king of Odollam belonging to Phennealdor, the king of Gei of Galilee: 24 the king of Thersa: all these were twenty-nine kings.

13:1 Joshua was old and very advanced in years; and the Lord said to Joshua, You are advanced in years and there is much land left to inherit. 2 And this is the land that is left: the borders of the Phylistines, the Gesirite and the C'anaanite, 3 from the wilderness before Egypt, as far as the borders of Accaron on the left of the C'anaanites the land is reckoned to the five principalities of the Phylistines, to the inhabitant of Gaza and of Azotus and of Ascalon and of Geth and of Accaron and to the Evite; 4 from Thaeman even to all the land of C'anaan before Gaza and the Sidonians as far as Aphec, as far as the borders of the Amorites. 5 All the land of Galiath of the Phylistines and all Lebanon eastward from Galgal, under the mountain Aermom as far as the entering in of Emath; 6 every one that inhabits the hill country from Lebanon as far as Masereth Memphomaim. All the Sidonians, I will destroy them from before Israel; but do you give them by inheritance to Israel, as I charged you.

7 And now divide this land by the nine tribes and to the half tribe of Manasse. 8 From Jordan to the great sea westward you shall give it them: the great sea shall be the boundary. But to the two tribes and to the half tribe of Manasse, to Ruben and to Gad Moses gave an inheritance beyond Jordan: Moses the servant of the Lord gave it to them eastward, 9 from Aroer, which is on the bank of the brook of Arnon and the city in the midst of the valley and all Misor from Maedaban. 10 All the cities of Seon king of the Amorites, who reigned from Esebon to the coasts of the children of Ammon; 11 and the region of Galaad and the borders of the Gesirites and the Machatites, the whole mount of Aermom and all the land of Basan to Acha. 12 All the kingdom of Og in the region of Basan, who reigned in Astaroth and in Edrain: he was left of the giants; and Moses stroke him and destroyed him. 13 But the children of Israel destroyed not the Gesirite and the Machatite and the C'anaanite; and the king of the Gesiri and the Machatite dwelt among the children of Israel until this day.

14 Only no inheritance was given to the tribe of Levi: the Lord God of Israel, he is their inheritance, as the Lord said to them; and this is the division which Moses made to the children of Israel in Araboth Moab, on the other side of Jordan, by Jericho.

15 Moses gave the land to the tribe of Ruben according to their families. 16 And their borders were from Aroer, which is opposite the brook of Arnon and theirs is the city that is in the valley of Arnon; and all Misor, 17 to Esebon and all the cities in Misor and Daebon and Baemon-Baal and the house of Meelboth; 18 and Basan and Bakedmoth and Maephaad, 19 and Kariathaim and Sebama and Serada and Zion in mount Enab; 20 and Baethphogor and Asedoth Phasga and Baetthasinoth, 21 and all the cities of Misor and all the kingdom of Seon king of the Amorites, whom Moses stroke, even him and the princes of Madian and Evi and Roboc and Sur and Ur and Robe prince of the spoils of Zion and the inhabitants of Zion.

22 And Balaam the son of Baeor the prophet they killed in the battle.

23 The borders of Ruben were— even Jordan was the boundary; this is the inheritance of the children of Ruben according to their families, these were their cities and their villages.

24 Moses gave inheritance to the sons of Gad according to their families. 25 And their borders were Jazer, all the cities of Galaad and half the land of the children of Ammon to Araba, which is before Arad. 26 And from Esebon to Araboth by Massepha and Botanim and Maan to the borders of Daebon, 27 and Enadom and Othargai and Baenthanabra and Soccotha and Saphan and the rest of the kingdom of Sean king of Esebon: and Jordan shall be the boundary as far as part of the sea of Chenereh beyond Jordan eastward. 28 This is the inheritance of the children of Gad according to their families and according to their cities: according to their families they will turn their backs before their enemies, because their cities and their villages were according to their families.

29 Moses gave to half the tribe of Manasse according to their families. 30 And their borders were from Maan and all the kingdom of Basan and all the kingdom of Og king of Basan and all the villages of Jair, which are in the region of Basan, sixty cities: 31 and the half of Galaad and in Astaroth and in Edrain, royal cities of Og in the land of Basan, Moses gave to the sons of Machir the sons of Manasse, even to the half-tribe sons of Machir the sons of Manasse, according to their families. 32 These are they whom Moses caused to inherit beyond Jordan in Araboth Moab, beyond Jordan by Jericho eastward.

14:1 These are they of the children of Israel that received their inheritance in the land of C'anaan, to whom Eleazar the priest and Joshua the son of Naue and the heads of the families of the tribes of the children of Israel, gave inheritance. 2 They inherited according to their lots, as the Lord commanded by the hand of Joshua to the nine tribes and the half tribe, on the other side of Jordan. 3 But to the Levites he gave no inheritance among them. 4 For the sons of Joseph were two tribes, Manasse and Ephraim; and there was none inheritance in the land given to the Levites, only cities to dwell in and their suburbs separated for the cattle and their cattle. 5 As the Lord commanded Moses, so did the children of Israel; and they divided the land.

6 The children of Juda came to Joshua in Galgal and Chaleb the son of Jephone the Kenezite said to him: You know the word that the Lord spoke to Moses the man of God concerning me and you in Cades Barne. 7 For I was forty years old when Moses the servant of God sent me out of Cades Barne to spy out the land; and I returned him an answer according to his mind. 8 My brothers that went up with me turned away the heart of the people, but I applied my self to follow the Lord my God. 9 Moses swore on that day, saying: The land on which you have gone up, it shall be your inheritance and your children's for ever, because you have applied yourself to follow the Lord our God. 10 And now the Lord has kept me alive as he said: this is the forty-fifth year since the Lord spoke that word to Moses; and Israel journeyed in the wilderness; and now, behold, I am this day eighty-five years old. 11 I am still strong this day, as when the Lord sent me: just so strong am I now to go out and to come in for war. 12 And now I ask of you this mountain, as the Lord said in that day; for you heard this word on that day; and now the Enakim are there, cities great and strong: if then the Lord should be with me, I will utterly destroy them, as the Lord said to me.

13 Joshua blessed him and gave Chebron to Chaleb the son of Jephone the son of Kenez for an inheritance. 14 Therefore Chebron became the inheritance of Chaleb the son of Jephone the Kenezite until this day, because he followed the commandment of the Lord God of Israel. 15 The name of Chebron before was the city Argob, it is the metropolis of the Enakim: and the land rested from war.

15:1 The borders of the tribe of Juda according to their families were from the borders of Idumea from the wilderness of sin, as far as Cades southward.

2 And their borders were from the south as far as a part of the salt sea from the high country that extends southward. 3 They proceed before the ascent of Acrabin and go out round Sena and go up from the south to Cades Barne; and go out to Asoron and proceed up to Sarada and go out by the way that is west of Cades. 4 They go out to Selmona and issue at the valley of Egypt; and the termination of its boundaries shall be at the sea: these are their boundaries southward.

5 And their boundaries eastward are all the salt sea as far as Jordan; and their borders from the north and from the border of the sea and from part of Jordan— 6 the borders go up to Baethaglaam and they go along from the north to Baetharaba and the borders go on up to the stone of Baeon the son of Ruben. 7 The borders continue on to the fourth part of the valley of Achor and go down to Galgal, which is before the approach of Adammin, which is southward in the valley and terminate at the water of the fountain of the sun; and their going forth shall be the fountain of Rogel. 8 The borders go up to the valley of Ennom, behind Jebus southward; this is Jerusalem: and the borders terminate at the top of the mountain, which is before the valley of Ennom toward the sea, which is by the side of the land of Raphain northward. 9 The border going forth from the top of the mountain terminates at the fountain of the water of Naphtho and terminates at mount Ephron; and the border will lead to Baal; this is the city of Jarim. 10 The border will go round from Baal to the sea and will go on to the mount of Assar behind the city of Jarin northwards; this is Chaslon: and it will come down to the city of Sun and will go on to the south. 11 The border terminates behind Accaron northward and the borders will terminate at Socchoth and the borders will go on to the south and will terminate at Lebna and the issue of the borders will be at the sea; and their borders shall be toward the sea, the great sea shall be the boundary. 12 These are the borders of the children of Juda around according to their families.

13 And to Chaleb the son of Jephone he gave a portion in the midst of the children of Juda by the command of God; and Joshua gave him the city of Arboc the metropolis of Enac; this is Chebron. 14 And Chaleb the son of Jephone destroyed for there the three sons of Enac, Susi and Tholami and Achima. 15 And Chaleb went up for there to the inhabitants of Dabir; and the name of Dabir before was the city of Letters.

16 And Chaleb said: whoever shall take and destroy the city of Letters and master it, to him will I give my daughter Ascha to wife. 17 And Gothoniel the son of Chenez the brother of Chaleb took it; He gave him Ascha his daughter to wife. 18 It came to pass as she went out that she counselled him, saying: I will ask of my father a field; and she cried from off her ass; and Chaleb said to her: What is it? 19 And she said to him: Give me a blessing, for you have set me in the land of Nageb; give me Botthanis: He gave her Gonaethla the upper and Gonaethla the lower.

20 This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Juda. 21 And their cities were cities belonging to the tribe of the children of Juda on the borders of Edom by the wilderness and Baeseleel and Ara and Asor, 22 and Icam and Regma and Aruel, 23 and Cades and Asorionain and Maenam, 24 and Balmaenan and their villages, 25 and the cities of Aseron, this is Asor, 26 and Sen and Salmaa and Molada, 27 and Seri and Baephalath, 28 and Cholaseola and Beersabee; and their villages and their hamlets, 29 Bala and Bacoc and Asom, 30 and Elboudad and Baethel and Herma, 31 and Sekelac and Macharim and Sethennac, 32 and Labos and Sale and Eromoth; twenty-nine cities and their villages.

33 In the plain country Astaol and Raa and Assa, 34 and Ramen and Tano and Iluthoth and Maeani, 35 and Jermuth and Odollam and Membra and Saocho and Jazeca. 36 And Sacarim and Gadera and its villages; fourteen cities and their villages; 37 Senna and Adasan and Magadalgad, 38 and Dalad and Maspha and Jachareel, 39 and Basedoth and Ideadalea; 40 and Chabra and Maches and Maachos, 41 and Geddor and Bagadiel and Noman and Machedan: sixteen cities and their villages; 42 Lebna and Ithac and Anoch, 43 and Jana and Nasib, 44 and Keilam and Akiezi and Kezib and Bathesar and Ælom: ten cities and their villages; 45 Accaron and her villages and their hamlets: 46 from Accaron, Gemna and all the cities that are near Asedoth; and their villages. 47

Asiedoth and her villages and her hamlets; Gaza and its villages and its hamlets as far as the river of Egypt and the great sea is the boundary.

48 And in the hill country Samir and Jether and Socha, 49 and Renna and the city of Letters, this is Dabir; 50 and Anon and Es and Man and Æsam, 51 and Gosom and Chalu and Channa and Gelom: eleven cities and their villages; 52 Ærem and Remna and Soma, 53 and Jemain and Baethachu and Phacua, 54 and Euma and the city Arboc, this is Chebron and Soraith: nine cities and their villages: 55 Maor and Chermel and Ozib and Itan, 56 and Jariel and Aricam and Zacanaim, 57 and Gabaa and Thamnatha; nine cities and their villages; 58 Ælua and Bethsur and Geddon, 59 and Magaroth and Baethanam and Thecum; six cities and their villages; (15:60) Theco and Ephratha, this is Baethleem and Phagor and Ætan and Culon and Tatam and Thobes and Carem and Galem and Thether and Manoch: eleven cities and their villages, 60 Cariathbaal, this is the city of Jarim and Sotheba: two cities and their villages: 61 and Baddargeis and Tharabaam and Ænon; 62 and Æochioza and Naphlazon and the cities of Sadon and Ancades; seven cities and their villages.

63 The Jebusite dwelt in Jerusalem and the children of Juda do you think not destroy them; and the Jebusites dwelt in Jerusalem to this day.

16:1 The borders of the children of Joseph were from Jordan by Jericho eastward; and they will go up from Jericho to the hill country, to the wilderness, to Baethel Luza. 2 They will go out to Baethel and will proceed to the borders of Achatarothi. 3 They will go across to the sea to the borders of Aptalim, as far as the borders of Baethoron the lower and the going forth of them shall be to the sea. 4 The sons of Joseph, Ephraim and Manasse, took their inheritance.

5 The borders of the children of Ephraim were according to their families and the borders of their inheritance were eastward to Ataroth and Eroc as far as Baethoron the upper and Gazara. 6 The borders will proceed to the sea to Icasmon north of Therma; they will go round eastward to Thenasa and Selles and will pass on eastward to Janoca, 7 and to Macho and Ataroth and these are their villages; and they will come to Jericho and will issue at Jordan. 8 The borders will proceed from Tapho to the sea to Chelcana; and their termination will be at the sea; this is the inheritance of the tribe of Ephraim according to their families.

9 The cities separated to the sons of Ephraim were in the midst of the inheritance of the sons of Manasse, all the cities and their villages. 10 And Ephraim did not destroy the C'anaanite who dwelt in Gazer; and the C'anaanite dwelt in Ephraim until this day, until Pharaoh the king of Egypt went up and took it and burnt it with fire; and the C'anaanites and Pherezites and the dwellers in Gaza they destroyed and Pharaoh gave them for a dowry to his daughter.

17:1 The borders of the tribe of the children of Manasse, (for he was the first-born of Joseph,) assigned to Machir the first-born of Manasse the father of Galaad, for he was a warrior, were in the land of Galaad and of Basan. 2 And there was land assigned to the other sons of Manasse according to their families; to the sons of Jezi and to the sons of Kelez and to the sons of Jeziel and to the sons of Sychem and to the sons of Symarim and to the sons of Opher: these are the males according to their families.

3 And Salpaad the sons of Opher had no sons but daughters: and these are the names of the daughters of Salpaad; Maala and Nua and Egla and Melcha and Thersa. 4 They stood before Eleazar the priest and before Joshua and before the rulers, saying: God gave a charge by the hand of Moses, to give us an inheritance in the midst of our brothers: so there was given to them by the command of the Lord an inheritance among the brothers of their father. 5 And their lot fell to them from Anassa and to the plain of Labec of the land of Galaad, which is beyond Jordan. 6 For the daughters of the sons of Manasse inherited a portion in the midst of their brothers and the land of Galaad was assigned to the remainder of the sons of Manasse.

7 The borders of the sons of Manasse were Delanath, which is before the sons of Anath and it proceeds to the borders even to Jamin and Jassib to the fountain of Thaphthoth. 8 It shall belong to Manasse and Thapheth on the borders of Manasse shall belong to the sons of Ephraim. 9 The borders shall go down to the valley of Carana southward by the valley of Jariel, (there is a turpentine tree belonging to Ephraim between that and the city of Manasse:) and the borders of Manasse are northward to the brook; and the sea shall be its termination. 10 Southward the land belongs to Ephraim and northward to Manasse; and the sea shall be their cost; and northward they shall border upon Aseb and eastward upon Issachar. 11 And Manasses shall have in the portion of Issachar and Aser Baethsan and their villages and the inhabitants of Dor and its villages and the inhabitants of Mageddo and its villages and the third part of Mapheta and its villages.

12 The sons of Manasse were not able to destroy these cities; and the C'anaanite began to dwell in that land. 13 It came to pass that when the children of Israel were strong, they made the C'anaanites subject, but they did not utterly destroy them.

14 The sons of Joseph answered Joshua, saying: Why then have you caused us to inherit one inheritance and one line? Whereas I am a great people and God has blessed me. 15 Joshua said to them: If you be a great people, go up to the forest and clear the land for yourself, If mount Ephraim be too little for you. 16 They said: The mount of Ephraim does not please us and the C'anaanite dwelling in it in Baethsan and in its villages and in the valley of Jezrael, has choice cavalry and iron. 17 Joshua said to the sons of Joseph, If you are a great people and have great strength, you shall not have only one inheritance. 18 For you shall have the wood, for there is a wood and you shall clear it and the land shall be yours; even when you shall have utterly destroyed the C'anaanite, for he has chosen cavalry; yet you are stronger than he.

18:1 All the congregation of the children of Israel were assembled at SeBehold and there they pitched the tabernacle of witness; and the land was subdued by them.

2 The sons of Israel remained, even those who had not received their inheritance, seven tribes. 3 Joshua said to the sons of Israel, How long will you be slack to inherit the land, which the Lord our God has given you? 4 Appoint of yourselves three men of each tribe, Let them rise up and go through the land, Let them describe it before me, as it will be proper to divide it. 5 They came to him: He divided to them seven portions, saying: Juda shall stand to them a border southward and the sons of Joseph shall stand to them northward. 6 And do you divide the land into seven parts and bring the description to this place to me and I will give you a lot before the Lord our God. 7 For the sons of Levi have no part among you; for the priesthood of the Lord is his portion; and Gad and Ruben and the half tribe of Manasse, have received their inheritance beyond Jordan eastward, which Moses the servant of the Lord gave to them.

8 The men rose up and went; and Joshua charged the men who went to explore the land, saying: Go and explore the land and come to me and I will bring you forth a lot here before the Lord in Selo. 9 They went and explored the land: and they viewed it and described it according to the cities, seven parts in a book and brought the book to Joshua. 10 Joshua cast the lot for them in Selo before the Lord.

11 The lot of the tribe of Benjamin came forth first according to their families: and the borders of their lot came forth between the children of Juda and the children of Joseph.

12 And their borders were northward: the borders shall go up from Jordan behind Jericho northward and shall go up to the mountain westward and the issue of it shall be Baethon of Mabdara. 13 The borders will go forth for there to Luz, behind Luz, from the south of it; this is Baethel: and the borders shall go down to Maatarob Orech, to the hill country, which is southward of Baethoron the lower.

14 The borders shall pass through and proceed to the part that looks toward the sea, on the south, from the mountain in front of Baethoron southward and its termination shall be at Cariath-Baal, this is Cariath-Jarin, a city of the children of Juda; this is the part toward the west.

15 The south side on the part of Cariath-Baal; and the borders shall go across to Gasin, to the fountain of the water of Naphtho. 16 The borders shall extend down on one side, this is in front of the forest of Sonnam, which is on the side of Emec Raphain northward and it shall come down to Gaeenna behind Jebusai southward: it shall come down to the fountain of Rogel. 17 The borders shall go across to the fountain of Baethsamys: 18 and shall proceed to Galiloth, which is in front by the going up of Æthamin; and they shall come down to the stone of Baeon of the sons of Ruben; and shall pass over behind Baetharaba northward and shall go down to the borders behind the sea northward. 19 The termination of the borders shall be at the creek of the salt sea northward to the side of Jordan southward: these are their southern borders.

20 Jordan shall be their boundary on the east: this is the inheritance of the children of Benjamin, these are their borders around according to their families.

21 The cities of the children of Benjamin according to their families were Jericho and Bethagaeo and the Amecasis, 22 and Baethabara and Sara and Besana, 23 and Æein and Phara and Ephratha, 24 and Carapha and Cephira and Moni and Gabaa, twelve cities and their villages: 25 Gabaon and Rama and Beerotha; 26 and Massema and Miron and Amoke; 27 and Phira and Caphan and Nacan and Selecan and Thareela, 28 and Jebus (this is Jerusalem); and Gabaoth, Jarim, thirteen cities and their villages; this is the inheritance of the sons of Benjamin according to their families.

19:1 The second lot came out for the children of Symeon; and their inheritance was in the midst of the lots of the children of Juda. 2 And their lot was Beersabee and Samaa and Caladam, 3 and Arsola and Bola and Jason, 4 and Erthula and Bula and Herma, 5 and Sikelac and Baethmachereb and Sarsusin, 6 and Batharoth and their fields, thirteen cities and their villages. 7 Eremmon and Thalcha and Jether and Asan; four cities and their villages, 8 around their cities as far as Balec as men go to Bameth southward: this is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Symeon according to their families. 9 The inheritance of the tribe of the children of Symeon was a part of the lot of Juda, for the portion of the children of Juda was greater than theirs; and the children of Symeon inherited in the midst of their lot.

10 The third lot came out to Zabulon according to their families: the bounds of their inheritance shall be— Esedekgola shall be their border, 11 the sea and Magelda and it shall reach to Baetharaba in the valley, which is opposite Jekman. 12 The border returned from Sedduc in a contrary direction eastward from Baethsamys, to the borders of Chaselothaith and shall pass on to Dabiroth and shall proceed upward to Phangai. 13 And for there it shall come round in the opposite direction eastward to Gebere to the city of Catasem and shall go on to Remmonaa Matharaoza. 14 The borders shall come round northward to Amoth and their going out shall be at Gaephael, 15 and Catanath and Nabaal and Symoon and Jericho and Baethman. 16 This is the inheritance of the tribe of the sons of Zabulon according to their families, these cities and their villages.

17 The fourth lot came out to Issachar. 18 And their borders were Jazel and Chasaloth and Sunam, 19 and Agin and Ziona and Reeroth, 20 and Anachereth and Dabiron and Kison and Rebes, 21 and Remmas and Jeon and Tomman and Æmarec and Bersaphes. 22 The boundaries shall border upon Gaethbor and upon Salim westward and Baethsamys; and the extremity of his bounds shall be Jordan. 23 This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Issachar according to their families, the cities and their villages.

24 The fifth lot came out to Aser according to their families. 25 And their borders were Exeleketh and Aleph and Baethok and Keaph, 26 and Elimelech and Amiel and Maasa and the lot will border on Carmel westward and on Zion and Labanath. 27 It will return westward from Baethegeneth and will join Zabulon and Ekgai and Phthaeel northwards and the borders will come to Saphthaebaethme and Inael and will go on to Chobamasomel, 28 and Elbon and Raab and Ememaon and Canthan to great Sidon. 29 The borders shall turn back to Rama and to the fountain of Masplassat and the Tyrians; and the borders shall return to Jasiph and their going forth shall be the sea and Apoleb and Echozob, 30 and Archob and Aphec and Raau. 31 This is the inheritance of the tribe of the sons of Aser according to their families, the cities and their villages.

32 The sixth lot came out to Nephthali. 33 And their borders were Moolam and Mola and Besemiin and Arme and Naboc and Jephthamai, as far as Dodam; and their goings out were Jordan. 34 The coasts will return westward by Athabor and will go out for there to Jacana and will border on Zabulon southward and Aser will join it westward and Jordan eastward.

35 The walled cities of the Tyrians, Tyre and Omathadaketh and Kenereth, 36 and Armaith and Areal and Asor, 37 and Cades and Assari and the well of Asor; 38 and Keroe and Megalaarim and Baetthame and Thessamys. 39 This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Nephthali.

40 The seventh lot came out to Dan. 41 And their borders were Sarath and Asa and the cities of Sammaus, 42 and Salamin and Ammon and Silatha, 43 and Elon and Thamnatha and Accaron; 44 and Alcatha and Begethon and Gebeelan, 45 and Azor and Banaebacat and Gethremmon. 46 And westward of Hieracon the border was near to Joppa. 47 This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Dan, according to their families, these are their cities and their villages: and the children of Dan did not drive out the Amorite who afflicted them in the mountain; and the Amorite would not suffer them to come down into the valley, but they forcibly took from them the border of their portion.

48 The sons of Dan went and fought against Lachis and took it and stroke it with the edge of the sword; and they dwelt in it and called the name of it Lasendan: and the Amorite continued to dwell in Edom and in Salamin: and the hand of Ephraim prevailed against them and they became tribute to them.

49 They proceeded to take possession of the land according to their borders and the children of Israel gave an inheritance to Joshua the son of Naue among them, 50 by the command of God and they gave him the city which he asked for, Thamnasarach, which is in the mount of Ephraim; He built the city and dwelt in it.

51 These are the divisions which Eleazar the priest divided by lot and Joshua the son of Naue and the heads of families among the tribes of Israel, according to the lots, in Selo before the Lord by the doors of the tabernacle of testimony and they went to take possession of the land.

20:1 The Lord spoke to Joshua, saying: 2 Speak to the children of Israel, saying: Assign the cities of refuge, of which I spoke to you by Moses. 3 Even a refuge to the slayer who has stricken a man unintentionally; and the cities shall be to you a refuge and the slayer shall not be put to death by the avenger of blood, until he has stood before the congregation for judgment.

4 Joshua separated Cades in Galilee in the mount Nephthali and Sychem in the mount Ephraim and the city of Arboc; this is Chebron, in the mountain of Juda.

5 And beyond Jordan he appointed Bosor in the wilderness in the plain out of the tribe of Ruben and Aremoth in Galaad out of the tribe of Gad and Gaulon in the country of Basan out of the tribe of Manasse.

6 These were the cities selected for the sons of Israel and for the stranger abiding among them, that every one who strikes a soul unintentionally should flee to that place, that he should not die by the hand of the avenger of blood, until he should stand before the congregation for judgment.

21:1 The heads of the families of the sons of Levi drew near to Eleazar the priest and to Joshua the son of Naue and to the heads of families of the tribes of Israel. 2 They spoke to them in Selo in the land of C'anaan, saying: The Lord gave commandment by Moses to give us cities to dwell in and the country around for our cattle. 3 So the children of Israel gave to the Levites in their inheritance by the command of the Lord the cities and the country round.

4 The lot came out for the children of Caath; and the sons of Aaron, the priests the Levites, had by lot thirteen cities out of the tribe of Juda and out of the tribe of Symeon and out of the tribe of Benjamin.

5 And to the sons of Caath that were left were given by lot ten cities, out of the tribe of Ephraim and out of the tribe of Dan and out of the half tribe of Manasse.

6 The sons of Gedson had thirteen cities, out of the tribe of Issachar and out of the tribe of Aser and out of the tribe of Nephthali and out of the half tribe of Manasse in Basan.

7 The sons of Merari according to their families had by lot twelve cities, out of the tribe of Ruben and out of the tribe of Gad and out of the tribe of Zabulon.

8 The children of Israel gave to the Levites the cities and their suburbs, as the Lord commanded Moses, by lot.

9 The tribe of the children of Juda and the tribe of the children of Symeon and part of the tribe of the children of Benjamin gave these cities and they were assigned 10 to the sons of Aaron of the family of Caath of the sons of Levi, for the lot fell to these. 11 They gave to them Cariatharhoc the metropolis of the sons of Enac; this is Chebron in the mountain country of Juda and the suburbs round it. 12 But the lands of the city and its villages

Joshua gave to the sons of Chaleb the son of Jephonne for a possession.

13 And to the sons of Aaron he gave the city of refuge for the slayer, Chebron and the suburbs belonging to it; and Lemna and the suburbs belonging to it; 14 and Ælom and its suburbs; and Tema and its suburbs; 15 and Gella and its suburbs; and Dabir and its suburbs; 16 and Asa and its suburbs; and Tany and its suburbs; and Baethsamys and its suburbs: nine cities from these two tribes. 17 And from the tribe of Benjamin, Gabaon and its suburbs; and Gatheth and its suburbs; 18 and Anathoth and its suburbs; and Gamala and its suburbs; four cities. 19 All the cities of the sons of Aaron the priests, thirteen.

20 And to the families, even the sons of Caath the Levites, that were left of the sons of Caath, there was given their priests' city, 21 out of the tribe of Ephraim; and they gave them the slayer's city of refuge, Sychem and its suburbs and Gazara and its appendages and its suburbs; 22 and Baethoron and its suburbs: four cities: 23 and the tribe of Dan, Helcothaim and its suburbs; and Gethedan and its suburbs: 24 and Ælon and its suburbs; and Getheremmon and its suburbs: four cities. 25 And out of the half tribe of Manasse, Tanach and its suburbs; and Jebatha and its suburbs; two cities. 26 In all were given ten cities and the suburbs of each belonging to them, to the families of the sons of Caath that remained.

27 Joshua gave to the sons of Gedson the Levites out of the other half tribe of Manasse cities set apart for the slayers, Gaulon in the country of Basan and its suburbs; and Bosora and its suburbs; two cities. 28 And out of the tribe of Issachar, Kison and its suburbs; and Debba and its suburbs; 29 and Remmath and its suburbs; and the well of Letters and its suburbs; four cities. 30 And out of the tribe of Aser, Basella and its suburbs; and Dabbon and its suburbs; 31 and Chelcat and its suburbs; and Raab and its suburbs; four cities. 32 And of the tribe of Nephthali, the city set apart for the slayer, Cades in Galilee and its suburbs; and Nemmath and its suburbs; and Themmon and its suburbs; three cities. 33 All the cities of Gedson according to their families were thirteen cities.

34 And to the family of the sons of Merari the Levites that remained, he gave out of the tribe of Zabulon, Maan and its suburbs; and Cades and its suburbs, 35 and Sella and its suburbs: three cities. 36 And beyond Jordan over against Jericho, out of the tribe of Ruben, the city of refuge for the slayer, Bosor in the wilderness; Miso and its suburbs; and Jazer and its suburbs; and Decmon and its suburbs; and Mapha and its suburbs; four cities. 37 And out of the tribe of Gad the city of refuge for the slayer, both Ramoth in Galaad and its suburbs; Camin and its suburbs; and Esbon and its suburbs; and Jazer and its suburbs: the cities were four in all. 38 All these cities were given to the sons of Merari according to the families of those who were left out of the tribe of Levi; and their limits were the twelve cities.

39 All the cities of the Levites in the midst of the possession of the children of Israel, were forty-eight cities, 40 and their suburbs around these cities: a city and the suburbs around the city to all these cities: and Joshua ceased dividing the land by their borders: and the children of Israel gave a portion to Joshua because of the commandment of the Lord: they gave him the city which he asked: they gave him Thamnasachar in mount Ephraim; and Joshua built the city and dwelt in it: and Joshua took the knives of stone, by which he circumcised the children of Israel that were born in the desert by the way and put them in Thamnasachar.

41 So the Lord gave to Israel all the land which he swore to give to their fathers: and they inherited it and dwelt in it. 42 The Lord gave them rest round about, as he swore to their fathers: not one of all their enemies maintained his ground against them; the Lord delivered all their enemies into their hands. 43 There failed not one of the good things which the Lord spoke to the children of Israel; all came to pass.

22:1 Then Joshua called together the sons of Ruben and the sons of Gad and the half tribe of Manasse, 2 and said to them: you have heard all that Moses the servant of the Lord commanded you and you have listened to my voice in all that he commanded you. 3 You have not deserted your brothers these many days: until this day you have kept the commandment of the Lord your God. 4 And now the Lord our God has given our brothers rest, as he told them: now then return and depart to your homes and to the land of your possession, which Moses gave you on the other side Jordan. 5 But take great heed to do the commands and the law, which Moses the servant of the Lord commanded you to do; to love the Lord our God, to walk in all his ways, to keep his commands and to cleave to him and serve him with all your mind and with all your soul. 6 Joshua blessed them and dismissed them; and they went to their homes.

7 And to one half the tribe of Manasse Moses gave a portion in the land of Basan and to the other half Joshua gave a portion with his brothers on the other side of Jordan westward: and when Joshua sent them away to their homes, then he blessed them. 8 They departed with much wealth to their houses and they divided the spoil of their enemies with their brothers; very much cattle and silver and gold and iron and much raiment.

9 So the sons of Ruben and the sons of Gad and the half tribe of Manasse, departed from the children of Israel in Selo in the land of C'anaan, to go away into Galaad, into the land of their possession, which they inherited by the command of the Lord, by the hand of Moses.

10 They came to Galaad of Jordan, which is in the land of C'anaan: and the children of Ruben and the children of Gad and the half tribe of Manasse built there an altar by Jordan, a great altar to look at. 11 The children of Israel heard say, Behold, the sons of Ruben and the sons of Gad and the half tribe of Manasse have built an altar at the borders of the land of C'anaan at Galaad of Jordan, on the opposite side to the children of Israel. 12 All the children of Israel gathered together to SeBehold, so as to go up and fight against them.

13 The children of Israel sent to the sons of Ruben and the sons of Gad and to the sons of the half tribe of Manasse into the land of Galaad, both Phinees the son of Eleazar the son of Aaron the priest, 14 and ten of the chiefs with him; there was one chief of every household out of all the tribes of Israel; (the heads of families are the captains of thousands in Israel.) 15 They came to the sons of Ruben and to the sons of Gad and to the half tribe of Manasse into the land of Galaad; and they spoke to them, saying: 16 Thus says the whole congregation of the Lord, What is this transgression that you have transgressed before the God of Israel, to turn away today from the Lord, in that you have built for yourselves an altar, so that you should be apostates from the Lord? 17 Is the sin of Phogor too little for you, whereas we have not been cleansed from it until this day, though there was a plague among the congregation of the Lord? 18 You have this day revolted from the Lord; and it shall come to pass if you revolt this day from the Lord, that tomorrow there shall be wrath upon all Israel. 19 And now if the land of your possession be too little, cross over to the land of the possession of the Lord, where the tabernacle of the Lord dwells and receive you an inheritance among us; and do not become apostates from God, neither do you apostatize from the Lord, because of your having built an altar apart from the altar of the Lord our God. 20 Behold! did not Achar the son of Zara commit a trespass taking of the accursed thing and there was wrath on the whole congregation of Israel? He himself died alone in his own sin.

21 The sons of Ruben and the sons of Gad and the half tribe of Manasse answered and spoke to the captains of the thousands of Israel, saying: 22 God even God is the Lord and God even God himself knows and Israel he shall know; if we have transgressed before the Lord by apostasy, let him not deliver us this day. 23 If we have built to ourselves an altar, so as to apostatize from the Lord our God, so as to offer upon it a sacrifice of whole-burnt-offerings, so as to offer upon it a sacrifice of peace-offering, —the Lord shall require it.

24 But we have done this for the sake of precaution concerning this thing, saying: for fear that hereafter your sons should say to our sons, What have you to do with the Lord God of Israel? 25 Whereas the Lord has set boundaries between us and you, even Jordan and you have no portion in the Lord: so your sons shall alienate our sons, that they should not worship the Lord. 26 And we gave orders to do thus, to build this altar, not for burnt-offerings, nor for meat-offerings; 27 but that this may be a witness between you and us and between our posterity after us, that we may do service to the Lord before him, with our burnt-offerings and our meat-offerings and our peace-offerings: so your sons shall not say to our sons, hereafter, you have no portion in the Lord. 28 And we said: If ever it should come to pass that they should speak so to us, or to our posterity hereafter; then shall they say, Behold the likeness of the altar of the Lord, which our fathers made, not for the sake of burnt-offerings, nor for the sake of meat-offerings, but it is a witness between you and us and between our sons. 29 Far be it from us therefore that we should turn away from the Lord this day so as to apostatize from the Lord, so as that we should build an altar for burnt-offerings and for peace-offerings, besides the altar of the Lord which is before his tabernacle.

30 And Phinees the priest and all the chiefs of the congregation of Israel who were with him heard the words which the children of Ruben and the children of Gad and the half tribe of Manasse spoke; and it pleased them. 31 And Phinees the priest said to the sons of Ruben and to the sons of Gad and to the half of the tribe of Manasse, Today we know that the Lord is with us, because you have not trespassed grievously against the Lord and because you have delivered the children of Israel out of the hand of the Lord. 32 So Phinees the priest and the princes departed from the children of Ruben and from the children of Gad and from the half tribe of Manasse out of Galaad into the land of C'anaan to the children of Israel; and reported the words to them. 33 It pleased the children of Israel; and they spoke to the children of Israel and blessed the God of the children of Israel and told them to go up no more to war against the others to destroy the land of the children of Ruben and the children of Gad and the half tribe of Manasse: so they dwelt upon it.

34 Joshua gave a name to the altar of the children of Ruben and the children of Gad and the half tribe of Manasse; and said: It is a testimony in the midst of them, that the Lord is their God.

23:1 It came to pass after many days after the Lord had given Israel rest from all his enemies round about, that Joshua was old and advanced in years. 2 Joshua called together all the children of Israel and their elders and their chiefs and their judges and their officers; and said to them: I am old and advanced in years. 3 You have seen all that the Lord our God has done to all these nations before us; for it is the Lord your God who has fought for you.

4 See, that I have given to you these nations that are left to you by lots to your tribes, all the nations beginning at Jordan; and some I have destroyed; and the boundaries shall be at the great sea westward.

5 The Lord our God, he shall destroy them before us, until they utterly perish; He shall send against them the wild beasts, until he shall have utterly destroyed them and their kings from before you; and you shall inherit their land, as the Lord our God said to you. 6 Do you therefore strive diligently to observe and do all things written in the book of the law of Moses, that you turn not to the right hand or to the left; 7 that you go not in among these nations that are left; and the names of their gods shall not be named among you, neither shall you serve them, neither shall you bow down to them. 8 But you shall cleave to the Lord our God, as you have done until this day. 9 The Lord shall destroy them before you, even great and strong nations; and no one has stood before us until this day. 10 One of you have chased a thousand, for the Lord our God, he fought for you, as he said to us.

11 And take you great heed to love the Lord our God. 12 If you shall turn aside and attach yourselves to these nations that are left with you and make marriages with them and become mingled with them and they with you, 13 know that the Lord will no more destroy these nations from before you; and they will be to you snares and stumbling-blocks and nails in your heels and darts in your eyes, until you be destroyed from off this good land, which the Lord your God has given you.

14 But I hasten to go the way of death, as all that are upon the earth also do: and you know in your heart and in your soul, that not one word has fallen to the ground of all the words which the Lord our God has spoken respecting all that concerns us; there has not one of them failed. 15 It shall come to pass, that as all the good things have come upon us which the Lord God will bring upon you all the evil things, until he shall have destroyed you from off this good land, which the Lord has given you, 16 when you transgress the covenant of the Lord our God, which he has charged us and go and serve other gods and bow down to them.

24:1 Joshua gathered all the tribe of Israel to SeBehold and convoked their elders and their officers and their judges and set them before God.

2 Joshua said to all the people, Thus says the Lord God of Israel, Your fathers at first sojourned beyond the river, even Thara, the father of Abra'am and the father of Nachor; and they served other gods. 3 I took your father Abra'am from the other side of the river and I guided him through all the land and I multiplied his seed; 4 and I gave to him Isaac and to Isaac Jacob and Esau: and I gave to Esau mount Seir for him to inherit: and Jacob and his sons went down to Egypt and became there a great and populous and mighty nation: and the Egyptians afflicted them. 5 I stroke Egypt with the wonders that I accomplished among them. 6 And afterwards God brought out our fathers from Egypt and you entered into the Red Sea; and the Egyptians pursued after our fathers with chariots and horses into the Red Sea. 7 And we cried aloud to the Lord; He put a cloud and darkness between us and the Egyptians, He brought the sea upon them and covered them; and your eyes have seen all that the Lord did in the land of Egypt; and you were in the wilderness many days.

8 He brought us into the land of the Amorites that dwelt beyond Jordan and the Lord delivered them into our hands; and you inherited their land and utterly destroyed them from before you.

9 And Balac, king of Moab, son of Sepphor, rose up and made war against Israel and sent and called Balaam to curse us. 10 But the Lord your God would not destroy you; He greatly blessed us and rescued us out of their hands and delivered them to us. 11 You crossed over Jordan and came to Jericho; and the inhabitants of Jericho fought against us, the Amorite and the C'anaanite and the Pherezite and the Evite and the Jebusite and the Chettite and the Gergesite and the Lord delivered them into our hands. 12 He sent forth the hornet before you; He drove them out from before you, even twelve kings of the Amorites, not with your sword, nor with your bow.

13 He gave you a land on which you did not labor and cities which you did not build and you were settled in them; and you eat of vineyards and oliveyards which you did not plant.

14 And now fear the Lord and serve him in righteousness and justice; and remove the strange gods, which our fathers served beyond the river and in Egypt; and serve the Lord. 15 But if it seem not good to you to serve the Lord, choose to yourselves this day whom you will serve, whether the gods of your fathers that were on the other side of the river, or the gods of the Amorites, among whom you dwell upon their land: but I and my house will serve the Lord, for he is holy.

16 The people answered and said: Far be it from us to forsake the Lord, so as to serve other gods. 17 The Lord our God, he is God; he brought up us and our fathers from Egypt and kept us in all the way by which we walked and among all the nations through whom we passed. 18 The Lord cast out the Amorite and all the nations that inhabited the land from before us: yes, we will serve the Lord, for he is our God.

19 Joshua said to the people, Indeed you will not be able to serve the Lord, for God is holy; He being jealous will not forgive your sins and your transgressions. 20 Whenever you shall forsake the Lord and serve other gods, then he shall come upon you and afflict you and consume you, because he has done you good. 21 The people said to Joshua, No, but we will serve the Lord.

22 Joshua said to the people, you are witnesses against yourselves, that you have chosen the Lord to serve him. 23 And now take away the strange gods that are among you and set your heart right toward the Lord God of Israel. 24 The people said to Joshua, We will serve the Lord and we will hearken to his voice.

25 So Joshua made a covenant with the people on that day and gave them a law and an ordinance in Selo before the tabernacle of the God of Israel. 26 He wrote these words in the book of the laws of God: and Joshua took a great stone and set it up under the oak before the Lord. 27 Joshua said to the people, Behold, this stone shall be among you for a witness, for it has heard all the words that have been spoken to it by the Lord; for he has spoken to you this day; and this stone shall be among you for a witness in the last days, whenever you shall deal falsely with the Lord my God. 28 Joshua dismissed the people and they went every man to his place.

29 It came to pass after these things that Joshua the son of Naue the servant of the Lord died, at the age of a hundred and ten years. 30 They buried him by the borders of his inheritance in Thamnasarach in the mount of Ephraim, northward of the mount of Galaad: there they put with him into the tomb in which they buried him, the knives of stone with which he circumcised the children of Israel in Galgala when he brought them out of Egypt, as the Lord appointed them; and there they are to this day. 31 Israel served the Lord all the days of Joshua and all the days of the elders that lived as long as Joshua and all that knew all the works of the Lord which he accomplished for Israel.

32 The children of Israel brought up the bones of Joseph out of Egypt and buried them in Sicima, in the portion of the land which Jacob bought of the Amorites who dwelt in Sicima for a hundred ewe-lambs; He gave it to Joseph for a portion.

33 It came to pass afterwards that Eleazar the high-priest the son of Aaron died and was buried in Gabaar of Phinees his son, which he gave him in mount Ephraim.

In that day, the children of Israel took the ark of God and carried it about among them; and Phinees exercised the priest's office in the room of Eleazar his father till he died, He was buried in his own place Gabaar: but the children of Israel departed every one to their place and to their own city: and the children of Israel worshiped Astarte and Astaroth and the gods of the nations around them; and the Lord delivered them into the hands of Eglom king of Moab He ruled over them eighteen years.

1:1 It came to pass after the death of Joshua, that the children of Israel enquired of the Lord, saying: Who shall go up for us first against the C'anaanites, to fight against them? 2 The Lord said: Judas shall go up: behold, I have delivered the land into his hand. 3 Judas said to his brother Symeon, Come up with me into my lot, Let us array ourselves against the C'anaanites and I also will go with you into your lot: and Symeon went with him. 4 Judas went up; and the Lord delivered the C'anaanite and the Pherezite into their hands and they stroke them in Bezek to the number of ten thousand men. 5 They overtook Adonibezek in Bezek and fought against him; and they stroke the C'anaanite and the Pherezite. 6 And Adonibezek fled and they pursued after him and took him and cut off his thumbs and his great toes. 7 And Adonibezek said: Seventy kings, having their thumbs and their great toes cut off, gathered their food under my table: as I therefore have done, so God has recompensed me: and they brought him to Jerusalem, He died there.

8 The children of Judas fought against Jerusalem and took it and stroke with the edge of the sword and they burnt the city with fire. 9 And afterwards the children of Judas went down to fight with the C'anaanite dwelling in the hill country and the south and the plain country. 10 Judas went to the C'anaanite who dwelt in Chebron; and Chebron came out against him; [and the name of Chebron before was Cariatharhocsepher:] and they stroke Sessi and Achiman and Tholmi, children of Enac. 11 They went up for there to the inhabitants of Dabir; but the name of Dabir was before Cariathsepher, the city of Letters.

12 And Chaleb said: whoever shall strike the city of Letters and shall first take it, I will give to him Ascha my daughter to wife. 13 And Gothoniel the younger son of Kenez the brother of Chaleb took it; and Chaleb gave him his daughter Ascha to wife. 14 It came to pass as she went in, that Gothoniel urged her to ask a field of her father; and she murmured and cried from off her ass, You have sent me forth into a south land: and Chaleb said to her: What is your request? 15 And Ascha said to him: Give me, I pray you, a blessing, for you have sent me forth into a south land and you shall give me the ransom of water: and Chaleb gave her according to her heart the ransom of the upper springs and the ransom of the low springs.

16 The children of Jothor the Kenite the father-in-law of Moses went up from the city of palm-trees with the children of Judas, to the wilderness that is in the south of Juda, which is at the descent of Arad and they dwelt with the people.

17 Judas went with Symeon his brother and stroke the C'anaanite that inhabited Sepheth and they utterly destroyed them; and they called the name of the city Anathema. 18 But Judas did not inherit Gaza nor her coasts, nor Ascalon nor her coasts, nor Accaron nor her coasts, nor Azotus nor the lands around it. 19 The Lord was with Judas, He inherited the mountain; for they were not able to destroy the inhabitants of the valley, for Rechab prevented them. 20 They gave Chebron to Chaleb, as Moses said; and for there he inherited the three cities of the children of Enac.

21 But the children of Benjamin did not take the inheritance of the Jebusite who dwelt in Jerusalem; and the Jebusite dwelt with the children of Benjamin in Jerusalem until this day.

22 The sons of Joseph, they also went up to Baethel; and the Lord was with them. 23 They encamped and surveyed Baethel: and the name of the city before was Luza.

24 The spies looked and behold, a man went out of the city and they took him; and they said to him: Show us the way into the city and we will deal mercifully with you. 25 He showed them the way into the city; and they stroke the city with the edge of the sword; but they let go the man and his family. 26 The man went into the land of Chettin and built there a city and called the name of it Luza; this is its name until this day.

27 And Manasse did not drive out the inhabitants of Baethsan, which is a city of Scythians, nor her towns, nor her suburbs; nor Thanac, nor her towns; nor the inhabitants of Dor, nor her suburbs, nor her towns; nor the inhabitant of Balac, nor her suburbs, nor her towns; nor the inhabitants of Magedo, nor her suburbs, nor her towns; nor the inhabitants of Jeblaam, nor her suburbs, nor her towns; and the C'anaanite began to dwell in this land. 28 It came to pass when Israel was strong, that he made the C'anaanite tributary, but did not utterly drive them out. 29 And Ephraim did not drive out the C'anaanite that dwelt in Gazer; and the C'anaanite dwelt in the midst of him in Gazer and became tributary. 30 And Zabulon did not drive out the inhabitants of Kedron, nor the inhabitants of Domana: and the C'anaanite dwelt in the midst of them and became tributary to them.

31 And Aser did not drive out the inhabitants of Accho and that people became tributary to him, nor the inhabitants of Dor, nor the inhabitants of Sidon, nor the inhabitants of Dalaph, nor Aschazi, nor Chebda, nor Nai, nor Ereo. 32 And Aser dwelt in the midst of the C'anaanite who inhabited the land, for he do you think not drive him out. 33 And Nephthali did not drive out the inhabitants of Baethsamys, nor the inhabitants of Baethanach; and Nephthali dwelt in the midst of the C'anaanite who inhabited the land: but the inhabitants of Bethsamys and of Baetheneth became tributary to them. 34 The Amorite drove out the children of Dan into the mountains, for they did not suffer them to come down into the valley. 35 The Amorite began to dwell in the mountain of shells, in which are bears and foxes, in Myrsinon and in Thalabin; and the hand of the house of Joseph was heavy upon the Amorite, He became tributary to them. 36 The border of the Amorite was from the going up of Acrabin, from the rock and upwards.

2:1 An angel of the Lord went up from Galgal to the place of weeping and to Baethel and to the house of Israel and said to them: Thus says the Lord, I brought you up out of Egypt and I brought you into the land which I swore to your fathers; and I said: I will never break my covenant that I have made with you. 2 You shall make no covenant with those who dwell in this land, neither shall you worship their gods; but you shall destroy their graven images, you shall pull down their altars: but you hearkened not to my voice, for you did these things. 3 I said: I will not drive them out from before you, but they shall be for a distress to you and their gods shall be to you for an offence. 4 It came to pass when the angel of the Lord spoke these words to all the children of Israel, that the people lifted up their voice and wept. 5 They named the name of that place Weepings; and they sacrificed there to the Lord.

6 Joshua dismissed the people and they went every man to his inheritance, to inherit the land. 7 The people served the Lord all the days of Joshua and all the days of the elders that lived many days with Joshua, as many as knew all the great work of the Lord, what things he had accomplished in Israel.

8 Joshua the son of Naue, the servant of the Lord, died, a hundred and ten years old. 9 They buried him in the border of his inheritance, in Thamnathares, in mount Ephraim, on the north of the mountain of Gaas. 10 All that generation were laid to their fathers: and another generation rose up after them, who knew not the Lord, nor yet the work which he accomplished in Israel. 11 The children of Israel accomplished evil before the Lord and served Baalim. 12 They forsook the Lord God of their fathers, who brought them out of the land of Egypt and walked after other gods, of the gods of the nations around them; and they worshiped them. 13 They provoked the Lord and forsook him and served Baal and the Astartes.

14 The Lord was very angry with Israel; He gave them into the hands of the spoilers and they spoiled them; He sold them into the hands of their enemies around and they do you think not any longer resist their enemies, 15 among whoever they went; and the hand of the Lord was against them for evil, as the Lord spoke and as the Lord swore to them; He greatly afflicted them.

16 The Lord raised up judges and the Lord save them out of the hands of those who spoiled them: and yet they hearkened not to the judges, 17 for they went a whoring after other gods and worshiped them; and they turned quickly out of the way in which their fathers walked to hearken to the words of the Lord; they did not so. 18 And because the Lord raised them up judges, so the Lord was with the judge and saved them out of the hand of their enemies all the days of the judge; for the Lord was moved at their groaning because of those who besieged them and afflicted them. 19 It came to pass when the judge died, that they went back and again corrupted themselves worse than their fathers to go after other gods to serve them an to worship them: they abandoned not their devices nor their stubborn ways.

20 The Lord was very angry with Israel and said: Since this nation has forsaken my covenant which I commanded their fathers and has not listened to my voice, 21 therefore I will not any more cast out a man of the nations before their face, which Joshua the son of Naue left in the land. The Lord left them, 22 to test Israel with them, whether they would keep the way of the Lord, to walk in it, as their fathers kept it, or no. 23 So the Lord will leave these nations, so as not to cast them out suddenly; He delivered them not into the hand of Joshua.

3:1 These are the nations which the Lord left to prove Israel with them, all that had not known the wars of C'anaan. 2 Only for the sake of the generations of Israel, to teach them war, only the men before them knew them not. 3 The five lordships of the Phylistines and every C'anaanite and the Sidonian and the Evite who dwelt in Lebanon from the mount of Aermion to Laboemath. 4 And this was done in order to prove Israel by them, to know whether they would obey the commands of the Lord, which he charged their fathers by the hand of Moses.

5 The children of Israel dwelt in the midst of the C'anaanite and the Chettite and the Amorite and the Pherezite and the Evite and the Jebusite. 6 They took their daughters for wives to themselves and they gave their daughters to their sons and served their gods. 7 The children of Israel did evil in the sight of the Lord and forgot the Lord their God and served Baalim and the groves. 8 The Lord was very angry with Israel and sold them into the hand of Chusarsathaim king of Syria of the rivers: and the children of Israel served Chusarsathaim eight years.

9 The children of Israel cried to the Lord; and the Lord raised up a savior to Israel, He saved them, Gothoniel the son of Kenez, the brother of Chaleb younger than himself. 10 The Spirit of the Lord came upon him, He judged Israel; He went out to war against Chusarsathaim: and the Lord delivered into his hand Chusarsathaim king of Syria of the rivers and his hand prevailed against Chusarsathaim. 11 The land was quiet forty years; and Gothoniel the son of Kenez died.

12 The children of Israel continued to do evil before the Lord; and the Lord strengthened Eglom king of Moab against Israel, because they had done evil before the Lord. 13 He gathered to himself all the children of Ammon and Amalec and went and stroke Israel and took possession of the city of Palm-trees. 14 The children of Israel served Eglom the king of Moab eighteen years.

15 The children of Israel cried to the Lord; He raised up to them a savior, Aod the son of Gera a son of Jemeni, a man who used both hands alike: and the children of Israel sent gifts by his hand to Eglom king of Moab. 16 And Aod made himself a dagger of two edges, of a span long, He girded it under his cloak upon his right thigh. 17 He went and brought the presents to Eglom king of Moab and Eglom was a very handsome man.

18 It came to pass when Aod had made an end of offering his gifts, that he dismissed those who brought the gifts. 19 He himself returned from the quarries that are by Galgal; and Aod said: I have a secret errand to you, O king! and Eglom said to him: Be silent: He sent away from his presence all who waited upon him. 20 And Aod went in to him; He sat in his own upper summer chamber quite alone; and Aod said: I have a message from God to you, O king: and Eglom rose up from his throne near him. 21 It came to pass as he arose, that Aod stretched forth his left hand and took the dagger off his right thigh and plunged it into his belly; 22 and drove in also the haft after the blade and the fat closed in upon the blade, for he drew not out the dagger from his belly.

23 And Aod went out to the porch and passed out by the appointed guards and shut the doors of the chamber upon him and locked them. 24 He went out:

and Eglom's servants came and saw and behold, the doors of the upper chamber were locked; and they said: Does he not uncover his feet in the summer-chamber? 25 They waited till they were ashamed, and, behold, there was no one that opened the doors of the upper chamber; and they took the key and opened them; and, behold, their lord was fallen down dead upon the earth.

26 And Aod escaped while they were in a tumult and no one paid attention to him; He passed the quarries and escaped to Setirotha.

27 It came to pass when Aod came into the land of Israel, that he blew the horn in mount Ephraim and the children of Israel came down with him from the mountain, He was before them. 28 He said to them: Come down after me, for the Lord God has delivered our enemies, even Moab, into our hand; and they went down after him and seized on the fords of Jordan before Moab, He did not suffer a man to pass over. 29 They stroke Moab on that day about ten thousand men, every lusty person and every mighty man; and not a man escaped. 30 So Moab was humbled in that day under the hand of Israel and the land had rest eighty years; and Aod judged them till he died.

31 And after him rose up Samegar the son of Dinach and stroke the Philistines to the number of six hundred men with a ploughshare such as is drawn by oxen; He too delivered Israel.

4:1 The children of Israel continued to do evil against the Lord; and Aod was dead. 2 The Lord sold the children of Israel into the hand of Jabin king of C'anaan, who ruled in Asor; and the chief of his host was Sisara, He dwelt in Arisoth of the Gentiles. 3 The children of Israel cried to the Lord, because he had nine hundred chariots of iron; He mightily oppressed Israel twenty years.

4 Debbora, a prophetess, the wife of Lapidoth, —she judged Israel at that time.

5 And she sat under the palm-tree of Debbora between Rama and Baethel in mount Ephraim; and the children of Israel went up to her for judgment.

6 Debbora sent and called Barac the son of Abineem out of Cades Nephthali and she said to him: Has not the Lord God of Israel commanded you? And you shall depart to mount Thabor and shall take with yourself ten thousand men of the sons of Nephthali and of the sons of Zabulon.

7 I will bring to you to the torrent of Kison Sisara the captain of the host of Jabin and his chariots and his multitude and I will deliver them into your hands.

8 And Barac said to her: If you will go with me, I will go; and if you will not go, I will not go; for I know not the day on which the Lord prospers his messenger with me. 9 And she said: I will surely go with you; but know that your honor shall not attend on the expedition on which you go, for the Lord shall sell Sisara into the hands of a women: and Debbora arose and went with Barac out of Cades. 10 And Barac called Zabulon and Nephthali out of Cades and there went up at his feet ten thousand men and Debbora went up with him.

11 And Chaber the Kenite had removed from Caina, from the sons of Jobab the father-in-law of Moses and pitched his tent by the oak of the covetous ones, which is near Kedes.

12 It was told Sisara that Barac the son of Abineem was gone up to mount Thabor. 13 And Sisara summoned all his chariots, nine hundred chariots of iron and all the people with him, from Arisoth of the Gentiles to the brook of Kison.

14 Debbora said to Barac, Rise up, for this is the day on which the Lord has delivered Sisara into your hand, for the Lord shall go forth before you: and Barac went down from mount Thabor and ten thousand men after him. 15 The Lord discomfited Sisara and all his chariots and all his army, with the edge of the sword before Barac: and Sisara descended from off his chariot and fled on his feet. 16 And Barac pursued after the chariots and after the army, into Arisoth of the Gentiles; and the whole army of Sisara fell by the edge of the sword, there was not one left. 17 And Sisara fled on his feet to the tent of Jael the wife of Chaber the Kenite his friend: for there was peace between Jabin king of Asor and the house of Chaber the Kenite. 18 Jael went, out to meet Sisara and said to him: Turn aside, my lord, turn aside to me, fear not: He turned aside to her into the tent; and she covered him with a mantle.

19 And Sisara said to her: Give me, I pray you, a little water to drink, for I am thirsty: and she opened a bottle of milk and gave him to drink and covered him. 20 And Sisara said to her: Stand now by the door of the tent and it shall come to pass if any man come to you and ask of you and say, Is there any man here? Then you shall say, There is not. 21 Jael the wife of Chaber took a pin of the tent and took a hammer in her hand and went secretly to him and fastened the pin in his temple and it went through to the earth, He fainted away and darkness fell upon him He died. 22 And, behold, Barac was pursuing Sisara: and Jael went out to meet him, He said to him: Come and I will show you the man whom you seekest: He went in to her; and, behold, Sisara was fallen dead and the pin was in his temple. 23 So God routed Jabin king of C'anaan in that day before the children of Israel.

24 The hand of the children of Israel prevailed more and more against Jabin king of C'anaan, until they utterly destroyed Jabin king of C'anaan.

5:1 Debbora and Barac son of Abineem sang in that day, saying:

2 A revelation was made in Israel when the people were made willing: Praise you the Lord. 3 Hear, you kings and hearken, rulers: I will sing, it is I who will sing to the Lord, it is I, I will sing a psalm to the Lord the god of Israel. 4 O Lord, in your going forth on Seir when you went forth out of the land of Edom, the earth quaked and the heaven dropped dews and the clouds dropped water. 5 The mountains were shaken before the face of the Lord Eloï, this Sinai before the face of the Lord God of Israel. 6 In the days of Samegar son of Anath, in the days of Jael, they deserted the ways and went in by-ways; they went in crooked paths. 7 The mighty men in Israel failed, they failed until Debbora arose, until she arose a mother in Israel. 8 They chose new gods; then the cities of rulers fought; there was not a shield or spear seen among forty thousand in Israel.

9 My heart inclines to the orders given in Israel; you that are willing among the people, bless the Lord. 10 you that mount a she-ass at noon-day, you that sit on the judgment-seat and walk by the roads of those who sit in judgment by the way; declare 11 you that are delivered from the noise of disturbers among the drawers of water; there shall they relate righteous acts: O Lord, increase righteous acts in Israel: then the people of the Lord went down to the cities. 12 Awake, awake, Debbora; awake, awake, utter a song: arise, Barac and lead your captivity captive, son of Abineem. 13 Then went down the remnant to the strong, the people of the Lord went down for him among the mighty ones from me.

14 Ephraim rooted them out in Amalec, behind you was Benjamin among your people: the inhabitants of Machir came down with me searching out the enemy and from Zabulon came those who draw with the scribe's pen of record. 15 And princess in Issachar were with Debbora and Barac, thus she sent Barac on his feet in the valleys into the portions of Ruben; great pangs reached to the heart. 16 Why did they sit between the sheep-folds to hear the bleating of flocks for the divisions of Ruben? There were great searchings of heart. 17 Galaad is on the other side of Jordan where he pitched his tents; and why does Dan remain in ships? Aser sat down on the sea-coasts, He will tabernacle at his ports. 18 The people Zabulon exposed their soul to death and Nephthali came to the high places of their land.

19 Kings set themselves in array, then the kings of C'anaan fought in Thanaach at the water of Mageddo; they took no gift of money. 20 The stars from heaven set themselves in array, they set themselves to fight with Sisara out of their paths. 21 The brook of Kison swept them away, the ancient brook, the brook Kison: my mighty soul will trample him down. 22 When the hoofs of the horse were entangled, his mighty ones earnestly hasted 23 to curse Meroz: Curse you it, said the angel of the Lord; cursed is every one that dwells in it, because they came not to the help of the Lord, to his help among the mighty.

24 Blessed among women be Jael wife of Chaber the Kenite; let her be blessed above women in tents. 25 He asked for water, she gave him milk in a dish; she brought butter of princes. 26 She stretched forth her left hand to the nail and her right to the hand workman's hammer and she stroke Sisara with it, she nailed through his head and stroke him; she nailed through his temples. 27 He rolled down between her feet; he fell and lay between her feet; he bowed and fell: where he bowed, there he fell dead. 28 The mother of Sisara looked down through the window out of the loophole, saying: Why was his chariot ashamed? Why did the wheels of his chariots come to a halt? 29 Her wise ladies answered her and she returned answers to herself, saying: 30 Will they not find him dividing the spoil? He will surely be gracious to every man: there are spoils of dyed garments for Sisara, spoils of various dyed garments, dyed embroidered garments, they are the spoils for his neck. 31 Thus let all your enemies perish, O Lord: and those who love him shall be as the going forth of the sun in his strength.

32 The land had rest forty years.

6:1 The children of Israel did evil in the sight of the Lord and the Lord gave them into the hand of Madiam seven years. 2 The hand of Madiam prevailed against Israel: and the children of Israel made for themselves because of Madiam the caves in the mountains and the dens and the holes in the rocks. 3 It came to pass when the children of Israel sowed, that Madiam and Amalec went up and the children of the east went up together with them. 4 They encamped against them and destroyed their fruits until they came to Gaza; and they left not the support of life in the land of Israel, not even ox or ass among the herds. 5 For they and their stock came up and their tents were with them, as the locust in multitude and there was no number to them and their camels; and they came to the land of Israel and laid it waste. 6 Israel was greatly impoverished because of Madiam. 7 The children of Israel cried to the Lord because of Madiam.

8 The Lord sent a prophet to the children of Israel; He said to them: Thus says the Lord God of Israel, I am he that brought you up out of the land of Egypt and I brought you up out of the house of your . 9 I delivered you out of the hand of Egypt and out of the hand of all that afflicted you and I cast them out before you; and I gave you their land. 10 I said to you, I am the Lord your God: you shall not fear the gods of the Amorites, in whose land you dwell; but you hearkened not to my voice.

11 An angel of the Lord came and sat down under the fir tree, which was in Ephratha in the land of Joas father of Esdri; and Gedeon his son was threshing wheat in a wine-press in order to escape from the face of Madiam. 12 The angel of the Lord appeared to him and said to him: The Lord is with you, you mighty in strength. 13 And Gedeon said to him: Be gracious with me, my Lord: but if the Lord is with us, why have these evils found us? And where are all his miracles, which our fathers have related to us, saying: Did not the Lord bring us up out of Egypt? And now he has cast us out and given us into the hand of Madiam. 14 The angel of the Lord turned to him and said: Go in this your strength and you shall save Israel out of the hand of Madiam: behold, I have sent you. 15 And Gedeon said to him: Be gracious with me, my Lord: by which means shall I save Israel? Behold, my thousand is weakened in Manasse and I am the least in my father's house. 16 The angel of the Lord said to him: The Lord shall be with you and you shall strike Madiam as one man. 17 And Gedeon said to him: If now I have found mercy in your eyes and you will do this day for me all that you have spoken of with me, 18 depart not hence until I come to you and I will bring forth an offering and offer it before you: He said: I will remain until you return.

19 And Gedeon went in and prepared a kid of the goats and an ephah of fine flour unleavened; He put the flesh in the basket and poured the broth into the pot and brought them forth to him under the turpentine tree and drew near. 20 The angel of God said to him: Take the flesh and the unleavened cakes and put them on that rock and pour out the broth close by: He did so. 21 The angel of the Lord stretched out the end of the rod that was in his hand and touched the flesh and the unleavened bread; and fire came up out of the rock and consumed the flesh and the unleavened bread and the angel of the Lord vanished from his sight.

22 And Gedeon saw that he was an angel of the Lord; and Gedeon said: Ah, ah, Lord my God! for I have seen the angel of the Lord face to face. 23 The Lord said to him: Peace be to you, fear not, you shall not die.

24 And Gedeon built there an altar to the Lord and called it The peace of the Lord, until this day, as it is still in Ephratha of the father of Esdri. 25 It came to pass in that night, that the Lord said to him: Take the young bullock which your father has, even the second bullock of seven years old and you shall destroy the altar of Baal which your father has and the grove which is by it you shall destroy. 26 You shall build an altar to the Lord your God on the top of this Maozi in the ordering it and you shall take the second bullock and shall offer up whole-burnt-offerings with the wood of the grove, which you shall destroy. 27 And Gedeon took ten men of his servants and did as the Lord spoke to him: and it came to pass, as he feared the house of his father and the men of the city if he should do it by day, that he did it by night.

28 The men of the city rose up early in the morning; and behold, the altar of Baal had been demolished and the grove by it had been destroyed; and they saw the second bullock, which Gedeon offered on the altar that had been built. 29 And a man said to his neighbor, Who has done this thing? And they enquired and searched and learnt that Gedeon the son of Joas had done this thing. 30 The men of the city said to Joas, Bring out your son, Let him die, because he has destroyed the altar of Baal and because he has destroyed the grove that is by it. 31 And Gedeon the son of Joas said to all the men who rose up against him, Do you now plead for Baal, or will you save him? Whoever will plead for him, let him be slain this morning: if he be a god let him plead for himself, because one has thrown down his altar. 32 He called it in that day Jerobaal, saying:

Let Baal plead thereby, because his altar has been thrown down.

33 All Madiam and Amalek and the sons of the east gathered themselves together and encamped in the valley of Jezrael. 34 The Spirit of the Lord came upon Gedeon, He blew with the horn and Abiezer came to help after him. 35 And Gedeon sent messengers into all Manasse and into Aser and into Zabulon and into Nephthali; He went up to meet them.

36 And Gedeon said to God, If you will save Israel by my hand, as you have said: 37 behold, I put the fleece of wool in the threshing-floor: if there be dew on the fleece only and drought on all the ground, I shall know that you will save Israel by my hand, as you have said. 38 It was so: He rose up early in the morning and wrung the fleece and dew dropped from the fleece, a bowl full of water. 39 And Gedeon said to God, Let not, I pray you, your anger be kindled with me and I will speak yet once; I will even yet make one trial more with the fleece: let now the drought be upon the fleece only, Let there be dew on all the ground. 40 And God did so in that night; and there was drought on the fleece only and on all the ground there was dew.

7:1 Jerobaal rose early, the same is Gedeon and all the people with him and encamped at the fountain of Arad; and the camp of Madiam was to the north of him, reaching from Gabaathamorai, in the valley.

2 The Lord said to Gedeon, The people with you are many, so that I may not deliver Madiam into their hand, for fear that at any time Israel boast against me, saying: My hand has saved me. 3 And now speak in the ears of the people, saying: Who is afraid and fearful? Let him turn and depart from mount Galaad: and there returned of the people twenty-two thousand and ten thousand were left. 4 The Lord said to Gedeon, The people is yet numerous; bring them down to the water and I will purge them there for you: and it shall come to pass that of whoever I shall say to you, This one shall go with you, even he shall go with you; and of whoever I shall say to you, This one shall not go with you, even he shall not go with you. 5 He brought the people down to the water; and the Lord said to Gedeon, whoever shall lap of the water with his tongue as if a dog should lap, you shall set him apart and also whoever shall bow down upon his knees to drink. 6 The number of those who lapped with their hand to their mouth was three hundred men; and all the rest of the people bowed upon their knees to drink water. 7 The Lord said to Gedeon, I will save you by the three hundred men that lapped and I will give Madiam into your hand; and all the rest of the people shall go every one to his place. 8 They took the provision of the people in their hand and their horns; He sent away every man of Israel each to his tent, He strengthened the three hundred; and the army of Madiam were beneath him in the valley.

9 It came to pass in that night that the Lord said to him: Arise, go down into the camp, for I have delivered it into your hand. 10 If you are afraid to go down, go down you and your servant Phara into the camp. 11 You shall hear what they shall say and afterwards your hands shall be strong and you shall go down into the camp: He went down and Phara his servant to the extremity of the companies of fifty, which were in the camp. 12 And Madiam and Amalec and all the children of the east were scattered in the valley, as the locust for multitude; and there was no number to their camels, but they were as the sand on the seashore for multitude.

13 And Gedeon came and behold a man was relating to his neighbor a dream, He said: Behold, I have dreamed a dream and behold, a cake of barley bread rolling into the camp of Madiam and it came as far as a tent and stroke it and it fell and it turned it up and the tent fell. 14 And his neighbor answered and said: This is none other than the sword of Gedeon, son of Joas, a man of Israel: God has delivered Madiam and all the host into his hand.

15 It came to pass when Gedeon heard the account of the dream and the interpretation of it, that he worshiped the Lord and returned to the camp of Israel and said: Rise, for the Lord has delivered the camp of Madiam into our hand. 16 He divided the three hundred men into three companies and put horns in the hands of all and empty pitchers and torches in the pitchers: 17 He said to them: you shall look at me and so shall you do; and behold, I will go into the beginning of the host and it shall come to pass that as I do, so shall you do. 18 I will sound with the horn and all you with me shall sound with the horn around the whole camp and you shall say, For the Lord and Gedeon.

19 And Gedeon and the hundred men that were with him came to the extremity of the army in the beginning of the middle watch; and they completely roused the guards and sounded with the horns and they broke the pitchers that were in their hands, 20 and the three companies sounded with the horns and broke the pitchers and held the torches in their left hands and in their right hands their horns to sound with; and they cried out, A sword for the Lord and for Gedeon. 21 And every man stood in his place around the host; and all the host ran and sounded an alarm and fled. 22 They sounded with the three hundred horns; and the Lord set every man's sword in all the host against his neighbor. 23 The host fled as far as Bethseed Tagaragatha Abel-meula to Tabath; and the men of Israel from Nephthali and from Aser and from all Manasse, came to help and followed after Madiam.

24 And Gedeon sent messengers into all mount Ephraim, saying: Come down to meet Madiam and take to yourselves the water as far as Baethera and Jordan: and every man of Ephraim cried out and they took the water before hand to Baethera and Jordan. 25 They took the princess of Madiam, even Oreb and Zeb; and they killed Oreb in Sur Oreb and they killed Zeb in Jakephzeph; and they pursued Madiam and brought the heads of Oreb and Zeb to Gedeon from beyond Jordan.

8:1 The men of Ephraim said to Gedeon, What is this that you have done to us, in that you did not call us when you went to fight with Madiam? And they chode with him sharply. 2 He said to them: What have I now done in comparison of you? Is not the gleaning of Ephraim better than the vintage of Abiezer? 3 The Lord has delivered into your hand the princes of Madiam, Oreb and Zeb; and what do you think I do in comparison of you? Then was their spirit calmed toward him when he spoke this word.

4 And Gedeon came to Jordan and went over, himself and the three hundred with him, hungry, yet pursuing. 5 He said to the men of Socchoth, Give, I pray you, bread to feed this people that follow me; because they are faint and behold, I am following after Zebee and Salmana, kings of Madiam. 6 The princes of Socchoth said: Are the hands of Zebee and Salmana now in your hand, that we should give bread to your host? 7 And Gedeon said: Therefore when the Lord gives Zebee and Salmana into my hand, then will I tear your flesh with the thorns of the wilderness and the Barkenim. 8 He went up for there to Phanel and spoke to them likewise: and the men of Phanel answered him as the men of Socchoth had answered him. 9 And Gedeon said to the men of Phanel when I return in peace, I will break down this tower.

10 And Zebee and Salmana were in Carcar and their host was with them, about fifteen thousand, all that were left of all the host of the aliens; and those who fell were a hundred and twenty thousand men that drew the sword. 11 And Gedeon went up by the way of those who dwelt in tents, eastward of Nabai and Jegebal; He stroke the host and the host was secure. 12 And Zebee and Salmana fled; He pursued after them and took the two kings of Madiam, Zebee and Salmana and discomfited all the army.

13 And Gedeon the son of Joas returned from the battle, down from the battle of Ares. 14 He took prisoner a young boy of the men of Socchoth and questioned him; He wrote to him the names of the princes of Socchoth and of their elders, seventy-seven men. 15 And Gedeon came to the princes of Socchoth and said: Behold Zebee and Salmana, about whom you reproached me, saying: Are the hands of Zebee and Salmana now in your hand, that we should give bread to your men that are faint? 16 He took the elders of the city with the thorns of the wilderness and the Barkenim and with them he tore the men of the city. 17 He overthrew the tower of Phanel and killed the men of the city.

18 He said to Zebee and Salmana, Where are the men whom you killed in Thabor? And they said: As you, so were they, according to the likeness of the son of a king. 19 And Gedeon said: They were my brothers and the sons of my mother: as the Lord lives, if you had preserved them alive, I would not have slain you. 20 He said to Jether his first-born, Rise and kill them; but the boy drew not his sword, for he was afraid, for he was yet very young. 21 And Zebee and Salmana said: Rise you and fall upon us, for your power is as that of a man; and Gedeon arose and killed Zebee and Salmana: He took the round ornaments that were on the necks of their camels.

22 The men of Israel said to Gedeon, Rule, my lord, over us, both you and your son and your son's son; for you have saved us out of the hand of Madiam. 23 And Gedeon said to them: I will not rule and my son shall not rule among you; the Lord shall rule over you. 24 And Gedeon said to them: I will make a request of you and do you give me every man an earring out of his spoils: for they had golden earrings, for they were Ismaelites. 25 They said: We will certainly give them: He opened his garment and each man cast an earring of his spoils. 26 The weight of the golden earrings which he asked, was a thousand and seven hundred pieces of gold, besides the crescents and the chains and the garments and the purple cloths that were on the kings of Madiam and besides the chains that were on the necks of their camels. 27 And Gedeon made an ephod of it, an set it in his city in Ephratha; and all Israel went to that place a whoring after it and it became a stumbling-block to Gedeon and his house.

28 And Madiam, was straitened before the children of Israel and they did not lift up their head any more; and the land had rest forty years in the days of Gedeon. 29 Jerobaal the son of Joas went and sat in his house. 30 And Gedeon had seventy sons begotten of his body, for he had many wives. 31 And his concubine was in Sychem and she also bore him a son and gave him the name Abimelech. 32 And Gedeon son of Joas died in his city, He was buried in the tomb of Joas his father in Ephratha of Abi-Esdri.

33 It came to pass when Gedeon was dead, that the children of Israel turned and went a whoring after Baalim and made for themselves a covenant with Baal that he should be their god. 34 The children of Israel remembered not the Lord their God who had delivered them out of the hand of all that afflicted them round about. 35 They did not deal mercifully with the house of Jerobaal, (the same is Gedeon) according to all the good which he did to Israel.

9:1 And Abimelech son of Jerobaal went to Sychem to his mother's brothers; He spoke to them and to all the kindred of the house of his mother's father, saying: 2 Speak, I pray you, in the ears of all the men of Sychem, saying: Which is better for you, that seventy men, even all the sons of Jerobaal, should reign over you, or that one man should reign over you? And remember that I am your bone and your flesh. 3 And his mother's brothers spoke concerning him in the ears of all the men of Sychem all these words; and their heart turned after Abimelech, for they said: He is our brother. 4 They gave him seventy pieces of silver out of the house of Baalberith; and Abimelech hired for himself vain and cowardly men and they went after him. 5 He went to the house of his father to Ephratha and killed his brothers the sons of Jerobaal, seventy men upon one stone; but Joatham the youngest son of Jerobaal was left, for he hid himself.

6 All the men of Sicima and all the house of BethmaaBehold, were gathered together and they went and made Abimelech king by the oak of Sedition, which was at Sicima.

7 It was reported to Joatham, He went and stood on the top of mount Garizin and lifted up his voice and wept and said to them: Hear me, you men of Sicima and God shall hear you.

8 The trees went forth on a time to anoint a king over them; and they said to the olive, Reign over us. 9 But the olives said to them: Shall I leave my fatness, with which men shall glorify God and go to be promoted over the trees? 10 The trees said to the fig-tree, Come, reign over us. 11 But the fig-tree said to them: Shall I leave my sweetness an my good fruits and go to be promoted over the trees? 12 The trees said to the vine, Come, reign over us. 13 The vine said to them: Shall I leave my wine that cheers God and men and go to be promoted over the trees? 14 Then all the trees said to the bramble, Come you and reign over us. 15 The bramble said to the trees, If you in truth anoint me to reign over you, come, stand under my shadow; and if not, let fire come out from me and devour the cedars of Lebanon.

16 And now, if you have done it in truth and integrity and have made Abimelech king and if you have accomplished well with Jerobaal and with his house and if you have done to him according to the reward of his hand, 17 as my father fought for you and put his life in jeopardy and delivered you out of the hand of Madiam; 18 and you are risen up this day against the house of my father and have slain his sons, being seventy men, upon one stone and have made Abimelech the son of his bondwoman king over the men of Sicima, because he is your brother: 19 if then you have done truly and faithfully with Jerobaal and with his house this day, rejoice you in Abimelech, Let him also rejoice over you: 20 but if not, let fire come out from Abimelech and devour the men of Sicima and the house of Bethmaalo; Let fire come out from the men of Sicima and from the house of BethmaaBehold and devour Abimelech.

21 Joatham fled and ran away and went as far as Baeer and dwelt there out of the way of his brother Abimelech.

22 And Abimelech reigned over Israel three years. 23 And God sent an evil spirit between Abimelech and the men of Sicima; and the men of Sicima dealt treacherously with the house of Abimelech: 24 to bring the injury done to the seventy sons of Jerobaal and to lay their blood upon their brother Abimelech, who killed them and upon the men of Sicima, because they strengthened his hands to kill his brothers. 25 The men of Sicima set liers in wait against him on the top of the mountains and robbed every one who passed by them on the way; and it was reported to the king Abimelech.

26 And Gaal son of Jobel came and his brothers and passed by Sicima and the men of Sicima trusted in him. 27 They went out into the field and gathered their grapes and trod them and made merry; and they brought the grapes into the house of their god and ate and drank and cursed Abimelech. 28 And Gaal the son of Jobel said: Who is Abimelech and who is the son of Sychem, that we should serve him? Is he not the son of Jerobaal and is not Zebul his steward, his servant with the son of Emmor the father of Sychem? And why should we serve him? 29 And would that this people were under my hand! then would I remove Abimelech and I would say to him, Multiply your host and come out.

30 And Zebul the ruler of the city heard the words of Gaal the son of Jobel, He was very angry. 31 He sent messengers to Abimelech secretly, saying: Behold, Gaal the son of Jobel and his brothers have come to Sychem; and behold, they have besieged the city against you. 32 And now rise up by night, you and the people with you and lay wait in the field. 33 It shall come to pass in the morning at sunrising, you shall rise up early and draw toward the city; and behold, he and the people with him will come forth against you and you shall do to him according to your power. 34 And Abimelech and all the people with him rose up by night and formed an ambuscade against Sychem in four companies. 35 And Gaal the son of Jobel went forth and stood by the door of the gate of the city: and Abimelech and the people with him rose up from the ambuscade. 36 And Gaal the son of Jobel saw the people and said to Zebul, Behold, a people comes down from the top of the mountains: and Zebul said to him: You see the shadow of the mountains as men. 37 And Gaal continued to speak and said: Behold, a people comes down westward from the part bordering on the middle of the land and another company comes by the way of Helon Maonenim. 38 And Zebul said to him: And where is your mouth as you spoke, Who is Abimelech that we should serve him? Is not this the people whom you despisedst? Go forth now and set the battle in array against him. 39 And Gaal went forth before the men of Sychem and set the battle in array against Abimelech. 40 And Abimelech pursued him, He fled from before him; and many fell down slain as far as the door of the gate.

41 And Abimelech entered into Arema and Zebul cast out Gaal and his brothers, so that they should not dwell in Sychem.

42 It came to pass on the second day that the people went out into the field and one brought word to Abimelech. 43 He took the people and divided them into three companies and formed an ambush in the field; He looked, and, behold, the people went forth out of the city, He rose up against them and stroke them. 44 And Abimelech and the chiefs of companies that were with him rushed forward and stood by the door of the gate of the city; and the two other companies rushed forward upon all that were in the field and stroke them. 45 And Abimelech fought against the city all that day and took the city and killed the people that were in it and destroyed the city and sowed it with salt.

46 All the men of the tower of Sychem heard and came to the gathering of Baethel-berith. 47 It was reported to Abimelech, that all the men of the tower of Sychem were gathered together. 48 And Abimelech went up to the mount of Selmon and all the people that were with him; and Abimelech took an axe in his hand and cut down a branch of a tree and took it and laid it on his shoulders; and said to the people that were with him, What you see me doing, do quickly as I. 49 They cut down likewise even every man a branch and went after Abimelech and laid them against the place of gathering and burnt the place of gathering over them with fire; and they died, even all the men of the tower of Sicima, about a thousand men and women.

50 And Abimelech went out of Baethel-berith and encamped against Thebes and took it. 51 And there was a strong tower in the midst of the city; and to that place all the men and the women of the city fled and shut the door without them and went up on the roof of the tower. 52 And Abimelech drew near to the tower and they besieged it; and Abimelech drew near to the door of the tower to burn it with fire. 53 And a woman cast a piece of a millstone upon the head of Abimelech and broke his skull. 54 He cried out quickly to the young man his armor-bearer and said to him: Draw your sword and kill me, for fear that at any time they should say, A woman killed him: and his young man thrust him through He died. 55 The men of Israel saw that Abimelech was dead; and they went each to his place.

56 So God requited the wickedness of Abimelech, which he accomplished against his father, in slaying his seventy brothers. 57 All the wickedness of the men of Sychem God requited upon their head; and the curse of Joatham the son of Jerobaal came upon them.

10:1 And after Abimelech Thola the son of Phua rose up to save Israel, being the son of his father's brother, a man of Issachar; He dwelt in Samir in mount Ephraim. 2 He judged Israel twenty-three years and died and was buried in Samir.

3 And after him arose Jair of Galaad, He judged Israel twenty-two years. 4 He had thirty-two sons riding on thirty-two colts and they had thirty-two cities; and they called them Jair's towns until this day in the land of Galaad. 5 Jair died and was buried in Rhamnon.

6 The children of Israel did evil again in the sight of the Lord and served Baalim and Astaroth and the gods of Aram and the gods of Sidon and the gods of Moab and the gods of the children of Ammon and the gods of the Phylistines; and they forsook the Lord and did not serve him. 7 The Lord was very angry with Israel and sold them into the hands of the Phylistines and into the hand of the children of Ammon. 8 They afflicted and bruised the children of Israel at that time eighteen years, all the children of Israel beyond Jordan in the land of the Amorite in Galaad. 9 The children of Ammon went over Jordan to fight with Juda and Benjamin and with Ephraim; and the children of Israel were greatly afflicted.

10 The children of Israel cried to the Lord, saying: We have sinned against you, because we have forsaken God and served Baalim. 11 The Lord said to the children of Israel, Did I not save you from Egypt and from the Amorite and from the children of Ammon and from the Phylistines, 12 and from the Sidonians and Amalec and Madiam, who afflicted you? And you cried to me and I saved you out of their hand? 13 Yet you forsook me and served other gods; therefore I will not save you any more. 14 Go and cry to the gods whom you have chosen to yourselves, Let them save you in the time of your affliction. 15 The children of Israel said to the Lord, We have sinned: do you to us according to all that is good in your eyes; only deliver us this day. 16 They put away the strange gods from the midst of them and served the Lord only and his soul was pained for the trouble of Israel.

17 The children of Ammon went up and encamped in Galaad; and the children of Israel were gathered together and encamped on the hill. 18 The people the princes of Galaad said every man to his neighbor, Who is he that shall begin to fight against the children of Ammon? He shall even be head over all that dwell in Galaad.

11:1 Jephthae the Galaadite was a mighty man; He was the son of a harlot, who bore Jephthae to Galaad. 2 The wife of Galaad bore him sons; and the sons of his wife grew up and they cast out Jephthae and said to him: You shall not inherit in the house of our father, for you are the son of a concubine.

3 Jephthae fled from the face of his brothers and dwelt in the land of Tob; and vain men gathered to Jephthae and went out with him.

4 It came to pass when the children of Ammon prepared to fight with Israel, 5 that the elders of Galaad went to fetch Jephthae from the land of Tob. 6 They said to Jephthae, Come and be our head and we will fight with the sons of Ammon. 7 Jephthae said to the elders of Galaad, Did you not hate me and cast me out of my father's house and banish me from you? And why then are you come to me now when you want me? 8 The elders of Galaad said to Jephthae, Therefore have we now turned to you, that you should go with us and fight against the sons of Ammon and be our head over all the inhabitants of Galaad. 9 Jephthae said to the elders of Galaad, If you turn me back to fight with the children of Ammon and the Lord should deliver them before me, then will I be your head. 10 The elders of Galaad said to Jephthae, The Lord be witness between us, if we shall not do according to your word.

11 Jephthae went with the elders of Galaad and the people made him head and ruler over them: and Jephthae spoke all his words before the Lord in Massepha.

12 Jephthae sent messengers to the king of the children of Ammon, saying: What have I to do with you, that you have come against me to fight in my land? 13 The king of the children of Ammon said to the messengers of Jephthae, Because Israel took my land when he went up out of Egypt, from Arnon to Jaboc and to Jordan: now then return them peaceably and I will depart.

14 Jephthae again sent messengers to the king of the children of Ammon, 15 and said to him: Thus says Jephthae, Israel took not the land of Moab, nor the land of the children of Ammon; 16 for in their going up out of Egypt Israel went in the wilderness as far as the sea of Siph and came to Cades. 17 Israel sent messengers to the king of Edom, saying: I will pass, if it please you, by your land: and the king of Edom complied not: and Israel also sent to the king of Moab, He did not consent; and Israel sojourned in Cades. 18 They journeyed in the wilderness and surrounded the land of Edom and the land of Moab: and they came by the east of the land of Moab, an encamped in the country beyond Arnon and came not within the borders of Moab, for Arnon is the border of Moab. 19 Israel sent messengers to Seon king of the Amorite, king of Esbon and Israel said to him: Let us pass, we pray you, by your land to our place. 20 And Seon did not trust Israel to pass by his coast; and Seon gathered all his people and they encamped at Jasa; He set the battle in array against Israel. 21 The Lord God of Israel delivered Seon and all his people into the hand of Israel and they stroke him; and Israel inherited all the land of the Amorite who dwelt in that land, 22 from Arnon and to Jaboc and from the wilderness to Jordan. 23 And now the Lord God of Israel has removed the Amorite from before his people Israel and shall you inherit his land? 24 will you not inherit those possessions which Chamos your god shall cause you to inherit; and shall not we inherit the land of all those whom the Lord our God has removed from before you? 25 And now are you any better than Balac son of Sepphor, king of Moab? Did he indeed fight with Israel, or indeed make war with him, 26 when Israel dwelt in Esebon and in its coasts and in the land of Aroer and in its coasts and in all the cities by Jordan, three hundred years? And why then did you not recover them in that time? 27 And now I have not sinned against you, but you wrong me in preparing war against me: may the Lord the Judge judge this day between the children of Israel and the children of Ammon.

28 But the king of the children of Ammon hearkened not to the words of Jephthae, which he sent to him. 29 The spirit of the Lord came upon Jephthae, He passed over Galaad and Manasse and passed by the watch-tower of Galaad to the other side of the children of Ammon.

30 Jephthae vowed a vow to the Lord and said: If you will indeed deliver the children of Ammon into my hand, 31 then it shall come to pass that whoever shall first come out of the door of my house to meet me when I return in peace from the children of Ammon, he shall be the Lord's: I will offer him up for a whole-burnt-offering. 32 Jephthae advanced to meet the sons of Ammon to fight against them; and the Lord delivered them into his hand. 33 He stroke them from Aroer till one comes to Arnon, in number twenty cities and as far as Ebelcharmim, with a very great destruction: and the children of Ammon were straitened before the children of Israel.

34 Jephthae came to Masepha to his house; and behold, his daughter came forth to meet him with timbrels and dances; and she was his only child, he had not another son or daughter. 35 It came to pass when he saw her, that he rent his garments and said: Ah, ah, my daughter, you have indeed troubled me and you were the cause of my trouble; and I have opened my mouth against you to the Lord and I shall not be able to return from it. 36 And she said to him: Father, have you opened your mouth to the Lord? Do to me accordingly as the word went out of your mouth, in that the Lord has accomplished vengeance for you on your enemies of the children of Ammon. 37 And she said to her father, Let my father now do this thing: let me alone for two months and I will go up and down on the mountains and I will bewail my virginity, I and my companions. 38 He said: Go: He sent her away for two months; and she went and her companions and she bewailed her virginity on the mountains.

39 It came to pass at the end of the two months that she returned to her father; He performed upon her his vow which he vowed; and she knew no man: 40 and it was an ordinance in Israel, That the daughters of Israel went from year to year to bewail the daughter of

12:1 The men of Ephraim assembled themselves and passed on to the north and said to Jephthae, Why then did you go over to fight with the children of Ammon and did not call us to go with you? We will burn your house over you with fire. 2 Jephthae said to them: I and my people and the children of Ammon were very much engaged in war; and I called for you and you did not save me out of their hand. 3 I saw that you were no helper and I put my life in my hand and passed on to the sons of Ammon; and the Lord delivered them into my hand: and why then are you come up against me this day to fight with me?

4 Jephthae gathered all the men of Galaad and fought with Ephraim; and the men of Galaad stroke Ephraim, because those who were escaped of Ephraim said: you are of Galaad in the midst of Ephraim and in the midst of Manasse. 5 And Galaad took the fords of Jordan before Ephraim; and those who escaped of Ephraim said to them: Let us go over: and the men of Galaad said: are you an Ephrathite? He said: No. 6 Then they said to him: Say now Stachys; He did not rightly pronounce it so: and they took him and killed him at the fords of Jordan; and there fell at that time of Ephraim two and forty thousand.

7 Jephthae judged Israel six years; and Jephthae the Galaadite died and was buried in his city Galaad.

8 And after him Abaissan of Bethleem judged Israel. 9 He had thirty sons and thirty daughters, whom he sent forth; He brought in thirty daughters for his sons from without; He judged Israel seven years. 10 And Abaissan died and was buried in Bethleem.

11 And after him Ælom of Zabulon judged Israel ten years. 12 And Ælom of Zabulon died and was buried in Ælom in the land of Zabulon.

13 And after him Abdon the son of Ellel, the Pharathonite, judged Israel. 14 He had forty sons and thirty grandsons, that rode upon seventy colts: He judged Israel eight years. 15 And Abdon the son of Ellel, the Pharathonite, died and was buried in Pharathon in the land of Ephraim in the mount of Amalec.

13:1 The children of Israel yet again committed iniquity before the Lord; and the Lord delivered them into the hand of the Phylistines forty years.

2 And there was a man of Saraa, of the family of the kindred of Dan and his name was Manoe and his wife was barren and bore not. 3 An angel of the Lord appeared to the woman and said to her: Behold, you are barren and have not born; yet you shall conceive a son. 4 And now be very cautious and drink no wine nor strong drink and eat no unclean thing; 5 for behold, you are with child and shall bring forth a son; and there shall come no razor upon his head, for the child shall be a Nazarite to God from the womb; He shall begin to save Israel from the hand of the Phylistines.

6 The woman went in and spoke to her husband, saying: A man of God came to me and his appearance was as of an angel of God, very dreadful; and I did not ask him from where he was, He did not tell me his name. 7 He said to me: Behold, you are with child and shall bring forth a son; and now drink no wine nor strong drink and eat no unclean thing; for the child shall be holy to God from the womb until the day of his death.

8 And Manoe prayed to the Lord and said: I pray you, O Lord my lord, concerning the man of God whom you sent; let him now come to us once more and teach us what we shall do to the child about to be born.

9 The Lord heard the voice of Manoe and the angel of God came yet again to the woman; and she sat in the field and Manoe her husband was not with her. 10 The woman hastened and ran and brought word to her husband and said to him: Behold the man who came in the other day to me has appeared to me.

11 And Manoe arose and followed his wife and came to the man and said to him: are you the man that spoke to the woman? And the angel said: I am. 12 And Manoe said: Now, shall your word come to pass: what shall be the ordering of the child and our dealings with him? 13 The angel of the Lord said to Manoe, Of all things concerning which I spoke to the woman, she shall beware. 14 She shall eat of nothing that comes of the vine yielding wine, Let her not drink wine or strong liquor, Let her not eat anything unclean: all things that I have charged her she shall observe.

15 And Manoe said to the angel of the Lord, Let us detain you here and prepare before you a kid of the goats. 16 The angel of the Lord said to Manoe, If you should detain me, I will not eat of your bread; and if you would offer a whole-burnt-offering, to the Lord you shall offer it: for Manoe knew not that he was an angel of the Lord. 17 And Manoe said to the angel of the Lord, What is your name, that when your word shall come to pass, we may glorify you? 18 The angel of the Lord said to him: Why do you thus ask after my name; whereas it is wonderful? 19 And Manoe took a kid of the goats and its meat-offering and offered it on the rock to the Lord; and the angel accomplished a distinct work and Manoe and his wife were looking on. 20 It came to pass when the flame went up above the altar toward heaven, that the angel of the Lord went up in the flame; and Manoe and his wife were looking and they fell upon their face to the earth.

21 The angel appeared no more to Manoe and to his wife: then Manoe knew that this was an angel of the Lord. 22 And Manoe said to his wife, We shall surely die, because we have seen God. 23 But his wife said to him: If the Lord were pleased to kill us, he would not have received of our hand a whole-burnt-offering and a meat-offering; He would not have shown us all these things, neither would he have caused us to hear all these things as at this time.

24 The woman brought forth a son and she called his name Sampson; and the child grew and the Lord blessed him. 25 The Spirit of the Lord began to go out with him in the camp of Dan and between Saraa and Esthaol.

14:1 And Sampson went down to Thamnatha and saw a woman in Thamnatha of the daughters of the Philistines. 2 He went up and told his father and his mother and said: I have seen a woman in Thamnatha of the daughters of the Philistines; and now take her to me for a wife. 3 And his father and his mother said to him: Are there no daughters of your brothers and is there not a woman of all my people, that you go to take a wife of the uncircumcised Philistines?

And Sampson said to his father, Take her for me, for she is right in my eyes. 4 And his father and his mother knew not that it was of the Lord, that he sought to be revenged on the Philistines: and at that time the Philistines lorded it over Israel. 5 And Sampson and his father and his mother went down to Thamnatha, He came to the vineyard of Thamnatha; and behold, a young lion roared in meeting him. 6 The spirit of the Lord came powerfully upon him, He crushed him as he would have crushed a kid of the goats and there was nothing in his hands: He told not his father and his mother what he had done. 7 They went down and spoke to the woman and she was pleasing in the eyes of Sampson.

8 And after some time he returned to take her, He turned aside to see the carcass of the lion; and behold, a swarm of bees and honey were in the mouth of the lion. 9 He took it into his hands and went on eating, He went to his father and his mother and gave to them and they did eat; but he told them not that he took the honey out of the mouth of the lion.

10 And his father went down to the woman and Sampson made there a banquet for seven days, for so the young men are used to do. 11 It came to pass when they saw him, that they took thirty guests and they were with him.

12 And Sampson said to them: I propound you a riddle: if you will indeed tell it me and discover it within the seven days of the feast, I will you give thirty sheets and thirty changes of raiment. 13 If you cannot tell it me, you shall give me thirty napkins and thirty changes of apparel: and they said to him: Propound your riddle and we will hear it. 14 He said to them: Meat came forth of the eater and sweetness out of the strong: and they do you think not tell the riddle for three days.

15 It came to pass on the fourth day, that they said to the wife of Sampson, Deceive now your husband, Let him tell you the riddle, for fear that we burn you and your father's house with fire: did you invite us to do us violence? 16 And Sampson's wife wept before him and said: you do but hate me and love me not; for the riddle which you have propounded to the children of my people you have not told me: and Sampson said to her: If I have not told it to my father and my mother, shall I tell it to you? 17 And she wept before him the seven days, during which their banquet lasted: and it came to pass on the seventh day, that he told her, because she troubled him; and she told it to the children of her people. 18 The men of the city said to him on the seventh day, before sunrise, What is sweeter than honey? And what is stronger than a lion? And Sampson said to them: If you had not ploughed with my heifer, you would not have known my riddle. 19 The Spirit of the Lord came upon him powerfully, He went down to Ascalon and destroyed of the inhabitants thirty men and took their garments and gave the changes of raiment to those who told the riddle; and Sampson was very angry and went up to the house of his father. 20 The wife of Sampson was given to one of his friends, with whom he was on terms of friendship.

15:1 It came to pass after a time, in the days of wheat harvest, that Sampson visited his wife with a kid and said: I will go in to my wife even into the chamber: but her father did not suffer him to go in. 2 And her father spoke, saying: I said that you did surely hate her and I gave her to one of your friends: is not her younger sister better than she? Let her be to you instead of her.

3 And Sampson said to them: Even for once am I guiltless with regard to the Philistines, in that I do mischief among them. 4 And Sampson went and caught three hundred foxes and took torches and turned tail to tail and put a torch between two tails and fastened it. 5 He set fire to the torches and sent the foxes into the corn of the Philistines; and every thing was burnt from the threshing floor to the standing corn and even to the vineyard and olives. 6 The Philistines said: Who has done these things? And they said: Sampson the son-in-law of the Thamnite, because he has taken his wife and given her to one of his friends; and the Philistines went up and burnt her and her father's house with fire.

7 And Sampson said to them: Though you may have dealt thus with her, truly I will be avenged of you and afterwards I will cease. 8 He stroke them leg on thigh with a great overthrow; and went down and dwelt in a cave of the rock Etam.

9 The Philistines went up and encamped in Juda and spread themselves abroad in Lechi. 10 The men of Juda said: Why are you come up against us? And the Philistines said: We have come up to bind Sampson and to do to him as he has done to us. 11 The three thousand men of Juda went down to the hole of the rock Etam and they said to Sampson, Do you know not that the Philistines rule over us? And what is this that you have done to us? And Sampson said to them: As they did to me, so have I done to them. 12 They said to him: We have come down to bind you to deliver you into the hand of the Philistines: and Sampson said to them: Swear to me that you will not fall upon me yourselves. 13 They spoke to him, saying: No, but we will only bind you fast and deliver you into their hand and will by no means kill you: and they bound him with two new ropes and brought him from that rock.

14 They came to Lechi: and the Philistines shouted and ran to meet him: and the Spirit of the Lord came mightily upon him and the ropes that were upon his arms became as tow which is burnt with fire; and his bonds were consumed from off his hands. 15 He found the jaw-bone of an ass that had been cast away, He put forth his hand and took it and stroke with it a thousand men. 16 And Sampson said: With the jaw-bone of an ass I have utterly destroyed them, for with the jaw-bone of an ass I have stricken a thousand men. 17 It came to pass when he ceased speaking, that he cast the jaw-bone out of his hand; He called that place the Lifting of the jaw-bone.

18 He was very thirsty and wept before the Lord and said: You have been well pleased to grant this great deliverance by the hand of your servant and now shall I die for thirst and fall into the hand of the uncircumcised? 19 And God broke open a hollow place in the jaw and there came for there water, He drank; and his spirit returned He revived: therefore the name of the fountain was called 'The well of the invoker,' which is in Lechi, until this day.

20 He judged Israel in the days of the Philistines twenty years.

16:1 And Sampson went to Gaza and saw there a harlot and went in to her. 2 It was reported to the Gazites, saying: Sampson has come to this place: and they surrounded him and laid wait for him all night in the gate of the city and they were quiet all the night, saying: Let us wait till the dawn appear and we will kill him. 3 And Sampson slept till midnight and rose up at midnight and took hold of the doors of the gate of the city with the two posts and lifted them up with the bar and laid them on his shoulders, He went up to the top of the mountain that is before Chebron and laid them there.

4 It came to pass after this that he loved a woman in Alsorech and her name was Dalida. 5 The princess of the Philistines came up to her and said to her: Beguile him and see by which his great strength is and by which we shall prevail against him and bind him to humble him; and we will give you each eleven hundred pieces of silver.

6 Dalida said to Sampson, Tell me, I pray you, by which is your great strength and by which you shall be bound that you may be humbled. 7 And Sampson said to her: If they bind me with seven moist cords that have not been spoiled, then shall I be weak and be as one of ordinary men. 8 The princess of the Philistines brought to her seven moist cords that had not been spoiled and she bound him with them. 9 The liers in wait remained with her in the chamber; and she said to him: the Philistines are upon you, Sampson: He broke the cords as if any one should break a thread of tow when it has touched the fire and his strength was not known.

10 Dalida said to Sampson, Behold, you have cheated me and told me lies; now then tell me by which you shall be bound. 11 He said to her: If they should bind me fast with new ropes with which work has not been done, then shall I be weak and shall be as another man. 12 Dalida took new ropes and bound him with them and the liers in wait came out of the chamber and she said: The Philistines are upon you, Sampson: He broke them off his arms like a thread.

13 Dalida said to Sampson, Behold, you have deceived me and told me lies; tell me, I entreat you, by which you may be bound: He said to her: If you should weave the seven locks of my head with the web and should fasten them with the pin into the wall, then shall I be weak as another man. 14 It came to pass when he was asleep, that Dalida took the seven locks of his head and wove them with the web and fastened them with the pin into the wall and she said: The Philistines are upon you, Sampson: He awoke out of his sleep and carried away the pin of the web out of the wall.

15 Dalida said to Sampson, How do you say, I love you when your heart is not with me? This third time you have deceived me and have not told me where is your great strength. 16 It came to pass as she pressed him sore with her words continually and straitened him, that his spirit failed almost to death. 17 Then he told her all his heart and said to her: A razor has not come upon my head, because I have been a holy one of God from my mother's womb; if then I should be shaven, my strength will depart from me and I shall be weak and I shall be as all other men.

18 Dalida saw that he told her all his heart and she sent and called the princess of the Philistines, saying: Come up yet this once; for he has told me all his heart. The chiefs of the Philistines went up to her and brought the money in their hands. 19 Dalida made Sampson sleep upon her knees; and she called a man, He shaved the seven locks of his head and she began to humble him and his strength departed from him. 20 Dalida said: The Philistines are upon you, Sampson: He awoke out of his sleep and said: I will go out as at former times and shake myself; He knew not that the Lord was departed from him. 21 The Philistines took him and put out his eyes and brought him down to Gaza and bound him with fetters of brass; He ground in the prison-house. 22 The hair of his head began to grow as before it was shaven.

23 The chiefs of the Philistines met to offer a great sacrifice to their god Dagon and to make merry; and they said: God has given into our hand our enemy Sampson. 24 The people saw him and sang praises to their god; for our god, said they, has delivered into our hand our enemy, who wasted our land and who multiplied our slain. 25 When their heart was merry, then they said: Call Sampson out of the prison-house, Let him play before us: and they called Sampson out of the prison-house, He played before them; and they stroke him with the palms of their hands and set him between the pillars. 26 And Sampson said to the young man that held his hand, Suffer me to feel the pillars on which the house rests and I will stay myself upon them. 27 The house was full of men and woman and there were all the chiefs of the Philistines and on the roof were about three thousand men and woman looking at the sports of Sampson.

28 And Sampson wept before the Lord and said: O Lord, my lord, remember me, I pray you and strengthen me, O God, yet this once and I will seek retaliation for one recompense to the Philistines for my two eyes. 29 And Sampson took hold of the two pillars of the house on which the house stood and leaned on them and laid hold of one with his right hand and the other with his left. 30 And Sampson said: Let my wife perish with the Philistines: He bowed himself mightily; and the house fell upon the princes and upon all the people that were in it: and the dead whom Sampson killed in his death were more than those whom he killed in his life.

31 And his brothers and his father's house went down and they took him; and they went up and buried him between Saraa and Esthaol in the tomb of his father Manoe; He judged Israel twenty years.

17:1 And there was a man of mount Ephraim and his name was Michaias. 2 He said to his mother, The eleven hundred pieces of silver which you took of yourself and about which you cursed me and spoke in my ears, behold, the silver is with me; I took it: and his mother said: Blessed be my son of the Lord. 3 He restored the eleven hundred pieces of silver to his mother; and his mother said: I had wholly consecrated the money to the Lord out of my hand for my son, to make a graven and a molten image and now I will restore it to you. 4 But he returned the silver to his mother and his mother took two hundred pieces of silver and gave them to a silversmith, He made it a graven and a molten image; and it was in the house of Michaias. 5 The house of Michaias was to him the house of God, He made an ephod and theraphin, He consecrated one of his sons, He became to him a priest.

6 And in those days there was no king in Israel; every man did that which was right in his own eyes.

7 And there was a young man in Bethleem of the tribe of Juda, He was a Levite, He was sojourning there. 8 The man departed from Bethleem the city of Juda to sojourn in whatever place he might find; He came as far as mount Ephraim and to the house of Michaias to accomplish his journey. 9 And Michaias said to him: Where do you come from? He said to him: I am a Levite of Bethleem Juda and I go to sojourn in any place I may find. 10 And Michaias said to him: Dwell with me and be to me a father and a priest; and I will give you ten pieces of silver by the year and a change of raiment and your living. 11 The Levite went and began to dwell with the man; and the young man was to him as one of his sons. 12 And Michaias consecrated the Levite, He became to him a priest, He was in the house of Michaias. 13 And Michaias said: Now, I know that the Lord will do me good, because a Levite has become my priest.

18:1 In those days there was no king in Israel; and in those days the tribe of Dan sought for itself an inheritance to inhabit, because no inheritance had fallen to it until that day in the midst of the tribes of the children of Israel. 2 The sons of Dan sent from their families five men of valour, from Saraa and from Esthaol, to spy out the land and to search it; and they said to them: Go and search out the land. They came as far as the mount of Ephraim to the house of Michaias and they dwelt there, 3 in the house of Michaias and they recognised the voice of the young man the Levite and turned in to that place; and said to him: Who brought you in to this place? And what do you in this place? And what have you here? 4 He said to them: Thus and thus did Michaias to me, He hired me and I became his priest. 5 They said to him: Enquire now of God and we shall know whether our way will prosper, on which we are going. 6 The priest said to them: Go in peace; your way in which you go, is before the Lord.

7 The five men went on and came to Laisa; and they saw the people in the midst of it dwelling securely, at ease as is the manner of the Sidonians and there is no one ing or shaming a matter in the land, no heir extorting treasures; and they are far from the Sidonians and they have no with any one. 8 The five men came to their brothers to Saraa and Esthaol and said to their brothers, Why sit you here idle? 9 They said: Arise, Let us go up against them, for we have seen the land, and, behold, it is very good, yet you are still: delay not to go, an to enter in to possess the land. 10 Whenever you shall go, you shall come in upon a people secure and the land is extensive, for God has given it into your hand; a place where there is no want of anything that the earth affords.

11 And there departed for there of the families of Dan, from Saraa and from Esthaol, six hundred men, girded with weapons of war. 12 They went up and encamped in Cariathiarim in Juda; therefore it was called in that place the camp of Dan, until this day: behold, it is behind Cariathiarim.

13 They went on for there to the mount of Ephraim and came to the house of Michaias. 14 The five men who went to spy out the land of Laisa answered and said to their brothers, you know that there is in this place an ephod and theraphin and a graven and a molten image; and now consider what you shall do. 15 They turned aside there and went into the house of the young man, the Levite, even into the house of Michaias and asked him how he was. 16 The six hundred men of the sons of Dan who were girded with their weapons of war stood by the door of the gate. 17 The five men who went to spy out the land went up and entered into the house of Michaias and the priest stood. 18 They took the graven image and the ephod and the theraphin and the molten image; and the priest said to them: What are you doing? 19 They said to him: Be silent, lay your hand upon your mouth and come with us and be to us a father and a priest: is it better for you to be the priest of the house of one man, or to be the priest of a tribe and house for a family of Israel? 20 The heart of the priest was glad, He took the ephod and the theraphin and the graven image and the molten image and went in the midst of the people.

21 So they turned and departed and put their children and their property and their baggage before them.

22 They went some distance from the house of Michaias, and, behold, Michaias and the men in the houses near Michaias' house, cried out and overtook the children of Dan. 23 The children of Dan turned their face and said to Michaias, What is the matter with you that you have cried out? 24

And Michaias said: Because you have taken my graven image which I made and my priest and are gone; and what have I remaining? And what is this that you say to me, Why cry you? 25 The children of Dan said to him: Let not your voice be heard with us, for fear that angry men run upon you and take away your life and the lives of your house. 26 The children of Dan went their way; and Michaias saw that they were stronger than himself, He returned to his house.

27 The children of Dan took what Michaias had made and the priest that he had and they came to Laisa, to a people quiet and secure; and they stroke them with the edge of the sword and burnt the city with fire. 28 And there was no deliverer, because the city is far from the Sidonians and they have no with men and it is in the valley of the house of Raab; and they built the city and dwelt in it. 29 They called the name of the city Dan, after the name of Dan their father, who was born to Israel; and the name of the city was Ulamais before.

30 The children of Dan set up the graven image for themselves; and Jonathan son of Gerson son of Manasse, he and his sons were priests to the tribe of Dan till the time of the carrying away of the nation. 31 They set up for themselves the graven image which Michaias made, all the days that the house of God was in Selom; and it was so in those days that there was no king in Israel.

19:1 And there was a Levite sojourning in the sides of mount Ephraim, He took to himself a concubine from Bethleem Juda. 2 And his concubine departed from him and went away from him to the house of her father to Bethleem Juda and she was there four months.

3 And her husband rose up and went after her to speak kindly to her, to recover her to himself; He had his young man with him and a pair of asses; and she brought him into the house of her father; and the father of the young women saw him and was well pleased to meet him. 4 And his father-in-law, the father of the young women, constrained him, He stayed with him for three days; and they ate and drank and dwelt there. 5 It came to pass on the fourth day that they rose early, He stood up to depart; and the father of the young women said to his son-in-law, Strengthen your heart with a morsel of bread and afterwards you shall go. 6 So they two sat down together and ate and drank: and the father of the young women said to her husband, Spend the night here, Let your heart be merry. 7 The man rose up to depart; but his father-in-law constrained him, He stayed and dwelt there.

8 He rose early in the morning on the fifth day to depart; and the father of the young women said: Strengthen now your heart and quit yourself as a soldier till the day decline; and the two ate. 9 The man rose up to depart, he and his concubine and his young man; but his father-in-law the father of the young women said to him: Behold now, the day has declined toward evening; dwell here, an let your heart rejoice; and you shall rise early tomorrow for your journey and you shall go to your habitation. 10 But the man would not dwell there, but he arose and departed and came to the part opposite Jebus, (this is Jerusalem,) and there was with him a pair of donkeys saddled and his concubine was with him.

11 They came as far as Jebus: and the day had far advanced and the young man said to his master, Come, I pray you, Let us turn aside to this city of the Jebusites, Let us dwell in it. 12 And his master said to him: We will not turn aside to a strange city, where there is not one of the children of Israel, but we will pass on as far as Gabaa. 13 He said to his young man, Come, Let us draw near to one of the places and we will dwell in Gabaa or in Rama. 14 They passed by and went on and the sun went down upon them near to Gabaa, which is in Benjamin. 15 They turned aside for there to go in to dwell in Gabaa; and they went in and sat down in the street of the city and there was no one who conducted them into a house to dwell.

16 And behold, an old man came out of the field from his work in the evening; and the man was of mount Ephraim, He sojourned in Gabaa and the men of the place were sons of Benjamin. 17 He lifted up his eyes and saw a traveller in the street of the city; and the old man said to him: Where go you and where do you come from? 18 He said to him: We are passing by from Bethleem Juda to the sides of mount Ephraim: I am there and I went as far as Bethleem Juda and I am going home and there is no man to take me into his house. 19 Yet is there straw and food for our asses and bread and wine for me and my handmaid and the young man with your servants; there is no want of anything. 20 The old man said: Peace be to you; only be every want of your upon me, only do you by no means dwell in the street. 21 He brought him into his house and made room for his asses; and they washed their feet and ate and drank.

22 They were comforting their heart, when, behold, the men of the city, sons of transgressors, surrounded the house, knocking at the door: and they spoke to the old man the owner of the house, saying: Bring out the man who came into your house, that we may know him. 23 The master of the house came out to them and said: No, brothers, do not you wrong, I pray you, after this man has come into my house; do not you this folly. 24 Behold my daughter a virgin and the man's concubine: I will bring them out and humble you them and do to those who which is good in your eyes; but to this man do not this folly. 25 But the men would not consent to hearken to him; so the man laid hold of his concubine and brought her out to them; and they knew her and abused her all night till the morning, Let her go when the morning dawned.

26 The woman came toward morning and fell down at the door of the house where her husband was, until it was light. 27 And her husband rose up in the morning and opened the doors of the house and went forth to go on his journey; and, behold, the woman his concubine had fallen down by the doors of the house and her hands were on the threshold. 28 He said to her: Rise, Let us go; and she answered not, for she was dead: He took her upon his ass and went to his place.

29 He took his sword and laid hold of his concubine and divided her into twelve parts and sent them to every coast of Israel. 30 It was so, that every one who saw it said: Such a day as this has not happened nor has been seen from the day of the going up of the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt until this day: take you counsel concerning it and speak.

20:1 All the children of Israel went out and all the congregation was gathered as one man, from Dan even to Bersabee and in the land of Galaad, to the Lord at Massepha. 2 All the tribes of Israel stood before the Lord in the assembly of the people of God, four hundred thousand footmen that drew sword. 3 The children of Benjamin heard that the children of Israel were gone up to Massepha: and the children of Israel came and said: Tell us, where did this wickedness take place? 4 The Levite, the husband of the woman that was slain, answered and said: I and my concubine went to Gabaa of Benjamin to dwell. 5 The men of Gabaa rose up against me and surrounded the house by night against me; they wished to kill me and they have humbled my concubine and she is dead. 6 I laid hold of my concubine and divided her in pieces and sent the parts into every coast of the inheritance of the children of Israel; for they have accomplished lewdness and abomination in Israel. 7 Behold, all you are children of Israel; and consider and take counsel here among yourselves.

8 All the people rose up as one man, saying: No one of us shall return to his tent and no one of us shall return to his house. 9 And now this is the thing which shall be done in Gabaa; we will go up against it by lot. 10 Moreover, we will take ten men for a hundred for all the tribes of Israel and a hundred for a thousand and a thousand for ten thousand, to take provision, to cause them to come to Gabaa of Benjamin, to do to it according to all the abomination, which they accomplished in Israel. 11 All the men of Israel were gathered to the city as one man.

12 The tribes of Israel sent men through the whole tribe of Benjamin, saying: What is this wickedness that has been accomplished among you? 13 Now, then give up the men the sons of transgressors that are in Gabaa and we will put them to death and purge out wickedness from Israel: but the children of Benjamin consented not to hearken to the voice of their brothers the children of Israel. 14 The children of Benjamin were gathered from their cities to Gabaa, to go forth to fight with the children of Israel. 15 The children of Benjamin from their cities were numbered in that day, twenty-three thousand, every man drawing a sword, besides the inhabitants of Gabaa, who were numbered seven hundred chosen men of all the people, able to use both hands alike; 16 All these do you think sling with stones at a hair and not miss. 17 The men of Israel, exclusive of Benjamin, were numbered four hundred thousand men that drew sword; all these were men of war.

18 They arose and went up to Baethel and enquired of God: and the children of Israel said: Who shall go up for us first to fight with the children of Benjamin? The Lord said: Juda shall go up first as leader. 19 The children of Israel rose up in the morning and encamped against Gabaa.

20 They went out, all the men of Israel, to fight with Benjamin and engaged with them at Gabaa. 21 The sons of Benjamin went forth from Gabaa and they destroyed in Israel on that day two and twenty thousand men down to the ground.

22 The men of Israel strengthened themselves and again engaged in battle in the place where they had engaged on the first day. 23 The children of Israel went up and wept before the Lord till evening and enquired of the Lord, saying: Shall we again draw near to battle with our brothers the children of Benjamin? And the Lord said: Go up against them. 24 The children of Israel advanced against the children of Benjamin on the second day. 25 The children of Benjamin went forth to meet them from Gabaa on the second day and destroyed of the children of Israel yet further eighteen thousand men down to the ground: all these drew sword.

26 The children of Israel and all the people went up and came to Baethel; and they wept and sat there before the Lord; and they fasted on that day until evening and offered whole-burnt-offerings and perfect sacrifices, before the Lord, 27 for the ark of the Lord God was there in those days, 28 and Phinees the son of Eleazar the son of Aaron stood before it in those days; and the children of Israel enquired of the Lord, saying: Shall we yet again go forth to fight with our brothers the sons of Benjamin? And the Lord said: Go up, tomorrow I will give them into your hands. 29 The children of Israel set an ambush against Gabaa around it.

30 The children of Israel went up against the children of Benjamin on the third day and arrayed themselves against Gabaa as before. 31 The children of Benjamin went out to meet the people and were all drawn out of the city and began to strike and kill the people as before in the roads, of which one goes up to Baethel and one to Gabaa in the field, about thirty men of Israel. 32 The children of Benjamin said: They fall before us as at the first: but the children of Israel said: Let us flee and draw them out from the city into the roads; and they did so.

33 All the men rose up out of their places and engaged in Baal Thamar; and the liers in wait of Israel advanced from their place from Maraagabe. 34 And there came over against Gabaa ten thousand chosen men out of all Israel; and the fight was severe; and they knew not that evil was coming upon them. 35 The Lord stroke Benjamin before the children of Israel; and the children of Israel destroyed of Benjamin in that day a hundred and twenty-five thousand men: all these drew sword. 36 The children of Benjamin saw that they were stricken; and the men of Israel gave place to Benjamin, because they trusted in the ambushade which they had prepared against Gabaa.

37 When they retreated, then the liers in wait rose up and they moved toward Gabaa and the whole ambush came forth and they stroke the city with the edge of the sword.

38 The children of Israel had a signal of battle with the liers in wait, that they should send up a signal of smoke from the city. 39 The children of Israel saw that the liers in wait had seized Gabaa and they stood in line of battle; and Benjamin began to strike down wounded ones among the men of Israel about thirty men; for they said: Surely they fall again before us, as in the first battle.

40 The signal went up increasingly over the city as a pillar of smoke; and Benjamin looked behind him and behold the destruction of the city went up to heaven.

41 The men of Israel turned back and the men of Benjamin hasted, because they saw that evil had come upon them. 42 They turned to the way of the wilderness from before the children of Israel and fled: but the battle overtook them and they from the cities destroyed them in the midst of them.

43 They cut down Benjamin and pursued him from Nua closely till they came opposite Gabaa on the east. 44 And there fell of Benjamin eighteen thousand men: all these were men of might.

45 The rest turned and fled to the wilderness to the rock of Remmon; and the children of Israel picked off of them five thousand men; and the children of Israel went down after them as far as Gedan and they stroke of them two thousand men. 46 All that fell of Benjamin were twenty-five thousand men that drew sword in that day: all these were men of might. 47 The rest turned and fled to the wilderness to the rock of Remmon, even six hundred men; and they sojourned four months in the rock of Remmon.

48 The children of Israel returned to the children of Benjamin and stroke them with the edge of the sword from the city of Methla, even to the cattle and every thing that was found in all the cities: and they burnt with fire the cities they found.

21:1 Now, the children of Israel swore in Massephas, saying: No man of us shall give his daughter to Benjamin for a wife. 2 The people came to Baethel and sat there until evening before God: and they lifted up their voice and wept with a great weeping; 3 and said: Why then, O Lord God of Israel, has this come to pass, that today one tribe should be counted as missing from Israel? 4 It came to pass on the morrow that the people rose up early and built there an altar and offered up whole-burnt-offerings and peace offerings.

5 The children of Israel said: Who of all the tribes of Israel, went not up in the congregation to the Lord? For there was a great oath concerning those who went not up to the Lord to Massephas, saying: He shall surely be put to death.

6 The children of Israel relented toward Benjamin their brother and said: Today one tribe is cut off from Israel. 7 What shall we do for wives for the rest that remain? Whereas we have sworn by the Lord, not to give them of our daughters for wives. 8 They said: What one man is there of the tribes of Israel, who went not up to the Lord to Massephath? And, behold, no man came to the camp from Jabis Galaad to the assembly. 9 The people were numbered and there was not there a man from the inhabitants of Jabis Galaad.

10 The congregation sent to that place twelve thousand men of the strongest and they charged them, saying: Go you and strike the inhabitants of Jabis Galaad with the edge of the sword. 11 And this shall you do: every male and every woman that has known the lying with man you shall devote to destruction, but the virgins you shall save alive: and they did so.

12 They found among the inhabitants of Jabis Galaad four hundred young virgins, who had not known man by lying with him; and they brought them to Selom in the land of C'anaan.

13 All the congregation sent and spoke to the children of Benjamin in the rock Remmon and invited them to make peace. 14 And Benjamin returned to the children of Israel at that time and the children of Israel gave them the women whom they had save alive of the daughters of Jabis Galaad; and they were content.

15 The people relented for Benjamin, because the Lord had made a breach in the tribes of Israel.

16 The elders of the congregation said: What shall we do for wives for those who remain? For the women have been destroyed out of Benjamin. 17 They said: There must be an inheritance of those who are escaped of Benjamin; and so a tribe shall not be destroyed out of Israel. 18 For we shall not be able to give them wives of our daughters, because we swore among the children of Israel, saying: Cursed is he that gives a wife to Benjamin.

19 They said: Behold! now there is a feast of the Lord from year to year in Selom, which is on the north of Baethel, eastward on the way that goes up from Baethel to Sychem and from the south of Lebona. 20 They charged the children of Benjamin, saying: Go and lie in wait in the vineyards; 21 and you shall see; and Behold! if there come out the daughters of the inhabitants of Selom to dance in dances, then shall you go out of the vineyards and seize for yourselves every man a wife of the daughters of Selom and go you into the land of Benjamin. 22 It shall come to pass when their fathers or their brothers come to dispute with us, that we will say to them, Grant them freely to us, for we have not taken every man his wife in the battle: because you did not give to them according to the occasion, you transgressed.

23 The children of Benjamin did so; and they took wives according to their number from the dancers whom they seized: and they went and returned to their inheritance and built the cities and dwelt in them. 24 The children of Israel went for there at that time every man to his tribe and his kindred; and they went for there every man to his inheritance. 25 And in those days there was no king in Israel; every man did that which was right in his own sight.

1:1 It came to pass when the judges ruled, that there was a famine in the land: and a man went from Bethlehem Juda to sojourn in the land of Moab, he and his wife and his two sons. 2 The man's name was Elimelech and his wife's name Noemin and the names of his two sons Maalon and Chelaion, Ephrathites of Bethlehem of Juda: and they came to the land of Moab and remained there.

3 And Elimelech the husband of Noemin died; and she was left and her two sons. 4 They took to themselves wives, women of Moab; the name of the one was Orpha and the name of the second Ruth; and they dwelt there about ten years. 5 And both Maalon and Chelaion died also; and the woman was left of her husband and her two sons.

6 And she rose up and her two daughters-in-law and they returned out of the country of Moab, for she heard in the country of Moab that the Lord had visited his people to give them bread. 7 And she went forth out of the place where she was and her two daughters-in-law with her: and they went by the way to return to the land of Juda.

8 And Noemin said to her daughter-in-law, Go now, return each to the house of her mother: the Lord deal mercifully with you, as you have dealt with the dead and with me. 9 The Lord grant you that you may find rest each of you in the house of her husband: and she kissed them; and they lifted up their voice and wept. 10 They said to her: We will return with you to your people.

11 And Noemin said: Return now, my daughters; and why do you go with me? Have I yet sons in my womb to be your husbands? 12 Turn now, my daughters, for I am too old to be married: for I said: Suppose I were married and should bear sons; 13 would you wait for them till they should be grown? Or would you refrain from being married for their sakes? Not so, my daughters; for I am grieved for you, that the hand of the Lord has gone forth against me.

14 They lifted up their voice and wept again; and Orpha kissed her mother-in-law and returned to her people; but Ruth followed her.

15 And Noemin said to Ruth, Behold, your sister-in-law has returned to her people and to her gods; turn now you also after your sister-in-law. 16 And Ruth said: Entreat me not to leave you, or to return from following you; for wherever you go, I will go and wheresoever you dwellst, I will dwell; your people shall be my people and your God my God. 17 And wherever you diest, I will die and there will I be buried: the Lord do so to me and more also, if I leave you, for death only shall divide between me and you. 18 And Noemin seeing that she was determined to go with her, ceased to speak to her any more.

19 They went both of them until they came to Bethlehem: and it came to pass when they arrived at Bethlehem, that all the city rang with them and they said: Is this Noemin? 20 And she said to them: No, do not call me Noemin; call me 'Bitter,' for the Mighty One has dealt very bitterly with me. 21 I went out full and the Lord has brought me back empty: and why call you me Noemin, whereas the Lord has humbled me and the Mighty One has afflicted me?

22 So Noemin and Ruth the Moabitess, her daughter-in-law, returned from the country of Moab; and they came to Bethlehem in the beginning of barley harvest.

2:1 And Noemin had a friend an acquaintance of her husband and the man was a mighty man of the kindred of Elimelech and his name was Booz. 2 And Ruth the Moabitess said to Noemin, Let me go now to the field and I will glean among the ears behind the man with whoever I shall find favor: and she said to her: Go, daughter. 3 And she went; and came and gleaned in the field behind the reapers; and she happened by chance to come on a portion of the land of Booz, of the kindred of Elimelech.

4 And, behold, Booz came from Bethleem and said to the reapers, The Lord be with you: and they said to him: The Lord bless you. 5 And Booz said to his servant who was set over the reapers, Whose is this young women? 6 And his servant who was set over the reapers answered and said: It is the Moabitish young women who returned with Noemin out of the land of Moab. 7 And she said: I pray you, let me glean and gather among the sheaves after the reapers: and she came and stood from morning till evening and rested not even a little in the field.

8 And Booz said to Ruth, have you not heard, my daughter? Go not to glean in another field; and depart not you hence, join yourself here with my young womens. 9 Let your eyes be on the field where my men shall reap and you shall go after them: behold, I have charged the young men not to touch you: and when you shall thirst, then you shall go to the vessels and drink of that which the young men shall have drawn. 10 And she fell upon her face and did reverence to the ground and said to him: How is it that I have found grace in your eyes, that you should take notice of me, whereas I am a stranger?

11 And Booz answered and said to her: It has fully been told me how you have dealt with your mother-in-law after the death of your husband; and how you did leave your father and your mother and the land of your birth and came to a people whom you knew not before. 12 The Lord recompense your work; may a full reward be given you of the Lord God of Israel, to whom you have come to trust under his wings. 13 And she said: Let me find grace in your sight, my lord, because you have comforted me and because you have spoken kindly to your handmaid and behold, I shall be as one of your servants.

14 And Booz said to her: Now, it is time to eat; come to this place and you shall eat of the bread and you shall dip your morsel in the vinegar: and Ruth sat by the side of the reapers: and Booz handed her meal and she ate and was satisfied and left.

15 And she rose up to glean; and Booz charged his young men, saying: Let her even glean among the sheaves and reproach her not. 16 And do you by all means carry it for her and you shall surely let fall for her some of that which is heaped up; Let her eat and glean and rebuke her not. 17 So she gleaned in the field till evening and beat out that she had gleaned and it was about an ephah of barely.

18 And she took it up and went into the city: and her mother-in-law saw what she had gleaned and Ruth brought forth and gave to her the food which she had left from what she had been satisfied with. 19 And her mother-in-law said to her: Where have you gleaned today and where have you accomplished? Blessed be he that took notice of you. And Ruth told her mother-in-law where she had accomplished and said: The name of the man with whom I accomplished today is Booz. 20 And Noemin said to her daughter-in-law, Blessed is he of the Lord, because he has not failed in his mercy with the living and with the dead: and Noemin said to her: The man is near akin to us, he is one of our relations. 21 And Ruth said to her mother-in-law, yes, he said also to me, Keep close to my young womens, until the men shall have finished all my reaping.

22 And Noemin said to Ruth her daughter-in-law, It is well, daughter, that you went out with his young womens; thus they shall not meet you in another field. 23 And Ruth joined herself to the young womens of Booz to glean until they had finished the barley-harvest and the wheat-harvest.

3:1 And she dwelt with her mother-in-law: and Noemin her mother-in-law said to her: My daughter, shall I not seek rest for you, that it may be well with you? 2 And now is not Booz our kinsman, with whose young womens you wast? Behold, he winnows barley this night in the floor.

3 But do you wash and anoint yourself and put your raiment upon you and go up to the threshing-floor: do not discover yourself to the man until he has done eating and drinking. 4 It shall come to pass when he lies down, that you shall mark the place where he lies down and shall come and lift up the covering of his feet and shall lie down; He shall tell you what you shall do. 5 And Ruth said to her: All that you shall say, I will do.

6 And she went down to the threshing-floor and did according to all that her mother-in-law enjoined her. 7 And Booz ate and drank and his heart was glad, He came to lie down by the side of the heap of corn; and she came secretly and lifted up the covering of his feet. 8 It came to pass at midnight that the man was amazed and troubled and behold, a woman lay at his feet. 9 He said: Who are you? And she said: I am your handmaid Ruth; spread therefore your skirt over your handmaid, for you are a near relation. 10 And Booz said: Blessed be of the Lord God, my daughter, for you have made your latter kindness greater than the former, in that you followest not after young men, whether any be poor or rich. 11 And now fear not, my daughter, whatever you shall say I will do to you; for all the tribe of my people knows that you are a virtuous woman. 12 And now I am truly akin to you; nevertheless there is a kinsman nearer than I. 13 Dwell here for the night and it shall be in the morning, if he will do the part of a kinsman to you, well—let him do it: but if he will not do the part of a kinsman to you, I will do the kinsman's part to you, as the Lord lives; lie down till the morning.

14 And she lay at his feet until the morning; and she rose up before a man do you think know his neighbor; and Booz said: Let it not be known that a woman came into the floor.

15 He said to her: Bring the apron that is upon you: and she held it, He measured six measures of barley and put them upon her and she went into the city.

16 And Ruth went in to her mother-in-law and she said to her: My daughter! and Ruth told her all that the man had done to her. 17 And she said to her: He gave me these six measures of barley, for he said to me: Go not empty to your mother-in-law. 18 And she said: Sit still, my daughter, until you shall know how the matter will fall out; for the man will not rest until the matter be accomplished this day.

4:1 And Booz went up to the gate and sat there; and behold, the relative passed by, of whom Booz spoke: and Booz said to him: Turn aside, sit down here, such a one: He turned aside and sat down. 2 And Booz took ten men of the elders of the city and said: Sit you here; and they sat down.

3 And Booz said to the relative, The matter regards the portion of the field which was our brother Elimelech's which was given to Noemin, now returning out of the land of Moab; 4 and I said: I will inform you, saying: Buy it before those who sit and before the elders of my people: if you will redeem it, redeem it, but if you will not redeem it, tell me and I shall know; for there is no one beside you to do the office of a kinsman and I am after you: He said: I am here, I will redeem it. 5 And Booz said: In the day of your buying the field of the hand of Noemin and of Ruth the Moabitess the wife of the deceased, you must also buy her, so as to raise up the name of the dead upon his inheritance. 6 The kinsman said: I shall not be able to redeem it for myself, for fear that I mar my own inheritance; do you redeem my right for yourself, for I shall not be able to redeem it.

7 And this was in former time the ordinance in Israel for redemption and for a bargain, to confirm every word: A man loosed his shoe and gave it to his neighbor that redeemed his right; and this was a testimony in Israel. 8 The kinsman said to Booz, Buy my right for yourself: He took off his shoe and gave it to him.

9 And Booz said to the elders and to all the people, you are this day witnesses, that I have bought all that was Elimelech's and all that belonged to Chelaion and Maalon, of the hand of Noemin. 10 Moreover, I have bought for myself for a wife Ruth the Moabitess, the wife of Maalon, to raise up the name of the dead upon his inheritance; so the name of the dead shall not be destroyed from among his brothers and from the tribe of his people: you are this day witnesses.

11 All the people who were in the gate said: We are witnesses: and the elders said: The Lord make your wife who goes into your house, as Rachel and as Lia, who both together built the house of Israel and accomplished mightily in Ephratha and there shall be a name to you in Bethleem. 12 Let your house be as the house of Phares, whom Thamar bore to Juda, of the seed which the Lord shall give you of this handmaid.

13 And Booz took Ruth and she became his wife, He went in to her; and the Lord gave her conception and she bore a son. 14 The woman said to Noemin, Blessed is the Lord, who has not suffered a redeemer to fail you this day, even to make your name famous in Israel. 15 He shall be to you a restorer of your soul and one to cherish your old age; for your daughter-in-law which has loved you, who is better to you than seven sons, has born him. 16 And Noemin took the child and laid it in her bosom and became a nurse to it.

17 The neighbors gave it a name, saying: A son has been born to Noemin; and they called his name Obed; this is the father of Jessae the father of David. 18 These are the generations of Phares: Phares begot Esrom: 19 Esrom begot Aram; and Aram begot Aminadab. 20 And Aminadab begot Naasson; and Naasson begot Salmon. 21 And Salmon begot Booz; and Booz begot Obed. 22 And Obed begot Jessae; and Jessae begot David.

I KINGDOMS (1 SAMUEL)
(ΒΑΣΙΛΕΙΩΝ Α)

1:1 There was a man of Armathaim Siphah, of mount Ephraim and his name was Helkana, a son of Jeremeel the son of Elias the son of Thoke, in Nasib Ephraim. 2 He had two wives; the name of the one was Anna and the name of the second Phennana. And Phennana had children, but Anna had no child.

3 The man went up from year to year from his city, from Armathaim, to worship and sacrifice to the Lord God of Sabaoth at Selom: and there were Heli and his two sons Ophni and Phinees, the priests of the Lord.

4 The day came and Helkana sacrificed and gave portions to his wife Phennana and her children. 5 And to Anna he gave a prime portion, because she had no child, only Helkana loved Anna more than the other; but the Lord had closed her womb. 6 For the Lord gave her no child in her affliction and according to the despondency of her affliction; and she was dispirited on this account, that the Lord shut up her womb so as not to give her a child. 7 So she did year by year, in going up to the house of the Lord; and she was dispirited and wept and did not eat.

8 Helkana her husband said to her: Anna: and she said to him: Here am I, my lord: He said to her: What ails you that you weep? And why do you not eat? And why do your heart strike you? Am I not better to you than ten children?

9 So Anna rose up after they had eaten in Selom and stood before the Lord: and Heli the priest was on a seat by the threshold of the temple of the Lord.

10 And she was very much grieved in spirit and prayed to the Lord and wept abundantly. 11 And she vowed a vow to the Lord, saying: O Lord God of Sabaoth, if you wilt indeed look upon the humiliation of your handmaid and remember me and give to your handmaid a man-child, then will I indeed dedicate him to you till the day of his death; He shall drink no wine nor strong drink and no razor shall come upon his head.

12 It came to pass, while she was long praying before the Lord, that Heli the priest marked her mouth. 13 And she was speaking in her heart and her lips moved, but her voice was not heard: and Heli accounted her a drunk woman. 14 The servant of Heli said to her: How long will you be drunk? Take away your wine from you and go out from the presence of the Lord. 15 And Anna answered and said: No, my lord, I live in a hard day and I have not drunk wine or strong drink and I pour out my soul before the Lord. 16 Count not your handmaid for a repulsive woman, for because of the abundance of my importunity I have continued my prayer until now. 17 Heli answered her: Go in peace: the God of Israel give you all your petition, which you have asked of him. 18 And she said: your handmaid has found favor in your eyes: and the woman went her way and entered into her lodging and ate and drank with her husband and her countenance was no more sad.

19 They rose early in the morning, worshiped the Lord and then went their way: Helkana went into his house at Armathaim and knew his wife Anna; and the Lord remembered her and she conceived. 20 It came to pass when the time had come, that she brought forth a son and called his name Samuel and said: Because I asked him of the Lord God of Sabaoth. 21 The man Helkana and all his house went up to offer in Selom the yearly sacrifice and his vows and all the tithes of his land. 22 However, Anna did not go up with him, for she said to her husband, I will not go up until the child goes up when I have weaned him, He shall be presented before the Lord, He shall abide there continually. 23 And Helkana her husband said to her: Do that which is good in your eyes, abide still until you shall have weaned him; but may the Lord establish that which comes out of your mouth: and the woman tarried and suckled her son until she had weaned him.

24 And she went up with him to Selom with a calf of three years old and loaves and an ephah of fine flour and a bottle of wine: and she entered into the house of the Lord in Selom and the child with them. 25 They brought him before the Lord; and his father killed his offering which he offered from year to year to the Lord; He brought near the child and killed the calf; and Anna the mother of the child brought him to Heli. 26 And she said: I pray you, my lord, as your soul lives, I am the woman that stood in your presence with you while praying to the Lord. 27 For this child I prayed; and the Lord has given me my request that I asked of him. 28 I lend him to the Lord all his days that he lives, a loan to the Lord: and she said:

2:1 My heart is established in the Lord, my horn is exalted in my God; my mouth is enlarged over my enemies, I have rejoiced in your salvation. 2 For there is none holy as the Lord and there is none righteous as our God; there is none holy besides you. 3 Boast not and utter not high things; let not high-sounding words come out of your mouth, for the Lord is a God of knowledge and God prepares his own designs. 4 The bow of the mighty has become feeble and the weak have girded themselves with strength. 5 Those who were full of bread are brought low; and the hungry have forsaken the land; for the barren has born seven and she that abounded in children has become feeble. 6 The Lord kills and makes alive; he brings down to the grave and brings up. 7 The Lord makes poor and makes rich; he brings low and lifts up. 8 He lifts up the poor from the earth and raises the needy from the dunghill; to seat him with the princes of the people and causing them to inherit the throne of glory: 9 granting his petition to him that prays; He blesses the years of the righteous, for by strength cannot man prevail. 10 The Lord will weaken his adversary; the Lord is holy. Let not the wise man boast in his wisdom, nor let the mighty man boast in his strength, Let not the rich man boast in his wealth; but let him that boasts boast in this, to understand and know the Lord and to execute judgment and justice in the midst of the earth. The Lord has gone up to the heavens and has thundered: he will judge the extremities of the earth, He gives strength to our kings and will exalt the horn of his Christ.

And she left him there before the Lord,¹¹ and departed to Armathaim: and the child ministered in the presence of the Lord before Heli the priest. 12 The sons of Heli the priest were evil sons, not knowing the Lord. 13 The priest's claim from every one of the people that sacrificed was this: the servant of the priest came when the flesh was in seething and a flesh-hook of three teeth was in his hand. 14 He struck it into the great caldron, or into the brazen vessel, or into the pot and whatever came up with the flesh-hook, the priest took for himself: so they did to all Israel that came to sacrifice to the Lord in Selom. 15 And before the fat was burnt for a sweet savour, the servant of the priest would come and say to the man that sacrificed, Give flesh to roast for the priest and I will by no means take of you soaked flesh out of the caldron. 16 If the man that sacrificed said: First let the fat be burned, as it is fit and take for yourself of all things which your soul desires: then he would say, No, for you shall give it me now; and if not I will take it by force. 17 So the sin of the young men was very great before the Lord, for they set at nought the offering of the Lord.

18 And Samuel ministered before the Lord, a child girded with a linen ephod. 19 And his mother made him a little doublet and brought it to him from year to year, in her going up in company with her husband to offer the yearly sacrifice. 20 And Heli blessed Helcana and his wife, saying The Lord recompense to you seed of this woman, in return for the loan which you have lent to the Lord: and the man returned to his place.

21 The Lord visited Anna and she bore yet three sons and two daughters. The child Samuel grew before the Lord.

22 And Heli was very old, He heard what his sons did to the children of Israel. 23 He said to them: Why do you according to this thing, which I hear from the mouth of all the people of the Lord? 24 Nay my sons, for the report which I hear is not good; do not so, for the reports which I hear are not good, so that the people do not serve God. 25 If a man should at all sin against another, then shall they pray for him to the Lord; but if a man sin against the Lord, who shall entreat for him? But they hearkened not to the voice of their father, because the Lord would by all means destroy them. 26 The child Samuel advanced and was in favor with God and with men.

27 And a man of God came to Heli and said: Thus says the Lord, I plainly revealed myself to the house of your father when they were servants in Egypt to the house of Pharaoh. 28 I chose the house of your father out of all the tribes of Israel to minister to me in the priest's office, to go up to my altar and to burn incense and to wear an ephod. I gave to the house of your father all the offerings by fire of the children of Israel for food. 29 And why then have you looked upon my incense-offering and my meat-offering with a shameless eye and have honored your sons above me, so that they should bless themselves with the first-fruits of every sacrifice of Israel before me? 30 Therefore thus says the Lord God of Israel, I said: your house and the house of your father shall pass before me for ever: but now the Lord says, That be far from me; for I will only honor those who honor me, He that sets me at nought shall be despised.

31 Behold, the days come when I will destroy your seed and the seed of your father's house. 32 You shall not have an old man in my house for ever. 33 If I do not destroy a man of your from my altar, it shall be that his eyes may fail and his soul may perish; and every one that remains in your house shall fall by the sword of men.

34 And this which shall come upon your two sons Ophni and Phinees shall be a sign to you; in one day they shall both die. 35 I will raise up to myself a faithful priest, who shall do all that is in my heart and in my soul; and I will build him a sure house, He shall walk before my anointed¹ for ever. 36 It shall come to pass that he that survives in your house, shall come to do obeisance² before him for a little piece of silver, saying: Put me into one of your priest's offices to eat bread.

3:1 The child Samuel ministered to the Lord before Heli the priest: and the word of the Lord was precious in those days, there was no distinct vision. 2 It came to pass at that time that Heli was sleeping in his place; and his eyes began to fail and do you think not see. 3 The lamp of God was burning before it was trimmed and Samuel slept in the temple, where was the ark of God. 4 The Lord called, Samuel, Samuel; He said: Behold, here am I. 5 He ran to Heli and said: Here am I, for you did call me: He said: I did not call you; return, go to sleep; He returned and went to sleep. 6 The Lord called again, Samuel, Samuel: He went to Heli the second time and said: Behold here am I, for you did call me: He said: I called you not; return, go to sleep. 7 It was before Samuel knew the Lord and before the word of the Lord was revealed to him. 8 The Lord called Samuel again for the third time: He arose and went to Heli and said: Behold, I am here, for you did call me: and Heli perceived that the Lord had called the child. 9 He said: Return, child, go to sleep; and it shall come to pass if he shall call you, that you shall say, Speak for your servant hears: and Samuel went and lay down in his place. 10 The Lord came and stood and called him as before: and Samuel said: Speak, for your servant hears.

11 The Lord said to Samuel, Behold, I execute my words in Israel; whoever hears them, both his ears shall tingle. 12 In that day, I will raise up against Heli all things that I have said against his house; I will begin and I will make an end. 13 I have told him that I will be avenged on his house perpetually for the iniquities of his sons, because his sons spoke evil against God, He did not admonish them. 14 It shall not go on so; I have sworn to the house of Eli, the iniquity of the house of Eli shall not be atoned for with incense or sacrifices for ever.

15 And Samuel slept till morning and rose early in the morning and opened the doors of the house of the Lord; and Samuel feared to tell Heli the vision. 16 And Heli said to Samuel, Samuel, my son; He said: Behold, here am I. 17 He said: What was the word that was spoken to you? I pray you hide it not from me: may God do these things to you and more also, if you hide from me any thing of all the words that were spoken to you in your ears. 18 And Samuel reported all the words and hid them not from him. And Heli said: He is the Lord, he shall do that which is good in his sight.

19 And Samuel grew and the Lord was with him and there did not fall one of his words to the ground. 20 All Israel knew from Dan even to Bersabee, that Samuel was faithful as a prophet to the Lord. 21 The Lord manifested himself again in Selom, for the Lord revealed himself to Samuel; and Samuel was accredited to all Israel as a prophet to the Lord from one end of the land to the other: and Heli was very old and his sons kept advancing in wickedness and their way was evil before the Lord.

4:1 It came to pass in those days that the Philistines gathered themselves together against Israel to war; and Israel went out to meet them and encamped at Abenezar and the Philistines encamped in Aphec. 2 The Philistines prepare to fight with Israel and the battle was turned against them; and the men of Israel fell before the Philistines and there were stricken in the battle in the field four thousand men.

3 The people came to the camp and the elders of Israel said: Why has the Lord caused us to fall this day before the Philistines? Let us take the ark of our God out of Selom, Let it proceed from the midst of us and it shall save us from the hand of our enemies.

4 The people sent to Selom and they take for there the ark of the Lord who dwells between the cherubim: and both the sons of Heli, Ophni and Phinees, were with the ark. 5 It came to pass when the ark of the Lord entered into the camp, that all Israel cried out with a loud voice and the earth resounded. 6 The Philistines heard the cry and the Philistines said: What is this great cry in the camp of the Hebrews: and they understood that the ark of the Lord had come into the camp. 7 The Philistines feared and said: These are the Gods that have come to them into the camp. 8 Woe to us, O Lord, deliver us today for such a thing has not happened beforetime: woe to us, who shall deliver us out of the hand of these mighty Gods? These are the Gods that stroke Egypt with every plague and in the wilderness. 9 Strengthen yourselves and behave yourselves like men, O you Philistines, that you may not serve the Hebrews as they have served us, but be men and fight with them.

10 They fought with them; and the men of Israel fall and they fled every man to his ten; and there was a very great slaughter; and there fell of Israel thirty thousand fighting men. 11 The ark of God was taken and both the sons of Heli, Ophni and Phinees, died.

12 And there ran a man of Benjamin out of the battle, He came to Selom on that day: and his clothes were rent and earth was upon his head. 13 He came, and behold, Heli was upon the seat by the gate looking along the way, for his heart was greatly alarmed for the ark of God: and the man entered into the city to bring tidings; and the city cried out. 14 And Heli heard the sound of the cry and said: What is the voice of this cry? And the men hastened and went in and reported to Heli. 15 Now, Heli was ninety years old and his eyes were fixed, He saw not. 16 And Heli said to those who stood around him, What is the voice of this sound? The man hastened and advanced to Heli and said to him: I am he that has come out of the camp and I have fled from the battle today: and Heli said: What is the even, my son? 17 The young man answered and said: The men of Israel fled from the face of the Philistines and there was a great slaughter among the people and both your sons are dead and the ark of God is taken. 18 It came to pass when he mentioned the ark of God, that he fell from the seat backward near the gate and his back was broken, He died, for he was an old man and heavy: He judged Israel twenty years.

19 And his daughter-in-law the wife of Phinees was with child, about to bring forth; and she heard the tidings, that the ark of God was taken and that her father-in-law and her husband were dead; and she wept and was delivered, for her pains came upon her. 20 And in her time she was at the point of death; and the women that stood by her, said to her: Fear not, for you have born a son: but she answered not and her heart did not regard it. 21 And she called the child Uaebarchaboth, because of the ark of God and because of her father-in-law and because of her husband. 22 They said: The glory of Israel is departed, since the ark of the Lord is taken.

5:1 The Philistines took the ark of God and brought it from Abenezzer to Azotus. 2 The Philistines took the ark of the Lord and brought it into the house of Dagon and set it by Dagon. 3 The people of Azotus rose early and entered into the house of Dagon; and looked and behold, Dagon had fallen on his face before the ark of the Lord: and they lifted up Dagon and set him in his place. The hand of the Lord was heavy upon the Azotians, He plagued them, He stroke them in their secret parts, Azotus and her coasts. 4 It came to pass when they rose early in the morning, behold, Dagon had fallen on his face before the ark of the covenant of the Lord; and the head of Dagon and both the palms of his hands were cut off each before the threshold and both the wrists of his hands had fallen on the floor of the porch; only the stump of Dagon was left. 5 Therefore the priests of Dagon and every one that enters into the house of Dagon, do not tread upon the threshold of the house of Dagon in Azotus until this day, for they step over.

6 The hand of the Lord was heavy upon Azotus, He brought evil upon them and it burst out upon them into the ships and mice sprang up in the midst of their country and there was a great and indiscriminate mortality in the city. 7 The men of Azotus saw that it was so and they said: The ark of the God of Israel shall not abide with us, for his hand is heavy upon us and upon Dagon our god. 8 They send and gather the lords of the Philistines to them and say, What shall we do to the ark of the God of Israel? And the Gittites say, Let the ark of God come over to us; and the ark of the God of Israel came to Geth.

9 It came to pass after it went about to Geth, that the hand of the Lord comes upon the city, a very great confusion; He stroke the men of the city small and great and stroke them in their secret parts: and the Gittites made to themselves images of emerods.

10 They send away the ark of God to Ascalon; and it came to pass when the ark of God went into Ascalon, that the men of Ascalon cried out, saying: Why have you brought back the ark of the God of Israel to us, to kill us and our people? 11 They send and gather the lords of the Philistines and they said: Send away the ark of the God of Israel, Let it dwell in its place; Let it not kill us and our people. 12 For there was a very great confusion in all the city when the ark of the God of Israel entered there; and those, who lived and died not were stricken with emerods; and the cry of the city went up to heaven.

6:1 The ark was seven months in the country of the Philistines and their land brought forth swarms of mice. 2 The Philistines call their priests and their prophets and their enchanters, saying: What shall we do to the ark of the Lord? Teach us by which we shall send it away to its place. 3 They said: If you send away the ark of the covenant of the Lord God of Israel, do not on any account send it away empty, but by all means render to it an offering for the plague; and then shall you be healed and an atonement shall be made for you: should not his hand be thus stayed from off you? 4 They say, What is the offering for the plague which we shall return to it? And they said: 5 According to the number of the lords of the Philistines, five golden emerods, for the plague was on you and on your rulers and on the people; and golden mice, the likeness of the mice that destroy your land: and you shall give glory to the Lord, that he may lighten his hand from off you and from off your gods and from off your land. 6 And why do you harden your hearts, as Egypt and Pharaoh hardened their hearts? Was it not so when he mocked them, that they let the people go and they departed?

7 And now take wood and make a new wagon and take two cows, that have calved for the first time, without their calves; and do you yoke the cows to the wagon and lead away the calves from behind them home. 8 You shall take the ark and put it on the wagon; and you shall restore to it the golden articles for the trespass-offering in a coffer by the side of it: and you shall let it go and sent it away and you shall depart. 9 You shall see, if it shall go the way of its coasts along by Baethsamys, he has brought upon us this great affliction; and if not, then shall we know that his hand has not touched us, but this is a chance which has happened to us.

10 The Philistines did so; and they took two cows that had calved for the first time and yoked them to the waggon and shut up their calves at home. 11 They set the ark of the Lord and the coffer and the golden mice, on the waggon. 12 The cows went straight on the way to the way of Baethsamys, they went along one track; and labored and turned not aside to the right hand or to the left and the lords of the Philistines went after it as far as the coasts of Baethsamys. 13 The men of Baethsamys were reaping the wheat harvest in the valley; and they lifted up their eyes and saw the ark of the Lord and rejoiced to meet it. 14 The waggon entered into the field of Osee, which was in Baethsamys and they set there by it a great stone; and they split the wood of the waggon and offered up the cows for a whole-burnt-offering to the Lord. 15 The Levites brought up the ark of the Lord and the coffer with it and the golden articles upon it and placed them on the great stone and the men of Baethsamys offered whole-burnt-offerings and meat offerings on that day to the Lord. 16 The five lords of the Philistines saw and returned to Ascalon in that day.

17 These are the golden emerods which the lords of the Philistines gave as a trespass-offering to the Lord; for Azotus one, for Gaza one, for Ascalon one, for Geth one, for Accaron one. 18 The golden mice according to the number of all the cities of the Philistines, belonging to the five lords, from the fenced city to the village of the Pherezite and to the great stone, on which they placed the ark of the covenant of the Lord, that was in the field of Osee the Baethsamysite.

19 The sons of Jechonias were not pleased with the men of Baethsamys, because they saw the ark of the Lord; and the Lord stroke among them seventy men and fifty thousand men: and the people mourned, because the Lord had inflicted on the people, a very great plague. 20 The men of Baethsamys said: Who shall be able to pass before this holy Lord God? And to whom shall the ark of the Lord go up from us?

21 They send messengers to the inhabitants of Cariathiarim, saying: The Philistines have brought back the ark of the Lord, go down and take it home to yourselves.

7:1 The men of Cariathiarim come and bring up the ark of the covenant of the Lord: and they bring it into the house of Aminadab in the hill; and they sanctified Eleazar his son to keep the ark of the covenant of the Lord.

2 It came to pass from the time that the ark was in Cariathiarim, the days were multiplied and the time was twenty years; and all the house of Israel looked after the Lord. 3 And Samuel spoke to all the house of Israel, saying: If you do with all your heart return to the Lord, take away the strange gods from the midst of you and the groves and prepare your hearts to serve the Lord and serve him only; He shall deliver you from the hand of the Philistines. 4 The children of Israel took away Baalim and the groves of Astaroth and served the Lord only.

5 And Samuel said: Gather all Israel to Massephas and I will pray for you to the Lord. 6 They were gathered together to Massephas and they drew water and poured it out upon the earth before the Lord. They fasted on that day and said: We have sinned before the Lord. And Samuel judged the children of Israel in Massephath.

7 The Philistines heard that all the children of Israel were gathered together to Massephath: and the lords of the Philistines went up against Israel: and the children of Israel heard and they feared before the Philistines. 8 The children of Israel said to Samuel, Cease not to cry to the Lord your God for us, He shall save us out of the hand of the Philistines. 9 And Samuel took a sucking lamb and offered it up as a whole-burnt-offering with all the people to the Lord: and Samuel cried to the Lord for Israel and the Lord heard him. 10 And Samuel was offering the whole-burnt-offering; and the Philistines drew near to war against Israel; and the Lord thundered with a mighty sound in that day upon the Philistines and they were confounded and overthrown before Israel. 11 The men of Israel went forth out of Massephas and pursued the Philistines and stroke them to the parts under Baethchor.

12 And Samuel took a stone and set it up between Massephath and the old city; He called the name of it Abenezzer, stone of the helper; He said: To this place has the Lord helped us.

13 So the Lord humbled the Philistines and they did not anymore come into the border of Israel; and the hand of the Lord was against the Philistines all the days of Samuel. 14 The cities which the Philistines took from the children of Israel were restored; and they restored them to Israel from Ascalon to Azob: and they took the coast of Israel out of the hand of the Philistines; and there was peace between Israel and the Amorite.

15 And Samuel judged Israel all the days of his life. 16 He went year by year and went round Baethel and Galgala and Massephath; He judged Israel in all these consecrated places. 17 And his return was to Armathaim, because there was his house; and there he judged Israel and built there an altar to the Lord.

8:1 It came to pass when Samuel was old, that he made his sons judges over Israel. 2 These are the names of his sons; Joel the first-born and the name of the second Abia, judges in Bersabee. 3 And his sons did not walk in his way; and they turned aside after gain and took gifts and perverted judgments.

4 The men of Israel gather themselves together and come to Armathaim to Samuel, 5 and they said to him: Behold, you are grown old and your sons walk not in your way; and now set over us a king to judge us, as also the other nations have.

6 The thing was evil in the eyes of Samuel when they said: Give us a king to judge us: and Samuel prayed to the Lord. 7 The Lord said to Samuel, Hear the voice of the people, in whatever they shall say to you; for they have not rejected you, but they have rejected me from reigning over them. 8 According to all their doings which they have done to me, from the day that I brought them out of Egypt until this day, even as they have deserted me and served other gods, so they do also to you. 9 And now hearken to their voice; only you shall solemnly testify to them and you shall describe to them the manner of the king who shall reign over them.

10 And Samuel spoke every word of the Lord to the people who asked of him a king. 11 He said: This shall be the manner of the king that shall rule over you: he shall take your sons and put them in his chariots and among his horsemen and running before his chariots, 12 and his manner shall be to make them to himself captains of hundreds and captains of thousands; and to reap his harvest and gather his vintage and prepare his instruments of war and the implements of his chariots.

13 He will take your daughters to be perfumers and cooks and bakers. 14 He will take your fields and your vineyards and your good oliveyards and give them to his servants. 15 He will take the tithe of your seeds and your vineyards and give it to his eunuchs and to his servants. 16 He will take your servants and your handmaids and your good herds and your asses and will take the tenth of them for his works. 17 He will tithe your flocks; and you shall be his servants. 18 You shall cry out in that day because of your king whom you have chosen to yourselves and the Lord shall not hear you in those days, because you have chosen to yourselves a king. 19 But the people would not hearken to Samuel; and they said to him: No, but there shall be a king over us. 20 An we also will be like all the nations; and our king shall judge us and shall go out before us and fight our battles. 21 And Samuel heard all the words of the people and spoke them in the ears of the Lord. 22 The Lord said to Samuel, Hearken to their voice and appoint them a king. And Samuel said to the men of Israel, Let each man depart to his city.

9:1 And there was a man of the sons of Benjamin and his name was Kis, the son of Abiel, the son of Jared, the son of Bachir, the son of Aphec, the son of a Benjamite, a man of might. 2 And this man had a son and his name was Saul, of great stature, a goodly man; and there was not among the sons of Israel a goodlier than he, high above all the people from his shoulders and upward.

3 The donkeys of Kis the father of Saul were lost; and Kis said to Saul his son, Take with you one of the young men and arise and go seek the asses.

4 They went through mount Ephraim and they went through the land of Selcha and found them not: and they passed through the land of Segalim and they were not there: and they passed through the land of Jamin and found them not. 5 When they came to Siph, then Saul said to his young man that was with him, Come Let us return, for fear that my father leave the asses and take care for us. 6 The young man said to him: Behold now, there is a man of God in this city and the man is of high repute; all that he shall speak will surely come to pass: now then let us go, that he may tell us our way on which we have set out. 7 And Saul said to his young man that was with him, Behold, then, we will go; but what shall we bring the man of God? For the loaves are spent out of our vessels and we have nothing more with us that belongs to us to bring to the man of God. 8 The young man answered Saul again and said: Behold, there is found in my hand a fourth part of a shekel of silver; and you shall give it to the man of God, He shall tell us our way. 9 Now, before time in Israel every one in going to enquire of God said: Come Let us go to the seer; for the people beforetime called the prophet, the seer. 10 And Saul said to his servant, Well said: come Let us go: and they went to the city where the man of God was.

11 As they went up the ascent to the city, they find young womens come out to draw water and they say to them, Is the seer here? 12 The virgins answered them and they say to them, He is: behold, he is before you: now he is coming to the city, because of the day, for today there is a sacrifice for the people in Bama. 13 As soon as you shall enter into the city, so shall you find him in the city, before he goes up to Bama to eat; for the people will not eat until he comes in, for he blesses the sacrifice and afterwards the guests eat; now then go up, for you shall find him because of the holiday. 14 They go up to the city; and as they were entering into the midst of the city, behold, Samuel came out to meet them, to go up to Bama.

15 The Lord uncovered the ear of Samuel one day before Saul came to him, saying: 16 At this time tomorrow I will send to you a man out of the land of Benjamin and you shall anoint him to be ruler over my people Israel, He shall save my people out of the hand of the Philistines; for I have looked upon the humiliation of my people, for their cry has come to me. 17 And Samuel looked upon Saul and the Lord answered him, Behold the man of whom I spoke to you, this one shall rule over my people.

18 And Saul drew near to Samuel into the midst of the city and said: Tell me now which is the house of the seer? 19 And Samuel answered Saul and said: I am he: go up before me to Bama and eat with me today and I will send you away in the morning and I will tell you all that is in your heart. 20 And concerning your donkeys that have been lost now these three days, care not for them, for they are found. And to whom does the excellency of Israel belong? Does it not to you and to your father's house? 21 And Saul answered and said: Am not I the son of a Benjamite, the least tribe of the people of Israel? And of the least family of the whole tribe of Benjamin? And why have you spoken to me according to this word?

22 And Samuel took Saul and his servant and brought them to the inn and set them there a place among the chief of those who were called, about seventy men. 23 And Samuel said to the cook, Give me the portion which I gave you, which I told you to set by you. 24 Now, the cook had boiled the shoulder, He set it before Saul; and Samuel said to Saul, Behold that which is left: set before you, an eat; for it is set you for a testimony in preference to the others; take of it: and Saul ate with Samuel on that day.

25 He went down from Bama into the city; and they prepared a lodging for Saul on the roof, He lay down.

26 An it came to pass when the morning dawned, that Samuel called Saul on the roof, saying: Rise up and I will dismiss you. And Saul arose, He and Samuel went out. 27 As they went down to a part of the city, Samuel said to Saul, Speak to the young man, Let him pass on before us; and do you stand as today and hearken to the word of God.

10:1 And Samuel took a vial of oil and poured it on his head and kissed him and said to him: Has not the Lord anointed you for a ruler over his people, over Israel? And you shall rule among the people of the Lord and you shall save them out of the hand of their enemies; and this shall be the sign to you that the Lord has anointed you for a ruler over his inheritance. 2 As soon as you shall have departed this day from me, you shall find two men by the burial-place of Rachel on the mount of Benjamin, exulting greatly; and they shall say to you, The donkeys are found which you went to seek; and, behold, your father has given up the matter of the asses, He is anxious for you, saying: What shall I do for my son? 3 You shall depart for there and shall go beyond that as far as the oak of Thabor and you shall find there three men going up to God to Baethel, one bearing three kids and another bearing three vessels of bread and another bearing a bottle of wine. 4 They shall ask you how you do and shall give you two presents of bread and you shall receive them of their hand. 5 And afterward you shall go to the hill of God, where is the encampment of the Philistines; there is Nasib the Philistine: an it shall come to pass when you shall have entered into the city, that you shall meet a band of prophets coming down from the Bama; and before them will be lutes and a drum and a pipe and a harp and they shall prophesy. 6 The Spirit of the Lord shall come upon you and you shall prophesy with them and shall be turned into another man. 7 It shall come to pass when these signs shall come upon you, —then do you whatsoever your hand shall find, because God is with you. 8 You shall go down in front of Galgal and behold, I come down to you to offer a whole-burnt-offering and peace-offerings: seven days shall you wait until I shall come to you and I will make known to you what you shall do.

9 It came to pass when he turned his back to depart from Samuel, God gave him another heart; and all these signs came to pass in that day. 10 He comes for there to the hill and behold a band of prophets opposite to him; and the Spirit of God came upon him, He prophesied in the midst of them. 11 All that had known him before came and saw and behold, he was in the midst of the prophets: and the people said every one to his neighbor, What is this that has happened to the son of Kis? Is Saul also among the prophets? 12 And one of them answered and said: Who is his father? And therefore it became a proverb, Is Saul also among the prophets? 13 He ceased prophesying and comes to the hill.

14 And his kinsman said to him and to his servant, Where went you? And they said: To seek the asses; and we saw that they were lost and we went in to Samuel. 15 And his kinsman said to Saul, Tell me, I pray you, What did Samuel say to you? 16 And Saul said to his kinsman, he truly told me that the donkeys were found. But the matter of the kingdom he told him not.

17 And Samuel summoned all the people before the Lord to Massephath. 18 He said to the children of Israel, Thus has the Lord God of Israel spoken, saying: I brought up the children of Israel out of Egypt and I rescued you out of the hand of Pharaoh king of Egypt and out of all the kingdoms that afflicted you. 19 You have this day rejected God, who is himself your Deliverer out of all your evils and afflictions; and you said: No, but you shall set a king over us: and now stand before the Lord according to your tribes and according to your families.

20 And Samuel brought near all the tribes of Israel and the tribe of Benjamin is taken by lot. 21 He brings near the tribe of Benjamin by families and the family of Mattari is taken by lot: and they bring near the family of Mattari, man by man and Saul the son of Kis is taken; He sought him, but he was not found.

22 And Samuel asked yet again of the Lord, Will the man come to this place? And the Lord said: Behold, he is hid among the stuff. 23 He ran and took him for there, He set him in the midst of the people; He was higher than all the people by his shoulders and upwards.

24 And Samuel said to all the people, Have you seen whom the Lord has chosen to himself, that there is none like to him among you all? All the people took notice and said: Let the king live! 25 And Samuel told the people the manner of the king and wrote it in a book and set it before the Lord: and Samuel sent away all the people and each went to his place.

26 And Saul departed to his house to Gabaa; and there went with Saul mighty men whose hearts God had touched. 27 But evil men said: Who is this man that shall save us? And they despised him and brought him no gifts.

11:1 It came to pass about a month after this, that Naas the Ammanite went up and encamped against Jabis Galaad: and all the men of Jabis said to Naas the Ammanite, Make a covenant with us and we will serve you. 2 Naas the Ammanite said to them: On these terms will I make a covenant with you, that I should put out all your right eyes and I will lay a reproach upon Israel. 3 The men of Jabis say to him, Allow us seven days and we will send messengers into all the coasts of Israel:

if there should be no one to deliver us, we will come out to you.

4 The messengers came to Gabaa to Saul and they speak the words into the ears of the people; and all the people lifted up their voice and wept. 5 And, behold, Saul came after the early morning out of the field: and Saul said: Why does the people weep? And they tell him the words of the men of Jabis. 6 The Spirit of the Lord came upon Saul when he heard these words and his anger was greatly kindled against them. 7 He took two cows and cut them in pieces and sent them into all the coasts of Israel by the hand of messengers, saying: Whoever comes not forth after Saul and after Samuel, so shall they do to his oxen: and a transport from the Lord came upon the people of Israel and they came out to battle as one man. 8 He reviews them at Bezek in Bama, every man of Israel six hundred thousand and the men of Juda seventy thousand.

9 He said to the messengers that came, Thus shall you say to the men of Jabis, Tomorrow you shall have deliverance when the sun is hot; and the messengers came to the city and told the men of Jabis and they rejoiced. 10 The men of Jabis said to Naas the Ammanite, Tomorrow we will come forth to you and you shall do to us what seems good in your sight.

11 It came to pass on the morrow, that Saul divided the people into three companies and they go into the midst of the camp in the morning watch and they stroke the children of Ammon until the day was hot; at it came to pass that those who were left were scattered and there were not left among them two together.

12 The people said to Samuel, Who has said that Saul shall not reign over us? Give up the men and we will put them to death. 13 And Saul said: No man shall die this day, for today the Lord has accomplished deliverance in Israel.

14 And Samuel spoke to the people, saying: Let us go to Galgala and there renew the kingdom. 15 All the people went to Galgala and Samuel anointed Saul there to be king before the Lord in Galgala and there he offered meat-offerings and peace-offerings before the Lord: and Samuel and all Israel rejoiced exceedingly.

12:1 And Samuel said to all Israel, Behold, I have listened to your voice in all things that you have said to me and I have set a king over you. 2 And now, behold, the king goes before you; and I have grown old and shall rest; and, behold, my sons are among you; and, behold, I have gone about before you from my youth to this day. 3 Behold, here am I, answer against me before the Lord and before his anointed: whose calf have I taken? Or whose ass have I taken? Or whom of you have I oppressed? Or from whose hand have I taken a bribe, even to a sandal? Bear witness against me and I will make restitution to you. 4 They said to Samuel, You have not injured us and you have not oppressed us; and you have not afflicted us and you have not taken anything from any one's hand.

5 And Samuel said to the people, The Lord is witness among you and his anointed is witness this day, that you have not found anything in my hand: and they said: He is witness.

6 And Samuel spoke to the people, saying: The Lord who appointed Moses and Aaron is witness, who brought our fathers up out of Egypt. 7 And now stand still and I will judge you before the Lord; and I will relate to you all the righteousness of the Lord, the things which he has accomplished among you and your fathers. 8 When Jacob and his sons went into Egypt and Egypt humbled them, then our fathers cried to the Lord and the Lord sent Moses and Aaron; and they brought our fathers out of Egypt, He made them to dwell in this place. 9 They forgot the Lord their God, He sold them into the hands of Sisara captain of the host of Jabis king of Asor and into the hands of the Philistines and into the hands of the king of Moab; He fought with them. 10 They cried to the Lord and said: We have sinned, for we have forsaken the Lord and have served Baalim and the groves: and now deliver us out of the hand of our enemies and we will serve you. 11 He sent Jerobaal and Barac and Jephthae and Samuel and rescued us out of the hand of our enemies around and you dwelt in security. 12 You saw that Naas king of the children of Ammon came against you and you said: No, none but a king shall reign over us; whereas the Lord our God is our king.

13 And now behold the king whom you have chosen; and behold, the Lord has set a king over you. 14 If you should fear the Lord and serve him and hearken to his voice and not resist the mouth of the Lord and you and your king that reigns over you should follow the Lord, well. 15 But if you should not hearken to the voice of the Lord and you should resist the mouth of the Lord, then shall the hand of the Lord be upon you and upon your king.

16 And now stand still and see this great thing, which the Lord will do before your eyes. 17 Is it not wheat-harvest today? I will call upon the Lord, He shall send thunder and rain; and do you know and see, that your wickedness is great which you have accomplished before the Lord, having asked for yourselves a king.

18 And Samuel called upon the Lord and the Lord sent thunders and rain in that day; and all the people feared greatly the Lord and Samuel. 19 All the people said to Samuel, Pray for your servants to the Lord your God, Let us not die; for we have added to all our sins this iniquity, in asking for us a king.

20 And Samuel said to the people, Fear not: you have indeed accomplished all this iniquity; only turn not from following the Lord and serve the Lord with all your heart. 21 And turn not aside after the gods that are nothing, who will do nothing and will not deliver you, because they are nothing. 22 For the Lord will not cast off his people for his great name's sake, because the Lord graciously took you to himself for a people. 23 And far be it from me to sin against the Lord in ceasing to pray for you: but I will serve the Lord and show you the good and the right way. 24 Only fear the Lord and serve him in truth and with all your heart, for you see what great things he has accomplished with you. 25 But if you continue to do evil, then shall you and your king be consumed.

13:1 2 And Saul chooses for himself three thousand men of the men of Israel: and there were with Saul two thousand who were in Machmas and in mount Baethel and a thousand were with Jonathan in Gabaa of Benjamin: He sent the rest of the people every man to his tent.

3 Jonathan stroke Nasib the Philistine that dwelt in the hill; and the Philistines hear of it and Saul sounds the trumpet through all the land, saying: The servants have despised us. 4 All Israel heard say, Saul has stricken Nasib the Philistine; now Israel had been put to shame before the Philistines; and the children of Israel went up after Saul in Galgala. 5 The Philistines gather together to war with Israel; and then come up against Israel thirty thousand chariots and six thousand horsemen and people as the sand by the seashore for multitude: and they come up and encamp in Machmas, opposite Baethoron southward.

6 The men of Israel saw that they were in a strait so that they do you think not draw nigh and the people hid themselves in caves and sheepfolds and rocks and ditches and pits. 7 And those who went over went over Jordan to the land of Gad and Galaad: and Saul was yet in Galgala and all the people followed after him in amazement. 8 He continued seven days for the appointed testimony, as Samuel told him and

Samuel came not to Galgala and his people were dispersed from him. 9 And Saul said: Bring to this place victims, that I may offer whole-burnt-offerings and peace-offerings: He offered the whole-burnt-offering.

10 It came to pass when he had finished offering the whole-burnt-offering, that Samuel arrived and Saul went out to meet him and to bless him. 11 And Samuel said: What have you done? And Saul said: Because I saw how the people were scattered from me and you was not present as you purposed according to the set time of the days and the Philistines were gathered to Machmas. 12 Then I said: Now, will the Philistines come down to me to Galgala and I have not sought the face of the Lord: so I forced myself and offered the whole-burnt-offering. 13 And Samuel said to Saul, You have done foolishly; for you have not kept my command, which the Lord commanded you, as now the Lord would have confirmed your kingdom over Israel for ever. 14 But now your kingdom shall not stand to you and the Lord shall seek for himself a man after his own heart; and the Lord shall appoint him to be a ruler over his people, because you have not kept all that the Lord commanded you.

15 And Samuel arose and departed from Galgala and the remnant of the people went after Saul to meet him after the men of war when they had come out of Galgala to Gabaa of Benjamin. And Saul numbered the people that were found with him, about six hundred men. 16 And Saul and Jonathan his son and the people that were found with them, halted in Gabaa, of Benjamin; and they wept: and the Philistines had encamped in Machmas. 17 And men came forth to destroy out of the land of the Philistines in three companies; one company turning by the way of Gophera toward the land of Sogal, 18 and another company turning the way of Baethoron and another company turning by the way of Gabae that turns aside to Gai of Sabim.

19 And there was not found a smith in all the land of Israel, for the Philistines said: for fear that the Hebrews make themselves sword or spear. 20 All Israel went down to the Land of the Philistines to forge every one his reaping-hook and his tool and every one his axe and his sickle. 21 It was near the time of vintage: and their tools were valued at three shekels for a plough-share and there was the same rate for the axe and the sickle. 22 It came to pass in the days of the war of Machmas, that there was not a sword or spear found in the hand of all the people, that were with Saul and Jonathan; but with Saul and Jonathan his son was there found.

23 And there went out some from the camp of the Philistines to the place beyond Machmas.

14:1 When a certain day arrived, Jonathan the son of Saul said to the young man that bore his armor, Come, Let us go over to Messab of the Philistines that is on the other side yonder; but he told not his father. 2 And Saul sat on the top of the hill under the pomegranate tree that is in Magdon and there were with him about six hundred men. 3 And Achia son of Achitob, the brother of Jochabed the son of Phinees, the son of Heli, was the priest of God in Selom wearing an ephod: and the people knew not that Jonathan was gone. 4 And in the midst of the passage by which means Jonathan sought to pass over to the encampment of the Philistines, there was both a sharp rock on this side and a sharp rock on the other side: the name of the one was Bases and the name of the other Senna. 5 The one way was northward to one coming to Machmas and the other way was southward to one coming to Gabae.

6 Jonathan said to the young man that bore his armor, Come, let us go over to Messab of these uncircumcised, if perhaps the Lord may do something for us; for the Lord is not straitened to save by many or by few. 7 And his armor-bearer said to him: Do all that your heart inclines toward: behold, I am with you, my heart is as your heart. 8 Jonathan said: Behold, we will go over to the men and will come down suddenly upon them. 9 If they should say thus to us, Stand aloof there until we shall send you word; then we will stand still by ourselves and will not go up against them. 10 But if they should say thus to us, Come up to us; then will we go up, for the Lord has delivered them into our hands; this shall be a sign to us.

11 They both went in to Messab of the Philistines; and the Philistines said: Behold, the Hebrews come forth out of their Caves, where they had hidden themselves. 12 The men of Messab answered Jonathan and his armor-bearer and said: Come up to us and we will show you a thing: and Jonathan said to his armor-bearer, Come up after me, for the Lord has delivered them into the hands of Israel. 13 Jonathan went up on his hands and feet and his armor-bearer with him; and they looked on the face of Jonathan, He stroke them and his armor-bearer did strike them after him. 14 The first slaughter which Jonathan and his armor-bearer effected was twenty men, with darts and slings and pebbles of the field.

15 And there was dismay in the camp and in the field; and all the people in Messab and the spoilers were amazed; and they would not act and the land was terror-struck and there was dismay from the lord.

16 The watchmen of Saul beheld in Gabaa of Benjamin, and, behold, the army was thrown into confusion on every side. 17 And Saul said to the people with him, Number yourselves now and see who has gone out from you: and they numbered themselves and behold, Jonathan and his armor-bearer were not found. 18 And Saul said to Achia, Bring the ephod; for he wore the ephod in that day before Israel. 19 It came to pass while Saul was speaking to the priest, that the sound in the camp of the Philistines continued to increase greatly; and Saul said to the priest, Withdraw your hands.

20 And Saul went up and all the people that were with him and they come to the battle: and, behold, every man's sword was against his neighbor, a very great confusion. 21 The servants who had been before with the Philistines, who had gone up to the army, turned themselves also to be with the Israelites who were with Saul and Jonathan. 22 All the Israelites who were hidden in mount Ephraim heard also that the Philistines fled; and they also gather themselves after them to battle: and the Lord saved Israel in that day; and the war passed through Bamoth; and all the people with Saul were about ten thousand men. 23 The battle extended itself to every city in the mount Ephraim.

24 And Saul committed a great trespass of ignorance in that day, He lays a curse on the people, saying: Cursed is the man who shall eat bread before the evening; so I will avenge myself on my enemy: and none of the people tasted bread, though all the land was dining. 25 Jaal was a wood abounding in swarms of bees on the face of the ground. 26 The people went into the place of the bees, and, behold, they continued speaking; and, behold, there was none that put his hand to his mouth, for the people feared the oath of the Lord. 27 Jonathan had not heard when his father adjured the people; He reached forth the end of the staff that was in his hand, and dipped it into the honeycomb and returned his hand to his mouth and his eyes recovered their sight. 28 And one of the people answered and said: your father solemnly adjured the people, saying: Cursed is the man who shall eat bread today. The people were very faint, 29 and Jonathan knew it and said: My father has destroyed the land: see how my eyes have received sight now that I have tasted a little of this honey. 30 Surely if the people had this day eaten freely of the spoils of their enemies which they found, the slaughter among the Philistines would have been greater.

31 And on that day he stroke some of the Philistines in Machmas; and the people were very weary. 32 The people turned to the spoil; and the people took flocks and herds and calves and killed them on the ground and the people ate with the blood. 33 It was reported to Saul, saying: The people have sinned against the Lord, eating with the blood: and Saul said: Out of Getthaim roll a great stone to me to this place. 34 And Saul said: Disperse yourselves among the people and tell them to bring to this place every one his calf and every one his sheep: Let them kill it on this stone and sin not against the Lord in eating with the blood: and the people brought each one that which was in his hand and they killed them there. 35 And Saul built an altar there to the Lord: this was the first altar that Saul built to the Lord.

36 And Saul said: Let us go down after the Philistines this night, Let us plunder among them till the day break, Let us not leave a man among them. They said: Do all that is good in your sight: and the priest said: let us draw near to this place to God.

37 And Saul enquired of God, If I go down after the Philistines, will you deliver them into the hands of Israel? He answered him not in that day.

38 And Saul said: Bring to this place all the chiefs of Israel and know and see by whom this sin has been committed this day. 39 For as the Lord lives who has saved Israel, if answer should be against my son Jonathan, he shall surely die. And there was no one that answered out of all the people. 40 He said to all the men of Israel, you shall be under subjection and I and Jonathan my son will be under subjection: and the people said to Saul, Do that which is good in your sight. 41 And Saul said: O Lord God of Israel, why have you not answered your servant this day? Is the iniquity in me, or in Jonathan my son? Lord God of Israel, give clear manifestations; and if the lot should declare this, give, I pray you, to your people of Israel, give, I pray, holiness. Jonathan and Saul are taken and the people escaped.

42 And Saul said: Cast lots between me and my son Jonathan: whoever the Lord shall cause to be taken by lot, let him die: and the people said to Saul, This thing is not to be done: and Saul prevailed against the people and they cast lots between him and Jonathan his son and Jonathan is taken by lot. 43 And Saul said to Jonathan, Tell me what you have done: and Jonathan told him and said: I did indeed taste a little honey, with the end of my staff that was in my hand, and, Behold! I am to die. 44 And Saul said to him: God do so to me and more also, you shall surely die today. 45 The people said to Saul, Shall he that has accomplished this great salvation in Israel be put to death this day? As the Lord lives, there shall not fall to the ground one of the hairs of his head; for the people of God have accomplished successfully this day. The people prayed for Jonathan in that day, He died not. 46 And Saul went up from following the Philistines; and the Philistines departed to their place.

47 And Saul received the kingdom, by lot he inherits the office of ruling over Israel: He fought against all his enemies round about, against Moab and against the children of Ammon and against the children of Edom and against Baethaeor and against the king of Suba and against the Philistines: wherever he turned, he was victorious. 48 He accomplished valiantly and stroke Amalec and rescued Israel out of the hand of those who trampled on him.

49 The sons of Saul were Jonathan and Jessiu and Melchisa: and these were the names of his two daughters, the name of the first-born Merob and the name of the second Melchol. 50 The name of his wife was Achinoom, the daughter of Achimaa: and the name of his captain of the host was Abenner, the son of Ner, son of a kinsman of Saul. 51 And Kis was the father of Saul and Ner, the father of Abenezzer, was son of Jamin, son of Abiel.

52 The war was violent against the Philistines all the days of Saul; and when Saul saw any mighty man and any valiant man, then he took them to himself.

15:1 And Samuel said to Saul, The Lord sent me to anoint you king over Israel: and now hear the voice of the Lord. 2 Thus said the Lord of Hosts, Now, will I take vengeance for what Amalec did to Israel when he met him in the way as he came up out of Egypt. 3 And now go and you shall strike Amalec and Hierim and all that belongs to him and you shall not save anything of him alive, but you shall utterly destroy him: and you shall devote him and all his to destruction and you shall spare nothing belonging to him; and you shall kill both man and woman and infant and suckling and calf and sheep and camel and ass.

4 And Saul summoned the people, He numbered them in Galgala, four hundred thousand regular troops and Juda thirty thousand regular troops. 5 And Saul came to the cities of Amalec and laid wait in the valley. 6 And Saul said to the Kinite, Go and depart out of the midst of the Amalekites, for fear that I put you with them; for you dealt mercifully with the children of Israel when they went up out of Egypt. So the Kinite departed from the midst of Amalec. 7 And Saul stroke Amalec from Evilat to Sur fronting Egypt. 8 He took Agag the king of Amalec alive, He killed all the people and Hierim with the edge of the sword. 9 And Saul and all the people saved Agag alive and the best of the flocks and of the herds and of the fruits, of the vineyards and of all the good things; and they would not destroy them: but every worthless and refuse thing they destroyed.

10 The word of the Lord came to Samuel, saying: 11 I have repented that I have made Saul to be king: for he has turned back from following me and has not kept my word. And Samuel was grieved and cried to the Lord all night. 12 And Samuel rose early and went to meet Israel in the morning and it was told Saul, saying: Samuel has come to Carmel, He has raised up help for himself: He turned his chariot and came down to Galgala to Saul; and, behold, he was offering up a whole-burnt-offering to the Lord, the chief of the spoils which he brought out of Amalec.

13 And Samuel came to Saul: and Saul said to him: Blessed are you of the Lord: I have performed all that the Lord said. 14 And Samuel said: What then is the bleating of this flock in my ears and the sound of the oxen which I hear? 15 And Saul said: I have brought them out of Amalec, that which the people preserved, even the best of the sheep and of the cattle, that it might be sacrificed to the Lord your God and the rest have I utterly destroyed. 16 And Samuel said to Saul, Stay and I will tell you what the Lord has said to me this night: He said to him: Say on.

17 And Samuel said to Saul, are you not little in his eyes, though a leader of one of the tribes of Israel? And yet the Lord anointed you to be king over Israel. 18 The Lord sent you on a journey and said to you, Go and utterly destroy: you shall kill the sinners against me, even the Amalekites; and you shall war against them until you have consumed them. 19 And why did not you hearken to the voice of the Lord, but did haste to fasten upon the spoils and did that which was evil in the sight of the Lord? 20 And Saul said to Samuel, Because I listened to the voice of the people: yet I went the way by which the Lord sent me and I brought Agag the king of Amalec and I destroyed Amalec. 21 But the people took of the spoils the best flocks and herds out of that which was destroyed, to sacrifice before the Lord our God in Galgal. 22 And Samuel said: Does the Lord take pleasure in whole-burnt-offerings and sacrifices, as in hearing the words of the Lord? Behold, obedience is better than a good sacrifice and hearkening than the fat of rams. 23 For sin is as divination; idols bring on pain and grief. Because you have rejected the word of the Lord, the Lord also shall reject you from being king over Israel.

24 And Saul said to Samuel, I have sinned, in that I have transgressed the word of the Lord and your direction; for I feared the people and I listened to their voice. 25 And now remove, I pray you, my sin and turn back with me and I will worship the Lord your God. 26 And Samuel said to Saul, I will not turn back with you, for you have rejected the word of the Lord and the Lord will reject you from being king over Israel.

27 And Samuel turned his face to depart and Saul caught hold of the skirt of his garment and tore it. 28 And Samuel said to him: The Lord has rent your kingdom from Israel out of your hand this day and will give it to your neighbor who is better than you. 29 Israel shall be divided to two: and God will not turn nor repent, for he is not as a man to repent. 30 And Saul said: I have sinned; yet honor me, I pray you, before the elders of Israel and before my people; and turn back with me and I will worship the Lord your God. 31 So Samuel turned back after Saul, He worshiped the Lord.

32 And Samuel said: Bring me Agag the king of Amalec: and Agag came to him trembling; and Agag said Is death thus bitter? 33 And Samuel said to Agag, As your sword has bereaved women of their children, so shall your mother be made childless among women: and Samuel killed Agag before the Lord in Galgal.

34 And Samuel departed to Armathaim and Saul went up to his house at Gabaa. 35 And Samuel did not see Saul again till the day of his death, for Samuel mourned after Saul and the Lord repented that he had made Saul king over Israel.

16:1 The Lord said to Samuel, How long do you mourn for Saul, whereas I have rejected him from reigning over Israel? Fill your horn with oil and come, I will send you to Jessae, to Bethlehem; for I have seen among his sons a king for me. 2 And Samuel said: How can I go? Whereas Saul will hear of it and kill me: and the Lord said: Take a heifer in your hand and you shall say, I am come to sacrifice to the Lord. 3 You shall call Jessae to the sacrifice and I will make known to you what you shall do; and you shall anoint him whom I shall mention to you.

4 And Samuel did all that the Lord told him; He came to Bethlehem: and the elders of the city were amazed at meeting him and said: do you come peaceably, you Seer? 5 He said: Peaceably: I am come to sacrifice to the Lord. Sanctify yourselves and rejoice with me this day: He sanctified Jessae and his sons, He called them to the sacrifice. 6 It came to pass when they came in, that he saw Eliab and said: Surely the Lord's anointed is before him. 7 But the Lord said to Samuel, Look not on his appearance, nor on his stature, for I have rejected him; for God sees not as man looks; for man looks at the outward appearance, but God looks at the heart. 8 Jessae called Aminadab, He passed before Samuel: He said: Neither has God chosen this one. 9 Jessae caused Sama to pass by: He said: Neither has God chosen this one. 10 Jessae caused his seven sons to pass before Samuel: and Samuel said: the Lord has not chosen these.

11 And Samuel said to Jessae, have you no more sons? Jessae said: There is yet a little one; behold, he tends the flock. And Samuel said to Jessae, Send and fetch him for we may not sit down till he comes. 12 He sent and fetched him: He was ruddy, with beauty of eyes and very goodly to behold. The Lord said to Samuel, Arise and anoint David, for he is good. 13 And Samuel took the horn of oil and anointed him in the midst of his brothers: and the Spirit of the Lord came upon David from that day forward: and Samuel arose and departed to Armathaim.

14 The Spirit of the Lord departed from Saul and an evil spirit from the Lord tormented him. 15 And Saul's servants said to him: Behold now and evil spirit from the Lord torments you. 16 Let now your servants speak before you, Let them seek for our lord a man skilled to play on the harp; and it shall come to pass when an evil spirit comes upon you He shall play on his harp, that you shall be well, He shall refresh you. 17 And Saul said to his servants, Look now out for me a skillful player and bring him to me. 18 And one of his servants answered and said: Behold, I have seen a son of Jessae the Bethlehemite, He understands playing on the harp and the man is prudent and a warrior and wise in speech and the man is handsome and the Lord is with him. 19 And Saul sent messengers to Jessae, saying: Send to me your son David who is with your flock. 20 Jessae took a jar of bread and a bottle of wine and one kid of the goats and sent them by the hand of his son David to Saul.

21 David went in to Saul and stood before him; He loved him greatly; He became his armor-bearer. 22 And Saul sent to Jessae, saying: Let David, I pray you, stand before me, for he has found grace in my eyes. 23 It came to pass when the evil spirit was upon Saul, that David took his harp and played with his hand: and Saul was refreshed and it was well with him and the evil spirit departed from him.

17:1 The Philistines gather their armies to battle and gather themselves to Socchoth of Judaea and encamp between Socchoth and Azeca Ephermen. 2 And Saul and the men of Israel gather together and they encamp in the valley and set the battle in array against the Philistines. 3 The Philistines stand on the mountain on one side and Israel stands on the mountain on the other side and the valley was between them.

4 And there went forth a mighty man out of the army of the Philistines, Goliath, by name, out of Geth, his height was four cubits and a span. 5 He had a helmet upon his head, He wore a breastplate of chain armor; and the weight of his breastplate was five thousand shekels of brass and iron. 6 And greaves of grass were upon his legs and a brazen target was between his shoulders. 7 The staff of his spear was like a weaver's beam and the spear's head was formed of six hundred shekels of iron; and his armor-bearer went before him. 8 He stood and cried to the army of Israel and said to them: Why are you come forth to set yourselves in battle array against us? Am not I a Philistine and you He brews of Saul? Choose for yourselves a man, Let him come down to me. 9 If he shall be able to fight against me and shall strike me, then will we be your servants: but if I should prevail and strike him, you shall be our servants and serve us. 10 The Philistine said: Behold, I have defied the armies of Israel this very day: give me a man and we will both of us fight in single combat.

11 And Saul and all Israel heard these words of the Philistine and they were dismayed and greatly terrified.

32 David said to Saul, Let not, I pray you, the heart of my lord be dejected within him: your servant will go and fight with this Philistine. 33 And Saul said to David: You will not in anywise be able to go against this Philistine to fight with him, for you are a mere youth, He a man of war from his youth.

34 David said to Saul, your servant was tending the flock for his father; and when a lion came and a she-bear and took a sheep out of the flock, 35 then I went forth after him and stroke him and drew the spoil out of his mouth:

and as he rose up against me, then I caught hold of his throat and stroke him and killed him. 36 Your servant stroke both the lion and the bear and the uncircumcised Philistine shall be as one of them: shall I not go and strike him and remove this day a reproach from Israel? For who is this uncircumcised one, who has defied the army of the living God? 37 The Lord who delivered me out of the paw of the lion and out the paw of the bear, he will deliver me out of the hand of this uncircumcised Philistine. And Saul said to David: Go and the Lord shall be with you.

38 And Saul clothed David with a military coat and put his brazen helmet on his head. 39 He girded David with his sword over his coat: He made trial walking with them once and again: and David said to Saul, I shall not be able to go with these, for I have not proved them: so they remove them from him. 40 He took his staff in his hand, He chose for himself five smooth stones out of the brook and put them in the shepherd's scrip which he had for his store and his sling was in his hand; He approached the Philistine. 41

42 And Goliath saw David and despised him; for he was a lad and ruddy, with a fair countenance. 43 The Philistine said to David: Am I as a dog, that you come against me with a staff and stones? [and David said: No, but worse than a dog.] The Philistine cursed David by his gods. 44 The Philistine said to David: Come to me and I will give your flesh to the birds of the air and to the beasts of the earth.

45 David said to the Philistine, You come to me with sword and with spear and with shield; but I come to you in the name of the Lord God of Hosts of the army of Israel, which you have defied 46 this day. The Lord shall deliver you this day into my hand; and I will kill you and take away your head from off you and will give your limbs and the limbs of the army of the Philistines this day to the birds of the sky and to the wild beasts of the earth; and all the earth shall know that there is a God in Israel. 47 All this assembly shall know that the Lord delivers not by sword or spear, for the battle is the Lord's and the Lord will deliver you into our hands.

48 The Philistine arose and went to meet David. 49 David stretched out his hand to his scrip and took for there a stone and slang it and stroke the Philistine on his forehead and the stone penetrated through the helmet into his forehead, He fell upon his face to the ground. 50 51 David ran and stood upon him and took his sword and killed him and cut off his head: and the Philistines saw that their champion was dead and they fled.

52 The men of Israel and Juda arose and shouted and pursued them as far as the entrance to Geth and as far as the gate of Ascalon: and the slain men of the Philistines fell in the way of the gates, both to Geth and to Accaron. 53 The men of Israel returned from pursuing after the Philistines and they destroyed their camp. 54 David took the head of the Philistine and brought it to Jerusalem; but he put his armor in his tent.

18:1 2 3 4 5 6 And there came out women in dances to meet David out of all the cities of Israel, with timbrels and with rejoicing and with cymbals. 7 The women began the strain and said: Saul has stricken his thousands and David his ten thousands. 8 It seemed evil in the eyes of Saul concerning this matter, He said: To David they have given ten thousands and to me they have given thousands. 9 10 11

12 And Saul was alarmed on account of David. 13 He removed him from him and made him a captain of a thousand for himself; He went out and came in before the people. 14 David was prudent in all his ways and the Lord was with him. 15 And Saul saw that he was very wise, He was afraid of him. 16 All Israel and Juda loved

David, because he came in and went out before the people. 17 18 19

20 And Melchol the daughter of Saul loved David; and it was told Saul and the thing was pleasing in his eyes. 21 And Saul said: I will give her to him and she shall be a stumbling-block to him. Now, the hand of the Philistines was against Saul. 22 And Saul charged his servants, saying: Speak you privately to David, saying: Behold, the king delights in you and all his servants love you and do you becomes the king's son-in-law. 23 The servants of Saul spoke these words in the ears of David; and David said: Is it a light thing in your eyes to become son-in-law to the king? Whereas I am a humble man, an not honorable? 24 The servants of Saul reported to him according to these words, which David spoke. 25 And Saul said: Thus shall you speak to David, The king wants no gift but a hundred s of the Philistines, to avenge himself on the kings enemies. Now, Saul thought to cast him into the hands of the Philistines. 26 The servants of Saul report these words to David and David was well pleased to become the son-in-law to the king.

27 David arose and went, he and his men and stroke among the Philistines a hundred men: He brought their s, He becomes the king's son-in-law and Saul gives him Melchol his daughter to wife. 28 And Saul saw that the Lord was with David and that all Israel loved him. 29 He was yet more afraid of David.

19:1 And Saul spoke to Jonathan his son and to all his servants, to kill David. 2 Jonathan, Saul's son, loved David much: and Jonathan told David, saying: Saul seeks to kill you: take heed to yourself therefore tomorrow morning and hide yourself and dwell in secret. 3 I will go forth and stand near my father in the field where you shall be and I will speak concerning you to my father; and I will see what his answer may be and I will tell you.

4 Jonathan spoke favorably concerning David to Saul his father and said to him: Let not the king sin against your servant David, for he has not sinned against you and his deeds are very good. 5 He put his life in his hand and stroke the Philistine and the Lord accomplished a great deliverance; and all Israel saw and rejoined: why then do you sin against innocent blood, to kill David without a cause? 6 And Saul listened to the voice of Jonathan; and Saul swore, saying: As the Lord lives, he shall not die. 7 Jonathan called David and told him all these words; and Jonathan brought David in to Saul, He was before him as in former times.

8 And there was again war against Saul; and David did valiantly and fought against the Philistines and stroke them with a very great slaughter and they fled from before him.

9 An evil spirit from God was upon Saul, He was resting in his house and a spear was in his hand and David was playing on the harp with his hands. 10 And Saul sought to strike David with the spear; and David withdrew suddenly from the presence of Saul; He drove the spear into the wall; and David retreated and escaped. 11 It came to pass in that night, that Saul sent messengers to the house of David to watch him, in order to kill him in the morning; and Melchol David's wife told him, saying: Unless you save your life this night, tomorrow you shall be slain. 12 So Melchol lets David down by the window, He departed and fled and escaped. 13 And Melchol took images and laid them on the bed and she put the liver of a goat by his head and covered them with clothes.

14 And Saul sent messengers to take David; and they say that he is sick. 15 He sends to David, saying: Bring him to me on the bed, that I may kill him. 16 The messengers come, and, behold, the images were on the bed and the goat's liver at his head. 17 And Saul said to Melchol, Why have you thus deceived me and suffered my enemy to depart, He has escaped? And Melchol said to Saul, He said: let me go and if not, I will kill you.

18 So David fled and escaped and comes to Samuel to Armathaim and tells him all that Saul had done to him: and Samuel and David went and dwelt in Navath in Rama.

19 It was told Saul, saying: Behold, David is in Navath in Rama. 20 And Saul sent messengers to take David and they saw the assembly of the prophets and Samuel stood as appointed over them; and the Spirit of God came upon the messengers of Saul and they prophesy. 21 It was told Saul, He sent other messengers and they also prophesied: and Saul sent again a third set of messengers and they also prophesied. 22 And Saul was very angry and went himself also to Armathaim, He comes as far as the well of the threshing floor that is in Sephi; He asked and said: Where are Samuel and David? They said: Behold, in Navath in Rama. 23 He went for there to Navath in Rama: and there came the Spirit of God upon him also, He went on prophesying till he came to Navath in Rama. 24 He took off his clothes and prophesied before them; and lay down naked all that day and all that night: therefore they said: Is Saul also among the prophets?

20:1 David fled from Navath in Rama and comes into the presence of Jonathan; He said: What have I done and what is my fault and by which have I sinned before your father, that he seeks my life? 2 Jonathan said to him: Far be it from you: you shall not die: behold, my father will not do any thing great or small without discovering it to me; and why should my father hide this matter from me? This thing is not so. 3 David answered Jonathan and said: your father knows surely that I have found grace in your sight, He said: Let not Jonathan know this, for fear that he refuse his consent: but as the Lord lives and your soul lives, as I said: the space is filled up between me and death. 4 Jonathan said to David: What do your soul desire and what shall I do for you.

5 David said to Jonathan, Behold, tomorrow is the new moon and I shall not on any account sit down to eat, but you shall let me go and I will hide in the plain till the evening. 6 If your father do in anywise enquire for me, then shall you say, David earnestly asked leave of me to run to Bethleem his city, for there is there, a yearly sacrifice for all the family. 7 If he shall say thus, Well, —all is safe for your servant: but if he shall answer harshly to you, know that evil is determined by him. 8 You shall deal mercifully with your servant; for you have brought your servant into a covenant of the Lord with yourself: and if there is iniquity in your servant, kill me yourself; but why do you thus bring me to your father?

9 Jonathan said: That be far from you: for if I surely know that evil is determined by my father to come upon you, although it should not be against your cities, I will tell you. 10 David said to Jonathan, Who can tell me if your father should answer roughly? 11 Jonathan said to David: Go and abide in the field. They went out both into the field.

12 Jonathan said to David: the Lord God of Israel knows that I will sound my father as I have an opportunity, three several times, and, behold, if good should be determined concerning David and I do not send to you to the field, 13 God do so to Jonathan and more also: as I shall also report the evil to you and make it known to you and I will let you go; and you shall depart in peace and the Lord shall be with you, as he was with my father. 14 If indeed I continue to live, then shall you deal mercifully with me; and if I indeed die, 15 16 you shall not withdraw your mercy from my house for ever: and if you do not when the Lord cuts off the enemies of David each from the face of the earth, should it happen that the name of Jonathan be discovered by the house of David, then let the Lord seek out the enemies of David. 17 Jonathan swore yet again to David, because he loved the soul of him that loved him.

18 Jonathan said: Tomorrow is the new moon and you will be enquired for, because your seat will be observed as vacant. 19 You shall stay three days and watch an opportunity and shall come to your place where you may hide yourself in the day of your business and you shall wait by that ergab. 20 I will shoot three arrows, aiming them at a mark. 21 And behold, I will send a lad, saying: Go find me the arrow. 22 If I should expressly say to the lad, The arrow is here and on this side of you, take it; then come, for it is well with you and there is no reason for fear, as the Lord lives: but if I should say thus to the young man, The arrow is on that side of you and beyond; go, for the Lord has sent you away. 23 And as for the word which you and I have spoken, behold, the Lord is witness between me and you for ever.

24 So David hides himself in the field and the new month arrives and the king comes to the table to eat. 25 He sat upon his seat as in former times, even on his seat by the wall, He went before Jonathan; and Abenner sat on one side of Saul and the place of David was empty. 26 And Saul said nothing on that day, for he said: It seems to have fallen out that he is not clean, because he has not purified himself.

27 It came to pass on the morrow, on the second day of the month, that the place of David was empty; and Saul said to Jonathan his son, Why has not the son of Jessae attended both yesterday and today at the table? 28 Jonathan answered Saul and said to him: David asked leave of me to go as far as Bethleem his city; 29 He said: Let me go, I pray you, for we have a family sacrifice in the city and my brothers have sent for me; and now, if I have found grace in your eyes, I will even go over and see my brothers: therefore he is not present at the table of the king.

30 And Saul was exceedingly angry with Jonathan and said to him: You son of traitorous young womens! for do I not know that you are an accomplice with the son of Jessae to your same and to the shame of your mother's nakedness? 31 For so long as the son of Jessae lives upon the earth, your kingdom shall not be established: now then send and take the young man, for he shall surely die. 32 Jonathan answered Saul, Why is he to die? What has he done? 33 And Saul lifted up his spear against Jonathan to kill him: so Jonathan knew that this evil was determined on by his father to kill David. 34 Jonathan sprang up from the table in great anger and did not eat bread on the second day of the month, for he grieved bitterly for David, because his father determined on mischief against him.

35 And morning came and Jonathan went out to the field, as he appointed to do for a signal to David and a little boy was with him. 36 He said to the boy, Run, find me the arrows which I shoot: and the boy ran and Jonathan shot an arrow and sent it beyond him. 37 The boy came to the place where the arrow was which Jonathan shot; and Jonathan cried out after the lad and said: The arrow is on that side of you and beyond you. 38 Jonathan cried out after his boy, saying: Make all speed and stay not. Jonathan's boy gathered up the arrows and brought the arrows to his master. 39 The boy knew nothing, only Jonathan and David knew. 40 Jonathan gave his weapons to his boy and said to his boy, Go, enter into the city.

41 When the boy went in, then David arose from the argab and fell upon his face and did obeisance¹ to him three times and they kissed each other and wept for each other, for a great while. 42 Jonathan said to David: Go in peace and as we have both sworn in the name of the Lord, saying: The Lord shall be witness between me and you and between my seed and your seed for ever—even so let it be. David arose and departed and Jonathan went into the city.

21:1 David comes to Nomba to Abimelech the priest: and Abimelech was amazed at meeting him and said to him: Why are you alone and nobody with you? 2 David said to the priest, The king gave me a command today and said to me: Let no one know the matter on which I send you, an concerning which I have charged you: and I have charged my servants to be in the place that is called, The faithfulness of God, phellani maemoni. 3 And now if there are under your hand five loaves, give into my hand what is ready. 4 The priest answered David and said: There are no common loaves under my hand, for I have none but holy loaves: if the young men have been kept at least from women, then they shall eat them. 5 David answered the priest and said to him: yes, we have been kept from women for three days: when I came forth for the journey all the young men were purified; but this expedition is unclean, why then it shall be sanctified this day because of my weapons.

6 So Abimelech the priest gave him the showbread; for there were no loaves there, but only the presence loaves which had been removed from the presence of the Lord, in order that hot bread should be set on, on the day on which he took them.

7 And there was there on that day one of Saul's servants detained before the Lord and his name was Doec the Syrian, tending the mules of Saul. 8 David said to Abimelech, See if there is here under your hand spear or sword, for I have not brought in my hand my sword or my weapons, for the word of the king was urgent. 9 The priest said:

Behold the sword of Goliath the Philistine, whom you stroke in the valley of Ela; and it is wrapt in a cloth: if you will take it, take it for yourself, for there is no other except it here. David said: Behold, there is none like it; give it me.

10 He gave it him; and David arose and fled in that day from he presence of Saul: and David came to Anchus king of Geth. 11 The servants of Anchus said to him: Is not this David the king of the land? Did not the dancing women begin the son to him, saying: Saul has stricken his thousand and David his ten thousands? 12 David laid up the words in his heart and was greatly afraid of Anchus king of Geth. 13 He changed his appearance before him and feigned himself a false character in that day; and drummed upon the doors of the city and used extravagant gestures with his hands and fell against the doors of the gate and his spittle ran down upon his beard. 14 And Anchus said to his servants, Behold! you see the man is mad: why have you brought him in to me? 15 Am I in want of madmen, that you have brought him in to me to play the madman? He shall not come into the house.

22:1 David departed for there and escaped; He comes to the cave of Odollam and his brothers hear and the house of his father and they go down to him there. 2 And there gathered to him every one that was in distress and every one that was in debt and every one that was troubled in mind; He was a leader over them and there were with him about four hundred men.

3 David departed for there to Massephath of Moab and said to the king of Moab, Let, I pray you, my father and my mother be with you, until I know what God will do to me. 4 He persuaded the King of Moab and they dwell with him continually, while David was in the hold. 5 And Gad the prophet said to David: Dwell not in the hold: go and you shall enter the land of Juda. So David went and came and dwelt in the city of Saric. 6 And Saul heard that David was discovered and his men with him: now Saul dwelt in the hill below the field that is in Rama and his spear was in his hand and all his servants stood near him. 7 And Saul said to his servants that stood by him, Hear now, you sons of Benjamin, will the son of Jessae indeed give all of you fields and vineyards and will he make you all captains of hundreds and captains of thousands? 8 That you are conspiring against me and there is no one that informs me, whereas my son has made a covenant with the son of Jessae and there is no one of you that is sorry for me, or informs me, that my son has stirred up my servant against me for an enemy, as it is this day?

9 Doec the Syrian who was over the mules of Saul answered and said: I saw the son of Jessae as he came to Nomba to Abimelech son of Achitob the priest. 10 The priest enquired of God for him and gave him provision and gave him the sword of Goliath the Philistine.

11 The king sent to call Abimelech son of Achitob and all his father's sons, the priests that were in Nomba; and they all came to the king. 12 And Saul said: Hear now, you son of Achitob. He said: Behold! I am here, speak, my lord. 13 And Saul said to him: Why have you and the son of Jessae conspired against me, that you should give him bread and a sword and should enquire of God for him, to raise him up against me as an enemy, as he is this day? 14 He answered the king and said: Who is there among all your servants faithful as David, He is a son-in-law of the king, He is executor of all your commands and is honorable in your house? 15 Have I begun today to enquire of God for him? By no means: let not the king bring a charge against his servant and against you whole of my father's house; for your servant knew not in all these matters anything great or small.

16 And king Saul said: You shall surely die, Abimelech, you and all your father's house. 17 The king said to the footmen that attended on him, Draw near and kill the priests of the Lord, because their hand is with David and because they knew that he fled and they did not inform me. But the servants of the king would not lift their hands to fall upon the priest of the Lord. 18 The king said to Doec, Turn you and fall upon the priests: and Doec the Syrian turned and killed the priests of the Lord in that day, three hundred and five men, all wearing an ephod. 19 He stroke Nomba the city of the priest with the edge of the sword, both man and woman, infant and suckling and calf and ox and sheep.

20 And one son of Abimelech son of Achitob escapes and his name was Abiathar, He fled after David. 21 And Abiathar told David that Saul had slain all the priests of the Lord. 22 David said to Abiathar, I knew it in that day, that Doec the Syrian would surely tell Saul: I am guilty of the death of the house of your father. 23 Dwell with me; fear not, for wherever I shall seek a place of safety for my life, I will also seek a place for your life, for you are safely guarded while with me.

23:1 It was told David, saying: behold, the Philistines war in Keila and they rob, they trample on the threshing-floors. 2 David enquired of the Lord, saying: Shall I go and strike these Philistines? The Lord said: Go and you shall strike these Philistines and shall save Keila. 3 The men of David said to him: Behold, we are afraid here in Judea; and how shall it be if we go to Keila? Shall we go after the spoils of the Philistines? 4 David enquired yet again of the Lord; and the Lord answered him and said to him: Arise and go down to Keila, for I will deliver the Philistines into your hands. 5 So David and his men with him went to Keila and fought with the Philistines; and they fled from before him, He carried off their cattle and stroke them with a great slaughter and David rescued the inhabitants of Keila. 6 It came to pass when Abiathar the son of Achimelech fled to David, that he went down with David to Keila, having and ephod in his hand.

7 It was told Saul that David had come to Keila: and Saul said: God has sold him into my hands, for he is shut up, having entered into a city that has gates and bars. 8 And Saul charged all the people to go down to war to Keila, to besiege David and his men. 9 David knew that Saul spoke openly of mischief against him: and David said to Abiathar the priest, Bring the ephod of the Lord. 10 David said: Lord God of Israel, your servant has indeed heard, that Saul seeks to come against Keila to destroy the city on my account. 11 Will the place be shut up? And now will Saul come down, as your servant has heard? Lord God of Israel, tell your servant. The Lord said: It will be shut up.

12 13 David arose and the men with him, in number about four hundred and they went forth from Keila and went wherever they do you think go: and it was told Saul that David had escaped from Keila, He forbore to come. 14 He dwelt in Maserem in the wilderness, in the narrow passes; and dwelt in the wilderness in mount Ziph, in the dry country. And Saul sought him continually, but the Lord delivered him not into his hands. 15 David perceived that Saul went forth to seek David; and David was in the dry mountain in the New Ziph.

16 Jonathan son of Saul rose and went to David to Caene and strengthened his hands in the Lord. 17 He said to him: Fear not, for the hand of Saul my father shall not find you; and you shall be king over Israel and I shall be second to you; and Saul my father knows it. 18 So they both made a covenant before the Lord; and David dwelt in Caene and Jonathan went to his home.

19 The Ziphites came up out of the dry country to Saul to the hill, saying: Behold, is not David hidden with us in Messara, in the narrows in Caene in the hill of Echela, which is on the right of Jessaemon? 20 And now according to all the king's desire to come down, let him come down to us; they have shut him up into the hands of the king. 21 And Saul said to them: Blessed be of the Lord, for you have been grieved on my account. 22 Go, I pray you and make preparations yet and notice his place where his foot shall be, quickly, in that place which you spoke of, for fear that by any means he should deal craftily. 23 Take notice, then and learn and I will go with you; and it shall come to pass that if he is in the land, I will search him out among all the thousands of Juda. 24 The Ziphites arose and went before Saul: and David and his men were in the wilderness of Maon, westward, to the right of Jessaemon.

25 And Saul and his men went to seek him: and they brought word to David, He went down to the rock that was in the wilderness of Maon: and Saul heard and followed after David to the wilderness of Maon. 26 And Saul and his men go on one side of the mountain and David and his men are on the other side of the mountain: and David was hiding himself to escape from Saul: and Saul and his men encamped against David and his men, in order to take them.

27 And there came a messenger to Saul, saying: Haste you and come to this place, for the Philistines have invaded the land. 28 So Saul returned from following after David and went to meet the Philistines: therefore that place was called The divided Rock.

24:1 David rose up there and dwelt in the narrow passes of Engaddi. 2 It came to pass when Saul returned from pursuing after the Philistines, that it was reported to him, saying: David is in the wilderness of Engaddi. 3 He took with him three thousand men, chosen out of all Israel and went to seek David and his men in front of Saddaeem. 4 He came to the flocks of sheep that were by the way and there was a cave there; and Saul went in to make preparation and David and his men were sitting in the inner part of the cave. 5 The men of David said to him: Behold, this is the day of which the Lord spoke to you, that he would deliver your enemy into your hands; and you shall do to him as it is good in your sight. So David arose and cut off the skirt of Saul's garment secretly. 6 It came to pass after this that David's heart stroke him, because he had cut off the skirt of his garment. 7 David said to his men, The Lord forbid it me, that I should do this thing to my lord the anointed of the Lord, to lift my hand against him; for he is the anointed of the Lord. 8 So David persuaded his men by his words and did not suffer them to arise and kill Saul: and Saul arose and went his way.

9 David rose up and went after him out of the cave: and David cried after Saul, saying: My lord, O king! and Saul looked behind him and David bowed with his face to the ground and did obeisance¹ to him.

10 David said to Saul, Why do you hearken to the words of the people, saying: Behold, David seeks your life? 11 Behold, your eyes have seen this day how that the Lord has delivered you this day into my hands in the cave; and I would not kill you, but spared you and said: I will not lift up my hand against my lord, for he is the Lord's anointed. 12 And behold, the skirt of your mantle is in my hand, I cut off the skirt and did not kill you: know then and see today, there is no evil in my hand, nor impiety, nor rebellion; and I have not sinned against you, yet you lay snares for my soul to take it. 13 The Lord judge between me and you and the Lord seek retaliation for you on yourself: but my hand shall not be upon you. 14 As the old proverb says, Transgression will proceed from the wicked ones: but my hand shall not be upon you. 15 And now after whom do you come forth, O king of Israel? After whom do you pursue? After a dead dog and after a flea? 16 The Lord be judge and umpire between me and you, the Lord look upon and judge my cause and rescue me out of your hand.

17 It came to pass when David had finished speaking these words to Saul, that Saul said: Is this your voice, Son David? And Saul lifted up his voice and wept. 18 And Saul said to David: You are more righteous than I, for you have recompensed me good, but I have recompensed you evil. 19 You have told me today what good you have done me, how the Lord shut me up into your hands today and you did not kill me. 20 If any one should find his enemy in distress and should send him forth in a good way, then the Lord will reward him good, as you have done this day. 21 And now, behold, I know that you shall surely reign and the kingdom of Israel shall be established in your hand. 22 Now, then swear to me by the Lord, that you will not destroy my seed after me, that you will not blot out my name from the house of my father. 23 So David swore to Saul: and Saul departed to his place and David and his men went up to the strong-hold of Messera.

25:1 And Samuel died and all Israel assembled and bewailed him and they bury him in his house in Armathaim: and David arose and went down to the wilderness of Maon.

2 And there was a man in Maon and his flocks were in Carmel, He was a very great man; He had three thousand sheep and a thousand she-goats: He happened to be shearing his flock in Carmel. 3 The man's name was Nabal and his wife's name was Abigaia: and his wife was of good understanding and very beautiful in person: but the man was harsh and evil in his doings and the man was churlish. 4 David heard in the wilderness, that Nabal the Carmelite was shearing his sheep. 5 David sent ten young men, He said to the young men, Go up to Carmel and go to Nabal and ask him in my name how he is. 6 Thus shall you say, May you and your house seasonably prosper and all your be in prosperity.

7 And now, behold, I have heard that your shepherds who were with is in the wilderness are shearing your sheep and we hindered them not, neither did we demand any thing from them all the time they were in Carmel. 8 Ask your servants and they will tell you. Let then your servants find grace in your eyes, for we have come on a good day; give we pray you, whatsoever your hand may find, to your son David.

9 So the servants come and speak these words to Nabal, according to all these words in the name of David. 10 And Nabal sprang up and answered the servants of David and said: Who is David? And who is the son of Jessae? Now-a-days there is abundance of servants who depart every one from his master. 11 And shall I take my bread and my wine and my beasts that I have slain for my shearers and shall I give them to men of whom I know not from where they are? 12 So the servants of David turned back and returned and came and reported to David according to these words. 13 David said to his men, Gird on every man his sword. They went up after David, about four hundred men: and two hundred abode with the stuff.

14 And one of the servants reported to Abigaia the wife of Nabal, saying: Behold, David sent messengers out of the wilderness to salute our lord; but he turned away from them. 15 The men were very good to us; they did not hinder us, neither did they demand from us any thing all the days that we were with them. 16 When we were in the field, they were as a wall around us, both by night and by day, all the days that we were with them feeding the flock. 17 And now do you consider and see what you will do; for mischief is determined against our lord and against his house; He is a vile character and one cannot speak to him.

18 And Abigaia hasted and took two hundred loaves and two vessels of wine and five sheep ready dressed and five ephahs of fine flour and one jar of dried grapes and two hundred cakes of figs and put them upon asses. 19 And she said to her servants, Go on before me and behold I come after you: but she told not her husband. 20 It came to pass when she had mounted her ass and was going down by the covert of the mountain, behold, David and his men came down to meet her and she met them. 21 David said: Perhaps I have kept all his possessions in the wilderness that he should wrong me and we did not order the taking anything of all his goods; yet he has rewarded me evil for good. 22 So God do to David and more also, if I leave one male of all that belong to Nabal until the morning.

23 And Abigaia saw David and she hasted and alighted from her ass; and she felt before David on her face and did obeisance¹ to him, bowing to the ground 24 even to his feet and said: On me, my lord, be my wrong: let, I pray you, your servant speak in your ears and hear you the words of your servant. 25 Let not my lord, I pray you, take to heart this repulsive man, for according to his name, so is he; Nabal is his name and folly is with him: but I your handmaid saw not the servants of my lord whom you did send.

26 And now, my lord, as the Lord lives and your soul lives, as the Lord has kept you from coming against innocent blood and from executing vengeance for yourself, now therefore let your enemies and those who seek evil against my lord, become as Nabal. 27 And now accept this token of goodwill, which your servant has brought to my lord and you shall give it to the servants that wait on my lord. 28 Remove, I pray you, the trespass of your servant; for the Lord will surely make for my lord a sure house, for the Lord fights the battles of my lord and there shall no evil be ever found in you. 29 If a man shall rise up persecuting you and seeking your life, yet shall the life of my lord be bound up in the bundle of life with the Lord God and you shall whirl the life of your enemies as in the midst of a sling. 30 It shall be when the Lord shall have accomplished for my lord all the good things he has spoken concerning you and shall appoint you to be ruler over Israel; 31 then this shall not be an abomination and offence to my lord, to have shed innocent blood without cause and for my lord to have avenged himself: and so may the Lord do good to my lord and you shall remember your handmaid to do her good.

32 David said to Abigaia, Blessed be the Lord God of Israel, who sent you this very day to meet me: 33 and blessed be your conduct and blessed be you, who have hindered me this very day from coming to shed blood and from avenging myself. 34 But surely as the Lord God of Israel lives, who hindered me this day from doing you harm, if you have not hasted and come to meet me, then I said: There shall surely not be left to Nabal till the morning one male. 35 David took of her hand all that she brought to him and said to her: Go in peace to your house: see, I have listened to your voice and accepted your petition.

36 And Abigaia came to Nabal: and, behold, he had a banquet in this house, as the banquet of a king and the heart of Nabal was merry within him, He was very drunk: and she told him nothing great or small till the morning light. 37 It came to pass in the morning when Nabal recovered from his wine, his wife told him these words; and his heart died within him, He became as a stone.

38 It came to pass after about ten days, that the Lord stroke Nabal, He died. 39 David heard it and said: Blessed be the Lord, who has judged the cause of my reproach at the hand of Nabal and has delivered his servant from the power of evil; and the Lord has returned the mischief of Nabal upon his own head.

David sent and spoke concerning Abigaia, to take her to himself for a wife. 40 So the servants of David came to Abigaia to Carmel and spoke to her, saying: David has sent us to you, to take you to himself for a wife. 41 And she arose and did reverence with her face to the earth and said: Behold, your servant is for a handmaid to wash the feet of your servants. 42 And Abigaia arose and mounted her ass and five young womens followed her: and she went after the servants of David and became his wife. 43 David took Achinaam out of Jezrael and they were both his wives. 44 And Saul gave Melchol his daughter, David's wife, to Phalti the son of Amis who was of Romma.

26:1 The Ziphites come out of the dry country to Saul to the hill, saying: Behold, David hides himself with us in the hill Echela, opposite Jessemon. 2 And Saul arose and went down to the wilderness of Ziph and with him went three thousand men chosen out of Israel, to seek David in the wilderness of Ziph. 3 And Saul encamped in the hill of Echela in front of Jessemon, by the way and David dwelt in the wilderness: and David saw that Saul came after him into the wilderness. 4 David sent spies and ascertained that Saul had come prepared out of Keila.

5 David arose secretly and goes into the place where Saul was sleeping and there was Abenner the son of Ner, the captain of his host: and Saul was sleeping in a chariot and the people had encamped along around him. 6 David answered and spoke to Abimelech the Chettite and to Abessa the son Saruia the brother of Joab, saying: Who will go in with me to Saul into the camp? And Abessa said: I will go in with you.

7 So David and Abessa go in among the people by night: and behold, Saul was fast asleep in the chariot and his spear was stuck in the ground near his head and Abenner and his people slept around him. 8 And Abessa said to David: The Lord has this day shut up your enemy into your hands and now I will strike him to the earth with the spear to the ground once for all and I will not strike him again. 9 David said to Abessa, Do not lay him low, for who shall lift up his hand against the anointed of the Lord and be guiltless? 10 David said: As the Lord lives, if the Lord strike him not, or his day come He die, or he go down to battle and be added to his fathers, do not so. 11 The Lord forbid it me that I should lift up my hand against the anointed of the Lord: and now take, I pray you, the spear from his bolster and the pitcher of water, Let us return home. 12 So David took the spear and the pitcher of water from his bolster and they went home: and there was no one that saw and no one that knew and there was no one that awoke, all being asleep, for a stupor from the Lord had fallen upon them.

13 So David went over to the other side and stood on the top of a hill afar off and there was a good distance between them. 14 David called to the people and spoke to Abenner, saying: will you not answer, Abenner? And Abenner answered and said: Who are you that callest? 15 David said to Abenner, are not you a man? And who is like you in Israel? Why then do you not guard your lord the king? For one out of the people went in to destroy your lord the king. 16 And this thing is not good which you have done. As the Lord lives, you are worthy of death, you who guard your lord the king, the anointed of the Lord: and now behold, I pray you, the spear of the king and the cruse of water: where are the articles that should be at his head?

17 And Saul recognized the voice of David and said: Is this your voice, son David? And David said: I am your servant, my lord, O king. 18 He said: Why does my lord thus pursue after his servant? For in what have I sinned? And what unrighteousness has been found in me? 19 And now let my lord the king hear the word of his servant. If God stirs you up against me, let your offering be acceptable: but if the sons of men, they are cursed before the Lord, for they have cast me out this day so that I should not be established in the inheritance of the Lord, saying: Go, serve other Gods. 20 And now let not my blood fall to the ground before the Lord, for the king of Israel has come forth to seek your life, as the night hawk pursues its prey in the mountains.

21 And Saul said: I have sinned: turn, son David, for I will not hurt you, because my life was precious in your eyes; and today I have been foolish and have erred exceedingly. 22 David answered and said: Behold, the spear of the king: let one of the servants come over and take it. 23 The Lord shall recompense each according to his righteousness and his truth, since the Lord delivered you this day into my hands and I would not lift my hand against the Lord's anointed. 24 And, behold, as your life has been precious this very day in my eyes, so let my life be precious before the Lord and may he protect me and deliver me out of all affliction. 25 And Saul said to David: Blessed be you, my son; and you shall surely do valiantly and surely prevail. David went on his way and Saul returned to his place.

27:1 David said in his heart, Now, shall I be one day delivered for death into the hands of Saul; and there is no good thing for me unless I should escape into the land of the Philistines and Saul should cease from seeking me through every coast of Israel: so I shall escape out of his hand. 2 So David arose and the six hundred men that were with him, He went to Anchus, son

Ammach, king of Geth. 3 David dwelt with Anchus, he and his men, each with his family; and David and both his wives, Achinaam, the Jezraelitess and Abigaia the wife of Nabal the Carmelite. 4 It was told Saul that David had fled to Geth; He no longer sought after him.

5 David said to Anchus, If now your servant has found grace in your eyes, let them give me, I pray you, a place in one of the cities in the country and I will dwell there: for why do your servant dwell with you in a royal city? 6 He gave him Sekelac in that day: therefore Sekelac came into possession of the king of Judea to this day. 7 The number of the days that David dwelt in the country of the Philistines was four months.

8 David and his men went up and made an attack on all the Gesirites and on the Amalekites: and behold, the land was inhabited, (even the land from Gelampsur) by those who come from the fortified cities even to the land of Egypt. 9 He stroke the land and saved neither man nor woman alive; and they took flocks and herds and asses and camels and raiment; and they returned and came to Anchus. 10 And Anchus said to David: On whom have you made an attack today? David said to Anchus, On the south of Judea and on the south of Jesmega and on the south of the Kenezite. 11 I have not saved man or woman alive to bring them to Geth, saying: for fear that they carry a report to Geth against us, saying: These things David does. And this was his manner all the days that David dwelt in the country of the Philistines. 12 So David had the full confidence of Anchus, who said: He is thoroughly disgraced among his people in Israel He shall be my servant for ever.

28:1 It came to pass in those days that the Philistines gathered themselves together with their armies to go out to fight with Israel; and Anchus said to David: Know surely, that you shall go forth to battle with me, you and your men. 2 David said to Anchus, Thus now you shall know what your servant will do. And Anchus said to David: So will I make you captain of my body-guard continually. 3 And Samuel died and all Israel lamented for him and they bury him in his city, in Armathaim. And Saul had removed those who had in them divining spirits and the wizards, out of the land. 4 The Philistines assemble themselves and come and encamp in Sonam: and Saul gathers all the men of Israel and they encamp in Gelbue. 5 And Saul saw the camp of the Philistines, He was alarmed and his heart was greatly dismayed. 6 And Saul enquired of the Lord; and the Lord answered him not by dreams, nor by manifestations, nor by prophets.

7 Then Saul said to his servants, Seek for me a woman who has in her a divining spirit and I will go to her and enquire of her: and his servants said to him: Behold, there is a woman who has in her a divining spirit at Aendor.

8 And Saul disguised himself and put on other raiment, He goes and two men with him and they come to the woman by night; He said to her: Divine to me, I pray you, by the divining spirit within you and bring up to me him whom I shall name to you. 9 The woman said to him: Behold now, you know what Saul has done, how he has cut off those who had in them divining spirits and the wizards from the land and why do you spread a snare for my life to destroy it? 10 And Saul swore to her and said: As the Lord lives, no injury shall come upon you on this account. 11 The woman said: Whom shall I bring up to you? He said: Bring up to me Samuel.

12 The woman saw Samuel and cried out with a loud voice: and the woman said to Saul, Why have you deceived me? For you are Saul. 13 The king said to her: Fear not; tell me whom you have seen. The woman said to him: I saw gods ascending out of the earth. 14 He said to her: What did you perceive? And she said to him: An upright man ascending out of the earth, He was clothed with a mantle. And Saul knew that this was Samuel, He stooped with his face to the earth and did obeisance¹ to him.

15 And Samuel said: Why have you troubled me, that I should come up? And Saul said: I am greatly distressed and the Philistines war against me and God has departed from me and no longer hearkens to me either by the hand of the prophets or by dreams: and now I have called you to tell me what I shall do. 16 And Samuel said: Why ask me, whereas the Lord has departed from you and taken part with your neighbor? 17 The Lord has done to you, as the Lord spoke by me; and the Lord will destroy your kingdom out of your hand and will give it to your neighbor David. 18 Because you did not hearken to the voice of the Lord and did not execute his fierce anger upon Amalec, therefore the Lord has done this thing to you this day. 19 The Lord shall deliver Israel with you into the hands of the Philistines and tomorrow you and your sons with you shall fall and the Lord shall deliver the army of Israel into the hands of the Philistines.

20 And Saul instantly fell at his full length upon the earth and was greatly afraid because of the words of Samuel; and there was no longer any strength in him, for he had eaten no bread all that day and all that night. 21 The woman went in to Saul and saw that he was greatly disquieted and said to him: Behold now, your handmaid has listened to your voice and I have put my life in my hand and have heard the words which you have spoken to me. 22 And now hearken, I pray you, to the voice of your handmaid and I will set before you a morsel of bread and eat and you shall be strengthened, for you will be going on your way. 23 But he would not eat; so his servants and the woman constrained him, He listened to their voice and rose up from the earth and sat upon a bench. 24 The woman had a fat heifer in the house; and she hastened and killed it; and she took meal and kneaded it and baked unleavened cakes. 25 And she brought the meat before Saul and before his servants; and they ate and rose up and departed that night.

29:1 The Philistines gather all their armies to Aphec and Israel encamped in Aendor, which is in Jezrael. 2 The lords of the Philistines went on by hundreds and thousands and David and his men went on in the rear with Anchus. 3 The lords of the Philistines said: Who are these that pass by? And Anchus said to the captains of the Philistines, Is not this David the servant of Saul king of Israel? He has been with us some time, even this second year and I have not found any fault in him from the day that he attached himself to me even until this day. 4 The captains of the Philistines were displeased at him and they say to him, Send the man away, Let him return to his place, where you did set him; Let him not come with us to the war, Let him not be a traitor in the camp: and by which will he be reconciled to his master? Will it not be with the heads of those men? 5 Is not this David whom they celebrated in dances, saying: Saul has stricken his thousands and David his ten thousands?

6 And Anchus called David and said to him: As the Lord lives, you are right and approved in my eyes and so is your going out and your coming in with me in the army and I have not found any evil to charge against you from the day that you came to me until this day: but you are not approved in the eyes of the lords. 7 Now, then return and go in peace, thus you shall not do evil in the sight of the lords of the Philistines.

8 David said to Anchus, What have I done to you? And what have you found in your servant from the first day that I was before you even until this day, that I should not come and war against the enemies of the lord my king?

9 And Anchus answered David, I know that you are good in my eyes, but the lords of the Philistines say, He shall not come with us to the war. 10 Now, then rise up early in the morning, you and the servants of your lord that have come with you and go to the place where I appointed you and entertain no evil thought in your heart, for you are good in my sight: and rise early for your journey when it is light and depart.

11 So David arose early, he and his men, to depart and guard the land of the Philistines: and the Philistines went up to Jezrael to battle.

30:1 It came to pass when David and his men had entered Sekelac on the third day, that Amalec had made an incursion upon the south and upon Sekelac and stricken Sekelac and burnt it with fire. 2 And as to the women and all things that were in it, great and small, they killed neither man nor woman, but carried them captives and went on their way.

3 David and his men came into the city, and, behold, it was burnt with fire; and their wives and their sons and their daughters were carried captive. 4 David and his men lifted up their voice and wept till there was no longer any power within them to weep. 5 And both the wives of David were carried captive, Achinaam, the Jezraelitess and Abigaia the wife of Nabal the Carmelite. 6 David was greatly distressed, because the people spoke of stoning him, because the soul of all the people was grieved, each for his sons and his daughters: but David strengthened himself in the Lord his God.

7 David said to Abiathar the priest the son of Achimelech, Bring near the ephod. 8 David enquired of the Lord, saying: Shall I pursue after this troop? Shall I overtake them? He said to him: Pursue, for you shall surely overtake them and you shall surely rescue the captives. 9 So David went, he an the six hundred men with him, an they come as far as the brook Bosor and the superfluous ones stopped. 10 He pursued them with four hundred men; and there remained behind two hundred men, who tarried on the other side of the brook Bosor.

11 They find an Egyptian in the field and they take him and bring him to David; and they gave him bread He ate and they caused him to drink water. 12 They gave him a piece of a cake of figs, He ate and his spirit was restored in him; for he had not eaten bread and had not drunk water three days and three nights. 13 David said to him: Whose are you? And from where are you? And the young man the Egyptian said: I am the servant of an Amalekite; and my master left me, because I was taken ill three days ago. 14 And we made an incursion on the south of the Chelethite and on the parts of Judea and on the south of Chelub and we burnt Sekelac with fire. 15 David said to him: will you bring me down to this troop? He said: Swear now to me by God, that you will not kill me and that you will not deliver me into the hands of my master and I will bring you down upon this troop.

16 So be brought him down to that place and behold, they were scattered abroad upon the surface of the whole land, eating and drinking and feasting because of all the great spoils which they had taken out of the land of the Philistines and out of the land of Juda. 17 David came upon them and stroke them from the morning till the evening and on the next day; and not one of them escaped, except four hundred young men, who were mounted on camels and fled. 18 David recovered all that the Amalekites had taken, He rescued both his wives. 19 And nothing was wanting to them of great or small, either of the spoils, or the sons and daughters, or anything that they had taken of theirs; and David recovered all. 20 He took all the flocks and the herds and led them away before the spoils: and it was said of these spoils, These are the spoils of David.

21 David comes to the two hundred men who were left behind that they should not follow after David, He had caused them to remain by the brook of Bosor; and they came forth to meet David and to meet his people with him: and David drew near to the people and they asked him how he did.

22 Then every ill-disposed and bad man of the soldiers who had gone with David, answered and said: Because they did not pursue together with us, we will not give them of the spoils which we have recovered, only let each one lead away with him his wife and his children, Let them return. 23 David said: you shall not do so, after the Lord has delivered the enemy to us and guarded us and the Lord has delivered into our hands the troop that came against u. 24 Who will hearken to these your words? For they are not inferior to us; for according to the portion of him that went down to the battle, so shall be the portion of him that abides with the baggage; they shall share alike. 25 It came to pass from that day forward, that it became an ordinance and a custom in Israel until this day.

26 David came to Sekelac and sent of the spoils to the elders of Juda and to his friends, saying: Behold some of the spoils of the enemies of the Lord; 27 to those in Baethsur and to those in Rama of the south and to those in Gethor. 28 And to those in Aroer and to those in Ammadi and to those in Saphi and to those in Esthie, 29 and to those in Geth and to those in Cimath and to those in Saphec and to those in Themath and to those in Carmel and to those in the cities of Jeremeel and to those in the cities of the Kenezite; 30 and to those in Jerimuth and to those in Bersabee and to those in Nombe, 31 and to those in Chebron and to all the places which David and his men had passed through.

31:1 The Philistines fought with Israel: and the men of Israel fled from before the Philistines and they fall down wounded in the mountain in Gelbue. 2 The Philistines press closely on Saul and his sons and the Philistines strike Jonathan and Aminadab and Melchisa son of Saul. 3 The battle prevails against Saul and the shooters with arrows, even the archers find him, He was wounded under the ribs. 4 And Saul said to his armor-bearer, Draw your sword and pierce me through with it; for fear that these uncircumcised come and pierce me through and mock me. But his armor-bearer would not, for he feared greatly: so Saul took his sword and fell upon it. 5 And his armor-bearer saw that Saul was dead, He fell also himself upon his sword and died with him. 6 So Saul died and his three sons and his armor-bearer, in that day together.

7 The men of Israel who were on the other side of the valley and those beyond Jordan, saw that the men of Israel fled and that Saul and his sons were dead; and they leave their cities and flee: and the Philistines come and dwell in them.

8 It came to pass on the morrow that the Philistines come to strip the dead and they find Saul and his three sons fallen on the mountains of Gelbue.

9 They turned him and stripped off his armor and sent it into the land of the Philistines, sending round glad tidings to their idols and to the people. 10 They set up his armor at the temple of Astarte and they fastened his body on the wall of Baethsam.

11 The inhabitants of Jabis Galaad hear what the Philistines did to Saul. 12 They rose up, even every man of might and marched all night and took the body of Saul and the body of Jonathan his son from the wall of Baethsam; and they bring them to Jabis and burn them there. 13 They take their bones and bury them in the field that is in Jabis and fast seven days.

II KINGDOMS (2 SAMUEL) (ΒΑΣΙΛΕΙΩΝ Β)

1:1 It came to pass after Saul was dead, that David returned from smiting Amalec and David abode two days in Sekelac. 2 It came to pass on the third day, that, behold, a man came from the camp, from the people of Saul and his garments were rent and earth was upon his head: and it came to pass when he went in to David, that he fell upon the earth and did obeisance¹ to him.

3 David said to him: Where do you come from? He said to him: I have escaped out of the camp of Israel. 4 David said to him: What is the matter? Tell me. He said: The people fled out of the battle and many of the people have fallen and are dead and Saul and Jonathan his son are dead.

5 David said to the young man who brought him the tidings, How do you know that Saul and Jonathan his son are dead? 6 The young man that brought the tidings, said to him: I happened accidentally to be upon mount Gelbue; and, behold, Saul was leaning upon his spear, and, behold, the chariots and captains of horse pressed hard upon him. 7 He looked behind him and saw me and called me; and I said: Behold, here am I. 8 He said to me: Who are you? And I said: I am an Amalekite. 9 He said to me: Stand, I pray you, over me and kill me, for a dreadful darkness has come upon me, for all my life is in me. 10 So I stood over him and killed him, because I knew he would not live after he was fallen; and I took the crown that was upon his head and the bracelet that was upon his arm and I have brought them to this place to my lord.

11 David laid hold of his garments and rent them; and all the men who were with him rent their garments. 12 They lamented and wept and fasted till evening, for Saul and for Jonathan his son and for the people of Juda and for the house of Israel, because they were stricken with the sword.

13 David said to the young man who brought the tidings to him, from where are you? He said: I am the son of an Amalekite sojourner.

14 David said to him: How was it you were not afraid to lift your hand to destroy the anointed of the Lord? 15 David called one of his young men and said: Go and fall upon him: He stroke him, He died. 16 David said to him: your blood be upon your own head; for your mouth has testified against you, saying: I have slain the anointed of the Lord.

17 David lamented with this lamentation over Saul and over Jonathan his son. 18 He gave orders to teach it the sons of Juda: behold, it is written in the book of Right.

19 Set up a pillar, O Israel, for the slain that died upon your high places: how are the mighty fallen! 20 Tell it not in Geth and tell it not as glad tidings in the streets of Ascalon, for fear that the daughters of the Philistines rejoice, for fear that the daughters of the uncircumcised triumph. 21 You mountains of Gelbue, let not dew no rain descend upon you, nor fields of first-fruits be upon you, for there the shield of the mighty ones has been grievously assailed; the shield of Saul was not anointed with oil. 22 From the blood of the slain and from the fat of the mighty, the bow of Jonathan returned not empty; and the sword of Saul turned not back empty. 23 Saul and Jonathan, the beloved and the beautiful, were not divided: comely were they in their life and in their death they were not divided: they were swifter than eagles and they were stronger than lions. 24 Daughters of Israel, weep for Saul, who clothed you with scarlet together with your adorning, who added golden ornaments to your apparel. 25 How are the mighty fallen in the midst of the battle! O Jonathan, even the slain ones upon your high places! 26 I am grieved for you, my brother Jonathan; you were very lovely to me; your love to me was wonderful beyond the love of women. 27 How are the mighty fallen and the weapons of war perished!

2:1 It came to pass after this that David enquired of the Lord, saying: Shall I go up into one of the cities of Juda? And the Lord said to him: Go up. David said: Where shall I go up? He said: To Chebron. 2 David went up to that place to Chebron, he and both his wives, Achinaam the Jezraelitess and Abigaia the wife of Nabal the Carmelite, 3 and the men that were with him, every one and his family; and they dwelt in the cities of Chebron.

4 The men of Judea come and anoint David there to reign over the house of Juda; and they reported to David, saying: The men of Jabis of the country of Galaad have buried Saul. 5 David sent messengers to the rulers of Jabis of the country of Galaad and David said to them: Blessed be of the Lord, because you have accomplished this mercy toward your lord, even toward Saul the anointed of the Lord and you have buried him and Jonathan his son. 6 And now may the Lord deal in mercy and truth towards you: and I also will seek retaliation towards you this good deed, because you have done this. 7 And now let your hands be made strong and be valiant; for your master Saul is dead and moreover the house of Juda have anointed me to be king over them.

8 But Abenner, the son of Ner, the commander-in-chief of Saul's army, took Jebosthe son of Saul and brought him up from the camp to Manaem 9 and made him king over the land of Galaad and over Thasiri and over Jezrael and over Ephraim and over Benjamin and over all Israel. 10 Jebosthe, Saul's son was forty years old when he reigned over Israel; He reigned two years, but not over the house of Juda, who followed David.

11 The days which David reigned in Chebron over the house of Juda were seven years and six months.

12 And Abenner the son of Ner went forth and the servants of Jebosthe the son of Saul, from Manaem to Gabaon. 13 Joab the son of Saruia and the servants of David, went forth from Chebron and met them at the fountain of Gabaon, at the same place: and these sat down by the fountain on this side and those by the fountain on that side. 14 And Abenner said to Joab, Let now the young men arise and play before us. Joab said: Let them arise. 15 And there arose and passed over by number twelve of the children of Benjamin, belonging to Jebosthe the son of Saul and twelve of the servants of David. 16 They seized every one the head of his neighbor with his hand and his sword was thrust into the side of his neighbor and they fall down together: and the name of that place was called The portion of the treacherous ones, which is in Gabaon. 17 The battle was very severe on that day; and Abenner and the men of Israel were worsted before the servants of David. 18 And there were there the three sons of Saruia, Joab and Abessa and Asael: and Asael was swift in his feet as a roe in the field.

19 And Asael followed after Abenner and turned not to go to the right hand or to the left from following Abenner. 20 And Abenner looked behind him and said: are you Asael himself? He said: I am. 21 And Abenner said to him: Turn you to the right hand or to the left and lay hold for yourself on one of the young men and take to yourself his armor: but Asael would not turn back from following him. 22 And Abenner said yet again to Asael, Stand aloof from me, for fear that I strike you to the ground? And how should I lift up my face to Joab? 23 And what does this mean? Return to Joab your brother? But he would not stand aloof; and Abenner strikes him with the hinder end of the spear on the loins and the spear went out behind him, He falls there and dies on the spot: and it came to pass that every one that came to the place where Asael fell and died, stood still. 24 Joab and Abessa pursued after Abenner and the sun went down: and they went as far as the hill of Amman, which is in the front of Gai, by the desert way of Gabaon.

25 The children of Benjamin who followed Abenner gather themselves together and they formed themselves into one body and stood on the top of a hill. 26 And Abenner called Joab and said: Shall the sword devour perpetually? Do you know not that it will be bitter at last? How long then will you refuse to tell the people to turn from following our brothers? 27 Joab said: As the Lord lives, if you have not spoken, even from the morning the people had gone up every one from following his brother. 28 Joab sounded the trumpet and all the people departed and did not pursue after Israel and did not fight any longer.

29 And Abenner and his men departed at evening and went all that night and crossed over Jordan and went along the whole adjacent country and they come to the camp. 30 Joab returned from following Abenner, He assembled all the people and there were missing of the people of David, nineteen men and Asael. 31 The servants of David stroke of the children of Benjamin, of the men of Abenner, three hundred and sixty men belonging to him.

32 They take up Asael and bury him in the tomb of his father in Bethleem. Joab and the men with him went all the night and the morning rose upon them in Chebron.

3:1 And there was war for a long time between the house of Saul and the house of David; and the house of David grew continually stronger; but the house of Saul grew continually weaker. 2 And sons were born to David in Chebron: and his first-born was Ammon the son of Achinoom the Jezraelitess. 3 And his second son was Daluia, the son of Abigaia the Carmelitess; and the third, Abessalom the son of Maacha the daughter of Tholmi the king of Gessir. 4 The fourth was Ornia, the son of Aggith and the fifth was Saphatia, the son of Abital. 5 The sixth was Jetheraam, the son of Ægal the wife of David. These were born to David in Chebron.

6 It came to pass while there was war between the house of Saul and the house of David, that Abenner was governing the house of Saul. 7 And Saul had a concubine, Respha, the daughter of Jol; and Jebosthe the son of Saul said to Abenner, Why have you gone in to my father's concubine? 8 And Abenner was very angry with Jebosthe for this saying; and Abenner said to him: Am I a dog's head? I have this day accomplished kindness with the house of Saul your father and with his brothers and friends and have not gone over to the house of David and do you this day seek a charge against me concerning injury to a woman? 9 God do thus and more also to Abenner, if as the Lord swore to David, so do I not to him this day; 10 to take away the kingdom from the house of Saul and to raise up the throne of David over Israel and over Juda from Dan to Bersabee. 11 Jebosthe do you think not any longer answer Abenner a word, because he feared him.

12 And Abenner sent messengers to David to Thaelam where he was, immediately, saying: Make your covenant with me, and, behold, my hand is with you to bring back to you all the house of Israel. 13 David said: With a good will I will make with you a covenant: only I demand one condition of you, saying: You shall not see my face, unless you bring Melchol the daughter of Saul when you come to see my face. 14 David sent messengers to Jebosthe the son of Saul, saying: Restore me my wife Melchol, whom I took for a hundred s of the Philistines. 15 Jebosthe sent and took her from her husband, even from Phaltiel the son of Selle. 16 And her husband went with her weeping behind her as far as Barakim. And Abenner said to him: Go, return; He returned.

17 And Abenner spoke to the elders of Israel, saying: In former days you sought David to reign over you; 18 and now perform it: for the Lord has spoken concerning David, saying: By the hand of my servant David I will save Israel out of the hand of all their enemies. 19 And Abenner spoke in the ears of Benjamin: and Abenner went to speak in the ears of David at Chebron, all that seemed good in the eyes of Israel and in the eyes of the house of Benjamin. 20 And Abenner came to David to Chebron and with him twenty men: and David made for Abenner and his men with him a banquet of wine. 21 And Abenner said to David: I will arise now and go and gather to my lord the king all Israel; and I will make with him a covenant and you shall reign over all whom your soul desires. David sent away Abenner, He departed in peace.

22 And, behold, the servants of David and Joab arrived from their expedition and they brought much spoil with them: and Abenner was not with David in Chebron, because he had sent him away, He had departed in peace. 23 Joab and all his army came and it was reported to Joab, saying: Abenner the son of Ner has come to David and David has let him go, He has departed in peace. 24 Joab went in to the king and said: What is this that you have done? Behold, Abenner came to you; and why have you let him go, He has departed in peace? 25 Do you know not the mischief of Abenner the son of Ner, that he came to deceive you and to know your going out and your coming in and to know all things that you do?

26 Joab returned from David and sent messengers to Abenner after him; and they bring him back from the well of Seiram: but David knew it not. 27 He brought back Abenner to Chebron and Joab caused him to turn aside from the gate to speak to him, laying wait for him: He stroke him there in the loins, He died for the blood of Asael the brother of Joab.

28 David heard of it afterwards and said: I and my kingdom are guiltless before the Lord even for ever of the blood of Abenner the son of Ner. 29 Let it fall upon the head of Joab and upon all the house of his father; Let there not be wanting of the house of Joab one that has an issue, or a leper, or that leans on a staff, or that falls by the sword, or that wants bread. 30 For Joab and Abessa his brother laid wait continually for Abenner, because he killed Asael their brother at Gabaon in the battle.

31 David said to Joab and to all the people with him, destroy your garments and gird yourselves with sackcloth and lament before Abenner. And king David followed the bier. 32 They bury Abenner in Chebron: and the king lifted up his voice and wept at his tomb and all the people wept for Abenner.

33 The king mourned over Abenner and said: Shall Abenner die according to the death of Nabal? 34 your hands were not bound and your feet were not put in fetters: one brought you not near as Nabal; you did fall before children of iniquity. 35 All the people assembled to weep for him. All the people came to cause David to eat bread while it was yet day: and David swore, saying: God do so to me and more also, if I eat bread or any thing else before the sun goes down. 36 All the people took notice and all things that the king did before the people were pleasing in their sight. 37 So all the people and all Israel perceived in that day, that it was not of the king to kill Abenner the son of Ner.

38 The king said to his servants, Do you know not that a great prince is this day fallen in Israel? 39 And that I am this day a mere kinsman of his and as it were a subject; but these men the sons of Saruia are too hard for me: the Lord reward the evil-doer according to his wickedness.

4:1 Jebosthe the son of Saul heard that Abenner the son of Ner had died in Chebron; and his hands were paralyzed and all the men of Israel grew faint. 2 Jebosthe the son of Saul had two men that were captains of bands: the name of the one was Baana and the name of the other Rechab, sons of Remmon the Berothite of the children of Benjamin; for Beroth was reckoned to the children of Benjamin. 3 The Berothites ran away to Gethaim and were sojourners there until this day.

4 Jonathan Saul's son had a son lame of his feet, five years old, He was in the way when the news of Saul and Jonathan his son came from Jezrael and his nurse took him up and fled; and it came to pass as he hasted and retreated, that he fell and was lamed. And his name was Memphibosthe.

5 And Rechab and Baana the sons of Remmon the Berothite went and they came in the heat of the day into the house of Jebosthe; He was sleeping on a bed at noon. 6 And, behold, the porter of the house winnowed wheat, He slumbered and slept: and the brothers Rechab and Baana went secretly into the house: 7 Jebosthe was sleeping on his bed in his chamber: and they strike him and kill him and take off his head: and they took his head and went all the night by the western road.

8 They brought the head of Jebosthe to David to Chebron and they said to the king, Behold the head of Jebosthe the son of Saul your enemy, who sought your life; and the Lord has executed for my lord the king vengeance on his enemies, as it is this day: even on Saul your enemy and on his seed.

9 David answered and Rechab and Baana his brother, the sons of Remmon the Berothite and said to them: As the Lord lives, who has redeemed my soul out of all affliction; 10 he that reported to me that Saul was dead, even he was as one bringing glad tidings before me: but I seized him and killed him in Sekelac, to whom I ought, as he thought, to have given a reward for his tidings. 11 And now evil men have slain a righteous men in his house on his bed: now then I will require his blood of your hand and I will destroy you from off the earth. 12 David commanded his young men and they kill them and cut off their hands and their feet; and they hung them up at the fountain in Chebron: and they buried the head of Jebosthe in the tomb of Abenezer the son of Ner.

5:1 All the tribes of Israel come to David to Chebron and they said to him: Behold, we are your bone and your flesh. 2 And heretofore Saul being king over us, you was he that did lead out and bring in Israel: and the Lord said to you, You shall feed my people Israel and you shall be for a leader to my people Israel. 3 All the elders of Israel come to the king to Chebron; and king David made a covenant with them in Chebron before the Lord; and they anoint David king over all Israel. 4 David was thirty years old when he began to reign, He reigned forty years. 5 Seven years and six months he reigned in Chebron over Juda and thirty-three years he reigned over all Israel and Juda in Jerusalem.

6 David and his men, departed to Jerusalem, to the Jebusite that inhabited the land: and it was said to David: You shall not come in to this place: for the blind and the lame withstood him, saying: David shall not come in to this place. 7 David took first the hold of Zion: this is the city of David. 8 David said on that day, Every one that strikes the Jebusite, let him attack with the dagger both the lame and the blind and those who hate the soul of David. Therefore they say, The lame and the blind shall not enter into the house of the Lord. 9 David dwelt in the hold and it was called the city of David, He built the city itself around from the citadel, He built his own house. 10 David advanced and became great and the Lord Almighty was with him.

11 And Chiram king of Tyre sent messengers to David and cedar wood and carpenters and stone-masons: and they built a house for David. 12 David knew that the Lord had prepared him to be king over Israel and that his kingdom was exalted for the sake of his people Israel.

13 David took again wives and concubines out of Jerusalem, after he came from Chebron: and David had still more sons and daughters born to him. 14 These are the names of those who were born to him in Jerusalem; Sammus and Sobab and Nathan and Solomon. 15 And Ebear and Elisue and Naphec and Jephies. 16 And Elisama and Elidae and Eliphath, (5:16A) Samae, Jessibath, Nathan, Galamaan, Jebaar, Theesus, Eliphath, Naged, Naphec, Janathan, Leasamys, Baalimath, Eliphaath.

17 The Philistines heard that David was anointed king over Israel; and all the Philistines went up to seek David; and David heard of it and went down to the strong hold. 18 The Philistines came and assembled in the valley of the giants.

19 David enquired of the Lord, saying: Shall I go up against the Philistines? And will you deliver them into my hands? And the Lord said to David: Go up, for I will surely deliver the Philistines into your hands. 20 David came from Upper Breaches and stroke the Philistines there: and David said: The Lord has destroyed the hostile Philistines before me, as water is dispersed; therefore the name of that place was called Over Breaches. 21 They leave there their gods and David and his men with him took them.

22 The Philistines came up yet again and assembled in the valley of Giants. 23 David enquired of the Lord: and the Lord said: You shall not go up to meet them: turn from them and you shall meet them near the place of weeping. 24 It shall come to pass when you hear the sound of a clashing together from the grove of weeping, then you shall go down to them, for then the Lord shall go forth before you to make havoc in the battle with the Philistines. 25 David did as the Lord commanded him and stroke the Philistines from Gabaon as far as the land of Gazera.

6:1 David again gathered all the young men of Israel, about seventy thousand. 2 David arose and went, he and all the people that were with him and some of the rulers of Juda, on an expedition to a distant place, to bring back for there the ark of God, on which the name of the Lord of Host who dwells between the cherubim upon it is called. 3 They put the ark of the Lord on a new waggon and took it out of the house of Aminadab who lived on the hill and Oza and his brothers the sons of Aminadab drove the waggon with the ark. 4 And his brothers went before the ark. 5 David and the children of Israel were playing before the Lord on well-tuned instruments mightily and with songs and with harps and with lutes and with drums and with cymbals and with pipes.

6 They come as far as the threshing floor of Nachor: and Oza reached forth his hand to the ark of God to keep it steady and took hold of it; for the ox shook it out of its place. 7 The Lord was very angry with Oza; and God stroke him there: He died there by the ark of the Lord before God. 8 David was dispirited because the Lord made a breach upon Oza; and that place was called the breach of Oza until this day. 9 David feared the Lord in that day, saying: How shall the ark of the Lord come in to me? 10 David would not bring in the ark of the covenant of the Lord to himself into the city of David: and David turned it aside into the house of Abeddera the Gethite. 11 The ark of the Lord dwelt in the house of Abeddera the Gethite three months and the Lord blessed all the house of Abeddera and all his possessions.

12 It was reported to king David, saying: The Lord has blessed the house of Abeddera and all that he has, because of the ark of the Lord. David went and brought up the Ark of the Lord from the house of Abeddera to the city of David with gladness. 13 And there were with him bearing the ark seven bands and for a sacrifice a calf and lambs. 14 David sounded with well-tuned instruments before the Lord and David was clothed with a fine long robe. 15 David and all the house of Israel brought up the ark of the Lord with shouting and with the sound of a trumpet.

16 It came to pass as the ark arrived at the city of David, that Melchol the daughter of Saul looked through the window and saw king David dancing and playing before the Lord; and she despised him in her heart.

17 They bring the ark of the Lord and set it in its place in the midst of the tabernacle which David pitched for it: and David offered whole-burnt-offerings before the Lord and peace-offerings. 18 David made an end of offering the whole-burnt-offerings and peace-offerings and blessed the people in the name of the Lord of Hosts. 19 He distributed to all the people, even to all the host of Israel from Dan to Bersabee, both men and women, to every one a cake of bread and a joint of meat and a cake from the frying-pan: and all the people departed every one to his home.

20 David returned to bless his house. And Melchol the daughter of Saul came out to meet David and saluted him and said: How was the king of Israel glorified today, who was today uncovered in the eyes of the handmaids of his servants, as one of the dancers wantonly uncovers himself! 21 David said to Melchol, I will dance before the Lord. Blessed be the Lord who chose me before your father and before all his house, to make me head over his people, even over Israel: therefore I will play and dance before the Lord. 22 I will again uncover myself thus and I will be vile in your eyes and with the maid-servants by whom you said that I was not had in honor. 23 And Melchol the daughter of Saul had no child till the day of her death.

7:1 It came to pass when the king sat in his house and the Lord had given him an inheritance on every side free from all his enemies around him; 2 that the king said to Nathan the prophet, Behold now, I live in a house of cedar and the ark of the Lord dwells in the midst of a tent. 3 And Nathan said to the king, Go and do all that is in your heart, for the Lord is with you.

4 It came to pass in that night, that the word of the Lord came to Nathan, saying: 5 Go and say to my servant David, Thus says the Lord, You shall not build me a house for me to dwell in. 6 For I have not dwelt in a house from the day that I brought up the children of Israel out of Egypt to this day, but I have been walking in a dwell and in a tent, 7 wheresoever I went with all Israel. Have I ever spoken to any of the tribes of Israel, which I commanded to tend my people Israel, saying: Why have you not built me a house of Cedar?

8 And now thus shall you say to my servant David, Thus says the Lord Almighty, I took you from the sheepcote, that you should be a prince over my people, over Israel. 9 I was with you wheresoever you went and I destroyed all your enemies before you and I made you renowned according to the renown of the great ones on the earth. 10 I will appoint a place for my people Israel and will plant them and they shall dwell by themselves and shall be no more distressed; and the son of iniquity shall no more afflict them, as he has done from the beginning, 11 from the days when I appointed judges over my people Israel: and I will give you rest from all your enemies and the Lord will tell you that you shall build a house to him. 12 It shall come to pass when your days shall have been fulfilled and you shall sleep with your fathers, that I will raise up your seed after you, even your own issue and I will establish his kingdom. 13 He shall build for me a house to my name and I will set up his throne even for ever. 14 I will be to him a father, He shall be to me a son. When he happens to transgress, then will I chasten him with the rod of men and with the stripes of the sons of men. 15 But my mercy I will not take from him, as I took it from those whom I removed from my presence. 16 And his house shall be made sure and his kingdom for ever before me and his throne shall be set up for ever.

17 According to all these words and according to all this vision, so Nathan spoke to David.

18 And king David came in and sat before the Lord and said: Who am I, O Lord, my Lord and what is my house, that you have loved me to this place? 19 Whereas I was very little before you, O Lord, my Lord, yet you spoke concerning the house of your servant for a long time to to come. And is this the law of man, O Lord, my Lord? 20 And what shall David yet say to you? And now you know your servant, O Lord, my Lord. 21 You have accomplished for your servant's sake and according to your heart you have accomplished all this greatness, to make it known to your servant, 22 that he may magnify you, O my Lord; for there is no one like you and there is no

God, but you among all of whom we have heard with our ears. 23 And what other nation in the earth is as your people Israel? Whereas God was his guide, to redeem for himself a people to make you a name, to do mightily and nobly, so that you should cast out nations and their tabernacles from the presence of your people, whom you did redeem for yourself out of Egypt? 24 You have prepared for yourself your people Israel to be a people for ever and you, Lord, have become their God. 25 And now, O my Lord, the Almighty Lord God of Israel, confirm the word for ever which you have spoken concerning your servant and his house: and now as you have said: 26 Let your name be magnified for ever. 27 Almighty Lord God of Israel, you have uncovered the ear of your servant, saying: I will build you a house: therefore your servant has found in his heart to pray this prayer to you. 28 And now, O Lord my Lord, you are God; and your words will be true and you have spoken these good things concerning your servant. 29 And now begin and bless the house of your servant, that it may continue for ever before you; for you, O Lord, my Lord, have spoken and the house of your servant shall be blessed with your blessing so as to continue for ever.

8:1 It came to pass after this, that David stroke the Philistines and put them to flight and David took the tribute from out of the hand of the Philistines.

2 David stroke Moab and measured them out with lines, having laid them down on the ground: and there were two lines for slaying and two lines he kept alive: and Moab became servants to David, yielding tribute.

3 David stroke Adraazar the son of Raab king of Suba, as he went to extend his power to the river Euphrates. 4 David took a thousand of his chariots and seven thousand horsemen and twenty thousand footmen: and David houghed all his chariot horses, He reserved to himself a hundred chariots. 5 And Syria of Damascus comes to help Adraazar king of Suba and David stroke twenty-two thousand men belonging to the Syrian. 6 David placed a garrison in Syria near Damascus and the Syrians became servants and tributaries to David: and the Lord preserved David wherever he went. 7 David took the golden bracelets which were on the servants of Adraazar king of Suba and brought them to Jerusalem. And Susakim king of Egypt took them when he went up to Jerusalem in the days of Roboam son of Solomon. 8 And king David took from Metebac and from the choice cities of Adraazar, very much brass: with that Solomon made the brazen sea and the pillars and the lavers and all the furniture.

9 And You the king of Hemath heard that David had stricken all the host of Adraazar. 10 And You sent Jedduram his son to king David, to ask him of his welfare and to congratulate him on his fighting against Adraazar and smiting him, for he was an enemy to Adraazar: and in his hands were vessels of silver and vessels of gold and vessels of brass. 11 These king David consecrated to the Lord, with the silver and with the gold which he consecrated out of all the cities which he conquered, 12 out of Idumea and out of Moab and from the children of Ammon and from the Philistines and from Amalec and from the spoils of Adraazar son of Raab king of Suba.

13 David made himself a name: and when he returned he stroke Idumea in Gebelem to the number of eighteen thousand. 14 He set garrisons in Idumea, even in all Idumea: and all the Idumeans were servants to the king. The Lord preserved David wherever he went.

15 David reigned over all Israel: and David accomplished judgment and justice over all his people. 16 Joab the son of Saruia was over the host; and Josaphat the son of Achilud was keeper of the records. 17 And Sadoc the son of Achitob and Achimelech son of Abiathar, were priests; and Sasa was the scribe, 18 and Banaeas son of Jodae was councillor and the Chelethite and the Phelethite and the sons of David, were princes of the court.

9:1 David said: Is there yet any one left in the house of Saul, that I may deal kindly with him for Jonathan's sake? 2 And there was a servant of the house of Saul and his name was Siba: and they call him to David; and the king said to him: are you Siba? He said: I am your servant. 3 The king said: Is there yet a man left of the house of Saul, that I may act towards him with the mercy of God? And Siba said to the king, There is yet a son of Jonathan, lame of his feet. 4 The king said: Where is he? And Siba said to the king, Behold, he is in the house of Machir the son of Amiel of Lodabar. 5 And king David went and took him out of the house of Machir the son Amiel of Lodabar.

6 And Memphibosthe the son of Jonathan the son of Saul comes to the king David, He fell upon his face and did obeisance¹ to him: and David said to him: Memphibosthe: He said: Behold your servant. 7 David said to him: Fear not, for I will surely deal mercifully with you for the sake of Jonathan your father and I will restore to you all the land of Saul the father of your father; and you shall eat bread at my table continually. 8 And Memphibosthe did obeisance² and said: Who am I your servant, that you have looked upon a dead dog like me?

9 The king called Siba the servant of Saul and said to him: All that belonged to Saul and to all his house have I given to the son of your lord. 10

And you and your sons and your servants, shall till the land for him; and you shall bring in bread to the son of your lord, He shall eat bread: and Memphibosthe the son of your lord shall eat bread continually at my table. Now, Siba had fifteen sons and twenty servants. 11 And Siba said to the king, According to all that my lord the king has commanded his servant, so will your servant do. And Memphibosthe did eat at the table of David, as one of the sons of the king. 12 And Memphibosthe had a little son and his name was Micha: and all the household of Siba were servants to Memphibosthe. 13 And Memphibosthe dwelt in Jerusalem, for he continually ate at the table of the king; He was lame in both his feet.

10:1 It came to pass after this that the king of the children of Ammon died and Annon his son reigned in his stead. 2 David said: I will show mercy to Annon the son of Naas, as his father dealt mercifully with me. David sent to comfort him concerning his father by the hand of his servants; and the servants of David came into the land of the children of Ammon. 3 The princes of the children of Ammon said to Annon their lord, Is it to honor your father before you that David has sent comforters to you? Has not David rather sent his servants to you that they should search the city and spy it out and examine it? 4 And Annon took the servants of David and shaved their beards and cut off their garments in the midst as far as their haunches and sent them away.

5 They brought David word concerning the men; He sent to meet them, for the men were greatly dishonored: and the king said: Remain in Jericho till your beards have grown and then you shall return.

6 The children of Ammon saw that the people of David were ashamed; and the children of Ammon sent and hired the Syrians of Baethraam and the Syrians of Suba and Roob, twenty thousand footmen and the king of Amalec with a thousand men and Istob with twelve thousand men.

7 David heard and sent Joab and all his host, even the mighty men. 8 The children of Ammon went forth and set the battle in array by the door of the gate: those of Syria, Suba and Roob and Istob and Amalec, being by themselves in the field. 9 Joab saw that the front of the battle was against him from that which was opposed in front and from behind, He chose out some of all the young men of Israel and they set themselves in array against Syria. 10 The rest of the people he gave into the hand of Abessa his brother and they set the battle in array opposite to the children of Ammon. 11 He said: If Syria be too strong for me, then shall you help me: and if the children of Ammon be too strong for you, then will we be ready to help you. 12 Be courageous, Let us be strong for our people and for the sake of the cities of our God and the Lord shall do that which is good in his eyes.

13 Joab and his people with him advanced to battle against Syria and they fled from before him. 14 The children of Ammon saw that the Syrians were fled and they fled from before Abessa and entered into the city: and Joab returned from the children of Ammon and came to Jerusalem.

15 The Syrians saw that they were worsted before Israel and they gathered themselves together. 16 And Adraazar sent and gathered the Syrians from the other side of the river Chalamak and they came to Ælam; and Sobac the captain of the host of Adraazar was at their head.

17 It was reported to David, He gathered all Israel and went over Jordan and came to Ælam: and the Syrians set the battle in array against David and fought with him. 18 And Syria fled from before Israel and David destroyed of Syria seven hundred chariots and forty thousand horsemen,

He stroke Sobac the captain of his host, He died there. 19 All the kings the servants of Adraazar saw that they were put to the worse before Israel and they went over to Israel and served them: and Syria was afraid to help the children of Ammon any more.

11:1 It came to pass when the time o the year for kings going out to battle had come round, that David sent Joab and his servants with him and all Israel; and they destroyed the children of Ammon and besieged Rabbath: but David remained at Jerusalem.

2 It came to pass toward evening, that David arose off his couch and walked on the roof of the king's house and saw from the roof a woman bathing; and the woman was very beautiful to look upon. 3 David sent and enquired about the woman: and one said: Is not this Bersabee the daughter of Eliab, the wife of Urias the Chettite?

4 David sent messengers and took her and went in to her, He lay with her: and she was purified from her uncleanness and returned to her house. 5 The woman conceived; and she sent and told David and said: I am with child. 6 David sent to Joab, saying: Send me Urias the Chettite; and Joab sent Urias to David.

7 And Urias arrived and went in to him and David asked him how Joab was and how the people were and how the war went on. 8 David said to Urias, Go to your house and wash your feet: and Urias departed from the house of the king and a portion of meat from the king followed him. 9 And Urias slept at the door of the king with the servants of his lord and went not down to his house. 10 They brought David word, saying: Urias has not gone down to his house. David said to Urias, are you not come from a journey? Why have you not gone down to your house? 11 And Urias said to David: The ark and Israel and Juda dwell in tents; and my lord

Joab and the servants of my lord, are encamped in the open fields; and shall I go into my house to eat and drink and lie with my wife? How should I do this? As your soul lives, I will not do this thing. 12 David said to Urias, Remain here today also and tomorrow I will let you go. So Urias remained in Jerusalem that day and the day following.

13 David called him, He ate before him and drank, He made him drunk: He went out in the evening to lie upon his bed with the servants of his lord and went not down to his house.

14 The morning came and David wrote a letter to Joab and sent it by the hand of Urias. 15 He wrote in the letter, saying: Station Urias in front of the severe part of the fight and retreat from behind him, so shall he be wounded and die.

16 It came to pass while Joab was watching against the city, that he set Urias in a place where he knew that valiant men were. 17 The men of the city went out and fought with Joab: and some of the people of the servants of David fell and Urias the Chettite died also.

18 Joab sent and reported to David all the events of the war, so as to tell them to the king. 19 He charged the messenger, saying when you have finished reporting all the events of the war to the king, 20 then it shall come to pass if the anger of the king shall arise, He shall say to you, Why did you draw near to the city to fight? Knew you not that they would shoot from off the wall? 21 Who stroke Abimelech the son of Jerobaal son of Ner? Did not a woman cast a piece of a millstone upon him from above the wall, He died in Thamasi? Why did you draw near to the wall? Then you shall say, your servant Urias the Chettite is also dead.

22 The messenger of Joab went to the king to Jerusalem, He came and reported to David all that Joab told him, all the affairs of the war. David was very angry with Joab and said to the messenger, Why did you draw near to the wall to fight? Knew you not that you would be wounded from off the wall? Who stroke Abimelech the son of Jerobaal? Did not a woman cast upon him a piece of millstone from the wall, He died in Thamasi? Why did you draw near to the wall? 23 The messenger said to David: The men prevailed against us and they came out against us into the field and we came upon them even to the door of the gate. 24 The archers shot at your servants from off the wall and some of the king's servants died and your servant Urias the Chettite is dead also. 25 David said to the messenger, Thus shall you say to Joab, Let not the matter be grievous in your eyes, for the sword devours one way at one time and another way at another: strengthen your array against the city and destroy it and strengthen him.

26 The wife of Urias heard that Urias her husband was dead and she mourned for her husband. 27 The time of mourning expired and David sent and took her into his house and she became his wife and bore him a son: but the thing which David did was evil in the eyes of the Lord.

12:1 The Lord sent Nathan the prophet to David; He went in to him and said to him: There were two men in one city, one rich and the other poor. 2 The rich man had very many flocks and herds. 3 But the poor man had only one little ewe lamb, which he had purchased and preserved and reared; an it grew up with himself and his children in common; it ate of his bread and drank of his cup and slept in his bosom and was to him as a daughter. 4 And a traveller came to the rich man, He spared to take of his flocks and of his herds, to dress for the traveller that came to him; He took the poor man's lamb and dressed it for the man that came to him. 5 David was greatly moved with anger against the man; and David said to Nathan, As the Lord lives, the man that did this thing shall surely die. 6 He shall restore the lamb seven-fold, because he has not spared.

7 And Nathan said to David: You are the man that has done this. Thus says the Lord God of Israel, I anointed you to be king over Israel and I rescued you out the hand of Saul; 8 and I gave you the house of your lord and the wives of your lord into your bosom and I gave to you the house of Israel and Juda; and if that had been little, I would have given you yet more. 9 Why have you set at nought the word of the Lord, to do that which is evil in his eyes? You have slain Urias the Chettite with the sword and you have taken his wife to be your wife and you have slain him with the sword of the children of Ammon. 10 Now, therefore the sword shall not depart from your house for ever, because you have set me at nought and you have taken the wife of Urias the Chettite, to be your wife. 11 Thus says the Lord, Behold, I will raise up against you evil out of your house and I will take your wives before your eyes and will give them to your neighbor, He shall lie with your wives in the sight of this sun. 12 For you did it secretly, but I will do this thing in the sight of all Israel and before the sun.

13 David said to Nathan, I have sinned against the Lord. And Nathan said to David: The Lord has put away your sin; you shall not die. 14 Only because you have given great occasion of provocation to the enemies of the Lord by this thing, your son also that is born to you shall surely die.

15 And Nathan departed to his house. The Lord stroke the child, which the wife of Urias the Chettite bore to David and it was ill. 16 David enquired of God concerning the child and David fasted and went in and lay all night upon the ground. 17 The elders of his house arose and went to him to raise him up from the ground, but he would not rise, nor did he eat bread with them.

18 It came to pass on the seventh day that the child died: and the servants of David were afraid to tell him that the child was dead; for they said: Behold, while the child was yet alive we spoke to him, He hearkened not to our voice; and you should we tell him that the child is dead?—so would he do himself harm. 19 David understood that his servants were whispering and David perceived that the child was dead: and David said to his servants, Is the child dead? And they said: He is dead. 20 Then David rose up from the earth and washed and anointed himself and changed his raiment and went into the house of God and worshiped him; and went into his own house and called for bread to eat and they set bread before him He ate. 21 And his servants said to him: What is this thing that you have done concerning the child? While it was yet living you did fast and weep and watch: and when the child was dead you did rise up and did eat bread and drink. 22 David said: While the child yet lived, I fasted and wept; for I said: Who knows if the Lord will pity me and the child live? 23 But now it is dead, why should I fast thus? Shall I be able to bring him back again? I shall go to him, but he shall not return to me.

24 David comforted Bersabee his wife, He went in to her and lay with her; and she conceived and bore a son, He called his named Solomon and the Lord loved him. 25 He sent by the hand of Nathan the prophet and called his name Jeddedi, for the Lord's sake.

26 Joab fought against Rabbath of the children of Ammon and took the royal city. 27 Joab sent messengers to David and said: I have fought against Rabbath and taken the city of waters. 28 And now gather the rest of the people and encamp against the city, an take it beforehand; for fear that I take the city first and my name be called upon it.

29 David gathered all the people and went to Rabbath and fought against it and took it. 30 He took the crown of Molchom their king from off his head and the weight of it was a talent of gold, with precious stones and it was upon the head of David; He carried forth very much spoil of the city. 31 He brought forth the people that were in it and put them under the saw and under iron harrows and axes of iron and made them pass through the brick-kiln: and thus he did to all the cities of the children of Ammon. David and all the people returned to Jerusalem.

13:1 It happened after this that Abessalom the son of David had a very beautiful sister and her name was Themar; and Amnon the son of David loved her. 2 And Amnon was distressed even to sickness, because of Themar his sister; for she was a virgin and it seemed very difficult for Amnon to do anything to her. 3 And Amnon had a friend and his name was Jonadab, the son of Samaa the brother of David: and Jonadab was a very cunning man. 4 He said to him: What ails you that you are thus weak? O son of the king, morning by morning? Will you not tell me? And Amnon said: I love Themar the sister of my brother Abessalom. 5 Jonadab said to him: Lie upon your bed and make yourself sick and your father shall come in to see you; and you shall say to him, Let, I pray you, Themar my sister come and feed me with morsels, Let her prepare food before my eyes, that I may see and eat at her hands. 6 So Amnon lay down and made himself sick; and the king came in to see him: and Amnon said to the king, Let, I pray you, my sister Themar come to me and make a couple of cakes in my sight and I will eat them at her hand.

7 David sent to Themar to the house, saying: Go now to your brother's house and dress him food. 8 And Themar went to the house of her brother Amnon, He was lying down: and she took the dough and kneaded it and made cakes in his sight and baked the cakes. 9 And she took the frying pan and poured them out before him, but he would not eat. And Amnon said: Send out every man from about me.

They removed every man from about him. 10 And Amnon said to Themar, Bring in the food into the closet and I will eat of your hand. And Themar took the cakes which she had made and brought them to her brother Amnon into the chamber. 11 And she brought them to him to eat, He caught hold of her and said to her: Come, lie with me, my sister. 12 And she said to him: No, my brother, do not humble me, for it ought not to be so done in Israel; do not this folly. 13 I, where shall I remove my reproach? And you shall be as one of the fools in Israel. And now, speak, I pray you, to the king, for surely he will not keep me from you. 14 But Amnon would not hearken to her voice; He prevailed against her and humbled her and lay with her.

15 Then Amnon hated her with very great hatred; for the hatred with which he hated her was greater than the love with which he had loved her, for the last wickedness was greater than the first: and Amnon said to her: Rise and be gone. 16 And Themar spoke to him concerning this great mischief, greater, said she, than the other that you did me, to send me away: but Amnon would not hearken to her voice. 17 He called his servant who had charge of the house and said to him: Put now this woman out from me and shut the door after her. 18 And she had on her a variegated robe, for so were the king's daughters that were virgins attired in their apparel: and his servant led her forth and shut the door after her.

19 And Themar took ashes and put them on her head; and she rent the variegated garment that was upon her: and she laid her hands on her head and went crying continually. 20 And Abessalom her brother said to her: Has your brother Amnon been with you? Now then, my sister, be silent, for he is your brother: be not careful to mention this matter. So Themar dwelt as a widow in the house of her brother Abessalom.

21 And king David heard of all these things and was very angry; but he did not grieve the spirit of his son Amnon, because he loved him, for he was his first-born. 22 And Abessalom spoke not to Amnon, good or bad, because Abessalom hated Amnon, on account of his humbling his sister Themar. 23 It came to pass at the end of two whole years, that they were shearing sheep for Abessalom in Belasor near Ephraim: and Abessalom invited all the king's sons. 24 And Abessalom came to the king and said: Behold, your servant has a sheep-shearing; let now the king and his servants go with your servant. 25 The king said to Abessalom, No, my son, let us not all go, Let us not be burdensome to you. He pressed him; but he would not go, but blessed him. 26 And Abessalom said to him: If not, let I pray you, my brother Amnon go with us. The king said to him: Why should he go with you? 27 And Abessalom pressed him, He sent with him Amnon and all the king's sons; and Abessalom made a banquet like the banquet of the king.

28 And Abessalom charged his servants, saying: Mark when the heart of Amnon shall be merry with wine and I shall say to you, strike Amnon and kill him: fear not; for is it not I that command you? Be courageous and be valiant. 29 The servants of Abessalom did to Amnon as Abessalom commanded them: and all the sons of the king rose up and they mounted every man his mule and fled.

30 It came to pass when they were in the way, that a report came to David, saying: Abessalom has slain all the king's sons and there is not one of them left. 31 Then the king arose and rent his garments and lay upon the ground: and all his servants that were standing round him rent their garments. 32 Jonadab the son of Samaa brother of David, answered and said: Let not my Lord the king say that he has slain all the young men the sons of the king, for Amnon only of them all is dead; for he was appointed to death by the mouth of Abessalom from the day that he humbled his sister Themar. 33 And now let not my lord the king take the matter to heart, saying: All the king's sons are dead: for Amnon only of them is dead.

34 And Abessalom escaped: and the young man the watchman, lifted up his eyes and looked; and, behold, much people went in the way behind him from the side of the mountain in the descent: and the watchman came and told the king and said: I have seen men by the way of Oronen, by the side of the mountain. 35 Jonadab said to the king, Behold, the king's sons are present: according to the word of your servant, so has it happened. 36 It came to pass when he had finished speaking, that, behold, the king's sons came and lifted up their voices and wept: and the king also and all his servants wept with a very great weeping.

37 But Abessalom fled and went to Tholmi son of Emiud the king of Gedsur to the land of Chamaachad: and king David mourned for his son continually. 38 So Abessalom fled and departed to Gedsur and was there three years. 39 And king David ceased to go out after Abessalom, for he was comforted concerning Amnon, touching his death.

14:1 Joab the son of Saruia knew that the heart of the king was toward Abessalom. 2 Joab sent to Thecoe and took for there a cunning woman and said to her: Mourn, I pray you and put on mourning apparel and anoint you not with oil and you shall be as a woman mourning for one that is dead thus for many days. 3 You shall go to the king and speak to him according to this word. Joab put the words in her mouth.

4 So the woman of Thecoe went in to the king and fell upon her face to the earth and did him obeisance¹ and said:

Help, O king, help. 5 The king said to her: What is the matter with you?

And she said: I am indeed a widow woman and my husband is dead. 6 And moreover your handmaid had two sons and they fought together in the field and there was no one to part them; and the one stroke the other his brother and killed him. 7 And behold the whole family rose up against your handmaid and they said: Give up the one that stroke his brother and we will put him to death for the life of his brother, whom he killed and we will take away even your heir: so they will quench my coal that is left, so as not to leave my husband remnant or name on the face of the earth.

8 The king said to the woman, Go in peace to your house and I will give commandment concerning you. 9 The woman of Thecoe said to the king, On me, my lord, O king and on my father's house be the iniquity and the king and his throne be guiltless. 10 The king said: Who was it that spoke to you? You shall even bring him to me and one shall not touch him any more. 11 And she said: Let now the king remember concerning his Lord God in that the avenger of blood is multiplied to destroy, Let them not take away my son. He said: As the lord lives, not a hair of your son shall fall to the ground.

12 The woman said: Let now your servant speak a word to my lord the king. He said: Say on. 13 The woman said: Why have you devised this thing against the people of God? Or is this word out of the king's mouth as a transgression, so that the king should not bring back his banished? 14 For we shall surely die and be as water poured upon the earth, which shall not be gathered up and God shall take the life, even as he devises to thrust forth from him his outcast. 15 And now whereas I came to speak this word to my lord the king, the reason is that the people will see me and your handmaid will say, Let one now speak to my lord the king, if perhaps the king will perform the request of his handmaid; 16 for the king will hear. Let him rescue his handmaid out of the hand of the man that seeks to cast out me and my son from the inheritance of God. 17 The woman said: If now the word of my lord the king be gracious, —well: for as an angel of God, so is my lord the king, to hear good and evil: and the Lord your God shall be with you.

18 The king answered and said to the woman, Hide not from me, I pray you, the matter which I ask you. The woman said: Let my lord the king by all means speak. 19 The king said: Is not the hand of Joab in all this matter with you? And the woman said to the king, As your soul lives, my lord, O king, there is no turning to the right hand or to the left from all that my lord the king has spoken; for your servant Joab himself charged me, He put all these words in the mouth of your handmaid. 20 In order that this form of speech might come about it was that your servant Joab has framed this matter: and my lord is wise as is the wisdom of an angel of God, to know all things that are in the earth.

21 The king said to Joab, Behold now, I have done to you according to this your word: go, bring back the young man Abessalom. 22 Joab fell on his face to the ground and did obeisance¹ and blessed the king: and Joab said: Today your servant knows that I have found grace in your sight, my lord, O king, for my lord the king has performed the request of his servant. 23 Joab arose and went to Gedsur and brought Abessalom to Jerusalem. 24 The king said: Let him return to his house and not see my face. And Abessalom returned to his house and saw not the king's face.

25 And there was not a man in Israel so very comely as Abessalom: from the sole of his foot even to the crown of his head there was no blemish in him. 26 When he polled his head, (and it was at the beginning of every year that he polled it, because it grew, heavy upon him,) even when he polled it, he weighed the hair of his head, two hundred shekels according to the royal shekel. 27 And there were born to Abessalom three sons and one daughter and her name was Themar: she was a very beautiful woman and she becomes the wife of Roboam son of Solomon and she bears to him Abia.

28 And Abessalom remained in Jerusalem two full years, He saw not the king's face. 29 And Abessalom sent to Joab to bring him in to the king, He would not come to him: He sent to him the second time, He would not come. 30 And Abessalom said to his servants, Behold, Joab's portion in the field is next to mine, He has in it barley; go and set it on fire. The servants of Abessalom set the field on fire: and the servants of Joab come to him with their clothes rent and they said to him: The servants of Abessalom have set the field on fire. 31 Joab arose and came to Abessalom into the house and said to him: Why have your servants set my field on fire? 32 And Abessalom said to Joab, Behold, I sent to you, saying: Come to this place and I will send you to the king, saying: Why did I come out of Gedsur? It would have been better for me to have remained there: and now, behold, I have not seen the face of the king; but if there is iniquity in me, then put me to death.

33 Joab went in to the king and brought him word: He called Abessalom, He went in to the king and did him obeisance² and fell upon his face to the ground, even in the presence of the king; and the king kissed Abessalom.

15:1 It came to pass after this that Abessalom prepared for himself chariots and horses and fifty men to run before him. 2 And Abessalom rose early and stood by the side of the way of the gate: and it came to pass that every man who had a cause, came to the king for judgment and Abessalom cried to him and said to him: Of what city are you? He said: your servant is of one of the tribes of Israel. 3 And Abessalom said to him: See, your affairs are right and clear, yet you have no one appointed of the king to hear you. 4 And Abessalom said: O that one would make me a judge in the land; then every man who had a dispute or a cause would come to me and I would judge him! 5 It came to pass when a man came near to do him obeisance¹, that he stretched out his hand and took hold of him and kissed him. 6 And Abessalom did after this manner to all Israel that came to the king for judgment; and Abessalom gained the hearts of the men of Israel.

7 It came to pass after forty years, that Abessalom said to his father, I will go now and pay my vows, which I vowed to the Lord in Chebron. 8 For your servant vowed a vow when I dwelt at Gedsur in Syria, saying: If the Lord should indeed restore me to Jerusalem, then will I serve the Lord. 9 The king said to him: Go in peace. He arose and went to Chebron.

10 And Abessalom sent spies throughout all the tribes of Israel, saying when you hear the sound of the trumpet, then shall you say, Abessalom has become king in Chebron. 11 And there went with Abessalom two hundred chosen men from Jerusalem; and they went in their simplicity and knew not anything. 12 And Abessalom sent to Achitophel the Theconite, the counsellor of David, from his city, from Gola, where he was sacrificing: and there was a strong conspiracy; and the people with Abessalom were increasingly numerous.

13 And there came a messenger to David, saying: the heart of the men of Israel is gone after Abessalom. 14

David said to all his servants who were with him in Jerusalem, Rise, Let us flee, for we have no refuge from Abessalom: make haste and go, for fear that he overtake us speedily and bring evil upon us and strike the city with the edge of the sword. 15 The king's servants said to the king, In all things which our lord the king chooses, behold we are your servants.

16 The king and all his house went out on foot: and the king left ten women of his concubines to keep the house. 17 The king and all his servants went out on foot; and abode in a distant house. 18 All his servants passed on by his side and every Chelethite and every Phelethite and they stood by the olive tree in the wilderness: and all the people marched near him and all his court and all the men of might and all the men of war, six hundred: and they were present at his side: and every Chelethite and every Phelethite and all the six hundred Gittites that came on foot out of Geth and they went on before the king.

19 The king said to Ethi, the Gittite, Why do you also go with us? Return and dwell with the king, for you are a stranger and you have come forth as a sojourner out of your place. 20 Whereas you came yesterday, shall I today cause you to travel with us and shall you thus change your place? You did come forth yesterday and today shall I set you in motion to go along with us? I indeed will go wherever I may go: return then and cause your brothers to return with you and may the Lord deal mercifully and truly with you. 21 And Ethi answered the king and said: As the Lord lives and as my lord the king lives, in the place wheresoever my lord shall be, whether it be for death or life, there shall your servant be. 22 The king said to Ethi, Come and pass over with me. So Ethi the Gittite and the king passed over and all his servants and all the multitude with him.

23 All the country wept with a loud voice. All the people passed by over the brook of Kedron; and the king crossed the brook Kedron: and all the people and the king passed on toward the way of the wilderness.

24 And behold also Sadoc and all the Levites were with him, bearing the ark of the covenant of the Lord from Baethar: and they set down the ark of God; and Abiathar went up, until all the people had passed out of the city. 25 The king said to Sadoc, Carry back the ark of God into the city: if I should find favor in the eyes of the Lord, then will he bring me back, He will show me it and its beauty. 26 But if he should say thus, I have no pleasure in you; behold, here I am, let him do to me according to that which is good in his eyes.

27 The king said to Sadoc the priest, Behold, you shall return to the city in peace and Achimaas your son and Jonathan the son of Abiathar, your two sons with you. 28 Behold, I continue in arms in Araboth of the desert, until there come tidings from you to report to me. 29 So Sadoc and Abiathar brought back the ark of the Lord to Jerusalem and it continued there.

30 David went up by the ascent of the mount of Olives, ascending and weeping and had his head covered and went barefooted: and all the people that were with him covered every man his head; and they went up, ascending and weeping. 31 It was reported to David, saying: Achitophel also is among the conspirators with Abessalom. David said: O Lord my God, disconcert, I pray you, the counsel of Achitophel.

32 David came as far as Ros, where he worshiped God: and behold, Chusi the chief friend of David came out to meet him, having rent his garment and earth was upon his head. 33 David said to him: If you should go over with me, then will you be a burden to me; 34 but if you shall return to the city and shall say to Abessalom, your brothers are passed over and the king your father is passed over after me: and now I am your servant, O king, suffer me to live: at one time even of late I was the servant of your father and now I am your humble servant—so shall you disconcert for me, the counsel of Achitophel. 35 And, behold, there are there with you Sadoc and Abiathar the priests; and it shall be that every word that you shall hear of the house of the king, you shall report it to Sadoc and Abiathar the priests. 36 Behold, there are there with them their two sons, Achimaas the son of Sadoc and Jonathan the son of Abiathar; and by them you shall report to me every word which you shall hear. 37 So Chusi the friend of David went into the city and Abessalom was lately gone into Jerusalem.

16:1 David passed on a little way from Ros; and, behold, Siba the servant of Memphibosthe came to meet him; He had a couple of donkeys laden and upon them two hundred loaves and a hundred bunches of raisins and a hundred cakes of dates and bottle of wine. 2 The king said to Siba, What do you mean by these? And Siba, said: The donkeys are for the household of the king to sit upon and the loaves and the dates are for the young men to eat and the wine is for those who are faint in the wilderness to drink. 3 The king said: And where is the son of your master? And Siba said to the king, Behold, he remains in Jerusalem; for he said: Today shall the house of Israel restore to me the kingdom of my father. 4 The king said to Siba, Behold, all Memphibosthe's property is yours. And Siba did obeisance¹ and said: My lord, O king, let me find grace in your eyes.

5 And king David came to Baurim; and, behold, there came out there a man of the family of the house of Saul and his name was Semei the son of Gera. He came forth and cursed as he went, 6 and cast stones at David and at all the servants of king David: and all the people and all the mighty men were on the right and left hand of the king. 7 Thus Semei said when he cursed him, Go out, go out, you bloody man and man of sin. 8 The Lord has returned upon you all the blood of the house of Saul, because you have reigned in his stead; and the Lord has given the kingdom into the hand of Abessalom your son: and, behold, you are taken in your mischief, because you are a bloody man.

9 And Abessa the son of Saruia said to the king, Why does this dead dog curse my lord the king? Let me go over now and take off his head. 10 The king said: What have I to do with you, you sons of Saruia? Even let him alone and so let him curse, for the Lord has told him to curse David: and who shall say, Why have you done thus? 11 David said to Abessa and to all his servants, Behold, my son who came forth out of my bowels seeks my life; still more now may the son of Benjamin: let him curse, because the Lord has told him. 12 If by any means the Lord may look on my affliction, thus shall he return me good for his cursing this day.

13 David and all the men with him went on the way: and Semei went by the side of the hill next to him, cursing as he went and casting stones at him and sprinkling him with dirt. 14 The king and all the people with him, came away and refreshed themselves there.

15 And Abessalom and all the men of Israel went into Jerusalem and Achitophel with him. 16 It came to pass when Chusi the chief friend of David came to Abessalom, that Chusi said to Abessalom, Let the king live. 17 And Abessalom said to Chusi, Is this your kindness to your friend? Why went you not forth with your friend? 18 And Chusi said to Abessalom, No, but following whom the Lord and this people and all Israel have chosen, —his will I be and with him I will dwell. 19 And again, whom shall I serve? Should I not in the presence of his son? As I served in the sight of your father, so will I be in your presence.

20 And Abessalom said to Achitophel, Deliberate among yourselves concerning what we should do. 21 And Achitophel said to Abessalom, Go in to your father's concubines, whom he left to keep his house; and all Israel shall hear that you have dishonored your father; and the hands of all that are with you shall be strengthened. 22 They pitched a tent for Abessalom on the roof and Abessalom went in to his father's concubines in the sight of all Israel. 23 The counsel of Achitophel, which he counselled in former days, was as if one should enquire of the word of God: so was all the counsel of Achitophel both to David and also to Abessalom.

17:1 And Achitophel said to Abessalom, Let me now choose out for myself twelve thousand men and I will arise and follow after David this night: 2 and I will come upon him when he is weary and weak-handed and I will strike him with terror; and all the people with him shall flee and I will strike the king only of all. 3 I will bring back all the people to you, as a bride returns to her husband: only you seek the life of one man and all the people shall have peace. 4 The saying was right in the eyes of Abessalom and in the eyes of all the elders of Israel.

5 And Abessalom said: Call now also Chusi the Arachite, Let us hear what is in his mouth, even in his also. 6 And Chusi went in to Abessalom and Abessalom spoke to him, saying: After this manner spoke Achitophel: shall we do according to his word? But if not, do you speak.

7 And Chusi said to Abessalom, This counsel which Achitophel has counselled this one time is not good. 8 And Chusi said: You know your father and his men, that they are very mighty and bitter in their spirit, as a bereaved bear in the field, [[and as a wild boar in the plain]]; and your father is a man of war and will not give the people rest.

9 For, behold, he is now hidden in one of the hills or in some other place: and it shall come to pass when he falls upon them at the beginning, that some one will certainly hear and say, There has been a slaughter among the people that follow after Abessalom. 10 Then even he that is strong, whose heart is as the heart of a lion, —it shall utterly melt: for all Israel knows that your father is mighty and those who are with him are mighty men. 11 For thus I have surely given counsel, that all Israel be generally gathered to you from Dan even to Bersabee, as the sand that is upon the sea-shore for multitude: and that your presence go in the midst of them. 12 And we will come upon him in one of the places where we shall find him and we will encamp against him, as the dew falls upon the earth; and we will not leave of him and of his men so much as one. 13 If he shall have taken refuge with his army in a city, then shall all Israel take ropes to that city and we will draw it even into the river, that there may not be left there even a stone.

14 And Abessalom and all the men of Israel said: The counsel of Chusi the Arachite is better than the counsel of Achitophel. For the Lord ordained to disconcert the good counsel of Achitophel, that the Lord might bring all evil upon Abessalom.

15 And Chusi the Arachite said to Sadoc and Abiathar the priests, Thus and thus Achitophel counselled Abessalom and the elders of Israel; and thus and thus have I counselled. 16 And now send quickly and report to David, saying: dwell not this night in Araboth of the wilderness: even go and make haste, for fear that one swallow up the king and all the people with him.

17 Jonathan and Achimaas stood by the well of Rogel and a maid-servant went and reported to them and they go and tell king David; for they might not be seen to enter into the city. 18 But a young man saw them and told Abessalom: and the two went quickly and entered into the house of a man in Baurim; He had a well in his court and they went down into it. 19 And a woman took a covering and spread it over the mouth of the well and spread out ground corn upon it to dry and the thing was not known. 20 The servants of Abessalom came to the woman into the house and said: Where are Achimaas and Jonathan? And the woman said to them: They have gone a little way beyond the water. They sought and found them not and returned to Jerusalem. 21 It came to pass after they were gone, that they came up out of the pit and went on their way; and reported to king David and said to David: Arise and go quickly over the water, for thus has Achitophel counselled concerning you.

22 David rose up and all the people with him and they passed over Jordan till the morning light; there was not one missing who did not pass over Jordan.

23 And Achitophel saw that his counsel was not followed, He saddled his ass and rose and departed to his house into his city; He gave orders to his household and hanged himself and died and was buried in the tomb of his father.

24 David passed over to Manaim: and Abessalom crossed over Jordan, he and all the men of Israel with him. 25 And Abessalom appointed Amessai in the room of Joab over the host. And Amessai was the son of a man whose name was Jether of Jezrael: he went in to Abigaia the daughter of Naas, the sister of Saruia the mother of Joab. 26 All Israel and Abessalom encamped in the land of Galaad.

27 It came to pass when David came to Manaim, that Uesbi the son of Naas of Rabbath of the sons of Ammon and Machir son of Amiel of Lodabar and Berzelli the Galaadite of Rogellim, 28 brought ten embroidered beds, (with double coverings,) and ten caldrons and earthenware and wheat and barley and flour and meal and beans and pulse, 29 and honey and butter and sheep and cheeses of kine: and they brought them to David and to his people with him to eat; for one said: The people is faint and hungry and thirsty in the wilderness.

18:1 David numbered the people with him and set over them captains of thousands and captains of hundreds. 2 David sent away the people, the third part under the hand of Joab and the third part under the hand of Abessa the son of Saruia, the brother of Joab and the third part under the hand of Ethi the Gittite. David said to the people, I also will surely go out with you. 3 They said: You shall not go out: for if we should indeed flee, they will not care for us; and if half of us should die, they will not mind us; for you are as ten thousand of us: and now it is well that you shall be to us an aid to help us in the city. 4 The king said to them: Whatsoever shall seem good in your eyes I will do. The king stood by the side of the gate and all the people went out by hundreds and by thousands.

5 The king commanded Joab and Abessa and Ethi, saying: Spare for my sake the young man Abessalom. All the people heard the king charging all the commanders concerning Abessalom.

6 All the people went out into the wood against Israel; and the battle was in the wood of Ephraim. 7 The people of Israel fell down there before the servants of David and there was a great slaughter in that day, even twenty thousand men. 8 The battle there was scattered over the face of all the land: and the wood consumed more of the people than the sword consumed among the people in that day. 9 And Abessalom went to meet the servants of David: and Abessalom was mounted on his mule and the mule came under the thick boughs of a great oak; and his head was entangled in the oak, He was suspended between heaven and earth; and the mule passed on from under him.

10 And a man saw it and reported to Joab and said: Behold, I saw Abessalom hanging in an oak. 11 Joab said to the man who reported it to him, And, behold, you did see him: why did you not strike him there to the ground? And I would have given you ten pieces of silver and a girdle. 12 The man said to Joab, Were I even to receive a thousand shekels of silver, I would not lift my hand against the king's son; for in our ears the king charged you and Abessa and Ethi, saying: Take care of the young man Abessalom for me, 13 so as to do no harm to his life: and nothing of the matter will be concealed from the king and you will set yourself against me. 14 Joab said: I will begin this; I will not thus remain with you. Joab took three darts in his hand and thrust them into the heart of Abessalom, while he was yet alive in the heart of the oak. 15 And ten young men that bore Joab's armor surrounded Abessalom and stroke him and killed him.

16 Joab blew the trumpet and the people returned from pursuing Israel, for Joab spared the people. 17 He took Abessalom and cast him into a great cavern in the wood, into a deep pit and set up over him a very great heap of stones: and all Israel fled every man to his tent. 18 Now, Abessalom while yet alive had taken and set up for himself the pillar near which he was taken and set it up so as to have the pillar in the king's dale; for he said he had no son to keep his name in remembrance: He called the pillar, Abessalom's hand, until this day.

19 And Achimaas the son of Sadoc said: Let me run now and carry glad tidings to the king, for the Lord has delivered him from the hand of his enemies. 20 Joab said to him: You shall not be a messenger of glad tidings this day; you shall bear them another day; but on this day you shall bear no tidings, because the king's son is dead. 21 Joab said to Chusi, Go, report to the king all that you have seen. And Chusi did obeisance¹ to Joab and went out. 22

And Achimaas the son of Sadoc said again to Joab, No, let me also run after Chusi. Joab said: Why would you thus run, my son? Attend, you have no tidings for profit if you go. ²³ He said: Why should I not run? And Joab said to him: Run. And Achimaas ran along the way of Kechar and outran Chusi.

²⁴ David was sitting between the two gates: and the watchman went up on the top of the gate of the wall and lifted up his eyes and looked and behold a man running alone before him. ²⁵ The watchman cried out and reported to the king. The king said: If he be alone, there are good tidings in his mouth. The man came and drew near. ²⁶ The watchman saw another man running: and the watchman cried at the gate and said: And look, another man running alone. The king said: He also brings glad tidings. ²⁷ The watchman said: I see the running of the first as the running of Achimaas the son of Sadoc. The king said: He is a good man and will come to report glad tidings.

was troubled and went to the chamber over the gate and wept: and thus he said as he went, My son Abessalom, my son, my son Abessalom; would God I had died for you, even I had died for you, Abessalom, my son, my son!

^{19:1} They brought Joab word, saying: Behold, the king weeps and mourns for Abessalom. ² The victory was turned that day into mourning to all the people, for the people heard say that day, The king grieves after his son. ³ The people stole away that day to go into the city, as people steal away when they are ashamed as they flee in the battle. ⁴ The king hid his face: and the king cried with a loud voice, My son Abessalom! Abessalom my son!

⁵ Joab went in to the king, into the house and said: You have this day shamed the faces of all your servants that have delivered you this day and have saved the lives of your sons and of your daughters and the lives of your wives and of your concubines, ⁶ since you love those who hate you and hate those who love you; and you have this day declared, that your princes and your servants are nothing in your sight: for I know this day, that if Abessalom were alive and all of us dead today, then it would have been right in your sight. ⁷ And now arise and go forth and speak comfortably to your servants; for I have sworn by the Lord, that unless you will go forth today, there shall not a man remain with you this night: and know for yourself, this thing will indeed be evil to you beyond all the evil that has come upon you from your youth until now. ⁸ Then the king arose and sat in the gate: and all the people reported, saying: Behold, the king sits in the gate. All the people went in before the king to the gate; for Israel had fled every man to his tent.

Philistines: and now he has fled from the land and from his kingdom and from Abessalom. 10 And Abessalom, whom we anointed over us, is dead in battle: and now why are you silent about bringing back the king? The word of all Israel came to the king.

11 And king David sent to Sadoc and Abiathar the priests, saying: Speak to the elders of Israel, saying: Why are you the last to bring back the king to his house? Whereas the word of all Israel has come to the king to his house. 12 You are my brothers, you are my bones and my flesh: why are you the last to bring back the king to his house? 13 You shall say to Amessai, are you not my bone and my flesh? And now God do so to me and more also, if you shall not be commander of the host before me continually in the room of Joab. 14 He bowed the heart of all the men of Juda as that of one man; and they sent to the king, saying: Return you and all your servants. 15 The king returned and came as far s Jordan. The men of Juda came to Galgala on their way to meet the king, to cause the king to pass over Jordan.

16 And Semei the son of Gera, the Benjamite, of Baurim, hasted and went down with the men of Juda to meet king David. 17 And a thousand men of Benjamin were with him and Siba the servant of the house of Saul and his fifteen sons with him and his twenty servants with him: and they went directly down to Jordan before the king, 18 and they performed the service of bringing the king over; and there went over a ferry-boat to remove the household of the king and to do that which was right in his eyes. And Semei the son of Gera fell on his face before the king, as he went over Jordan; 19 and said to the king, Let not my lord now impute iniquity and remember not all the iniquity of your servant in the day in which my lord went out from Jerusalem, so that the king should mind it. 20 For your servant knows that I have sinned: and, behold, I am come today before all Israel and the house of Joseph, to go down and meet my lord the king.

21 And Abessai the son of Saruia answered and said: Shall not Semei therefore be put to death, because he cursed the Lord's anointed? 22 David said: What have I to do with you, you sons of Saruia, that you as it were lie in wait against me this day? Today no man in Israel shall be put to death, for I know not if I this day reign over Israel. 23 The king said to Semei, You shall not die: and the king swore to him.

24 And Memphibosthe the son of Saul's son went down to meet the king and had not dressed his feet, nor pared his nails, nor shaved himself, neither had he washed his garments, from the day that the king departed, until the day when he arrived in peace.

25 It came to pass when he went into Jerusalem to meet the king, that the king said to him: Why did you not go with me, Memphibosthe? 26 And Memphibosthe said to him: My lord, O king, my servant deceived me; for your servant said to him: Saddle me the ass and I will ride upon it and go with the king; for your servant is lame. 27 He has dealt deceitfully with your servant to my lord the king: but my lord the king is as an angel of God and do you that which is good in your eyes. 28 For all the house of my father were but as dead men before my lord the king; yet you have set your servant among those who eat at your table: and what right have I any longer even to cry to the king? 29 The king said to him: Why speak you any longer of your matters? I have said: You and Siba shall divide the land. 30 And Memphibosthe said to the king, yes, let him take all, since my lord the king has come in peace to his house.

31 And Berzelli the Galaadite came down from Rogellim and crossed over Jordan with the king, that he might conduct the king over Jordan. 32 And Berzelli was a very old man, eighty years old; He had maintained the king when he dwelt in Manaim; for he was a very great man. 33 The king said to Berzelli, You shall go over with me and I will nourish your old age with me in Jerusalem. 34 And Berzelli said to the king, How many are the days of the years of my life, that I should go up with the king to Jerusalem? 35 I am this day eighty years old: can I then distinguish between good and evil? Can your servant taste any longer what I eat or drink? Can I any longer hear the voice of singing men or singing women? And why then shall your servant any longer be a burden to my lord the king? 36 your servant will go a little way over Jordan with the king: and why does the king return me this recompense? 37 Let, I pray you, your servant remain and I will die in my city, by the tomb of my father and of my mother. And, behold, your servant Chamaam shall go over with my lord the king; and do you to him as it seems good in your eyes. 38 The king said: Let Chamaam go over with me and I will do to him what is good in my sight; and whatsoever you shall choose at my hand, I will do for you.

39 All the people went over Jordan and the king went over; and the king kissed Berzelli and blessed him; He returned to his place. 40 The king went over to Galgala and Chamaam went over with him: and all the men of Juda went over with the king and also half the people of Israel.

41 And behold, all the men of Israel came to the king and said to the king, Why have our brothers the men of Juda stolen you away and caused the king and all his house to pass over Jordan and all the men of David with him? 42 All the men of Juda answered the men of Israel and said: Because the king is near of kin to us: and why were you thus angry concerning this matter? Have we indeed eaten of the king's food? Or has he given us a gift, or has he sent us a portion? 43 The men of Israel answered the men of Juda and said: We have ten parts in the king and we are older than you, we have also an interest in David above you: and why have you thus insulted us and why was not our advice taken before that of Juda, to bring back our king? The speech of the men of Juda was sharper than the speech of the men of Israel.

20:1 And there was a transgressor so called there and his name was Sabee, a Benjamite, the son of Bochori: He blew the trumpet and said: We have no portion in David, neither have we any inheritance in the son of Jessae: to your tents, O Israel, every one. 2 All the men of Israel went up from following David after Sabee the son of Bochori: but the men of Juda adhered to their king, from Jordan even to Jerusalem.

3 David went into his house at Jerusalem: and the king took the ten women his concubines, whom he had left to keep the house, He put them in a place of custody and maintained them and went not in to them; and they were kept living as widows, till the day of their death.

4 The king said to Amessai, Call to me the men of Juda for three days and do you be present here. 5 And Amessai went to call Juda and delayed beyond the time which David appointed him. 6 David said to Amessai, Now, shall Sabee the son of Bochori do us more harm than Abessalom: now then take you with you the servants of your lord and follow after him, for fear that he find for himself strong cities, so will he blind our eyes. 7 And there went out after him Amessai and the men of Joab and the Cherethites and the Phelethites and all the mighty men: and they went out from Jerusalem to pursue after Sabee the son of Bochori.

8 They were by the great stone that is in Gabaon: and Amessai went in before them: and Joab had upon him a military cloak over his apparel and over it he was girded with a dagger fastened upon his loins in its scabbard: and the dagger came out, it even came out and fell.

9 Joab said to Amessai, are you in health, my brother? And the right hand of Joab took hold of the beard of Amessai to kiss him. 10 And Amessai observed not the dagger that was in the hand of Joab; and Joab stroke him with it on the loins and his bowels were shed out upon the ground, He did not repeat the blow, He died: and Joab and Abessai his brother pursued after Sabe the son of Bochori. 11 And there stood over him one of the servants of Joab and said: Who is he that is for Joab and who is on the side of David following Joab? 12 And Amessai was weltering in blood in the midst of the way. And a man saw that all the people stood still; He removed Amessai out of the path into a field, He cast a garment upon him, because he saw every one that came to him standing still. 13 When he was quickly removed from the road, every man of Israel passed after Joab to pursue after Sabe the son of Bochori.

14 He went through all the tribes of Israel to Abel and to Bethmacha; and all in Charri too were assembled and followed after him. 15 They came and besieged him in Abel and Phermacha: and they raised a mound against the city and it stood close to the wall; and all the people with Joab proposed to throw down the wall. 16 And a wise woman cried from the wall and said: Hear, hear; say, I pray you, to Joab, Draw near to this place and I will speak to him.

17 He drew near to her and the woman said to him: are you Joab? He said: I am. And she said to him: Hear the words of your handmaid; and Joab said: I do hear. 18 And she spoke, saying: Of old time they said thus, Surely one was asked in Abel and Dan, whether the faithful in Israel failed in what they purposed; they will surely ask in Abel, even in like manner, whether they have failed. 19 I am a peaceable one of the strong ones in Israel; but you seek to destroy a city and a mother city in Israel: why do you seek to ruin the inheritance of the Lord? 20 Joab answered and said: Far be it, far be it from me, that I should ruin or destroy. 21 Is not the case thus, that a man of mount Ephraim, Sabe, son of Bochori by name, has even lifted up his hand against king David? Give him only to me and I will depart from the city. The woman said to Joab, Behold, his head shall be thrown to you over the wall.

22 The woman went in to all the people and she spoke to all the city in her wisdom; and they took off the head of Sabe the son of Bochori; and took it away and threw it to Joab: He blew the trumpet and the people separated from the city away from him, every man to his tent: and Joab returned to Jerusalem to the king.

23 Joab was over all the forces of Israel: and Banaias the son of Jodae was over the Cherethites and over the Phelethites. 24 And Adoniram was over the tribute: and Josaphath the son of Achiluth was recorder. 25 And Susa was scribe: and Sadoc and Abiathar were priests. 26 Moreover, Iras the son of Iarin was priest to David.

21:1 And there was a famine in the days of David three years, year after year; and David sought the face of the Lord. The Lord said: There is guilt upon Saul and his house because of his bloody murder, by which means he killed the Gabaonites. 2 And King David called the Gabaonites and said to them; —(now the Gabaonites are not the children of Israel, but are of the remnant of the Amorite and the children of Israel had sworn to them: but Saul sought to strike them in his zeal for the children of Israel and Juda.)

3 David said to the Gabaonites, What shall I do to you? And By what means shall I make atonement, that you may bless the inheritance of the Lord? 4 The Gabaonites said to him: We have no question about silver or gold with Saul and with his house; and there is no man for us to put to death in Israel. 5 He said: What say you? Speak and I will do it for you. They said to the king, The man who would have made an end of us and persecuted us, who plotted against us to destroy us, let us utterly destroy him, so that he shall have no standing in all the coasts of Israel. 6 Let one give us seven men of his sons, Let us hang them up in the sun to the Lord in Gabaon of Saul, as chosen out for the Lord. The king said: I will give them.

7 But the king spared Memphibosthe son of Jonathan the son of Saul, because of the oath of the Lord that was between them, even between David and Jonathan the son of Saul.

8 The king took the two sons of Respha the daughter of Aia, whom she bore to Saul, Hermonoi and Memphibosthe and the five sons of Michol daughter of Saul, whom she bore to Esdriel son of Berzelli the Moulathite. 9 He gave them into the hand of the Gabaonites and they hanged them up to the sun in the mountain before the lord: and they fell, even the seven together: moreover they were put to death in the days of harvest at the commencement, in the beginning of barley-harvest. 10 And Respha the daughter of Aia took sackcloth and fixed it for herself on the rock in the beginning of barley harvest, until water dropped upon them out of heaven: and she did not suffer the birds of the air to rest upon them by day, nor the beasts of the field by night.

11 It was told David what Respha the daughter of Aia the concubine of Saul had done, [and they were faint and Dan, the son of Joa of the offspring of the giants overtook them.] 12 David went and took the bones of Saul and the bones of Jonathan his son, from the men of the sons of Jabis Galaad, who stole them from the street of Baethsan; for the Philistines set them there in the day in which the Philistines stroke Saul in Gelbue. 13 He carried up for there the bones of Saul and the bones of Jonathan his son and gathered the bones of those who had been hanged. 14 They buried the bones of Saul and the bones of Jonathan his son and the bones of those who had been hanged, in the land of Benjamin in the hill, in the tomb of Cis his father; and they did all things that the king commanded: and after this God listened to the prayers of the land.

15 And there was yet war between the Philistines and Israel: and David went down and his servants with him and they fought with the Philistines and David went. 16 Jesbi, who was of the progeny of Rapha and the head of whose spear was three hundred shekels of brass in weight, who also was girded with a club, even he thought to strike David. 17 And Abessa the son of Saruia helped him and stroke the Philistine and killed him. Then the men of David swore, saying: You shall not any longer go out with us to battle and you shall not quench the lamp of Israel.

18 And after this there was a battle again with the Philistines in Geth: then Sebocha the Astatothite killed Seph of the progeny of Rapha.

19 And there was a battle in Rom with the Philistines; and Eleanan son of Ariorgim the Bethleemite killed Goliath the Gittite; and the staff of his spear was as a weaver's beam. 20 And there was yet a battle in Geth: and there was a man of stature and the fingers of his hands and the toes of his feet were six on each, four and twenty in number: He also was born to Rapha. 21 He defied Israel and Jonathan son of Semei brother of David, stroke him.

22 These four were born descendants of the giants in Geth, the family of Rapha; and they fell by the hand of David and by the hand of his servants.

22:1 David spoke to the Lord the words of this song, in the day in which the Lord rescued him out of the hand of all his enemies and out of the hand of Saul. 2 The song was thus: O Lord, my rock and my fortress and my deliverer, 3 my God; he shall be to me my guard, I will trust in him: he is my protector and the horn of my salvation, my helper and my sure refuge; you shall save me from the unjust man.

4 I will call upon the Lord who is worthy to be praised and I shall be saved from my enemies. 5 For the troubles of death surrounded me, the floods of iniquity amazed me: 6 the pangs of death surrounded me, the agonies of death prevented me. 7 When I am afflicted I will call upon the Lord and will cry to my God, He shall hear my voice out of his temple and my cry shall come into his ears.

8 The earth was troubled and quaked and the foundations of heaven were confounded and torn asunder, because the Lord was wroth with them. 9 There went up a smoke in his wrath and fire out of his mouth devours: coals were kindled at it. 10 He bowed the heavens and came down and there was darkness under his feet. 11 He rode upon the cherubim and did fly and was seen upon the wings of the wind. 12 He made darkness his hiding-place; his tabernacle around him was the darkness of waters, he condensed it with the clouds of the air. 13 At the brightness before him coals of fire were kindled. 14 The Lord thundered out of heaven and the Most High uttered his voice. 15 He sent forth arrows and scattered them, He flashed lightning and dismayed them. 16 The channels of the sea were seen and the foundations of the world were discovered, at the rebuke of the Lord, at the blast of the breath of his anger. 17 He sent from above and took me; he drew me out of many waters. 18 He delivered me from my strong enemies, from those who hated me, for they were stronger than I.

19 The days of my affliction prevented me; but the Lord was my stay. 20 He brought me into a wide place and rescued me, because he delighted in me. 21 The Lord recompensed me according to my righteousness; even according to the purity of my hands did he recompense me. 22 Because, I kept the ways of the Lord and did not wickedly depart from my God. 23 For all his judgments and his ordinances were before me: I departed not from them. 24 I shall be blameless before him and will keep myself from my iniquity. 25 The Lord will recompense me according to my righteousness and according to the purity of my hands in his eye-sight.

26 With the holy you will be holy and with the perfect man you will be perfect, 27 and with the excellent you will be excellent and with the froward you will be froward. 28 You will save the poor people and will bring down the eyes of the haughty. 29 For you, Lord, are my lamp and the Lord shall shine forth to me in my darkness. 30 For by you shall I run as a girded man and by my God shall I leap over a wall.

31 As for the Mighty One, his way is blameless: the word of the Lord is strong and tried in the fire: he is a protector to all that put their trust in him. 32 Who is strong, but the Lord? And who will be a Creator except our God? 33 It is the Mighty One who strengthens me with might and has prepared my way without fault. 34 He makes my feet like hart's feet and sets me upon the high places. 35 He teaches my hands to war and has broken a brazen bow by my arm. 36 You have given me the shield of my salvation and your propitious dealing has increased me, 37 so as to make room under me for my going and my legs did not totter.

38 I will pursue my enemies and will utterly destroy them; and I will not turn again till I have consumed them. 39 I will crush them and they shall not rise; and they shall fall under my feet. 40 You shall strengthen me with power for the war; you shall cause those who rise up against me to bow down under me. 41 You have caused my enemies to flee before me, even those who hated me and you have slain them. 42 They shall cry and there shall be no helper; to the Lord, but he hearkens not to them. 43 I ground them as the dust of the earth, I beat them small as the mire of the streets. 44 You shall deliver me from the striving of the peoples, you shall keep me to be the head of the Gentiles: a people which I knew not served me. 45

The strange children feigned obedience to me; they listened to me as soon as they heard. 46 The strange children shall be cast away and shall be overthrown out of their hiding places.

47 The Lord lives and blessed be my guardian and my God, my strong keeper, shall be exalted. 48 The Lord who avenges me is strong, chastening the nations under me, 49 and bringing me out from my enemies: and you shall set me on high from among those who rise up against me: you shall deliver me from the violent man. 50 Therefore will I confess to you, O Lord, among the Gentiles and sing to your name. 51 He magnifies the salvation of his king and works mercy for his anointed, even for David and for his seed for ever.

Faithful is David the son of Jessae and faithful the man whom the Lord raised up to be the anointed of the God of Jacob and beautiful are the psalms of Israel.

2 The Spirit of the Lord spoke by me and his word was upon my tongue. 3 The God of Israel says, A watchman out of Israel spoke to me a parable: I said among men, How will you strengthen the fear of the anointed? 4 And in the morning light of God, let the sun arise in the morning, from the light of which the Lord passed on and as it were from the rain of the tender grass upon the earth. 5 For my house is not so with the Mighty One: for he has made an everlasting covenant with me, ready, guarded at every time; for all my salvation and all my desire is, that the wicked should not flourish. 6 All these are as a thorn thrust forth, for they shall not be taken with the hand, 7 and a man shall not labor among them; and one shall have that which is fully armed with iron and the staff of a spear, He shall burn them with fire and they shall be burnt in their shame.

8 These are the names of the mighty men of David: Jebosthe the C'anaanite is a captain of the third part: Adinon the Asonite, he drew his sword against eight hundred soldiers at once. 9 And after him Eleanan the son of his uncle, son of Dudi who was among the three mighty men with David; and when he defied the Philistines they were gathered there to war and the men of Israel went up. 10 He arose and stroke the Philistines, until his hand was weary and his hand held on to the sword: and the Lord accomplished a great salvation in that day and the people rested behind him only to strip the slain.

11 And after him Samaia the son of Asa the Arachite: and the Philistines were gathered to Theria; and there was there a portion of ground full of lentiles; and the people fled before the Philistines. 12 He stood firm in the midst of the portion and rescued it and stroke the Philistines; and the Lord accomplished a great deliverance.

13 And three out of the thirty went down and came to Cason to David, to the cave of Odollam; and there was an army of the Philistines and they encamped in the valley of Raphain. 14 David was then in the strong hold and the garrison of the Philistines was then in Bethleem. 15 David longed and said: Who will give me water to drink out of the well that is in Bethleem by the gate? Now the band of the Philistines was then in Bethleem. 16 The three mighty men broke through the host of the Philistines and drew water out of the well that was in Bethleem in the gate: and they took it and brought it to David, He would not drink it, but poured it out before the Lord. 17 He said: O Lord, forbid that I should do this, that I should drink of the blood of the men who went at the risk of their lives: He would not drink it. These things did these three mighty men.

18 And Abessa the brother of Joab the son of Saruia, he was chief among the three, He lifted up his spear against three hundred whom he slew; He had a name among three. 19 Of those three he was most honorable, He became a chief over them, but he reached not to the first three.

20 And Banaeas the son of Jodae, he was abundant in mighty deeds, from Cabeseel, He stroke the two sons of Ariel of Moab: He went down and stroke a lion in the midst of a pit on a snowy day. 21 He stroke an Egyptian, a wonderful man and in the hand of the Egyptian was a spear as the side of a ladder; He went down to him with a staff and snatched the spear from the Egyptian's hand and killed him with his own spear. 22 These things did Banaeas the son of Jodae, He had a name among the three mighty men. 23 He was honorable among the second three, but he reached not to the first three: and David made him his reporter.

These are the names of King David's mighty men. 24 Asael Joab's brother; he was among the thirty. Eleanan son of Dudi his uncle in Bethleem. 25 Saema the Rudaeon. 26 Selles the Kelothite: Iras the son of Isca the Thecoite. 27 Abiezer the Anothite, of the sons of the Anothite. 28 Ellon the Aoite; Noere the Netophatite. 29 Esthai the son of Riba of Gabaeth, son of Benjamin the Ephrathite; Asmoth the Bardiamite; Emasu the Salabonite: 30 Adroi of the brooks. 31 Gadabiel son of the Arabothaeite. 32 The sons of Asan, Jonathan; 33 Samnan the Arodite; Amnan the son of Arai the Saraurite. 34 Aliphaleth the son of Asbites, the son of the Machachachite; Eliab the son of Achitophel the Gelonite. 35 Asarai the Carmelite the son of Uraeoerchi. 36 Gaal the son of Nathana. The son of much valour, the son of Galaaddi. Elie the Ammanite. 37 Gelore the Bethorite, armor-bearer to Joab, son of Saruia. 38 Iras the Ethirite. Gerab the Ethenite. 39 Urias the Chettite: thirty-seven in all.

24:1 The Lord caused his anger to burn forth again in Israel and Satan stirred up David against them, saying: Go, number Israel and Juda. 2 The king said to Joab commander of the host, who was with him, Go now through all the tribes of Israel and Juda, from Dan even to Bersabee and number the people and I will know the number of the people. 3 Joab said to the king, Now, may the Lord add to the people a hundred-fold as many as they are and may the eyes of my lord the king see it: but why does my lord the king desire this thing? 4 Nevertheless the word of the king prevailed against Joab an the captains of the host:

And Joab and the captains of the host went out before the king to number the people of Israel. 5 They went over Jordan and encamped in Aroer, on the right of the city which is in the midst of the valley of Gad and Eliezer. 6 They came to Galaad and into the land of Thabason, which is Adasai and they came to Danidan and Udan and surrounded Sidon. 7 They came to Mapsar of Tyre and to all the cities of the Evite and the C'anaanite: and they came by the South of Juda to Bersabee. 8 They surrounded the whole land; and they arrived at Jerusalem at the end of nine months and twenty days. 9 Joab gave in the number of the census of the people to the king: and Israel consisted of eight hundred thousand men of might that drew sword; and the men of Juda, five hundred thousand fighting men.

10 The heart of David stroke him after he had numbered the people; and David said to the Lord, I have sinned grievously, O Lord, in what I have now done: remove, I pray you, the iniquity of your servant, for I have been exceedingly foolish.

11 David rose early in the morning and the word of the Lord came to the prophet Gad, the seer, saying: Go and speak to David, saying: 12 Thus says the Lord, I bring one of three things upon you: now choose you one of them and I will do it to you. 13 And Gad went in to David and told him and said to him: Choose one of these things to befall you, whether there shall come upon you for three years famine in your land; or that you should flee three months before your enemies and they should pursue you; or that there should be for three days mortality in your land. Now, then decide and see what answer I shall return to him that sent me. 14 David said to Gad, On every side I am much straitened: let me fall now into the hands of the Lord, for his compassions are very many; Let me not fall into the hands of man.

15 So David chose for himself the mortality: and they were the days of wheat-harvest; and the Lord sent a pestilence upon Israel from morning till noon and the plague began among the people; and there died of the people from Dan even to Bersabee seventy thousand men. 16 The angel of the Lord stretched out his hand against Jerusalem to destroy it and the Lord repented of the evil and said to the angel that destroyed the people, It is enough now, withhold your hand. The angel of the Lord was by the threshing-floor of Orna the Jebusite. 17 David spoke to the Lord when he saw the angel smiting the people, He said: Behold, it is I that have done wrong, but these sheep what have they done? Let your hand, I pray you, be upon me and upon my father's house.

18 And Gad came to David in that day and said to him: Go up and set up to the Lord and altar in the threshing-floor of Orna the Jebusite. 19 David went up according to the word of Gad, as the Lord commanded him. 20 And Orna looked out and saw the king and his servants coming on before him: and Orna went forth and did obeisance¹ to the king with his face to the earth. 21 And Orna said: Why has my lord the king come to his servant? And David said: To buy of you the threshing-floor, in order to build an altar to the Lord that the plague may be restrained from off the people. 22 And Orna said to David: Let my lord the king take and offer to the Lord that which is good in his eyes: behold, here are oxen for a whole-burnt-offering and the wheels and furniture of the oxen for wood. 23 Orna gave all to the king: and Orna said to the king, The Lord your God bless you. 24 The king said to Orna, No, but I will surely buy it of you at a fair price and I will not offer to the Lord my God a whole-burnt-offering for nothing. So David purchased the threshing-floor and the oxen for fifty shekels of silver. 25 David built there an altar to the Lord and offered up whole-burnt-offerings and peace-offerings: and Solomon made an addition to the altar afterwards, for it was little at first. The Lord listened to the land and the plague was stayed from Israel.

III KINGDOMS (1 KINGS) (ΒΑΣΙΛΕΙΩΝ Γ')

1:1 And king David was old and advanced in days and they covered him with clothes, He was not warmed. 2 And his servants said: Let them seek for the king a young virgin and she shall wait on the king and cherish him and lie with him and my lord the king shall be warmed. 3 So they sought for a fair young women out of all the coasts of Israel; and they found Abisag the Somanite and they brought her to the king. 4 The young women was extremely beautiful and she cherished the king and ministered to him, but the king knew her not.

5 And Adonias the son of Aggith exalted himself, saying: I will be king; He prepared for himself chariots and horses and fifty men to run before him. 6 And his father never at any time checked him, saying: Why have you done thus? He was also very handsome in appearance and his mother bore him after Abessalom. 7 He conferred with Joab the son of Saruia and with Abiathar the priest and they followed after Adonias. 8 But Sadoc the priest and Banaeas the son of Jodae and Nathan the prophet and Semei and Resi and the mighty men of David, did not follow Adonias. 9 And Adonias sacrificed sheep and calves and lambs by the stone of Zoelethi, which was near Rogel: He called all his brothers and all the adult men of Juda, servants of the king. 10 But Nathan the prophet and Banaeas and the mighty men and Solomon his brother, he did not call.

11 And Nathan spoke to Bersabee the mother of Solomon, saying: have you not heard that Adonias the son of Aggith reigns and our lord David knows it not? 12 And now come, let me, I pray, give you counsel and you shall rescue your life and the life of your son Solomon. 13 Haste and go in to king David and you shall speak to him, saying: have not you, my lord, O king, sworn to your handmaid, saying: your son Solomon shall reign after me, He shall sit upon my throne? Why then does Adonias reign? 14 And behold, while you are still speaking there with the king, I also will come in after you and will confirm your words.

15 So Bersabee went in to the king into the chamber: and the king was very old and Abisag the Somanite was ministering to the king. 16 And Bersabee bowed and did obeisance¹ to the king; and the king said: What is your request? 17 And she said: My lord, you did swear by the Lord your God to your handmaid, saying: your son Solomon shall reign after me and shall sit upon my throne. 18 And now, behold, Adonias reigns and you, my lord, O king, know it not. 19 He has sacrificed calves and lambs and sheep in abundance and has called all the king's sons and Abiathar the priest and Joab the commander-in-chief of the host; but Solomon your servant he has not called. 20 And you, my lord, O king, — the eyes of all Israel are upon you, to tell them who shall sit upon the throne of my lord the king after him. 21 It shall come to pass when my lord the king shall sleep with his fathers, that I and Solomon my son shall be offenders.

22 And behold, while she was yet talking with the king, Nathan the prophet came. It was reported to the king,

23 Behold, Nathan the prophet is here: He came in to the king's presence and did obeisance² to the king with his face to the ground. 24 And Nathan said: My lord, O king, did you say, Adonias shall reign after me, He shall sit upon my throne? 25 For he has gone down today and has sacrificed calves and lambs and sheep in abundance and has called all the king's sons and the chiefs of the army and Abiathar the priest; and, behold, they are eating and drinking before him and they said: Long live king Adonias. 26 But he has not invited me your servant and Sadoc the priest and Banaeas the son of Jodae and Solomon your servant. 27 Has this matter happened by the authority of my lord the king and have you not made known to your servant who shall sit upon the throne of my lord the king after him? 28 And king David answered and said: Call me Bersabee: and she came in before the king and stood before him. 29 The king swore and said: As the Lord lives who redeemed my soul out of all affliction, 30 as I swore to you by the Lord God of Israel, saying: Solomon your son shall reign after me, He shall sit upon my throne in my stead, so will I do this day. 31 And Bersabee bowed with her face to the ground and did obeisance¹ to the king and said: Let my lord king David live for ever.

32 And king David said: Call me Sadoc the priest and Nathan the prophet and Banaeas the son of Jodae: and they came in before the king. 33 The king said to them: Take the servants of your lord with you and mount my son Solomon upon my own mule and bring him down to Gion. 34 And there let Sadoc the priest and Nathan the prophet anoint him to be king over Israel and do you sound the trumpet and you shall say, Let king Solomon live. 35 He shall sit upon my throne and reign in my stead: and I have given charge that he should be for a prince over Israel and Juda. 36 And Banaeas the son of Jodae answered the king and said: So let it be: may the Lord God of my lord the king confirm it. 37 As the Lord was with my lord the king, so let him be with Solomon, Let him exalt his throne beyond the throne of my lord king David.

38 And Sadoc the priest went down and Nathan the prophet and Banaeas son of Jodae and the Cherethite and the Phelethite and they mounted Solomon upon the mule of king David and led him away to Gion. 39 And Sadoc the priest took the horn of oil out of the tabernacle and anointed Solomon and blew the trumpet; and all the people said: Let king Solomon live. 40 All the people went up after him and they danced in choirs and rejoiced with great joy and the earth quaked with their voice.

41 And Adonias and all his guests heard and they had just left off eating: and Joab heard the sound of the trumpet and said: What means the voice of the city in tumult? 42 While he was yet speaking, behold, Jonathan the son of Abiathar the priest came in: and Adonias said: Come in, for you are a mighty man and you come to bring glad tidings. 43 Jonathan answered and said: Truly our lord king David has made Solomon king: 44 and the king has sent with him Sadoc the priest and Nathan the prophet and Banaeas the son of Jodae and the Cherethite and the Phelethite and they have mounted him on the king's mule; 45 and Sadoc the priest and Nathan the prophet have anointed him in Gion and have gone up for there rejoicing and the city resounded: this is the sound which you have heard. 46 And Solomon is seated upon the throne of the kingdom. 47 The servants of the king have gone in to bless our lord king David, saying: God make the name of Solomon better than your name and make his throne greater than your throne; and the king worshiped upon his bed. 48 Moreover, thus said the king, Blessed be the Lord God of Israel, who has this day appointed one of my seed sitting on my throne and my eyes see it.

49 All the guests of Adonias were dismayed and every man went his way. 50 And Adonias feared because of Solomon and arose and departed and laid hold on the horns of the altar. 51 It was reported to Solomon, saying: Behold, Adonias fears king Solomon and holds the horns of the altar, saying: Let Solomon swear to me this day, that he will not kill his servant with the sword. ⁵² And Solomon said: If he should be a valiant man, there shall not a hair of his fall to the ground; but if evil be found in him, he shall die. ⁵³ And king Solomon sent and they brought him away from the altar; He went in and did obeisance¹ to king Solomon: and Solomon said to him: Go to your house.

^{2:1} The days of David drew near that he should die: He addressed his son Solomon, saying: I go the way of all the earth: ² but be strong and show yourself a man; ³ and keep the charge of the Lord your God, to walk in his ways, to keep the commandments and the ordinances and the judgments which are written in the law of Moses; that you may understand what you shall do in all things that I command you: ⁴ that the Lord may confirm his word which he spoke, saying: If your children shall take heed to their way to walk before me in truth with all their heart, I promise you, saying: there shall not fail you a man on the throne of Israel. ⁵ Moreover, you know all that Joab the son of Saruia did to me, what he did to the two captains of the forces of Israel, to Abenner the son of Ner and to Amessai the son of Jether, that he killed them and shed the blood of war in peace and put innocent blood on his girdle that was about his loins and on his sandal that was on his foot. ⁶ Therefore you shall deal with him according to your wisdom and you shall not bring down his grey hairs in peace to the grave. ⁷ But you shall deal kindly with the sons of Berzelli the Galaadite and they shall be among those who eat at your table; for thus they drew near to me when I fled from the face of your brother Abessalom. ⁸ And, behold, there is with you Semei the son of Gera, a Benjamite of Baurim: He cursed me with a grievous curse in the day when I went into the camp; He came down to Jordan to meet me and I swore to him by the Lord, saying: I will not put you to death with the sword. ⁹ But you shall by no means hold him guiltless, for you are a wise man and will know what you shall do to him and shall bring down his grey hairs with blood to the grave.

¹² And Solomon sat on the throne of his father David and his kingdom was established greatly. ¹³ And Adonias the son of Aggith came in to Bersabee the mother of Solomon and did obeisance² to her: and she said: do you enter peaceably? He said: Peaceably: ¹⁴ I have business with you. And she said to him: Say on. ¹⁵ He said to her: You know that the kingdom was mine and all Israel turned their face toward me for a king; but the kingdom was turned from me and became my brother's: for it was appointed to him from the Lord. ¹⁶ And now I make one request of you, do not turn away your face. And Bersabee said to him: Speak on. ¹⁷ He said to her: Speak, I pray you, to king Solomon, for he will not turn away his face from you, Let him give me Abisag the Somanite for a wife. ¹⁸ At this, Bersabee said: Very well, I will speak for you to the king.

¹⁹ And Bersabee went in to king Solomon to speak to him concerning Adonias; and the king rose up to meet her and kissed her and sat on the throne and a throne was set for the mother of the king and she sat on his right hand. ²⁰ And she said to him: I ask of you one little request; turn not away my face from you. The king said to her: Ask, my mother and I will not reject you. 21 And she said: Let, I pray you, Abisag the Somanite be given to Adonias your brother to wife. 22 And king Solomon answered and said to his mother, And why have you asked Abisag for Adonias? Ask for him the kingdom also; for he is my elder brother, He has for his companion Abiathar the priest and Joab the son of Saruia the commander-in-chief. 23 And king Solomon swore by the Lord, saying: God do so to me and more also, if it be not that Adonias has spoken this word against his own life. 24 And now as the Lord lives who has established me and set me on the throne of my father David, He has made me a house, as the Lord spoke, this day shall Adonias be put to death. 25 So king Solomon sent by the hand of Banaeas the son of Jodae, He killed him and Adonias died in that day.

26 The king said to Abiathar the priest, Depart you quickly to Anathoth to your farm, for you are worthy of death this day; but I will not kill you, because you have borne the ark of the covenant of the Lord before my father and because you was afflicted in all things by which my father was afflicted. 27 And Solomon removed Abiathar from being a priest of the Lord, that the word of the Lord might be fulfilled, which he spoke concerning the house of Heli in Selom.

28 The report came to Joab son of Saruia; for Joab had turned after Adonias, He went not after Solomon: and Joab fled to the tabernacle of the Lord and caught hold of the horns of the altar. 29 It was told Solomon, saying: Joab has fled to the tabernacle of the Lord and Behold! he has hold of the horns of the altar. And king Solomon sent to Joab, saying: What ails you, that you have fled to the altar? And Joab said: Because I was afraid of you and fled for refuge to the Lord. And Solomon sent Banaeas son of Jodae, saying: Go and kill him and bury him.

30 And Banaeas son of Jodae came to Joab to the tabernacle of the Lord and said to him: Thus says the king, Come forth. Joab said: I will not come forth, for I will die here. And Banaeas son of Jodae returned and spoke to the king, saying: Thus has Joab spoken and thus has he answered me. 31 The king said to him: Go and do to him as he has spoken and kill him: and you shall bury him and you shall remove this day the blood which he shed without cause, from me and from the house of my father. 32 The Lord has returned upon his own head the blood of his unrighteousness, inasmuch as he attacked two men more righteous and better than himself and killed them with the sword and my father David knew not of their blood, even Abenner the son of Ner the commander-in-chief of Israel and Amessa the son of Jether the commander-in-chief of Juda. 33 And their blood is returned upon his head and upon the head of his seed for ever: but to David and his seed and his house and his throne, may there be peace for ever from the Lord. 34 So Banaeas son of Jodae went up and attacked him and killed him and buried him in his house in the wilderness.

35 The king appointed Banaeas son of Jodae in his place over the host; and the kingdom was established in Jerusalem; and as for Sadoc the priest, the king appointed him to be high priest in the room of Abiathar. And Solomon son of David reigned over Israel and Juda in Jerusalem: and the Lord gave understanding to Solomon and very much wisdom and largeness of heart, as the sand by the sea-shore.

The wisdom of Solomon abounded exceedingly beyond the wisdom of all the ancients and beyond all the wise men of Egypt: He took the daughter of Pharaoh and brought her into the city of David, until he had finished building his own house and the house of the Lord first and the wall of Jerusalem round about. In seven years he made and finished them.

And Solomon had seventy thousand bearers of burdens and eight thousand hewers of stone in the mountain: and Solomon made the sea and the bases and the great lavers and the pillars and the fountain of the court and the brazen sea-and he built the citadel as a defence above it, he made a breach in the wall of the city of David: thus the daughter of Pharaoh went up out of the city of David to her house which he built for her. Then he built the citadel: and Solomon offered up three whole-burnt-offerings in the year and peace-offerings on the altar which he built to the Lord, He burnt incense before the Lord and finished the house. These are the chief persons who presided over the works of Solomon; three thousand and six hundred masters of the people that accomplished the works. He buriit Assur and Magdo and Gazer and upper Baethoron and Ballath: only after he had built the house of the Lord and the wall of Jerusalem round about, afterwards he built these cities.

When David was yet living, he charged Solomon, saying: Behold, there is with you Semei the son of Gera, of the seed of Benjamin out of Chebron: he cursed me with a grievous curse in the day when I went into the camp; He came down to meet me at Jordan and I swore to him by the Lord, saying: He shall not be slain with the sword. But now do not you hold him guiltless, for you are a man of understanding and you will know what you shall do to him and you shall bring down his grey hairs with blood to the grave.

36 The king called Semei and said to him: Build you a house in Jerusalem and dwell there and you shall not go out for there any place. 37 It shall come to pass in the day that you shall go forth and cross over the brook Kedron, know assuredly that you shall certainly die: your blood shall be upon your head. The king caused him to swear in that day. 38 And Semei said to the king, Good is the word that you have spoken, my lord O king: thus will your servant do. And Semei dwelt in Jerusalem three years.

39 It came to pass after the three years, that two servants of Semei ran away to Anchus son of Maacha king of Geth: and it was told Semei, saying: Behold, your servants are in Geth. 40 And Semei rose up and saddled his ass and went to Geth to Anchus to seek out his servants: and Semei went and brought his servants out of Geth. 41 It was told Solomon, saying: Semei is gone out of Jerusalem to Geth and has brought back his servants. 42 The king sent and called Semei and said to him: Did I not adjure you by the Lord and testify to you, saying: In whatsoever day you shall go out of Jerusalem and go to the right or left, know certainly that you shall assuredly die? 43 And why have you not kept the oath of the Lord and the commandment which I commanded you?

44 The king said to Semei, You know all your mischief which your heart knows, which you did to David my father: and the Lord has recompensed your mischief on your own head. 45 And king Solomon is blessed and the throne of David shall be established before the Lord for ever. 46 And Solomon commanded Banaeas the son of Jodae, He went forth and killed him.

And king Solomon was very prudent and wise: and Juda and Israel were very many, as the sand which is by the sea for multitude, eating and drinking and rejoicing: and Solomon was chief in all the kingdoms and they brought gifts and served Solomon all the days of his life. And Solomon began to open the domains of Lebanon, He built Thermae in the wilderness. And this was the daily provision of Solomon, thirty measures of fine flour and sixty measures of ground meal, ten choice calves and twenty oxen from the pastures and a hundred sheep, besides stags and does and choice fed birds. For he ruled in all the country on this side the river, from Raphi to Gaza, over all the kings on this side the river: He was at peace on all sides round about; and Juda and Israel dwelt safely, every one under his vine and under his fig tree, eating and drinking and feasting, from Dan even to Bersabee, all the days of Solomon.

These were the princes of Solomon; Azariu son of Sadoc the priest and Orniu son of Nathan chief of the officers, He went to his house; and Suba the scribe and Basa son of Achithalam recorder and Abi son of Joab commander-in-chief and Achire son of Edrai was over the levies and Banaeas son of Jodae over the household and over the brickwork and Cachur the son of Nathan was counsellor.

And Solomon had forty thousand brood mares for his chariots and twelve thousand horses. He reigned over all the kings from the river and to the land of the Philistines and to the borders of Egypt: so Solomon the son of David reigned over Israel and Juda in Jerusalem.

3:1 2 Nevertheless the people burnt incense on the high places, because a house had not yet been built to the Lord. 3 And Solomon loved the Lord, so as to walk in the ordinances of David his father; only he sacrificed and burnt incense on the high places. 4 He arose and went to Gabaon to sacrifice there, for that was the highest place and great: Solomon offered a whole-burnt-offering of a thousand victims on the altar in Gabaon.

5 The Lord appeared to Solomon in a dream by night and the Lord said to Solomon, Ask some petition for yourself. 6 And Solomon said: You have dealt very mercifully with your servant David my father according as he walked before you in truth and in righteousness and in uprightness of heart with you and you have kept for him this great mercy, to set his son upon his throne, as it is this day. 7 And now, O Lord my God, you have appointed your servant in the room of David my father; and I am a little child and know not my going out or my coming in. 8 But your servant is in the midst of your people, whom you have chosen, a great people, which cannot be numbered. 9 You shall give therefore to your servant a heart to hear and to judge your people justly and to discern between good and evil: for who will be able to judge this your great people?

10 It was pleasing before the Lord, that Solomon asked this thing. 11 The Lord said to him: Because you have asked this thing of me and have not asked for yourself long life and have not asked wealth, nor have asked the lives of your enemies, but have asked for yourself understanding to hear judgment; 12 behold, I have done according to your word: behold, I have given you an understanding and wise heart: there has not been any one like you before you and after you there shall not arise one like you. 13 I have given you what you have not asked, wealth and glory, so that there has not been any one like you among kings. 14 If you will walk in my way, to keep my commandments and my ordinances, as David your father walked, then will I multiply your days. 15 And Solomon awoke, and, behold, it was a dream: He arose and came to Jerusalem and stood before the altar that was in front of the ark of the covenant of the Lord in Zion: He offered whole-burnt-offerings and sacrificed peace-offerings and made a great banquet for himself and all his servants.

16 Then there appeared two harlots before the king and they stood before him. 17 The one woman said: Hear me, my lord; I and this woman dwelt in one house and we were delivered in the house. 18 It came to pass on the third day after I was delivered, this woman also was delivered: and we were together; and there was no one with us besides our two selves in the house. 19 And this woman's child died in the night; because she overlaid it. 20 and she arose in the middle of the night and took my son from my arms and laid him in her bosom and laid her dead son in my bosom. 21 And I arose in the morning to suckle my son, He was dead: and, behold, I considered him in the morning; and, behold, it was not my son whom I bore. 22 The other woman said: No, but the living is my son and the dead is your son. So they spoke before the king.

23 and the king said to them: You say, This is my son, even the living one and this woman's son is the dead one: and you say, No, but the living is my son and the dead is your son. 24 The king said: Fetch a sword. They brought a sword before the king. 25 The king said: Divide the live child, the suckling, in two; and give half of it to one and half of it to the other. 26 The woman whose the living child was, answered and said to the king, (for her bowels yearned over her son) and she said: I pray you, my lord, give her the child and in no way kill it. But the other said: Let it be neither mine nor hers; divide it. 27 Then the king answered and said: Give the child to her that said: 'Give it to her and by no means kill it:' she is its mother. 28 And all Israel heard this judgment which the king judged and they feared before the king; because they saw that the wisdom of God was in him, to execute judgment.

4:1 And king Solomon reigned over Israel.

2 These are the princes which he had; Azarias son of Sadoc. 3 Eliaph and Achia son of Seba, scribes; and Josaphat son of Achilud, recorder. 4 And Banaeas son of Jodae over the host; and Sadoc and Abiathar were priests. 5 And Ornia the son of Nathan was over the officers; and Zabuth son of Nathan was the king's friend. 6 And Achisar was steward and Eliac the chief steward; and Eliab the son of Saph was over the family: and Adoniram the son of Audon over the tribute.

7 And Solomon had twelve officers over all Israel, to provide for the king and his household; each one's turn came to supply for a month in the year. 8 These were their names: Been the son of Or in the mount of Ephraim, one. 9 The son of Dacar, in Makes and in Salabin and Baethsamys and Elon as far as Bethanan, one. 10 The son of Esdi in Araboth; his was Socho and all the land of Opher. 11 All Nephthador belonged to the son of Aminadab, Tephath daughter of Solomon was his wife, one. 12 Bana son of Achiluth had Ithaaanach and Mageddo and his was the whole house of San which was by Sesathan below Esrae and from Bethsan as far as Sabelmaula, as far as Maeber Lucam, one. 13 The son of Naber in Raboth Galaad, to him fell the lot of Ergab in Basan, sixty great cities with walls and brazen bars, one. 14 Achinadab son of Saddo, had Maanaim. 15 Achimaas was in Nephtholim, He took Basemmath daughter of Solomon to wife, one. 16 Baana son of Chusi, in Aser and in Baaloth, one, 17 Josaphat son of Phuasud was in Issachar. 18 Semei son of Ela, in Benjamin. 19 Gaber son of Adai in the land of Gad, the land of Seon king of Esebon and of Og king of Basan and one officer in the land of Juda. 20 21 22 These were the requisite supplies for Solomon: in one day thirty measures of fine flour and sixty measures of fine pounded meal, 23 and ten choice calves and twenty pastured oxen and a hundred sheep, besides stags and choice fatted does. 24 For he had dominion on this side the river, He was at peace on all sides round about.

25 26 27 Thus the officers provided king Solomon: and they execute every one in his month all the orders for the table of the king, they omit nothing. 28 They carried the barley and the straw for the horses and the chariots to the place where the king might be, each according to his charge.

29 The Lord gave understanding to Solomon and very much wisdom and enlargement of heart, as the sand on the seashore. 30 And Solomon abounded greatly beyond the wisdom of all the ancients and beyond all the wise men of Egypt. 31 He was wiser than all other men: He was wiser than Gaethan the Zarite and than Ænan and than Chalcad and Darala the son of

Mal. 32 And Solomon spoke three thousand proverbs and his songs were five thousand. 33 He spoke of trees, from the cedar in Lebanon even to the hyssop which comes out through the wall: he spoke also of cattle and of birds and of reptiles and of fishes. 34 All the nations came to hear the wisdom of Solomon and ambassadors from all the kings of the earth, as many as heard of his wisdom.

And Solomon took to himself the daughter of Pharaoh to wife and brought her into the city of David until he had finished the house of the Lord and his own house and the wall of Jerusalem. Then went up Pharaoh the king of Egypt and took Gazer and burnt it and the Canaanite dwelling in Mergab; and Pharaoh gave them as a dowry to his daughter the wife of Solomon: and Solomon rebuilt Gazer.

5:1 And Chiram king of Tyre sent his servants to anoint Solomon in the room of David his father, because Chiram always loved David. 2 And Solomon sent to Chiram, saying: 3 You knew my father David, that he do you think not build a house to the name of the Lord my God because of the wars that surrounded him, until the Lord put them under the soles of his feet. 4 And now the Lord my God has given me rest round about; there is no one plotting against me and there is no evil trespass against me. 5 And, behold, I intend to build a house to the name of the Lord my God, as the Lord God spoke to my father David, saying: your son whom I will set on your throne in your place, he shall build a house to my name. 6 And now command, Let men cut wood for me out of Lebanon: and, behold, my servants shall be with your servants and I will give you the wages of your service, according to all that you shall say, because you know that we have no one skilled in cutting timber like the Sidonians.

7 It came to pass, as soon as Chiram heard the words of Solomon, that he rejoiced greatly and said: Blessed be God today, who has given to David a wise son over this numerous people. 8 He sent to Solomon, saying: I have listened concerning all that you have sent to me for: I will do all your will: as for timber of cedar and fir, 9 my servants shall bring them down from Lebanon to the sea: I will form them into rafts and bring them to the place which you shall send to me about; and I will land them there and you shall take them up: and you shall do my will, in giving bread to my household.

10 So Chiram gave to Solomon cedars and fir trees and all his desire. 11 And Solomon gave to Chiram twenty thousand measures of wheat as food for his house and twenty thousand baths of beaten oil thus Solomon gave to Chiram yearly. 12 The Lord gave wisdom to Solomon as he promised him; and there was peace between Chiram and Solomon and they made a covenant between them.

13 The king raised a levy out of all Israel and the levy was thirty thousand men. 14 He sent them to Lebanon, ten thousand taking turn every month: they were a month in Lebanon and two months at home: and Adoniram was over the levy. 15 And Solomon had seventy thousand bearers of burdens and eighty thousand hewers of stone in the mountain; 16 besides the rulers that were appointed over the works of Solomon, there were three thousand six hundred masters who accomplished in the works. 17 18 They prepared the stones and the timber during three years.

6:0 It came to pass in the four hundred and fortieth year after the departure of the children of Israel out of Egypt, in the fourth year and second month of the reign of king Solomon over Israel, 17 that the king commanded that they should take great and costly stones for the foundation of the house and hewn stones. 18 The men of Solomon and the men of Chiram hewed the stones and laid them for a foundation.

1 In the fourth year he laid the foundation of the house of the Lord, in the month Ziu, even in the second month. 38 In the eleventh year, in the month Baal, this is the eighth month, the house was completed according to all its plan and according to all its arrangement. 2 The house which the king built to the Lord was forty cubits in length and twenty cubits in breadth and its height five and twenty cubits. 3 The porch in front of the temple—twenty cubits was its length according to the breadth of the house in front of the house: He built the house and finished it. 4 He made to the house secret windows inclining inward.

5 And against the wall of the house he set chambers around the temple and the ark. 6 The under side was five cubits broad and the middle part six and the third was seven cubits broad; for he formed an interval to the house around without the house, that they might not touch the walls of the house. 7 The house was built in the construction of it with rough hewn stones: and there was not heard in the house in the building of it hammer or axe, or any iron tool. 8 The porch of the under side was below the right wing of the house and there was a winding ascent into the middle chamber and from the middle to the third story. 9 So he built the house and finished it; He made the ceiling of the house with cedars. 10 He made the partitions through all the house, each five cubits high and enclosed each partition with cedar boards.

11 12 13 14 15 He framed the walls of the house within with cedar boards, from the floor of the house and on to the inner walls and to the beams: he lined the parts enclosed with boards within and surrounded the inward parts of the house with planks of fir. 16 He built the twenty cubits from the top of the wall, one side from the floor to the beams, He made it from the oracle to the most holy place. 17 The temple was forty cubits in extent, 18 19 in front of the oracle in the midst of the house within, in order to put there the ark of the covenant of the Lord. 20 The length was twenty cubits and the breadth was twenty cubits and the height of it was twenty cubits. He covered it with perfect gold, He made an altar in front of the oracle and covered it with gold. 21 22 He covered the whole house with gold, till he had finished gilding the whole house.

23 He made in the oracle two cherubim of ten cubits measured size. 24 The wing of one cherub was five cubits and his other wing was five cubits; ten cubits from the tip of one wing to the tip of the other wing. 25 Thus it was with the other cherub, both were alike finished with one measure. 26 The height of the one cherub was ten cubits and so was it with the second cherub. 27 And both the cherubim were in the midst of the innermost part of the house; and they spread out their wings and one wing touched the wall and the wing of the other cherub touched the other wall; and their wings in the midst of the house touched each other. 28 He covered the cherubim with gold.

29 He graved all the walls of the house around with the graving of cherubim, He sculptured palm trees within and without the house. 30 He covered the floor of the house within and without with gold.

31 And for the door-way of the oracle he made doors of juniper wood, there were porches in a four-fold way. 32 33 34 In both the doors were planks of fir; the one door had two leaves and their hinges and the other door had two leaves and turned on hinges, 35 being carved with cherubim and there were palm-trees and open flower-leaves and it was overlaid with gold gilt upon the engraving. 36 He built the inner court, three rows of hewn stones and a row of accomplished cedar round about, He made the curtain of the court of the porch of the house that was in front of the temple. 37 38

13 And king Solomon sent and took Chiram out of Tyre, 14 the son of a widow woman; He was of the tribe of Nephthalim and his father was a Tyrian; a worker in brass and accomplished in are and skill and knowledge to work every work in brass: He was brought in to king Solomon, He accomplished all the works.

15 He cast the two pillars for the porch of the house: eighteen cubits was the height of each pillar and a circumference of fourteen cubits encompassed it, even the thickness of the pillar: the flutings were four fingers wide and thus was the other pillar formed. 16 He made two molten chapters to put on the heads of the pillars: five cubits was the height of one chapter and five cubits was the height of the other chapter. 17 He made two ornaments of net-work to cover the chapters of the pillars; even a net for one chapter and a net for the other chapter. 18 And hanging work, two rows of brazen pomegranates, formed with net-work, hanging work, row upon row: and thus he framed the ornaments for the second chapter. 19 And on the heads of the pillars he made lily-work against the porch, of four cubits, 20 and a chamber over both the pillars and above the sides an addition equal to the chamber in width. 21 He set up the pillars of the porch of the temple: He set up the one pillar and called its name Jachum: He set up the second pillar and called its name Boloz.

22 23 He made the sea, ten cubits from one rim to the other, the same was completely circular round about: its height was five cubits and its circumference thirty-three cubits. 24 And stays underneath its rim round surrounded it ten cubits round; 25 And there were twelve oxen under the sea: three looking to the north and three looking to the west and three looking to the south and three looking to the east: and all their hinder parts were inward and the sea was above upon them. 26 And its rim was as the work of the rim of a cup, a lily-flower and the thickness of it was a span.

27 He made ten brazen bases: five cubits was the length of one base and four cubits the breadth of it and its height was six cubits. 28 And this work of the bases was formed with a border the them and there was a border between the ledges. 29 And upon their borders between the projection were lions and oxen and cherubim: and on the projections, even so above and also below were the places of lions and oxen, hanging work. 30 And there were four brazen wheels to one base; and there were brazen bases and their four sides answering to them, side pieces under the bases. 31 And there were axles in the wheels under the base. 32 The height of one wheel was a cubit and a half. 33 The work of the wheels was as the work of chariot wheels: their axles and their felloes and the rest of their work, were all molten. 34 The four side pieces were at the four corners of each base; its shoulders were formed of the base. 35 And on the top of the base half a cubit was the size of it, there was a circle on the top of the base and there was the top of its spaces and its borders: and it was open at the top of its spaces. 36 And its borders were cherubim and lions and palm-trees, upright, each was joined in front and within and round about. 37 According to the same form he made all the ten bases, even one order and one measure to all. 38 He made ten brazen lavers, each laver containing forty baths and measuring four cubits, each laver placed on a several base throughout the ten bases. 39 He put five bases on the right side of the house and five on the left side of the house: and the sea was placed on the right side of the house eastward in the direction of the south.

40 And Chiram made the caldrons and the pans and the bowls; and Chiram finished making all the works that he accomplished for king Solomon in the house of the Lord: 41 two pillars and the wreathen works of the pillars on the heads of the two pillars; and the two net-works to cover both the wreathen works of the flutings that were upon the pillars. 42 The four hundred pomegranates for both the net-works, two rows of pomegranates for one net-work, to cover both the wreathen works of the bases belonging to both pillars. 43 The ten bases and the ten lavers upon the bases. 44 And one sea and the twelve oxen under the sea. 45 The caldrons and pans and bowls and all the furniture, which Chiram made for king Solomon for the house of the Lord: and there were eight and forty pillars of the house of the king and of the house of the Lord: all the works of the king which Chiram made were entirely of brass. 46 In the country around Jordan did he cast them, in the clay land between Socchoth and Sira. 47 There was no reckoning of the brass of which he made all these works, from the very great abundance, there was no end of the weight of the brass.

48 And king Solomon took the furniture which Chiram made for the house of the Lord, the golden altar and the golden table of showbread. 49 He put the five candlesticks on the left and five on the right in front of the oracle, being of pure gold and the lamp-stands and the lamps and the snuffers of gold. 50 And there were made the porches and the nails and the bowls and the spoons and the golden censers, of pure gold: and the panels of the doors of the innermost part of the house, even the holy of holies and the golden doors of the temple.

51 So the work of the house of the Lord which Solomon accomplished was finished; and Solomon brought in the holy things of David his father and all the holy things of Solomon; he put the silver and the gold and the furniture, into the treasures of the house of the Lord.

7:1 And Solomon built a house for himself in thirteen years. 2 He built the house with the wood of Lebanon; its length was a hundred cubits and its breadth was fifty cubits and its height was of thirty cubits and it was made with three rows of cedar pillars and the pillars had side-pieces of cedar. 3 He formed the house with chambers above on the sides of the pillars and the number of the pillars was each row forty and five, 4 and there were three chambers and space against space in three rows. 5 All the doors and spaces formed like chambers were square and from door to door was a correspondence in three rows. 6 He made the porch of the pillars, they were fifty cubits long and fifty broad, the porch joining them in front; and the other pillars and the thick beam were in front of the house by the porches. 7 And there was the Porch of seats where he would judge, the porch of judgment.

8 And their house where he would dwell, had one court communicating with these according to this work; He built the house for the daughter of Pharaoh whom Solomon had taken, according to this porch.

9 All these were of costly stones, sculptured at intervals within even from the foundation even to the top and outward to the great court, 10 founded with large costly stones, stones of ten cubits and eight cubits long. 11 And above with costly stones, according to the measure of hewn stones and with cedars. 12 There were three rows of hewn stones around the great hall and a row of sculptured cedar: and Solomon finished all his house.

8:1 It came to pass when Solomon had finished building the house of the Lord and his own house after twenty years, then king Solomon assembled all the elders of Israel in Zion, to bring the ark of the covenant of the Lord out of the city of David, this is Zion, 2 in the month of Athanin.

3 The priests took up the ark, 4 and the tabernacle of testimony and the holy furniture that was in the tabernacle of testimony. 5 The king and all Israel were occupied before the ark, sacrificing sheep and oxen, without number. 6 The priests bring in the ark into its place, into the oracle of the house, even into the holy of holies, under the wings of the cherubim. 7 For the cherubim spread out their wings over the place of the ark and the cherubim covered the ark and its holy things above. 8 The holy staves projected and the ends of the holy staves appeared out of the holy places in front of the oracle and were not seen without. 9 There was nothing in the ark except the two tables of stone, the tables of the covenant which Moses put there in Choreb, which tables the Lord made as a covenant with the children of Israel in their going forth from the land of Egypt.

10 It came to pass when the priests departed out of the holy place, that the cloud filled the house. 11 The priests do you think not stand to minister because of the cloud, because the glory of the Lord filled the house.

12 13 14 The king turned his face and the king blessed all Israel, (and the whole assembly of Israel stood:) 15 He said: Blessed be the Lord God of Israel today, who spoke by his mouth concerning David my father and has fulfilled it with his hands, saying: 16 From the day that I brought out my people Israel out of Egypt, I have not chosen a city in any one tribe of Israel to build a house, so that my name should be there: but I chose Jerusalem that my name should be there and I chose David to be over my people Israel. 17 It was in the heart of my father to build a house to the name of the Lord God of Israel. 18 The Lord said to David my father, Since it came into your heart to build a house to my name, you did well that it came upon your heart. 19 Nevertheless you shall not build the house, but your son that has proceeded out of your bowels, he shall build the house to my name. 20 The Lord has confirmed the word that he spoke and I am risen up in the place of my father David and I have sat down on the throne of Israel, as the Lord spoke and I have built the house to the name of the Lord God of Israel. 21 I have set there a place for the ark, in which is the covenant of the Lord, which the Lord made with our fathers when he brought them out of the land of Egypt.

22 And Solomon stood up in front of the altar before all the congregation of Israel; He spread out his hands toward heaven: 23 He said: Lord God of Israel, there is no God like you in heaven above and on the earth beneath, keeping covenant and mercy with your servant who walks before you with all his heart; 24 which you have kept toward your servant David my father: for you have spoken by your mouth and you have fulfilled it with your hands, as at this day. 25 And now, O Lord God of Israel, keep for your servant David my father, the promises which you have spoken to him, saying: There shall not be taken from you a man sitting before me on the throne of Israel, provided only your children shall take heed to their ways, to walk before me as you have walked before me. 26 And now, O Lord God of Israel, let, I pray you, your word to David my father be confirmed.

27 But will God indeed dwell with men upon the earth? If the heaven and heaven of heavens will not suffice you, how much less even this house which I have built to your name? 28 Yet, O Lord God of Israel, you shall look upon my petition, to hear the prayer which your servant prays to you in your presence this day, 29 that your eyes may be open toward this house day and night, even toward the place which you said, My name shall be there, to hear the prayer which your servant prays at this place day and night. 30 You shall hearken to the prayer of your servant and of your people Israel, which they shall pray toward this place; and you shall hear in your dwelling-place in heaven and you shall do and be gracious.

31 Whatsoever trespasses any one shall commit against his neighbor,— and if he shall take upon him an oath so that he should swear, He shall come and make confession before your altar in this house, 32 then shall you hear from heaven and do and you shall judge your people Israel, that the wicked should be condemned, to recompense his way upon his head; and to justify the righteous, to give to him according to his righteousness.

33 When your people Israel falls before enemies, because they shall sin against you and they shall return and confess to your name and they shall pray and supplicate in this house, 34 then shall you hear from heaven and be gracious to the sins of your people Israel and you shall restore them to the land which you gave to their fathers.

35 When the heaven is restrained and there is no rain, because they shall sin against you and they shall pray toward this place and they shall make confession to your name and shall turn from their sins when you shall have humbled them, 36 then you shall hear from heaven and be merciful to the sins of your servant and of your people Israel; for you shall show them the good way to walk in it and you shall give rain upon the earth which you have given to your people for an inheritance.

37 If there should be famine, if there should be death, because there should be blasting, locust, or if there be mildew and if their enemy oppress them in any one of their cities, with regard to every calamity, every trouble, 38 every prayer, every supplication whatever shall be made by any man, as they shall know each the plague of his heart and shall spread abroad his hands to this house, 39 then shall you hearken from heaven, out of your established dwelling-place and shall be merciful and shall do and recompense to every man according to his ways, as you shall know his heart, for you alone know the heart of all the children of men: 40 that they may fear you all the days that they live upon the land, which you have given to our fathers.

41 And for the stranger who is not of your people, 42 when they shall come and pray toward this place, 43 then shall you hear them from heaven, out of your established dwelling-place and you shall do according to all that the stranger shall call upon you for, that all the nations may know your name and fear you, as do your people Israel and may know that your name has been called on this house which I have builded.

44 If it be that your people shall go forth to war against their enemies in the way by which you shall turn them and pray in the name of the Lord toward the city which you have chosen and the house which I have built to your name, 45 then shall you hear from heaven their supplication and their prayer and shall execute judgment for them.

46 If it be that they shall sin against you, (for there is not a man who will not sin,) and you shall bring them and deliver them up before their enemies and those who take them captive shall carry them to a land far or near, 47 and they shall turn their hearts in the land where they have been carried captives and turn in the land of their sojourning and supplicate you, saying: We have sinned, we have done unjustly, we have transgressed, 48 and they shall turn to you with all their heart and with all their soul, in the land of their enemies where you have carried them captives and shall pray to you toward their land which you have given to their fathers and the city which you have chosen and the house which I have built to your name: 49 then shall you hear from heaven your established dwelling-place, 50 and you shall be merciful to their unrighteousness by which they have trespassed against you and according to all their transgressions by which they have transgressed against you and you shall cause them to be pitied before those who carried them captives and they shall have compassion on them: 51 for they are your people and your inheritance, whom you brought out of the land of Egypt, out of the midst of the furnace of iron. 52 Let your eyes and your ears be opened to the supplication of your servant and to the supplication of your people Israel, to hearken to them in all things for which they shall call upon you. 53 Because you have set them apart for an inheritance to yourself out of all the nations of the earth, as you spoke by the hand of your servant Moses when you brought our fathers out of the land of Egypt, O Lord God.—Then spoke Solomon concerning the house when he had finished building it—He manifested the sun in the heaven: the Lord said he would dwell in darkness: build you my house, a beautiful house for yourself to dwell in anew. Behold, is not this written in the book of the song?

54 It came to pass when Solomon had finished praying to the Lord all this prayer and supplication, that he rose up from before the altar of the Lord, after having knelt upon his knees and his hands were spread out towards heaven.

55 He stood and blessed all the congregation of Israel with a loud voice, saying: 56 Blessed be the Lord this day, who has given rest to his people Israel, according to all that he said: there has not failed one word among all his good words which he spoke by the hand of his servant Moses. 57 May the Lord our God be with us, as he was with our fathers; let him not desert us nor turn from us, 58 that he may turn our hearts toward him to walk in all his ways and to keep all his commandments and his ordinances which he commanded our fathers. 59 Let these words, which I have prayed before the Lord our God, be near to the Lord our God day and night, to maintain the cause of your servant and the cause of your people Israel for ever. 60 that all the nations of the earth may know that the Lord God, he is God and there is none beside. 61 Let our hearts be perfect toward the Lord our God, to walk also holily in his ordinances and to keep his commandments, as at this day.

62 The king and all the children of Israel offered sacrifice before the Lord. 63 And king Solomon offered for the sacrifices of peace-offering which he sacrificed to the Lord, two and twenty thousand oxen and hundred and twenty thousand sheep: and the king and all the children of Israel dedicated the house of the Lord. 64 In that day, the king consecrated the middle of the court in the front of the house of the Lord; for there he offered the whole-burnt-offering and the sacrifices and the fat of the peace-offerings, because the brazen altar which was before the Lord was too little to bear the whole-burnt-offering and the sacrifices of peace-offerings.

65 And Solomon kept the feast in that day and all Israel with him, even a great assembly from the entering in of Hemath to the river of Egypt, before the Lord our God in the house which he built, eating and drinking and rejoicing before the Lord our God seven days. 66 And on the eighth day he sent away the people: and they blessed the king and each departed to his tabernacle rejoicing and their heart was glad because of the good things which the Lord had done to his servant David and to Israel his people.

9:1 It came to pass when Solomon had finished building the house of the Lord and the king's house and all the work of Solomon, whatever he wished to perform, 2 that the Lord appeared to Solomon a second time, as he appeared in Gabaon.

3 The Lord said to him: I have heard the voice of your prayer and your supplication which you made before me: I have done for you according to all your prayer: I have hallowed this house which you have built to put my name there for ever and my eyes and my heart shall be there always. 4 If you will walk before me as David your father walked, in holiness of heart and uprightness, and so as to do according to all that I commanded him and shall keep my ordinances and my commandments: 5 then will I establish the throne of your kingdom in Israel for ever, as I spoke to David your father, saying: There shall not fail you a man to rule in Israel. 6 But if you or your children do in any way revolt from me and do not keep my commandments and my ordinances, which Moses set before you and you go and serve other gods and worship them: 7 then will I cut off Israel from the land which I have given them and this house which I have consecrated to my name I will cast out of my sight; and Israel shall be a desolation and a by-word to all nations. 8 And this house, which is high, shall be so that every one that passes by it shall be amazed and shall hiss; and they shall say, Why then has the Lord done thus to this land and to this house? 9 And men shall say, Because they forsook the Lord their God, who brought out their fathers from Egypt, out of the house of and they attached themselves to strange gods and worshiped them and served them: therefore the Lord has brought this evil upon them.

Then Solomon brought up the daughter of Pharaoh out of the city of David into his house which he built for himself in those days.

10 During twenty years in which Solomon was building the two houses, the house of the Lord and the house of the king, 11 Chiram king of Tyre helped Solomon with cedar wood and fir wood and with gold and all that he wished for: then the king gave Chiram twenty cities in the land of Galilee. 12 So Chiram departed from Tyre and went into Galilee to see the cities which Solomon gave to him; and they pleased him not. He said: 13 What are these cities which you have given me, brother? He called them Boundary until this day. 14 And Chiram brought to Solomon a hundred and twenty talents of gold, 25 26 even that for which king Solomon built a ship in Gasion Gaber near Ælath on the shore of the extremity of the sea in the land of Edom. 27 And Chiram sent in the ship together with the servants of Solomon servants of his own, mariners to row, men acquainted with the sea. 28 They came to Sophira and took for there a hundred and twenty talents of gold and brought them to king Solomon.

10:1 The queen of Saba heard of the name of Solomon and the name of the Lord and she came to try him with riddles. 2 And she came to Jerusalem with a very great train; and there came camels bearing spices and very much gold and precious stones: and she came in to Solomon and told him all that was in her heart. 3 And Solomon answered all her questions: and there was not a question overlooked by the king which he did not answer her. 4 The queen of Saba saw all the wisdom of Solomon and the house which he built, 5 and the provision of Solomon and the sitting of his attendants and the standing of his servants and his raiment and his cup-bearers and his whole-burnt-offering which he offered in the house of the Lord and she was utterly amazed. 6 And she said to king Solomon, It was a true report which I heard in my land of your words and your wisdom. 7 But I believed not those who told me, until I came and my eyes saw: and, behold, the words as they reported to me are not the half: you have exceeded in goodness all the report which I heard in my land. 8 Blessed are your wives, blessed are these your servants who stand before you continually, who hear all your wisdom. 9 Blessed be the Lord your God, who has taken pleasure in you, to set you upon the throne of Israel, because the Lord loved Israel to establish him for ever; He has made you king over them, to execute judgment with justice and in their causes.

10 And she gave to Solomon a hundred and twenty talents of gold and very many spices and precious stones: there had not come any other spices so abundant as those which the queen of Saba gave to king Solomon.

11 The ship of Chiram which brought the gold from Suphir, brought very much hewn timber and precious stones. 12 The king made the hewn timber into buttresses of the house of the Lord and the king's house and lyres and harps for singers: such hewn timber had not come upon the earth, nor have been seen anywhere until this day. 13 And king Solomon gave to the queen of Saba all that she desired, whatsoever she asked, besides all that he had given her by the hand of king Solomon: and she returned and came into her own land, she and her servants.

14 The weight of gold that came to Solomon in one year was six hundred and sixty-six talents of gold. 15 Besides the tributes of those who were subjects, both merchants and all the kings of the country beyond the river and of the princess of the land.

16 And Solomon made three hundred spears of beaten gold: three hundred shekels of gold were upon one spear. 17 And three hundred shields of beaten gold: and three pounds of gold were in one shield: and the king put them in the house of the forest of Lebanon.

18 The king made a great ivory throne and gilded it with pure gold. 19 The throne had six steps and calves in bold relief to the throne behind it and side-pieces on either hand of the place of the seat and two lions standing by the side-pieces, 20 and twelve lions standing there on the six steps on either side: it was not so done in any other kingdom. 21 All the vessels made by Solomon were of gold and the lavers were golden and all the vessels of the house of the forest of Lebanon were of pure gold; there was no silver, for it was not accounted of in the days of Solomon. 22 For Solomon had a ship of Tharsis in the sea with the ships of Chiram: one ship came to the king every three years out of Tharsis, laden with gold and silver and accomplished stones and hewn stones.

This was the arrangement of the provision which king Solomon fetched to build the house of the Lord and the house of the king and the wall of Jerusalem and the citadel; to fortify the city of David and Assur and Magdal and Gazer and Baethoron the upper and Jethermath and all the cities of the chariots and all the cities of the horsemen and the fortification of Solomon which he purposed to build in Jerusalem and in all the land, so that none of the people should rule over him that was left of the Chettite and the Amorite and the Pherezite and the C'anaanite and the Evite and the Jebusite and the Gergesite, who were not of the children of Israel, their descendants who had been left with him in the land, whom the children of Israel do you think not utterly destroy; and Solomon made them tributaries until this day. But of the children of Israel Solomon made nothing; for they were the warriors and his servants and rulers and captains of the third order and the captains of his chariots and his horsemen.

23 And Solomon increased beyond all the kings of the earth in wealth and wisdom. 24 All the kings of the earth sought the presence of Solomon, to hear his wisdom which the Lord had put into his heart. 25 They brought every one their gifts, vessels of gold and raiment and stacte and spices and horses and mules, a rate year by year. 26 And Solomon had four thousand mares for his chariots and twelve thousand horsemen: He put them in the cities of his chariots and with the king in Jerusalem: He ruled over all the kings from the river to the land of the Philistines and to the borders of Egypt.

27 The king made gold and silver in Jerusalem as stones, He made cedars as the sycamores in the plain for multitude. 28 The goings forth of Solomon's horsemen was also out of Egypt and the king's merchants were of Thecue; and they received them out of Thecue at a price. 29 And that which proceeded out of Egypt went up thus, even a chariot for a hundred shekels of silver and a horse for fifty shekels of silver: and thus for all the kings of the Chettians and the kings of Syria, they came out by sea.

11:0 And king Solomon was a lover of women. 3 He had seven hundred wives, princesses and three hundred concubines. 1 He took strange women, as well as the daughter of Pharaoh, Moabitish, Ammanitish women, Syrians and Idumeans, Chettites and Amorites; 2 of the nations concerning whom the Lord forbade the children of Israel, saying: you shall not go in to them and they shall not come in to you, for fear that they turn away your hearts after their idols: Solomon held on to these in love. 4 It came to pass in the time of the old age of Solomon, that his heart was not perfect with the Lord his God, as was the heart of David his father, 5 and to Astarte the abomination of the Sidonians. 7 Then Solomon built a high place to Chamos the idol of Moab and to their king the idol of the children of Ammon, 8 Thus he acted towards all his strange wives, who burnt incense and sacrificed to their idols. 6 And Solomon did that which was evil in the sight of the Lord: he went not after the Lord, as David his father. The strange women turned away his heart after their gods.

9 The Lord was angry with Solomon, because he turned away his heart from the Lord God of Israel, who had appeared twice to him, 10 and charged him concerning this matter, by no means to go after other gods, but to take heed to do what the Lord God commanded him; neither was his heart perfect with the Lord, according to the heart of David his father. 11 The Lord said to Solomon, Because it has been thus with you and you have not kept my commandments and my ordinances which I commanded you, I will surely destroy your kingdom out of your hand and give it to your servant. 12 Only in your days I will not do it for David your father's sake: but I will take it out of the hand of your son. 13 Only I will not take away the whole kingdom: I will give one tribe to your son for David my servant's sake and for the sake of Jerusalem, the city which I have chosen.

14 The Lord raised up an enemy to Solomon, Ader the Idumaeen and Esrom son of Eliadae who dwelt in Raama and Adadezer king of Suba his master; (and men gathered to him, He was head of the conspiracy, He seized on Damasec,) and they were adversaries to Israel all the days of Solomon: and Ader the Idumaeen was of the seed royal in Idumaea. 15 It happened, that while David was utterly destroying Edom, while Joab captain of the host was going to bury the dead when they killed every male in Idumaea; 16 (for Joab and all Israel abode there six months in Idumaea, until he utterly destroyed every male in Idumaea;) 17 that Ader ran away, he and all the Idumaeans of the servants of his father with him; and they went into Egypt; and Ader was then a little child. 18 And there rise up men out of the city of Madiam and they come to Pharan and take men with them and come to Pharaoh king of Egypt: and Ader went in to Pharaoh, He gave him a house and appointed him provision. 19 And Ader found great favor in the sight of Pharaoh, He gave him his wife's sister in marriage, the elder sister of Thekemina. 20 The sister of Thekemina bore to him, even to Ader, Ganebath her son; and Thekemina brought him up in the midst of the sons of Pharaoh and Ganebath was in the midst of the sons of Pharaoh.

21 And Ader heard in Egypt that David slept with his fathers and that Joab the captain of the host was dead; and Ader said to Pharaoh, Let me go and I will return to my country. 22

Pharaoh said to Ader, What lack you with me? That Behold! you seek to depart to your country? And Ader said to him: By all means let me go. 23 24 25 (11:22A) So Ader returned to his country; this is the mischief which Ader did, He was a bitter enemy of Israel, He reigned in the land of Edom.

26 Jeroboam the son of Nabat, the Ephrathite of Sarira, the son of a widow, was servant of Solomon. 27 And this was the occasion of his lifting up his hands against king Solomon: now king Solomon built the citadel, he completed the fortification of the city of David his father. 28 The man Jeroboam was very strong; and Solomon saw the young man that he was active, He set him over the levies of the house of Joseph.

29 It came to pass at that time, that Jeroboam went forth from Jerusalem and Achia the Selonite the prophet found him in the way and caused him to turn aside out of the way: and Achia was clad with a new garment and they two were alone in the field. 30 And Achia laid hold of his new garment that was upon him and tore it into twelve pieces: 31 He said to Jeroboam, Take to yourself ten pieces, for thus says the Lord God of Israel, Behold, I destroy the kingdom out of the hand of Solomon and will give you ten tribes. 32 Yet he shall have two tribes, for my servant David's sake and for the sake of Jerusalem, the city which I have chosen out of all the tribes of Israel. 33 Because he forsook me and sacrificed to Astarte the abomination of the Sidonians and to Chamos and to the idols of Moab and to their king the abomination of the children of Ammon, He walked not in my ways, to do that which was right before me, as David his father did. 34 However, I will not take the whole kingdom out of his hand, (for I will certainly resist him all the days of his life,) for David my servant's sake, whom I have chosen. 35 But I will take the kingdom out of the hand of his son and give you ten tribes. 36 But to his son I will give the two remaining tribes, that my servant

David may have an establishment continually before me in Jerusalem, the city which I have chosen for myself to put my name there. 37 I will take you and you shall reign as your soul desires and you shall be king over Israel. 38 It shall come to pass, if you will keep all the commandments that I shall give you and will walk in my ways and do that which is right before me, to keep my ordinances and my commandments, as David my servant did, that I will be with you and will build you a sure house, as I built to David.

39 40 And Solomon sought to kill Jeroboam: but he arose and fled into Egypt, to Susakim king of Egypt, He was in Egypt until Solomon died.

41 The rest of the history of Solomon and all that he did and all his wisdom, behold are not these things written in the book of the life of Solomon? 42 The days during which Solomon reigned in Jerusalem over all Israel were forty years. 43 And Solomon slept with his fathers and they buried him in the city of David his father. It came to pass when Jeroboam son of Nabat heard of it, even while he was yet in Egypt as he fled from the face of Solomon and dwelt in Egypt, he straightway comes into his own city, into the land of Sarira in the mount of Ephraim. And king Solomon slept with his fathers and Roboam his son reigned in his stead.

12:1 And king Roboam goes to Sikima; for all Israel were coming to Sikima to make him king. 2 3 The people spoke to king Roboam, saying: your father made our yoke heavy; 4 but do you now lighten somewhat of the hard service of your father and of his heavy yoke which he put upon us and we will serve you. 5 He said to them: Depart for three days and return to me. They departed.

6 The king referred the matter to the elders, who stood before Solomon his father while he was yet living, saying: How do you advise that I should answer this people? 7 They spoke to him, saying: If you will this day be a servant to this people and will serve them and will speak to them good words, then will they be your servants continually.

8 But he forsook the counsel of the old men which they gave him and consulted with the young men who were brought up with him, who stood in his presence. 9 He said to them: What counsel do you give? And what shall I answer to this people who speak to me, saying: Lighten somewhat of the yoke which your father has put upon us?

10 The young men who had been brought up with him, who stood before his face, spoke to him, saying: Thus shall you say to this people who have spoken to you, saying: your father made our yoke heavy and do you now lighten it from off us: thus shall say to them, My little finger shall be thicker than my father's loins. 11 And whereas my father did lade you with a heavy yoke, I also will add to your yoke: my father chastised you with whips, but I will chastise you with scorpions.

12 All Israel came to king Roboam on the third day, as the king spoke to them, saying: Return to me on the third day. 13 The king answered the people harshly; and Roboam forsook the counsel of the old men which they counselled him. 14 He spoke to them according to the counsel of the young men, saying: My father made your yoke heavy and I will add to your yoke: my father chastised you with whips, but I will chastise you with scorpions.

15 The king hearkened not to the people, because the change was from the Lord, that he might establish his word which he spoke by Achia the Selonite concerning Jeroboam the son of Nabat. 16 All Israel saw that the king did not hearken to them: and the people answered the king, saying: What portion have we in David? Neither have we any inheritance in the son of Jessae. Depart, O Israel, to your tents: now feed your own house, David. So Israel departed to his tents.

17 18 The king sent Adoniram who was over the tribute; and they stoned him with stones, He died: and king Roboam made haste to rise to flee to Jerusalem.

19 So Israel rebelled against the house of David until this day. 20 It came to pass when all Israel heard that Jeroboam had returned out of Egypt, that they sent and called him to the assembly and they made him king over Israel: and none followed the house of David except the tribe of Juda and Benjamin only.

21 And Roboam went into Jerusalem, He assembled the congregation of Juda and the tribe of Benjamin, a hundred and twenty thousand young men, warriors, to fight against the house of Israel, to recover the kingdom to Roboam the son of Solomon. 22 The word of the Lord came to Samaia the man of God, saying: 23 Speak to Roboam the son of Solomon, king of Juda and to all the house of Juda and Benjamin and to the remnant of the people, saying: 24 Thus says the Lord, you shall not go up, neither shall you fight with your brothers the sons of Israel: return each man to his own home; for this thing is from me; and they listened to the word of the Lord and they ceased from going up, according to the word of the Lord.

So king Solomon sleeps with his fathers and is buried with his fathers in the city of David; and Roboam his son reigned in his stead in Jerusalem, being sixteen years old when he began to reign, He reigned twelve years I Jerusalem: and his mother's name was Naanan, daughter of Ana son of Naas king of the children of Ammon. He did that which was evil in the sight of the Lord and walked not in the way of David his father.

And there was a man of mount Ephraim, a servant to Solomon and his name was Jeroboam: and the name of his mother was Sarira, a harlot: and Solomon made him head of the levies of the house of Joseph: He built for Solomon Sarira in mount Ephraim; He had three hundred chariots of horses: he built the citadel with the levies of the house of Ephraim; he fortified the city of David and aspired to the kingdom, And Solomon sought to kill him; He was afraid and escaped to Susakim king of Egypt and was with him until Solomon died.

And Jeroboam heard in Egypt that Solomon was dead: He spoke in the ears of Susakim king of Egypt, saying: Let me go and I will depart into my land: and Susakim said to him: Ask and request and I will grant it you. And Susakim gave to Jeroboam Ano the eldest sister of Thekemina his wife: she was great among the daughters of the king and she bore to Jeroboam Abia his son: and Jeroboam said to Susakim, Let me indeed go and I will depart.

And Jeroboam departed out of Egypt and came into the land of Saria that was in mount Ephraim and to that place the whole in mount Ephraim and to that place the whole tribe of Ephraim assembles and Jeroboam built a fortress there.

And his young child was sick with a very severe sickness; and Jeroboam went to enquire concerning the child: He said to Ano his wife, Arise, go, enquire of God concerning the child, whether he shall recover from his sickness. Now, there was a man in Selom and his name was Achia: He was sixty years old and the word of the Lord was with him. Jeroboam said to his wife, Arise and take in your hand loaves for the man of God and cakes for his children and grapes and a pot of honey. The woman arose and took in her hand bread and two cakes and grapes and a pot of honey, for Achia: and the man was old and his eyes were dim, so that he do you think not see. And she arose, up from Sarira and went; and it came to pass when she had come into the city to Achia the Selonite, that Achia said to his servant, Go out now to meet Ano the wife of Jeroboam and you shall say to her, Come in and stand not still: for thus says the Lord, I send grievous tidings to you. And Ano went in to the man of God; and Achia said to her: Why have you brought me bread and grapes and cakes and a pot of honey? Thus says the Lord, Behold, you shall depart from me and it shall come to pass when you have entered into the city, even into Sarira, that your maidens shall come out to meet you and shall say to you, The child is dead: for thus says the Lord, Behold, I will destroy every male of Jeroboam and there shall be the dead of Jeroboam in the city, them the dogs shall eat and him that eat, He shall lament for the child, saying: Woe is me, Lord! For there has been found in him some good thing touching the Lord.

The woman departed when she heard this: and it came to pass as she entered into Sarira, that the child died; and there came forth a wailing to meet her. Jeroboam went to Sikima in mount Ephraim and assembled there the tribes of Israel; and Roboam the son of Solomon went up to that place. The word of the Lord came to Samaias son of Enlami, saying: Take to yourself a new garment which has not gone into the water and destroy it into twelve pieces; and you shall five some to Jeroboam and shall say to him, thus says the Lord, Take to yourself ten pieces to cover you: and Jeroboam took them: and Samaias said: Thus says the Lord concerning the ten tribes of Israel.

The people said to Roboam the son of Solomon, your father make his yoke heavy upon us and made the meat of his table heavy; and now you shall lighten them upon us and we will serve you. And Roboam said to the people, Wait three days and I will return you an answer: and Roboam said: Bring in to me the elders and I will take counsel with them what I shall answer to the people on the third day, So Roboam spoke in their ears, as the people sent to him to say: and the elders of the people said: Thus the people have spoken to you.

And Roboam rejected their counsel and it pleased him not: He sent and brought in those who had been brought up with him; He said to them: Thus and thus has the people sent to me to say: and those who had been brought up with him said: Thus shall you speak to the people saying: My little finger shall be thicker than my father's loins; my father scourged you with whips, a\but I will rule you with scorpions.

The saying pleased Roboam, He answered the people as the young men, those who were brought up with him, counselled him: and all the people spoke as one man, every one to his neighbor and they cried out all together, saying: We have no part in David, nor inheritance in the son of Jessae: to they tents, O Israel, every one; for this man is not for a prince or a ruler over us. All the people was dispersed from Sikima and they departed every one to his tent: and Roboam strengthened him self and departed and mounted his chariot and entered into Jerusalem: and there follow him the whole tribe of Juda and the whole tribe of Benjamin. It came to pass at the beginning of the year, that Roboam gathered all the men of Juda and Benjamin and went up to fight with Jeroboam at Sikima. The word of the Lord came to Sameas the man of God, saying: Speak to Roboam king of Juda and to all the house of Juda and Benjamin and to the remnant of the people, saying: Thus says the Lord, you shall not go up, neither shall you fight with your brothers the sons of Israel: return every man to his house, for this thing is from me. They listened to the word of the Lord and forbore to go up, according to the word of the Lord.

25 Jeroboam built Sikima in mount Ephraim and dwelt in it and went forth for there and built Phanael. 26 Jeroboam said in his heart, Behold, now the kingdom will return to the house of David. 27 If this people shall go up to offer sacrifice in the house of the Lord at Jerusalem, then the heart of the people will return to the Lord and to their master, to Roboam king of Juda and they will kill me. 28 The king took counsel and went and made two golden heifers and said to the people, Let it suffice you to have gone to this place to Jerusalem: behold your gods, O Israel, who brought you up out of the land of Egypt. 29 He put one in Bethel, He put the other in Dan. 30 And this thing became a sin; and the people went before one as far as Dan and left the house of the Lord. 31 He made houses on the high places and made priests of any part of the people, who were not of the sons of Levi.

32 Jeroboam appointed a feast in the eighth month, on the fifteenth day of the month, according to the feast in the land of Juda; 33 and went up to the altar which he made in Baethel to sacrifice to the heifers which he made, He placed in Baethel the priests of the high places which he had made. He went up to the altar which he had made, on the fifteenth day in the eighth month, at the feast which he devised out of his own heart; He made a feast to the children of Israel and went up to the altar to sacrifice.

13:1 And behold, there came a man of God out of Juda by the word of the Lord to Baethel and Jeroboam stood at the altar to sacrifice. 2 He cried against the altar by the word of the Lord and said: O altar, altar, thus says the Lord, Behold, a son is to be born to the house of David, Josias by name; He shall offer upon you the priests of the high places, even of those who sacrifice upon you, He shall burn men's bones upon you. 3 And in that day one shall give a sign, saying: This is the word which the Lord has spoken, saying: Behold, the altar is rent and the fatness upon it shall be poured out.

4 It came to pass when king Jeroboam heard the words of the man of God who called on the altar that was in Baethel, that the king stretched forth his hand from the altar, saying: Take hold of him. And, behold, his hand, which he stretched forth against him, withered, He do you think not draw it back to himself. 5 The altar was rent and the fatness was poured out from the altar, according to the sign which the man of God gave by the word of the Lord. 6 And king Jeroboam said to the man of God, Entreat the Lord your God, Let my hand be restored to me. The man of God entreated the Lord, He restored the king's hand to him and it became as before.

7 The king said to the man of God, Enter with me into the house and dine and I will give you a gift. 8 The man of God said to the king, If you should give me the half of your house, I would not go in with you, neither will I eat bread, neither will I drink water in this place; for thus the Lord charged me by his word, saying: 9 Eat no bread and drink no water and return not by the way by which you came. 10 So he departed by another way and returned not by the way by which he came to Baethel.

11 And there dwelt an old prophet in Baethel; and his sons came and told him all the works that the man of God did on that day in Baethel and the words which he spoke to the king; and they turned the face of their father. 12 And their father spoke to them, saying: Which way went he? And his sons show him the way by which the man of God who came out of Juda went up. 13 He said to his sons, Saddle me the ass: and they saddled him the ass, He mounted it, 14 and went after the man of God and found him sitting under an oak: He said to him: are you the man of God that came out of Juda? He said to him: I am. 15 He said to him: Come with me and eat bread. 16 He said: I shall not by any means be able to return with you, neither will I eat bread, neither will I drink water in this place. 17 For thus the Lord commanded me by word, saying: Eat not bread there and drink not water and return not to that place by the way by which you came.

18 He said to him: I also am a prophet as You are; and an angel spoke to me by the word of the Lord, saying: Bring him back to you into your house,

Let him eat bread and drink water: but he lied to him. 19 He brought him back, He ate bread and drank water in his house.

20 It came to pass while they were sitting at the table, that the word of the Lord came to the prophet that brought him back; 21 He spoke to the man of God that came out of Juda, saying: Thus says the Lord, Because you have resisted the word of the Lord and have not kept the commandment which the Lord your God commanded you, 22 but have returned and eaten bread and drunk water in the place of which he spoke to you, saying: You shall not eat bread and shall not drink water; therefore your body shall in no way enter into the tomb of your fathers.

23 It came to pass after he had eaten bread and drunk water, that he saddled the ass for him, He turned and departed. 24 And a lion found him in the way and killed him; and his body was cast out in the way and the ass was standing by it and the lion also was standing by the body. 25 And, behold, men were passing by and saw the carcass cast in the way and the lion was standing near the carcass: and they went in and spoke of it in the city where the old prophet dwelt. 26 The prophet that turned him back out of the way heard and said: This is the man of God who rebelled against the word of the Lord. 27 28 He went and found the body cast in the way and the ass and the lion were standing by the body: and the lion had not devoured the body of the man of God and had not torn the ass.

29 The prophet took up the body of the man of God and laid it on his ass; and the prophet brought him back to his city, to bury him in his own tomb, 30 and they bewailed him, saying: Alas, brother. 31 It came to pass after he had lamented him, that he spoke to his sons, saying: Whenever I die, bury me in this tomb by which the man of God is buried; lay me by his bones, that my bones may be preserved with his bones. 32 For the word will surely come to pass which he spoke by the word of the Lord against the altar in Baethel and against the high houses in Samaria.

33 And after this Jeroboam turned not from his sin, but he turned and made of part of the people priests of the high places: whoever would, he consecrated him, He became a priest for the high places. 34 And this thing became sin to the house of Jeroboam, even to its destruction and its removal from the face of the earth.

14:1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 And Roboam son of Solomon ruled over Juda. Roboam was forty and one years old when he began to reign, He reigned seventeen years in the city Jerusalem, which the Lord chose to put his name there out of all the tribes of Israel: and his mother's name was Naama the Ammonitess. 22 And Roboam did evil in the sight of the Lord; He provoked him in all the things which their fathers did in their sins which they sinned. 23 They built for themselves high places and pillars and planted groves on every high hill and under every shady tree. 24 And there was a conspiracy in the land and they did according to all the abominations of the nations which the Lord removed from before the children of Israel.

25 It came to pass in the fifth year of the reign of Roboam, Susakim king of Egypt came up against Jerusalem; 26 and took all the treasures of the house of the Lord and the treasures of the king's house and the golden spears which David took out of the hand of the sons of Adraazar king of Suba and brought them into Jerusalem, even all that he took and the golden shields which Solomon had made, [and carried them away into Egypt.] 27 And king Roboam made brazen shields instead of them; and the chiefs of the body guard, who kept the gate of the house of the king, were placed in charge over them. 28 It came to pass when the king went into the house of the Lord, that the body guard took them up and fixed them in the chamber of the body guard.

29 The rest of the history of Roboam and all that he did, behold, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Juda? 30 And there was war between Roboam and Jeroboam continually. 31 And Roboam slept with his fathers and was buried with his fathers in the city of David: and Abiu his son reigned in his stead.

15:1 And in the eighteenth year of the reign of Jeroboam son of Nabat, Abiu son of Roboam reigns over Juda. 2 He reigned three years over Jerusalem: and his mother's name was Maacha, daughter of Abessalom. 3 He walked in the sins of his father which he accomplished in his presence and his heart was not perfect with the Lord his God, as was the heart of his father David. 4 However, for David's sake the Lord gave him a remnant, that he might establish his children after him and might establish Jerusalem. 5 Since David did that which was right in the sight of the Lord: he turned not from any thing that he commanded him all the days of his life.

6 7 The rest of the history of Abiu and all that he did, behold, are not these written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Juda? And there was war between Abiu and Jeroboam. 8 And Abiu slept with his fathers in the twenty-fourth year of Jeroboam; He is buried with his fathers in the city of David: And Asa his son reigns in his stead.

9 In the four and twentieth year of Jeroboam king of Israel, Asa begins to reign over Juda. 10 He reigned forty-one years in Jerusalem: and his mother's name was Ana, daughter of Abessalom. 11 And Asa did that which was right in the sight of the Lord, as David his father. 12 He removed the sodomites out of the land and abolished all the practices which his fathers had kept up. 13 He removed Ana his mother from being queen, since she gathered a meeting in her grove: and Asa cut down her retreats and burnt them with fire in the brook of Kedron. 14 But he removed not the high places; nevertheless the heart of Asa was perfect with the Lord all his days. 15 He brought in the pillars of his father, he even brought in his gold and silver pillars into the house of the Lord and his vessels.

16 And there was war between Asa and Baasa king of Israel all their days. 17 And Baasa king of Israel went up against Juda and built Rama, so that no one should go out or come in for Asa king of Juda.

18 And Asa took all the silver and the gold that was found in the treasures of the house of the Lord and in the treasures of the king's house and gave them into the hands of his servants; and king Asa sent them out to the son of Ader, the son of Taberema son of Azin king of Syria, who dwelt in Damascus, saying: 19 Make a covenant between me and you and between my father and your father: Behold! I have sent forth to you gold and silver for gifts: come, break your league with Baasa king of Israel, that he may go up from me. 20 The son of Ader listened to king Asa and sent the chiefs of his forces to the cities of Israel; and they stroke Ain, Dan and Abel of the house of Maacha and all Chennereth, as far as the whole land of Nephthali. 21 It came to pass when Baasa heard it, that he left off building Rama and returned to Thersa.

22 And king Asa charged all Juda without exception: and they take up the stones of Rama and its timbers with which Baasa was building; and king Asa built with them upon the whole hill of Benjamin and the watch-tower.

23 The rest of the history of Asa and all his mighty deeds which he accomplished and the cities which he built, behold, are not these written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Juda? Nevertheless in the time of his old age he was diseased in his feet. 24

And Asa slept with his fathers and was buried with his fathers in the city of David his father: and Josaphat his son reigns in his stead.

25 And Nabat son of Jeroboam reigns over Israel in the second year of Asa king of Juda, He reigned two years in Israel. 26 He did that which was evil in the sight of the Lord and walked in the way of his father and in his sins by which he caused Israel to sin.

27 And Baasa son of Achia, who was over the house of Belaan son of Achia, conspired against him and stroke him in Gabathon of the Philistines; for Nabat and all Israel were besieging Gabathon. 28 And Baasa killed him in the third year of Asa son of Asa king of Juda; and reigned in his stead. 29 It came to pass when he reigned, that he stroke the whole house of Jeroboam and left none that breathed of Jeroboam, until he has destroyed him utterly, according to the word of the Lord which he spoke by his servant Achia the Selonite, 30 for the sins of Jeroboam, who led Israel into sin, even by his provocation by which he provoked the Lord God of Israel. 31 The rest of the history of Nabat and all that he did, behold, are not these written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel?

32 33 And in the third year of Asa king of Juda, Baasa the son of Achia begins to reign over Israel in Thersa, twenty and four years. 34 He did that which was evil in the sight of the Lord and walked in the way of Jeroboam the son of Nabat and in his sins, as he caused Israel to sin.

16:1 The word of the Lord came by the hand of Ju son of Anani to Baasa, saying: 2 Since I lifted you up from the earth and made you ruler over my people Israel; and you have walked in the way of Jeroboam and have caused my people Israel to sin, to provoke me with their vanities; 3 Behold, I raise up enemies after Baasa and after his house;

and I will make your house as the house of Jeroboam son of Nabat. 4 Him the dies of Baasa in the city the dogs shall devour and him that dies of his in the field the birds of the sky shall devour.

5 Now, the rest of the history of Baasa and all that he did and his mighty acts, behold, are not these written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel? 6 And Baasa slept with his fathers and they bury him in Thersa; and Ela his son reigns in his stead.

7 The Lord spoke by Ju the son of Anani against Baasa and against his house, even all the evil which he accomplished before the Lord to provoke him to anger by the works of his hands, in being like the house of Jeroboam; and because he stroke him.

8 And Ela son of Baasa reigned over Israel two years in Thersa. 9 And Zambri, captain of half his cavalry, conspired against him, while he was in Thersa, drinking himself drunk in the house of Osa the steward at Thersa. 10 And Zambri went in and stroke him and killed him and reigned in his stead. 11 It came to pass when he reigned when he sat upon his throne, 12 that he stroke all the house of Baasa, according to the word which the Lord spoke against the house of Baasa and to Ju the prophet, 13 for all the sins of Baasa and Ela his son, as he led Israel astray to sin, to provoke the Lord God of Israel with their vanities. 14 The rest of the deeds of Ela which he did, behold, are not these written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel?

15 And Zambri reigned in Thersa seven days: and the army of Israel was encamped against Gabathon of the Philistines. 16 The people heard in the army, saying: Zambri has conspired and stricken the king: and the people of Israel made Ambri the captain of the host king in that day in the camp over Israel. 17 And Ambri went up and all Israel with him, out of Gabathon; and they besieged Thersa. 18 It came to pass when Zambri saw that his city was taken, that he goes into the inner chamber of the house of the king and burnt the king's house over him and died. 19 Because of his sins which he committed, doing that which was evil in the sight of the Lord, so as to walk in the way of Jeroboam the son of Nabat and in his sins by which he caused Israel to sin. 20 The rest of the history of Zambri and his conspiracies by which he conspired, behold, are not these written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel?

21 Then the people of Israel divides; half the people goes after Thamni the son of Gonath to make him king; and half the people goes after Ambri. 22 The people that followed Ambri overpowered the people that followed Thamni son of Gonath; and Thamni died and Joram his brother at that time and Ambri reigned after Thamni.

23 In the thirty-first year of king Asa, Ambri begins to reign over Israel twelve years: he reigns six years in Thersa. 24 And Ambri bought the mount Semeron of Semer the lord of the mountain for two talents of silver; He built upon the mountain and they called the name of the mountain on which he built, after the name of Semer the lord of the mount, Semeron. 25 And Ambri did that which was evil in the sight of the Lord and accomplished wickedly beyond all that were before him. 26 He walked in all the way of Jeroboam the son of Nabat and in his sins by which he caused Israel to sin, to provoke the Lord God of Israel by their vanities. 27 The rest of the acts of Ambri and all that he did and all his might, behold, are not these things written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel?

28 And Ambri slept with his fathers and is buried in Samaria; and Achaab his son reigns in his stead.

And in the eleventh year of Ambri Josaphat the son of Asa reigns, being thirty-five years old in the beginning of his reign, He reigned twenty-five years in Jerusalem: and his mother's name was Gazuba, daughter of Seli. He walked in the way of Asa his father and turned not from it, even from doing right in the eyes of the Lord: only they removed not any of the high places; they sacrificed and burnt incense on the high places. Now, the engagements which Josaphat made with the king of Israel and all his mighty deeds which he performed and the enemies whom he fought against, behold, are not these written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Juda? And the remains of the prostitution which they practiced in the days of Asa his father, he removed out of the land: and there was no king in Syria, but a deputy.

And king Josaphat made a ship at Tharsis to go to Sophir for gold: but it went not, for the ship was broken at Gasion Gaber. Then the king of Israel said to Josaphat, I will send forth your servants and my servants in the ship: but Josaphat would not. Josaphat slept with his fathers and is buried with his fathers in the city of David: and Joram his son reigned in his stead.

29 In the second year of Josaphat king of Juda, Achaab son of Ambri reigned over Israel in Samaria twenty-two years. 30 And Achaab did that which was evil in the sight of the Lord and did more wickedly than all that were before him. 31 It was not enough for him to walk in the sins of Jeroboam the son of Nabat, but he took to wife, Jezabel the daughter of Jethobaal king of the Sidonians; He went and served Baal and worshiped him. 32 He set up an altar to Baal, in the house of his abominations, which he built in Samaria. 33 And Achaab made a grove; and Achaab did yet more abominably, to provoke the Lord God of Israel and to sin against his own life so that he should be destroyed: he did evil above all the kings of Israel that were before him.

34 And in his days Achiel the Baethelite built Jericho: he laid the foundation of it in Abiron his first-born, He set up the doors of it in Segub his younger son, according to the word of the Lord which he spoke by Joshua the son of Naue.

17:1 And Elias the prophet, the Thesbite of Thesbae of Galaad, said to Achaab, As the Lord God of Hosts, the God of Israel, lives, before whom I stand, there shall not be these years dew nor rain, except by the word of my mouth.

2 The word of the Lord came to Elias, saying: 3 Depart hence eastward and hide you by the brook of Chorrath, that is before Jordan. 4 It shall be that you shall drink water of the brook and I will charge the ravens to feed you there. 5 And Elias did according to the word of the Lord, He sat by the brook of Chorrath before Jordan. 6 The ravens brought him loaves in the morning and flesh in the evening He drank water of the brook. 7 It came to pass after some time, that the brook was dried up, because there had been no rain upon the earth.

8 The word of the Lord came to Elias, saying: 9 Arise and go to Sarepta of the Sidonian land: behold, I have there commanded a widow-woman to maintain you. 10 He arose and went to Sarepta and came to the gate of the city: and, behold, a widow-woman was there gathering sticks; and Elias cried after her and said to her: Fetch me, I pray you, a little water in a vessel, that I may drink. 11 And she went to fetch it; and Elias cried after her and said: Bring me, I pray you, a morsel of the bread that is in your hand. 12 The woman said: As the Lord your God lives, I have not a cake, but only a handful of meal in the pitcher and a little oil in a cruse, and, behold, I am going to gather two sticks and I shall go in and dress it for myself and my children and we shall eat it and die.

13 And Elias said to her: Be of good courage, go in and do according to your word: but make me a little cake with it and you shall bring it out to me first. Then you shall make some for
